Ernest Bevin, Labor Minister, and Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary, are certainly in the running, although the controversy over release from custody of the Fascist Sir Oswald Mosley reduced Morrison's chances.

Sir John Anderson, Chancellor of the Exchequer is another possibility. In some circles there are forecasts that Sir Stafford Cripps Minister of Aircraft Production, may return to more active parliamentary and political work

Many members confidently expect that before next January Mr. Churchill will have told the House that victory has been won and the House may be grappling with vast problems of switching industry from war to peace footing.

NEW YORK—Army Minister Francis Forde of Australia said today in a Melbourne broadcast that Australian Army casualties since the beginning of the war total 55,890.

Little Chance For R.C.A.F. Hockey Change

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Amateur Hockey Association officials here today said there would be no change in the R. C. A. F. decision to forbid Air Force teams from taking part in Allan or the Memorial Cup playdowns.

Frank Sargent, Port Arthur, Ontario, president of the C. A. H. A. and George S. Dudley, Midland, Ontario, past president, called on Maj. Power and asked him to reconsider his decision which is aimed at preventing interference with air training schedules.

There are Air Force teams in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Calgary, in Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Arnprior, Ontario.

It was understood that Major Power told the delegates the Air Force would not consider even a minor relaxation of its hockey ban. With Maj. Power at the meeting were Group Capt. D. E. Mackell, director of air force personnel, and Group Capt. J. A. Sharpe, air secretary.

Last night it was reported the delegates would also see Defence Minister Ralston but instead they called on Brig. A. E. Nash, vice adjutant - general, Brig. James Mess, deputy adjutant - general, and Maj. Ian Eisenhardt, sports officer.

They discussed hockey problems but it was learned no decisions were taken.

Mr. Sargent said he might issue a statement later today.

Greek Patriots Kill 600 Nazis

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — The Cairo radio said today that 600 Nazis were killed by Greek patriots in "a battle of great importance" several days ago in the Greek province of Epirus.

The broadcast said the Patriots, "who suffered only very light losses," attacked a motorized group of 7,000 Germans.

Earlier action by Patriots brought stern Nazi action —"During the Christmas period in Macedonia, the Germans burned villages as a reprisal, killing a large number of inhabitants in each one."

United States government monitors reported the broadcast.

Remand Three Men For Theft Of Tires

COBOURG, Jan. 5 (ENS).—Three Oshawa men, Jerry Semowomyk, Mike Cembal of Oshawa and Pte. Walter Moscall of Winnipeg were remanded until next Tuesday when they appeared in court here on a charge of theft of tires in Darlington township on December 30 of last year. They were arrested last Sunday by Provincial Constables A. Duncan and W. Thompson and Constable A. Carr near Oshawa, following an investigation of the breakins last Friday of Cobourg liquor store and a service station in Port Hope. It was intimated that further charges against the trio might be laid.

George Shaw, 88, Dies After Brief Illness

WARKWORTH, Jan. 5—(ENS).—Following a two-weeks' illness, Mr. George Shaw passed away Monday at the home of his son, Mr. William Shaw.

The late Mr. Shaw, who was in his 88th year, was born in Percy township, where he has spent all his life. He was well known and highly regarded by all who knew him. He was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by one son William and two granddaughters, Mrs. Robert Carlaw and Miss Ona Shaw; two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Agnes Parks of Hoards Station, Mrs. Walter Feltwell of Campbellford, John of Hoards Station and Henry in Saskatchewan. His wife predeceased him seven years ago.

The funeral is being held today at two o'clock from the residence of his son. Interment will be in Warkworth Cemetery.

Indian Troops Advancing Inland

ALGIERS, Jan. 5 — (AP). — A small force of Allied heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, yesterday blasted a railway bridge and the rail yard at Dupnitsa, south of the Bulgarian capital of Sofia, it was announced to-day.

The Allied ground communique said 5th Army troops had captured an "important height" in Italy while Indian troops of the 8th Army seized a "commanding position" against stiff machine-gun fire.

The railroad bottleneck in Turin in Northern Italy was hit by hundreds of medium bombers yesterday blocking at least temporarily all through lines from France and Milan that converge at Turin to form the principal west coast route down to Genoa and Rome.

Other bombers took to pieces the ball-bearing works at Villa Perosa, in the Chisone River valley 23 miles south-west of Turin.

On the 8th Army front Indian troops seized a hill 1½ miles south-east of recently-captured San Tommaso and advanced inland almost to Tollo, paralleling the Canadian push up the Adriatic coast.

American patrols of the 5th Army outside of the fortified village of San Vittore on the main inland highway to Rome, stirred up violent opposition as they probed around that strongly defended centre.

Counsel Charges Dickering In Police Case

Three charges against Leslie Booth, Waterford street, of drunk driving, careless driving and driving without a license were enlarged for a week when called in police court this morning.

The charges arose out of an accident at Romaine and Park streets on December 10 and when Booth was first arraigned the defence asked for an adjournment until after the holidays.

This morning he pleaded not guilty to all three charges.

"I am not ready this morning," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "My information was that there was to be a plea of guilty."

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for Booth, objected.

"There has been too much dickering in this case," he said.

"I hope you are not including me in that," remarked Magistrate Langley.

"I am not referring to you or to my learned friend," said Mr. Gordon. "I am saying there has been too much police dickering with this man."

"There has been no dickering so far as the police are concerned," declared Inspector J. F. Reid.

The hearing of all three charges was set for January 12.

Another drunken driving charge also had to be postponed when Elmer Worr, Chamberlain street, pleaded not guilty to having driven a motor vehicle on Monaghan Road while drunk.

W. J. Arthur Fair who appeared for Worr asked for the delay and the case was adjourned until Monday.

Bruins Swap Hollett For Wing Defenceman

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—(AP).— Flash Hollett, Boston Bruins defence man, was traded to-day to the Detroit Red Wings for Defenceman Joseph (Pat) Egan in a straight exchange in which no cash was involved, Art Ross of the Bruins has announced.

It was expected that Manager Jack Adams of Detroit would order Hollett to report to him in New York to-morrow when the Wings play the Rangers.

Hollett's outstanding ability has long been recognized by other clubs. Earlier in the season, the New York Rangers reported they offered Ross $25,000 for Hollett. Ross neither denied nor confirmed this, but he has said that the Bruins would never sell any star players except for equal value in another player.

"If that is what the enemy wants," an Allied officer said, "he will be attrited before we are."

Heavy American bombers from Mediterranean airfields smashed railway yards and a bridge at Dupnitsa, 50 miles south of Sofia, capital of war-weary Bulgaria.

Hit Rail Yards

Two-engined bombers scored five hits on railway yards at Doboj, 55 miles north of Sarajevo in Yugoslavia, and pounded barracks and troop concentrations at Travnik, 30 miles northwest of Sarajevo.

All Allied planes returned, after bagging two enemy aircraft.

Poor weather reduced aerial sweeps over the Italian battle area but a gasoline dump near Chieti, in front of the 8th Army, was attacked by fighter-bombers, as was a railway bridge at Balsorano.

Fighters escorting the small formation of fortresses to Dupnitsa shot down a Heinkel-111 and a Gotha-242 glider which it was towing. The action came when the returning raiders swooped down to strafe locomotives, destroying two and damaging a train of 40 cars.

As the glider cut loose, two men jumped out at 200 feet.

Other Allied formations shot up west coast shipping off Italy, and attacked supply concentrations and motor transports over the front line area.

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Rye prices broke sharply in the last hour of trading yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange after the May and July futures had posted new seasonal highs of $1.28¼ and $1.27¾ respectively.

Dealings in the pit were nervous. Light offerings were absorbed early by commission house and American support, but as the session progressed flurries of profit-taking and selling entered the trade. At the close, prices were down 1½ to 1¾ cents.

Cash coarse grain sales during the day were estimated at 120,000 bushels of oats taken from Saskatchewan points to American feeding centres.

Toronto Police Post Reward For Murderer

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP)—A reward of at least $1,000 will probably be posted by the Toronto Police Commission for information on the killing of Russian-born Jacob Beresner police said today, as they continued to hunt a motive for the Sunday night attack on the bookbinder.

Beresner, 55, was attacked in his bookbinding store and died Monday night without regaining consciousness. The death weapon is believed to have been a flat piece of iron the bookbinder used for pressing books.

Mrs. Beresner, who found her husband lying in a pool of blood, said his wallet was missing but as far as she knew it contained only between $3 and $4.

The bookbinder, whose death was attributed to a fractured skull, worked in Germany, Austria and France before coming to Toronto, Mrs. Beresner said. She could advance no reason for his killing.

Boy Steals Car To Visit Father In West

COBOURG, Jan. 5 (ENS) — A 15-year-old, Boys' Training School ward appeared in court Tuesday on a charge of theft of clothing from Norman Raney of Brighton and a car from Jacob Clarke of Brighton township. The offense took place on New Year's Day. The lad decked himself out in Raney's clothing, which was a trifle large for him, and after stealing the car, started out for Toronto. The car broke down between Colborne and Cobourg and the lad boarded a bus but was arrested on his arrival in Cobourg.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter directed that he be returned to the training school. The boy told the court that he wanted to go to the reformatory.

"Why is that?" asked the magistrate.

"Because if I stay in the training school I will be there until I am 21 and if I go to the reformatory it will be only for a year or two," replied the lad.

"Who told you that? Did you commit these offenses with a view of getting a sentence serious enough to put you in the reformatory?" asked the magistrate.

The boy replied that he "figured it out" after his arrest.

"For your information you are a ward of the training school whether you go to the reformatory or not," the magistrate stated.

Steady Record

K. Waring, placement officer of the training school, told the court that the boy's record started in 1941 with theft charges which were repeated up until the most recent offenses. In 1942 he stole $200 in cash and $1,700 in bonds. The bonds were recovered.

It was revealed that his parents had not been living together since he was a baby, his father living in British Columbia and his mother in Toronto.

"I stole the car to get to British Columbia to see my father," the boy testified.

"I thing a good whipping would do you a world of good. It is up to you to behave yourself. I am not going to send you to the reformatory but back to the training school. Are you going to behave yourself?" the magistrate said.

"I don't know," replied the juvenile after a pause.

"You certainly haven't adopted a very good attitude. Well you are going back to the training school and if you come up in court here again, we will find another place for you," was the magistrate's decision.

Climate Hinders Workers On Alaska Road

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5 (ENS) —The wealth of beauty that prevails in the country adjoining the Alaska Highway was seen as an adequate reason for tourists to make a postwar visit to that region in the opinion of Keith Bound who has just returned after spending the past seventeen months engaged on construction work there. Mr. Bound was guest speaker at the Rotary Club on Monday and he gave a first hand account of some of the tremendous obstacles and hardships that had to be faced in building the road.

He arrived at Dawson Creek on July 4, 1942, and recalled being well ...ed by residents of a district where a glass of water cost five cents and mosquitos cruised around long after snow had fallen on the ground. It had taken 17 days to ferry their equipment, which included 4 shovels, 14 bulldozers and 40 trucks, up the river past Fort Nelson, and during the trip the workmen slept and ate under trees. The group he was with followed negroes who cleaned what he called a "bush road." The men slept in tents during winter months when temperature dropped to 60 below zero, but were comfortable inside due to stoves and sleeping bags.

For seventeen days last year the gang was isolated as summer floods swept out the pilings that had been used in the construction of bridges He recalled the country abounded with spruce and rocks of many colors which foretold of possible mineral wealth. Also plentiful was the wild game, particularly bear and moose.

Good Road

Mr. Bound described the road as having a 30 foot top "as good a gravel road as you will find anywhere," but it offers some serious hazards when icy. All of the road has to be sanded as it wound around among mountains and rivers. The road was made slippery by the white frost which appeared as late as July. Speaking of the cold he pointed out that some of the workmen had brought their wives with them and planted corn and potatoes in small gardens near their cabins. As a result of the short growing season (Not in the Peace River District) the crops just came out of the ground but never ripened.

Recreation consisted principally of cards and gambling of nearly every kind as there was nothing else for the workman to do with his money, besides, in the words of the speaker "you had to do something to prevent yourself from going bush queer." And when the fellows got away for a holiday in the city it was not unusual for them to spend three or four hundred dollars in a single week. In closing Mr. Bound spoke in tribute to the hard work done by the "colored boys" who broke parts of the road through at the rate of two miles a day, doing a job, which largely due to the mosquitos would have been killing to the white man.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Rotarian Harold N. Carr. It was announced that the annual farmers night would be held at Petherick's Corners on January 11 and this will cancel the regular luncheon for next Monday. Rotarians H. J. Taylor, William Brady and Perce Denyes were named to make preliminary arrangements for the annual ice Carnival.

Every School Cadet Passes Signalling

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5. — (ENS).— One hundred per cent. of the Cadets of Campbellford High school who recently wrote off a signalling examination given in conjunction with the new defence training course, were successful. This announcement was made by Principal E. H. Greig Tuesday afternoon.

The examinations were held during the month of December and were conducted by Captain H. Bonner of Kingston. Those who took the examination were: Frank Abernethy, George Black, Jack Bleecker, Glen Brunton, Jos. Clarke, Jack Connor, Francis DeCarrol, Jack Free, Marvin Goody, Gerald Heagle, Peter Hennessy, Alex. Johnston, Morley Maxwell, Earl Nelson, Jack O'Rourke, Dave Price, Gerald Sloggett, Gerald Taylor, Ross Taylor, William Watson and J. P. Wood.

Ice Saw Cuts Worker's Leg

HASTINGS, Jan. 5.— (ENS). — While cutting ice about three miles up the Trent River from Hastings, in front of the Mayo farm, Earl Clarke slipped on the ice and fell, and his leg slid into the ice saw with which they were cutting ice.

He was accompanied by Bruce Trotter and Howard Porter, who brought him to Hastings, where he received medical attention, and it was found that his leg and knee cap were severely cut. He was later taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, where he underwent an operation on his leg and knee.

Cheese Company Reviews Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5 (ENS) The year's operations at Plum Grove Cheese and Butter Company in Rawdon Township, brought patrons an average of $1.89 per hundred for milk during the season. This was indicated in the financial statement presented by secretary Fred Beckett at the annual meeting held recently. A total of 2,245,246 pounds of milk was delivered to the factory and this was processed into 190,684 pounds of white cheese for an average of 11.64 pounds milk per pound cheese.

Cheese per pound fat averaged 2.66 and patrons received per pounr fat for cheese an average of 47.33 cents plus 5.32 cents Ontario bonus, 3.69 cents Dominion premium for an average, including whey cream, Provincial bonus, Dominion premium and subsidy, of $1.89 per hundred for milk.

During 1943 a total of 2,105 boxes of cheese were made and of these 357 were 95's; 1,301 were 94's; 371 were 93's; 42 were 92's and 34 went down as undergrades. President W. L. Pollock congratulated cheesemaker Byron Sealey for having increased the percentage of first grades to 98.6 and the premium cheese to 96.4 per cent, and by an unanimous vote patrons endorsed his suggestion that the maker do the testing during the coming season.

Officers for 1944 are—President and secretary, W. L. Pollock; auditor, G. V. Taylor; directors, Wilfred Sine, Sam Wallace, Reg. McGee, Carmen Nix, Homer Dracup, Cliff Clancey, Ted Preston.

Cheese Patrons Report Drop In Production

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5 (ENS) —Production at Menie Cheese and Butter Company, second largest producer of cheese in the County of Northumberland, dropped off 30,000 pounds during the past season. This disclosure was made at the annual patron's meeting held in the plant this week, when the year's operations were reviewed. In spite of the big drop in production the 38 patrons still had better than $72,450.00 to pay operational expenses and give a nice dividend on their cattle for the summer of 1943.

According to President Roy Walker, who was well pleased with the statement presented to patrons, the plant has been still further modernized last year with the installation of a new water pressure system which had cost them $190. This had been installed by their able cheesemaker, D. Vernon Spencer who was subsequently re-engaged for 1944. Also put in use last year was a new vat purchased at a cost of $246, and a new press. Always anxious to keep their plant in the best of condition, the patrons approved an order for a new sweet whey vat in 1944.

Financial Status

The annual statement revealed a total of 3,559,593 pounds of milk had been manufactured into 286,944 pounds of white cheese for an average of 12.4 pounds milk per pound of cheese. The average test was 3.1 per cent and patrons got an average of 58.52 cents per pound fat or $1.82 per hundred of milk. The total received from cheese amounted to $69,272.50, and this included $5,738.88 in Provincial bonus; $4,338.75 Dominion premium on high score; and $1,651.60 Federal milk subsidy of 30 cents per hundred during October and November. The sale of whey cream brought another $3,067.49 and they carried over a balance of $161.40 from 1942 thus making a total credit for the year of $72,521.39.

Addressing the patrons, Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray, spoke of the results shown by the sediment test conducted in various factories of the district He pointed to the measure as one that appeared necessary to the production of a better quality cheese and said that while such tests were not being conducted in all counties it was quite possible that after the war they would be made extensively.

If Canadian cheese is to hold its favorable position on the most desirable export markets manufacturers of cheese must be prepared to produce a product that is free of sediment he said. Mr. Murray recalled that current information from Ottawa appeared to indicate they would receive an even better price for cheese in 1944 since according to present information plans were to maintain the winter price throughout the season. He commended Menie patrons on the quality of the cheese turned out during the year pointing out that of a total of 3,254 boxes made 2,053 or 63.5 per cent were 94's; 695 boxes or 21 per cent were 93's; 392 boxes or 12 per cent were 92's and 114 boxes amounting to 3.5 per cent were under 92.

Red Cross Branch Has New Hospital Quota

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5 (ENS) —The Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross gathered to resume activities for the year Tuesday afternoon when 30 ladies were on hand to assist in sewing and knitting. The vice-president, Mrs. R. A. Linton, was in charge and she advised members a new quota of hospital supplies and knitted items had arrived to be filled by the branch. Already material for the various items is being handed out to volunteers. In the quota are 50 bed jackets, 20 dressing gowns, 100 pillow cases, 50 sheets, 200 gauze handkerchiefs, 50 ribbed helmets, 50 pair mitts, 50 pair gloves, 50 turtle neck sweaters, 50 pair 26-inch seamen's socks. The annual meeting would be held later this month.

Give Red Cross $38.15

HASTINGS, Jan. 5 (ENS) — The dance held in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Softball Club had proceeds amounted to $38.15, which were given to the Red Cross for war work.

Escapes Death

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP) —John Rankin of Kingston, Ont., escaped drowning yesterday when he crawled from the rear window of his car after it had gone through the ice of Charles Lake, 15 miles northwest of Brockville, and walked two miles to the nearest farmhouse, where he was given clothing and shelter. His car has not yet been recovered.

TAMBLYN
Stresses Health Maintenance

New resolutions are very much the order of the day at this period of the year. All of us, I believe, invariably resolve to do this and that, but unfortunately very few of these resolutions are kept permanently. There is one resolution, however, that we all would be well advised to both make and adhere to. That one pertains to the maintenance of our "Good Health" and "Physical Well-being." In these strenuous times, we are all apt to become careless in this respect — many times with dire results. So may we again remind you, that your Tamblyn Drug Store is fully prepared to supply your "Health Needs" at all times, and for this particular week is again stressing "Vitamins." Their use, as you well know, will very definitely aid us to remain at the "top of our Form" as well as assisting to ward off many of those so-called common ailments. In order to facilitate your selection a representative assortment of these preparations is included in this list of

An Undemocratic Discrimination

As usual, the list of New Year's Honours has aroused great interest; some of the inclusions have been widely popular, some have provoked surprise, and some have been criticised. But we think that a great many people will want to know why no civilians except a few members of the Merchant Marine have been awarded any honour below that of Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Honours of all kinds have been given to men and women in the forces and a few civilians have been given high honours for oustanding services, but the less prominent civilians have been frozen out of the Honours List altogether. Why?

The official explanation, we understand, is that it would be too difficult to decide who should have the lesser honours—the O.B.E. in particular—and for that reason none are being given at all. Frankly, we think that the explanation is most objectionable. Honours, although they are decided upon by the government of the day, are officially supposed to be recognitions from the King of unusual service to the country; since when has the King found it too difficult to bestow honours on his humbler subjects? Only since the government at Ottawa made this decision, so far as we know. It is a most undemocratic decision. The armed forces, we are certain, would be vigorous in their protests if they were to be cut off from any honours which were going. Why discriminate against a large number of civilians? When the war began the King told us, "We are all in the front line". If that is so, why should some front line fighters receive honours, and others be passed over?

The Kingston Whig-Standard has commented at length on this matter, and we quote a significant paragraph from its editorial:

"A simple example will serve to demonstrate how unfairly this may work out. A high-ranking officer, without leaving Canada, may make a contribution to the war effort of exceptional merit. He may then be rewarded by admission to one or other of the orders of chivalry. An industrialist, however, making a contribution of equal or even greater importance to the war effort, will receive no recognition of his labours. That fact will not likely deter civilians from contributing the splendid work they have been and are doing to further Canada's cause at war, but a sense of being discriminated against will persist. Under the circumstances, that feeling is, we think, quite understandable."

This paper has expressed itself as being in favour of honours for Canadians on more than one occasion. We do not consider the bestowal of honours by the King an undemocratic procedure if every subject has a chance to be recognized for good work done. But we think it extremely undemocratic that some citizens should be eligible for honours when others are not. The question of honours has been a vexed one in Canada for many years, and such ineptitudes as this merely stir up trouble. But the solution is not to dispense with honours altogether; the solution is for the government to learn what honours really are and how to handle them. Unless the government of the day wants to put another scourge in the hands of its enemies it will reconsider this unfortunate decision before the next Honours List is due.

A Leader For 165 Years

We congratulate the Montreal Gazette on the completion of its 165th year as a leading Canadian newspaper. There are many journals in this country which have served the public for a century; the Examiner has 95 years to its credit and it does not consider itself old; but the added 65 years gives the Gazette a grave and reverend air which is not, however, reflected in any senility or undue conservatism of opinion.

At present the Gazette is owned and controlled by members of its staff and by descendants of Thomas and Richard White, two brothers who took over the paper in 1870. The Whites, it is interesting to notice, gained their first experience in journalism in Peterborough, where they published the old Review for some time before they removed to Hamilton to publish the Spectator there; it was from Hamilton that they went to Montreal. These two men established the Montreal paper on the lines which still guide it today, and the journalistic integrity and sound business methods which were their chief stock-in-trade are reflected in the modern paper.

We have received a brochure from the Gazette, celebrating this event, which we shall preserve carefully. When another century has passed either we, in extreme old age, or some younger successor to this chair, will want to look through it for information upon which to base yet another congratulatory editorial.

The Russians Cross The Border

In their great offensive against the Germans, Russian troops have now crossed the old Polish border. What will come of this situation remains to be seen, but it is full of possibilities for trouble which would prove advantageous to the Germans. The area on which the Russians now stand was part of their own country until it was seized by Poland after the last war, when Russia was weakened by revolution. It is disputed territory, inhabited by Russians, Ukrainians, Ruthenians and Lithuanians. Will the Poles, liberated by the Russians, take up arms against their liberators to defend a piece of land to which their right is questionable? Will the Russians attempt to recover this area which was once theirs, or will they generously leave it to Poland? These are questions which will ha e a profound effect on the immediate future of Eastern Europe.

Russia, as we understand the matter, does not care greatly about recovering the territory formerly snatched from her by Poland, but she is anxious to establish a good borderline for herself in case she should be called upon to defend it against Germany or some other foe in the future. The Russians may insist that the settlement of this dispute with Poland is exclusively their business, and it would be hard to gainsay them. It will be a poor lookout for world peace, however, if every fighting nation wants to settle a few old scores while engaged in the main business of defeating the Axis.

It is in Russia's power to act generously in this matter, and in the spirit of the Atlantic Charter, by leaving the settlement of boundary disputes until after the war. Poland has the rapacity of all much-abused nations, and will grab all she can get. But Russia can impose her will on Poland with a very small show of strength. Obviously the best thing for both parties and for the cause of world peace is to defer the dispute about the boundary until a suitable time, when impartial arbiters can judge the rights and wrongs of the matter. Let us hope that is what will happen.

Bang Goes Another Cold Cure

A few weeks ago a good deal of publicity was given to a substance called 'patulin' which was said to be a cure for the common cold. It had apparently been used extensively in the Royal Navy with such excellent results that its discoverers relaxed their scientific caution and claimed great things for it. But now we read that three Army doctors have used patulin under test conditions in the Army, and it has been of no use whatever.

This cannot be dismissed as mere Army-Navy rivalry. Perhaps patulin is good for the sort of cold which a man catches at sea, but powerless when used on a man suffering from one of those heavy landlubber's colds; there are colds and colds. But it is clear that patulin, considered as a cure for the common cold, has been exploded.

We are no child of Hippocrates, and we know how much the medical profession dislikes advice from the sidelines, but we advance once again our pet theory that the common cold is one of those illnesses which emanates from an uneasy spirit; the cold is a metaphysical ailment manifesting itself through the physical being; in short the cold is a psychological disease. A few days in bed and a reasonable amount of attentive nursing cures most colds, and it may be that the cold is a means which the soul uses of gaining time for thought or rest. Of course many colds are traced to bad teeth and wet feet, but we have yet to hear a coherent explanation of why these troubles manifest themselves as head colds and not as toothaches or chilblains.

We should not mind betting that no cure for the common cold will ever be discovered.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We observe that Farm Week is to be held some time in January. We hope that it is not going to cause a lot of absenteeism in industry.

This winter is full of surprises. We seem to be having a January thaw without having had much in the way of an autumn freeze-up.

Anthologies and Collections

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

HORACE GREGORY, the American critic and poet, has brought out an anthology called "The Triumph of Life" in the handy and pleasant format of the Viking Portable Library; in explanation of the title he describes the book as containing "Poems of Consolation for the English-Speaking World." I must say at once that it is an admirable anthology, for certainly many people will shy like frightened horses from a book badly described as 'consolatory.' The tone of the anthology is serious, but not disagreeably funereal, and it has nothing in common with those "quarter-hours of inspirational and comforting verse" which poison the air-waves. Why Mr. Gregory chose to make consolation the theme of his book I cannot say; however, he has done so and the result is good. People who seek consolation in poetry are usually able to find the poems they want on their own shelves, but "The Triumph of Life" will save them the trouble of searching through many books.

LIKE every good anthology this book introduces some unfamiliar poems in a framework of familiar ones. The time-honoured poems of grief and consolation are here—"Adonais," "Lycidas," "Gray's Elegy," and "In Memoriam" included in all its remorseless length; like many another anthologist Mr. Gregory has been unable to resist the temptation to include a poem by himself and one by his wife; Dylan Thomas and Keidrych Rhys and Hugh Macdiarmid are represented, and through this volume many North American readers will meet them for the first time. Inevitably some of the inclusions will inflame certain readers, instead of comforting them; the whining tone of Wesley's "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," for instance, always makes me see red. And it is observable that some of the greatest poets are not, by Mr. Gregory's standard, consolatory; great souls are rarely comfortable themselves, and seldom take time to dispense comfort to others. But the real joy of the book lies in the many short poems which are unfamiliar themselves, but which are the work of familiar writers....Here is an admirable bedside book, or book for a journey. Its appropriateness to the times in which we live does not, of course, need to be stressed.

SALLY BENSON is one of the best among that brilliant group who write short stories for the "New Yorker" magazine, and the appearance of a collection of her pieces is an event for people who take pleasure in short stories. The latest is "Women And Children First," so called because women and children are prominent in its pages. In "Junior Miss" this author gave us a series of brilliant sketches of girlhood on the threshold of adolescence; later unhappily, it was turned into a clumsy play and its freshness was lost. In "Meet Me In St. Louis" she wrote of family life with great charm and skill, avoiding mawkishness and cheap nostalgia. In the present book she gives us a group of sharp little sketches of women of all sorts, but predominantly the nasty or pathetic sorts. Sally Benson has the remorseless honesty of a good author, but she has a kind heart also; as she pours the acid on her own sex she seeks merely to burn; she does not try to exterminate.

ONE story by Sally Benson at a time is a delight. After that the law of diminishing returns comes into full force. "Women And Children First" should certainly be read, but it should not be read at a gulp. Delicate and brilliant though her work is, it has something of the character of carved cherry-stones—hard to do, and charming when done, but not a thing to become excited over. She can anatomize for us, with wonderful skill, the feelings of a poor relation on a visit to a wealthy patron; she can show us the dreariness and discontent of a home in which everything is systematized and listed; she can tell us exactly how a girl feels who sees her young man succumb to the attractions of a prettier rival: these are difficult themes to handle, but they are not very substantial; these people are interesting for a moment's examination, but they are too commonplace to occupy our minds for long; in her realm Miss Benson is a great writer, but her realm is not a large one. We are wise, therefore, to enjoy her stories one at a time.

THE Modern Library have brought out an excellent complete Shakespeare in three volumes, which costs $3.75; I do not usually mention prices in this column, but I break the rule to bring an undoubted bargain to your attention. The notes are not bulky, but they are full enough for most purposes, and are based upon the better sort of modern scholarship; there are too many Shakespeares on the market containing notes which have not been revised for fifty years or more. The text is well and clearly printed and the books open conveniently and are strongly bound. Of the author, I can only say that some of his works have been accused of indecency and that he had no use whatever for The Common Man; if you can put up with these imperfections you may enjoy his work.

Letter To The Editor

AN AIRPORT ESSENTIAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I read with interest Mr. Hy Wood's article about an Airport for Peterborough. When last summer I heard the same report that there was no land suitable for an airport, I wondered as you have done, and when some members of the Council expressed horror at the expense, I wondered still more.

If they had to hock Peterborough's finances for the next few years, there should be an Airport. I'm afraid that there is too much stress put on reducing Peterborough's debt, instead of insuring its future by progressive improvements. I'd hate to be a large property owner in Peterborough twenty years from now, if we are to stand still in the way of civic improvements. You have to spend money to make money, and there is hardly an individual in town that wouldn't profit by an Airport, and indirectly by a good sewage disposal plant.

In the South here, Airports, airplanes, etc., are accepted as part of our daily lives, like automobiles, buses, tractors, and other methods of transportation. I think you could take a town's light and phone service away from them down here before they would give up the airport.

Regards and best wishes, I am,

Cordially,

PERRY ALEXANDER.

New Year's Resolutions

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

A FEW hours from now, echoes of the twelfth stroke of the clock will be drowned out with the cry of "Happy New Year," and another crop of good resolutions will be announced wherever celebration of the New Year is observed. In this connection we confidently believe most Kingstonians—and Canadians generally—would share our gratification to hear

That all citizens had resolved to support the Canadian and United Nations war effort in every way possible;

That all citizens had resolved to resist to the limit of their ability all unwarranted attempts by governments, groups, or individuals to suppress the liberties or usurp the powers of the people;

That all citizens who possess the franchise had resolved to exercise it on every lawful occasion;

That all citizens had resolved to watch more carefully over their personal health and safety, and that of those dependent on them;

That all censorship authorities and official news sources had resolved to give free and timely release to all news stories, unless the latter were obviously of aid and comfort to the enemy;

That management and labour had resolved to recognize the fact that both are members of a team, that each possesses rights which must be respected, and that far more can be accomplished in an atmosphere of amity and co-operation than in one of strife;

That Kingston employers and employees had resolved to put forth their best efforts to aid the authorities in the matter of fire prevention, in order to reduce the recent heavy fire loss record in this city;

That the Kingston Police Force had resolved to eliminate, by drastic measures if necessary, the prevalent reckless driving of taxicabs and commercial vehicles;

That City Council had resolved to refrain from an attempt to reduce the tax rate fractionally until all essential services had been provided for a substantially enlarged city;

That the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had resolved to reconsider the Kingston quotas of rationed and unrationed commodities under its control, and grant new ones on a more equitable basic period than the year 1941.

It would be a wonderful thing for Canada—and for Kingston—if all these resolutions were made and adhered to throughout 1944. The above list, of course, does not contain all the resolutions we would like to see declared tonight. We would like to see proponents of Utopia resolve to count the costs of their schemes, and we would like to see the perennial peepers into a gloomy future resolve to watch a sunrise now and then. But these latter be vain hopes, and there is a possibility that some items on the list above might be resolved and kept. Whether they are or not, however, there is one simple resolution which practically all people have already made and to which this newspaper subscribes most heartily—the resolution to wish friends, neighbours and business acquaintances a very Happy New Year on the threshold of perhaps the most vitally important year any of us will live to see.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: At this time when so many wives and mothers are leaving their homes to take jobs in business offices and war plants, will you not remind them that there is such a thing as good business and office deportment, and that all the trials and tribulations of their home lives should not be dragged to the office and inflicted upon their co-workers?

In the office in which I have been employed for many years there has recently come a young woman who has two children under five years of age. She has taken the job because she wants to add her salary to the already substantial salary of her husband. Naturally this mother's thoughts are centered in her home, and on her arrival in the morning she takes up our time and distracts our attention by informing us about the state of Johnny's tonsils and how Mary's cold is coming on. From that she goes on to the latest dereliction of her maid and the news on her husband's draft status. When he has had a particularly rough time with the draft board or has gotten a new classification, she disrupts the whole office by monologing about it.

This woman uses ten per cent. of her mind for her job, which is one that requires real concentration and application, and most of the balance of it telephoning the maid or her husband. That she owes anything to her work or her fellow employees does not seem to even enter her head.

Because employees have been forced to take any help they can get many such women are brought into efficient, well-trained groups of workers, but, like the spoiled apple in the barrel, they are ruining the whole office routine.

EMPLOYEE.

ANSWER: This woman will, of course, be fired as soon as the shortage of workers is over. She will go back to her home and her children where she belongs, and that particular episode of the domestic woman war worker will be ended.

There are millions like her—women married and single, young and old—who have no intention whatever of making whatever they are doing a profession, but who just want to make enough money ot buy a fur coat or a $35 hat, who are cluttering up the whole business world. And beyond being a nuisance to deal with, through their lack of skill and knowledge and their impression that everybody in a store or office or war plant are dying to hear all about their private affairs, they do no harm.

But it is a pity that the women who have no homes to go back to and no husbands to support them, are not profiting by the chance that the war work is giving them to get real business training that will help them to keep the jobs after the duration that they have gotten through the present emergency.

For, like it or not, after the war husband hunting is going to be practically a closed sport and one in which a girl is going to have to be Miss America, plus all the feminine virtues and charms, and with a rich Papa thrown in for good measure in order to make a catch. No girl need kid herself into thinking, as she has done in the past, that when she gets tired of working she can get married, and that there is no use in wearing herself out learning how to do efficient work because she is going to give it up when Johnny comes marching home.

That is just wishful thinking now. After the war there will not be enough Johnnies to go around because so many of them will have been killed, so many wounded and invalided, and the chances are that practically every woman is going to need to know not only how to support herself but others.

So the job that Sally thinks is temporary is most likely to be a permanent one, and it behooves her to put her back and her brains into it and learn to do it so well that she can command a good salary.

But so far as my observation shows, Sally isn't doing it. Without doubt many women have enough sense to realize the necessity of preparing themselves for the future, and that the war is giving them an opportunity to get not only a training that will make them efficient workers, but a foothold in some business by reason of having shown themselves intelligent, reliable and interested in their work.

But, for the most part, the young girls are still thinking of marriage instead of work as their career, and are making not the slightest effort to even learn what their work is about. They still look languidly up at a customer and murmur "we haven't got it" to save themselves the trouble of taking down goods from a shelf, and let you wait while they finish an interminable conversation about what "I said to Jim and Jim said to me."

What Old Abe Said

Abraham Lincoln had strong opinions about things. On economics he said: "Prosperity is the fruit of labour, property is desirable; is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. ...Let not him who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him labour diligently to build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence....I take it that it is best for all to leave each man free to acquire property as fast as he can. Some will get wealthy. I don't believe in a law to prevent a man from getting rich, it would do more harm than good." The Printed Word.

A man and his wife, hiking in the woods, suddenly realized that they had lost their way. Said the husband:

"I wish Emily Post was here with us—I think we took the wrong fork."

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JANUARY 5

1914 William H. Buller is elected mayor of Peterborough by a plurality of 560 over George A. Gillespie and J. J. Hartley.

Robert Hicks defeats J. B. McWilliams in the election for the Utilities' Commission.

John Crane heads the race for the Board of Education. The other members elected are W. H. Hill, Col. J. W. Miller, Dr. George Burnham and J. H. Smith.

The aldermen elected in today's polling were Jos Saunders, A. H. Stratton, J. J. Duffus, W. J. Johnston and J. C. Anderson.

Bylaws to borrow money for the building of a new bridge and for the purchase of a chemical fire engine are defeated.

Peterborough man wanted in Buffalo, N.Y., for jumping his parole is arrested by Detective Newhall and Meagher.

A Bible Message

And supper being ended, the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him; Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God; he riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself. After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded....

So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you? Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them. (John 13: 2-5, 12-17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A commercial traveller, looking at the dingy shop, asked the shopkeeper: "How in the world do you make a go of things at all?"

The tradesman pointed to the other end of the shop and said: "You see that fellow there? Well, he works for me and I can't pay him; so in two years he gets the shop. Then I work for him until I get it back."

Nurse (suspiciously): "What have you been doing, Joan?"

Joan: "Rover's eaten my dolly's slippers, so I've been punishing him."

"How?"

"I've been to his kennel and drinked his milk."

A lady going out for the day locked everything up very carefully, and for the grocery boy's benefit left a card on the back door. "All out. Don't leave anything," it read.

On her return she found her house ransacked and all her choicest possessions gone. To the card on the door was added "Thanks. We didn't leave much."

An old farmer of a Worcestershire village, after a visit to the local, fell asleep in his wagon, and two other farm hands thought they would play a prank on him, and unhitched his horses from the wagon and took them home. Upon awakening some hours afterwards, rubbing his eyes and looking around, said:

"Well, if my name be John Jones, I've lost two horses, but if it ain't I've found a cart."

The Two Tables

When the Rt. Rev. Ashton Oxenden spent his first New Year as Anglican Bishop of Montreal he was faced with a difficult decision. He was an Englishman and a temperance man. But at that New Year's Day in 1870 the old French and Scottish custom of paying New Year's calls was at its height. From house to house went the merry callers, and the more calls they made the merrier they became.

According to this custom the clergy remained at home and were hosts to their visitors. But what was Bishop Oxenden to do? To serve liquor might seem an encouragement to excess. But to serve none might seem a breach of hospitality. With much thought a solution came. He would set out two tables. On one he would place liquor. On the other would be water. He would thereby be neutral and it would be wholly up to his visitors.

That was a busy New Year's Day for the new Bishop. Several hundred Montrealers called to extend their best wishes. When the last of his visitors had left he surveyed the two tables. On one stood the decanters with their colored contents so sadly lowered. On the other stood the decanter of clear water, lower by exactly one glass.

This one glass had been taken by the French Mayor. He was reputed to be the politest man in Montreal.—Montreal Gazette.

I.O.D.E. Members Plan Canvass For Libraries

Plans for assisting the camp libraries project of the I.O.D.E. chapters throughout Canada were discussed at the January meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., and it was decided that beginning January 10, each member would be expected to canvass her neighborhood for contributions and used books.

At this meeting, held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Ruth Kingan, 46 Benson street, the treasurer read her report, which showed a favorable balance from the Christmas night dance. It was also announced that members of the chapter will be hostesses at a dance for the soldiers, being held Monday evening, January 10, at the Y.W.C.A., and will be in attendance at the Blood Donors' Clinic during the week beginning January 17.

After the business period, Miss Orma Lacheur read a paper on Australia, and letters of appreciation were read from Peterborough boys overseas who had received Christmas boxes.

Veronica Bennett Soldier's Bride

Ferns and carnations formed the setting in St. Peter's Cathedral on Monday, when Veronica May Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bennett, Wolfe Street, became the bride of Tpr. W. N. Coombes, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Coombes, Park Street. Rev. T. J. Finn officiated at the ceremony, and Miss Marion Best was at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. P. Bennett, due to the illness of their father. She wore a street-length blue dress, brown accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. Her sister, Mrs. J. Hesmond, was matron of honor, in a street-length frock of navy and light blue, brown accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. Mr. C. J. Woodcock was groomsman.

At the reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received, wearing a black silk jersey dress, trimmed with gold, a black felt hat, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's sister, Miss Noreen Coombes, of Toronto, received in the absence of her mother, and wore black crepe, black felt hat, and a corsage of yellow roses. After the reception, the young couple left on a trip to Toronto and points west.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY.

The changes war has wrought in child life was the subject of the address of Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association. The president, Mrs. C. H. Crowe, was in the chair.

Miss Young dealt first with the changes which war had brought that were really blessings. Employment and independence, which in turn bring self-respect and better housing, come under this heading, and although the housing situation has improved, Miss Young went on, it is not yet a thing to be contented with.

The speaker then turned to the unfortunate side of employment, and mentioned extravagance, and the tragedy of the employment of adolescent children. These children, she went on, are thrust into adult positions before they are mature, and will feel the force of this when the war is over and they are not equipped for life. Miss Young urged parents not to let their children leave school to take work when they are not yet equipped for it.

Lack Companionship.

Another unfortunate factor of war is the absence of fathers, older brothers and sisters, and the lack of companionship felt by wives, mothers and children. Quoting Anna Froyd, the speaker said that in England the children moved from their homes and companions to safety, suffered more than those left in their own homes in the bombed areas.

She also spoke briefly about the effects of fear and strain due to the war, the loosening of morals, and the error of instilling children with hate for fellow human beings.

In conclusion, Miss Young said that although we do not know what the post-war world will be, only children who come from homes where parents are doing a full time job and giving them a sense of security will be equipped to take their places.

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, guest soloist, gave two songs, accompanied by Mrs. H. V. Dobson. A resume of current events was given by Mrs. T. J. Carley, and reports were read by the secretary, treasurer, convener of library committee, and convener of the membership committee. The banner for attendance of parents was won by Miss F. Walton's room, and Miss V. Robinson"s room, in the junior grades, and by Mr. E. G. Wagar's room and Mr. A. Olmstead's room in the senior grades.

Mrs. Robertson Davies will be the guest speaker at the next meeting.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 6

WHILE THE lunar transits promise moderate success, with expansion and growth in all relations, business and private, there may be some obstacles or impeding circumstances combining to stimulate a determined effort to secure these happy prospects. This may take system, attention to details and a well-organized program built on constructive lines, with high pressure and perhaps forced energy. This should attract support of those appreciating diligence, industry and the will to win against odds. Social, professional and financial advantages, with personal popularity and possible celebrations of success.

If It Is Your Birthday

Thdse whose birthday it is may enjoy a prosperous and happy year, with honors, increased prestige and a solidification of the fortunes, gained by an indomitable will to succeed against frustrating circumstances. This should be supplemented by practical effort, attention to details, well-laid plans and organized campaigns to gain advantage of available openings. Such industry and sound ability should attract the hearty support of those in influential positions thus assuring finances and credit, enhancing social and personal prestige, and promising future security and happiness. Celebrations are in order for good work well done.

A child born on this day may have many sterling qualities enabling it to grasp success and happiness from frustrating circumstances. Business, professional and social prestige are promised.

W.A. Installs New Officers

The installation of officers for the new year was conducted at the January meeting of the George Street W.A., which took place Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. H. L. Roberts was in charge of the service of installation.

Special words of appreciation were expressed to the retiring president, Mrs. W. G. Harris, for her leadership during her term of office, and also to Mrs. P. Hetherington, the retiring treasurer.

Mr. Harris opened the meeting by reading "Resolutions," Mrs. R. Boulter read the scripture and Mrs. A. Sandercock led in prayer. Both are from Mrs. P. Hetherington's group, which was in charge of the devotional period. During the business, reports of the year's work were read by committee conveners, and Mrs. W. G. McLaren, the new president, took the chair to conduct the remainder of the meeting.

Prize Money Boosted For King's Plate

By APPAS TAPPAS

Increases in the purse money of the King's Plate and in the grant to the breeder of the winner have been made by the Ontario Jockey Club for this year's renewal of Canada's outstanding race.

The King's Plate is now a $10,000 added event, an increase of $2,000 over last year. This boost in the value of the race does not include the annual gift of 50 guineas by his Majesty the King to the owner of the winning horse. The breeder's grant has been raised $200, making the breeder's portion $700. Announcement of the O.J.C.'s adding of extra purse money was made yesterday by Palmer Wright.

Plate Trial Worth $2,500

Another announcement of importance to owners and trainers is the naming of the purse value of the Plate Trial, which will be a $2,500 added affair. This race is at six furlongs and will supplant the King's Plate as one of the opening day feature races of the Woodbine spring meeting. The running of the Plate has been changed until the final day of the first meeting of the year in Canada at Woodbine. The Plate Trial is exclusively for Canadian-foaled 3-year-olds nominated for the King's Plate. Conditions of the race make it the only race a Plate entrant can start in as a 3-year-old before the running of the Plate race and is designed to give trainers an opportunity of starting their contestants in a race before the running of the King's Plate over a distance of a mile and a furlong.

When the directors of the O.J.C. widened the scope of the Plate race making all Canadian-foaled 3-year-olds which have complied with conditions governing the race eligible they also changed the rule which now permits entrants being shipped out of Canada for early training at different tracks in the United States. By the changed regulations horses may be shipped out of the Dominion after Oct. 31 of the year they are 2-year-olds and trained but not raced. The winner of the Plate Trial will be penalized an additional five pounds in the King's Plate race.

Purse Distribution

Monday, March 20, is the closing date for entries for the Canadian classic. By the increased money allotment for the Plate the winner's share will be $6,500 as well as the 50 guineas, the second horse $1,500, the third horse $1,000, and the fourth $300. The dispersal of the $2,000 added provides the winner with an extra $1,000, second money is increased $300 as is third money, and fourth money is raised $200, with the remaining $200 going to increase the breeder's grant.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

After a long holiday layoff basketball activity will get under way at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium Friday ngiht when the opening games in the second round of the Ladies' Basketball League schedule will be played. The first round saw the Transports on top without a loss and the St. John's team in second place, a game behind the leaders. In Friday night's double bill both these teams will be in action. St. John's will meet the Generals in the first game, billed for 7.30 o'clock and Cadets and Transports supply the competition in the second fixture which should get moving around 8.30. The first game, especially, should be a thriller. St. John's just managed to nose out the Generals on opening night by one point and incidentally it was that win that enabled the church team to finish the first round in the second slot. Generals will be out to square that loss and it should be productive of a lot of close and exciting basketball. The young Cadets have a tough proposition on their hands in tackling the Transports in the second game but they will battle all the way in an effort to hand the leaders their first defeat of the season. A good crowd is expected for the re-opening of action on the basketball front.

The campaign to put an artificial ice arena for Peterborough in the forefront of this city's post-war program has been quiet over the holiday season but the drive will soon be under way and in the meanwhile firms, sporting organizations and individuals should not lose sight of the object of the campaign and be prepared to do their part when the call for action comes. This winter's experience, with Peterborough out of the O.H.A. picture entirely for the first time in more than half a century and without even a city league to help develop young hockey players, has surely emphasized the need of a modern arena more forcibly than all the propaganda that could be put together. The simple truth is that artificial ice for hockey and skating has become a community necessity in all Canadian centres and no city the size of Peterborough should be willing to try and get along without such a building, any more than it would try to get along without parks, or paved streets, or other municipal facilities of a similar nature. The campaign will soon be under way in earnest and should have the support of the community.

Everything Is Lovely

With a six-club City League just about to begin operations and plenty of senior and junior hockey on the horizon Scribe Bill Walshe of Kingston is sitting pretty. No wonder he pens the following: "A new year starts with brighter hopes, a view of victory in the world conflict and, if reported plans are true, a utopia in the world to come. In the promised land of tomorrow there will be vast changes for the better and sports will be included. The Federal Government has already assigned a quarter of a million dollars for a physical fitness plan. Just how the money is to be spent has not been decided but several organizations have already asked for information. If the money is to be spent for practical purposes in the development of popular games the country may benefit but there is the danger of waste on daffy P.T. drills, folk dances, sports lectures and such nonsense until the money is all used and the volunteers workers will return again to promote popular, practical minor sports. The Government grant is only casually mentioned in this column as a hint of important changes in sports in the near future. There will be some big alterations in Kingston sport with an assurance that Queen's plans a new arena after the war while there is a plan to promote a much needed civic arena. At present most of the plans are just dreams to be realized when the important job of eliminating the enemy is completed. For the immediate future prospects look good for sport in Kingston. The city is assured of its best hockey if former O.H.A. senior games and teams are continued. Kingston has a crowded program of high class hockey to open the new year while the juniors and the city league should soon be starting play."

Writes Doug. Vaughan in his sport column in the Windsor Star: "Speaking of the Canadiens, you can mark down in your notebook right now that they are going to be the National League champions of the 1943-44 season. Right now they are so far in front of the parade they could go into a tailspin and still back into the throne seat. Dick Irvin's Montrealers are a sound hockey club—the only sound hockey club in the N.H.L. this winter. From Goalie Bill Durnan out there isn't a weak link in the chain. Not since the days of Morenz, Joliat and those other colorful Flying Frenchmen of a decade or more ago have the Canadiens been a club over which their supporters could get excited. Not, that is, until this year. From Thursday to Sunday, the Canadiens played three games in four days and won them all. Two of those victories were at the expense of the Red Wings and the other over Chicago Black Hawks. That's no mean feat but it is no more than a sample of what the Canadiens are capable of as they continue to make a runaway race of it for league honors. Still further, according to Manager Irvin, every member of the Montreal club has a full time war job. With them hockey is only a sideline. Any time they lose while playing hockey has to be made up."

Same Old Brimsek

Neil Colville who accompanied the Commandos on their holiday trek across the border where they played the U.S. Coast Guard team was interviewed on his return by Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal and his remarks are of general interest. Here is part of the Westwick story: "The Ottawa squad ran up against some pretty tough goal-tending in their three games. As Neil Colville pointed out, "They have some standout hockey players and a good defence—and then, of course, they have Brimsek." All of the players came back impressed with Brimsek's work. Joe Cooper struck the most enthusiastic note with the remark, "The guy's better than ever." Colville left Ottawa last night and propably won't be back for long time. He got quite a kick out of playing some hockey again as he really liked Ottawa. "I've only had skates on a few times this year," he said last night before leaving for Toronto where he will switch shortly from the army to air force. "It felt good to get back into hockey harness, but it was tough going in that kind of company. It like old times to be potting at Brimsek—tough times, too. He's still got those hands of his. He's still as polished as ever. He was always a problem when you got in close on him and he hasn't changed." Colville stopped off at New York, renewed old acquaintances there and watched Rangers and Leafs in action. "They're having a pretty tough time of it," he said of Rangers. "Lester and Frankie Boucher have their worries. I watched Frankie playing for a time, but even an old hand like he is can't help the team much. It's the old story of inexperience. They have speed and they jam around in there, scratching and missing shots. Boucher watches himself carefully. After all, he's not young as hockey players go and he's smart enough not to get into the dark corners. He let's the younger players do that and ladles out the passes. But as one hockey player looking at another you have to appreciate the way he can watch his step. Some of those younger players on the other teams aim some heavy ones at him. They probably think it would be a feather in their hat to stop him. He can still make them look slightly foolish. He always was a master at that."

Dick Irvin's Montreal Canadiens, making every post a winning one added another win to their long string last night when they defeated the Toronto Leafs 6 to 3. It was the Flying Frenchmen's seventh straight victory and they continue to make the rest of the league look as if they belonged in another loop. Canadiens scored the first two goals last night and were never headed. They got the initial counter inside of the first minute of play and remained in front for the rest of the battle. Meanwhile the Boston Bruins were gaining a game on the Leafs by handing the Chicago Black Hawks a 6 to 4 trimming at Boston. Art Jackson and Herb Cain paced the Boston attack with a pair of goals each. Black Hawks battled hard and the teams were on even terms going into the last period but goals by Jackson and Dit Clapper, who also assisted in the Jackson tally, settled the argument.

Snarling Texan Kicks Watson Into The Crowd

In one of the most torrid battles of the season Whipper Billy Watson and big Karl Davis, the Texan "krippler" wrestled an hour to a draw in the feature bout of the Frank Tunney show at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night, getting the 1944 grunt-and-groan activities away to an action-packed start.

It was a tussle that had the crowd on its feet most of the way. Watson took the first fall after 25 lively minutes with his unconscious commando hold. Davis squared the match in four minutes with a punishing toe hold and then the battlers fought it out for the balance of the hour without breaking the deadlock.

There wasn't a dull moment. The Whipper gave one of his best exhibitions against an opponent who fought with animal-like ferocity The snarling Texan, big and unscrupulous, went beserk several times and the manner in which he mistreated the popular Watson had the crowd howling for his blood. So fierce was his attack at one stage in the first round that it looked as if the crowd was going to surge into the ring and mob him. The climax came when he kicked the Whipper back off the ropes and the British Empire champion landed in the first row of seats with a crash that could be heard all over the arena. For a few moments it appeared as if the battle was over for the night for the Whipper hurt his arm and was badly shaken up. However he came back to eventually take the first fall.

Best Of The Season

That opening round was probably the most exciting 25 minutes of wrestling that has been seen here. The two big battlers opened out with a series of punishing holds, winding up with clever breaks and honors were about even in the early going. Neither got a chance for some time to use his favorite hold. Suddenly Davis who had been battling fairly cleanly for him sailed into Watson with a barrage of punches and kicks, winding up by tossing the champ through the ropes. He might have won the fall with that move if he had obeyed Referee Maxwell's instructions and remained in his corner. But he kept rushing at Watson and kicking him out of the ring every time he tried to climb in, with the result that the official never had a chance to count the Whipper out.

Finally Watson got back into the ring and ran into more trouble. Davis made a dead set on the arm the Whipper had injured when he crashed into the seats. The Texan twisted the lame wing several times and then banged it violently across the top rope and Watson was in distress. It got worse a moment later when Davis managed to clamp a stepover toe hold on his weakened opponent and for the next few minutes the champ took a lot of punishment. The Texan was using the ropes to get leverage and despite the fans who dashed out to the ringside and tried to call Referee Maxwell's attention to the violation of the rules the big fellow got away with it for some time.

Commando Does It

At last, however, Davis had to break the hold and then he found himself in a jam. The Whip softened him up with a series of punches and a drop kick and then applied his unconscious commando grip and it was all over. Davis gradually sagged down when the pressure kept up and finally when Watson droppd him on the mat he lay there on his back, out cold. It was several minutes before he revived.

Watson was limping when he left the ring, as the result of the punishment he had taken, and he was still on the limp when he came back for the second round. Davis, incensed at losing the first fall went after him like a mad bull as soon as the round opened. He dropped the Whip with a couple of rabbit-punches, then hurled him out through the ropes. When Watson climbed back into the ring the Texan continued his ferocious attack and eventually evened up the bout by getting his pet stepover toe hold on Whipper's leg and the champ conceded the fall to save further punishment.

After the rest the battlers fought out the remaining 14 minutes without another fall. Watson managed to get his commando hold on the Texas grappler early in the round but Davis was on the ropes at the time and Maxwell made the champ break the grip. Later the Toronto boy applied the whip with so much power that the Texan fairly bounced when he hit the canvas. However Watson could not follow up his advantage and pin the big fellow's shoulders. Davis too had several opportunities to take the final fall but couldn't cash in on them.

Fight After Bell

The final bell found the two rivals trading rights and lefts in the centre of the ring and both punch-drunk. Watson refused to shake hands with the Texan at the end of the bout and the next moment the two were hammering each other again. Maxwell tried to stop the fight but twice the referee was knocked down before he finally succeeded in parting the pair. Davis left the ring under police escort.

The preliminaries were a good introduction to the main attraction. In the opener Art Kocas of Oshawa who gave away six inches in height and considerable poundage to Bill Stack, big Bowmanville farmer lost the argument after 16 minutes when his head hit the mat with so much violence that an old cut was reopened. Maxwell, when he saw how the injury was bleeding, wisely stopped the bout and gave the win to Stack. The two boys had staged a lively argument with honors about even.

The semi-final between long Joe Christie and Sergt. Ted Miller of the R.C.A.F. provided a lot of action. The opening minutes were as clean as the shelves of the government filling station on the afternoon before a holiday but half way through Christie started to cut loose with some rough stuff and found Miller quite willing to hand out a receipt and from then on it was lively going. The boys waded into each other with all they had and they wound up on even terms with a draw after 30 minutes' lively action.

Referee Maxwell was third man in the ring in all three bouts and Fred Scates handled the stop watch, wrestled with the gong and did the announcing.

ASKS DIVORCE—Mrs. Johnny Weismuller, the former Beryl Scott of San Francisco, has started suit to divorce the screen Tarzan and ex-swimming champ. She charges him with cruelty. They were married at Garfield, N.J., in 1939, and she is Weismuller's third wife.

CALLING THEIR SHOTS—Scheduled to meet in a 10-round overweight bout at New York on January 7, Lulu Constantino and Beau Jack, world's lightweight champion, tell each other where they expect to land knockout punches. Lulu believes that the Jack chin is the weak spot. But Beau has faith in the Constantino breadbasket. They met at Stillman's gym, New York, and went through this little pantomime. Anything for a lark.

CURLING NOTES

There was some mighty fine curling in every one of the games scheduled for last night. At no time during the play was any one team safe and no team was entirely out of the contest until the final stone had been curled down the ice. And we can't help remarking, once more, on the way the rinks are coming out to play their games.

There was a time, not so long ago, when the "master of ceremonies" for the evening would be at his wits end trying to find players to fill in, but now that seems to have died out altogether, and that's the way it should be. The boys are realizing that they have joined the club to curl and curl they are going to.

It's not too early in the week to announce our Saturday afternoon bonspiel. Two o'clock is the hour.

The schedule games for to-night are printed on page 10 of the schedule book.

Have a Coca-Cola = Welcome home, Big Boy

... or how to be friendly with a Yank

The greeting Welcome home, big boy is understood all over the Dominion. Just as friendly in its meaning are the words Have a "Coke" spoken on both sides of the border. It's a phrase that speaks of goodwill in Ottawa as in Chicago. Yes, around the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—a symbol of friendliness.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Vancouver claims the only Chinese player in senior hockey— 20-year-old Larry Kwong of St. Regis in the Pacific Coast League Larry's ambitions lean toward the National League and there's a possibility he might make it because Kwong is so good the minor leagues are reported interested in him. Kwong figures his race may help him up the ladder. He told Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell: "The fans like to see a Chinese player as a curiosity. That's my good luck. But it has disadvantages. Ever since I was a midget there has always been a player or two trying to cut off my head just because I am Chinese. And the bigger the league the bigger the axe they use." Larry will need more than a talent for arousing curiosity if he makes the big time, but it's possible. A right-winger, he counted seven goals and five assists in nine games this season. He's well up in the league scoring tables in competition with many former N.H.L. players. Kwong learned his hockey at Vernon, B.C., and played senior with Trail Smoke Eaters and Nanaimo Clippers before this season.

Any Estate Plan today must take account of T[illegible]on

IN 1944...

The progressive increase in taxation has put many Wills out of date even where they were drawn only two or three years ago. In certain cases it has even made them unworkable. Heavier succession duties means a greater need for ready cash and will reduce your net estate; income tax at present levels will cut down the income to your beneficiaries. Montreal Team Enters Senior League

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 — (AP). — University of Montreal was admitted into the Quebec Senior Hockey League last night, and a schedule for a four-team circuit covering the remainder of the season was drawn up.

The University club had been previously admitted, but later league members expressed doubt as to the calibre of a team the club could ice and demanded a player list and a $2,000 bond.

The University posted its bond at the meeting last night, and submitted its player list. After a short discussion, the remaining three teams in the loop voted to admit the new squad.

The new schedule, the fourth this season in the chequered career of the league, calls for the season's opener at Ottawa Saturday night, when the new University squad will make its bow against Commandos.

Montreal fans will see their first game of the revised schedule on Sunday, with U. of Montreal at home to Ottawa, while Royals go to Quebec.

The December 26 game at Quebec, when Aces swamped Royals, was retained as part of the revised schedule, giving Aces the present leadership of the loop.

Boston Trims Hawks 6-4; Canadiens Win

By The Canadian Press

Sooner or later sports writers are going to run out of adjectives for the superiority which has enabled Montreal Canadiens to make a parade of the National Hockey League race.

Canadiens survived their first 14 games without defeat and the latest Montreal feat is a seven-game victory streak which has stretched their league lead to 5½ games over Boston Bruins.

Canadiens won No. 7 last night before 12,730 home fans, walloping Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 for their 12th triumph in 13 starts at Montreal Forum. Bruins held the Habitants to a 2-2 tie at Montreal in the first game of the season.

Bruins made it a good night for home clubs by collapsing Chicago Black Hawks 6-4 on third period scores by Art Jackson and Dit Clapper. The result sent Bruins into undisputed possession of second place, two points ahead of Leafs.

Cowley Gets 2 Points

Art Jackson also counted the first Boston goal to share honors with Herb Cain, who now has collected 26 goals in 25 games. Bill Cowley snatched two assists to swell his league-leading total to 52 points.

Cowley thus boosted his lifetime assist total to 258, snapping the National League record of 256 held by Frankie Boucher of New York Rangers. The Bruins, besides arriving at their own six-goal total, also lent a hand in three of the four Chicago goals. Shortly after the first faceoff, a Bruin defenceman deflected the puck into his own cage for a tally credited to Clint Smith. Twice in the second period, clearing shots by Boston rearguards were intercepted and converted into goals by Cully Dahlstrom and Fido Purpur.

The only "honest" Chicago goal was made by Doug Bentley while Bruins played a man short late in the first period.

The Montreal-Toronto game was marked by the debut against Montreal of Paul Bibeault, former Canadiens goalie recently signed by the Leafs.

But Canadiens swept to the front early, Maurice Richard scoring twice before Don Webster got Toronto's first goal. Fern Majeau, Phil Watson, Butch Bouchard and Toe Blake rounded out Montreal scoring while Lorne Carr achieved Toronto's two other goals.

OshawaGenerals Defeat St. Kitts Juniors

By The Canadian Press.

Oshawa Generals won their 11th game of the season and continued on top in group one of the Junior A O.H.A. series by administering a 7-3 defeat to the Falcons at St. Catharines last night, for the latter's third setback of the winter in 14 scheduled appearances. The Falcons continued to hold a lead over Galt Kists in group two. Bill Ezinicki and Bob Love set the scoring pace for Generals with two goals apiece, but Thorpe of Falcons was the star performer, notching three of the losers' five counters.

In the double-header at Toronto both St. Michael's College and Hamilton had to come from behind in the third period to dispose of their respective opponents by one-goal margins. St. Mike's scored three in the final frame to win 5-4 from Galt Kists. Bob Schnurr, former Kitchener ace, punched the net four times in an outstanding performance for the Saints, while Frank Dunlap, who had played for the Toronto N.H.L. Leafs early in the season, secured the single. Galt's four counters were divided by Ubraico, Morland, Podolsky, and Curik.

Rangers Lose.

Toronto Young Rangers scored the only goal of the first period against Hamilton, but finally bowed to the visitors 3-2 when Comfort and Tomiuk counted one each in the third stanza.

Stratford Kroehlers held off Port Colborne Recreationists to win 3-2 at Stratford, after Sicoli had scored the only goal of the first period with Kaiser of Ports tying it up. In the last period, Stoddard and Tindal counted for Kroehlers, with Kadosky scoring the second for Port Colborne.

There was no scoring in the first frame at Brantford in the counter between Toronto Marlboros and Lions and the latter went into a 3-1 lead in the second only to see the Dukes run in four during the last period to grab a 5-4 verdict. Leading scorer for Toronto was James, with two, and Junkin, Harding and MacNabney had one each. For Brantford, Turner, Hewson, Davis, and Jeffreys shared the four goals.

Defenceman Emile (Butch) Bouchard, Canadiens, who scored two goals last night when Montreal whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3.

Captain Toe Blake, Canadiens, who collected one goal and two assists.

Lorne Carr, Toronto, who collected two of Leafs' three counters.

Art Jackson, Boston, who tallied Bruins' first goal and assisted in the final counter last night when his team thumped Chicago Black Hawks 6-4.

Herb Cain, Boston, who scored two goals.

Cully Dahlstrom, Chicago, who collected one of Chicago's goals and assisted another.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(AP)—If Sgt. Joe Louis and his travelling soldier-boxers want a real fight instead of exhibitions, Sgt. Allen Lacombe is ready to give it to them... He's issuing his challenge on behalf of his boxing team that recently won the Persian Gulf Service Command and the Middle East titles. Lacombe promises that Heavyweight Ralph Ivins, former Newark, N.J., pro; Lightweight Woodrow (Cock) Campbell of Meridian, Miss.; Welterweight Tony (Smokey) Williams of Hollister, Calif., and Middleweight Harold Augusta of St. Louis, will give the boys a real tussle.

During the recent fuss between Ray Dumont's National Baseball Congress and the National Amateur Baseball Federation about who should govern amateur baseball, someone asked President Dumont the definition of a "semi pro" club. ..."You tell me the difference between an amateur and a professional," countered Ray, "and I'll give you the definition of 'semi-pro'."

HURT ON ICE—Hitting the ice under the forceful impact of a Ranger player, Bruin Goalie Bert Gardiner, as seen at left, is temporarily knocked out. The doctors administer first aid to the injured goalie on the ice at Madison Square Garden where the two teams met. Gardiner was able to get back into the game and help his team defeat the Rangers, 13-3.

Soldiers Want Baseball News

By FORD C. FRICK
(President of the National Baseball League)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP).— No one knows how the developments of 1944 will shape the programs of baseball.

We faced 1943 with the determination to carry through a pennant race as near like peace-time as could be done while giving full co-operation to the High Command in war economies, transportation emergencies, drives for war funds and war bonds, and the various other contingencies as they came up.

The testimony from all fronts was that the army and navy found the news from the baseball leagues as popular a topic of interest and argument as in their civilian days. They rooted for their home team with the same zeal, even though some of their home team's brightest stars were out of the line-up for the duration, perhaps even the more enthusiastically because those stars had joined up.

We played our schedule last year with teams composed mainly of men who were fathers before the United States entered the war, some 4-F's, some plus-38's, some sub-19's. We face a season coming up in which the outlook is for fewer of the family men in our line-ups, more of the other groups.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The 1944 revival of the Los Angeles open golf tournament re-opening to-day has attracted 210 top-ranking aspirants and everybody is amazed including the sponsoring body, the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce which hung up $12,500 in war bonds for the event.

High-flight contenders include Craig Wood of New York, U.S. open champion; Ralph Guldahl of Santa Fe, open champ on two previous occasions; Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Massachusetts, winner of the last Philippine open championship before the Japanese took possession of the course; Sammy Byrd of Detroit, former New York Yankee; Byron Nelson, Toledo, Ohio, and Leo Diegel, Philadelphia, pro champion five times back in the 20's. One prominent competitor is Babe Didrickson Zaharias, former U.S. all-round track and field champion and wife of the former pro wrestler.

Defenceman Bob Dill of the Buffalo Bisons, who drew a suspension from President Podoloff of the American Hockey League for striking the referee at Pittsburg last week, has been secured by New York Rangers of the N.H.L. in a deal involving defenceman Gordie Davidson and Roger Leger. Dill will play against Detroit Red Wings Thursday night.

Commissioner Elmer Layden of the National Football League yesterday fined Owner G. P. Marshall of the Washington Redskins and General Manager Ralph Brizzolara of the Chicago Bears $500 each for an altercation at Wrigley Field, Chicago, during the league playoff Dec. 26.

It was announced at New York yesterday Bed Jones of Parnell, Mo., had earned the title of the turf's top trainer for the past year with his horses winning $267,915 during 1943. In the four years he has been conditioner of Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, Jones' entries have won $1,206,591.

Angelo Callura of Hamilton, Ont., and Allie Stoltz, Newark lightweight, were signed yesterday at New York for an eight-round bout at the St. Nicholas Arena, Jan. 12.

Judge Refuses To Evict Soldier's Wife

NEW YORK, Jan. 5— (AP). — In what was reported the first case of its kind in this area, Supreme Court Judge John E. McGeehan denied on Monday a landlord's plea for eviction of a soldier's wife who expects a baby soon.

The landlord sought to dispossess Mrs. Eve Schatzberg from her 1½-room apartment in the Bronx.

Mrs Schatzberg's husband Rudolph is stationed at Fort Meade, Md. Her lease expired August 10, she said, and the landlord refuses to renew it.

After Municipal Court Judge Christopher refused to dispossess Mrs. Schatzberg from her $36-month abode, counsel for the landlord asked Justice McGeehan to compel Judge McGrath to take such action.

Counsel for the landlord argued Mrs. Schatzberg was entitled to no special consideration as a soldier's wife since access to the apartment had been sought since last June, before her husband was inducted.

Judge McGrath himself came into the Supreme Court Chamber to plead to Justice McGeehan on the woman's behalf.

"Aside from the legal angle," said McGrath, "I appeal to you not to make me dip my pen into the blood of American soldiers and put this soldier's wife and unborn child on the street."

TAPERS FOR STIRRING—Born of the exigencies of war, many new Canadian industries are today making history in the field of industrial production. Accomplished in a space of a few short years this has changed Canada from an agricultural state to an industrial nation. One of these industries where optical glass is melted, ground and polished makes various optical instruments including range finders, gun sights and periscopes. In the picture above a trained pottery technician is engaged in making taper-like stirring rods for molten glass.

A German overseas news agency broadcast said today that Allied planes bombed Dubnitza in the southwest corner of Bulgaria yesterday, killing 60 and injuring 100 persons. There was no immediate Allied confirmation.

An Associated Press dispatch from Berne said the Bulgarian government had shaken up its diplomatic staff, naming important political leaders to the Tokyo and Stockholm ministries in an apparent move to place expert listeners in those posts for the critical days ahead.

Bombs Hit London

In these raids on Northern France R.C.A.F. fighters went along as escort and an R. A. F., communique announced that they damaged several enemy planes. All Canadian aircraft returned safely, the communique said.

The German news agency, D.N.B., said in a Berlin broadcast that the attack on Kiel was made through heavy cumulus clouds from altitudes of 20,000 to 27,000 feet and admitted that great damage has been caused.

The Germans sent a comparatively small number of planes over Britain last night, giving London a 32-minute air raid alarm —its first since last Sunday night. The bombs fell in one London district and in one area in the Home Counties, causing some damage and casualties.

Two of the enemy raiders were shot down.

A four-year-old boy was killed, while his brother, 6, and a girl 14 were injured when bombs wrecked several houses in a Home Counties village.

A fleeing raider was believed to have jetisoned his bombs in a southeast coast district, but the damage and casualties were slight.

Entire Saidor Area Held By 6th Army

By WILLIAM E. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

ABOARD A UNITED STATES NAVY LANDING SHIP OFF SAIDOR, NEW GUINEA, Jan. 5 (AP)—Troops from Lt.-Gen. Walter Krueger's United States 6th Army have achieved their primary objective in securing the entire Saidor area, including the emergency landing strip.

They have set up coastal defences and anti-aircraft batteries. Their patrols are working up the coast towards Madang and down the coast in the direction of Sio in search of Japanese.

Along the beach there are sandbagged anti-aircraft posts. In from the beach, roads hacked through by bulldozers are carrying a heavy traffic in army trucks, tractors and jeeps. Medical units have their ambulances ashore.

South of the landing point, patrols discovered an ammunition supply dump with at least 100 tons of ammunition.

Approve Plan To Set Up County Groups

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP)—Approval in principle of the establishment in Ontario of county agricultural committees similar to those in Britain is contained in a report from the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry made public yesterday by Agriculture Minister Kennedy.

The Commission, which reported that its study of the British system was continuing, suggested that in the province the committees be established in selected counties to gain experience in their operation before adoption of any province-wide plan. It also proposed that the committees be optional with each county, the decision on whether to organize to be reached at county meetings of all interested organizations.

None but farmers, retired farmers, farm women or officials of farm organizations should be appointed to the county committees, said the report, which suggested that Ontario Agricultural representatives be secretary-managers, that executive committees of not more than three each be paid a daily allowance in addition to expenses and that the Ontario Department of Agriculture bear all expenses of the committees.

A limit of 15 members was urged, with at least two of them women, one a representative of farm youth, one appointed by county council, one by the legislature member and the remainder by county farm organizations with the agricultural representative representing the government.

Winter Program For Farmers

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(CP).— A winter educational campaign to inform farmers of the value of farm commando labor during the 1944 season is recommended by the Special Labor committee of the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry in a report to Agriculture Minister Kennedy.

The report, which was made public to-day, suggested that meetings be held in rural areas to emphasize the work of the commandos and that field service officers be appointed to promote and assist the organization of voluntary groups of farmers to expedite distribution and placement of commando helpers in areas surrounding larger industrial areas. Standard rates of pay for commando labor were recommended.

A system of competitive scholarships to reward High school students for good farm sacrifice was urged. High school boards should have the option of keeping their schools closed until Sept. 30 and closing them for brief periods after that to meet any local harvesting demands.

It was suggested that before April 1 the Ontario farm service force supply High school principals in large urban centres with the approximate number of students needed from each school and then enter into agreements with the principals to make certain that experienced help remains on the farms as required after the re-opening of school.

Subject to the exceptions, the committee suggested High schools re-open about Sept. 11 next fall.

Germans from the Dnieper Bend has begun.

The military question for the moment is whether Von Mannstein has waited too long. Already Vatutin has swung deeply beneath his positions and generally, the Germans are badly outflanked from the west. The enemy is running the risk of a major military disaster if Vatutin can forge an encirclement.

The number of Germans strung out from the plains south of Belaya Tserkov to Nikopol presumably is at least 500,000. They presented a fairly solid front from the steppe south of Belaya Tserkov southeastward to Smela, Kirkovograd, Krivoi Rog and Nikopol. The main German weakness is on the flanks.

Trustees Unchanged

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 5— (ENS). — S.S. No. 11 held its annual meeting in the school house, and no changes were made in the trustees. Everett Cockburn, whose term was finished, was re-elected. Other trustees are Elmer Milburn and Ernest Mahood. A discussion was held regarding insulation, and the school is likely to be insulated.

Liberty Ships Weaken On Ocean Runs

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 — (AP). — A member of the House of Representatives Naval Affairs Committee on Monday quoted the skipper of two cracked Liberty ships as telling him:

"You can hear them crack like gunshots And the cracks, once started, run like a woman's stocking."

Representative Warren G. Magnuson (Dem.-Wash.) attributed the statement to Capt. August Eckholm who was master successively of two of the nine Liberty ships which the members of the Washington Congressional delegation have cited as having developed faults at sea or in port.

Magnuson, in an interview, added two more ships to the previously reported list and began an on-the-spot investigation of two of them which he said are undergoing repairs here.

He said Capt. Eckholm told him the ships were not sufficiently strengthened longitudinally. The skipper told him:

"These ships stand on a crest of a wave, with both ends shaking like jelly."

The ships added to the casualty list by Magnuson, bringing the alleged total to nine, were the S.S. Joseph Henry, which he said split while being loaded in an Alaskan port, and the S.S. Henderson Luelling, which sustained cleavage of deck plates. Capt. Eckholm was the master of both.

Ten men have been missing since the S.S. John P. Gained cracked in two in Alaskan waters late in November. No crew or passenger casualties were reported for any of the other ships.

Hitler Signs His Own Death Warrant

NEW YORK, Jan. 5—(AP)—Emil Ludwig, historian and biographer, said today Adolf Hitler's New Year proclamation to the German nation with "a victory for the Allies" and predicted it would lead to the Nazi leader's death.

"Hitler," said Ludwig in a letter to the Times, "is a moriturus (as good as dead) after this manifesto. The generals are well aware that it will cost him the last enthusiasts among his following. In these days the date of his death will be fixed."

Citing Hitler's words that "if millions of people no longer possess anything to lose, they can only gain something," Ludwig said the dictator "has never uttered more foolish words to a people he promised to lead to world dominion," and added:

"But the effect of his proclamation on the generals is still more important. . . . A military man forgives defeat because lost battles belong to a war, but a Junker will not back a helpless stumbler, an atheist who ends up his important jeers with a prayer to the 'Maker.' No Prussian general will take that from a king—or a leader."

Shotgun Shell Output Tripled

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Ammunitionless hunters will get a bang out of this announcement: The Prices Board says production of shotgun shells will show a threefold increase this year.

Making the announcement here last night, the Board said, however, that despite this increase production still will be slightly less than 70 per cent of a normal pre-war year's output. Thus, rationing will continue, with the needs of essential users coming first.

But there's hope for sportsmen in this sentence in the announcement: ".....The increased production planned for 1944 will allow distribution for sporting purposes later in the year."

Announcing also revision of its ration order, the Board said certain types of ammunition no longer being produced but of which there are still some stocks in dealer's hands will be removed from the ration.

Herbert Windsor Is Hurt In Crash

Herbert Windsor, Burleigh township, suffered a fractured arm and facial lacerations when the car he was driving collided with a wood truck at Burleigh Falls Tuesday evening.

A. L. Payne, Warsaw, was driving his truck south and Windsor who had his wife and another woman as passengers was travelling north. As the vehicles were passing each other Windsor's car collided with the rear of the wood truck, shattering the windshield.

Windsor was the only person injured in the crash, the two women escaping without injury. The truck was not damaged but the passenger car suffered considerably from the impact.

Trouble For Jews

NEW YORK Jan. 5.—(AP).—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said last night that Rumania had developed a scheme to extort ransom fees ranging from 150,000 to 800,000 lei ($1,155 to $6,160 at pre-war exchange rates) from Rumanian Jews now at forced labor on the Russian front.

Woollens Fund Repeats Aid For War Victims

One of the outgrowths of the very much accelerated work being done for charitable objects by all people in all walks of life as an outcome of the present conflict, are a number of Community Chests or funds now being operated by a number of the various industrial plants in the city, which, while they may vary as to operational plan or name, are in effect identical in character and might be all said to have one prime objective.

One of the pioneers in this particular addition to the industrial life is the Employees Community Chest Fund of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. where the plan was initiated by the management headed by David H. G. Melton, and since the plan in general has proved a real success, there can be no doubt that in some form or other, this feature has come to stay while any need for its objectives exist.

The Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has on a number of occasions benefitted from various plant funds in the city through these Community Chest Funds, some of them having appeared a number of times in the lists for the fund, among the latter of whom may be numbered the Community Chest Fund at the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. plant, whose further donation of $50.00 appears today through G. V. Hartshorn.

This marks the third time that the employees of this one plant have supported the fund in less than three months, it being only a short time ago that a contribution through their Milk Fund amounting to $100 was recorded towards the special donations raised for Christmas, all of which emphasizes all the more the good work they are doing in this particular manner.

The First of its Kind

A very great and varied number of different ways and means have been used as the basis for contributions to the fund, but it remains for a personal gift of $16.00 under the name of 'A Friend, receipt No. 3359, to unfold yet another after the fund has been in operation for over three years.

Help from the same source come to the fund on previous occasions, part of which came via a box kept handy for small change, but this time this was substantially added to by foregoing the custom of sending out cards for Christmas, the money that would have been thus spent finding a means through the fund of doing much good, which would surely find a responsive note of concurrence in the hearts of those who would have normally received a Christmas greeting in this manner.

Then a further personal gift is also noted in today's list from Mrs. W. R. Morris, keeping up an unbroken change chain for quite a time now in this essential part of the fund's activities.

Improved Labor Laws To Be Pressed For

Demands for improving federal laws on collective bargaining and plans for industrial reconversion are to be presented to the Ottawa government at the opening of parliament by a delegation of the United Electrical Workers (CIO) from a dozen Ontario communities it was announced today following a meeting of the District Executive of the union.

Approximately 50 unionists representing the 40,000 workers in plants organized by the union are planning the journey to Ottawa to seek interviews with the cabinet and members of the House.

In view of Premier King's announcement of forthcoming legislation on collective bargaining in war plants the union is asking that all workers be covered and protection be assured against unfair practices of employers who interfere with the free choice of a union by their employees.

The delegation, which will be composed of the entire district council of the union, backed by supporters from the communities in which the U.E. has organized local unions, will meet in Brockville for a week-end conference prior to proceeding to Ottawa.

C. S. Jackson, union president, who is to head the delegation, stated that the union wishes to impress upon the authorities that labor still regards the production of war materials as one of the most immediate responsibilities, and the attitude toward the demands of organized workers as seen in the recent wage order (P.C. 9384) amounts to "an undermining of workers' determination and morale in completing these vital war tasks by the post-war greed of the most reactionary elements among big business."

Clergyman Dies

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP)—Rev. Robert Stewart, 83, for 58 years in the ministry of the Presbyterian and United Church in Canada died in hospital last night after an illness of two weeks. Born in Lachute, Que., he held Ontario pastorates in Ottawa, Melbourne, Avonbank, Motherwell, and Dutton. A son, Harvey, lives in Ridgetown, Ont.

IN WASHINGTON—Pte. Margaret Henderson of the C.W.A.C., has returned to her post at Washington, D.C., after spending a leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Henderson, Otonabee.

Why Do People Neglect Prayer Minister Asks

A large congregation attended St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening in the second of the Week of Prayer services. Dr. J. D. Smart conducted the worship and was assisted by Dr. G. S. Easton, who led in prayer. The junior choir sang an anthem, "Pass It On," with M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., at the organ. Mrs. A. R. Bennett and Mrs. Frank Board sang a duet.

The general theme for the Week of Prayer is "The Nurture of the Christian Life." In his second address Dr. W. J. Gallagher, of Toronto, stressed the practice of prayer, taking as his text, "Men ought always to pray."

"Here the very highest authority we have gives us an exhortation to pray, yet the practice of prayer is falling into disuse among modern Christians," Dr. Gallagher declared. "That is difficult to understand in view of the universality of prayer. In some form prayer is found everywhere in all ages, among all peoples, at all stages of religious development. Mankind never outgrows it as it is latent in everyone. It is instinctive and natural. The neglect of prayer is difficult to understand in view of the custom of Jesus Christ. Throughout His life, ordinarily and in crisis, He turned to God in prayer.

"Why do men neglect prayer? The reasons most commonly given fall into two classes, intellectual difficulties and experiential. Does God care for the individual in a world so vast? Astronomically speaking man is insignificant. Can prayer count in a world of law? If God is wise and good, why do we need to pray to Him for benefits and blessings? So often we do not receive what we ask for. Our experience with prayer has been disappointing.

"The questions raised by these perplexities and disappointments must be answered. Astronomically speaking man is the astronomer. What know we greater than the soul? Can prayer count in a world of law? What if prayer itself is an instance of law? We must understand the Christian idea of God and the Christian conception of prayer. Prayer pre-supposes the Christian faith in God as the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. We must pray for things agreeable to God's will and in the name of Christ. Prayer is communion with our Heavenly Father. In wartime we must pray as Christians. Such prayer is never unanswered. If we are not finding the Christian testimony about prayer verified in our own lives, we should ask ourselves if it may not be for some other reason, such as sin. Sin separates us from God. Another reason is lack of effort and training. The instinct of prayer must be trained and cultivated if it is to realize its possibilities. We must set aside time for prayer and have places and aids to devotion. If we will do this we may find prayer a means of grace for the nurture of the Christian life."

The service this evening will be held in All Saints' Anglican Church.

Salvation Army Wants Blankets Overcoats To Clothe Russians Freed From Nazi Yoke

The local campaign to collect warm clothing for bombed-out civilians and those who have suffered the terrors of Nazi occupation in Russia proceeded at a modest pace through Christmas week, but now that the holidays are over collections have begun to pick up and sponsors of the drive are optimistic of a good return.

The campaign, which began two days before Christmas, runs on until the end of this week and it is being directed by Major A. Dixon of the Salvation Army. Collections are received at the Salvation Army Sunday School on Aylmer street opposite the Fire Hall, then packed up and shipped on to Toronto, headquarters of the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund. This committee received permission from the Government last month to conduct a drive in various communities which would bring in supplies of warm clothing for Russian women and children who have lost their possessions through the disasters of warfare on the Eastern Front, and it assumes responsibility for sending the relief goods on their way.

Some Money Given

"A fair amount of suitable warm clothing has reached us up to date," Major Dixon said this morning, "and the first days of this week showed a substantial increase in the rate of collections. A few who did not have any clothing to contribute have brought in a little money instead."

He said that the Fund was especially interested in getting overcoats, blankets and warm winter underclothing for mothers and children. Living in bombed towns or those who have been under the Nazi yoke from early in the war until the Russian westward surge began last summer.

Pattenick Store Prosecuted For Staying Open

The city's early closing bylaws were the cause of another long legal battle today in police court when Harry Schwartz, was charged as occupier of the Pattenick store with violating the bylaw in regard to the hours during which ladies' ready-to-wear stores must be closed.

It was alleged in the indictment that he had neglected to close the store during prohibited hours on the night of Saturday, December 11.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted and Schwartz was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C.

City Clerk E. A. Outram was the first witness called by the prosecution. He proved the passing of the bylaw in regard to ladies' ready-to-wear stores and the advertisement in regard to the same that had appeared in the Examiner.

He was cross-examined at length by Mr. Carley as to the petition that had been circulated and other details in connection with the passing of the bylaw.

The city clerk said in regard to three names on the list that had been marked off by drawing a line through them, that he had explained to those interested in circulating the petition that they must confine their petition to ladies' ready-to-wear stores.

Mr. Outram said that he understood that W. Pattenick was the proprietor of the store and that Schwartz was the manager.

Morris Black, who circulated the petition, was called by Mr. Huycke and testified that Schwartz after first declining to sign the petition had afterwards done so.

Witness said in answer to a question from Mr Huycke said that he was not in a position to definitely state what was the principal business of the Pattenick store.

To Mr. Carley the witness said that when the petition was circulated it had also contained the words "and dry goods stores" at the top of the petition. Those words had been on it when Schwartz signed it and also when the other signatures had been made.

Later after consultation with the city clerk, he said, the reference to dry goods stores was stricken out and three names that had been on the petition, those of R. J. Goring, C. Wasson and R. A. Grafstein had been deleted, because it was felt that they belonged in dry goods list.

The court adjourned for luncheon at this stage.

Greek War Fund Wants Donations

The public is reminded of the appeal that is being made to Canadians on behalf of the Greek War Relief Fund for clothes and shoes, especially for children up to the age of fifteen.

Many of the citizens of Peterborough have already responded to this new effort to help the people of Greece. Some of them have carried parcels to one or other of the local stores conducted by former residents of Greece, and others have given money.

The appeal is nationwide and has been authorized by the Department of National War Services. A letter from the national committee of the Greek War Relief Fund mentions the scarcity of shoes and the fact that they cannot be obtained from wholesalers. "It is most important therefore that you do all you can for children up to the age of fifteen."

Will Make Repairs

A local committe has arranged to repair both clothing and boots that will be forwarded to Montreal, and the public is assured that their contributions will be delivered through the channels that are open to this cause of the stricken people of Greece. Many homes in Peterborough have used clothing and boots that have been discarded but are good enough to serve the purpose of relief. It is so little to part with and yet can be of so much use to a people who have been reduced to dire poverty by the Germans.

The authorities have permitted this appeal to continue beyond December 31, but its expiration cannot be put off much longer. For that reason those who wish to help the Greeks are urged to make their contributions as soon as possible.

MAYOR-ELECT — On Monday Oshawa voters elected A. Gordon Davis as mayor with a majority of 911 over R. D. Humphries. Mr. Davis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis, 622 Donegal street, Peterborough, and a brother of Harold Davis, Charlotte street service station owner, has been a member of the council for the past three years.

City Fuel Wood Expected To Last Winter

Continuing mild weather all through the Christmastide and extending into this first week of the new year has been a helpful factor in the city's fuelling problem.

"In fact our business was nearly dead during the week before Christmas," Welfare Officer Metheral told the Examiner to-day. "However, it is picking up again. We delivered twenty-five cords Monday and fifteen Tuesday, and we have now enough on hand to feel just about certain that we have enough on hand or in sight to carry us comfortably through the winter and possibly have a few cords left over."

The special fuel committee of the council, of which Alderman Glover is chairman, is inclined to share Mr. Metheral's optimism. By the deal the committee made with Ernest C. Braund, fifty-four cords of hardwood are rolling into the city's yard every day.

Wood All Cut.

"That's working out fine," Mr. Metheral said. "I believe the wood is all cut. I was out the other day, and they certainly have a lot of it piled and waiting to move. They have six trucks, each with three cords, and making three trips a day. That is fifty-four cords daily from Ernie Braund.

Then Clarke Rollins of Coe Hill, is delivering about three truck loads a day. We have been unloading cars of dry hardwood from Gooderham. In fact I had a letter this morning that another car was due in to-day."

Good Planning.

This may be regarded as a midwinter report to the ratepayers of the emergency the council set out to meet about the end of last summer. The committee was equipped with ample authority, and the wood pile that has been steadily extending in the city's yards is evidence of the effective connection and agreements Mr. Metheral made in his autumn cruising.

Members of the council are no longer anxious about the city's fuel supply. They feel that they have now enough hardwood on hand to supply the local demand providing deliveries are maintained throughout the winter and that the dealers apportion it as required by the coal authorities.

North Monaghan Man Is Bailed For Trial

Wheeler Windsor, North Monaghan, was bailed for trial by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Tuesday afternoon after the crown's evidence in a charge against him of stealing $26 from the person of Thomas Hughes had been heard.

The case had started out as a summary trial but Magistrate Langley announced later that he proposed to treat it as a preliminary inquiry and Windsor was bailed for trial without any defence evidence being called.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. appeared for Windsor and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Police Seeking Hit-Run Drivers

TRENTON, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP).—Provincial police said today search is being carried out in the Trenton and Belleville areas for a car which struck two airmen from Toronto on the highway near the Trenton R.C.A.F. station last night. The airmen—AC.2 S. T. Holt and AC.2 E. E. Guest—were taken to hospital suffering fractures and concussion. Both are said to be in serious condition. They were unconscious when picked up by two passing motorists, R. Rus of Belleville and Gilbert Clegg of Trenton.

Sobering Fact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP).—The Office of War Information, ina sobering report on the war, reminded the United States last night that "we are still 3,000 miles from Tokyo" and there are no signs that either Germany or Japan lacks the weapons or the morale to fight a long time.

Wartime Houses Pays $14,802 Into Treasury

Wartime Housing Limited recently paid their outstanding tax account with the city, forwarding a cheque for $14,802 to the treasury.

The fact was incidentally and somewhat indignantly mentioned to the Examiner by H. S. Longhurst, administrator for Wartime Housing. A recent comment in the Examiner, reporting that the tenants of the two local housing areas were qualified to vote at the municipal elections, that the assessment department had inscribed their names in the voters list, although the Crown company had not paid a dollar of tax money to the city.

Enquiry from City Treasurer Shaver confirms the Longhurst report. The cheque came through on December 7, and was placed to the account of $14,802, and possibly may contribute to a financial surplus which may be shown when City Treasurer Shaver has a complete statement ready for the council and the public.

Small Item

Apparently mere $14,000 cheques are not figurative enough to create a stir of excitement in Mr. Shaver's office. At any rate it was not mentioned around the city hall, but in consideration of the Wartime Housing tenants it should be announced now that the taxes on their properties have been fully paid.

Actually, the company was simply fulfilling their agreement to make a certain payment to the city "in lieu of taxes." They had suggested a yearly payment of two sums, $30 and $24 respectively, on the two types of houses which they erected at Burnham's Point and at Park Hill Road. Peterborough and other cities had protested that the arrangement was not agreeable, especially when it was realized that the annual amount did not begin to pay for the service of education, apart from the other accommodations which the two urban communities received.

However, municipalities finally decided to accept the substitute payment, and the money was received in December. It was a silent settlement of a disputed detail of the temporary housing plan, as compared with the sharply controversial opinions which had been declared at meetings of the councils when members were holding out for the full measure of taxation.

C.G.E. Pays $2,488 For Suggestions

The largest amount ever awarded in any one month for valuable suggestions connected with company production was paid out to employees of the Canadian General Electric Company during December by its Suggestion committee. Awards totalling $2,488.25 and ranging in value from $340 to $2 were made to many employees of the Peterborough Works who contributed worthwhile ideas that would improve or speed up production.

Company checks were issued to the winning suggestors in time for Christmas.

Among the employees whose ideas found merit with the Suggestion committee were A. Daniels of the Plastics Department and H. C. Florence of the Aircraft Instruments. The former won $150 for suggesting a clamping tool for removing fuse bodies; the latter received a check for $148 as the result of working out an improved method or re-grinding and polishing aircraft instrument parts.

Earl Ephgrave and Alex Archer of the Punch Press each got $57 for an idea suggested jointly by them, and J. Orde of the Induction Motor Winding Department turned in a suggestion for reslotting commutators after stripping, that was worth $60 in prize money. W. W. Jordan of Cord Set suggested an improvement in the method of manufacturing R.C.A.F. cord sets, and his Christmas present amounted to $52.50.

There were numerous additional awards at $45, $35, $25, $20 and so on, down to the many minimum awards of $2.

2 Planes Collide

AYLMER, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP)—During routine flying operations at No. 14 S.F.T.S. yesterday two Harvard training machines collided in the air. One of the student pilots is dead and another student and two instructors are injured but are expected to recover. The machines were said to have been coming in for a landing on the runways and were not more than 30 feet in the air. One injured is PO. John Sweet of Aylmer.

Deaconess Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Miss Alice Evalena Large, deaconess-nurse of the United Church of Canada, died here yesterday. She had been retired for 12 years. Born in Listowel, Ont., Miss Large was with churches in St. John's, Nfld., Montreal and Hamilton Ont. prior to joining the staff of the Fred Victor Mission in Toronto.

GONE ACROSS—Gnr. Cletus W. Condon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Condon, who enlisted with the Royal Canadian Engineers, is now serving overseas. Before enlisting he was an employee of the C.G.E., and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Heffernan of Peterborough, and is living here.

$4,248 Surplus Reported By School Board

The tag ends of the year's business were cleared up at the final meeting of the old Board of Education meeting on Tuesday night and the secretary-treasurer, J. E. Huggins presented a brief summary of the financial status of the Board for 1943, which showed a surplus of $4,248.45, in the general account.

In addition to this surplus, there is $405.50 in the cadet account, which is being carried over until this organization becomes active again, and there is also $60 which is used for the purchase of War Savings stamps. The report explained that regarding the general account, the surplus this year may not be as large as expected, because at the beginning of the year, the estimates were pared down much closer than had been done in the past and unexpected expenses arose.

The Board received $3,193.96 less from the County of Peterborough than had been figured on. The Night School salaries were increased by approximately $1,000 by granting a raise in the rate from $4 to $5 a night. The car allowances of $400 ordinarily paid in January, were settled in December of 1943. Other unforseen expenses were brought about by the fuel situation, Mr. Huggins declared. The fuel account is approximately $1,400 over the amount estimated. At the beginning of the year it was expected to carry over a fair amount of coal, but be-

Public Schools Have 2,919

With an average attendance of 84.61 per cent Prince of Wales School headed the list of the city's Public Schools in attendance records for the month of December, it was reported by Inspector K. S. Wightman to the Board of Education on Tuesday evening. Queen Alexandra School was second with 84.40 per cent, Central had 83.62, King George 83.10, and Queen Mary 79.61 per cent. Total on the roll of the city's six Public Schools was 2,919 with an average attend- of $599.26.

During the month the pupils sold War Savings Stamps to the value of $599.'5.

Principal C. S. Browne reported an academic attendance at the Peterboough Collegiate and Vocational School of 93.92 pe cent and a vocational attendance of 90.56 per cent.

In his report on teachers absent through illness, Inspector Wightman reported eleven teachers away for a total of 53½ days, and Principal Browne one teacher one day.

School Attendance Officer Fred Revoy reported investigating 26 pupils through illness and 31 for home help. Five parents were cautioned and the children are now attending school and an employment certificate was granted to a boy and girl. Approximately 210 calls were made during the month. Of these 32 were in connection with the school dental work.

cause of the exceptional cold last winter, it was all used up. New supplies bought in 1943 had to be taken at market price, which was considerably higher than the Board had been paying under quotations.

Detailed Report Later

This report takes into consideration only the larger amounts involved. With a few exceptions, the smaller accounts are fairly even and not much difference is shown either one way or the other. The salary accounts are all under the estimates. Numerous entries have yet to be made, closing out all the work orders and also transferring teachers' superannuation. As soon as this can be done, a true statement can be presented, Mr. Huggins concluded.

A letter from the Board's solicitors about the proposed annexation which it is hoped will soon be settled was discussed briefly. It was pointed out that the agreement for children from Wartime Housing attending city schools was good only until the end of 1943. D. V. Canning asserted that the children could not be let out and it was moved by Mr. Canning and D. G. H. Melton that the children be allowed to continue until the end of the present term.

Schools Have Part

Mr. Melton, who is retiring from the Board of Education this year, touched briefly on the future role which the secondary schools will be expected to play in post war rehabilitation for men and women in the armed forces.

"The government is making definite provision for university and vocational training and it is my impression that definite strides are being made towards the expansion of vocational training. But what services will be used and will plant or vocational schools be instigated, is a question of interest to every Board of Education. The government intends to make use of existing vocational schools and where it is merited, plant schools. Provision is being made for large numbers and it is not too early to secure information and plan for the future. Many young people may be in these courses for at least 12 months.

"I am just afraid that in spite of the good intentions of those handling the rehabilitation scheme, it may drift into the hands of department heads and bog down."

"We have written about the number of machines we wish to put in operation in the school following the war, but no one seems to have given any thought as to where they will find space for them," F. Reed observed dryly.

The secretary was authorized to write to the Regional Director connected with postwar civil reestablishment under the Department of National Pensions, requesting the fullest information possible about the ramifications of the scheme and the probable demands to be made upon the schools.

Inspector K. Wightman sought authority from the Board to continue the existing arrangement about supply teachers. Miss Richardson's leave of absence which has been extended for one month, will keep Mrs. Doris Brotherston in her room. Mrs. J. Telford will continue in Miss Esther Deyell's room for the next six months. Because this leaves the schools without supply teachers, with the number on leave of absence, Miss B. Thompson, who was to have left at the end of December has consented to remain on until the first of February.

Sorry To Leave

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Kate Morris expressed regret that she was giving up the work which she had enjoyed for many years. She said that her chief reason for entering the board was that she felt the responsibility for educating the youth of the country should be shared by men and women.

"This view point was new to many 20 years ago, but now is generally accepted, and women are recognized on a Board of Education as partners in the work. Several times in the past years I have endeavoured to find a second woman but was unsuccessful until this year."

She paid tribute to Mrs. R. Parnall, saying that her experience of many years qualifies her to accept such a position. She has been an active member of the Home and School for 25 years and has had four children graduate from the schools, and has been broadened by association with those engaged in educational work in the province. Mrs. Florence Harris, should also make a worthwhile contribution along with Mrs. Parnall, she commented.

"The mental contacts I have made here have been profitable and the occasional clash of wills enjoyable."

At their last get-together, the members put into force a New Year's resolution which they have been trying to carry out for 12 months. The motion for adjournment came at 9 o'clock. The sessions have been prolonged usually between 10:30 and 11 o'clock and the early closing hour was so unusual that the members hardly knew what to do with the extra two hours.

Ban On Razors Lifted By Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP). — The United States War Production Board today authorized unlimited production of razors and razor blades.

The order revoked previous regulations which limited the manufacture of metal safety razors to orders for the armed forces, and lifted an absolute ban on production of straight razors and severe limitations on fabrication of safety razor blades.

Last week the W.P.B. authorized the production of 2,000,000 electric irons and 50,000 bathtubs for 1944.

Obituary

LANCELOT NICHOLSON

There passed away on Monday at his home in South Monaghan Lancelot Nicholson, a highly respected farmer of the district. Mr. Nicholson's passing came very suddenly for he died after retiring for the night. Born in England 85 years ago, the son of the late John Nicholson and Elizabeth Rutherford, he came to Canada at the age of 26 and settled in South Monaghan.

He was a faithful member of the Bensfort United Church.

Predeceased by his wife 24 years ago he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. R. Bullock of Lakefield, Mrs. George Thorne of Millbrook and Miss Mary at home, and two sons, Harry of South Monaghan and Almanson on the homestead; also one brother, John of Rochester, and two sisters, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Simpson of England.

The funeral will be held on Thursday, January 6, at two o'clock from the family residence with interment in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

Endorse Voting Plan

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP)—Two more Ontario cities, Chatham and Kitchener, have endorsed a recent London move to bring extension to present advance polling privileges "to any citizen legitimately unable to be in the city on election day," City Clerk K. G. Crawford said yesterday. The office of Premier George Drew also acknowledge receipt of the motion. City council of Niagara Falls and Sudbury previously endorsed the resolution.

OPPOSED TO WAR

Seafaring New Englanders were so opposed to the war of 1812 that they talked about seceding from the union.

War Teaches Visitors About Cockneys

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP). —As a young fellow, we got to know about the Cockneys much the same way that hand-me-down gossip taught that MacDonald was good and Laurier was bad, our folks being Conservative for years back. They were just part of the family legend that everybody came by at one time or another.

Then we came to London and, well, all we can say is that the next generation is going to hear more about Cockneys and less about politics. The Cockneys will lend themselves to narrative because every kid has heard about them anyway, so there is a basis.

We can add a lot, though, from personal experience.

Khaki Jim, for instance, will be a thundering specimen after three or four generations on the family tongue. He is amazing in the flesh but even he can benefit from the influence of legend.

Khaki Jim is a lanky individual, gaunt in face and in body. He goes about with a beard that starts off grey and ends up white and stops about an inch out as though it is in difficulties of decision.

Khaki Jim wears clothes that would be better off if they had never gone beyond the imagination of some 1920 tailor but their most striking offnote is the fact that he has entirely civilian dress with the exception of the khaki tunic he has had since the last war. That is where he got the nickname.

The last we heard of him he was carrying around mail addressed to "the manager of Hyde Park Step-Ladders."

He was proud of the job. It gave him a certain authority over the people who want to spout off in the park and need a ladder to do it well.

There is also Joe, the bus conductor, who is lonely for peace for a strange reason.

Joe's bus runs along Oxford street early in the morning and for years Joe amused himself greatly in daily conversation with the scrubwomen going to work in the big department stores along that way.

When the war came and there was all sorts of work and, one by one, the scrubwomen got better jobs until only Mary was left, and she had a hare-lip. Mary conducts a spirited conversation despite her disability and Joe appreciates her, but its not the same.

In fact, Joe is so lonely for the old days he is thinking of taking Mary to wife, so there won't be anything left in the mornings to remind him of old times.

Too Much Money

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 4—(AP). —County Tax Collector H. E. Overstreet says he is returning an average of seven cheques daily sent in for tax payments by persons who already have paid their assessments. "I send them a bill, and they send me a cheque," Overstreet explained. "Then I send them a receipt, and they send it back with another cheque. Collections are good — almost too good."

Citizens Bother Brother Of Montgomery

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5.—(CP). — Being a brother of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery has its drawbacks, D. S. Montgomery, Vancouver barrister, admitted to-day, agreeing with Capt. Rev. Colin Montgomery, another brother, who was quoted in a London dispatch as saying "this reflected glory is becoming a bit of a nuisance."

"Publicity was particularly intense during the African campaign," said Mr. Montgomery, who came to Vancouver 34 years ago.

"At that time people were stopping me on the street just to express their appreciation of what my brother was doing. Many of them I had never seen before.

"I had several requests for his autograph. I also had a number of letters from people of the same family name—particularly easterners—who are trying to trace their family history to show its connections with ours."

Mr. Montgomery, who served in the First Great War with the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, last saw the General during a visit to the family home at Moville, Donegal, Ireland, in 1937.

Bomber Range

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP) —The lake area off Port Bruce, nine miles south of Aylmer, is to become a bombing range for pilots of the fleet air arm training scheme at Aylmer.

Two industries at Port Bruce, the Brown Fisheries, and the Wannicott Fisheries, stand to be affected by this arrangement.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Bill Cowley who, barring accidents, will set a new all-time scoring mark in the N.H.L. this season has already broken one record....The Boston star had two assists last night giving him a total of 258, two more than Frankie Boucher's record set up in 12 seasons....Herbie Cain also promises to give the goal-scoring mark a real challenge....He has already scored 26 goals in 25 games this season. ....Bob Davidson of the Leafs was hurt in last night's game at Montreal and his services may be lost for some time....The Toronto gang can hardly afford to have players of Davidson's calibre out of action....Big Bill Stack the Bowmanville grappler who won over Art Kovacs in the opening bout at the Brock last night is only 19....He is built like a brick ice-house and Phil Lawson predicts a bright future in the wrestling game for the big fellow....Oshawa Generals go on winning. They stopped the St. Catharines team on the Saints' home ice last night 7 to 5.

All such advertisements may continue to be published in the usual fashion and without approval.

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

GNR. BUSTER KELLY

Gnr. D. A. (Buster) Kelly, son of Michael Kelly who has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. D. O'Brien at the Waterworks has arrived in Africa. He enlisted in November 1942 and went overseas in April 1943. Prior to joining up he worked at the paper mills in Glen Millar.

A great deal has been written in this column about what Canadians think of the English people, but this week the tables are turned and the opinion formed by a British soldier about the Canadians who passed through his hands, is recorded.

The writer is Capt. R. Barker, garrison engineer of the Royal Engineers, who is a brother of Mrs. R. Whalon, 585 Homewood Ave., expressed tthe opinion that the Canadian troops are the finest lot of fellows he has had in the camp and that is a lot to say after four years of war. They appreciate everything that is done for them and are splendidly fit.

"I am proud to be associated with them and I particularly like the way in which the officers and men work and mix together. It is so different from the English Army."

Capt. Barker is despensible for the billeting and accommodation of troops in his camp, and a man who has spent 34 years in the Army can be expected to speak with considerable authority, when he is used to handling all types of soldiers.

In the same vein, Gnr. W. B. Livingstone, son of Mrs. Bruce Livingstone, 281 Perry street, who is overseas, sent home a poem written by an English woman and called "Salute to Canada."

"Canada's sons, the Atlantic crossed,
When civilization to the world seemed lost;
And Hitler thought he could impose
The Swastika on England's Rose.

"They stand proudly beside us
These men of the Maple Leaf,
Relying on God to guide us
And save the world from grief.

"Canada, we salute you now
May Allied victory soon be won,
And the Nazis heads in penance bow
Their evil work, for all time undone."

Cadet John Frederick Frank, recently began work in his second and final year as a cadet at the Royal Canadian Naval College near Victoria. After he finishes his rigorous scholastic and technical course next July, he hopes to become a sea-going midshipman and eventually a permanent commissioned officer in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Born in Picton, he lived in Detroit for five years, then for five years in Toronto before the family moved to Peterborough. In 1942 he completed his senior matriculation studies at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. Cadet Frank is the son of Capt. R. W. Frank of the Canadian Army Dental Corps. Fond of hockey, sailing and other sports, he was very active in school life.

FO. ARTHUR MENAUL

Twice mentioned in despatches following outstanding achievements while on duty over the Atlantic is the record of Flying Officer Arthur Menaul of Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Menaul. He sighted an enemy U-boat at the same time as his senior officer who was at the controls. They made a perfect attack in spite of rain, fog and enemy fire. Some months ago FO Menaul dropped a radio from a plane to survivors in a lifeboat which enabled them to reach safety.

Sgt. Muriel Robertson of the C.W.A.C., daughter of Canon and Mrs. W. P. Robertson, 95 Brock street, had to join the Army to see Canada from coast to coast. She has just returned from a trip which took her all the way from British Columbia back to Prince Edward Island, with the C.W.A.C. Pipe Band and Brass Band.

Some of the highlights which she recalls are related in the Army's "Letters From Nickey" and a few of them are listed here.

In Quebec just as the two bands were marching past the Cenotaph the news of Italy's surrender was made public. Another memorable page in the history of the trip was written in Halifax when the band girls had the unexpected privilege of catching a glimpse of Prime Minister Churchill, surrounded by his chiefs of staff near the public gardens. In reply to the girls frenzied cheers, he gave them the "V" salute.

The warmest welcome of the tour was given the Band at Dartmouth, N.S., where the people turned out almost to the last man and gave them an ovation that none of these girls will ever forget. The Pipe Band was taken on a trip to Cape Breton Island where they toured the harbor in a boat.

Sgt. Robertson said the Band girls developed one peculiarity on the trip, and they had not been on tour long before they had developed a passion for novelty dolls and insisted on ransacking every city en route for them. She describes it as a most whimsical sight to see the girls lining up on the platform, their costume dolls clutched firmly in their arms.

FLT. LIEUT. IAN McINTOSH

A winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross is Flt. Lt. McIntosh, son of Rev. F. H. McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh of Lindsay. Flt. Lt. McIntosh is a graduate of the Lindsay Collegiate and was engaged in instruction work for the British Government in New York when he answered his call and enlisted at Montreal, where he was employed for a number of years He received his training in Nova Scotia, St. Johns, N.B., and Oshawa.

Miss Dorothy Mills, 609 Young street, a student at the Collegiate Institute, has received a letter from her uncle, Pte. Hank Simmonds in Italy, who was formerly employed at the Peterborough Canoe Company before enlisting with the Irish Regiment of Canada. He went overseas in March, 1943, and has only arrived in Italy recently.

"The first place where we stopped was in an unimpressive district. The buildings are built in something which ressembles Mexican architecture, square with curved archways for doorways. The backyards are enclosed with high walls, forming what they refer to as "courtyards." Poverty is plainly seen in many parts of Italy, in that the people are poorly clad and filthy. They appear to take no personal pride in themselves and the government they have been living under so long has left its mark.

"We travelled to our present camp through mountains and valleys which remind me of our own Rockies. There are fertile valleys with properous looking farms and nice buildings. The chief thing grown seems to be olives. They are in orchards, something like the fruit district in Niagara. There are also oranges, walnuts, peanuts, figs, apples and almonds grown, as well as grapes. We can buy these for lires, which is the money in use here. A lire is worth a little more than a cent."

He wrote that the Y.M.C.A. had opened up near him and that they had shows, writing rooms, and occasionally tea and refreshments. He said the men were not allowed much freedom, because there might be trouble, since no one trusts the people very far. Although it is winter, they have had no snow, but a lot of rain. When the sun shines, it is cool, but nice.

Pte. Simmonds is a brother of Mrs. V. Mills, Young street, and for a time worked with Mr. Mills in the decorating business.

Peterborough boys overseas are most appreciative of the boxes they are sent. Spr. T. C. Webster, received a parcel December 4 from the Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary and the I.O.D.E. and he wrote that the contents were of the utmost use to service personnel overseas, and that these acts of kindness were really appreciated by the boys "over there." Pte. Emerald R. Post of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, who spent his third Christmas overseas, received a box with the name of Mrs. K. Kingston for which he sent his thanks. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Post, 133 Romaine street.

HE CAN'T HELP YOU

IF YOUR partner had passed up one chance to overcall the opponents and later cut in with a bid of his suit at a higher level, it should be perfectly clear that he has virtually nothing except a long suit and very little in high cards. Even if you don't fit his suit at all, it is extremely risky for you to try bidding a suit of your own then, especially if it has to be at a higher level than his, for he has warned you his hand can't assist yours at all.

North's bid cost his side plenty of points. If he had passed, and the opponents had seen fit to play against South's 3-Hearts, the defense, by leading trumps, probably would have taken a total of seven tricks, setting him three, which would have meant 800 points if doubled and only 300 if not, or they might have gone ahead and bid a spade game which, if made, would be worth roughly about 620 points. So at the worst the result could not have been too bad.

But at 4-Diamonds, the contract was one higher, and also one more trick got made against it. The defenders took from him three with diamonds, two in hearts and three in spades, a total of eight. That put the contract down five tricks, for a total of 1400 points, a real disaster.

South's bid of 3-Hearts was risky enough. North's call of 4-Diamonds was nothing but a case of hopping from the frying pan into the fire.

Russian Girls Win Acclaim From Stalin

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (AP) — Marshal Stalin, who in course of war has greeted all kinds of people from chiefs of state to simple Russian peasants, is looking forward to shaking the hands of four little girls who have become supreme patriots.

These girls are named Svetlana, Lily, Galina and Valentina.

The story of their underground activities is thrilling all Moscow at the moment. They were in the province of Kharkov during the Nazi occupation, and in a small way, carried on a campaign that gave the Gestapo plenty of worry.

All four are members of the Young Pioneers League—an organization of the Soviet open to girls 10-14 years old.

They produced a "wall newspaper" which they pasted up in a remote section of the city where German guns had blown down most of the buildings.

Pasted On Wall

Once the paper was up the little girls would go along the streets and say to Soviet women, "Auntie, I know where you can find some wood for your stove. Look over by the ruined houses."

In this way they drummed up quite a bit of circulation for their paper.

At another time they pasted up pictures of Lenin, Stalin and President Kalinin. They drew and posted some childish but nevertheless unmistakably rude cartoons of the Gestapo and German teachers. They organized a meeting of children on a cliff overlooking the Kharkov Zoo and audaciously sang the "Internationale."

Once they decorated the graves of the unknown Russian dead. A German soldier caught Valentina in the act and punished her with a slap in the face.

A Soviet official who heard of their deeds and brought the news back to Moscow said the girls still were getting out a paper when he met them and they bashfully tried to hide their ink-stained hands.

"Don't hide your hands, little girls," said the official from Moscow. "Everyone, even the general and Stalin himself, is going to shake them."

Two Policemen Held For Theft

HAMILTON, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Two Hamilton police constables, Charles Becker and William Northcott, were convicted by Magistrate James McKay to-day of theft and remanded to Thursday for sentence.

Originally they were charged with breaking and entering the J. R. Geddes hardware store and stealing $44 and a quantity of goods, but the charges were reduced. Crown Attorney Harvey McCulloch told the court: "These men were chosen as protectors of the public, and instead, on at least this one occasion, preyed upon the public."

Cheese Gradings Show Increase

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Cheese gradings in Ontario and Quebec increased 75.1 per cent in the week ended January 1 compared with the same period a year ago, the Agriculture Department said to-day.

Gradings for the week this year year totalled 10,944 boxes against 6,250. Since November 29, gradings for the two provinces have totalled 69,169 boxes, a gain of 14 per cent over the some period last year.

The most notable gain was shown by Quebec, which produced 6,017 boxes in the week ended January 1 compared with 1,693 last year.

Winter cheese production has been encouraged by a subsidy of 30 cents a 100 pounds of milk used in the manufacture of cheddar cheese, made payable on October 1 and continuing until April 30.

Under exixsting contract, Canada seeks to provide 150,000,000 pounds of cheese to the United Kingdom over a year period which ends shortly. Due to poor weather conditions and a greatly enlarged demand for fluid milk, cheese production was down in earlier months of the contract year and it is not anticipated British requirements will be met in full.

Fire Destroys Alabastine Plant

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Damage from fire which raged all night through the plant of the Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine Co., in suburban Scarborough, was estimated to-day at $50,000.

Fire Chief Thomas Love of Scarborough, said that the building and 1,500 tons of building materials it contained were destroyed. He described the blaze as "one of the worst fires we have ever had in Scarborough."

The fire which was discovered about 7.30 p.m. still was burning after midnight. Three Toronto fire trucks were called to assist Scarborough firemen. An investigation will be made to determine the cause of the fire.

REPORTS CLERGY SHORTAGE

YORK, England (CP). — Some churches will have to be closed and the number of services reduced in others, the Archbishop of York wrote in the York Diocesan Leaflet, because of an insufficient number of clergy for the parishes. "The sources for the supply of ordinands have temporarily dried up," he said.

Sailor 15 Facing Medical Discharge Enlisted At 14 And Was In Munda Action

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP)— Because he's due to receive his medical discharge January 25, wounded Signalman George Glassicks figures the United States Navy may as well be let in on the secret—he's only 15 years old.

The youth, who wears Asiatic, American and European campaign ribbons, told a reporter he managed to enlist in the Navy in November, 1942, at the age of 14½ after being turned down by the Coastguard and Marine Corps because of color blindness.

He got a shrapnel wound in the knee when he volunteered to go ashore on Munda with a Marine patrol assigned to crawl to the top of Hill 505 and look around.

On the way back, he said, the party was trapped for 36 hours in a hole five feet square and six feet deep by about 40 Japs.

Front Quietens Beyond Ortona

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 5 — (CP Cable) — French-Canadian patrols (of the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec) felt out German positions half a mile across the Tesore River yesterday as the main body of the Canadian 1st Division enjoyed one of the quietest days of its month-long fight on the Adriatic front.

Apart from patrolling, brief exchanges of artillery and mortar fire and small-scale air sorties were the only signs of action along the front. It was definitely the quietest day since the Canadians were shifted from the Apennine Mountains to the right flank of the 8th Army and the battle of the Moro River began December 12.

The Germans remained in possession of "Point 59," a height of land between the Ortona-Pescara coastal road and the sea, a mile south of the mouth of the Tesore. Maritime troops a few hundred yards to the south of the height kept the enemy under cover with mortar and machine-gun fire.

Have Barbed Wire.

The Canadians have not yet made a serious attempt to dislodge the Germans whose position was fronted with barbed wire and well defended by machine-guns and mortars.

Half a dozen Canadian tanks bogged down within 200 yards of the high ground and the Germans blew up one Sunday night. Another was almost beyond recovery, but the remaining four were being used by Canadians as stationary pillboxes.

The tanks belong to a squadron commanded by Maj. H. McIndoe of Vernon, B.C., who changes the crews daily, keeping fresh men on the guns.

With advanced Canadian positions some three miles north-west along the coast from captured Ortona, life is slowly returning to that port where the Western Canada troops who captured it are getting a well-earned rest. Engineers were still pulling up mines and removing booby traps. Occasional explosions of time bombs still rock the town.

Civil Service Act Bans Communists

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP). — The United States Civil Service Commission contended to-day it has authority to refuse Government employment to Communists despite a prohibition against investigating applicants' political philosophies or affiliations.

The Commission said in a statement that the Appropriations Acts of 1944, and the Act of Congress forbidding pernicious political activities, provided the authority to "inquire as to a person's formal affiliation with the Communist Party or as to his adherence to the Communist-Party line."

The commission suggested that it had the unquestioned right to inquire whether applicants were pro-Fascist, pro-Nazi, or pro-Japanese, and added: "The relationship between such inquiries and the legislation passed by the Congress is obvious."

The statement added the commission's policy was no reflection against the Russian Soviet Government but "simply a frank recognition of the fact that a man can not serve two masters."

York Pioneer Dies At Age 86

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP). —William Taylor, 86, member of a family that at one time held thousands of acres of land in York county and large holdings along the Don river, died yesterday at his home here, where he had resided for almost 60 years.

Born in Todmorden, near Toronto, Mr. Taylor was co-founder of the old Sun Brick Company and for some time engaged in the oil business here. His father, Thomas Taylor, helped to operate three paper mills, among the first to be founded in the province, as well as extensive farm lands. Members of the family made the first shipment of beef cattle from Canada to England. They were also co-founders of the Bank of Commerce and part owners of the old Toronto Globe.

In 1880 Mr. Taylor entered the family business along with his brothers, John and George, and with them two years later founded the Don Valley Brick Works. Their craftsmanship brought awards at several world fairs.

English Demand Mosley Removal

SHIPTON - UNDER - WYCHWOOD, Oxfordshire, Jan. 5 (CP). —A petition demanding removal of Sir Oswald Mosley, former head of British Fascists, and his return to prison has been signed by 120 residents of this Cotswold village with a pre-war population of 639.

"We don't want him here," said the petition, addressed to Prime Minister Churchill and Home Secretary Herbert Morrison. Similar petitions are being circulated in neighboring towns.

The angry villagers said they resented the fact that the Mosleys are living in comparative luxury, not even required to serve as fire watchers or air raid wardens, while their own husbands, sons, and sweethearts are fighting on the battlefronts against Fascism.

Mosley and his family were released from Holloway Prison Nov. 20 after spending two years in jail, and have been living at the village inn here.

U.S. Bomber Fleet Softens Marshalls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP). — United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox reported today that United States air forces are "continuing to soften up" the Marshall islands and are encountering weak opposition in the air.

He referred to continuing raids on enemy bases at Wotje, Kwajalein, Mille, Jaluit and other bases.

"We are putting the enemy on the defensive throughout that region," the secretary said at a news conference.

In retaliation, the Japanese have made two raids on American positions at Tarawa and one on Makin Island.

"Most of the bombs fell into the water," Knox said.

Throughout the South Pacific area, he added, "enemy air strength seems to be very weak and in such actions as have taken place the Japanese have been on the defensive."

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It.
No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love it.

And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Bombs Lash Port Of Stettin Important Baltic City; U.S. Planes Blanket Kiel Mosquitoes Zoom Over Berlin Again

3 Canadian Squadrons Out
Fifteen Bombers Fail To Return

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 6—(AP).—Stettin, Germany's biggest port on the Baltic, was blasted by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy town wreckers last night and Berlin was bombed by Mosquito raiders in a double-edged assault calculated to disrupt the emergency supply system of the battered capital and shatter an important maritime lifeline to the Russian front.

Three R.C.A.F. squadrons flew with the Stettin raiders.

The Air Ministry, in announcing the Stettin attack, said the assault was carried out in bright moonlight on a heavy scale with the storm of bombs well concentrated on the objectives.

Besides hitting Berlin for the second night in a row, thus allowing the bomb-pitted capital but one night's surcease since Sunday, the Mosquitoes directed other blows at targets in western Germany and northern France.

Hit Last April.

Fifteen aircraft were lost in the assorted attacks which included the 1,300-mile round trip raid on Stettin.

The latter port, a city of 260,000, which is 75 miles northeast of Berlin, was last hit April 20.

Besides being an important marine and railroad terminal for supply of Germany's Baltic front in Russia, Stettin is a key peg in Hitler's industrial structure where many submarines and small ships are turned out.

With extensive damage in the last few weeks to communications into Berlin and the disruption of the commercial centre of Leipzig to the south recently, it was likely, too, that much emergency traffic—including the shipment of bread—into Berlin had been diverted to routes through Stettin.

The bombing of the port city may, therefore, have been another blow in the battle of Berlin.

Reports from Switzerland yesterday said the German capital was now half destroyed and that another 25 per cent of the city was badly damaged.

The operation was the R.A.F.'s third big raid in 5 days of January and the fourth in eight days — a record pace for what normally is the year's worst weather period.

Meanwhile, the Stockholm Aftontidningen reported the arsenal and the important Deutsche Werke naval shipyard at Kiel were almost completely destroyed in yesterday's heavy bomber raid in which airfields at Bordeaux and Tours in France and other industrial targets in Western Germany were hard hit. The shipyard built the pocket battleship Luetzow, the battleship Gneisenau, and the aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin.

The big U.S. bombers and escorting fighters which participated in the sweeping raids on Germany and France yesterday were credited officially with shooting down 95 Nazi planes—the biggest score hung up since the Dec. 11 attack on Emden when 138 enemy fighters were destroyed.

Yesterday's raids, which extended over a record 800-mile front, cost a total of 25 heavy bombers and 12 fighters.

Of the 95 German planes shot down, gunners on the heavy bombers accounted for 62 while the escorting fighters—including R.A.F. R.C.A.F. and Allied craft—knocked down 33.

R.C.A.F. Spitfires helped cover the withdrawal of the U.S. bombers from tours and a communique issued today said little enemy opposition was met and all Canadian aircraft returned safely.

Soldiers Praise Treatment Given Wounded

HALIFAX, Jan. 6 — (CP). — Canadian service hospitals at the battlefronts and in Britain are pronounced tops by the men who should know — Canadian servicemen who have gone through them as casualties.

The men who came back to Canada aboard the hospital ship Lady Nelson yesterday know their hospitals from Britain to Africa.

And from them came praise for the way Canada's forces handle their casualties — on the fighting front and behind the lines.

Even as do civilians, these scarred fighting men discuss their operations. One group in a ward aboard the ship was no exception. It had men who had become connoisseurs of medical work in Britain, Sicily, Italy and North Africa.

Flt. Sgt. Ken Burns of Verdun, Que., pulled unconscious from a bomber half wrecked by a German fighter plane's shells, took the floor. He was recovering from skull fractures.

"No. 1 Canadian neurological and plastic surgery hospital in Britain," he pronounced, "is the best damn neurological hospital in England. Bar none."

Treated a Nazi

"Maybe so," said a burly Newfoundlander, Bdr. Gerald Squires of St. John's. "But I want to put in a plug for No. 10 Canadian General Hospital in Britain."

Soldiers who had been wounded in Sicily and Italy said they found the field hospital service superb. "Our medical officers were

Leader Warns Road Is Rough

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(CP).—Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, new commander of the British 8th Army in Italy, told newspapermen he believes there are many people who have not yet realized "what our men are up against," the BBC reported today.

"From El Alamein to the Sangro River, the Germans fought with their heads over their shoulders, always ready to pull when outflanked, but now, Gen. Leese stated, 'they are fighting like hell.'

"The 8th Army, General Leese said, had always fought and will fight magnificently and I am proud to be with them. But he added to the correspondents, 'See that they realize at home that we are up against a grim problem in the fighting line.'"

State Control Of Banks In CCF Program

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6.—(CP). — M. J. Coldwell, National C. C. F. leader, told a public meeting here last night that among C.C.F. aimse are state control of the banking system with subsequent control of investments by insurance companies and foreign trade that would raise the standard of living in Canada.

He said he does not think the Socialism for which his party stands could be instituted in a day nor could it be operated provincially. Mr. Coldwell added Socialism could be instituted federally and gradually "but not too gradually."

The C.C.F. leader said the men now serving overseas do not want to come back to the Canada they had left—"two 15-cent meals a day and a flop."

"The line is drawn clearly," he declared. "Either you stand for a good life, for a fair and square deal for every Canadian, or you stand on the side of the exploiters.

"As far as we are concerned there is going to be no straddling of that line," Mr. Coldwell asserted adding that the C. C. F. will run candidates in every possible seat in the next Federal elections.

Referring to post-war problems, he said plans now are being laid by corporations and vested interests to conduct a campaign of misrepresentation and vilification.

Rigid Limitations.

He said the vested interests and large corporations had done a good job in war producton but added that at the same time they looked after the interests they reoresented. Profits were made and the physical assets developed in the course of industrial expansion now are being taken over by the vested interests, he said.

Earlier, in an interview, Mr. Coldwell said that Socialism as interpreted by his party does not necessarily involve state ownership of Canadian industries and public utilities but it does teach a rigid limitation and eventual elimination of large corporations.

Mr. Coldwell said that in a Socialist state there would be ownership by the national government, by

Yank Troops Launch Big Offensive

Advance a Mile Under Curtain Of Dive Bombers

ALGIERS, Jan. 6.—(AP).—Mud-stained troops of the Anglo-American 5th Army in Italy have opened a long-awaited offensive on a 10-mile front on either side of the Via Casilina, the main road to Cassino and Rome, Allied Headquarters said to-day.

The ground forces, supported by waves of dive-bombers which twisted through low-hanging clouds to lay bombs on enemy gun positions, advanced an average of a mile in the first day of their offensive. The front stretches five miles on either side of the important highway.

British troops surged forward in the southern half of the sector from a point west of Rocca. The attack opened in driving sleet and rain.

Americans battered their way inside the pillbox maze of San Vittore, where they took half the ruined town and are fighting the Germans for possession of the other half. They swept down from heights around San Vittore on the north side of the road, northwest of captured Mignano.

Small Fortress.

Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's offensive broke weeks of minor activity along the 5th Army's front.

San Vittore, six miles from Cassino, had been converted into a fortress with every house a pillbox and Germans dug into wine cellars where Allied artillery could not reach them.

Front dispatches said the Germans opened up the fiercest artillery and mortar fire in many weeks as Britons and Americans rose from their positions and began their offensive.

"The Germans are fighting bitterly for every inch of ground in their customary style, but have been driven back at least a mile in most places," a military spokesman said.

The Allied difficulties were increased by rain which swelled the watercourses, by snow in the mountains and by sleet which threw a clammy blanket on expected air support.

But despite the hazards the dive-bombers roared in under the clouds, skipping just above the ground at 300 miles an hour to strafe and bomb the enemy's emplacements.

Because of their speed the aircraft were unable to observe accurately the damage they did, but a pilot who led one mission reported seeing German troops scatter wildly under the attack.

Germans Reform for Defence Stall Reds at Pripet Marshes

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 6 — (AP). — The German army of Field Marshal Fritz von Mannstein has retreated into the Pripet Marshes and reformed for another stand along the Polish frontier west and south of Olevsk, a customs station which the Soviets captured Monday. This stiffened resistance on the main route from Kiev to Warsaw developed as the massive drive of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's 1st Ukraine army swept southward toward the Dniester River, the Rumanian border, at an accelerated pace following the capture of Berdichev, a pivotal rail centre 25 miles south of Zhitomir.

Advices from the front said that Von Mannstein had taken up positions favorable for defence with his left flank protected by the marshes and was making a determined stand west of Olevsk along the railway leading to Kowel, a city 130 miles inside the Polish border, and also in the region southward between Gorodnitza and Novogorod-Volynski. Capture of the latter town, less than 20 miles from the pre-war border, was announced Tuesday.

Bridges Destroyed.

After his own forces had retreated across to their present positions, the Nazi commander had an opportunity to destroy the bridges over two tricky water barriers in this area—the Ubort River which flows just west of Olevsk and the Sluch River which swings in a northwesterly direction from Novogorod-Volynski.

A dispatch to the Moscow News, English language weekly, said the Russians had broken through the German defence along the Sluch.

Previous reports had placed the Russians across the Polish border in the area between Olevsk and Sarny, a town of 35 miles inside the frontier.

It was evident that a growing battle was in progress in this sector and that the Russians were bringing new Dnieper Bend southward as well as pressure against the Germans in the conducting a large scale offensive northward around Nevel.

The German communique broadcast by Berlin said heavy battles are in full swing northwest of Berdichev where the Soviets have attacked "with unabated violence." The Germans also said that the Russians had resumed attacks north of Krivoi Rog and east of Kirovograd, and had renewed attempts to break through southeast and northwest of Vitebsk.

Gaining Speed

The Russian drive southward picked up momentum as the result of the capture of Berdichev and a dispatch to Izvestia reported fierce fighting in the villages along the highway to Vennitsa, an important rail centre on the Bug River. Another objective of the Red Army was

Canadian Tank Crashes Through Building Wins Hide And Seek Duel With Nazis

HALIFAX, Jan. 6 (CP)—How a Canadian tank emerged winner in a grim hide-and-seek game with a Nazi tank in the Sicilian town of Ragusa was told yesterday by Tpr. George Anderson of Winnipeg aboard the hospital ship Lady Nelson.

The two tanks, Anderson said, were on opposite sides of a block of stores in Ragusa's business section. Each was trying to get a bead on the other, with Canadian and German infantrymen on the sidelines passing on directions to their respective tanks.

As they shuttled back and forth inconclusively, with neither able to gain the advantage, Canadian ingenuity solved the problem. The Canadian tank commander drove his machine right through the side of one building and into a store via its backdoor.

Then, as the Nazi lumbered past in the street, the Canadian gunners let him have it right through the store's plate glass windows. It finished the enemy tank.

Lend-Lease Aid To Allies By U.S. Totals $18 Billions

By DOUGLAS CORNELL—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP).—President Roosevelt, in a report placing total lend-lease aid to United States allies at $18,608,000,000 through November 30, declared today that 1944 "will be a year of decisive actions in the war."

He declared the United Nations had increased their powers to defeat the Axis and had "beaten back our enemies on every front."

At Allied war councils at Teheran and Cairo a few weeks ago, the President said, plans were made for major offensives which will speed victory.

"With the closer unity there achieved," he asserted, "we shall be able to strike ever increasing blows until the unconditional surrender of the Nazis and Japanese.

He credited lend-lease with increasing the power of Allied offensives, emphasizing tremendous increases in shipments of munitions.

It was his 13th report on lend-lease since the program began in March, 1941.

Although the first 11 months of 1943 accounted for $10,356,000,000 of the total of lend-lease aid, compared with $7,009,000,000 in all of 1942, a table in the report showed that the flow had been lessening every month since a peak was reached last August.

Exports, the assistance actively delivered to recipient nations, added up to $13,844,000,000 through October—more than one and a half times the sum for all of 1942. Munitions accounted for $4,674,000,000, an increase of 142 per cent. over the corresponding 10 months of 1942.

Russia got $3,550,000,000 of the exports and the United Kingdom $5,980,000,000.

1,800 Germans Killed In 2 Days

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 6—(CP)—Fires still burned in Berlin at 4 p.m. Wednesday from the R.A.F. heavy Monday raid, and thousands of evacuees, carrying their meager belongings, jammed trains and highways out of the city, the newspaper Aftontidningen said today.

Food shortages have developed in many sections of the battered capital.

Three hundred persons were reported to have been extricated from an air raid shelter beneath Hitler's damaged Reich Chancellery after they had been trapped for 30 hours.

Dispatches to the Stockholm newspaper said also that a Nazi navy shipyard, wharves and an ammunition factory had been destroyed during the two-day heavy bomber assault on Kiel.

A thousand persons were killed Tuesday and 800 more died in Wednesday's follow-up, the newspapers said.

The United States precision bombers located their targets accurately despite a smoke screen the Nazis laid in a futile attempt to hide the port city.

Police Claim Baby Kidnapped

Mystery Shrouds Disappearance Of 15-Months-Old Boy

BULLETIN

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP) — Twenty-four hours from time 16-months-old David Charles Jackson disappeared from the yard of his home in nearby Thornhill his body was found today in a creek 600 yards from the house.

Body of the child was found by York County police who had searched since the child was reported missing by his mother, Mrs. George Jackson.

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Police today studied the possibility of kidnapping in the disappearance yesterday of 16-months-old David Charles Jackson from the home of his parents on Bayview avenue, in Thornhill in Suburban York township after a widespread search failed to disclose any trace of the youngster.

Sergeant Sydney Barraclough of the York County police force, who directed a search party this morning, said he believed the child might have been abducted by a passing motorist although few cars were seen travelling on the road yesterday afternoon.

"I am almost confident that the child must have been abducted," he said, "for it seems unlikely that he could disappear so soon after reported missing by his mother."

The mother, Mrs. George Jackson, who doubted that the child was kidnapped, said she had put the youngster out to play about 2.45 p.m. yesterday. Fifteen minutes later she put her other son, three-year-old Douglas, out to play and he came and told his mother that David had gone.

No Explanation

"I can't figure it out," she said. "It just seems as though the earth opened up and swallowed him."

About 150 persons took part in a seven-hour search yesterday and last night and a large party was out again this morning.

A call was put in to Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Toronto for bloodhounds to assist in the search but rain and snow last night led officials to decide they would be useless. An R.C.M.P. spokesman said trained dogs were available but it would be difficult for them to pick up the scent in the snow.

Canadian Crops Top 1942 Yield

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 — (CP). — The value of Canadian agricultural production in 1943 probably will exceed that for the bumper crop year of 1942 although fields yielded less and there were fewer people to work them, authorities here said today.

In 1942 the net value of agricultural production was $1,570,000,000 compared with $826,400,000 in 1939. The propects are that the 1943 production will be worth about $1,600,000,000.

Since 1939 an estimated 400,000 men and 100,000 women have left the farm, but Agricultrual Department officials said they estimate the output of the average farm worker is 86 per cent greater than it was four years ago.

"Those who have remained on the farm have worked harder, have risen earlier in the morning and have gone to bed later," said one official.

The most important gain in the production value in 1943 will come from livestock and livestock products, authorities said.

Allies Ready At Bari To Invade Balkans

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP).—Strong units of the British 1st and American 7th Armies are concentrating at Bari on the Italian east coast for an invasion of the Balkans, according to reports received in Switzerland from Zagreb, Croatia, a Reuters news agency dispatch from Zurich said today.

The British 1st Army, under command of Gen. Sir Kenneth Anderson, played a prominent part in the campaign in northern Tunisia. The American 7th Army, under Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, took part in the conquest of Sicily.

Germans Massacre 1,000 Greeks

CAIRO, Jan. 6—(AP)—The Greek government announced today the Germans had massacred more than 1,000 residents of Kalavrita and destroyed the historic convents of Mega Spileon and Agia Lavra.

The Greeks said all males over 12 years old were ordered assembled in a large space outside Kalavrita on Peloponnesus, to "listen to a speech" which turned out to be the chatter of machine-guns. Later, the Greeks said women and children of the town were compelled to assemble in a school which was set afire. The statement said scores died in the panic.

Houses then were plundered by soldiers. The convents were said to have been set upon and 15 monks were mistreated and thrown into a ravine, the statement said.

Russians Have Tough Road to Berlin

Germans Show No Sign Of Collapse In Orderly Withdrawal

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Are the hard-driving Russians likely to reach Berlin ahead of the Anglo-American Allies and, if so, how is that going to affect post-war problems?

It's a question a lot of folk are debating, especially since the Hitlerite line has been slashed in two at the Polish border west of Kiev, and the Nazi forces in the Dnieper-bend trap again are in sore straits.

Well, what's the answer? First off, it's fairly obvious that if the German front should suffer a wholesale collapse, the Muscovites might indeed be marching down Unter Den Linden before an Anglo-American army could arrive. However, while the Nazis are in a tight spot, there has been no general collapse as yet and, lacking definite signs of one, the presumption must be that there's a lot of fighting to be done before any one of the Allies get troops into the German capital.

Lines Stiffen

News from Moscow today indicates a stiffening of Hitlerite resistance west of Kiev. Nazi Field Marshal von Mannstein seems to be rallying his hard-pressed troops for a stand, and we shall get a somewhat better view of the position in that theatre after he has demonstrated how much punch his army has left.

If the Germans are able to continue the skilful withdrawal which they have maintained for more than 700 miles at the extreme depth, then they will make a final defence in the fortifications on their own borders. Should this happen, it will take the combined striking-power of both Russian and Anglo-American armies to administer an early coup de grace. This presumably would bring all the Allies into Berlin at the same time.

But if the Russians should reach the German capital ahead of their allies, would the victorious Muscovites be inclined to impose their own conditions irrespective of the wishes of Britain and America?

It's important in answering this to record that the Allied conferences of Moscow and Teheran appear to have brought the Russians into full partnership with the United States and Britain.

Now these three dominant powers are in accord which appears to ensure all-out collaboration in prosecuting the war. It also provides a degree of friendly trustfulness which should enable solution of post-war differences which are bound to arise. That doesn't mean that we aren't going to encounter some pretty stiff heart-burnings, but there is ground for hope that with a reasonable degree of give-and-take the problems will be solved.

Drys Go To War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — Saying the drys are reported to have "a bankroll of $10,000,000 for lobbying," Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem.-N.Y.) called upon "the common sense of the nation" yesterday to assert itself and defeat a move in Congress for National prohibition.

Rabaul To Be Flattened

Defences Powerful Air Chief Reports

ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, Jan. 6- (AP).—The all-out air war against Rabaul, Japanese stronghold on New Britain, has "barely started yet," Maj.-Gen. Ralph J. Mitchell, commander of the Solomons air force, said yesterday.

Any island stronghold can be reduced from the air if hit hard enough and long enough with planes, he said, and that goes for Rabaul.

That base, however, will be harder to knock out from the air than were the five enemy fields on Bougainville which were neutralized as preliminary to the land invasion at Empress Augusta Bay November 1.

"It took us about three months to make the Bougainville fields unusable," Mitchell continued. "It may take longer against Rabaul as the opposition, particularly anti-aircraft, is much heavier. But we can do it—the fields at Empress Augusta bring us close enough."

Rabaul, target of continuing attacks, has been raided from Allied airfields in New Guinea, by carrier-based planes and by aircraft from the new American fighter and light-medium bomber fields on Bougainville which are some 250 miles away

Give Oil To All Nations

Gasoline Restrictions Will Continue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6— (AP).—A post-war international agreement to accord all nations "equal access" to the world oil supply, based on the needs of each, was foreseen in the 13th lend-lease report forwarded to Congress to-day by President Roosevelt.

The report held out little hope for more liberal gasoline rations for civilians. While asserting a "much larger part" of Mediterranean war theatre oil needs in 1944 will come from British-controlled sources, it said the increased over-all needs for greater offensives "will not therefore result in reducing the demands on our own petroleum resources."

The report foresaw new oil field discoveries and technological improvements to increase post-war oil production, but pointed out that some countries will have a surplus and others will have insufficient supplies to maintain their industrialized economies, adding:

"Agreed action by the nations of the world, as provided for in the master lend-lease agreements, for the expansion of production, the elimination of discriminatory treatment in commerce, and the reduction of trade barriers, will assure to the United States and other nations fair and equal access to the petroleum produced in all parts of the world."

Aussie Troops Capture Important Ridge

By KENNETH SLESSOR
Official Australian War Correspondent
(Distributed by The Canadian Press).

AUSTRALIAN HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 6 — In gaining a foothold atop Shaggy Ridge, hung like a knife blade over the great Ramp Valley of New Guinea, Australian troops reached an outpost which is the nearest point to Tokyo so far obtained by Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific.

It was a campaign of impertinence.

Dubbed the "one-man front" because the ridge top and its approaches are so narrow only one soldier could fight his way at a time, Japanese positions were captured in two hours.

The key to Shaggy Ridge itself is the "Pimple."

This volcanic and rocky top, perched like a petrified sugar cone on the crest of the saddle, rises almost perpendicularly 100 feet above mile-high Shaggy Ridge itself.

Its summit is only four feet wide and its rocky flank facing the Australian end in a slightly rounded, steep slope called the "Rock Face."

Natural Fortress

As a natural fortress, it commanded not only every inch of the single file trail approaching its face but also our own forward positions and transport airfields in the valley below.

From the notes of officers who have just returned it now is possible to give a clear outline of the fighting on Shaggy Ridge.

When the Japanese were driven out of the Ramu Valley last October, they made their stand on the dominating mountain spur which was christened Shaggy Ridge.

Of the eight miles of spurs, the Japanese held four miles to the north and the Australians four miles to the south with the fearsome "Pimple" between.

For weeks the Australians clung grimly to their end of the ridge, right up where the fighting was going on. Often they were killed themselves," said one casualty.

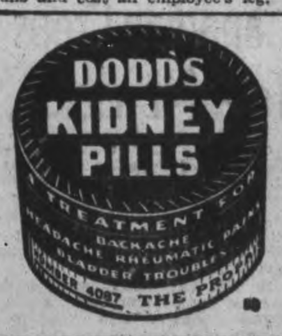
The soldiers talked, incidentally, of seeing captured German medical officers treating wounded behind the Canadian lines. This was no rarity, they said.

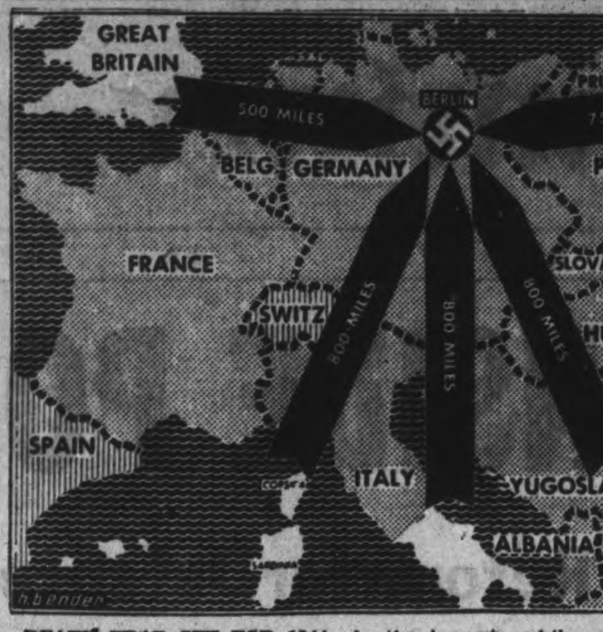
Another story was that told of a Canadian medical attendant who, giving treatment to a wounded German in front of the line of battle in Sicily, himself was wounded and taken prisoner.

Next day the Germans had to retreat. When the Canadians came up they found the medical man waiting for them. In return for his ministrations to a fallen German, his captors had made him comfortable and left him behind to wait for the Canadians.

Set Spring Guns

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP). — Sir Malcolm Campbell, pre-war British racing car driver, was fined five pounds (about $22.50) yesterday for setting spring guns to guard his Three Bridges estate. He was arrested in December after an accident which tripped one of the guns and cost an employee's leg.





DEATH TRAP SET FOR 1944—As the New Year begins, a determined world cries: "On to Berlin!" From every direction men will march and planes will fly. Smashing from the east will be the Russian juggernaut, while other Allied armies push through the Balkans and across the Channel. Other forces will drive from Corsica through Italy and across Poland and Yugoslavia.

Army's "Betty" Not Popular Pin-up Girl But Land Mine, Most Terrible Nazi Weapon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP). —Her name is Betty, she is neither coy nor winsome, has only three teeth and a flat face and she has been elected Public Enemy No. 1 by American soldiers in Italy.

She is not a pin-up girl, this "Bouncing Betty" — she is a pin-your-ears-back gal if you get too close.

The slogging foot soldiers have found Betty to be the Nazis' most terrible weapon in hilly Italy—a small land mine.

The retreating Germans have been generous with these little weapons of destruction which have just about destroyed military faith in the old axiom — "Anything I hear, I can duck." You cannot hear Betty until she blows, then it is too late.

Col. William R. Blakely brought back to the War Department the tale of Bouncing Betty, which the United States forces rank even above tank fire as a hazard.

The mine — the Nazis call it their S-mine—is buried directly beneath the surface of the ground. Three tiny metal teeth protrude and contact with any one sets off a small charge which throws the tiny can five feet in the air. There the main charge goes off, spewing metal horizontally in all directions.

Hundreds Of War Casualties Speed To Canadian Homes

HALIFAX, Jan. 6—(CP).—Casualties of war, hundreds of Canadian servicemen and women sped westward aboard two hospital trains today after landing at this port from the Canadian hospital ship Lady Nelson.

Almost all veterans of the land and air fronts set up by Canadian arms in Europe, they were victims of battle or accident in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, in the skies over Nazi-held Europe, or on the training grounds of Britain.

For many of the 500 who came down the gangplank here yesterday, their role in the war had ended. Others hoped to be rehabilitated in the Dominion to return to their places in the battle line.

A few members of the C.W.A.C. were among the returning Canadians. There was a handful, too, of veterans of the Dieppe raid.

But mostly the home-bound fighter were battle casualties of the Sicilian and Italian fighting. The red patch of Canada's First Division, with the Crusader shoulder shield of the hard-bitten 8th Army, predominated among them.

Blown From Car

Pte. Bob Hawksin of Winnipeg, was in an armored car that attacked a Nazi Tiger tank and was put out of commission by the giant machine.

Blown out of the car, he was taken prisoner by Italians and returned to the Canadians next day when the Italian capitulation was announced.

Two airmen who lived through strange accidents, Flt. Sgt. Ken Burns of Verdun, Que, was navigator on a Stirling bomber when a bomb from another British machine ripped through its fuselage one night over Hanover. He escaped unscathed that time. But on a later operation over Kassel, Germany, cannon shells from a Nazi night fighter fractured his skull and all the provincial governments and by municipal governments as well as industries and services operated and controlled by co-operative organizations.

He said his party's objection to private industry is aimed almost exclusively at corporative enterprise which he described as "autocratic and not democratic."

Timing Is Vital

"I don't think that the corner drug store, or the corner grocer, or the small industrialist who is making a specialized product need be interfered with," he declared.

Mr. Coldwell said that there is more to the task of bringing about socialism in Canada than the mere passing of decrees and their enforcement.

Timing would play a most vital part in the introduction of C.C.F. policies.

"If we get ahead of ourselves we would lay ourselves open to public criticism and to the possibility of seeing much of our work undone if another party were elected when the country again went to the polls. But if we time our work correctly our legislation will stand even though another party takes over the reins of government. That has been shown conclusively many times in history.

"In the first stage our yardstick would be applied to industries and services which in the nature of things are monopolistic and on which the community depends, and therefore can be used to exploit the people."

Zhmerinka, 20 miles beyond on the Odessa-Llwow railway.

There was every indication that the Germans had fortified both places and would make a desperate effort to hold them.

Beyond Tarascha, south of Kiev, the Soviets closed in on a 35-mile corridor which the Germans hold between Kanev the region around Smela and south of Cherkasy. Reports said the Germans' upper defence line to their positions in the Dnieper Bend was rapidly crumbling.

Dispatches said little about the Baltic army's operation north of Nevel beyond the fact that it was a large-scale operation and assuming more importance daily.

Tank and infantry columns were pushing on toward Vinnitsa, 50 miles due south of Berdichev, first stop on the 100-mile drive to the Dniester River bastion on Mogilvo Podolski. Capture of Vinnitsa and Zhmerinka, rail junction on the Odessa-Warsaw railway 20 miles further south, would deprive the 500,000 Germans inside the Dnieper River Bend of a large part of their communications and further narrow their escape corridor to the west.

Tarasona, 25 miles southeast of Belaya Tserkov, and Krivchunka, 37 miles directly south, were among the 60 or more towns captured in Vatutin's Thursday advance, a Russian comunique said. Ocheretnia, 27 miles northeast of Vinnitsa, also fell to the Red Army advance guards, as did Vrublievka, 20 miles east of Polonnoe in the Sluch river basin.

The Red Army was also on the move in White Russia, where troops of Gen. Ivan Bagramian's Baltic Army were advancing north along the Nevel railroad toward Novosokolniki. More than 60 towns and villages were swept up in this fast developing drive, the communique announced, including Vlasye, five miles south of Novosokolniki, and Vlasievo, midway between Novosokolniki and Pushoshka and less than 60 miles from the Latvian frontier.

"Glad to Tell Others About Syntona," Says This Woman

"Limbs Were So Sore and Painful I Could Hardly Walk—My Nerves Were Bad, I Suffered Stomach Troubles and Constipation, But This Medicine Has Been Wonderful."

MRS. MARY LOUCKS

Mrs. Mary Loucks, 519 Nelson street, London, Ontario, is glad to pass her experience along to others for she knows how much it has meant to her to find relief from severe pains in limbs, gas, bloat and other stomach distress, that dulled appetite, often keeping her awake nights and also relief from dizzy spells, nervousness, and constipation.

"It was over a year ago that my stomach started giving me trouble. I would bloat up terribly and the gas caused severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Hot sour liquids came up in my throat. I'd become short of breath and have a heavy, full feeling in my stomach. Soon after this, I began having pains in my legs. It often felt like the muscles were tied up in knots and I could hardly walk. I was badly constipated, would get dizzy spells and spots floated before my eyes. Finally I became so nervous that I was even afraid to be left alone.

"My daughter had taken Syntona with good results and several times urged me to try it, but I kept putting it off until I got so bad that I had to do something and it was then that I asked my husband to get some of this medicine for me. He brought home three bottles and before I had finished those I was feeling better than I had for months, so I kept on taking it and now the pains and soreness have gone away, my food digests without any disturbance in my stomach and my bowels move regularly every day. I have no dizziness, or spots before my eyes, and my nerves do not trouble me. I can walk downstairs and back, something I could not do before and I feel better in every way. I am glad to tell other sufferers about Syntona and recommend that they try it, too."

If you who read this, suffer as Mrs. Loucks did, come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too. —(Advt.)

"They haven't any case against this man and are merely stalling," objected Defence Counsel W. J. Arthur Fair in police court this morning when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., informed Magistrate E. A. Gee that he would have to ask for another adjournment in the charge against Michael Cavalier, Rogers street of keeping liquor for sale.

Mr. McElderry stated that a material witness, a soldier named Simpson, who was stationed at Windsor, was not on hand this morning.

Sgt. G. T. Puffer said that Windsor had been on hand at the last session and knew that the case was to be tried today.

"Was he sent his fare," asked Mr. Fair and the answer was in the negative.

Crown Attorney McElderry promised that he would forward the fare to Simpson and have him here for the hearing.

Magistrate Gee adjourned the case until January 17.

Lend-Lease Aid

first 10 months of last year was up to 63 per cent. over all of 1942, with aircraft, ordnance and other munitions constituting 56 per cent. of the export value.

"The lend-lease aid we have furnished," the report asserted, "has been effectively used in the Red Army's advances in the Ukraine and White Russia. Through October we sent to the U.S.S.R. nearly 7,000 planes, more than to any other lend-lease country; more than 3,500 tanks and 195,000 motor vehicles, including trucks, jeeps, motorcycles and other vehicles."

Munitions comprised 48 per cent. of lend-lease exports to Britain in the first 10 months of 1943. The report told how lend-lease planes and bombs are helping to devastate German industries and mentioned tremendous offensives to be launched from Britain.

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned also in his letter the flow of reverse lend-lease supplies—provided for the United States by Britain and other Allied countries.

All Gain Power.

"The flow of lend-lease assistance from the United States to our allies and of reverse lend-lease assistance from our Allies to us has increased the power of our united offensives," he said. "The lend-lease program has made stronger the ties that bind the United Nations together for a common victory and in common determination to assure a lasting peace.

"Each of the United Nations is giving what it can to the accomplishment of our objectives — in fighting manpower and in war production. Some countries, like the United States and Canada, located away from the fighting theatres of war, are able to make available to other United Nations large quantities of food and manufactured arms. Others, like the Soviet Union and China, required virtually everything they can raise and produce in order to fight the enemy on their own soil. And still others, like the United Kingdom and Australia, can make available substantial quantities of war material to their allies but must necessarily retain most of their war supplies and food for their own forces."

Martin McNee Claims Unable To Work

Francis Martin McNee, Simcoe street, was charged in police court this morning with having failed to obey an order from the local Selective Service office to report to the office for an interview.

McNee who was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair pleaded not guilty to the charge. W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted the case.

Lewis Grant, an officer of Selective Service here, stated that on November 3 last he had mailed a notice to McNee instructing him to report to the office for an interview. On November 5 witness said McNee had called the office on the telephone, stated that he had received the notice and asked if he could report later because he had a cold and it was raining that day.

"I instructed him to report not later than noon on the next day," said Grant. "He did not report then nor has he reported since." In answer to a question from Mr. Huycke, Grant said that so far as he knew McNee had no occupation.

He said McNee had been interviewed a month earlier and at that time the accused had said that he was in ill health and that he had not worked since 1935. Grant stated that he had assigned McNee for light work at the C.G.E. and when he complained of ill health gave him a medical form and told him to be examined by Dr. S. Y. Walsh, one of the panel doctors. He produced Dr. Walsh's report but it was not put in as an exhibit.

W. L. Mellis, manager of the local Selective Service office testified that he had sent for McNee to come to his office early in the summer.

"I had received so many letters complaining about McNee not working," he told Mr. Fair "that I decided to interview him."

"And it is because of those complaints that this charge has been laid," said Mr. Fair.

Mr. Huycke objected. "Mr. Fair is trying to show that there was malice in this prosecution," he said. "There was no malice."

Mellis stated that at the time of the earlier interview McNee had produced a certificate from Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock to the effect that he could not work because of his condition of health.

In the witness box McNee stated that he did not receive any notice from Selective Service around November 3 and denied calling Grant several days after that date. He admitted telephoning Grant but stated that it had been at the time of the interview a month earlier.

In cross-examination by Mr. Huycke McNee stated that he lived with his father and mother and paid no board.

He had an eight-cylinder Cadillac car, he said which he got in 1939 and in answer to a question said that he had kept it running and serviced.

"Do you mind telling me where you got the money to keep that car running?"

"I worked steadily when I was at the Look Works and saved considerable money," said the accused. "I also made some money running a shooting gallery in Toronto."

"Have you a gasoline ration book."

"Not at present."

"Then how do you keep your car running?"

"I had a full tank, 25 gallons and have been operating on that."

At this stage the court adjourned for luncheon.

Aim At Cassino

The taking of San Vittore would open the way to Cassino, the main Allied objective in Western Italy for many weeks, and the breaking up of defences at Cassino would open the path to Rome through a broad valley where armored forces could be used.

British troops, in the southern half of the sector, captured 47 German prisoners as they advanced on the bend of the Garigliano River. Most of them appeared to be youths about 20.

To the northeast, in the 8th Army sector, Canadians took a height overlooking the village of Torre Mucchio. Fighting was severe along the Adriatic coast, while inland British artillery shelled German transport near Orsogna.

Making one of their deepest penetrations of the Adriatic, the British destroyers Jauna and Jervis, 1,690-ton sister ships, tossed between 200 and 300 shells into German communications at Pesaro, south of Rimini.

Spitfires bombed shipping and port installations at oft-hammered Civitavecchia, northwest of Rome, and at Port Ercole near Orbetello on the western coast.

Woman Killed, 4 Injured At Tillsonburg

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Jan. 6 — (CP).—Mrs. Leona Harvey, 28, of Tillsonburg, was killed and four other persons were injured, two seriously, early today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed headlong into a snow-plow here.

Mrs. Harvey died 30 minutes after being admitted to hospital with serious head injuries. Also in hospital suffering from severe lacerations to face and head are Beatrice Bunnell, 24, of Eden, Ont., and Pte. John McHugh, 31, of Tillsonburg. Both are in a critical condition.

Mrs. W. Baynes and Jack Smith, both of Tillsonburg, were allowed to go home. Mrs. Baynes suffered head injuries and Smith had deep knee lacerations.

Police said they seized nine full pints of beer and a case of empties from the car which had been reported stolen 45 minutes before the accident. An inquest into the death of Mrs. Harvey has been ordered.

Leader Warns

Gen. Leese said he did not want "any bombastic advertisement" and told the correspondents, "I don't want you to advertise me—it is not necessary in the British army."

He appreciated that it was necessary to appear to a certain extent in the public eye so men of the 8th Army and their relatives might have confidence in their leaders and faith in their ability.

Assuring the writers he would give them every facility in this theatre of war, Gen. Leese said:

"I look upon your job as extremely important—not only as news value. I think you can do a tremendous amount of good in the home countries by letting them know what their husbands, sons and relatives are doing and the conditions and climate in which they are living.

"I believe there are still a great number of people in England who do not realize what the men are up against."

Gen. Leese paid tribute to the correspondents for the manner in which they are covering the war and added he had the greatest admiration for the discretion and restraint of the press.

"Any time you see my car stopped on the road and you want to know anything about how battles are going come up and ask me and I shall be delighted to give you anything I can," he said, adding an invitation to the correspondents to have a meal with him at his headquarters.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 6 (AP) — Warren H. Atherton, National Commander of the American Legion, telegraphed Gen. George C. Marshall yesterday that the right to strike should be suspended for the duration of the war.

Italian Troops Revolt Fight 5 Hours

BARCELONA, Jan. 6 — (AP) — Travellers recently arrived from North-Eastern Italy today confirmed reports that 2,000 Italian soldiers who had been incorporated into the German army in the Fiume sector staged a successful revolt Dec. 30.

The travellers said the Italians, all wearing newly-issued German uniforms and bearing German arms, rebelled as they were about to be loaded into railroad cars to join German forces fighting Yugoslav Partisans in Southern Bosnia.

The Italians were reported to have overcome German officers directing the train's departure but failed to escape before hastily-summoned Nazi troops arrived on the scene.

However, in a five-hour battle on the outskirts of Fiume, 500 of the revolting Italians were said to have held the Germans at bay while their comrades fled northward into the hills near San Pietra. There they joined a company of Croat-Italian guerillas with quantities of arms and ammunition taken from the troop train.

The Italians lost 100 men in the battle, the travellers said, but they believed German casualties were higher because the well-armed Italians barricaded themselves in buildings, most of which had to be taken by storm. Approximately 300 Italians were taken prisoner. The travellers added.

Street Fighting Rages Unabated

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP) — Headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz' (Tito) Yugoslav Army of Liberation announced today his forces were steadily driving the enemy from Banja Luka as the sixth day of bitter street fighting raged in that Croatian base of the 2nd German tank army

All enemy units were declared driven from the valley of the Cetina river which empties into the Adriatic just south of the port of Split.

The bulletin said trapped Germans had attempted to break out of the encircled town of Novomesto in Slovenia, but a stout ring of Partisans threw them back.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

11 New Members On Council United Counties

COBOURG, Jan. 6 — (ENS). — Eleven new faces will be council when the January session of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Council convenes this month for the election of warden. Many of the oldtimers, including Reeve W. R. Prouse of Hope township, who was warden last year, have dropped out to allow the new members to step up. Many have moved up from deputy-reeve to reeve.

In Alnwick Township there was no change, Reeve H. D. Davidson being re-elected. Brighton Township remained unchanged with G. H. Ross as reeve and B. Morgan, deputy-reeve. Norman Green is the new reeve in Cartwright township. J. Smith moved up to reeve of Cavan with Harold Cathcart as deputy-reeve. There was no change in Clarke, T. A. Reid and W. J. Patton being returned as reeve and deputy-reeve.

Cramahe Township will again be represented by T. A. Chapman and J. W. Heckbert. In Darlington Township there was likewise no change and W. R. Pickell and R. R. Stevens will again be on hand when counties council opens this year. A. Stephens moved up to reeve and W. C. Finlay was elected deputy-reeve of Haldimand township. When ex - warden Prouse dropped out of Hope Township, H. G. Woodley took his place and William Bickle was elected deputy-reeve of that municipality. F. Barnard was re-elected reeve of South Monaghan Township. A. W. Heaslip was promoted to reeve of Manvers Township and his place was taken by Eldridge Shaw. W. A. Smith and N. Flindall were re-elected as representatives of Murray Township. G. J. McCubbin advanced to reeve and Arthur Wartman was elected deputy-reeve in Percy Township.

Seymour Township was unchanged and W. A. Rowe and F. Lee were re-elected. In Bowmanville Sid Little moved up to reeve and A. W. Northcutt was elected deputy reeve. Veteran councillor Charles Calver dropped out of Campbellford's representation and he was replaced by P. J. MacMillan who moved up from deputy-reeve. The new deputy-reeve is Harry Fowlds. Robert Love is the new reeve for Cobourg and Douglas Gleen is deputy-reeve. Port Hope returned J. . Moncrief and Eugene Saunders to the counties council. J. Grimes will again represent Brighton village. "Capt." Throop, veteran reeve for Colborne dropped out and was replaced by Leonard Gordon. L. E. Kelley, who is contesting the wardenship this year, was re-elected reeve of Hastings. In Hamilton Township, W. Cole, who is running for warden, was re-elected reeve and L. D. Carruthers was re-elected deputy-reeve. Harold Bigelow is the new reeve for Millbrook. C. R. Carveth returns as reeve for Newcastle.

Harold McClelland New Bell Manager

COBOURG, Jan. 6 (ENS)—Succeeding Ross Van Dusen as local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., who has been transferred to North Bay, H. McClelland of Toronto has been appointed the manager here and will take over his new duties on January 15.

Mr. McClelland joined the Bell Telephone Co. in Toronto in 1925 and was appointed chief clerk at Barrie in 1928. He later serviced in the same capacity at Peterborough and in 1938 he was appointed in charge of the Newmarket office. On June 1 in 1941 he was given leave of absence for duty with the R.C. A.F., being honorably discharged from the air force in March of 1942. He resumed his post at Newmarket for a while and then was moved to Toronto as staff assistant in the general office.

Mr. Van Dusen, who came here from New Toronto in October of 1942, began his telephone career in Picton in 1913. Six years later he was transferred to Kingston and in October of 1919 he was appointed manager at Cornwall. He later held supervisory positions at Brockville and Ottawa before serving successively as manager at Sault Ste. Marie, assistant manager at Hamilton and manager at New Toronto. In addition to his duties in Cobourg, Mr. McClelland will have supervision over the Bell Telephone offices at Port Hope, Brighton and Colborne.

Brilliant Young M.P. Said To Be Tito's Adviser

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP) — The foreign office's "brilliant young man" has become the German's "notorious Maj. William Jones" who is, as Anthony Eden described him in the House of Commons, "the honorable and gallant member for Lancaster."

The man who is all these things is 32-year-old, six-foot-five Brig. Fitzroy Hew Royle Maclean disclosed by Eden as leader of the British military mission to Tito's Yugoslav Partisans.

Maclean found the foreign office "a bore" when war broke out, so he became a soldier. As a soldier he's had a hair-raising career that reads like Buck Rogers fiction. Yet to the man-in-the-street he was practically a total stranger when Eden, in the parliamentary language that forbids identifying a member by name, revealed him as Tito's adviser.

Other M.P.'s asked each other who was the member for Lancaster and weren't much wiser when they heard the name Maclean. He had won a by-election in 1941 and hadn't been in his seat often.

But early this year, the lanky young M.P. in army uniform said to an official of the House:—

"Look here, if anyone wants to get hold of me in the next few months— don't suppose anyone will bother, but if they do—you might say they can reach me through Barclay's Bank in Picadilly."

Maclean hasn't been in London since. But not long afterwards British army officers were reported aiding Tito as members of his headquarters staff and occasionally leading a raiding or bridge-blowing party.

The Germans really began to fume about these British officers last summer and put a price on the head of the "notorious Maj. William Jones" whom they blamed for their October defeats by the Partisans. They said Jones had been dropped by parachute into Yugoslavia.

Enlisted As Private

Officially it was said only that Jones' nom-de-guerre hid the identity of a British officer with a brilliant record in North Africa, but London friends identified Maclean as the officer. The parachuting into Tito's stronghold fitted into his character.

When he left the Foreign Office he joined a Highland regiment as a private. He qualified as a paratrooper, rose rapidly through the ranks to his commission, then to a captaincy and was made a brigadier before beginning his Yugoslav mission.

In North Africa he led a volunteer British and French force which set off into the desert and wasn't heard of again for several weeks. Suddenly the "mystery column" pounced, 500 miles behing Rommel's rear in a daring raid on the Nazi general's supplies at Bengazi. A few weeks later Maclean was back at British headquarters. The French gave him the Croix-de-Guerre.

An only child whose parents live in Switzerland, Maclean entered the Foreign Office when he was 22, became a third secretary in the Paris embassy and won promotion to second secretary at Moscow, where he remained from 1937 to 1939.

He learned Russian and Serbo-Croat. He was rated highly at the Foreign Office and with his Edwardian mustache, dry humor and perpetual calmness in any situation was "a typical-looking member of the Foreign Office," his friends have said jokingly.

Submarines Get 8 German Ships

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP) — British submarines have sunk eight German or German-controlled ships, including a large tanker, and have damaged two others in recent operations in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announced today.

The tanker, the announcement said, was attacked and sunk in convoy in the Gulf of Genoa. The other vessels listed as sunk included a small naval auxiliary and three small cargo ships—including two ammunition carriers—destroyed off the French Riviera, a medium-sized supply ship in the Aegean and two smaller merchant ships in the same general area.

Lakefield Firemen Did Splendid Job

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 6.—(ENS).—It was revealed here today that Hydro authorities are highly pleased with the efficient way in which the Lakefield Fire Brigade handled the fire at the power house Wednesday morning. Fire Chief Allan Clarke on duty at the time received his call to go to the fire at 3.05 and had Assistant Chief George Scriver and nine men on the way at 3.15 and by 3.30 he had two lines on the fire. In the report of the fire on Wednesday it was intimated that the Lakefield brigade was called at 1.15. However, Chief Clarke has informed the Examiner that this was an error and his call to send the brigade was not received until 3.05. The Lakefield firemen returned at 6.50 a.m.

Polling Places Too Far From The Polls

Although it is a long way until the next municipal elections, Alderman Swanston commented today that if the Council takes up the question of advancing nominations and the day of polling a month it should also consider increasing the number of polling places as an accommodation to the people.

"We had forty-one polls this year, and all but five of them were in public buildings," Alderman Swanston said. "The purpose of the council in using schools, city hall, police court, the Community Hall in Ashburnham and so on, has been to reduce the expenses of the elections, but it seems to me that some of these polling places are too far from the homes of some of the voters. I could name some that I am convinced are too far, especially for the older people.

If we were to make the municipal polls generally more convenient to the electors we might have a larger percentage of voters turning out. Even if it does cost a little more money to rent private premises for the day, I feel that it would be worth while if it brought more people to the polls."

Alderman Swanston said he was mentioning an idea which impressed him as he looked over the municipal map which was published in the Examiner as a guide to the voters. He said the council desired to avoid unnecessary expense, but he wondered whether that policy was not carried too far in skimping on the cost of elections by placing so many of the polling booths in public buildings.

The five private places in the forty-one were Meyette's house in Ashburnham, Sanitary Ice Office on Water street north; Bates' store in the northwest end; Harrison's store at Water and Park Hill Road and the office of G. Walter Green Company on McDonnel street.

"The council has lots of time to go into the question of earlier elections, and they will probably consider too this detail of the location of polling places," Alderman Swanston said. "From what I have seen of the attiutde of the members I believe they would be willing to spend some more money for the convenience of voters if by that they could increase the percentage of Peterborough people who go to the polls. It is something we can think of as the year goes on."

Goes To Work

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 — (AP).—President Roosevelt, recovering from the grippe, was well enough today to start work on his annual message to Congress, to be delivered Tuesday. He had no appointments, however, and remained in his bedroom to work.

Cobourg Sailor Gets Promotion

COBOURG, Jan. 6. — (ENS).—Son of Mrs. J. H. Gale of Cobourg, Paymaster Lieut. Harold Gale of the R.C.N.V.R, has been promoted to Paymaster Lieutenant-Commander in the King's New Year's honours list He came to Cobourg with his parents from England, when six years old and was educated in Cobourg. His father was in the Royal Navy in the last war and was killed. Paymaster Lieut. Commander Gale went into the Standard Bank in Cobourg when he left the Collegiate Institute, later going to Toronto where he joined the staff of the National Trust, in that city. He married Margaret Gowan of Oshawa, who resides with him in Ottawa.

Claims Wages Are Not Frozen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—Three railroads operating unions in the United States, still holding aloof from arbitration, had assurances today the carriers do not consider basic wages frozen for the duration of the war by President Roosevelt's decision governing two other brotherhoods.

This development, plus the appointment of a special presidential board to consider the non-operating case, revived hopes of an early settlement which would permit an end to army control of the United States railroad system.

The carriers' position in the controversy was to be presented today to committees and general chairmen summoned to Washington by chiefs of the three operating unions —conductors, firemen and switchmen—to determine a course of action.

300 At Service In All Saints' Church

The third service in the Peterborough Week of Prayer was held Wednesday night in All Saints' Anglican Church, with about 300 present. The rector, Rev. W. A. Filer, was in charge, assisted by the organist, Mrs W. A. Logan, and the choir. Miss Margaret Hooper sang "Spirit of God, Descend Upon My Heart." Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe led the congregation in a prayer for the world in its great need, and Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart in a prayer for the re-awakening of the Church to its true task and opportunity.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Gallagher spoke on the importance of worship in the life of the Christian community. In worship men come to a recognition of the supreme worth in life Worshippers have been accused of using their devotions as a means of escape from life, he declared, but the truth is that they are escaping from the unrealities of life and coming into the presence of unseen things—faith, hope, love, beauty, truth — which alone are real. In worship the whole of life is lifted up into the light of God's presence and for the first time seen as it really is.

Worship, however, Dr. Gallagher said, must have an order in it. From the opening to the closing benediction all that is said and done by minister and congregation must serve to bring the soul before God and to bring the truth and grace of God to bear upon each human soul. Dr. Gallagher closed with a plea for a greater earnestness among Christian people in their worship.

The service this evening will be held in Mark Street United Church.

Discusses Birds

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6. — (ENS). — The characteristics and habits of some of the nearly 100 type of birds in his aviary formed the topic for an address by Jack Wilimink, who was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of St. John's Y.P.U. Monday evening. The speaker told of many characteristics of the birds he kept, most of which would be difficult to replace owing to the war. The program was in charge of Misses Constance McKelvie and Esma Cole. Miss Pearl McComb gave a reading, "Christ and the Count," and Miss Carolyn Archer contributed a vocal solo "Come to the Fair."

The Destruction Of Berlin

Destroying cities as a way of impeding the enemy's war effort and lowering his morale was one of the ingenious schemes which the Germans counted on to win this war for them. With what ferocity their weapon has recoiled! Berlin, their capital, is now the most thoroughly bombed city in the Reich; it is estimated that three-quarters of Berlin lies in ruins. The administrative centre of the nation, the very fane and sanctum of Prussian militarism, and one of the chief German centres of war production is now a smoking waste. It was some time before the air force of the United Nations found the strength and the time to concentrate on Berlin, but they have made up for that by special thoroughness.

Living in a country where no bomb has fallen it would be gross and cowardly for us to exult in the destruction of Berlin. But nothing need restrain us from appreciating fully the way in which the tables have been turned on the people who first adopted the destruction of cities and their civilian inhabitants as a weapon of war. The Germans too, were the first to argue that such destruction was actually merciful as it tended to bring wars to a quick end; now they know better. They know from example and bitter personal experience how much men and women can endure when the time of stress comes. They underestimated their enemies, and now they have found out how much they too can bear when they have to grit their teeth and go to the underground shelters night after night; let us hope that it has given them an enlarged sense of common humanity and the courage which is inherent in all nations. They sowed the wind, and they reap the whirlwind.

The last to learn such a lesson, of course, will be the German leaders. A threat comes from the Reich that unless the raids are stopped captured Allied airmen may be executed as war criminals. The Germans would not hesitate to put such a threat into action if they thought that they could get away with it, but they know that large numbers of their airmen are in our hands. The threat, however, reveals their frustration and their impotence to meet our raids with adequate protection for their cities. Certainly the misery of the German people is great, and it must be small comfort to them to reflect that they have no one to blame for it but themselves and their depraved philosophy of force.

The Decay Of 'Fancy Work'

Looking through The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary the other day in search of an entirely different piece of information, we noticed that the first recorded use of the expression 'fancy work' was dated 1842; nowadays there are young people who do not even know what fancy work is. And yet, in the course of a century, it occupied the hands and thoughts of millions of women.

Fancy work, as we understand the matter, is divided into three sections: first, there is crochet, which is done by twisting a fine linen string into an intricate design with an instrument like a nut-pick or a dentist's probe; second, there is tatting, in which lace is made from linen string with a small shuttle; and lastly there is crewel work, in which a design is worked on linen with coarse worsted. Crochet frequently appeared on table linen; tatting was for edging pillow cases; crewel work was often wrought into bedroom slippers and presented to Victorian clergymen by admiring females of their congregation. Often the three branches of fancy work were united, as when a clergyman in his crewel slippers, and his wife in her chemise edged with tatting, sat down at a tea-table adorned with a crochet cloth.

But who tats now? Who plies the crewel wools? Only crochet remains, its secrets passed on from aunt to niece. But do the modern practitioners of crochet ever tackle those immense works, consisting of a tablecloth and a dozen napkins, which used to keep Victorian ladies busy for three years at a time? Those were projects indeed, comparable to the decoration of the Sistine chapel in difficulty, discomfort and eventual astonishingness. No, the great days of fancy work are gone, and those who once spent all their spare time at it confine themselves to embroidering immense welts of initial on diminutive guest-towels.

How Hitler Will Die

Several gentlemen in Washington are passing the time in agreeable speculation as to the way in which Hitler will die. Two of them are in disagreement: Emil Ludwig thinks that the German generals will arrange to have Hitler assassinated; Jan Masaryk, the Czechoslovakian foreign minister, thinks that Hitler will commit suicide. Masaryk says that Hitler's whole life has been that of a coward, "and it is not a very brave thing to commit suicide".

People often say that suicide is cowardly, and we have long wondered why. Certainly it asks for more courage than many miserable people possess. No man, it is said, kills himself while he still has hope; but it is also true that many people lack the courage to kill themselves when all hope is gone. Not religious or ethical scruple, but naked fear restrains them from drinking poison or blowing out their brains. Napoleon was of the opinion that suicide was a coward's act, but one wonders whether it was that belief which restrained him from suicide when all hope had left him and he was tortured by physical pain. He preferred exile, disgrace and the pangs of cancer to oblivion, and we do not think that his preference was determined by any high-minded notion about running his course to the very end.

Perhaps Hitler is a coward; many people say so, and it may be true. But we venture the opinion that if he is a coward he will not commit suicide. It takes courage of a rather special sort to do that. If he is a coward he will allow assassination, or inevitable disgrace and ignominy to overtake him.

More Talk About Generals

Papers from the U.S. still contain reports that the Republican party may 'draft' General Douglas MacArthur as its presidential candidate for this year's election. The reports, to be sure, are not very well authenticated. For instance, a news item from Washington recently said that it was believed in Republican circles that MacArthur would run; upon examination it was found that this belief was based on the fact that the general had not said that he would not run, which is not quite so convincing. And it has been made clear by the Secretary of War, Henry Stimson, that there is nothing in the law to prevent General MacArthur from running if he wants to do so.

But does he? The U.S. has had generals as presidents before this. Washington, Andrew Jackson, William H. Harrison, and Ulysses Grant were all generals and certainly the first two made good presidents. If General MacArthur expected to do no better than Grant he would be well advised to stay in the South Pacific, where he is doing a good job. But so far, like a good soldier, he has kept his mouth shut and has given no hint of his political feelings or lack of them.

If General MacArthur chose to run he would presumably do so as a war hero. But just how the American people would respond to a war hero who left his place in an unfinished fight to seek political honours we cannot say. Canada too has a stake in the Pacific war, and it would certainly not impress us as a soldierly action if General MacArthur were to alter his ambitions at this time. This much, however, we do know: on the one occasion when MacArthur was asked directly if he would run for President he replied, with profane embellishments, that there was a war to win. Until he makes a direct statement to the contrary we think that this may be taken as his opinion on the matter.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One good thing about the December buying rush—it has simplified January stock-taking.

A scientist reports that alcohol has a curious effect on snakes. Probably when they have had enough of it they begin to see people!

The Windsor Star poses a pretty problem: "What would our Socialists do if there were no capitalists to make money for the Socialists to divide?"

A Montreal lawyer has been rebuked for addressing the court with his hands in his pockets. But with so many other lawyers present, who will blame him?

Says an inspirational writer: "The things that are most worth while are not to be bought with money". No, you must have coupons, as well.

Women In Local Government

By EDNA A. CRICHTON

(Alderman of the Municipal Corporation of York and former Lord Mayor of the City)

IT IS over half a century since women in Britain were first given the right to take a part, within carefully circumscribed limits, in the local government of their country. Not till 1907 however, were they admitted to Town and County Councils, and the real impetus only came with the general enfranchisement of women, 25 years ago.

In this comparatively short period they have gone a long way, working up to the Aldermanic Bench, and becoming Mayors and Lord Mayors of some of the most famous cities in the land. But perhaps the best proof of their ability lies in the fact that a number of them have been chosen as Chairman of major Standing Committees.

It is true that the number of women serving on such Councils has not increased in proportion to the value of their work, owing largely to the difficulty of getting nominated and supported by Party organizations for so long controlled by men.

I was first elected in 1919 as a non-party candidate, and have held my seat on York City Council ever since, in face of keen opposition from more than one party. I have found that there are many difficulties and disadvantages in fighting elections without the backing of an established organization. But for these difficulties many women would prefer to stand for their Councils as independent candidates.

NEVERTHELESS the work that has been done, together with the wider opportunities provided by the necessities of war organization, is bringing a greatly increased number of women to realize how much there is that they can and should do in local government.

Through war service, voluntary and compulsory, many younger women are being brought into close touch with civic work, and civic officials. They are gaining valuable experience in diverse fields, and—when elections are again possible—many of them will come forward with a firm desire to serve on public bodies.

The work of local authorities is, much of it, the detailed administration of policies decided by Parliament. It is absorbing, and there are many aspects where a woman has a distinctive contribution to make. After the last war the provision of houses was one of the most urgent problems. It could not be met by private enterprise alone, and Councils soon became estate owners and landlords.

I have served on my City Housing Committee since its creation; and now we have a rent roll of £130,000 a year. Apart from the actual planning of the houses (within the strict financial limits laid down by the Government), there are such problems as the best kind of provision to make for old people, the rival merits of different forms of heating and lighting, the kinds of shops, halls and other amenities which are required on a housing estate, and so forth.

Then there is the more human side. I have found that the housewife can often make her difficulties more easily understood to another woman—on the question, say, of the shed which admittedly will not improve the look of the estate, but is urgently necessary to house the mangle, her husband's bicycle and the baby's pram.

HOUSING, however, is only one of many matters on which women have specialized knowledge. Others, such as maternity and child welfare, health and hospitals are obvious, and hardly need stressing. On the Education Committee, too, there is a great deal that woman can do. She is vitally interested in the planning of the buildings, in the provision of meals and especially in the medical and dental services.

On these Committees, which are more usually considered as man's preserve, a woman can often serve a useful purpose and present a fresh point of view. The Watch Committee provides an instance, dealing as it must with the prevention of women's and juvenile crime. Women have also proved valuable members of the Finance Committee—after all, the principles of economy and wise spending apply equally whether one is budgeting for a City or for a household.

Many of the officials and employees of a Town or County Council today are women. There are women teachers, doctors, nurses and health visitors and of course typists in the municipal offices. In some places, there are women police. There all welcome the interest and understanding which a woman councillor can give.

THESE women employees have been greatly augmented owing to war conditions by other helpers, both voluntary and paid. Civic restaurants, salvage schemes, Citizen's Advice Bureaux, billeting, and many other activities provide full scope for women, who are doing magnificent work.

A field of service which particularly appeals to me that opened up by Wartime Nurseries, which are developing rapidly as the need to make the best use of all available man and woman power becomes increasingly more urgent.

Our first experiment, a forerunner of the official Wartime Nursery, was established some miles outside the city in one of the smaller "stately homes of England." A pleasant place, in lovely country, but it had been unoccupied for a good many years, and only women will understand just what was involved in getting that house clean, equipped, properly blacked-out and ready for some 50 toddlers under five.

All these developments, together with the results of evacuation and other upheavals, are making us everyone, man and woman, more alive to our responsibilities and to the need for better managed cities and villages in the future.

My own experience has shown me how willing my fellow Councillors—at present all men—are to make the fullest use of a woman's knowledge and experience in the right job.

Last year they did me the honour to elect me as Lord Mayor. That position brings with it much responsibility, but there is no part of the work which cannot be accomplished by a woman. In a war year there was necessarily less of ceremonial, but more in the way of human contacts. This was particularly so after a blitz. Such an experience gives one a truer sense of values, and for the time being at any rate, puts material possessions in their right place. It shows, moreover, how much men and women working together have to contribute jointly and severally to the common good.

SHE WAS CAUGHT

"Oh, please, ma'am," gasped the nursemaid. "I've lost little Nora!"

"Gracious, girl! Why didn't you speak to a policeman?"

"I was speaking to one at the time, ma'am!"

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Waiting in the Whole Armour of God

(THE PRINTED WORD)

EXPERIENCE of nearly a year with the Dominion Government's wartime liquor policy provides no evidence that it promotes the cause of temperance. A recent attempt to steal a shipment of liquor in Toronto was foiled, but the business of highjacking is likely to grow. Bootlegging, which became a minor industry after the repeal of prohibition, is again thriving. It is to be expected that bootleggers, to maintain their supplies, will resort to the classic expedients of illicit distilling, corrupting government officials and diluting such stocks of genuine liquor as they are able to obtain.

As Dominion and provincial treasuries take the lion's share of whatever is legally spent on liquor, restrictions on sale could have no appreciable effect on inflationary trends. Money spent with bootleggers for illicit products does get into circulation untaxed, increasing the generally high level of purchasing power that has been mainly responsible for dangerous pressure on the price ceiling.

The net result of the Government's policy is a revival of all the evils of prohibition with added inconvenience to the temperate drinker. The liquor stores are crowded with persons who are abstainers or very moderate drinkers, but who have been kind enough to buy a permit to help out a thirstier friend. One business man who is punctilious about keeping his appointments was late for an important engagement the other day, his valid excuse being that he had to stand in line for an inordinate length of time before he could buy a bottle of whisky for a sick friend. It was an errand that he would have entrusted to his office-boy in pre-war days.

The address of the Prime Minister when he announced his liquor policy was eloquent, although one cannot recall that he cited any logical reasons for his move. It had something to do with the war effort, of course, and was calculated to induce the belief that there was something patriotic about putting up with unnecessary inconvenience. After viewing the queues of thirsty citizens, one may be pardoned for suspecting that the literary sense of the Prime Minister was at fault. John Milton, not Holy Writ, is the source of the line:

"They also serve who only stand and wait."

Ellen Terry Prepares a Role

By HAROLD HOBSON

(Christian Science Monitor)

PASSING through Oxford in the summer, on my way to the West country, I dropped into Basil Blackwell's famous bookshop in the Broad. Looking along the shelves my eyes fell on a handy edition in several volumes of Froude's "History of England." I thought no more of it at the time, but when I got back to London Froude's narrative of the Reformation and the Armada invested itself in retrospect with a certain attractiveness and charm. So much so that one afternoon a few weeks ago I went into several bookshops in the Charing Cross Road, searching for the "History." I could not find a copy anywhere.

The nearest I came to it was to locate a supplementary volume that Froude wrote, called "The Divorce of Catherine of Aragon." In default of anything better, I bought this, for the sum of seventeen shillings and sixpence. It was second-hand; and the name of the previous owner was posted up on the fly-leaf.

The name was Ellen Terry.

There is no indication anywhere in the book at what stage in her career Ellen Terry possessed this volume. But its pages contain every evidence that she read parts of it with great feeling. I say parts, because many of its 463 pages are uncut. The others, however, are deeply scored and underlined. Against several passages Miss Terry has put great X's in heavy black pencil. Her markings are not at all neat. They do not add to the beauty of the book. They are hastily scrawled by a reader racing through the volume in a state of some emotion.

Although the leaves bear no date, it is not difficult to find a clue to the period when Ellen Terry was consulting the book. In 1892 she appeared with Henry Irving at the Lyceum in a production of Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Irving was Wolsey.

Ellen Terry was Catherine, a comparatively small role, but with one or two moving scenes. Her autobiography suggests that she did not take much interest in this production; her chief preoccupation seems to have been with a dress that was too heavy for her. All the same, it is likely that this was the time when she was reading "The Divorce of Catherine of Aragon."

The title of the book, of course, begs the whole question. The basis of Henry's plea was that he had never been property married at all; and if he was not married, how could what he was asking for be a divorce?

But whether or not Ellen Terry could have found a more accurate authority, she could never have discovered a livelier or a more entertaining or a more picturesque one. She responds to his vigor of presentation with keen appreciation. It is quite clear that her sympathies are wholly with Catherine. "Poor lady," she writes of her in the margin of page 181. "She thought more of herself than others thought of—or for—her."

She took Catherine's view of Henry's attitude. Catherine said, "The King's plea of conscience was not honest." Ellen Terry has underlined these words exceptionally thickly; and then, as if this were not in itself sufficient, has put double crosses into each margin. On Henry himself, her judgment and her emotions differ. She did not think much of the Pope—if he had "only been a man!" she exclaims despairingly. Now, whatever else he was, Henry was certainly a man. This she admits with a sort of reluctant admiration for his forthrightness and determination; but she cannot forgive him. "The beast!" she writes against his name.

I am glad to have found this book. It shows the care with which Ellen Terry prepared her performance even in plays that slightly bored her.

"Opry House Tonight"

(ST. THOMAS TIMES-JOURNAL)

THE town of Mitchell had a bad fire this week in the Opera House block.

When the pioneer settlements of Canada began to grow up, almost the first thing they did was to build a church and school. After that someone was enterprising enough to build an "Opera House." The promoters were not content to call it a theatre. It had to bear the more grandiloquent title of "Opera House." Sometimes it was the "Grand Opera House," and the community was very proud of it. Neither the interior nor exterior were imposing; they did not look like temples of the highest form of musical and dramatic art. The seats were hard, very hard, and the stage was a tiny affair which was crowded when it bore a dozen citizens representing a Roman army. There were about two backcloths representing the inside of a house and an out-of-doors which did duty for anything from a humble home or a rich man's castle, and a farm scene or a palatial demesne. The imagination of the thrilled audience filled in the blanks. The Opera House served for municipal or political meetings, for coroner's inquests—which were always wonderful free entertainments that brought people for miles around—and in fact was the community centre. It did not matter that nobody was ever likely to put on an opera there. That was the only kind of presentation that would probably have bored a rural audience. Nevertheless, they required that it be called the "Opera House."

"Opera House Tonight!" What thrills ran around the community and among the people for miles around when it was announced that there would be a minstrel show or a play on a certain date. They talked about it for weeks in advance and for weeks after. What wonderful nights those were! Something to be remembered in old age when talking over old times with old cronies.

They were not all modest entertainments. Some of the finest actors in England have played one-night stands in the remote "Opera Houses" in Canada, notably Sir John Martin-Harvey, who heroically pioneered the drama across Canada, although he had presented Greek drama on a gigantic scale in Covent Garden Opera House in London.

"Opry House Tonight!" Them were the days!

JANUARY 6

1914 There will be a number of new faces in this year's county council; B. W. Squire has been elected reeve of Norwood and Norman Lean reeve of Burleigh Township.

Relief Officer F. H. Miller reports an unusually large number of applications for assistance.

Mrs. A. E. Coulthard is elected president of the Ladies' Curling Club.

Peterborough intermediates visit Bowmanville and win by 10 goals to 5.

1924 This has been one of the roughest days in years with a blizzard blowing and the thermometer at 14 below zero.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barnard, Bethune street, celebrate the 64th anniversary of their wedding.

Sergt. A. E. Paterson is elected president of the band of the Peterborough Rangers.

A. J. Meyers has been re-elected as mayor of Campbellford another term.

1934 It is announced that there are 3,374 persons on relief and that the cost during the last year was $178,208.16.

George A. Gillespie predicts that the dating of cheese at the factories may soon be made compulsory.

A. B. Gates is install as president of the Kiwanis Club as District Governor Gordon Dodington pays his official visit.

The streets and roads are very slippery and an unusually large quantity of sand has already been used.

A Bible Message

Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy. Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me. And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt.

And he cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter, What, could ye not watch me one hour? Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.

He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done. And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy. And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. (Matt. 26: 36-45.)

Unconsidered Trifles

An old woman married a man even older than herself. One day she met the rector, who inquired why she had married again, and if she had now given up her occupation of washing.

"Oh no, sir," she said pointing to her husband, who was wheeling a barrow a few paces away. "If I hadn't married he, I'd 'ad to 'ave bought a donkey."

As the crowded bus came to a standstill a stout middle-aged man descended the stairs carrying a small girl.

Tenderly placing his burden on the curb, he ascended the stairs again and soon returned with a tiny dog. Placing the dog beside the child he returned upstairs and descended with a second child, which he stood beside the first. Once more he ascended the stairs and again returned, carrying a third youngster.

These evolutions were eagerly observed by a passenger seated inside the bus, who, as the father proceeded to dismount with his third offspring, exclaimed; "Lumme, 'e must 'ave a nest up there!"

Belt and Braces on Tea

Further evidence that Canada will have to fight to wring freedom from control of bureaucracy is the publicity from Ottawa intimating that, after all, it is not now possible to remove tea and coffee from the list of rationed goods. Reserves so far built up do not make it certain that rationing might not have to be resumed. So what? There may be enough coffee. Tea is subject to erratic shipping schedules. Coffee, per cup, costs more than tea, per cup. People have more money, so they might rush to coffee and neglect tea. So run the arguments.

The tea and coffee administrator must be a congenital pessimist, the kind of fellow who wears both belt and braces, and, being primarily a coffee man, he may be leaning backwards to protect the tea trade. This possibility again indicates how bureaucracy usually tries to govern social and spending habits when, in this case, its job was to distribute tea and coffee fairly when there was a shortage.

At present there is no shortage of either. The reserves are believed to be as great as normal, but with shipping uncertain, Ottawa people seem to feel they should have abnormal reserves. The war is going reasonably well, and on the word of Mr. Churchill himself, the shipping situation is constantly improving.—The Printed Word.

Equitable Justice

Every so often something happens in a court of law which leads us to believe that there is "a Daniel come to judgment" and strengthens our belief that justice and the law can be compatible. Take the case of Paul Frederick Timm, who went to the United States from Germany in 1911. He shipped in the merchant marine for over twenty years; he was decorated when his ship was torpedoed in the South Atlantic. He was recently arrested in Los Angeles on a charge of falsely claiming citizenship. A Federal judge surveyed his war record, commented that the 51-year-old man had "lived up to the part" of an American citizen, and without further ado passed sentence; a fine of one cent.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Premier Drew Surprised Germany Hasn't Folded

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP) —There isa general conviction in Britain that Germany will surrender by the end of the coming summer, Premier Drew of Ontario said yesterday at a press conference at which he discussed his one-month overseas trip from which he returned at the week-end.

One basis for the conviction, he added, is the bombing raids and "the wonder is that Germany has been able to stand the bombing as long as she has."

"I saw convincing evidence in the case of one German city that 90 per cent of its buildings were not useable. While that was only one, the percentage of buildings out of commission in many German cities is so high that it is difficult to see how city life can be carried on in the remaining buildings.

The premier's discussion of the progress of the war and conditions overseas came in answers to questions after he had issued a prepared statement in connection with the reopening in the next few weeks of Ontario House in London. He said he had outlined plans for Ontario house at a meeting of the cabinet earlier and that there had been general approval of what had been done.

POLISH PREMIER — It is reported in London that Premier Mikolajzyk of the Polish government in exile is en route to the U.S. for talks with President Roosevelt. The Premier may ask the President to mediate the entire Russo-Polish problem.

An agent general had been appointed "but for reasons which will be apparent when the announcement is made it is not yet possible to reveal his name," said the prepared statement. Col. Drew amplified that by saying the announcement would come in three or four weeks. In the meantime S. E. Percival, on the agent general's staff before Ontario House was discontinued under the government of Mitchell F. Hepburn, was preparing the building for its official opening.

The statement described the activity of Ontario House as fourfold: to assist the armed forces from Ontario on overseas service; to stimulate interest in Britain in Ontario products; to interest British manufacturers in establishing plants in Canada; and to receive applications from persons who wish to move to Canada after the war.

Premier told questioners that the immigration plan would be selective and that it would be conditioned on prospects for employment. The province's first duty was to provide employment for the men and women from the armed services and war industry when the war ended. He said he believed the Dominion Government would not seek to restrict any "proper" provincial plan for bringing immigrants from Britain.

She Gave Her Life To Help Beat The Axis But 12,000 Pounds Too Much For Plants

DETROIT, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Anita died in vain.

A mound of earth over a 20x16 foot grave hid Anita's 12,000-pound carcass to-day, and none of her 4,000 pounds of fat had found its way into the war effort.

Anita — she was the Detroit Zoo's favorite elephant— had to be buried because a fat rendering plant could not get a crew to the Zoo in time. Zoo keeper John T. Millen said the condition of the carcass would not permit further delay.

The elephant's fat was to have been used for explosives. Anita, injured last Thursday in a fall into the elephant house moat, had to be destroyed, and the Wayne County Salvage Committee entered a race against time in trying to find a rendering plant capable of handling Anita's great bulk. The race was lost.

Future Full Of Promise—Kaiser

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP). —Henry J. Kaiser, specialist in translating dreams into deeds, scanned the future to-day and saw a "courageous and truly competitive economy" in which capital and labor would join in an adventurous march to peace and plenty.

New ventures into the fields of chemistry, metallurgy and machine tools; great clinics of medicine; development of the Orient; modern rolling stock for railroads; more ships for all the seas—his vision was unlimited.

And the foundations for such developments "should be laid immediately to avert a desperate crisis."

"New economy must spring from new venture," he said. "Money must be made by financing production not only by exchanging pieces of paper; we must get healthy by developing a credit structure that is willing and able to take risks."

The energetic industrialist was referring particularly to his proposed "risk credit pool" which he said was needed "immediately" to prevent a "disastrous crisis" in the transition from war to peace.

He said that labor "individually and collectively must invest its money in the credit pool and thus partake the risks and profits of this adventure into the future."

In developing his beliefs in the future the dynamic west coast builder made side-swiping criticisms of the past.

"The new economy cannot and will not be the same protective economy that we knew prior to 1940. It must be competitive. Labor must be competitive. Everything must be geared to creating and producing.. ...We must not be afraid of obsolescence. We must welcome obsolescence and be willing to write off depreciation when technological advances make it posisble to do so."

Derides The Charge That Strikes Are Aiding Axis

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (CP). — Americans waited today for official unmasking of the anonymous spokesman who, on New Year's Eve, told a group of correspondents that labor disputes in the United States had prolonged the war by giving encouragement to the enemy, thereby costing unnecessary loss of Allied lives.

The secret was in the hands of a few officials and a score c: more of selected correspondents who attended the conference and they are guarding it well.

But some newspapers, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and others not represented at the conference, have named Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, as the author.

Marshall, one of the most popular and powerful United States officials, who takes orders only from President Roosevelt and who is as close to the global war picture as any living man, has remained silent.

But reports of the interview created a furore which has taken front-page position in American newspapers since the dawn of 1944.

President Roosevelt, recovering from a slight attack of grippe, missed his regular press conference yesterday. Undoubtedly he will be questioned on this incident if he keeps his engagement with the press regularly for Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile, his press secretary, Stephen Early, has told correspondents that the president thinks much the same way as the spokesman who aroused so much commotion New Year's Eve.

The catch seems to be that such allegations would be hard to prove by any existing records. Gen. Marshall, fresh from close contact with all the Allied fronts and with access to the best military intelligence, might have information which he could not make public.

Leaders Enraged

But the enraged labor leaders, and some others, are demanding that the anonymous spokesman be revealed officially and made to prove his contention that labor disputes here have given renewed courage to a faltering enemy and are likely to cost Allied lives by prolonging enemy resistance.

Editorial comment generally demands, more or less urgently, that the speaker be named officially, some because they believe it will be difficult for him to support his claim, and others because they believe the charge against labor will be more effective if the source is made public.

There have been demands for a Congressional investigation but Chairman Andrew May of the House of Representatives Military Affairs Committee says there will be none.

Senator Clyde Reed (Rep.-Kans.) said yesterday "If the president had the intellectual integrity, the courage and candor of Gen. Marshall, he long ago would have said what Marshall has said," Reed commented.

Asthma Symptoms

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 6—(AP).— Ailing and 50 years old, a parrot began choking, coughing and sneezing like a human being, so Mrs. A. P. Sadler was convinced her bird had asthma. But, while Mrs. Sadler sought a remedy, the parrot calmly laid an egg and the asthmastic symptoms vanished. And that egg, explained the owner, was the bird's first and last because she belongs to a species that lays once in a lifetime.

C.W.A.C. Drivers Doing Fine Job

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 6 (CP). — Men as civilians may rant at women drivers —but the Canadian Army Overseas is glad, and proud, to see a Canadian Women's Army Corps girl behind the wheel of a motor transport.

"The CWAC's who drive for me certainly do a fine job — I wish the men drivers did as well," said L. Cpl. Jack Brooks of Toronto, in charge of the transport section of a large Canadian Army camp here.

"Look here," he said, pulling up the hood of an army staff car. "No engine could have been cleaner, more free of dirt and grease. Pte. Rosemary Ball of Vancouver drives this car. But they are all as well kept as that."

But the proof of the driver is out on the road and it does not take CWAC drivers many miles to prove they can handle their cars.

Pte. Edith Hill of Montreal drove us around London one day on a tour of CWAC barracks. She swooped in and out of lanes and winding streets and did not seem to have a moment's confusion even when darkness came and a big American truck loomed at us on the wrong side of the road.

"They are always doing that," she laughted. "It took all of us a long time to get used to the left hand drive."

Gen. Nathan Twining To Mediterranean

ALGIERS, Jan. 6 (AP).— Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who formerly commanded American air forces in the Solomons, has arrived in the Mediterranean area to command the 15th United States Air Force which will hammer at Germany from the south in co-ordination with blows from Britain.

Twining met correspondents in the presence of the man he replaces Maj.-Gen. James H. Doolittle, and said his job was simply that of increasing pressure on the German military establishment, hitting strategic targets within our range."

"It looks like a good setup—hitting them from both sides," Twining commented.

5th Body Recovered From Hotel Ruins

HULL, Que., Jan. 6 — (CP). — A fifth body was recovered today from the ruins of the Central Hotel destroyed by fire December 23.

Police said the body is that of a man but it could not be identified immediately. The four other bodies found since the search began also are unidentified.

Finding of the body left the number of persons unaccounted for since the fire at three. About 45 guests were known to have been in the hotel at the time of the outbreak. All but eight are known to be safe.

Schweinfurt Raid Disaster To Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP). — The bombing of the Schweinfurt Bearing Works in Germany "reacted disasterously for Hitler on the Eastern front," a Soviet commentator said today in a Moscow broadcast.

"This was a hard blow to Hitler's war machine and it reached disastrously for Hitler on the East front," he said. "Allied bombers are raiding war industries with the result seen in the catastrophic retreat in the east."

Sixty bombers were lost in the Schweinfurt attack, October 15 .

Baseball Has War Job To Do

By W. G. BRAHAM
(President, National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (AP). — One cannot make rash predictions with a global war in progress, but minor league baseball has demonstrated its determination to carry on in spite of difficulties encountered. The continuation depends upon the needs of the government in the all-important item of the manpower and it has first call.

As we go into 1944 our nine leagues which finished the 1943 season are planning to carry on. Practically all of the leagues that suspended because of the war are ready to reopen the moment they are able to muster sufficient players of professional calibre. They have protected their territories and kept their organizations and they are eager to return to active play and will do so at the earliest feasible opportunity . .

The season of 1943 —the second of World War 2— saw 10 minor leagues toe the mark, including the experimental class E League, the first ever organized in the history of the National Association. This little circuit failed to obtain concessions it desired and it was forced to shut down in July .. ..

We feel the attitude of the government and the public had much to do with our continuation. The government co-operated in the continuation of the game as far as it could without affecting the actual war effort, and the public responded to prove that baseball had a place and a job to do in the emergency.

Curling News

Despite the fact that the ice got real heavy and wet during the last half of the play on Wednesday night, some of the games were real close and the last end decided the game.

Bruce Scott made a real shot to win his game on the last end.

"Duffy" Westbrook squeezed out a win by one shot over C. Shaughnessy.

But boys it was tough going. It was just a case of getting a firm hold on the handle of the stone and then bow your head and let her go as hard as you could. On that kind of ice we would far sooner be playing inside No. 8.

The ladies' section officially opened their schedule games yesterday afternoon. They started off on keen ice but by 4 o'clock it was beginning to show signs of soft weather.

Miss Gladman and Mrs. Clarke were forced to play an extra end to declare the winner, Miss Gladman getting the verdict by two shots.

Mrs. Westbrook and Mrs. Hall had a close fight all the way through. The other game of Mrs. J. Fanning and Mrs. Bruce was somewhat one sided. Mrs. Bruce just couldn't seem to get going. However considering that it was the first time some had curled this season, play was not too bad.

Hialeah Opens

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 — (AP) — Glamorous Hialeah Park, with its pink flamingoes and exotic landscaping, reopens tomorrow after skipping an entire winter racing season because of wartime difficulties. The horses today make a final whirl around Tropical Park, where through 19 days of racing fans have passed $6,686,020 through the parimutuel wickets, or an average of $351,295 daily.

Team Withdraws

CALGARY—(CP)—Because of the Air Force headquarters' ban on the participation of R.C.A.F. teams in hockey competition leading to the Allan Cup or Memorial Cup effective today, the Alberta Services Senior Hockey League last night decided to withdraw from the Alberta branch of the C.A.H.A. to play garrison hockey.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There was only one possible answer after the torrid battle to a draw staged by Whipper Billy Watson and Texas Karl Davis in the main bout of the Frank Tunney wrestling show here Tuesday night and that was a return bout between the two gladiators. Another meeting was a natural in view of the tense tussle and Promoter Tunney has announced that he has re-matched Watson and Davis for a return engagement here next Tuesday night. "I simply had to do it," said the impressario. "Both boys demanded it and I fancy the fans are of the same opinion. They are two powerful, clever and courageous men and in order give them a chance to decide a winner I am making the time limit next week an hour and a half instead of the usual 60 minutes. That should be long enough to give one of them a chance to pull off two falls." The battle should be the toughest of the whole season. Nothing more strenuous in the way of wrestling has been seen here than the stuff the two gladiators handed out Tuesday especially in the first round which was 25 minutes of sustained action and excitement. Davis, the biggest and undoubtedly the most powerful wrestled the Whipper has been called upon to meet here this season, fights with a tiger-like style and Watson had to be at his best Tuesday or he would have been out of action in a few minutes. With ninety minutes to go next Tuesday the struggle should surpass anything that has been seen here since the mat game was revived.

With two lively games on the cards the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. will resume its activities on Friday night after three weeks without any action and it is expected that a real crowd will be on hand to watch the double-header. Second place will be at stake in the first game at 7.30 o'clock which brings together the St. John's team and the Generals. At present the Saints are riding out in front of the C.G.E. outfit on the strength of a one-point win scored over the Electricians on the first night of the season. Generals can wipe out the sting of that defeat and pull up on even terms with the church teams by a victory over them tomorrow night and they will go allout to achieve that result. However the Saints have been playing good basketball and they are hopeful of increasing their grip on second place and keeping close behind the leading Transports by coming through with their second win over the team from the big plant. It shapes up as one of the most interesting arguments of the season. In the second game the high-powered Transports take on the young Y Cadets. No one expects the latter to defeat the unbeaten leaders but the Cadets can be depended upon to play out the string and battle the Transports every step of the way. They are improving each time out and if enthusiasm and fighting spirit can produce a win they should start climbing up in the standing soon.

Hitting The Target

The veteran Jas. P. Fitzgerald, sports editor of the Telegram, hits the target right in the centre with the following: "Now it is the Army that is said to be preparing to clamp down on the over-emphasis of hockey which narrows down to the suggestion of under-attention to military training. A despatch from Ottawa reads: "Defense headquarters is collecting information on the number of Army teams eligible for competition in the Allan Cup and Memorial Cup contests this winter." That informaiton is as plain as the nose on your face. The teams in such competition are located at Victoria, Calgary, Winnipeg, Red Deer, Kingston, Petawawa, Halifax, Cape Breton and St. John (2). These are not all exclusively Army teams. Some of them are civilian, but they are so dependent on players from the Army as to be classed as such. Where the shoe pinches and what causes the ill-feeling is that hockey players are seen in Army uniform apparently going nowhere, just sticking around, and they have been doing just that for as much as two or three years. There may be perfectly valid military reasons which are not known to the public for this—the men in question may not be fit for overseas service, but can fill a niche here and not a hockey one, either. To the man or woman with a son or daughter in the front lines overseas that kind is purely ornamental as far as the war is concerned and that at the moment is the one thing of importance. Defence Headquarters could go farther and remove the cause of most of the trouble—some of those in charge of sports. After all, a soldier is just that in anybody's war."

* * * * * *

The following could come only from one place, the sport column of our old confrere George Soup Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "Oh hum! We note that Harold Ballard is going to be "drug up" on the O.H.A. Sub-Committee carpet to answer as to why he used "Red" Tilson down here in Oshawa on Saturday night—without the permission of the O.H.A. It seems that the O.H.A. has decided to take some action—after all the O.H.A. did send an official letter to the Oshawa club last week, stating that a request to sign Tilson to an Oshawa certificate must be refused since he had played three senior hockey games with Kingston this season. No doubt, judging by some moves that have been made lately—and a little bird whispers that other moves are in the offing—it wouldn't have mattered if "Red" had played 3 games in the N.H.L. and then wanted to return to Junior amateur (?) ranks but to play 3 games in senior O.H.A. and then return to Junior—tch, tch, NEVER! Well—at least not with Oshawa! We wonder, if while they are at it, the O.H.A. Big Wigs will ask Galt and Stratford Junior club officials to also stand on the "chastisement rug" and explain how they, in Junior O.H.A. amateur hockey, got away with an out-and-out player trade, two-for-one, three weeks after December 1st, the last day for player moves. Oh yes—there's a few moves that should be explained and it's about time the clubs, who "make" the O.H.A. and not "vice and worser," should ask the O.H.A. a few questions. Just for instance—since the rules are quite definite on the subject—will the O.H.A. suspend the entire Marlboro club, as should be the case, or will they merely rap our good friend Harold Ballard lightly on the knuckles and say "tut, tut, Harold-me-lad?" What would they do if it was Oshawa?

Break For Civilians

Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal intimates that the threat of a further army checkup on soldier teams is giving civilian players a break. Here is what he says: "Mention of a Headquarters checkup on army teams which might possible figure in the Allan Cup playdowns is bound to start some of the hockey men thinking again....With army players still on the move from one point to another and the air force deadline set for January 6 no one in hockey circles is willing to hazard a guess as to what may come next....Comandos are fortifying themselves with more civilian players....Johnny Horeck is the latest to join the squad and Albert Lemay is due for a comeback with the Quebec League squad....Horeck is a good enough professional baseball prospect to rate a tryout with Pittsburgh Pirates this spring....Meanwhile Edgar Laprade has put the O.K. on him as a hockey player.....Johnny Wilkinson will keep in shape working out with Commandos, who are well stocked with defencemen now.... They have five rearguards, but that's not saying they may not need one shortly....Wilkinson is on call with the Bruins and will continue working out with the Ottawa squad....Johnny Lacelles, who plays in the nets for Valleyfield, was searching for Wilkinson while home on a visit recently....Johnny evidently figures the Braves will finish up in the Quebec group,....Canadiens will move into Ottawa on February 2 with their league-leading N.H.L. squad....It will be a game to aid the Quebec League with the N.H.L. squad paying all expenses....A fair enough gesture by the N.H.L. squad, but as Tommy Gorman points out: "We can thank the senior group for the present high position of the Canadiens for without Durnan, O'Connor, Heffernan, Majeau and other senior group graduates we could never have carried on."

Airforce Team To Continue

SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 6—(CP). — The R.C.A.F. entry in the Cape Breton hockey league plans to continue operating in the loop, since the league is not in the running for the Allan Cup, Shaun Macdonald, league president, announced last night.

His announcement came on the eve of the deadline set by R.C.A.F. headquarters for the withdrawal of all air force teams from hockey leagues in which the winners would qualify for the Allan Cup playdowns.

"We don't plan to go on and try for the Allan Cup after the league schedule is ended," President Macdonald said. "The C.B.H.L. with entries from the army, navy and air force, is in the nature of a garrison league, all the forces here are on operational duties and they are interested only in their own league."

Staffords Trim Toronto Fuels

TORONTO, Jan. 6. — Staffords claimed first place in the Metropolitan Hockey League first series last night at Ravina Gardens by whipping Toronto Fuels 5-3. The victory also served to push Bowsers into second place in the first series because the Orphans blanked C.I.L., 5-0 in the opening game of the twin bill.

Jim Croft had a large evening for Bowsers, pushing in three goals and assisting in a fourth. Casey Bradshaw picked up three assists.

Toronto Fuels and Staffords were tied 3-3 until after seven minutes of the third period, but goals by George Grigor and Ken Grivel gave Staffords the win.

Bowsers— Goal, Evans; defense, Brennan, Schertzy; centre, Bradshaw; wings, Croft, Bowler; subs, Moorehouse, Barney, Simpson, Morton, Douglas, Taylor.

C.I.L.—Goal, Campbell; defense, Murphy, E. Gagnon; centre, Miller; wings, Hayward, Trotter; subs, B. Gagnon, Murray, Moore, Foster, McGee.

Referee—Pat Patterson. Linesman—Red Woods.

Upper Canada College Holds Hockey Night

TORONTO, Jan. 6.— With all proceeds going to the school War Chest, Upper Canada College will hold its 12th Hockey Night at Maple Leaf Gardens this Friday. Proceedings get under way at 8.15 o'clock.

Foster Hewitt, in charge of arrangements, reports the advance sale double that of last year. Prep and College students will be out in force while all Old Boys available are asked to attend.

The night has a three-ring circus aspect. There will be three hockey games: College Junior All-Stars (two teams); Prep Blues v. Prep Whites; Old Boys v. College; two relay races; Day boys v. boarders; house relay, and turkey draw.

Expected out with the Old Boys are: W. Lougheed, R. K. Bryson, J. H. Stafford, B. Little, R. R. Laidlaw, H. R. Lawson, G. A. R. Leake, D. C. Haldenby, M. Bremner, S. P. Burden, H. N. Cleland, T. J. Williams, T. E. Hull. For the College Team there will be: P. Hutzelak, M. Murphy, D. C. Copp, G. Beatty, J. E. Wright, H. Smythe, A. A. Holte, W. W. Spence, B. Lloyd, W. Hatch, M. H. Gee, M. Reid.

Town League Starts

SMITHS FALLS, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP)—Town League hockey will be revived in Smiths Falls Friday when Canadian Pacific Railway plays the Lanark and Renfrew Regiment and the Frost and Wood Co. teams meets Westport, it was decided at a league executive meeting last night. All four teams will participate in a semi-final series, with the survivors meeting in a best-of-three final series.

Move Animals

LONDON, Jan. 6.— (CP).— The German-controlled Vichy radio said to-day that all the animals remaining in the once-famous Berlin zoo had been removed after the last heavy raid on the German capital the night of Jan. 2. Most of the animals were sent to Barcelona, said the broadcast.

Lamour Stops Traffic

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Movie Actress Dorothy Lamour was named as a hazard to war production by a woman unionist attending a meeting of the Cleveland Federation of Labor last night. Zelma E. Monaham, a member of the Officer Workers' Union, declared she had been told Miss Lamour was responsible for the loss of "thousands of man hours when she went through war plants and stopped work."

NEW YORK, Jan 6 — (AP). — On first thought it seemed that Branch Rickey must have been talking to prod the other major league baseball magnates— or else just talking through his cigar smoke—when he suggested that pro football might supplant baseball as the national game in the United States.....But on second thought, why not?......If hockey, another rough, tough game, can stretch out its season from 22 games which was considered the limit when the National League started in 1917—to 50 or more, the footballers ought to manage a six-months season....As for playing fields, a few more touches of the big dough and the clubs should be able to build their own stadia......In fact, some colleges (like Pitt, for instance) might be willing to sell their white elephants cheap.

The National League has acquired another colorful umpire in rotund Lynton (Dusty) Boggess, who will take his fifth trip to the majors next spring to call balls and strikes ....As a player, Dusty made four trips to the big leagues, but admits he was there "only long enough for coffee"......The reason came out once when a Texas League rookie asked Boggess advice on how to shake off a battling slump..... "Shucks, kid, I don't know," replied Dusty. "Just do what I did. Retire after you've been in one for a dozen years."

Although Count Fleet twice won races at 1 to 20 odds last summer, he wasn't the year's shortest-priced winner. On May 10 a hoss named Indian Goods won at Victoria Park, Calgary, Alta., and returned $2.05 for $2 or 1 to 40.

Heads Fair Board

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—Alderman E. A. Band of Ottawa was re-elected yesterday as president of the Central Canada Exhibition Association for this third consecutive year. In 1943 Board of Directors also was returned to office without change.

The Association decided to again offer its co-operation to the Ontario Department of Agriculture for the sponsoring of a junior fair, similar to one held at Renfrew, Ont., last year.

10 Breeding Farms

TRENTON, N.J.—(AP)—Through legalized betting in New Jersey more than 10 thoroughbred-breeding farms now operate in the state, it was reported yesterday by the Racing Commission. New Jersey's share of track revenue for 1943 was $1,475,232, an increase of $400,000 over the previous year.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Announcing that not one death due to injuries suffered on college gridirons had occurred during the past season in the United States, Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, Purdue professor at Lafayette, Ind., yesterday proposed the study of crash helmets of British and American armed forces with a view to the improvement of football headgear. Most gridiron fatalities were due to head injuries, he reported in his 12th annual statistical review of the fall sport which, he declared, was not so hazardous as riding, driving or walking on streets and highways. Dr. Eastwood listed ten football deaths in 1943, nine of which had taken place in High School playing and one by an athletic club injury. None had taken place in sandlot games for the first time on record.

The Buffalo Club of the International Baseball League announced last night it would train at Hershey, Pa., next spring. The selection was made by Stanley (Bucky) Harris who, as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies last year, had assembled the major league squad there.

With Gabe Paul in the armed services, Cincinnati Reds yesterday announced the appointment of Bill McCorry as travelling secretary of the club. McCorry was the manager of the Ogden, Utah, club from 1939 to 1942.

New York Yankees yesterday revealed their schedule of 16 exhibition games in the spring. The squad will report at Atlantic City March 13 and will play the first pre-season fixture April 1 against the Phillies. Big League teams will be opposition in 11 of the games.

To Meet Zivic

Matchmaker Nick Londes of Detroit yesterday matched Jake La Motta of New York and Fritzie Zivic to fight a 10-round bout at Olympia Stadium Jan. 14. This will be their fourth meeting in the ring, with La Motta winning their last clash.

Chicago Black Hawks were reported last night to be dickering with Providence Reds of the American Hockey League for Goalie Mike Karakas but Business Manager Lou Pieri of the Providence Club declared he was waiting for a better offer from the N.H.L. unit.

Bronko Nagurski, ormer Minnesota football star who staged a comeback with Chicago Bears in the pro loop after a five-year layoff, announced at Minneapolis last night he had decided to return to the wrestling ring after an absence of 30 months.

Newark Bears of the International Baseball League decided yesterday to establish their spring training camp at Plainfield, N.J., using the High School athletic field.

Detroit Needs More Fight To Beat Jinx

By The Canadian Press

Some of Jack Adams' best friends must have passed along word that Detroit Red Wings require additional starch on attack to improve their lowly status in the National Hockey League race.

At least, greater offensive strength is what the Detroit Manager seems to have acquired in trading Joseph (Pat) Egan to Boston Bruins for William (Flash) Hollett. Egan long has been noted principally as a hard hitter and a solid blocker, while Hollett is the rushing type of defenceman.

Last year he eclipsed all N.H.L. rearguards in a scoring way, shattering the 41-point record held by Tommy Anderson of the now-defunct Americans with 19 goals and 25 assists. His punch will be sorely needed by the Red Wings, who share with New York Rangers the ignominy of the lowest goal total in the league.

Hollett may see action tonight when Detroit moves to New York for one of two scheduled games. Murray Armstrong, recently discharged from the Canadian Army, also is expected to make his first start with Detroit.

Toronto Maple Leafs bid to regain their second-place tie with Boston Bruins in the other game, opposing Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto. Leafs will be without Captain Bob Davidson, who suffered a fractured jaw Tuesday night against Montreal Canadiens.

Montreal Seeking Major League Tie-up

MONTREAL, Jan. 6 — (CP). — Montreal Baseball Club President Hector Racine, told about a suggestion this city be included in the major leagues loop, said "from a geographical standpoint we are ideally located here and I have full confidence in our sport fans to back up to the limit such a venture which, however, may require somewhat lengthy negotiations."

The suggestion to include both Montreal and Toronto International League baseball teams in the major leagues loop was made on Tuesday in Philadelphia by Bob Carpenter, president of the National League Phillies.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

By JACK SORDS

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (CP). — Here's a friendly New Year's tip for service rookies: Don't invite the sergeant-major into the boxing ring for a man-to-man fistic argument until you study his biography.

Visiting his Montreal home from the R.C.A.F. station at Yarmouth, N.S., WO. Bobby Leitham told Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley of an incident in Bobby's career as station sergeant-major. Leithem had occasion to give an aircraftman a couple of days C.B. The aircraftman took the punishment with ill grace and at the next station boxing show he told his mates he would like to don the gloves with the sergeant-major. Leitham heard of the challenge and accepted. Leitham tagged the aircraftman with his Sunday punch and the man was counted out. Bobby relates:

"I went over to see how he was. He was a good sport and shook hands. And as I walked back to my corner I heard him say to a guy in his corner, 'The sergeant-major has a wallop.'"

"That sergeant-major is the former bantamweight champion of Canada and once ranked in the first five for the championship of the world," said an officer sitting at the ringside."

Leitham, 32, now weighs 172 pounds.

Cauliflower Union;

Chairman Charlie Jones of the Vancouver Boxing Commission reveals that body now is affiliated with the Canadian Boxing Federation. Hitherto the C.B.F. has governed boxing only in Eastern Canada and Vancouver affiliation is the first major step toward establishment of a national organization to direct the cauliflower industry. Union of the Western Federation with the C.B.F. would be a desirable step. The Canadian Federation is affiliated with the National Boxing Association in the United States.

Marie, Mich.....Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara says Canadiens' Elmer Lach is the best two-way forward in the N.H.L.....H. St. Clair Silver, who observed his 86th birthday New Year's Day, still is an active curler at Halifax.

Power States Rule Remains RCAF Teams Out

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP)—An early ruling by Army authorities upon the status of hockey teams engaging in league competition is expected following Air Minister Power's statement to Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials yesterday that the R.C.A.F.'s decision to forbid Air Force teams from taking part in playdowns will remain unchanged.

There are Air Force teams in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Calgary, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Arnprior, Ont., and in a joint statement to the press after conferring with Maj. Power, Frank Sargent of Port Arthur, president of the C.A.H.A., and George Dudley of Midland, Ont., past president, said they visited Ottawa merely to see if Air Force teams and players could continue in competition until branch schedules were completed or some other limited form of competition authorized.

Wait for Army

Today is the deadline for participation by Air Force teams in Allan and Memorial Cup playdowns. It will mean the withdrawal of Air Force teams from leagues in Halifax, Sydney, N.S., Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, and the withdrawal of Air Force players from the Combines team in Calgary and from several other clubs.

Mr. Sargent and Mr. Dudley, who were reported likely to see Defence Minister Ralston, instead called upon Brig. A. E. Nash, vice adjutant-general, Brig. James Mess, deputy adjutant-general, and Maj. Ian Eisenhardt, sports officer.

In their statement the hockey officials made no mention of their visit to Army headquarters, and this was taken to mean that the Army's policy on hockey had not yet been definitely decided.

Should the Army decide to follow a policy similar to that of the R.C.A.F., senior army teams in Nanaimo, B.C., Calgary, Red Deer, Alta., Winnipeg, Kingston, Ont., and possibly Saint John, N.B., would be forced to drop out of their respective leagues.

Hornets Beaten 9-3 By Barons

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons—leaders of the western section of the American Hockey League—trounced Pittsburgh Hornets 9-3 last night on home ice to gain their sixth straight victory.

With a total of 37 points acquired through 16 wins and five draws in 27 starts this season, Cleveland now stands two points behind the league's leading Hershey Bears.

Last night Barons' centre Tommy Burlington collected two goals and three assists to tie Hershey's captain Wally Kilrea for the league's high scoring honors at 39 points. Tommy now has 14 goals and 25 assists.

Other Cleveland scorers were Earl Bartholome (2), Les Cunningham, Norman Locking, Pete Bessone, Lou Trudel, and Phil Hergesheimer. Marksmen for the Hornets were Wendell Jamieson, Bob Gracie and Tom Forgie.

By MYE BOSSIN

In the USA they have revived Rudolph Valentino's "The Eagle," in which he co-stars with Vilma Banky. Today's audiences laugh at the scenes that used to thrill the fans. The unrestrained type of acting went out with silent pictures. One reviewer claims that those who saw the film when it first came out are laughing at their own youth as much as anything on the screen. . . J. Carrol Naish, who may win the Academy Award as the best supporting player for his portrayal of an Italian prisoner in "Sahara," has never played his own nationality on the screen—which is Irish. After serving in the last war he stayed in France to become an actor. In 1926 he decided to go wandering again and shipped out as a deckhand on a boat bound for Shanghai. The boat got engine trouble and turned into a port not far from Hollywood. Naish jumped his ship, went to the Cinema City and has been there ever since. . . Margaret Sullavan, one of the screen's finest actresses, has always followed her own inclinations. She decided she would like to appear in a play and now she is on Broadway in "The Voice of the Turtle," a smash hit.

Gene Tierney will star in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn". . . Bob Hope will wrestle a 600-pound bear in "Road to Utopia". . . Allen Dwan, the ex-Torontonian who has directed so many films, is now a producer. He is responsible for "Around the World," which stars Kay Kyser. . . Vera Vague noticed a soldier wearing an unusual bracelet. She held his wrist and read the inscription: "Let go of him. He's mine—Louise". . . Bill Daniels, who was Greta Garbo's cameraman, is photographing Lionel Barrymore in "Three Men in White." "Maybe," Barrymore joked, "you can make me look like Taylor or Gable so I can be Hedy Lamarr's leading man". . . When Alfred Hitchcock, 100 pounds lighter, returned to England his friends said with amazement, "We never knew they were that short of food in the United States". . . Jack Pearl, famed some years ago as radio's Baron Munchausen and in obscurity since, will be back before the public as a movie comedian. . . Alan Ladd is taking singing lessons.

When Samuel Goldwyn organized a Hollywood troupe to tour army camps his announcement that only one red-head would be included caused much aggravation among his carrot-topped girls. Two of them, Virginia Cruzon and Dorothy Garner, got into a real brawl, hair-pulling and all, over who was to go. It seems it was a draw—because Sam decided to take them both to keep the peace. . . Hollywood is muscle mad. Everyone exercises and the place is over-run by physical instructors. In the gym at one studio this sign is featured: "The secret of health is the eating of onions. But the trouble is to keep it a secret". . . Claude Rains goes back to his native England to appear on the stage. . . Publicity isn't always a real guide. Though the papers are full of Frank Sinatra, the singer, Bing Crosby just won a radio poll by getting twice as many votes as his new rival. . . "Sweet and Low" will be the story of the life of Benny Goodman, the famed orchestra leader.

Brampton Army Wins At Borden

BARRIE, Jan. 6.— No. 24 B.T.C. of Brampton swamped T. & S. Wing R.C.A.S.C., Camp Borden, 18-2, here last night in the opening game of their O.H.A. Intermediate "A" group.

Brampton settled the game in the first period when they outscored T. & S., 4-1, then whacked home seven counters in each of the second and third periods. The losers got their other goal in the third period.

McComb led the Brampton goal-scorers with seven. Next was White with three. Creighton, McLaughlin and Montgomery clicked for two goals apiece. G. Maguire scored Wings' first goal, brother H. Maguire their other.

Brampton— Goal, Abrams; defense, Young, Dixon; centre, Lister; wings, McLaughlin, Creighton; alternates, Ayers, Bartliff, McComb, Montgomery White, Thorpe; sub-goal, St. Denis.

T. & S. Wing— Goal, Labrosse; defense, Ketcheson, Sandalack; centre, G. Maguire; wings, H. Maguire, Deshney; alterates, Henderson, Masson, Ferguson, Thompson, Patterson, Boddy.

Referee—John Dobson, Barrie.

Two Teams Left

HALIFAX — (CP) — The Halifax Senior Hockey League found itself with only two teams today, following the last appearance last night of the Halifax R.C.A.F. against Navy before the Air Force withdrawal edict went into effect. Navy, which trounced the Airmen 11-4, continues in the league with Crescents, a civilian team.

Baby Disappears From Yard Parents Frantic

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — A blond, curly-haired boy of 16 months, barely able to walk, vanished from the backyard of his Thornhill home yesterday afternoon, and at 1 o'clock this morning no trace of him had been found by nearly a hundred neighbors and police officers. The search was then postponed until dawn.

"He's gone." That was the only clue to the disappearance of David Charles Jackson, given by his 3-year-old brother Douglas to their distracted mother, Mrs. George Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson, who is not well, had dressed David and put him out into the yard of their Bayview Ave. home to play, according to her husband. Then she dressed Douglas and took him to join his brother. This was about 3:15.

Returning to the house, Mrs. Jackson picked up a play cart and took it to the yard. Not seeing David, she asked Douglas where he was. "He's gone," was all Douglas could tell her.

The mother searched the yard, and then becoming alarmed, notified a neighbor. School children in the vicinity joined in the hunt, and Mr. Jackson was called at his Toronto office.

As 6 o'clock neared and no trace of the child was found, police were called in, and other neighbors arriving home from their places of employment assisted, using flashlights and headlights of motor cars as darkness fell.

There was no immediate suggestion of kidnapping, nor was it believed possible that the child, barely able to walk, could make his way half a mile to a small creek back of the Jackson home.

Passing up no possibility, however, a search was made along the stream, ice-covered except for several holes. Then the creek was dragged, without finding any clue.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Toronto offered to send a bloodhound to assist in the search, but it was found this move would be almost useless, as alternating snow and rain during the day would have removed any scent the hound could have followed.

During the evening the distracted mother was taken to the home of a relative in Toronto and placed under a physician's care, while the father continued in the hunt that by that time had covered more than a square mile.

harassing the Japanese incessantly but unable to go further against the threat from the "Pimple."

Australian commanders decided their best bet was to try to surprise and confuse the Japanese defenders by something special in the way of bombardments.

Heavy Barrage.

One of the greatest artillery barrages of its kind in the Southwest Pacific was organized. More than 4,000 25-pounders were poured into the area of the "Pimple."

The daily harassing fire of Australian guns had just ended when suddenly every available gun in the region burst into terrific and sustained barrage. Then the guns became silent just as abruptly and Australian fighters appeared, leading a swarm of American dive-bombers. For 15 minutes they rained 500-pound bombs on the Pimple. Although it seemed only a pin-point, 75 per cent. of the bombs hit the target.

Almost as soon as the last bomb had exploded, artillery cut loose with a second devastating barrage for 10 minutes. The dive bombers came back to pepper the top of the ridge with bullets. Then the guns began another concentrated barrage of 20 minutes.

Then the infantry fire came—one man at a time in a dripping, cursing stream, charging straight at "rock face." The guns lifted their fire 50 yards while the Australians clawed their way up the sheer flank of the crag, each man climbing desperately behind the other, bayonet fixed.

Japanese counterfire was not heavy. As anticipated, the defenders were dazed by the weight of the metal flung at them.

The "Pimple" could hardly be seel. It was as if one of the mountain clouds had come down over its smoking sides. But the cloud was the smoke of innumerable bombs and shells fuming over the shaggy ridge.

Right up to the ramparts of the "Pimple" itself, the infantry scrambled, while fighters darted througn the smoke like terriers, lashing every target wtih lead. The Japanese were exterminated with remarkably light Australian casualties.

Shaggy Ridge is still shared with the enemy but the advantage is definitely with the Australians.

Clothing Workers Threaten Strike

MONTREAL, Jan. 6 (CP)—Officials of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, a Canadian Congress of Labor affiliated union, announced today that "a strike will be called in the Montreal men's and boys' clothing industry if between now and Jan. 15 our members are not granted an increase of 10 cents an hour."

Officials said their membership includes about 90 per cent of the clothing industry workers here and that a general workers' meeting yesterday approved their union's stand in the matter.

The collective agreement signed in July 1941, the announcement said, provided for an increase in wages if the cost-of-living index should rise above the 119.3 per cent point reached last September.

"Our employers have not yet made any move to comply with our collective agreement provision," the announcement added.

Flt. Sgt Burns reported with satisfaction that Sgt. Bill Forrest of Trail, B.C., downed the Nazi before he could get another burst away.

A Spitfire pilot, Flt. Sgt. Leo Tremblay of Quebec City, lost a leg and was badly burned when his plane crashed through a building while taking off on a night flight. But he hoped to follow the example of some other similarly wounded airmen and get back to Spitfires with an artificial limb.

Bdr. Mert Beatty of Moose Jaw, Sask., was put out of action by a shell from a British fighter plane. Mistaking the plane for an enemy, an ack-ack battery near Beatty fired on it. Assuming the fire to be of enemy origin, the plane strafed the area and one of its small shells scored a direct hit on the Westerner.

"I won't be sitting down for a long time," was the way Beatty smilingly explained where he was hit.

Want 400 Airports

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP).—Meeting under co-sponsorship of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada and the National Industrial Federation decided last night to hold a national convention early in March for discussion of the Aeronautical Institute's plan to encourage construction of 400 airports across Canada.

Head-on Crash Wrecks Trains

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP)—A score of passengers on a west-bound Canadian Pacific Railway on Wednesday suffered minor injuries when it collided with an east-bound freight a mile east of Spragge, 80 miles west of here.

Doctors and nurses were taken to the scene from Espanola, Blind River, and Thessalon.

Railway officials here could not give any cause for the mishap, which occurred at Mileage 38 of the Thessalon Sub-division. The passenger train was in charge of Conductor George Massicotte of Sudbury and Engineer W. H. Myers, also of Sudbury. The freight was in charge of Conductor J. N. Pinder of Sault Ste. Marie and Engineer C. Smale, also of the Sault.

Reports indicated little or no damage was done to the track. Passengers bound for points west of Spragge were being taken on by motor car and bus.

Aerial Warfare Expert Looks For Blows

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 6 — (AP).— The Germans' frontline fighter force—most of it concentrated in Western Europe—is 1,000 planes larger than a year ago, and the Nazis still have enough bombers to give Britain some "nasty smacks," an R.A.F. commentator said to-day.

This commentator added that the Germans are not attacking Britain in force because of their traditional policy of risking their forces only if there is possibility of substantial gain.

The Germans might attempt a raid in force for political and propaganda reasons, he said, and "we would be lunatics to assume we are not going to get a nasty smack one of these nights."

The commentator said the Allied qualitative superiority over German bombers probably was just as great as in 1940. He noted that the 1,000 increase in German fighters, while it did not sound like a great deal, was "a very remarkable achievement" considering the constant drain on the German air force and blows against its productive capacity.

The increase was achieved by a production drive and a shift in emphasis from an offensive bomber force to the more easily-made defensive fighter, he continued.

The actual state of the luftwaffe is reflected in a plane-conservation program, as shown by refusal to oppose Allied secondary but nonetheless destructive attacks in order to build up a force against major attacks an an invasion front.

The commentator said that aside from rocket "gadgets" the Germans had a singularly blank record of technical progress in 1943—that the principal achievement probably was ironing out the many kinks in the long-projected Heinkel 177 four-engined bomber. He added that some new German types may be expected this year.

supplied fighter cover for R.A.F. medium bombers pounding the invasion coast of France, the communique added.

The attack on Kiel was the second assault on that vital German shipbuilding centre by heavy bombers in as many days. The Berlin radio said the industrial city of Dusseldorf was also attacked, but this was not immediately confirmed.

To reach their targets, airmen knifed through strong defences which included rocket planes and fighters towing what appeared to be new type anti-aircraft bombs. Returning fliers said the bombs seemed to be about the size of 100-pounders and were towed on 40 or 50 feet of cable.

Despite the opposition the assault was described as successful.

HOSPITALS APPROVED.

In the list of 3,253 approved hospitals in United States and Canada issued by the American College of Surgeons appears the names of Nicholls Hospital with a bed capacity given at 133 and St. Joseph's Hospital with a bed capacity of 98.

FIRE REPORT.

The first fire alarm in three consecutive days occurred in East City early this morning, when firemen answered a call at 320 Euclid avenue just before seven o'clock. R. McLean is the tenant, and a chimney fire, which caused no damage, was responsible.

LIKES GETTING THE PAPER

Pte. Bud Lloyd stationed at Petawawa with the R.C.O.C. and now on leave says copies of the Examiner arriving at the big camp are in great demand. "Most of the boys have the paper sent on from home, and it is better than a letter for it gives all the news," he said. He believes relatives of soldiers stationed in camps across Canada would be doing the boys a great favor if they would just mail the Examiner to them after they have read it. Lloyd's home is at 75 Parkhill Road and before enlisting he was with Coleman Bros.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED

Wartime Prices and Trade Board's new order forbidding the eviction of tenants in multiple-family dwellings during good behavior has not brought about any repercussions in Peterborough yet, local Prices Board officials stated today. No inquiries on the order, which came into effect Wednesday, have been recieved at the Peterborough office, though a rentals man expressed surprise that this was so and said it was not unlikely that some questions might be raised by landlords concerning the order.

CASE WILL GO ON

Declaring that a conviction registered against Ernest Lean on the same charge had been appealed, W. J. Arthur Fair, counsel for Percy Edwards, Haultain, charged with hunting in the Peterborough County Game Preserve, suggested in police court this morning that the case should be adjourned until April when the result of the appeal would be known. Fish and Game Overseer Vernal Windsor who laid the charge and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., wanted to proceed, however, and Magistrate E. A. Gee set January 13 as the date for hearing the case.

NO WORD YET.

Mrs. Frank Peters, Jr., 19 Brown Street, has had no word indicating that her husband, Sig. Frank (Bill) Peters of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, might have returned on the hospital ship, Lady Nelson, which docked at Halifax this week. She and the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank I. Peters, 112 Hurley Street, had received letters written by the wounded soldier in which he said he expected to be home after New Year's, but to date their hopes for his return have not been realized. Sig. Peters was severely wounded in action four months ago, but his latest word home tells that his doctor now allows him to walk about with only the aid of a cane.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearing House in the past week amounted to $1,026,573.

ICE THICK ON STONEY

Ice is 14 inches thick on Stoney Lake at the present time, a resident who was in town this morning told the Examiner. No cutting has been done as yet, but according to this report it is likely to commence soon.

CAR STOLEN

During Wednesday night a coupe belonging to David A. Wilson was stolen from in front of 697 Elcome Crescent. The car was missing this morning and the theft was reported to the police.

WINDOW BROKEN

The window of the F. and G. store on George street near Simcoe street was broken Wednesday night when three soldiers accosted two girls who were standing in the doorway of the store, waiting for a bus. The girls attempted to move away when spoken to by the soldiers and in the confusion one of them was pushed against the other whose shoulder came in contact with the window. The glass had been cracked previously.

RESERVIST PROMOTED

Jack Coones, 31 Benson avenue, formerly a sergeant in the 4th Reserve Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery, has recently been promoted to the rank of provisional 2nd Lieutenant in his unit. The Battery had so much success with its recreational and sports evening held just before Christmas that it is now planned to hold programs of a similar type regularly each month. In addition to sports and entertainment, supper and refreshments will be enjoyed by Battery members.

LARGE CLINIC HELD

Ninety-eight donors contributed blood at the Wednesday morning Clinic, a number close to the record for any one day in the existence of the Clinic. The fact that there had been no clinic on Monday was partially responsible for the large turn-out, but an unusual number of donors from out-of-town points helped to swell the total. There were 10 persons from Campbellford and Lakefield, and Birdsall, Warsaw and Keene were also well represented. Employees from the C.G.E. numbered 45, and there were workers from seven other of the local plants as well.

ARMY RECRUITS

Eleven men, five of them from Peterborough, have enlisted in the Canadian Active Army through the Recruiting office in the Armouries during the past two weeks. Those living in the city are R. Baldwin, 465 Stewart; C. S. Bishton, 306 McGill; M. R. Harrison, 137 Lake; Arthur O'Donnell, 191 Rink; and Arthur Henshaw, 165 King street. Other recruits included W. J. Louckes, R.R. No. 3, Cobourg; G. H. Partridge, Warkworth; Carl Partridge, Morgantown; G. A. Golloher, Norwood; Floyd Deline, 48 Murney street, Belleville; A. P. Corbeil, Montreal. In addition to these Merle Hubbard, P.O., Berketon, Ont., who enlisted in the Army, was taken on strength of the R.C.A.F. for aircrew duties.

Plan To Collect Christmas Trees

Stripped of their brief and festive glory, the stripling Christmas trees which only a few yesterdays ago were the shrine and symbol of the spirit of the Yuletide are tomorrow to be gathered up from the curb lines and carted away to oblivion.

Supervision of this harsh but necessary duty has been assigned to Street Commissioner Burgess, and according to the information from City Engineer Parsons the public is being notified that their evergreens must be set out for collection on Friday. After that the householders will probably have to make their own disposition of the trees which will be piled up on Board of Works trucks and taken off to the dump the city uses just west of the old wintergreen patch in North Monaghan. Later on when they have dried for burning they will probably make a big bonfire, and the sentiment they kindled in so many homes will be only a memory with their bright lights and tinsel and the colored ornaments of red and blue and silver that greeted Santa Claus as he must have tarried in admiration as he placed his gifts on the fragrant limbs for the children of so many of the city's households.

Already many of these sapling pines and spruces which have perhaps been eight or twelve years growing in their woods have run the course of their purpose and are already waiting for the pick-up men. In some homes they have been broken and tossed on the hearth fires with piny crackling in the flames. At any rate their day is done, and with the feast of the Epiphany, today, commemorating the manifestation to the Gentile people of the birth of a Redeemer, the little Christmas of popular phrasing, the holiday season has definitely ended, and the new year is beginning to expand its days into the first month.

PROMOTED OVERSEAS—Cpl. Vincent Holland, son of Mrs. Virginia Holland, 182½ Simcoe Street, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. Formerly employed at the Raybestos, he went overseas in March, 1943.

Casualties High

MADRID, Jan. 6—(AP). — In an apparent attempt to show that the Nazi party is sharing fully in Germany's war losses, an article published in the December 31 issue of the Cologne Zeitung which was received here yesterday said one-fourth of the Hitler youth leaders had been killed in the war and another one-fourth had been wounded.

2 Conventions

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Chicago, host to 17 national conventions of the Democrats and Republicans, decided yesterday to ask both parties to convene here again this year—but trimmed the size of the financial inducement of other years to $75,000 to each party.

Norwood Soldier Killed On Italy Front

Sergeant Herbert Osborn of the Hastings- Prince Edward Regiment was killed in action in Italy on December 23 as reported to the Examiner today by W. E. Kavanagh of Norwood with whom the young soldier had been employed eight years in Dummer township.

Born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Sgt. Osborn came to Canada under the British Immigration and Colonization plan in 1928, and was directed to the home of Mr. Kavanagh who at that time was farming in Dummer township. He remained there for several years and then went to Hagersville returning to the Norwood district in 1938 from which he enlisted in the Spring of 1940.

Sgt. Osborn went to Picton to join the regiment which has been frequently mentioned in despatches all through the Mediterranean campaign and especially since the landing in Italy.

One of the Canadian Press news men with the forces in Italy referred in one of his cabled stories to the young Englishman from Norwood as recalled from the Examiner of October 22:—"An enemy machine gun post was wiped out by Sgt. H. Osborn who risked his life to get a Bren gun into a firing position after some of his men made repeated unsuccessful attempts."

Good Friend

"We thought a great deal of him," said Mr. Kavanagh who is now a storekeper in Norwood in the premises next to the bank. "The news came to us from one or two sisters in this country. Miss Violet Osborn wrote us on January 3 from Kingston informing us of her brother's death in the heavy fighting in taly."

The following is a quotation from the letter:—"I felt I should let you know as he always spoke so highly of you and all the people around Peterborough who had been so kind to him. He used to say that yours was his second home. I wish to thank all of you for your kindness to him. My sister and I feel very badly indeed as we had word only two weeks ago that my youngest brother in the British Army was reported missing in October. We have had no further news of him. It is hard to take, but I guess we have to take it like millions of other people. It is the way Herbert wanted it. He said he would rather be killed than left a cripple for the rest of his days....I am sorry to have to write you such sad news."

Mr. Kavanagh said Sgt. Osborn was all through the Sicilian campaign and then Canadian regiments went on into Italy under Montgomery's leadership.

Prefers Below Deck

TORONTO, Jan. 6—(CP)—Take it from a sailor who has survived four torpedoings, the fire hold is the safest place on a ship in wartime. Stoker First Class Percy Southall of the Royal Navy, visiting relatives in Toronto while recuperating from wounds suffered in his latest adventure at sea, said in an interview he prefers the fire hold because "you're away from the bombing and shrapnel and stuff."

Lt. Hubert Vallery Reported Missing In Italy

Lieut. Hubert James Vallery has been reported missing in action on December 13, according to word received by his wife on December 27. Lieut. Vallery was fighting with his regiment, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Picton, Ont., which is with the British 8th Army in Italy. He was reported missing during the fifth day of the drive across the Moro River towards the town of Ortona on Adriatic Sea. Born in Peterborough, Lieut. Vallery attended Peterborough Collegiate and he graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, where he received his initial military training in the C.O.T.C. From there he proceeded to Brockville, Ont., where he received his commission September 5, 1942. He went overseas from Camp Borden in May, 1943, and from England on to Africa, Sicily and then to Italy where he joined his regiment. His wife and family are anxiously awaiting further news. His brother Pte. Gordon Vallery is also overseas, at present in England.

Truck Strikes Fallen Cyclist

Elldridge Barry, 285 Romaine street, sustained two fractured ribs and is suffering from shock as the result of a truck-bicycle accident on Gilmour street Wednesday.

Ernest C. Braund was driving his truck west on Gilmour street and Barry was riding a bicycle in the same direction. A little distance west of Park street Braund told police the cyclist fell off the bicycle.

The driver applied his brakes and tried to avoid hitting the man on the road but the surface was slippery and the truck skidded into Barry.

Braund took the injured man to the office of Dr. Robert Young and later he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation.

Lieut. Claire Mason Promoted To Captain

Lieut. A. Claire Mason, No. 7 Company, C.W.A.C., of Peterborough has been promoted to the rank of Captain, it has been announced by Headquarters at M.D. 3.

Capt. Mason is the officer commanding the Ordnance Detachment C.W.A.C. at Barriefield camp and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mason of Peterborough. She is also a sister of Major Herbert Mason, now in Africa.

Onion Lovers Face Meagre Fare Due To War Expect Turnip Stew To Be Order Of Day

Onions from Egypt are such a slim possibility of import that George Clark, manager of the fruit department of National Grocers, accentuated the contingency of perhaps with special emphasis this morning

The domestic onion is rapidly disappearing outside the channels of the wholesale trade, and the lifting of the tariff on the United States product at the first of the year is unlikely to bring relief to this side of the border where their crop was hardly enough to supply their own tables, garnish their steaks, and flavor their goulash.

Months ago local growers predicted that their onion harvest was very light, and would hardly tide them into the New Year. Now they say that carrots will be down to the bottom of the bins or roothouses by next month; beets are already scarce parsnips likewise, and the last of the cabbages will probably be sold early in March. But, yes, we have plenty of turnips.

Turnips Answer.

These estimates are generalizations, but they all point to limited stocks, and the prospect of spring months bare of the common vegetables. At that rate the plebian beef stew of restaurant fare, or the lamb stew if you prefer it, will have to depend on the big turnip crop of 1943. As for onion, the trade may see no more of them until the Texas silver skins begin crossing the border, or until something like a miracle may transport a between-season offering from the Valley of the Nile.

Have you ever walked along main street of a cold winter night, about 11 or 12 o'clock, and been almost stopped in your track by a restaurant emanation that you evidently recognize as a tidbit of he-men, T-bone steak and onions, the rich and slightly pungent aroma pervading the crisp air as if it were a brandial presence through which you struggle hungrily until you have left it behind to those who can afford and digest at midnight such opulent food.

STILL SAFE—Gnr. J. T. Parsons, son of Pte. J. Parsons and Mrs. Parsons, 262 Murray Street, notified his parents two days ago that he was well and happy, even though he is taking an active part in the front line battles in Italy. He is serving with the R.C.A., having gone overseas in March, 1943. Gnr. Parsons took part in the Sicily fighting, and after a two-weeks' rest, proceeded to Italy with the British 8th Army. He formerly worked at the Dewart Mills.

Lindsay Woman Charged With Bribing Police

LINDSAY, Jan. 6—(ENS)—Charged with attempting to bribe a police officer, Mrs. E. McNish of Victoria Road was committed for trial in higher court following preliminary hearing before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court here Wednesday afternoon. County Constable John Dixon stated that when he accosted the accused in regard to the theft of wood she attempted to bribe him with $10.

Mrs. McNish along with her two sons, Orville and Gordon, was charged also with stealing part of cord of hardwood from School Section Number 6, Bexley township. In giving evidence, Walter Lytle, school trustee, stated that he and Constable Dixon had traced the McNish car from the school to Victoria Road and found two or three pieces of hardwood in it. School children had informed him that the wood had been stolen for several nights.

R. I. Moore, counsel for the defence, asked for trial by judge and jury on the theft charge also but owing to the fact that the wood was valued at only $3 Magistrate Gee decided that the case should be heard in police court.

Gestapo Touch

BARCELONA, Jan. 6—(AP)—The unidentified bodies of six persons, each bearing a placard reading "The National Anti-Terrorist Committee" were found on a hill above the city of Nice on the French Riviera last night, according to advices from France. Within the past few days the bodies of six other persons have been found in various parts of France, including the city of Lyon, bearing the same signs, the advices said.

Defense Counsel To Attack Closing Bylaw

After all the evidence had been heard and counsel had indicated the line of argument they proposed to follow, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court late Wednesday afternoon, adjourned the case in which Harry Schwartz of the Pattenick store was charged with a violation of the city's early closing bylaw by keeping the store open on the night of Saturday, December 11, until Tuesday next. On that day T. J. Carley, K.C., counsel for Schwartz and City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., who is prosecuting, will present their arguments and judgment will likely be given.

Mr. Carley intimated that he proposed to attack the validity of the bylaw on a number of counts. In the first place, he said, he objected to the petition upon which the bylaw was based because, he declared, it had included dry goods store as well as ladies' ready-to-wear stores when it was signed by Schwartz and others. Again defense counsel submitted that the bylaw had failed to follow the form of the bylaw and instead of stipulating that shops should be closed between the hour of 6 o'clock on Saturday evening and 5 o'clock on the morning of the next business day, as the petition read, had said that shops must be closed between 6 o'clock on Saturday and 5 o'clock on the morning of the next day.

"That is Sunday," declared defense counsel, "and I submit that neither the municipality nor the province can legislate in regard to Sunday. That comes within the jurisdiction of the Dominion."

Mr. Carley also argued that the bylaw was defective because it mentioned stores instead of shops and he pointed out that in the act under which the bylaw had been passed the word used was "shops."

Defence counsel also said that the occupier of the Pattenick store was W. Pattenick and not Schwartz who was the manager.

Mr. Huycke intimated that he was relying on the saving clause of the act which made the servant or agent responsible under certain conditions.

Sketch Of Store

Hearing of the evidence took most of the day. Inspector James F. Reid and Constable Harold Mealey of the police department were called by the prosecution and gave evidence as to the nature of the goods displayed for sale in the Pattenick store. The court adjourned for five minutes at one stage while Inspector Reid prepared a sketch of the store to show the layout.

Hyman Abramson who until the beginning of the year operated a store next door to the Pattenick establishment said that he had visited the Pattenick place on a number of occasions and that he estimated that ladies' goods comprised 60 to 65 per cent of the store's business.

Harry Schwartz, the only witness called by the defence, explained that the order to keep the store open on Saturday nights had been issued by W. Pattenick, the owner. He admitted that on the night in question the store had been open for business.

To Mr. Carley the witness said the business was owned by W. Pattenick and that he (the witness) was manager.

"We are operating a chain variety store," he said in answer to a question as to how he described the business. He estimated that the ladies' ready-to-wear part of the business did not comprise any more than 30 per cent of the total, either in terms of value or floor space.

To Mr. Huycke he said that he was not prepared to state the amount of sales in any one department of the business.

After counsel, at the suggestion of Magistrate Langley, had presented the outline of their argument, the case was adjourned until Tuesday.

War Work At 80

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—(AP).—He had worked as a guard at a North Side war plant for two years without an absence. When he didn't show up one afternoon his bosses were anxious to find the reason. It seems John Moeller had a valid excuse. He had come out of retirement to take a war job after the United States entered the war. After two years at it, he took a half-holiday to celebrate his 80th birthday.

Get 2 More Bodies

HULL, Que., Jan. 6 — (CP). — Searchers yesterday recovered two more bodies—the fifth and sixth—from the blackened ruins of the Central Hotel, leaving two persons still unaccounted for since the fire swept through the 60-year-old structure December 23. Approximately 45 guests were known to have been in the hotel the night of the fire and all but eight are known to be safe.

3 New Members Be Named To Health Board

The first victims of the city council's automatically discharging resolution of last June are A. A. McIntyre of the City Trust Commission, and Aldermen Dutton and Sullivan, and David G. H. Melton of the Board of Health.

In the reappointments to be made by the Council in its extension of the municipal organization, there may be some other present incumbents of office to whom the indiscriminate resolution with apply.

Those who follow the Council's affairs may remember that a resolution was adopted six or seven months ago, aimed at perennial appointments, limiting henceforth all such terms to three years.

Although no precise purpose was mentioned at that time, it seemed to be the general opinion that the Council was adopting that indirect means of removing the long service members of the City Trust Commission. It was said then that the more courageous method would be to continue to deal with each reappointment and also to muster up enough resolution to discard any of those officials who it was felt, for one reason or other, should be replaced. Everybody knows that most of the members of the City Trust are elderly men, and it seems evident that this was one of the groups the Council was pointing at when it set the automatic trap that applies a peculiarly proscrustean method to such a simple duty as these municipal appoints apparently have been.

By the effect of the resolution, Mr. McIntyre, a former mayor of Peterborough, cannot be appointed to the Commission for another term of years.

And the three members of the Board of Health are caught up in the same swath. Possibly Mr. Melton was retiring anyway, as he was the representative of the Board of Education from which he had already severed a distinguished connection.

Peterborough's Board of Health under the chairmanship of Alderman Dutton has easily been one of the most energetic auxiliaries in the municipal household. Its work in improving the quality of the milk coming into the homes of the city, and at the same time building up goodwill between the city and the dairy farmers of the district; the long and patient and persistent campaign to raise the standard of Peterborough restaurants is another success. That accomplishment through a period of five to ten years has been accentuated by the recent press criticism of the Toronto Board of Health in its neglect of restaurant standards.

Increased clinical and nursing service for the public are other features of the Department, which to those who know it best has deserved reappointment and immunity from a purblind resolution which simply sweeps everything out of its path.

Members of the Nicholls Hospital Board and the Public Library Board are other objectives of annual appointments. It is understood that John R. Marshall if the trustee of the Public Library who no doubt would have been reappointed by the council at an early session, but by the effect of the 1943 resolution has deprived itself of the right to return him to the Board which citizens generally believe is doing a first class community work year in and year out.

Canada Packers Employees Boost War Fund

In a switfly moving world, the things happen today and by tomorrow become forgotten in the whirl of events which come along to crowd out what still should remain important, because of their value and practical worth to the community and country in general.

In a recent statement occurring in a letter from G. S. Mathews, the manager of Canada Packers Ltd., to the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund, which says "The whistle still blows at 11:15 a.m." there lies much significance and one could almost detect a certain justifiable pride in the achievements of the workers under his supervision, for things that are worth-while and of such a constructive nature as this implies are very much worth keeping in mind, instead of being lost sight of, such as it the case so often in the hurry of modern day events.

For a long time now, the whistle at the Canada Packers plant has blown every Friday morning at 11:15, which begins a fifteen minute period when the workers give of their time and service for the splendid object of giving service to others, and particularly to those whom the misfortunes of war have adversely affected in one way or another.

There is quite the possibility that having done this for a long time now its true significance may be lost sight of, which in itself would not be giving it the regard in which it should be held, for all deeds of good deserve a perpetuation of thought, for the splendid inspiration they give both to the workers themselves and the others who might follow after.

Give Another $100

This same letter spoken of previously contained another cheque for $100 from the Canada Packers Employees Chest Fund, which has generously given on previous occasions to help the victims of air raids over Britain through the local and district fund, giving it a fine boost at a time when folk should be reminded that there still remains a considerable need for help to be sent to the Old Land for this purpose, and that having recently accomplished something very worthwhile, its best services lie in keeping up the good work, until the need no longer exists.

Pass $72,000 Mark

This nice contribution places the fund well above the $72,000 mark, which for 37 months of operation, is close to an average of $2,000 a month, a record of which all those who have assisted may feel justly proud of.

Included in today's list are also two penny box collections made from those located in T. H. Hooper's centre store, and the In and Out Shop on Wednesday, each playing their part in doing some good to help others in need.

Reta I. Watson Weds Royce Hannah

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6 (ENS)—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Anderson in Seymour East on Wednesday, when Reta Isobel, only daughter of Mr. Allan G. Watson and the late Mrs. Watson of Campbellford became the bride of Royce R. Hannah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hannah of Murray township.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pink sheer street-length frock with long full sleeves. The neck and bodice were of lace and the waistline was shirred while her finger tip veil was of matching shade. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and baby's breath. Miss Jessie Gratton was bridesmaid and she chose a blue sheer dress cut on lines similar to the bride's. She carried Briarcliff roses and baby 'mums. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Harry Hannah of Frankford. Rev. J. R. Bick officiated and during the signing of the register Miss Isobel Irwin sang "I Love You Truly" while Mrs. A. G. Watson played the wedding music.

Following the ceremony Mrs. E. L. Anderson was hostess to a reception and wedding dinner and was assisted by Mrs. Henry Bakes of Campbellford, Mrs. M. Petherick, Mrs. E. McMullen, Mrs. Roy Fry and Miss Irene Miller. Mrs. A. G. Watson of Campbellford and Mrs. Charles Hannah of Frankford assisted in receiving. Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and other points and on their return they will reside near Frankford.

Many Soldiers Entertained In City Homes

A great deal of work was accomplished in the arranging of Christmas hospitality for men from the Training Centre, and over 200 soldiers were entertained by hostesses throughout the city during the holidays, Miss Gertrude Cox reported at the monthly executive meeting of the Women's Voluntary Services on Wednesday. Miss Cox also said that many girls had answered the request for dancing partners for the dances held at the Centre.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president, received reports from committee conveners and Miss Frances Bonnycastle stated that 210 hours had been put in at the Uptown Recreation Centre during the month of December. In the absence of Mrs. J. H. Matthews, the chairman, read the report on war savings, which showed that the Miss Canada girls had worked 24½ hours for the three Saturdays in December, and had sold $84.50 in War Savings Stamps. Miss Genevieve Fowler reported for the library committee, which is on duty at the camp library three evenings a week.

During this meeting, it was also announced that the W.V.S. had been asked to assist the I.O.D.E. in the city-wide campaign for funds and books for the camp library project.

Soap Appreciated Overseas I.O.D.E. Is Told

Letters of appreciation for Christmas parcels were read from boys overseas at the monthly meeting of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., held in the Y.W.C.A., Wednesday afternoon. One letter, from Lieut.-Col. G. Murray Fraser, mentioned especially the wide selection of articles in each box, and continued by praising the amount of soap sent. He explained that soap is rationed in England, with two cakes of soap or one cake and six ounces of soap chips being the ration per person per month.

Another letter, from Major D. C. MacDonald, told of his receiving a box which had been sent for one of his boys who had returned to Canada. The box was raffled, and the proceeds were used to help provide Christmas dinner.

The regent of the Chapter, Mrs. A. Leach, was in the chair for this meeting, and announced that the next sewing meeting would be held Monday afternoon, January 10, at the home of Mrs. B. W. Harvey, 206 Sherbrooke street. As the annual meeting is being held in February, the time has been changed and the February meeting, which is the annual meeting, will be held on the regular day, but will begin at 2:30 p.m. instead of 3:00 p.m.

Phyllis E. Kempt Wed In Keene

Bittersweet and evergreen formed the setting in Keene United church recently, when Rev. George Murray officiated at the ceremony which united in marriage Phyllis Eileen Kempt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kempt, Keene, to Jack Mackness, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mackness, 223 Princess street, Peterborough.

Lois Wright played the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Marion Biggs, who sang during the signing of the register, "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor-length satin, with a gathered bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves coming to a point over each wrist, and a slight train. Her finger-tip veil of white net was caught to her head with a white feathered cap, and she wore gold slippers and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. V. Rawlence, of Peterborough, was matron of honor in a frock pink net, with sweetheart neckline, and puffed sleeves. She wore a pink dutch cap, silver slippers, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Victor Rawlence was best man, and Harold Kempt, brother of the bride, and Art Heal were ushers.

At the reception the bride's mother receved in a dress of gold crepe, with black accessories, and the groom's mother received in black and white crepe, wtih black accessories. Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a mauve dress, black hat and accessories, and a Chesterfield coat trimmed with a set of Russian squirrel furs.

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officers

The annual supper and meeting of Branch 52 of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion was held in the Legion Hall, with the president, Mrs. E. Carter, in charge for the election and installation of officers.

The executive for 1944 is as follows: President, Mrs. G. W. Downer; first vice-president, Mrs. A. Parrington; second vice-president, Mrs. G. C. Stevens; sceretary, Mrs. H. Howell; treasurer, Mrs. E. Millard.

Reports fom committee conveners indicated a good financial year. Money was raised through socials, bingos, lunches, afternoon teas, apron sales, and rummage sale to help carry on the relief and war work of the group.

In October two delegates from this branch had been sent to London to the provincial command, and Mrs. E. Houghton, war work convener, listed 249 articles, including layettes, quilts and sweaters, which had been made and given to the Red Shield for distribution to war victims in Britain.

Ask Peterborough To Give $5,000

Peterborough's objective in the camp libraries campaign to be conducted by the I.O.D.E. chapters, is $5,000, it was announced at the monthly meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., and Mrs. W. Belleghem, convener of the committee to raise funds, reported that the canvass would take place from January 10 to January 22. In addition, Mrs. Gordon Hall, secretary for the committee, asked for more volunteers for the city-wide canvass.

Mrs. J. K. Hughes, regent of the chapter, presided at the meeting, which was held Wednesday in the Y.W.C.A., and reports from committee conveners were given. Mrs. I. H. Keefer, educational secretary, advised that the adopted school had received the books sent by the chapter, and it was decided to send pictures and an I.O.D.E. calendar to this school.

The welfare convener, Miss D. Burgess, told the meeting that milk was being supplied to some children, and that a special treat had been provided for the men in hospital at the Training Centre at Christmas. Mrs. S. J. Graham was named convener of the nominating committee, and Mrs. T. J. Carley gave a paper on "Current Events."

War Is Declared On Smoking Girls

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 6.—(CP).—Mrs. Myrtle Banister, a veteran organizer of Nashville, Tenn., has alloted herself five years in which to form a world-wide organization to stop women from smoking and drinking.

Now, little more than five months after undertaking the project, she has organized "Global Thinkers, Inc.," with key groups in six states and plans for a world conference in Nashville next June.

The militant organization has set its target a minimum of 1,000 women in each state who will pledge to abstain from alcohol and nicotine- and who will each sponsor annually one girl of junior high school age for membership in the junior department.

Under this arrangement, Mrs. Banister foresees a time when she will link 48,000 girls a year to her organization, while by a letter prepared for distribution to 50,000 leading women throughout the world, including Queen Elizabeth of England, she hopes to justify the name chosen for the group.

The states in which chapters already have been organized by Mrs. Banister are Kentucky, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee. In Utah the idea needed only a spark to catch fire, Mrs Banister said, and organization there is proceeding under its own power.

The Globals plan an educational program to be carried out by means of a publication which will stress the health aspects of smoking and drinking and which will also deal with child welfare, immigration, international affairs, juvenile delinquency, marriage and divorce, post-war reconstruction, racial problems, social and world planning, social diseases, and women and crime, Mrs. Banister stated.

She said the corporation which will be domesticated in each state, would operate on a business basis, with President Richard Massey of Massey College in Birmingham as head of its national board.

For Friday, January 7

THIS DAY may demand particular attention to affairs with keen insight, swift grasp of opportunities, and perhaps specialized skill or information in order to make the most of tricky circumstances. The way seems beset with danger and losses, through carelessness, mistakes, flightiness, or false moves in connection with writings, contracts, agencies, or litigation. Restlessness or nervousness may cause trouble or even physical accident, with loss of standing or good name. With prudence and sagacity excellent results might grow from doubtful beginnings. Be ready but act with discretion, not in confusion or excitement.

Those whose birthday it is may find that the final outcome of their efforts may depend upon their prudent, intelligent, and well-organized preparedness for meeting perplexing or doubtful situations and circumstances. There are some promises of worthwhile success if special talents and skills are backed up by serenity, determination and precaution, not wayward, confused or careless acts. Papers, contracts, litigation, funds and personal hazard are involved in such lack of attention and consideration of treacherous conditions. Even the reputation is at stake.

A child born on this day may be clever, able, and ambitious, but a tendency to expediency, rash or doubtful conduct may deny its progress and stability.

Victory Workers Raise Sum of $200 During Year

The amount of work which can be accomplished through steady and faithful effort was illustrated at the annual meeting of the Victory Workers when reports showed an intake of over $200 and a balance of a little over $30 in the club's treasury to start the new year, proving that their money is truly working for victory.

The twenty-four members of this group have an office on George street and meet every week to work on quilts and to plan new ideas for raising funds for cigarettes for soldiers and donations for the British War Victims' Fund, Aid to Russia Fund, Chinese Relief, Greek Relief and Milk for Britain Funds, all of which received donations from the Victory Workers in 1943.

The ladies made 35 large and 8 baby quilts during 1943, and gave them to auxiliaries in Peterborough for distribution where they were most needed. Several donations to the Corvette Peterborough have also been made, and cigarettes have been sent to each boy whose mother is a member of the group.

At the annual meeting Mrs. R. Whalon was in charge of the election and installation of officers, which resulted as follows: President, for a third term, Mrs. B. L. Fowler; vice-president, Mrs. J. J. Quirt; secretary, Mrs. J. Rose; treasurer, Mrs. K. Simpson; buyer, Mrs. E. H. Crofts; social convener, Mrs. A. Smith; telephone conveners, Mrs. E. Langton and Mrs. A. T. Pink; quilt conveners, Mrs. E. H. Crofts and Mrs. J. Crozier.

The work of the group is voluntary, and the members appreciate the assistance, financial and otherwise, given them by people interested in their work.

DOROTHY DIX

A girl who signs herself "Anxious Marie" wants to know how to make a man propose. Ah! That's asking, and it takes a bit of doing as the English say It all depends upon the personality of the man, for the technique that might work like a charm with Percival might fall flat as a pancake with Sam. Some men like to do all of the wooing, while others have to be bribed, cajoled, inveigled, even shanghaied into saying: "Will you?" to a girl.

If you doubt this assertion, just reflect that you have never heard any man tell how he proposed to his wife. Nor have you ever heard any woman tell how her husband popped the question to her. That is one secret that they bury in their bosoms and that the rack and the thumb screws could not drag out of them, so it is no use to ask Grandpa how he did it, nor to try to get a few tips from Grandma about how she wangled an engagement ring out of him.

Now, as has been herein aforesaid, a girl must deal with a man according to his nature and before she wastes her time and effort trying to pry out of him what the Scotch call the "hard words," she does well to do a little serious thinking about what manner of chap he is. If he is a glib love-maker who addresses her at sight as Miss Beautiful and asks her where she has been all these years that he has never met her when he was seeking his heart's ideal, she should let his sweet talk go in one ear and out of the other. He doesn't mean business. That is just his line and he doesn't expect her to take it as anything except pleasant conversation.

Neither should she put too much stress on the love-making of the Perpetual Petter who camps in her parlor chairs and eats her mother's good cooking and says every endearing thing to her except "Miss Smithers—Mary—darling, may I assume your board bill and shopping ticket for life?" A girl may lead that sort of a chap up to the proposing point, but he balks at the edge of it and it takes a lot of shoving to push him over the brink.

Not be confused with the Perpetual Petter, however, is the dumb lad who hangs fire in his love-making because he loses his nerve when he tries to tell Angelina about the state of his heart, and that he has gotten a raise in his salary, so what about a little bungalow built for two? Time and again he braces himself up to the point of asking her to he his, but at the crucial moment he chokes up on his Adam's apple and asks her if she doesn't think we are having seasonable weather for this time of the year.

SPICY PINK WITH BLACK—The draped pink bodice of this V-necked frock has pointed pockets attached, weskit fashion, at the waistline. These are edged with broad embroidery made with tiny jet beads. Any of the pink shades from China or Latin-America get first billing on the season's dramatic clothes. A fine thing, too, for it is rarely if ever that a body's complexion swears at bright, clear pink. In this frock, good choice for first nights and other galas when old time, prewar formality is too much of a good thing the pink is used for the bodice, and a short black skirt is allied with it. The model is entirely rayon crepe.

Short Supply of Vegetables Can Be Overcome in Winter

The old round of carrots, turnips, cabbage and onions is getting a jolt. One hostess pickles her carrots, another serves her turnips raw in strips; another uses red cabbage in her slaw or serves shredded green cabbage and another cook-genius springs an "Onion-Custard Shortcake" on me."

Further,—I was invited to a lovely dinner where my hostess had a Chinese-cook-waiter-houseboy. He grows bean sprouts in her basement, and he told me where I could buy them fresh. They served them with roast duck.

Take notice that from now on bean sprouts are going to be given so much publicity in these columns you will have to grow them in self defence. Forget they are usually served with chop suey or chow mein. Serve bean sprouts as a vegetable regularly—they are extremely high in Vitamin A and taste wonderful.

Pickled Carrots

Small whole carrots are best for this, but if large carrots are cut into regular shapes that will do nicely.

Cook small whole carrots which have been well scrubbed and trimmed in salted water until they are just barely tender—not soft at all. Drain. Cover with following vinegar: 1 quart spirit of vinegar (for 2 quarts carrots), 2 rolls of stick cinnamon, 10 whole cloves, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon salt boiled together 5 minutes. If preferred carrots may be parboiled 5 minutes, and cooking may be finished in the vinegar. Seal in sterile jars. Ready to use in two weeks.

Onion-Custard Shortcake

Comes second on the agenda because it is such a good meat-stretcher—we are obliged to Ann Adam for this:

Saute 4 medium large onions in 3 tablespoons bacon fat until tender and golden. Season with salt and white pepper. Make one recipe of your favorite tea-biscuit mix (using 2 cups flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons fat and milk to moisten is good) and pat into buttered 8-inch cake pan. Cover with the sauteed onions. Pour over these a mixture of 1 egg beaten with ½ cup milk. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. To serve cut in squares and pass gravy. Swiss steak, broiled steak, roast beef, fried meat cakes or any meat that yields a nice brown gravy is ideal with this shortcake.

Queen Cabbage (using red cabbage)

Shred red cabbage as finely as possible with very sharp knife. Cover with cold water and quickly bring to boiling point and boil 10 minutes. Drain. Add 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice, dash of pepper. Stir around in pan to brown cabbage a little. Serve while still a little crisp.

Creamed Turnips

The hostess mentioned above served a nice tray of iced celery hearts, radishes, thinly sliced carrots, and fine strips of turnip. It was quite sensational. But turnips are a handy vegetable—and this new strain of Laurentian turnips is winning many turnip haters back to them. My sister-in-law served them with turkey at Christmas dinner, adding cream when she mashed them—they were super good. A white sauce made with cream poured over turnips cut in 1-inch dice is good too.

Bean Sprouts

If you can buy bean sprouts from a Chinese restaurant where chop suey and chow mein are served you are lucky—they will wash them through 3 to 4 waters for you and all you need to do is cook them. If you want to grow them yourself write to me and I will print the method.

To cook bean sprouts after they are washed drop in a very little boiling salted water—1 lb. sprouts will need only about ½ cup. Cook covered for 5 or 6 minutes—serve them while they still retain some of their crispness, but are wilted. Add butter and salt and pepper, and a little of the pan gravy from whatever meat you are serving.

Bean sprouts mix well with peas or carrots, or celery or rice. They make a marvellous topping on steak, —as you might use mushrooms if the price were not so high.

Squash With Corn

Since canned corn is in such short supply good ways of stretching it are welcome. You know the stunt of mixing it with limas, but have you ever tried this: Panfry for 2 minutes 1 onion sliced in 2 tablespoons bacon fat or 1 slice salt pork diced, then add if available ¼ cup chopped green pepper, and 2 cups diced squash. Cook 2 minutes stirring constantly. Add 1½ cups milk, cover and cook slowly 20 minutes. Add 1 No. 2 can corn and 1 teaspoon salt, simmer 5 minutes. A little cream may be used in place of some of the milk, or a little butter may be added with the milk. Delicious with a green vegetable when no potatoes are to be served.

Please send us any good vegetable combinations you may have up your sleeve — things that are available now.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Your muffin recipes of last week were of particular interest to me. My mother, who passed away this year, used to make the most delicious muffins using part Quick Cook oats, and although we have looked all through her recipes cannot seem to locate them. Would you happen to have a recipe covering this? In the "good old days" (?) B.R. (before rationing) we used to eat these with gobs of butter and with oodles of corn syrup (not very good for those on a slimming diet).

I must add that I read your page every week and find it most interesting. — Laurene W. H.

ANSWER: I think the following is exactly what you want — note the variation too, which I recommend highly.

OAT MUFFINS

One cup quick-cooking rolled oats, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour and 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted shortening or cooking oil. Mix the rolled oats and sifted flour together, then sift the baking powder, salt and sugar with them, tipping the oats that remain in sifter into the mix. Beat the egg until light. Make a hole in the centre of the flour mixture, pour in the egg, milk and shortening and stir to combine—but only until all dry mix is wet. Pour into well-greased muffin tins to fill half full and bake at 375 degrees Fahr., for about 20 to 25 minutes.

VARIATION: One teaspoon of choice jam or marmalade in bottom of greased muffin tins just before putting in batter, makes a delicious little "different" muffin when turned out—needs no butter.

QUESTION: Would you kindly forward me your literature on the making of a homemade fireless-cooker? We enjoy your column and helpful hints very much.

V. G. McD.

ANSWER: I am glad to know there is a demand for this type of cooking—it definitely saves on fuel and time.

Please clip these instructions now if you are interested.

MATERIALS NECESSARY FOR FIRELESS COOKER

(1). Outside case which may be heavy wooden box, pail (such as candy bucket), or a No. 1 new galvanized ash can. (2). Sheet of asbestos. (3). Packing material such as sawdust, ground cork, excelsior, straw or hay, wool, cotton batting, fine shavings, paper torn small and crushed. (4). Inner container which should be straight sided, fitted with a tight cover and of proper size that there is a 3-inch space on all sides and top and bottom for insulating material. (5). Cardboard or corrugated paper for "collar" to fit flush with top edge of inner container. (6). Pillow to use for top insulation. (7). Tight fitting cover.

To Make Fireless Cooker

Line outer container with sheet of asbestos well fitted. Pack into bottom of the asbestos-lined case a layer of whatever insulating material is used 3 inches deep. Place the inside bucket or container on it squarely in the centre and pack the space between inner and outer containers with insulating material very tightly. Make and place a "collar" (shaped like a huge doughnut) to cover the exposed surface of the packing material between the case and the cooking compartment. Make a cushion of unbleached cotton or sugar bag, stuffing it with the insulating material and of exact shape to fit over cooking compartment, and inside outer compartment — it should be 3 inches thick.

If a box is used it should be of sufficiently heavy material to permit tthe use of good hinges and fastenings for the cover.

Use of Fireless Cooker

The fireless cooker is admirably suited to foods that require long cooking in order to be made more palatable and to be more easily digested.

All foods cooked in fireless cooker must be heated through to the centre before placing in cooker.

Meat must be seared over high heat for at least 15 minutes; the vegetables must be brought to the boiling point and kept there for at least five minutes; stewed prunes, applesauce, blanc manges and steamed pudding must all be preheated long enough to heat them through before placing in a fireless cooker.

Some Fireless Cooker Whole Meals

1. Shoulder of lamb or pork, steamed potatoes, creamed turnips, baked apples.
2. Baked beans, scalloped potatoes, or corn, scalloped tomatoes, carrot pudding.
3. Boiled beef with turnips, potatoes, steamed fruit.
4. Veal stew with carrots, peas and potatoes, steamed maple custard.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY
Fricasseed Shoulder of Veal Chops (note)
Fluffy Mashed Potatoes
Mixed Carrots and Peas (note)
Celery Hearts or Head Lettuce with French Dressing
Mincemeat Tarts Coffee

NOTE: Shoulder veal chops prepared as follows make an ecoonmical but delicious Sunday dinner: To ½ cup flour add 2 teaspons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, mix well; dip 6 shoulder veal chops in this flour mixture, then fry them to a golden brown in melted butter or cooking oil. Cover with boiling water, add ½ small onion sliced, ½ bay leaf, 3 peppercorns, and simmer covered for 1 hour. Remove to hot platter, sprinkle generously with parsley; if liquid in pan is not thick enough thicken with a little flour rubbed to a paste with a little cold water. Strain thickened gravy over chops on platter. Platter looks nice if garnished with triangles of toast.

Since canned peas are so hard to get a nice vegetable combination is soaked and cooked dried peas mixed with diced carrots.

TWO COLOR TAILORED SUIT—The tailored suit softened by the use of contrasting colors, is always a favorite with the well-dressed woman. And so it isn't astonishing to note that Mainbocher is very fond of this type of suit and shows it frequently in his collections. In this model he has made the jacket of fine English tweed in pink, and has given it a trim fitted waistline, while the collar is ingenuously rolled to give a petal rever effect on which is set a black wool rosette. The skirt has easy fullness and is made of black wool.

it. Nevertheless, Angelina is a smart gal if she pretends to think that some of his mumbling words were a proposal, and throws herself into his arms and says: "Oh, John, this is so sudden!" The woman who has to help a man along with his lovemaking never has to worry about his philandering. Once is enough for him.

Much is to be said in favor of the absent treatment as a method of bringing men to the place where they have to realize that they must either put up or shut up. This is particularly efficacious in those cases where John and Sally have "gone together," as the phrase goes, ever since their kindergarten days.

It is a pleasant arrangement that permits John to monopolize all of Sally's time and attention and thoughts without his having to support her. This will go on indefinitely unless Sally has the nerve to call time on him, and this she can best do by leaving him flat. When he has no place to spend his evenings, nobody to cater to him, he will take up his option and clinch the trade.

What might almost be called the widow's recipe for getting her man to propose is by putting all of one's business affairs in the hands of an eligible single man and then going to him for advice. This offers a plausible excuse for the woman to drop into his office when she is all dolled up and looking her best, and for her to tell him how she trusts his judgment, and what a marvellous intellect he possesses that he knows the difference between a bull and a bear in that funny stock market. And by the time she has finished asking him what Poor Little Me will do without him, he has let himself in for being her meal ticket for life.

And, of course, there is the old true and tried method of toting men to the altar by feeding the brutes. Practically any woman can get her man if she knows how to broil a steak and make a decent cup of coffee. Given a woman who knows her onions, shaded lamps, a little table set for two and a little savy, and it is all over except sending out the wedding invitations. Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Watch Night Service Held By Keene Y.P.S.

KEENE, Jan. 6 — (ENS).—The Young People's Society held a New Year's Eve social and Watch Night Service which was attended by over 70 young people. The first part of the evening was spent in skating at the rink after which games were played in the Sunday School of the United Church with Tom Gall in charge.

The recently elected officers for 1944 were installed with an impressive service conducted by the Rev. G. Murray, this was followed with lunch. As the hour of twelve approached a short service of dedication was in charge of Lenore Mather with Lois Humphries, Harold Mather and Margaret McFarlane taking part.

Before dismissing, a large circle was formed by all joining hands and singing 'A Happy New Year' and "Auld Lang Syne."

The executive for 1944 is as follows: President, Tom Gall; vice-president, Miss Mary Miller; secretary, Ruth McFarlane; treasurer Jack Wright; three members were elected for Christian Fellowship, missions, culture, citizenship and social and recreation. It is hoped to have interesting meetings during the year on Sunday evening at 7.30.

Last Sunday evening Margaret McFarlane gave a very interesting address at the Y.P.S. on the Student Christian Movement and the Canadian National Council which met at Lake Couchiching last fall. Margaret represented O.A.C. of Guelph and was a member of that council of 43 from the senior colleges in Canada. Allan Drummond who represented Peterborough County at the Boys' Parliament which met at Kitchener recently will address the Y.P.S. in the near future on the work of the Boys' Parliament.

Millbrook News

Lieut. George Gray, R.C.N.V.R., and Mrs. Gray of Windsor, and Mrs. Lloyd Acton of Detroit, who were called here on account of the death of their mother, Mrs. Wentworth Gray, left for home at the week-end; the family homestead has been closed for the time being.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards and family moved this week-end to Dr. Alvin Richards' house, on George street, recently vacated when the Charlebois family moved to Peterborough.

The many friends of Rev. A. E. Chevis, rector of Cavan Parish, will be sorry to learn that he is ill with pleurisy, and was unable to take the services on Sunday. Captain W. E. Massey-Cooke took charge of the Watch Night service on New Year's Eve, and E. H. Barnes the work of the parish on Sunday.

Miss Mamie Fisher, Anne street, closed her home recently and has gone to Kingston to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. E. Matheson.

Private Mary Dawson was home for the week-end with her mother, Mrs. B. B. Dawson.

Major W. R. Howard of the Midland Regiment, was also home for the holiday with his wife and family, Anne street.

Miss Gertrude Richards, of Brighton, was home for the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards.

Lieut. Earle Edworthy, who returned from England to take a special training course which is now completed, was a visitor in the village for a brief stay last week. A baby son has been born during his stay in Canada. He was married after going to England, his wife being a nurse in an overseas hospital.

Family Honors Mrs. E. Hardy

PORT HOPE, Jan. 6 — Mrs. Elizabeth Hardy, mother of Chief Constable Gordon K. Hardy, celebrated her 86th birthday at the home of the Chief Constable on Brown street, on New Year's Day. Mrs. Hardy lives with her daughter, Mrs. Wilbert Glaspell, in Peterborough.

A large family gathering was on hand to honour the old lady who still enjoys perfect health, and no less than 26 sat down to the excellent goose dinner. These included beside the Chief Constable and his family, two other sons, Harvey Hardy of Bowmanville and his family, and Isaac Hardy of Hampton with his family. The other son, Fred Hardy of the New Toronto police force, was unable to attend. Also present was Mrs. Hardy's daughter and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Glaspell.

Also present was Rifleman George Wilson from British Columbia, who married a granddaughter of Mrs. Hardy.

Another Hardy, also a chief constable, was present. This was Chief Constable Hardy of Campbellford, who is suspected of being a cousin but the relationship has not yet been traced. His fiancee, Miss Little, was also present.

After dinner Mrs. Hardy was presented with a very beautiful gown by all her family. She returned thanks in an elegant little speech.

Springville News

and the British Empire champion had to be carried out of the ring with blood streaming down across his face. Four stitches were required to close the gash. Naturally Hannigan was disqualified by Referee Powers and police had to protect him from the crowd as he fought his way to the dressing-room. The Whipper is expected to be O.K. by next Tuesday night when he is billed to meet Karl Davis in a return bout.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Probably Art Ross knew what he was doing when he traded Flash Hollett for Pat Egan, the Red Wing defence man but most fans will be at a loss to understand the trade....Hollett has long been regarded as the most valuable utility player in the N.H.L., a strong defence man and having plenty of scoring punch when filling in forward line gaps....Only last season Hollett set a new record for defence scoring with 44 points, including 19 goals....Bob Davidson of the Leafs is out of tonight's game with a broken jaw....Half of the Chicago Black Hawks goals this season have been scored by the line of Clint Smith, Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley who have potted the boot-heel 46 times....If the Army teams are side-tracked too it will be a tough blow for the Kingston Army Frontenacs who have already lost one team this season and now appear likely to lose another.

You May Still Advertise For Help or Employment

IF YOU FOLLOW THIS PROCEDURE:

First you must register your need for help (or employment) with the National Selective Service Office, Barrie Building, Peterborough.

Then, if an advertisement is desired, two copies of the wording should be presented to the National Selective Service Office; and, after obtaining their stamp of approval, one copy should be delivered to The Examiner.

Restrictions Above Do Not Apply:

To female domestic help and employment wanted ads where not more than one servant employed nor to advertisements for ministers, teachers, casual labor, part time subsidiary employment which is not a regular occupation, nurses, farm hands, hunters, fishermen trappers, students at work after school or on holidays other than long summer vacation and any kind of "Help Wanted" advertisement from any Provincial Government.

All such advertisements may continue to be published in the usual fashion and without approval.

Irish Members Won't Attend Parliament

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP)—There are members of the British Parliament who attend sessions regularly and there are members who attend irregularly but there are only two who don't attend at all. They are Irishmen.

Of the 615 M.P.'s who represent England, Scotland, Wales and Ulster, the Messrs. A. J. Mulvey and J. Cunningham, one a journalist and the other a farmer, are the lone advocates of a political policy of absence.

In the eight years since they were elected by Ulster's constituencies of Fermanagh and Tyrone as Irish National Abstentionist they have never attended a sitting of the House. Under the ruling that a member receives no pay until he takes the oath, their policy has cost them $21,600 apiece at the $2,700 rate of an M.P.'s annual salary.

Oppose Britain

As Irish Nationalist Absentionists, Cunningham and Mulvey hold political views somewhat similar to those of the Sinn Fein party which brought many a turbulent day to Southern Ireland before Eire was established.

Sinn Fein, translated means "ourselves alone." The aims of the Irish Nationalist abstentionists new to that line in that they want Ireland — all Ireland, north and south—run by the Irish, without interference from London.

The expression of that policy is to stand for two of the 13 seats Ulster holds in the House, to win them and to ignore them.

Of the 11 Ulster seats which do get used, 10 are held by the Conservatives, whose parliamentary chairman is Sir Hugh O'Neill. The other member is Labor's J. Beattie, representative for Belfast.

Girl Is Defeated

The defeat of Honor Balfour in the Darwen, Lancashire by-election wrote off another headache for Sir Archibald Sinclair's Liberal party. Pledged to the wartime political truce, the Liberals saw Miss Balfour, 31-year-old London journalist, a member of their own executive, stand against Conservative Capt. W. R. S. Prescott, and lose by just 70 votes.

Miss Balfour, who scraped together enough money by her own efforts to put herself through Oxford, fought the campaign as an Independent Liberal and bluntly challenged the party truce because, she said, "it is not democracy" when 120 members of 615 have been returned by party caucus nominations.

The victor, Capt. Prescott, 31, took the seat formerly held by Capt. S. H. M. Russell, killed on active service as a Coldstream Guards officer.

6 Rescued From House Fire Early Wednesday

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP). — Six persons, including an invalid and two small children, were rescued from the second floor of their Weston Road home here early today after they were awakened by the barking of the family dog as flames enveloped the ground floor.

Removed from the porch roof by firemen were Mr. and Mrs. George Payton, Miss Doris Turner, 22, Mrs. Grace Parkes, 30, and her two children, Ruby, four, and Lennie, six.

Damage was set at $1,300, including $78 of $80 Mrs. Parkes had received recently from her husband overseas.

Sloppy Salute

PASO ROLLES, Calif., Jan. 6—(AP). — Pte. Thomas Scheer raised his hand to his forehead as a shield from the sun in his eyes. The form in front of him was dim in the glare, but the voice of an indignant captain was distinct: "Very sloppy salute, soldier."

Chinese On March

CHUNGKING, Jan. 6 (AP). — Chinese armies are prepared to launch a general counter-offensive this year, Minister of Information Liang Han-Chao told a press conference today, but he added that such a drive would be contingent upon Allied operations in other theatres. Liang said augmentation of Allied air strength in China would be particularly helpful in facilitating any extensive Chinese ground action.

New Year's visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Calder at their home on the Second Line were: Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mount Julian; Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Burleigh Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duggan, Young's Point; Mrs. Nelson Pogue, Miss Myrtle Thompson, Reg. N., Mr. Raymond Pogue, Peterborough; Mrs. Richard Tedford, Miss Alma Tedford, Warsaw; Miss Isabelle Pogue, Toronto; Miss Jean Baldford, Reg. N., Newcastle; Mr. G. R. Adams, Port Perry; and Mr. Allen Ireland, Buckhorn.

Soldiers Call Officers By First Names

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP). — The United States War Department said today jungle fighters have taken to calling their officers by their first names.

Accounts reaching the department from men and officers on Bougainville Island in the Solomons indicate formalities of military life have completely disappeared in jungle warfare.

A private may address his commanding officer as Charlie or Bob. Officers get code names or nicknames. Japanese snipers are adept at picking off the officers. So the officer wears no insignia.

The enemy listens carefully, said the men. Snipers a few hundred yards from a regimental supply dump listened to the calls going out from a field telephone. Most of the calls were for "Hipp," which was the name given to a Major who was a supply officer.

During the night, the men said, the Japs would call out, "Hipp, you're wanted on the telephone."

Mrs. A. Wood Named Presbyterial Delegate

WESTWOOD, Jan. 6—(ENS)—The first meeting of the year of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Sargent with a large attendance.

The new president, Miss Jessie Davidson, presided and a discussion on ways of financing for the coming year was held. It was announced that the Peterborough Presbyterial will be held in Knox Church, Peterborough, on January 25, and Mrs. A. Wood was appointed as delegate.

Mrs. W. Morris took charge of the program with a worship period including prayer by Miss Davidson. Mrs. A. Wood and Mrs. E. Sargent sang a duet, "God Will Take Care of You" and Mrs. J. E. Glover sang a solo, "Living For Jesus." Mrs. H. S. Neilson gave a reading, "Give Us Day By Day Our Daily Bread." The third chapter of the study book, "The Joy of Work Skilfully Done" was given by Mrs. Morris assisted by several mmebers.

At a recent social evening a W.M.S. Life Membership Certificate was presented to Mrs. J. G. Manley in recognition of her services as secretary.

Obituary

MRS. FRED SIDEY

BEWDLEY, Jan. 6 —(ENS). — The passing of Mrs. Fred Sidey took another life-long resident of this community. Although in failing health the past few years, her death came suddenly while preparing for a visit from her soldier son and his wife from Hamilton for the holiday week-end. Before her marriage to Frederick Sidey, Mrs. Sidey was Elizabeth Rowson.

Left to mourn her passing are three sons, Donald and Wardy, (Pete), both of Bewdley and Staff Sgt. Bruce Sidey of Hamilton; also four grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. J. Humphreys, Ingersoll, Mrs. H. Dowzer, Toronto and Mrs. H. S. Watt, Port Hope and two brothers, Walter Rowson of New Westminster, B.C., and Ernie Rowson, Hamilton.

The funeral service conducted by Rev. Dr. McKecknie of Port Hope was held at the family residence, and the floral tributes were numerous. Pall bearers were G. O. Ducette, Howard Quaid, H. Klentworth, W. T. Dixon of Port Hope, Elmer Sidey and Norman Gaynor. Interment was made in Bewdley Cemetery.

CHEF'S NOTABLE RECORD

NEWBURY, Eng. — (CP). — Charles Fennel, 63, who sold more than $2,000,000 worth of savings certificates on his own in the last four years, died suddenly. He was a chef and sold the certificates in his spare time.

Murder Acquittal Brings Action

VICTORIA, Jan. 6—(CP)—In a judgment by Justice Bird yesterday, William Mitchell was awarded $1,000 damages in his action against the Victoria Times for defamation of character arising from an overseas newsletter summary of his arrest on a charge of murdering Molly Justice.

"Having in mind that due publicity was given to the fact of his acquittal not only by the defendant's publication but also by the press of the province, I consider $1,000 will adequately compensate the plaintiff," The Judge said in announcing the judgment.

The 50 year old logger claimed $50,000 damages.

The action arose out of an article published in the Daily Times June 19, 1943, with reference to the murder of Anita Marguerite (Molly) Justice, 15 year old seamstress, whose battered body was found near her home in Saanich the night of Jan. 14, 1943. Mitchell was arrested and charged with murder. He was acquitted.

No Sabotage

TORONTO, Jan. 6—(CP)—Attorney-general Leslie Blackwell of Ontario said last night a provincial investigation has failed to disclose proof of sabotage or other criminal intent in connection with damage done to the passenger elevator in the Film Exchange Building last November.

The inquiry was ordered when the elevator damage was discovered shortly after fire following explosions swept through the building.

ESTIMATE THE COUNT

WHEN YOU find one opponent holding an extremely long string of cards in one suit, it is very unlikely that he will have his share of those in any other one. It is better then to estimate his partner tentatively as holding the majority of cards in any other one suit, and try to base your playing plan on that foundation. An almost sure squeeze play may be marked by such reasoning.

Two pairs using natural bidding exactly like that got into the small slam in a duplicate game, one making it and one being set, despite the same lead of the club Q. One of those declarers, after winning the first trick with the club K, laid down the spade A. Immediately learning that this suit wouldn't break, he tried for a split in hearts. When that missed, he was licked, getting only 11 tricks and losing the last two.

At the other table, when the spade A disclosed that bad break, South paused. Fall of the club 9 from East showed that West had at least four, perhaps five, clubs, he figured. With no spades, West then had surely at least four cards in each red suit; if so, he could be squeezed. This trick order then followed: Spade Q, diamond Q and A, spade 8 deliberately given up to East, a diamond returned to the K, the heart A, club A showing East out and then the spade K on the tenth trick.

Until then, West held three hearts to guard against the thirteenth heart and the club J to protect against the 7. But, after South discarded his club 6 on the spade K, retaining in dummy the heart Q-7 and club 7, and in his hand the heart K-8-4, West was licked. Discarding the club J would have given South the last three tricks with the club 7, heart Q and K. So he threw a heart. Hence the heart Q and K dropped the J and the heart 8 took the final trick to make the contract.

Pravda Attacks Willkie For Article

MOSCOW, Jan. 6 — (AP). — Pravda, the official Communist Party newspaper, attacked Wendell Willkie today because of an article he wrote for the New York Times dealing with Russia and the status of Poland and the Baltic States.

Dmitry Zaslavsky, a Pravda writer, accused the United States presidential nominee of 1940 of "muddying the waters" in an effort to draw presidential support from persons who do not trust the Soviet Union as well as to win sympathy from those who do.

"Such a political gambler destroys confidence," the Pravda comment said. The newspaper added that the Baltic question was the business of the Soviet Union and one in which "Mr. Willkie should not interfere."

"As to Finland and Poland, without mentioning the Balkans," Pravda said, "the Soviet Union knows how to deal with them and does not need the help of Mr. Willkie."

His Own Purpose.

The writer accused Willkie of playing "a very peculiar political game." Zaslavsky said that "under the pretext of strengthening confidence in the Soviet Union, Willkie used words and phrases with the purpose of creating mistrust."

Willkie's story, entitled "Don't Stir Distrust of Russia," appeared in the New York Times magazine section Sunday. In part he said:

"There are already forces at work in both parties preparing to take selfish political advantage of any move that Russia may make with regard to these smaller states. The theory of those in the Republican party is that the Republicans should sit tight and see what happens. Mr. Stalin, they believe, will make ruthless territorial demands on the smaller states and these demands will produce a violent anti-Russian reaction among Americans who emigrated, or whose forebears emigrated, from those states. They take the position that by adopting a policy of suspicion toward Russia the Republican party can capture not alone these but others who, for quite different reasons, are prone to be anti-Russian. For all this anti-Russian feeling they believe will inevitably react against Mr. Roosevelt to the advantage of the Republican party.

"This kind of approach appears to me dangerously irresponsible and almost totally destructive....

"Yet such would-be Republican leaders are by no means the only offenders; on the contrary, the offences of the democratic party are equally glaring."

In New York city today, Willkie had no comment to make on the Pravda article.

2 Babies Deserted In Unheated Flat

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP). —The mother of two babies who were found alone in a cold, drafty East Side flat, frostbitten, hungry and weak, was questioned by police today.

Police identified her as Mrs. Frank Jiro, adding that the young woman, who appeared to be in her 20's, came to the police station voluntarily.

The children, a nine-months-old boy and a girl about two, were discovered yesterday when a patrolman entered the locked apartment through a window to investigate the source of water leaking into a flat below.

The boy, clad only in a shirt and sweater, was tied by his feet to a bed. The girl had no clothes. She was lying in her crib with only a thin blanket as a cover.

Neighbors said they had not seen the couple who occupied the flat since Monday.

Vanier Starts Work At Algiers

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, Jan. 6 (CP Cable). — One of the most important diplomatic roles Canada has yet assumed took on a new significance yesterday as Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Canadian representatives with the French committee of National Liberation and minister to the Greek and Yugoslav governments, settled down in this busy centre of international politics.

The general yesterday conferred with Alfred Duff Cooper, British representative to the French, Czech and Greek governments, as well as Ambassador E. Wilson. No date has as yet been set for his meeting with Gen. Charles de Gaulle, but the general said he expected to meet the French leader after the week-end.

Vanier said he did not plan to establish his offices in Cairo, seat of the Yugoslav and Greek governments, but intended to keep in touch with them through diplomatic channels.

In an interview with Canadian newsmen in his picturesque villa near Algiers, Vanier said part of his job would be to maintain close relations between the British and American representatives to the French Committee of National Liberation but declined to make any immediate comment on his duties.

Political circles generally welcomed the presence of Gen. Vanier in the Central Mediterranean area. His presence was viewed in many quarters as a step on Canada's part towards bringing the United States and the French Committee of National Liberation closer together both diplomatically and politically at a time when the invasion of France is imminent.

Board Purchases Eggs In Volume

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP) — Eggs are being offered for sale to Special Products Board earlier and in greater volume than a year ago, the Agriculture Department said yesterday.

The inspection on Dec. 31 of two cars of eggs purchased in Vancouver marked the beginning of the 1944 buying season during which the Board expects to acquire "several thousand carloads" for conversion to dried egg powder for Britain

A year ago, the first inspection of eggs purchased by the Board was in Ontario Jan. 2. When the Board was recently offered 15 carloads of eggs, a Board spokesman said that not until Jan. 12 was as large a quantity available in 1943.

Norway Honors Brother Of Mrs. A. Haggis

HALIFAX, Jan. 6 (CP). — Four months ago the Norwegian Government set out to present King Haakon's Medal to Jack Kanelakos, Canadian Merchant Navy gunlayer from Perth, Ont., a brother of Mrs. Andrew Haggis, 520 Waterford street, Peterborough, but it was not until today he could be found in port long enough to make the presentation.

Kanelakos, a tanned six-footer with a snappy black beard that would do credit to an old Royal Navy seadog, is on a Canadian merchant ship now, and his stays in port are short and infrequent.

"They had several letters out chasing me," he grinned, "but I usually left for another port before they could find me."

For Distinguished Service

But find him they did, and today the medal was presented by Harold Jueil, Norwegian consul here. The citations were in Norwegian, but the gist of it all was that Kanelakos was being rewarded for his distinguished service to Norway while he was sailing with the Norwegian Merchant Marine for two years before he was transferred to a Canadian ship.

During that two years with the Norwegian service, Kanelakos, believed the only Canadian Merchant Navy gunlayer in the Royal Navy "Dems" (defensively equipped merchant service), saw scores of ports in nearly every theatre of war.

His ship called in at Egypt about the time Rommel was stamping dust on the Libyan border, visited the east coast of Mozambique carrying supplies for the Allied forces that captured Madagascar, and later brought weapons and equipment to Oran while the invasion of North Africa was going on.

Can't Fix Incident

"I don't know just what one incident they might be giving me this medal for," Kanelakos reflected, "since we were in several little mixups, one not far off Halifax and the Nova Scotia coast.

'Whatever it was, I certainly got a lot of fun from it all, and loads of good experience. I'd like to be sailing with the Norwegians right now, but I was transferred."

Kanelakos and adventure are no strangers. He has been treading the sealanes for some years now, and before the war was a marine photographer of note.

He first took his camera out to sea in 1932, sailing out of Vancouver. Later he went on a Caribbean camera cruise, and survived several wrecks, winning the Royal Humane Society Lifesaving Ribbon three times. At the outbreak of war he was laid up following the wreck of a yacht off the Nova Scotia coast, but in 1940 was well enough to sign on a tanker at Montreal, and then took his gunnery course.

RED ARMIES SWEEP ACROSS POLAND

Ralston Bans Army From Hockey

No Soldiers Allowed To Take Part In Cup Competitions

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Army teams and army personnel —like R.C.A.F. men—are out of Allan and Memorial Cup competition this year, it was announced here today in a statement from the office of Defence Minister Ralston.

"The Canadian Army has always regarded hockey as a great sport —but now we must carry the puck to Berlin," said an official spokesman quoted in the Minister's statement.

"We see no reason to change our attitude in this matter now. The first task of the Canadian Army is the defeat of the enemy.

"Participation in hockey or any other sport cannot be allowed to delay the complete and earliest training of every soldier for despatch overseas.

"For this reason, like the Air Force, the Army cannot approve participation by army teams or personnel in the Allan Cup or the Memorial Cup competitions."

The army statement of policy came two days after an R.C.A.F. statement reiterating a December ruling that airmen were banned from the classic junior and senior cup competition.

Hits Kingston.

The army ruling means that senior army teams in Nanaimo, B.C., Calgary, Red Deer, Alta.; Winnipeg, Kingston, Ont., Sydney, N.S., and possibly Saint John, N.B., are forced to drop any play-off ambitions.

Many clubs through the country also would lose their army players if they made the play-offs. Ottawa Commandos, for instance, would lose six men.

Allies Land In Balkans Huns Claim

Heavy Fighting Reported On Yugoslav Coast

LONDON, Jan. 7 (CP)—Roundabout reports reached Stockholm today that Allied specialist troops had landed at several strategic points on the coast of Yugoslavia.

Meanwhile dispatches from Allied Headquarters in Algiers called "completely erroneous" a report that 'crack Allied divisions" had landed in Yugoslavia. This account was carried by Reuters News Agency, quoting the Stockholm-Tidningen, which in turn was said to have credible its information to reports from Zagreb, capital of puppet Croatia. A qualified but unofficial source in London said the report "probably was planted by the Germans as a feeler."

The story that Allied specialists had reached Yugoslavia also was roundabout, reaching Stockholm from Zagreb by way of Budapest, and likewise must be considered with reservations.

These reports gave no indication of the size of the forces, or whether they were British or United States, but British and American officers and liaison missions have been reported active with Yugoslav Partisans for several weeks. Some of these apparently are supply officers.

Wave of Rumours

The Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said the British and American troops were engaged in "heavy fighting" with Germ ns and Ustachis (Croat puppet troops).

Zurich dispatches to London yesterday said Zagreb resident were "suffering from invasion nerves" and mentioned a report circulating in the Croat acpital that strong units of the British 1st and American 7th Armies—neither of which has been engaged in active fighting as a whole since the invasion of Italy — were concentrating on the Italian east coast at Bari for a Balkan invasion.

One highly-placed British observer said there undoubtedly was considerable passage of Allied officers across Adriatic as part of close liaison with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) but discounted the idea that there had been any troop landings in force.

The British 1st Army was commanded by Lt.-Gen. Sir K. A. Anderson in Tunisia and the United States 7th Army was commanded by Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton in Sicily.

Previously, British and American officers have been reported leading Yugoslav guerillas on the Balkan front.

Missing In Action

OKANOGAN, Wash., Jan. 7 (AP).—Maj. Gregory Boyington was reported missing in action only a few hours after news of his entry into the United States Marine Corps hall of fame by downing his 26th Japanese plane in combat over Rabaul it was learned at his home here.

The 31-year-old former "flying tiger" joined Marine Maj. Joe Foss and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, of First Great War fame, as coholder of the 26-plane record of aerial "kills" for U.S. fliers. He did it in a sweep over New Britain four days ago.

Allied Advance Continues Deep Into Burma

NEW DELHI, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Allied ground forces on the western slopes of the Mayu Mountains northwest of the Japanese-held port of Akyab in western Burma have made further advances after beating off enemy counter-attacks, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

Reporting on operations since the first of the year, the Allied southeast Asia command said Chinese forces in the Hukawng valley area of northern Burma have driven the Japanese from the west bank of the Upper Chindwin River and have themselves crossed over to the east bank, taking up new positions.

A drive further to the east in this area, approximately 100 miles northwest of the Japanese base at Myitkyina, would link up Chinese Yunnan forces around the Burma Road where it enters southwestern China.

Extensive raids by fighter planes, dive-bombers, fighter-bombers and mediums of both the tactical and strategic arms were carried out over much of Japanese-held Burma with river, road and railroad communications being especially hard hit.

1,000 Casualties In Stettin Raid

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7 —(AP)—An eyewitness to the Wednesday night raid by the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. on the German Baltic port of Stettin said today he heard reports within that battered city that 1,000 persons had been killed.

The traveller said extensive damage was done to the harbor area, an important feeder line to German forces in Finland and along the Baltic front.

Two huge storage tanks, one containing aviation gasoline and the other oil for ice breakers, received direct hits and were still burning when he left Stettin earlier today, this traveller related. He said that fires broke out in five anchored merchant ships.

The newspaper Morgon Tidningen had reported earlier that 60,000 persons were left homeless.

Huge Fan-Shaped Offensive Aimed At Lifelines Launched On 175-Mile Front

Germans Hint Army May Be Withdrawn From All Of Russia To Avoid Encirclement Menace

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 7—(AP).—Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's forces, gaining new momentum after smashing 10 miles into Poland, sped forward today in a great fan-shaped offensive toward lifelines vital to enemy operations in the Ukraine and Dnieper Bend.

Over a front of 175 miles from the lower Pripet Marshes near Rakitno, 10 miles inside the Polish border, to the flat steppe near Khashkov, 40 miles south of Belaya Tserkov, the First Ukrainian Army was ripping the Germans to pieces and capturing huge stores of booty.

To the north, in the Nevel sector, Gen. Ivan Bagramian's growing Baltic offensive swept deep into strong cores of resistance where the German spectre of encirclement was the same as in the Ukraine.

Snowfalls and blizzards were an aid to advance patrols cutting behind Nazi lines and threatening the communications of the German forces before Leningrad, just as Vatutin's fast tanks and cavalry were a peril to the Germans' main lines leading to the Dnieper and the Black Sea.

Pressure Grows.

Vatutin's advance brought increased pressure on the Germans in Kirovograd and Krivoi Rog in the Dnieper Bend, but there were few specific reports from those sectors.

(Stockholm newspapers quoted a German military spokesman as hinting at the possibility of German withdrawal from all Russia, possibly because of the threat of encirclement both in the north and south now that the German northern and southern armies have been split).

Four communication centres lay within striking distance of Vatutin's Red forces:

Rovno, about 35 miles inside the Polish border and 60 miles west of Novograd Volynski. Both the Warsaw-Kiev highway and the Warsaw railway pass through here.

Shepetovka, 35 miles southwest of Novograd Volynski, one of the Ukraine's most important railway junctions.

Zhmerinka, 20 miles south of Vinnitsa on the Odessa-Warsaw line which the Germans must hold if they hope to remain any place east of Odessa.

Spearheading columns drove through Gorodnitsi, 20 miles northwest of Novograd-Volynski, and Chudnov, 28 miles southwest of Zhitomir, widening Vatutin's fan-like front against the Polish border.

At the same time Vatutin's drive to the southwest toward Rumania covered 25 miles yesterday, moving from Tarasha through Zhashkov, eastern terminus of a railway running to Kazatin.

Nazi Losses Heavy

The Russian communique spoke of "heavy losses" being inflicted on the retreating Germans, and listed immense stores of war equipment left behind by the enemy.

Among the more than 85 towns and villages the Russians said they swept up in yesterday's advances

5th Captures San Vittore In Bitter Fight

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 7—(AP)—With grenades, machine-guns and small arms American troops fought over the drenched stones of San Vittore and assailed three bitterly-contested strongpoints in the fortified village today as the Anglo-American 5th Army pressed its offensive all along the 10-mile front straddling the Via Casilina to Rome.

Forging ahead short distances through the snow-covered mountains, the Americans stormed the strong defences built by the Germans to cover the key town of Cassino, six miles ahead of Van Vittore. They captured the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Maio about a mile southwest of Viticuso and five miles northwest of Venafro.

The seizure of Monte Maio under German artillery and mortar fire cut a German supply road from Cevaro to Viticuso.

The Americans who entered San Vittore from the northeast and southwest had taken more than half the town and now were driving on three clusters of grey tumbledown

BAD WEATHER

Rhodes Blasted By RAF Bombs

CAIRO, Jan. 7.—(AP).— R.A.F. heavy bombers attacked the Port of Rhodes, Nazi-held island in the Eastern Mediterranean during Jan. 5-6, an Allied Middle East communique said to-day, and R.A.F. and American long-range fighters have sunk a number of loaded sailing ships, "a type of shipping on which the enemy is now forced largely to depend" in supplying the occupied Aegean Islands.

The communique said that continuing bad weather made difficult the detection and destruction of enemy shipping in the Aegean, but two vessels were sunk during the several days' operations reported on and three others were set afire or left in a sinking condition.

Two Allied planes were missing from all operations.

Rats Start Saving

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 7—(AP).—Mrs. Dora Peters' $113.56 in Christmas savings disappeared last month. Yesterday a $5 bill turned up under a sidewalk in the backyard. Further investigation led to all but $10.50 of the money in the basement where it had been carried—by rats.

Death Sentences Curb Germans

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7 (AP)—Signs of flagging morale in Germany have brought a wave of death sentences making it impossible for any group to organize a revolution, Christer Jaederlund, Berlin correspondent of Tidningen, said in a dispatch today.

"A collapse of home front could be precipitated by doubt as to whether to go on fighting, but today doubters are punished by death," he wrote.

Numerous executions in recent months, Jaederlund said, have frightened the Germans, quieted defeatist talk and made the people suspicious of one another.

To overthrow the Nazis, the correspondent added, "a real revolution must be organized, but the German people have been stripped of all possibilities to organize a revolt....by the allpowerful Himmler organization."

Jaederlund said there is no danger of a food shortage and wrote that German officials say the Allies' total bomb war against the Reich now is the biggest home front as well as military problem.

He indicated in his story, phrased carefully because he still is working in Berlin, that there is a question how much additional bombing the Germans can stand, especially during the winter months. He said that thus far Berliners have stood up under the attacks.

He told how Hamburg had been able to resume production within a few weeks after it had been practically knocked out in August. Workers were ordered to return under threat of being deprived of any place to live in the Reich.

Allies Invent Rocket Plane

By KARL R. BAUMAN—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—(AP).—New vistas of rocket plane travel were opened today with the disclosure that a fighter plane using "jet propulsion" has been developed and pronounced a success. The new plane was announced jointly last night by the R.A.F. and the United States Army Air Forces. It already has completed several hundred test flights without mishap, and quality production will begin soon. It uses engines designed and developed by Group Capt. Frank Whittle of the R.A.F., who as far back as 1939 was reported to be working with blower-type rotary compressors, the rotar bearing and the compresser being liquid cooled. The kind of fuel his engines use was not disclosed.

Today's planes of orthodox design have about reached their speed limits, and jet propulsion has been regarded by engineers as the logical next step.

Jet propulsion—commonly called rocket propulsion—eliminates the propeller. Instead of a propeller "biting" into the air to pull the plane forward, a series of power explosions push it forward.

Because of wartime secrecy, few details of the new British-American fighter can be expected until it has gone into actual combat, and its secrets are known to the enemy, but the formal announcement that the plane operates "at high altitudes and extreme speed," can be taken to mean that the United Nations have, in fact, a secret weapon. The only other detail announced was that it is a twin-engined plane.

Successful application of the jet propulsion principle to a fighter plane probably means that it can be applied to other planes, including bombers and passenger ships.

People Frightened

LONDON, Jan. 7—(CP)—When one of the new British jet-propelled planes first flew over the outer London area in an experimental flight many people rushed for shelter, thinking that a heavy bomb was screaming down.

The mystery plane's arrival was heralded by a distant screech which grew in volume until it sounded like a giant whistling kettle. Then the rumble of its powerful engines was heard as the plane shot overhead.

The people soon came to know it as the flights became more frequent, and finally dubbed it "the squirt."

Heads Hospital

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7 — (CP).— Dr. Leigh J. Crozier of Chapleau, Ont., has been named superintendent of Victoria Hospital here, William Loveday, chairman of the Hospital Trust, announced to-day. Dr. Crozier will assume his post on February 1.

Peterboro Soldiers Arrive Home

MONTREAL, Jan. 7 — (CP). — One of two hospital trains bringing loads of wounded from the hospital ship Lady Nelson reached Montreal last night with men whose homes are in Quebec and Ontario.

Aboard the train were men who faced bitter enemy resistance in Sicily and Italy, many of them looking from their cots through the car windows at their first Canadian scene in four years.

The train pulled out two hours later bound for Toronto and Windsor.

Pte. John Lewis of Lansdowne, Ont., was wounded in the leg by the same burst of machine gun fire that fatally wounded his friend Sgt. Vernon Davis of Roblin, Ont., at Campobasso, Italy. He lost the leg below the knee, but got a lot of satisfaction in hearing later that the enemy post had been rushed and wiped out.

Pte. J. J. Ireland of Peterborough was still on the field after being hit by shrapnel when he watched his mates gain revenge as a squadron of Canadian tanks knocked out the fourGerman tanks that had scattered his Bren carrier section.

Tpr. Andrew Wilson of Belleville, Ont., got his injuries when he drove his armored car over a German mine near Melfi, Italy. He was driving the lead car with the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards of Ottawa when the world blew up underneath him.

24 At Kingston

Twenty-four wounded, Canadian active army men returning from different war zones detrained here early today from a Toronto-bound hospital train. Stretcher cases were taken to Kingston Military Hospital.

Those able to return to their homes were taken to the district depot at Fort Frontenac to await necessary papers.

The men included:

Lieut. H. A. A. R. Kirkpatrick, Peterborough; Sigmn. J. R. Buchan, Peterborough; Sgt. J. K. Jenkins, Picton; Pte. R. E. Shannon, Picton; Pte. L. J. Vancleaf, Wellington; Pte. H. H. B. Berlin Due For 24-Hour Service

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 7. — (AP).— Berlin has been three-fourths destroyed "and we haven't called off the dogs yet,' said United States Army Air Forces Chief Gen. Henry H. Arnold, in an interview here last night.

The Germans "know they've got to stop us or they've lost the war," he said. "They've tried the orthodox methods and they're springing something new all the time. So far we've been lucky enough to outguess them."

He added:

"In conjunction with the R.A.F., we expect to give Germany 24-hour 'bombing service' from 360 degrees If our bombers keep going into Germany, it won't take long. There won't be much fight left when the time for invasion comes."

Russia Won't Give Up Part of Poland

Poland Must Take Slice Out of Germany To Extend Territory

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The newspaper "Prefree Poland," published in Moscow, calls for post-war expansion of Poland westward at the expense of Germany, and warns the Poles that Russia won't give up the Polish territory which the Soviet occupied in 1939 when Hitler began his effort to conquer the world.

The Moscow dispatch which reports this development doesn't identify "Prefree Poland," but the publication may be associated with a Polish organization having the approval of the Soviet Government. In any event, we are safe in assuming that the paver wouldnt be permitted to print such an article if it was disapproved by the Red authorities.

Daring Plan.

"Prefree Poland" has been daring. The idea which it advances is sensational and, from some viewpoints, undoubtedly provocative. Still, it strikes me that publication of this bold suggestion may help ease the tense Russo-Polish situation and so brighten the Councils of the big three—Russia, Britain, and the United states.

So far as my advices go, there are many people high in Allied circles who definitely would like to see Germany split up into its component states after the war. My guess is that Russia, for one, would be content with such a program. It isn't a far reach from this to "prefree Poland's" advocacy that some portion of the Reich go to Poland.

After all, who weeps at the thought of Germany paying for some of her crimes?

Unless Moscow unexpectedly changes its position, Poland must look to the Reich for territorial compensation. The Soviet Government has time and again, right up to the present, made it emphatically clear that in its view the Russo-Polish frontier is the 1939 line, and that Poland won't get that eastern territory back.

What's the alternative to acceptance of Moscow's claim? There's no use mincing words: all the signs read that any effort to compel Russia to surrender the disputed area would precipitate another war.

Soldier Though Dead, Heard

Died In Prison Camp, Recording Put On Air Waves

HALIFAX, Jan. 7—(CP)—How a soldier's voice lived on the air-waves for months after he was reported dead was told here yesterday by a brother, Bert Pancoe of Winnipeg, a telegrapher in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Pte. Michael W. Pancoe was one of the Canadian soldiers who went to Hong Kong just before the garrison fell to the Japanese at Christmas time, 1941.

Last August his family had a letter from his doctor saying he had died from beri beri, and a short while later official confirmation of his death came from Ottawa. But for months afterwards people in different parts of the world heard his voice on the radio—the last time in Australia last month, his brother said.

"Hello, Mum," said the voice of the dead soldier, then came a few words of greeting and his name and address.

The Japs had made a recording of his message to the people back home, and after his death continued to broadcast it for some reason, said the brother.

New Treatment For Burns

Blood Plasma Applied Directly To Surface Of Burn

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —(AP)— Two United States Navy doctors took a tip from mother nature and developed a new surface treatment for burns which they said today is better than any of the "many methods in vogue during the past two years." It involves application of a medicated solution of human blood plasma directly to the surface of the burn.

Cmdr. Melvin D. Abbott and Lieut. John R. Gepfert reported the treatment in the naval medical bulletin.

The doctors said they took some donated human plasma (to provide the serum needed) and added to it a five per cent solution of sulfanilamide, a potent killer of bacteria. A thickening substance was added to make the solution easy to apply to the surface of burns.

They applied a thick layer of the material to 12 second-degree burns and said the average time of healing was five days, and "the results were very definitely better than those obtained by the use of any one of the many methods in vogue during the past two years."

Germans Unable To Supply Reserve Forces

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Slowness of the German high command in hurling adequate reinforcements into the Polish border sector to plug the Russian breach in the Nazi eastwall underscores Germany's great weakness of 1944—a potential basic factor for her total defeat.

That weakness is a lack of sufficient reserves for her colossal problem of defence.

The whole Allied strategy as sealed at Teheran apparently is aimed at wrestling victory through the exploitation of this factor by bringing maximum pressure simultaneously to bear on the greatest possible number of fronts.

As the hour nears for the great invasion from the west—anticipation of which is forcing the Germans to stand to arms in strength from Norway to Southern France—the success of that strategy already is being reflected in the East, where the rampant Red Army is smashing head-on through defences the Germans apparently fear to bolster at the cost of a cross-Europe shift of their thinned reserve force.

257 Divisions in Russia

With 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 men under arms Germany is estimated by London military sources to have from 300 to 325 divisions in the field. Russian Premier Stalin has said that 257 divisions—207 of them German and the remander satellite troops—are now facing the Red Army.

As the tide of battle shows, the Russians alone probably equal Germany's total number of men under arms, and clearly outnumber the Germans and their faltering satellites in divisions on the eastern front.

Two great trunklines across Poland—the Warsaw-Rovno-Berdichev and the Krakow-Lwow-Odessa railways—should have enabled the Germans to pour strong reinforcements direct into the battle zone had the reserve strength been available, or had the Germans been willing to send more men to the east.

Grafton's Near Century Mark

Grafton and Company, Limited, are celebrating their ninetieth anniversary as clothiers to Canadian men of four generations. Its first store was opened in Dundas on May 3rd, 1853, by its founder, James Beatty Grafton, and family proprietorship and traditions have continued down through the years to its present prominence in its large factory in Dundas and its outlets of eight retail branches.

Grafton stores are located in Hamilton, London, Brantford, Woodstock, Peterborough, Owen Sound and Dundas, with an additional drygoods store in the latter town.

Peterborough has a special interest in Grafton and Company through its managing director, H. L. Conway, who has held that executive position since 1932. He was born in Dundas and is one of four members of the Conway family to be associated with the company. He began his connection with Grafton's in 1896 as a salesman in the Peterborough store, and in 1910 was appointed manager of the Brantford store, of which he continued in charge until his transfer to the Dundas warehouse.

The company opened their second branch store in Peterborough in 1892. The local manager since 1926 has been W. Chris Hughes, who stands high in the confidence of both the public, of Peterborough and the management of Grafton and Company.

Gets 26th Plane

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 7—(AP).—Maj. Gregory Boyington of Okanogan, Wash., was officially credited today with shooting down his 26th Japanese plane to tie the record set by a fellow marine, Maj. Joe Foss. The two now head up the list of United States air aces for the number of planes shot down.

Farmers Plan To Attend Annual Meetings

Midwinter is convention time for the farmers of Ontario, a period of sojourning in one or other of Toronto's big hotels, attending meetings, renewing friendships, and generally trying to get a glimpse of things to come in their industry which surely does not bear down so heavily in the snow months as from plowing time until the harvest.

A group of Peterborough farmers are going to Toronto next week for the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. The Ontario Crop Improvement Association is putting on their seed display from February 7 to 11. Some of the local men who were at their meetings last year said the crop and seed show was about the most interesting and helpful they had seen in a long time, and they will be among the first to recommend it to their neighbors for next month.

Meetings Together

Ontario Vegetable Growers meet on February 2 and the Fruit Growers on February 4. They are meeting jointly on February 3. Ontario Plowmen are booked for February 6. The Potato Growers are in Toronto for the first day of the Crop Improvement convention, February 7, business meeting February 8; annual meeting on the 9th. Class "B" Fairs are also meeting that day.

Ontario Agricultural Societies February 10 and 11; and quite a number of farmers take an interest in the Ontario Horticultural Association Feb. 24 and 25. The Department of Agriculture is arranging for exhibitions of labor-savings machines and equipment from Feb. 1 to 5 at the Royal York and Feb. 7-11 at the King Edward.

Headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today that Yugoslav Partisan forces attacking Banja Luka, Croatian base of the 2nd German tank army, had withdrawn after six days of furious street fighting in which heavy losses were inflicted on the Nazis.

Partisans Retreat

"After successful conclusion of their allotted tasks units of the 5th Corps have withdrawn from Banja Luka," a broadcast communique said in announcing the end of the bitter battle.

Twenty miles to the north, meanwhile, other Partisan leaders launched what Tito described as a "successful" attack on the Sava river town of Osanska Gradiska, its suburb, Stara Gradiska on the north bank of the river, and Nova Gradiska, a town on the Zagreb-Belgrade railway a few miles further north.

Slovenian Partisans continued their guerilla operations in the Drave Valley in northeastern Slovenia, where they severed the Zagreb-Fiume railway at several points and derailed a train which toppled into the Drave river.

Novo Mesto, rail-river junction town in Central Slovenia was reported still under siege by Partisans who have frustrated all attempts by the German garrison to break through their lines.

Toronto 48th Battle For 30 Days

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP).—Bert S. Wemp, Evening Telegram war correspondent with the Canadian troops in Italy, Thursday reported in a dispatch to his paper that members of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto haven't had their boots off for a month.

"Some idea of the battles we have been in may be gained from the fact that we haven't had our clothes or boots off for a month—four weeks to be exact," Wemp quoted Capt. William I. Beatty as saying. "The boys have fought, slept and eaten facing the enemy. They have just had a gas cape, which is also waterproof, for protection from the rain, and in some places water in the slit trenches has been four feet deep. Then it froze following a terrific rain and snow storm.

"Sergeant Fred Sexton, of St. Catharines, worked like a fiend for four days, and then an extra hazardous trip had to be made. He wouldn't listen to anybody else but himself leading the party, and did. He got through safely, too, bringing out ten wounded, and saved a lot of lives."

Underground In Poland Ready To Strike

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Hailing Russia's advance across the Polish border as inspiring the Poles "with hopes of prompt liberation," Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk declared last night that a fully - organized underground government in his homeland is ready to come into the open at the opportune time.

The secret organization, the Polish premier said in a broadcast address, exists "at all levels of the state administration — political, military, social and economic."

In fact, he declared, "the Polish state never ceased to exist" despite the German attack in 1939 and subsequent occupation. He added:

"All that happened was that its organs had to become secret under the pressure of events, with the exception of those which had to remain in the open for the purpose of carrying on their duties outside the country."

A deputy-premier, answerable direct to the Cabinet in London, heads the underground, Mikolajczak said, and his identity and his place of residence may be made known soon.

Touching only indirectly on the Polish-Russian disagreement over location of Poland's eastern border, the premier declared that "irrespective of the political situation" the Russian drive "brings nearer the moment of our final reckoning with the Germans."

His address embraced a strong hint that Poland would not yield easily, if at all, to Russia's claims.

"We demand respect for the rights and interests of the Polish republic, its supreme authorities and its citizens, in any war situation and at any stage of development in the international political situation," he said.

"We are carrying out our duty and claim recognition and respect for our rights—that is all."

Belgians Ordered To Stay Off Roads

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (CP). — In the name of the United Nations High Command, the BBC radioed pre-invasion pleas to the Belgians to-day to remain in their homes when military operations get under way.

"If you are on roads, you will obstruct Allied air forces which must be free to attack the enemy's communications," the broadcast said.

"If, on the other hand, you hamper the movement of the Germans they will shoot you down ruthlessly. Stay in your homes. Anything is better than the roads."

The broadcast further advised the Belgians to dig slit trenches and to build dugout shelters.

Ralph Allen Home

TORONTO, Jan. 7—(CP).—Ralph Allen, war corrdespondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail, came home on furlough Thursday from the Mediterranean area. Allen, who went with his countrymen from Britain to North Africa, Sicily and Italy, will return overseas to cover the western-front invasion thrust.

She Got Action

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 7—(AP).—Told there would be 'a slight delay' before she could be granted extra gasoline ration coupons to go to a maternity hospital, an undaunted applicant threatened to "have my baby right here." Procedure was speeded up, and the woman left—hastily—clutching a handful of coupons.

Canada Pays Cash For All Aid

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (CP). — Canada pays in full for war materials obtained from the United States for her own use but $350,000,000 of United States lend-lease has gone to the Dominion largely for ultimate use of other Allied nations, President Roosevelt said today in a regular report to Congress on lend-lease operations up to Nov. 30, 1943.

"The Canadian and American war production programs are closely integrated under the Hyde Park agreement but Canada pays cash for all aid for herself that she receives from the United States," the report stated.

"She buys from us for cash a large part of the requirements for her war production and we buy for cash from her fighting equipment produced in her factories as well as such war materials as nickel of which she produces 90 per cent of the world's supply."

The $350,000,000 worth of lend-lease so far sent to Canada consists of military equipment and its components, principally for re-export from Canada to the United Kingdom or other United Nations, either directly or after further fabrication in Canadian factories.

The actual transfer is not to Canada but to the countries of ultimate destination. Other lend-lease goods going to Canada include "trainer planes and small quantities of other supplies for use of Norwegian, Polish and other United Nations units in training on Canadian soil."

The report refers to Canada's own "mutual aid program under which she is supplying without payment to hte United Kingdom, the Soviet Union, Australia, New Zealand and other United Nations, $2,000,000,000 of additional war supplies produced in her own factories and shipyards."

(This is assumed to refer to the $1,000,000,000 voted at each of the last two parliamentary sessions for aid to the Empire and the United Nations.)

600 Japs Killed On New Britain

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 7 (AP)—Japanese defenders of New Britain Island have lost another 600 dead in their stiffening resistance to the United States Marines who landed at Cape Gloucester 12 days ago.

Allied headquarters reported today that Marines pressing eastward toward Borgen Bay from the Cape Gloucester beachhead have encountered fierce opposition and only slight advances have been made.

Aerial warfare against the Japanese centred at Madang, New Guinea, 180 miles west of Cape Gloucester, where Allied airmen delivered a 243-ton bombing; at Rabaul on the northeastern tip of New Britain, where a fighter sweep knocked 10 Japanese planes out of the sky, and at Kavieng, New Ireland, where two destroyers were hit and probably sunk.

The blast against Madang, important shipping and supply base on the north coast of New Guinea, came at a time when leap-frogging Allied forces were surging up the coast.

American troops which landed at Saidor, New Guinea, Jan. 2, have moved 10 miles northward to contact the enemy and now are less than 50 airline miles from Madang.

Japanese forces cut off in the coastal jungles by the Saidor landing are being steadily driven into a shrinking pocket by Australian veterans on the Huon Peninsula who now are within 67 airline miles of their American Allies at Saidor.

May Use Helicopters

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP).—George Ponsford, director of the Provincial Air Service, said yesterday at Queen's Park the Ontario Government is interested in post-war use of helicopters and correspondence has been entered into between Ralph P Bell, director-general of aircraft production, and the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

3-Year Term Robs Board Of Experience

The peremptory action of the city council last year in limiting to three years its appointments to satellite or auxiliary municipal bodies whose members are virtually trustees has moved into sharper focus as its first approaching effects become apparent.

As already reported in the Examiner the three-year term is automatically discharging the present members of the Board of Health except Doctor Kelly, M.O.H., and Mayor Hamilton who is an ex-officio member; A. A. McIntyre from the City Trust, W. C. Ackerman from the Public Library Board, and probably others to follow in the course of the annual routine changes.

The three-year term to the City Trust Commission is such a radical departure from Peterborough's practice, that the Examiner inquired for comparison purposes into the general length of the services of its trustees.

Long Service

For example, James Stevenson, who was mayor of the city many years ago and also a Member of Parliament, was a member of the City Trust for 49 years. He was a charter appointee in 1861 and served continuously until his death in 1910.

Richard Hall was appointed in 1890 and was re-appointed in successive terms for 38 years until 1928.

W. H. Moore, K.C., was a commissioner 28 years, from 1892 until 1920.

William Cluxton was also an original, and was 29 years with the Trust, from 1861 until 1890.

Continuity of appointment has been the policy of successive councils in its comparatively recent course.

Vincent Eastwood was appointed to the City Trust Commission in 1909 and has been retained in three-year terms through those years to the present. He is now chairman of the Trust.

E. A. Peck, K.C., was appointed in 1915; George A. Gillespie in 1921; W. R. Morris in 1928 and A. A. McIntyre in 1930. They and Mr. Eastwood are the five present members of the Commission.

It was also learned that the late Arthur Stevenson was appointed secretary of the Commission in 1899 and remained in that position until his death in February 1940.

Few Replacements

Apparently the policy of the councils of the past has been to sustain such trusteeships, and presumably not to replace any member except for cause or reason directed toward the integrity of the commission. Such service seems to have been regarded as an experience in administration and also in a special knowledge that increased in value to the council and to the ratepayers from year to year, until 1943. The city council in its responsibility was evidently disposed to keep its trustees in such position so long as their service merited the confidence which recommended them in the first place.

picture means that the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is forced to adopt a "shadow" play-off schedule with the remaining civilian and possibly naval teams.

The "shadow" play-off system will probably include representative teams from Halifax, Quebec Senior, Ontario Hockey Association, Thunder Bay, Saskatchewan and coast loops.

The army statement, unlike the air force, set no specific deadline for army personnel to be withdrawn from play and a headquarters spokesman said he assumed army personnel could continue to participate in their existing district hockey leagues but would not be permitted to continue into inter-district playoffs.

The Air Force deadline was January 6.

Last October, defence headquarters said in the statement that, while every encouragement would be given to Canadian soldiers to play hockey and participate in other sports, such participation would not be allowed to interfere with normal training and duties of the individual soldier concerned.

"If a player enlisted for active service and is up to the standards for overseas service he will, on completion of his training, be dispatched overseas," the October statement said.

Since that time a number of well-known hockey players in the army have been sent to the United Kingdom.

"Army personnel, being either in training or in readiness to proceed overseas, cannot engage in any activity which might take them away from their stations for periods of time which would be necessary if they became eligible for cup playdowns," said the new statement today.

Body Of Baby Found In Creek

THORNHILL, Jan. 7 — Just 24 hours after he had vanished without trace, and following intensive search by police and scores of civilians, into the early hours of this morning, the body of David Jackson, 16 months, was found yesterday afternoon about three o'clock in the branch of the Don River, back of his home.

The child had been placed out in the yard to play by his mother Mrs. George Jackson, while she dressed his 3-year-old brother, Douglas, to join him. The Jackson home is on Bayview Avenue, just south of No. 7 Highway.

The tragedy was discovered by Constable Varley of North York, Provincial Constable Harrison of Lansing and Game Warden Stillwell.

Believing that the stream held the solution of the disappearance, they broke the ice with fire equipment and used dragging irons until they found the body in about three feet of water. The scene of the discovery was about 1,500 feet from the Jackson home. The lad, barely able to walk, is believed to have toddled that far and fallen through a hole in the ice.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Early rye advances which sent futures to new seasonal highs were erased in late trading yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange when profit-taking and selling for American account entered the market.

Prices which ranged more than 1 cent above Wednesday's close at one stage were ¼ cent lower to unchanged at the close.

Fair buying by commission houses in locals and American interests was reported in the pit early.

Rinfret Mooted To Succeed Sir Lyman Duff

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP). — Sir Lyman Duff, one of Canada's greatest jurists, automatically ceased to be Chief Justice of Canada today as he reached the age of 79.

His work at the Supreme Court of Canada was ended a few days ago when he put the finishing touches to some reasons for judgment in cases already heard. He spent today quietly at his home with his books.

Last night, on the eve of his retirement, Sir Lyman was the guest of the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice at Government House.

During his more than 10 years in the highest judicial office in Canada, Sir Lman has acted deputy to the Governor-General and served as administrator to the the government during periods when the Governor-General was absent from Ottawa or during vacancies in that office.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Justice Minister St. Laurent, the other judges of the Supreme Court and leading legal figures attended the dinner.

Omnivorous Reader

A scholar whose interest range over wide fields unrelated to the law as well as a master of his own profession, the Chief Justice is an onmivorous reader and his friends expect he will devote still more time to reading during his retirement.

No appointment has yet been made of a new chief. Sir Lyman represented Alberta and British Columbia on the seven-man court and it is assumed that sooner or later a new judge will be appointed from the far west.

Senior among the present judges is Mr. Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret and unless the outsider, is called into replace the Justice, something which has rarely happened in the past, Mr. Justice Rinfret is expected to be the new chief.

Rumor, however, has frequently linked the name of Defence Minister Ralston with the chief justiceship. Col. Ralston in the intervals between his service in the Cabinet held a distinguished place in the legal profession, first in Nova Scotia and later in Quebec and is regarded as an outstanding lawyer.

U.S. Would Subsidize Low Income Families

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP). — The War Food Administration gave endorsement today to legislation that would set up a government stamp plan to subsidize the grocery bills of low income families in the United States.

The plan would provide for distribution of food stamps to families of substandard incomes to insure them an adequate basic diet. The W.F.A. estimated 18,000,000 persons in the United States would be eligible and that the program would cost the government a maximum of $3,000,000,000 yearly. Hearings on the bill probably will open in a week.

Toronto Poultry

TORONTO, Jan. 7 — (CP). — During the holiday season there was a very good movement of the poultry through wholesale and retail channels but during the current week the fresh dressed poultry market has assumed the usual post-holiday quiet, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Receipts of fresh dressed chicken have shown a slight increase and any surplus is being packed for storage. Supplies of fowl are equal only to tthe slow demand for this kind of poultry, while receipts of turkeys, ducks and geese are practically nil.

Two cars of mixed poultry were offered from the Prairie Provinces this week.

Receipts of live chicken show a slight increase and fowl are more plentiful on the live market. A heavy volume of pullets is reported arriving weighing 4 to 5 lbs., for which dealers are playing 26 to 27 cents lb. A few geese have arrived but no ducks or turkeys:

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers for the dressed poultry.

Red Cross Claim Prison Camps Satisfactory

By WILLIAM E. LOWELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—International Red Cross authorities, reporting on the visits of its representatives to Japanese prisoner camps, today described conditions in them as "satisfactory."

The reports were made public today by Senator Elbert Thomas (Dem., Utah), chairman of a special United States Senate committee on war prisoner treatment, to whom they were sent by War Secretary Henry Stimson.

"Undoubtedly," said the secretary, "the camps reported on... are 'show' camps. Nevertheless, there is some comfort to be derived from the fact that at least a few of our men are faring no worse."

Conditions at the Hoten (Mukden) Manchukuo camp were reported in considerable detail.

Food Monotonous

The men, says the report, are housed in three new two-storied brick buildings, with separate hospital, canteen, bathhouse and utility buildings. The barracks are heated and electric lighted, fitted with bunks and straw mattresses, supplied with blankets, sheets, pillow case and cover, with mosquito nets in summer.

Foods include flour, cornmeal, fish, fat, vegetables, soybeans, apples, tangerines, salt, some spices and tea, to provide 3,800 calories for patients, 4,120 for laborers, as compared with 3,487 for Japanese soldiers. The prisoners, the report said, are satisfied with the food but find the diet, in the long run, somewhat monotonous.

The prisoners work each day but Sunday and national holidays at camp maintenance and administration, in factories as cobblers, tailors, in metal and wood working shops. They are paid.

At the canteen four cigarets a day are available, also sweets, toilet articles, stationery. Profits are expended by the prisoners. Church services are held each Sunday.

A full sized outside sports grounds is available for exercise and games.

Acute Egg Shortage Predicted For U.S.A.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 — (AP). — Despite a surplus of eggs now flooding the market from coast to coast poultry dealers to-day envisioned an acute egg famine in many parts of the United States before the year ends if prices continue to decline while feed and labor costs rise.

Poultrymen reported many Eastern and Middle Western farmers were selling their flocks because the under-ceiling prices did not cover production costs and fear was expressed that so many would be disposed of there might be an egg shortage with a few months.

High feed prices were said to be making poultry men sceptical about the number of chicks which will be raised during the year for laying hens.

Montgomery Moves To Unknown Spot

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (CP Cable). Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, newly - appointed commander of British ground forces in the forthcoming invasion of Europe, has left London for an unannounced destination.

It was assumed he has either gone away for a rest or to take up his new appointment in the country.

The former commander of the 8th Army in North Africa, Sicily and Italy arrived here a few days ago from the Mediterranean.

Education Group

KINGSTON, Jan. 7 (CP). — A committee dealing with postwar educational problems closed a three-day session at Queen's University yesterday. Entrance requirements, acceleration of courses and emphasizing the humanities in college curricula were among matters discussed at the conference, attended by leading educationists of Eastern Canada.

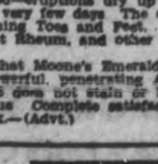
For Eczema—Skin Troubles

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to McDermid & Jury or any good drug store and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—it lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.

The very first application will give you relief – the itching of Eczema is quickly stopped—eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of itching Toes and Feet, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, and other skin troubles.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete satisfaction or money back.—(Advt.)

Mother Not to Blame for the Children's Colds



Despite all the mother can do the kiddies will run out of doors not properly wrapped up; have on too much clothing; get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes, and do a dozen things the mother cannot help.

Half the battle in treating children's colds is to give them something they will like; something they will take without any fuss, and this the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy used by Canadian mothers, for the past 48 years.

Price 35c a bottle; the large family size, about 3 times as much, 60c, at all drug counters.

Leroux Pleads Guilty To 10 Charges

COBOURG, Jan. 7 — (ENS). — Sam Leroux, 28, of Campbellford, pleaded guilty to ten charges of breaking, entering and theft in police court Thursday and was remanded until Monday for sentence. He was arrested by Chief George Hardy, Campbellford, on December 20 at which time all the stolen goods were recovered with the exception of $100 in cash, for which restitution was made. There was a further charge of breaking and entering with theft, against Leroux, the charge being laid by Provincial Constable G. Hayes of Campbellford.

The following charges were read against Leroux:

October, 1942, breaking and entering the dwelling of Jack Wallace of Campbellford; June, 1943, breaking and entering residence of R. Maybe at Campbellford and the theft of a tire and $2; June, theft of tire, wheel and tube from James Remington's car in Seymour township; November, theft of tire tube and battery and electirc clock from the car of W. Cowin of Codrington in a Campbellford garage; November, theft of tools from the car of Harold Pearse, Campbellford; November, theft of car chains from Ralph Locke; October in the same year, theft of an electric motor from the Canada Can Co., in Campbellford; November theft of $100 from Grant Anderson of Campbellford; September, theft of a car rug from A. D. Bennett and theft of a box of bolts from the pulp mill at Campbellford. These charges were laid by Chief Hardy. The other charge was breaking and entering a cottage in Seymour township and the theft of dishes and silverware, laid by Constable Hayes.

Poland Seeks Slice Of Land

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—(AP).— The newspaper "Prefree Poland" called for a post-war expansion of Poland to the west to provde a "strategic stronghold against the Prussians."

In an article published yesterday, the newspaper also insisted that Polaid must have a democratic government which would liquidate "all remnants of fossilized political and economic reaction."

(Although the dispatch did not make clear the affiliation of this publication, it may be the organ of a Russian-sponsored Polish organization in Moscow. The statement apparently implied that post-war Poland should annex sections of Germany or East Prussia.)

"To the east," the newspaper said, "the White Russian Ukraine will not forfeit on ethnological grounds (land) belonging to them even if certain Poles do not understand the rights of the Slav nations to the east on their united territories."

(This obviously was a reference to Polish territory occupied in 1939 by Red Army forces and which Soviet troops again have penetrated in their chase after the fugitive Nazis.)

Fire Chief Reports Loss Drops By $5,950

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 7 (ENS) —Fire losses hit a record low of only $1,100 here in the year 1943 information from the office of the Fire Chief, C. B. Williams reveals. It was a good year for Campbellford's volunteer brigade of 12 men as they had only 35 alarms to answer during the past 12 months with their largest blaze being in a house owned by Mrs. George Nicholas, Naseby street, last March where the total damage was placed officially at $30.. Of the remaining 34 alarms, 25 were the result of chimney fires and nine others were for grass and for barn fires. The loss in 1942 shot up to $7,000, of which $5,000 resulted from a single blaze at the Gravelin and Bales factory.

Rheumatic Pains—BACKACHE

Now as never before men and women must keep themselves fit and ready for work So when you've tried everything you can think of and nothing seems to even relieve the pain and soreness, don't give up hope, just go to Lynch's Drug Store or any good druggist and get a bottle of Allenru Take as directed and in about 24 hours you should see a real improvement. You needn't be afraid of Allenru containing dope of any kind—it doesn't; such things are only makeshifts and can at best give only partial relief.

Allenru acts 3 ways: (1) to relieve the pain; (2) to correct the bowels; (3) as a gentle diuretic to the kidneys flushing out excess acids.

The very first bottle is guaranteed to show results and justify your confidence. If for any reason you are dissatisfied, take back the empty bottle and get your money back.—(Advt.)

House Respects Leader's Theory Money Reform

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP)—There's nothing soft about John H. Blackmore. He has a strong, rugged face and a will to match. Some say that in pursuing the vision of a world freed from its woes through monetary reform he is searching for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow; but all they have said, and they will say, makes no difference to him.

These members of the House of Commons who used to scoff at the Blackmore orations on money reform may not have remained to believe, but they have learned to respect. One of his triumphs is the attention he receives from Finance Minister Ilsley. Time was when the house listened to Social Credit theories being expounded at length with polite boredom.

But in the last two years, Mr. Ilsley not only has listened but has asked questions as well. And nothing pleases Mr. Blackmore more than questions. If people ask questions it means they are interested and, with implicit faith, Mr. Blackmore believes that if Canadians will become interested in monetary reform and its possibilities they will be converted to his way of thinking.

Mr. Ilsley, however, appears able to listen and inquire without being convinced.

As a former school teacher in Alberta, Mr. Blackmore probably feels that some other members of parliament are singularly slow in their progress towards understanding. They, in turn, suggest that Mr. Blackmore must be almost talked out, which isn't so.

Knows West's Problems

When he wants to, Mr. Blackmore can turn from the heights of international policy and the Douglas theorem to plain effective discussion of everyday problems. He can tell of the hardships of the prairie drought, the problems of the sugar-beet grower, the inadequacy of farm homes and their lack of comfort, the needs of returned men and youth's desire for higher education.

The success of leaders is not gauged only by their performance in the house, and John Blackmore knows it. His political fences in Southern Alberta are reputed to be in good repair, and they are well checked during the recess from Ottawa chores when he goes home and visits among the neighbors.

Mr. Blackmore is an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. His home is in Cardston where stands a fine temple which is the Canadian shrine of the Mormon faith he upholds.

Mr. Blackmore was born at Sublett, Idaho, in 1890, son of an English father and a mother of Scottish descent. He was educated in Cardston and Calgary schools and at the University of Alberta. He was a member of the Raymond, Alta., school board in 1916-17. Even before the Aberhart Social Credit campaign swept the province in 1935 he was a keen student of economics.

Leads Group of Ten

In 1940 Mr. Blackmore and his associates campaigned under the New Democracy banner in the federal election. Ten New Democracy members were elected to the house, and Mr. Blackmore has been their chief. He has almost a paternal interest in his fellow-members who sit far to the left of Mr. Speaker. He listens attentively as they present the Social Credit viewpoint and cheers them on with "Hear! Hear!" when they make a point.

An old campaigner now, Mr. Blackmore is no believer in carefully prepared, typewritten speeches. He goes into action with notes written in blue pencil, with headings in red. He is never certain what sequence he will follow.

A stocky, broad-shouldered man, Mr. Blackmore limps from a leg injury but he never permits it to interfere with the bustling activity of his life, either in Ottawa or Alberta. Two years ago he went overseas with a parliamentary party visiting the United Kingdom and he found British social crediters wanted to hear a man from the province which elected the first Social Credit government in the world.

The New Democracy party, as such, was founded by Hon. W. D. Herridge of Ottawa, former Canadian minister to the United States. When the war started, Col. Herridge called off political activity, but in a recently-published book said he felt this had been a mistake.

Such a statement has been taken in some quarters to mean the party founder thinks it is time to get back into the political lists. Mr. Blackmore's group of members in the House has never dropped the "New Democracy" title, although they put "(S.C.)" (Social Credit) behind it in their official biographies.

Believes Axis Agents Upset Bolivia Government

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —(AP)— Nineteen American countries bent on rooting out Axis political influences in this hemisphere began an exhaustive joint study today of the forces that put a revolutionary government in Bolivia on Dec. 20.

A full exchange of information began among Washington and the 18 other capitals regarding the suspected influences which may have contributed to the accession of the new Bolivian president, Maj. Gualberto Villarroel.

On the basis of this information, and acting through the inter-American emergency advisory committee for political defence, the American countries, which include all sovereign states except Bolivia and Argentina, will then decide whether to accord the government at La Paz friendly recognition or to take measures which in effect would isolate Bolivia from its neighbors, both politically and economically.

Similarly stern procedure unquestionably will be applied to Argentina, where a revolutionary regime was set up last June, if it is found that Argentine influences were instrumental in bringing about the overthrow of the old government in Bolivia.

United States State Secretary Cordell Hull explained at a recent news conference that a preliminary study of the Bolivian or any other American government is an emergency measure necessitated by the interests of all the Americas in winning the war.

Obituaries

MRS. JACK NEWTON

COBOURG, Jan. 7 — (ENS) — Mrs. Jack Newton, resident of Cobourg for over forty years, died Thursday morning in Cobourg General Hospital. She was taken ill only a few days ago and death came from pneumonia and complications. She was a native of Harwood. The funeral will be today with interment in Cobourg Union cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. H. R. Deering of St. Peter's Anglican church.

Mrs. Newton was a prominent member of the Cobourg branch of the L.O.B.A. and also of the Cobourg Legion Auxiliary. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Jack in Italy with the Canadian Army and Stanley at Camp Borden. Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. H. Skitch of Toronto; Mrs. F. Weaver of Rochester and Mrs. William May of Belleville; two brothers, Avery Smith of Star City, Saskatchewan and Delbert in Michigan.

MRS. ELEANOR LEFROY

MILLBROK, Jan. 7—(ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Eleanor LeFroy took place on Wednesday, from the residence of Dr. H. A. Turner, Millbrook, upon arrival of the cortege from Toronto by motor, the service being conducted by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, of Blackstock, and formerly of the parish of Cavan, in the absence of the rector, Rev. A. E. Chevis.

She was the eldest daughter of the late Archibald Wood, and his wife, Susanna Taylor, the family history being intimately linked with the banking business, social, and church life of the community from pioneer days. Mrs. Lefroy was born and brought up at Millbrook, her marriage to Anthony A. B. Lefroy, who predeceased his wife by some years, taking place almost fifty years ago. She was a life-long member of the Anglican Church and always interested in its activities.

For several years past Mrs. Lefroy had been in ill health, her death occuring, not unexpectedly, at Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, Toronto.

She is survived by two sons, Aylmer, of Millbrook, and Eric, of Toronto; by two sisters, Margaret of Millbrook; and Mrs. Bruce Whyte (Gertrude) of Battle Creek, Michigan; three brothers, previously deceased, included William T. Wood, a former warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, Henry M. of Toronto, and Walter of St. Catharines; and one sister, Mrs. Alexander Allen (Annie) of Oakland, California; Miss Annie Wood of Peterborough is a cousin.

Owing to the family homestead being closed for the winter, the funeral was held from the Turner home in the immediate vicinity, the two families being near neighbors, and having a life-long and intimate friendship. The pall-bearers were all friends and business associates of the Wood family, and included; T. A. Campbell, G. E. Burnham, T. H. Collins, C. Winslow, J. E. Allen, and Percy Stinson. Interment was in the family burial plot at St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

Campbellford Finds Population Lower

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 7 (ENS) —Population figures for this town declined slightly during 1943 according to information provided by the clerk's office here Thursday. According to his figures, compiled from returns made by the assessor on his yearly rounds, the population for 1943 stood at 2,851, which was just forty-five below the previous year. There were 29 deaths registered for the year compared to 46 in 1943 and both the number of births and marriages declined. There were 97 births, 4 less than a year ago and 26 couples applied for marriage licenses, a drop of 13.

Doll House Donation

COBOURG, Jan. 7.— (ENS).— Kiddies of Cobourg are eyeing enviously a beautiful doll-house which has been made by a local citizen, who desires to remain anonymous, and is on view in Stan Williams' window. Known as the Milk For Britain doll house, it is made to scale and is perfect in every detail. It is 36 by 22 inches in size and is about 30 inches in height. Kinsmen are selling tickets on it.

Apple Growers Meet

COBOURG, Jan. 7 — (ENS) — Members of the Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association held their annual meeting at Cobourg today. Chairman was Harold Gibson. In the forenoon the speakers were Professor J. E. Howitt of O.A.C., Donald Kimball of Simcoe and D. Blair of the Horticultural Dept., Ottawa.

At the noon banquet the speaker was M. M. Robinson, director of the Ontario Food Distribution Council. At the afternoon session the speakers were Professor R. W. Thompson of O.A.C. and M. B. Davis, Dominion Horticulturist. George Wilson, director of the Ontario Fruit Branch was the final speaker of the session.

U.S. Companies Face Suit; Anti-Trust Act

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP). — A civil suit charging E. I. du Pont, Ne Nemours, the Remington Arms Co., and Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., leaders in United States and British Chemicals and Arms Industries, with maintaining an international cartel agreement in violation of thqe Sherman Anti-Trust Act, was filed to-day in New York by the Justice Department.

Attorney-General Francis Biddle said the complaint in addition to Du Pont and Imperial Chemical Industries named other defendants including Lammot du Pont, Wilmington, Del., chairman of the Board of the du Pont Company and Walker Samuel Carpenter, Jr., Wilmington, its president; Charles Krum Davis, Fairfield, Conn., Remington president and general manager; Harry Duncan McGowan (Lord McGowan), president of the Board of Imperial Chemicals, and Henry Mond (Lord Melchett) deputy chairman.

7 Others Named.

The complaint named seven companies as "co-conspirators" but not as defendants. These included Canadian Industries, Ltd., Canada Explosives Industries, Ltd., England; and Dynamit A. Ktiengesselless-chaft (Dag) Germany.

It was alleged that some time prior to 1920 du Pont and I.C.I reached an understanding with each other for the elimination of competition in the sale of explosives in all parts of the world, and that by this understanding, du Pont was allocated the United States and Central America as its exclusive sales territory and I.C.I. was allocated the rest of the world with the exception of Canada, Newfoundland and South America.

"Both companies were to refrain from manufacture in or export to each other's exclusive markets while Canada, Newfoundland and South America were to be shared by both companies on a non-competititve basis," the complaint stated.

"It was further agreed that profits from the sale of commercial explosives in South America were to be divided equally; and in Canada the firm of Canadian Industries Ltd., jointly owned by both, would be utilized to eliminate competition between them."

Young People Make C. Grills President

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 7. — (ENS).—Tabernacle Young People held their annual meeting and election of officers this week. Mr. Clarence Grills presided for the program, and one of the chief features of the evening was a talk by Mrs. J. R. Loses Wedding Ring

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Jan. 7 — (CP). — A Sault woman noticed her wedding ring missing after trying gloves on in a local store. Search was made high and low for the ring and it was finally given up for lost. From Chicago word reached the store that a wedding ring had been found in a pair of gloves bought in the Sault and would be returned upon its identification. Now the name of the ring-loser is lost.

Railroad Veteran Dies In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Jan. 7 — (ENS). — Under the auspices of the Masonic Order, the funeral was held from the Scott Funeral Home at Lindsay, Thursday of George H. Adams, 81, veteran railroad conductor.

Mr. Adams, who some time ago completed 50 years of railway service, was born at Port Hope April 15, 1862, and entered the railway service as a water boy on the old Midland Railway at Port Hope on May 1, 1876, under H. G. Taylor, superintendent, and Robert Glass, roadmaster. The pay at that time was 50 cents a day, working at a gravel pit near Millbrook. The following year he was promoted to putting lumber stakes on flat cars, after being unloaded at Port Hope Dock. The salary for this position was 75 cents per day for a 10-hour day.

In 1879, he was promoted to brakeman and served with the Midland Railway until 1882, when he was laid off because of a reduction of staff He then went West to the Canadian Southern Railway and became a brakeman. This position he filled until 1886. He then returned to the Grand Trunk Railway, and for many years following served as a brakeman and a conductor on the G.T.R. and C.N.R.

For 36 years he was a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and of the Masonic Order at Midland and Lindsay for 25 years. His hobby was music and entertainment and he received considerable recognition for his ability as a humorist entertainer.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. H. Crowley of Montreal and Mrs. B. MceLan of Peterborough.

Airman Entertained In Canada Returns Favor In North Africa

By CPL. H. R. HOW

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Thousands of Canadian women who have opened their homes to boys from all over the Empire, who are training for flying duties, must sometimes wonder whether the individual efforts are worthwhile. Entertaining may seem such a small contribution — and there are so many boys.

Possibly Mrs. Pauley of Moncton, N.B., thought just that way when, one cold night in January, 1943, she entertained three R.A.F. lads. One, Sgt. Al Fance, was a red head.

Ten months later, and 5,000 miles from the Pauley home, a man was making his way slowly on crutches towards the convalescent marquee of an R.A.F. hospital in North Africa. He entered the tent and threw himself down on an empty bed.

A voice from the next bed said, "What part of Canada are you from, mate?"

"New Brunswick."

"Moncton?"

"Yeah."

"Don't happen to know of a family by the name of Pauley? They live on High Street."

"Nope. Moncton's quite a size, you know."

Silence followed. The fellow on crutches glanced at the boy on the next bed Red hair, cheerful face.

At tea time the new arrival at the tent hobbled over to the mess hut. He was in a quandary, for he discovered it was impossible while on crutches to carry the filled plates.

Perfect Service

A voice behind him said: "Let me have your plate."

It was the boy from the next bed.

After tea, and back in the tent, the lad from the next bed suggested cards.

"Do you play German whist?" he asked.

"Nope."

"Come. I'll teach you. By the way, my name is Al Fance."

That night the Canadian learned how to play German whist. Night after night they played. And every day, at every meal, Sgt. Fance asked for the Moncton boy's plates, and asked if he would a "sweet."

Came the day when the Canadian packed his bag and prepared to leave the convalescent's marquee. He tried to thank Fance.

"Don't thank me" Fance said. "Remember the day you came in? I asked you if you knew a Mrs. Pauley from your home town. Well, once she was very nice to me, and I haven't forgotten it—so you had better thank Mrs. Pauley."

So, Mrs. Pauley and all the other Canadian women who have helped to make boys from overseas feel at home, and may sometimes wonder whether it is worthwhile, you have the answer. Too, you have fervent thanks of one of your neighbor's kids who is overseas. You see—I was the guy on the crutches.

WAR PAINT FOR A FIGHTING NAVY

C-I-L paint is efficient battle dress for a fighting navy—tough, durable paints that stand up to the ravages of war and wind and weather.

To keep them in fighting trim the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy—destroyers, frigates, corvettes, minesweepers and auxiliaries—must wear protecting coats of paint. For protection against the wear and tear of salt water, marine growth, rust and extremes of climate. Paint also protects in battle by ship camouflage.

For war paint the Canadian Navy uses special marine finishes and other heavy duty paints that prevent rust and fouling. Many of these paints have been developed to meet the rigid demands of war at sea. On shore, too, paint has its special values for the navy at docks, training stations and shore establishments.

Of course, paint has always been a fighter—even in peace-time. It is continually battling the destructive forces of rust and decay. Its wartime uses only serve to emphasize its importance at all times.

Supplying war paint for Canada's fighting navy is one of the wartime jobs of C-I-L's Paint and Varnish Division.

High-grade paints for the protection of war material is another example of how Industrial Chemistry aids Canada's war effort.

Was There Any Police Dickering?

A brief incident which occurred in the Police Court on Wednesday has attracted some attention, and we think that the public will expect further explanation of it. In a case which included a charge of drunk driving the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., said that there had been "dickering" between the defendant and the police. When questioned by the magistrate, Mr. Gordon is reported to have said, "I am saying that there has been too much police dickering with this man".

This is serious, for it brings into a Police Court discussion a matter which has been the subject of hints and rumours for some time. If there is nothing to it, the public will expect to be told so; if there is any police dickering in such cases, the public will expect it to be stopped at once, and the parties responsible for it to be disciplined. Every community is jealous of the reputation of its police, and "dickering" is an unpleasant word which may mean much or little. The police should be cleared of any unjust insinuation.

Clearly this is a matter for the Police Commission. We think that that body might invite Mr. Gordon to explain what he meant by his remarks in court, and if he cannot back them up an apology to the police is in order. But if he has grounds for what he said, the public will expect an investigation at once, and dismissal of anyone connected with the police force who has had a part in any "dickering".

This is the time for the Police Commission to act. If they fail to do so they will be giving tacit support to a body of unpleasant rumour. By far the best course is to lay everything on the table now, and either vindicate the police, or correct a bad situation.

The Last Of Christmas

Yesterday was Epiphany, or Twelfth Night, or Little Christmas, to mention three of its names, and the last day of the Christmas festivities. In more leisurely periods of the history of Christendom festivities attendant on the birth of Christ continued from December 25 until January 6, the period called the Twelve Days of Christmas, and the last day was perhaps the merriest of all. We may recall that it was probably for such a celebration that Shakespeare's comedy Twelfth Night was first written.

Twelfth Night is the day for taking down Christmas decorations. It used to be thought that the very worst sort of bad luck would befall you if a sprig of holly or a branch of mistletoe were left in the house after midnight on Epiphany. Herrick, who preserved so much of the spirit of Merrie England in his verses, has a poem which begins,

Down with the rosemary and bays,
Down with the mistletoe;
Instead of holly, now upraise
The greener box, for show.

What will become of all those people who threw out their Christmas trees before the New Year, we really cannot say. Nothing at all, probably. The spirits which once guarded the Twelfth Night celebrations so jealously have declined in strength as our belief in them has declined. Popular superstition these days centres round such matters as vitamins and economic panaceas.

But Christmas has now officially departed, and we must settle ourselves down to the long vigil of winter, to be broken only when the earliest spring gives us new cause for rejoicing.

Is It a Moral Crisis?

According to reports from London the Polish government in exile is greatly concerned about the fact that the Russians have crossed the Polish border as it existed before 1939, and has described the situation as "the most serious political and moral crisis" of the war. The newspaper published by the Polish government in London says that Allied opinion "senses the danger which now threatens. The man in the street in London or New York is asking himself whether the Russians are coming as liberators or invaders".

We doubt very much if the man in the street is asking himself anything of the kind. The Russians are chasing the Germans, and we do not think that the man in the street wants them to stop before the Germans are well within the borders of their own country.

The Polish newspaper continues: "The European nations will form their judgement (of the United Nations' handling of Europe) according to Poland's fate... the Polish nation is waiting most anxiously assurance that she will gain that which... is due her on the grounds of right, justice, and the losses for the good of mankind which she has suffered in this war".

Boiled down, this looks as though Poland wanted the other United Nations to insist that her post-war border be the one which she imposed on a weakened Russia in 1921, by Pilsudski's Treaty of Riga. Right and justice had little to do with that; the chance came to grab, and Poland grabbed. Now she wants the United Nations to ratify that grab for all time.

We do not see how this is to be done. The end of this war will see many difficult decisions made about boundaries, and it may see the undoing of many boundary agreements which followed the last war. Surely the hatred between the Russians and the Poles is not so great that the Poles wish to hinder the Russians in their great assault against the Germans?

The tone in which the Polish newspaper expresses its opinion is not one which allows of rational dispute. The aggressive and bullying tone of great powers is detestable, but is it any more detectable than the self-pitying tone sometimes taken by small and weak powers? The Poles have suffered hideously, and justice must be done them when the war is over. But that justice must be administered in the light of what is best for all of Europe, and not in the light of what Poland wants and thinks that she deserves. Nothing but dissension can come of stirring up a boundary dispute — and particularly one based on so ambiguous a claim—at this time. If a moral crisis has arisen, Poland must recognize it as belonging to a morality higher than that of national ambition.

The Belgian Capitulation

One of the most serious reverses of the Allied forces during the dark days of 1940 was the sudden capitulation of the Belgians on May 28. Suddenly, and apparently without warning to their allies, the Belgians ceased to resist, and their King asked the Germans for an armistice. The blow was staggering, and there were few who did not feel bitterness against King Leopold, the son of that King Albert who resisted so heroically in 1914.

But at that time Winston Churchill urged us to reserve judgement until all was known. It was obvious from what he said that there was far more to the story of the Belgian capitulation than what had been made public. Recently two other men who know the inside story have given the same advice. They are Sir Roger Keyes, who was the British liaison officer with King Leopold at the time, and Lt.-Col. Robert Duncan Brown, who was the U.S. military attache in Belgium. Col. Brown says flatly that capitulation was the only course open to the King, and that the Belgians did everything possible with their slight resources before they took that step. Sir Roger Keyes declares that notification of Belgium's intention to surrender was sent repeatedly, by wire and by wireless, before that step was taken. And he advises, as he did in 1940, that we refrain from judging the Belgian King and his people until we know all the facts.

If this is to be the year of victory in Europe we may not have to wait much longer for those facts. They will be welcome. The Belgians have been our good friends for a long time and we have respected their King as we respected his great father. A knowledge of what forced them to a sudden capitulation will, we are confident, serve only to deepen the friendship between Belgium and the British countries.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Commenting on wedding etiquette, Dorothy Dix says that it is perfectly proper for friends of the groom to kiss the bride. But not too many weeks after the ceremony.

One of the few things which may be said in favour of war is that it broadens our horizons. For instance, we learn that the natives of New Britain are convinced that no man can go to heaven unless he dies rich. How different from the general attitude of our own fair land, where religion looks upon wealth as a handicap in the journey to heaven, where the government does its best to keep men from dying rich, and where vigorous political parties are eager to prevent men even from becoming rich!

Clinging To Their Old Gods

(From the Winnipeg Free Press)

TO any student of economics it is incontrovertible that the best way to improve conditions throughout the world after the war is to facilitate in every way the development of international trade. Much general approval of that policy is heard but it would be nothing but wishful thinking to suppose that it will receive unanimous support or that strong opposition will not appear in Canada, in the United States and elsewhere. It will be an issue which will need to be put clearly and strongly before the public so that people in general will see how they will be materially affected by the adoption of the enlightened economic policy or by its rejection. It may well become a fighting political issue in this and other countries before it is settled, because there are so many people whose interests have been bound up with the system of trade barriers and who are fearful of abandoning it.

If each country became better able to sell its surplus products to other countries, it would then be better able to buy their products. It is simplicity itself and the promotion of the general exchange of goods would do more to end the poverty of nations and to enhance the welfare of their people than any other conceivable thing. Hence, the United Nations are seeking to remove the difficulty in regard to international currency, and to provide the credits needed to promote the expansion of trade. Great assistance will be given, also, in the reconstruction of European countries so that they may take their place in the trade of the world, which will be the better for their contribution. This is all in the right direction, and it is inconceivable that the nations should not go further and remove the obstructions to trade found in tariffs and quotas. Those old barriers would look illogical and foolish after other steps had been taken to facilitate the exchange of goods.

BUT in this country there are some signs of opposition to any promotion of trade through the lowering of the tariff. For example, the reconstruction committee of the Chamber of Commerce of London, Ont., urges that there should be no interference with the tariff after the war. A hopeful view of the early readjustment of industry to peace conditions and of the prospects for employment is taken by this committee, but it says that one of the uncertainties for business men is regarding possible tariff changes. It wants no changes made by order-in-council, or by agreement "among some international group of "theorists," without giving the people of Canada a chance to be heard. Presumably that would mean making it an issue in a general election. The committee suggests other reasons why the government should take no action:

"It will be some time after the end of the war before anyone will have sufficient information concerning the international situation, commercial, political and financial, to be able to chart a safe course in tariff matters, since the question is tightly bound up with foreign exchange and the balance of payments. A hasty revision of the tariff, or a general horizontal cut in rates on general principles, would certainly contain a large element of error and injustice.

"The Canadian economy has been built on certain tariff principles and rates; the majority of our industries would not have been built otherwise. Any serious change in the rules must cause corresponding changes in the economy with resulting losses; not to a few owners only, but to the nation as a whole...."

THESE are the old arguments of the protectionists. So is the suggestion that Canada might be the loser from a new tariff arrangement with the United States — that it might mean "scrapping several hundred Canadian industries in order to secure a better market for our farm products," only to find that the agreement would soon be cancelled again by the United States.

The tariff is viewed by the London Committee as something beneficial to the manufacturing industry, but it shows no interest in the burden placed by the tariff on those in the primary industries, like our western farmers. The latter would be much better off if we had free trade with the United States. They would get better prices for their products and they would pay less for many of the things they require. The committee overlooks the heavy price paid by the people of this country for the advantages enjoyed by the beneficiaries of the tariff.

WIDESPREAD opposition will be seen in the United States, also, when it is proposed to reduce the tariff and trade much more freely with other countries. This, in spite of the fact that many thoughtful people in the United States are convinced of the necessity for close co-operation of the nations in the economic field and of leadership by that country. The case has been clearly stated by Mr. J. B. Condliffe, associate director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, writing in Think magazine. The United States, he says, is now the arsenal of democracy. With its vast productive capacity, due to mass production and research, "it could become the powerhouse of an expanding and prosperous world," if it were not prevented by lack of dollar purchasing power abroad and foreign trade barriers.

"If we in America were to import more Swiss lace, watches and cheese," he remarks, "so that the Swiss had more dollars at their disposal, they could remove their quotas and lower their tariffs so that not only American automobiles and radios, but also lard and canned fruits could be sold in Switzerland at prices which would open up a much larger demand." He shows that it would be decidedly to the advantage of the United States, as well as of other countries, if its exports were greatly increased by lowering the United States staff tariff and increasing imports, and by promoting the development of other countries so as to build up their purchasing power—by lending them "both our skill and our money to assist them in their efforts to modernize."

THIS co-operation and freedom of trade will be the chief need of the world, next to security, after the war. But there are so many interested in maintaining the old system of nationalism, in Canada and the United States, that a sustained compaign of education is necessary to convince the great majority of both countries that the new policy is definitely in their interest and will greatly enhance the general welfare.

TROUBLED WITH A BUNION

The minister was asking one of his flock why he had not attended church recently.

"Well, you see sir," said the man, "I've been troubled with a bunion on my foot."

"Strange," said the parson, "that a bunion should impede the pilgrim's progress."

All Plans Must Be Capitalized

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

ALL the many plans for social security and rehabilitation which are broadcast by various reformers and agencies today will have to be capitalized. It is easy to brush off this vital fact by saying the governments must provide the money, but governments have no other money than that which they can take from our payrolls. Governments do not get money out of nothing any more than we can. At present taxes are at the peak and, if this better world is to come with peace, they cannot be lessened. Proper social security means an adequate supply of food for all, proper nutrition, decent housing, warmth, and clothing and regular employment. With the cessation of war activities these can only be provided if there is demand for and money to pay for commodities and necessities of living and the restoration of civilian status. War rates of pay and war bonuses and wartime taxes must cease unless we have full employment and continued industrial activity at the wartime status. All of which can only be assured by prosperous private enterprise and no unemployment.

If the Federal Government feels that way it can talk of provincial rights and pass the buck on to the provinces for dealing with most of the problems of afterwar rehabilitation. Meantime its own necessities will make the Dominion reluctant to give the provinces enough powers of taxation to obtain the funds necessary to meet the needs of social programs of betterment or even to maintain the social security measures already in being. The federal constitution may determine the provincial share in post-war construction but it also decides what the provincial financial resources shall be. No province, and particularly Manitoba, has the capacity in taxation to implement the Federal Government notions of health insurance, social security or education now. And the reformers seek more costly measures than those three.

There is no prospect that any province will obtain its share of the national income to maintain its social services at the level of war times, which are twice as heavy as before the war. Clearly business and real estate could not pay the taxes necessary to support the fine plans now spoken of, or the taxes would produce more of the social evils they are intended to overcome. The Federal Government which means any administration elected, must solve the problem of the reallocation of powers and taxation before there is any prospect of any sort of reconstruction in the supposedly happier days of peace. The blue prints for peace have not yet been printed so clearly that we know what to do in post-war work.

Censorship and Sense

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

A DISPATCH from London says more rigid censorship of war news flowing from Britain to the United States and Canada can be anticipated in the next few weeks as the Anglo-American allies mass their strength and dispose their forces for the counter-invasion of Europe.

This is a natural and proper expectation and, provided the case is reasonably handled, there will be no objection on the part of either press or public. But the qualification "reasonable" is essential. Neither the Fourth Estate nor the readers of newspapers will be disposed to look kindly upon any repetition of the bungling of which the censors were guilty at the recent Cairo and Teheran conferences.

In those cases, censorship served no discernibly useful purpose and was mainly officious and annoying, withholding from the people of the United Nations news to which they were fully entitled, and which must have been learned long since by the enemy. Apropos of this sorry performance, William McGaffin, Associated Press war correspondent, contributes a bitterly enlightening article to the current issue of Editor and Publisher.

McGaffin was at Cairo where he helped cover the conferences of the Allied leaders. In his story he describes tartly the sort of 'run-around' 77 eager correspondents were given by the censoring authorities. No wonder they called the Cairo meetings "Sphinx conferences."

A clue as to the censor-mentality behind this almost incredible obstruction is conveyed by one passage in McGaffin's article. "In spite of the fact that the whole world knew that the conferences were taking place," he writes, "the correspondents still were held to their original release time and moreover were forced to follow the original plan of filing by cable rather than wireless 'to insure that the stories will break simultaneously in all the capitals concerned'!"

McGaffin goes on to relate that Curtis Ryan, the controller of the Ministry of Information in Cairo, who was in charge of press relations, "failed to see the hollow humour in this thing and looked puzzled at the ironic laughter which greeted this bland explanation." The truth probably never dawned upon that obtuse gentleman until the story of the first Cairo conference was broken in a world-wide scoop from Lisbon and the story of the Teheran meeting was let out by Moscow radio. Yet there is no word to suggest that Mr. Ryan has changed either his methods or his job.

Censorship of the news from Britain should and must be strict enough to prevent the leakage of information of real value to the enemy, but censorship of the incompetent and exasperating variety encountered in Cairo should not be tolerated.

The Armada Is Vanquished

Yes, it is over; and the great Armada is vanquished....A day of judgment has come, which has divided the light from the darkness, and the sheep from the goats, and tried each man's work by the fire; and, behold, the devil's work, like its maker, is proved to have been, as always, a lie and a sham; and a windy boast, a bladder which collapses at the merest pin-prick....

From all of Europe, from all of mankind, I had almost said, in which lay the seed of future virtue and greatness, of the destinies of the new-discovered world, and the triumphs of the coming age of science, arose a shout of holy joy, such as the world has not heard for many a weary and bloody century; a shout which was the prophetic birth-paean of North America, Australia, New Zealand, Pacific Islands, of free commerce and free colonization over the whole earth.—From "Westward Ho," by Charles Kingsley.

Betting Tips

If you are betting on the date when the war will end, here are a couple of tips. If we have to slug our way through France to Berlin, don't risk your money on anything short of late summer of 1944. If you already have bet on early summer, explain it by saying that the Germans won't wait for Stalin to reach Berlin—they will capitulate to us, in preference. If you don't like either of those, what's your own line?—Guelph Mercury.

Germans Selling Out

Germans who acquired properly in France after the collapse are selling out. In many cases these properties are being offered at a considerable loss to the German owners.

The Nazi authorities are trying to prevent this sell-out, because of the effect it is having in strengthening French optimism regarding an early termination of the war and departure of the Germans. Requests have been sent to all agents to discourage prospective sellers on the ground that property values will increase at the end of the war. The German owners are now selling out private.—London Daily Sketch.

"Patience" On Points

"The audience at "Patience" at the Manchester Opera House last week had to be content with rationed Gilbert and Sullivan to the extent of hearing the chorus "Twenty lovesick maidens we" sung by only fifteen rapturous maidens—a reminder that wartime austerity in the theatre is not confined to dresses and scenery.

The incident recalls the story of the touring company presenting "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" with so small a cast that the thieves had to be represented by eight men walking across the stage, running round the back, and entering again in the procession, until 40 figures had crossed the stage.

One of them, unfortunately, had a limp, and as he appeared for the fourth time, someone called from the gallery, "Cheer up, Hoppy! Only one more lap!"—Manchester Guardian.

A Bible Message

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately: and that night they caught nothing. But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes....

As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread....

Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, What art thou? knowing that it was the Lord. Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise. This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than thee? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. (John 21: 2-6, 9, 12-17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Teacher: "What's a Grecian urn?"
Jimmie: "That all depends on what he does."

As she eyed her small son more in anger than in sorrow, Mrs. Smith said:

"Fighting again! You naughty boy! Look at the state you're in—holes in your socks and your suit all tattered and torn. Now I'll have to buy you a new suit."

Tommy raised his innocent young eyes to hers and he replied:

"But, mummy, I think Freddy's mother will have to buy a new boy!"

The teacher was trying to explain the meaning of certain words to her class. She came to "sufficient."

"Now," she said brightly, "suppose there was a cat here and I gave it a saucerful of milk, which it drank. Then I gave it another saucerful, and it drank it all. But when I gave it a third it would only drink half of it. We can then say that the cat had sufficient. Now, Tommy, what is the meaning of sufficient?"

"Please, teacher," said Tommy eagerly; "a catful of milk, Miss."

Here Lived Grieg

Another summer, coming from Iceland, I lingered in friendly, picturesque Bergen, and there with friends went out to nearby Hop to see the home where Edvard Grieg had lived and the little retreat with a wooded setting near the bay where he withdrew when he wanted to compose in seclusion. We all but heard the familiar melodies of "Ja, vi elsker dette landet" (Yes, we love this land) and of Solveig's Song" and "Anitra's Dance," as we dwelt on his life story. When Grieg studied in youth at the Leipzig Conservatory, the critics there at once declared that his early compositions were too national. They were finding their world language in Mozart, Mendelssohn and the Wagner of the early years. Later on there was to come a newer note from Russia—a world language again—in the contributions by Rimsky-Korsakoff and Moussorgsky. Another favorite retreat for Grieg on his return to Norway was Loftus, perched near a snowy crest overlooking the Hardanger fjord, and there too he heard the music in the sighing of the wind through mountain spruce and pine and the rhythm of the waters that, vanquished by the blazing suns, rushed down the stupendous crevices.—From "Scandinavia," by Alma Louis Olson.

Capstick—Weatherilt

BETHANY, Jan. 7.—(ENS).—The United church was the scene of a pretty wedding when Irene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Weatherilt, became the bride of Lloyd Capstick, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Capstick of Janetville. Rev. W. A. Harding officiated.

The church altar was draped with green foliage interspersed with white wedding bells and streamers. Music was played by Mrs. Lenard McNeal. The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin, made with full skirt and long pointed sleeves. Her embroidered net veil had a pretty cap of orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink and white roses.

She was attended by Misses Daisy Bottom and Dorothy Rothwell, of Toronto, who preceded her to the altar, wearing floor-length blue flowered chiffon gowns, with caps of pink flowers and carried bouquets of mums. The groom was attended by his brother, Gerald Capstick. The ushers were Earl Weatherilt and Mr. Lenard McNeil.

A reception was held later at the home of the bride's parents, to about 50 guests, served by Mrs. Clarke, Misses Laura and Violee Neals of Springville, Miss Marguerite Neal of Bethany and Mrs. Bert Freeman of Toronto.

The young couple left on a wedding journey to points west. The bride chose a blue gown for travelling, wore a black coat and wine hat and accessories.

Housewife Needs To Use 7 Food Groups

Wartime rationing has placed a check on the meal planning of today's housewife, and now, more than ever, she should see that her menus include at least one item from each of the basic seven food groups.

According to nutrition experts unbalanced diets are the cause of quick tempers, and have a great deal to do with inefficiency on the job. Making sure that each of the seven food groups is represented on the day's menus will not only keep the family healthy and happy, but also will help stretch ration points.

Here are representative items from each of the seven groups. Group one takes in green and yellow vegetables, raw or cooked, while group two has oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit, raw cabbage and salad greens. Grapes, apples, potatoes and bananas, and other vegetables and fruits make up group three.

Group four consists of milk and milk products, and group five takes in meat, poultry, eggs, dried beans, peas and fish, nuts and peanut butter. Bread, cereals and flour make up the bulk of group six, and the last group contains butter and fortified margarine.

NORTH-SOUTH COSTUME—Beige wool, which always looks perishable, always surprises by staying unsoiled a long time, makes this two-piece costume. Vestee is brown velvet, so is underlay for shoulder gashes. Buttons are bejeweled. All the war effort jobs aren't done on shift while wearing overalls. Lots of the fund raising is achieved by women who do their stuff while looking their very best, at occasions built on a social structure. For the Madam Presidents of the country we show off this two-piece light wool costume, which is tailored, but soft appearing, too. Accents are brown, and its effect recommends it for wear North or South this Winter.

DOROTHY DIX

MAN WEDS WOMAN 25 YEARS OLDER ONLY FOR HER MONEY

Deadly Barrier of Shame Always Arise Between Such Persons When Situation Realized.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband, who died ten years ago, left me very wealthy. I am a woman of 55. Recently I met a man who is 30 years old and he tells me that he is in love with me and wants to marry me. I love him, too, but am dubious about marrying him because he is of a different religion. Do you think I should marry this man? Please advise me as I am very PUZZLED.

No Basis For Happiness

Answer: There is nothing in your case to be puzzled about. You don't need to go to any astrologer or crystal-gazer or consult any fortune-teller to find out how such a marriage as you are contemplating will turn out. You have only to look around your own circle of friends to see the shamed, heartbroken, cheated, rich, old women who have bought themselves young husbands and who have been left bankrupt in money and happiness.

Try to face your problem with a little good, hard, horse sense, instead of indulging in wishful thinking. Try to face facts as you know they are. You know that no man of 30 even falls in love with a woman 25 years older than than he is except for her money. Between a young man and an aging woman there is nothing in common. They have no basis on which they can erect a house of happiness.

To begin with, there will be between you the most deadly barrier in the world, and that is shame. You will be ashamed of him because you will be bound to have a contempt for a man who will sell his youth, his independence, his ambitions, everything that makes a man rather than work. You will be ashamed of him because you know the absolute loathing in which other men hold a young man who is nothing but the parasite of an old woman, who runs her errands, takes her pet dog out to walk for the sake of his board and clothes and such tips as she sees fit to hand out to him.

And he will be ashamed of you because even those who do not sneer at him openly will mistake you for his mother, and because there is no spectacle more ridiculous than that of an old woman and a young man going out together, no matter whether he is her husband or her gigolo.

Furthermore, if you marry this boy, you will lose the respect of all who know you. Your friends will drop away from you because they will not want to receive your husband, and because they will feel that you are not the woman they thought you were, or else you would not have done such a fool thing. You will be paying the bills for their amusement. And you will be torn with a thousand jealousies of every young girl whose skin, as "Mr. Skeffington" said, is tight, instead of wrinkled like yours. And you will find that the old woman who tries to keep herself young to go with a young husband and to keep him amused has set herself the hardest job on earth.

Don't do it, lady. Don't use your good husband's money to buy yourself a boy husband. It is too poor an investment.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman of 23 with a husband and two children, all of whom I love dearly. My problem is this: I was a working girl before my marriage and my fingers just ache to get back on a keyboard. I mean I want to do some work outside of my home, but my husband will not agree to it. He says I should be satisfied to keep house and take care of my children. But I'm not.

So many mothers are working nowadays in defense plants and what not, and the government is calling for more women. I don't feel that I would be neglecting my children if I took a job, as we live in a crowded district and they would be well taken care of in a nursery school. Don't you think my husband should consent to let me take a job?

OFFICE MOTHER.

Mother's First Duty to Children

ANSWER—I think your husband is right in contending that your job is in the home and in taking care of the two little children whom you have brought into the world. That is the most important work that you can perform. Modern inventive genius has devised a lot of useful household gadgets, but it has never made anything that was a substitute for a mother.

When you say that your children would be as well taken care of in a nursery school as they would be by you, you either rate yourself as a very poor mother, or else you are trying to drug your conscience by making yourself believe what you want to believe. And that is no reflection on the nursery school or any of the child centers that are being established for the children of working mothers.

It is just that it is one of the inexorable laws of nature that children can't be taken care of en masse as well as they can individually, and that no other person on earth can have the patience, the love, the intuition that a mother has, and that makes even the most stupid mother give to her child something that the most scientifically trained child-specialist cannot give.

So from every ethical standpoint you should stay at home and do the job you wished on yourself—making a home for your husband and children and watching over your little ones, no matter how much you long to be out where there is excitement and noise and something new doing every minute.

Your husband has all the argument on his side, but it is folly to reason with a woman who has the working-outside-of-your-home-bee in her bonnet. The only thing to do is to let her go and try it and get the career idea off of her chest.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7—(CP)—Remake wrinkles: A yard saved in clothing the fighters on the home front is a yard nearer victory, says the Prices Board Consumer Branch in connection with its clothing conservation program. Object of the program is to put every "cast-off" into circulation—making over mother's shrunk sweater into a small boy's cardigan or a husband's worn suit into a smart one for his wife. The Consumer Branch gives these general tips:

1. Buy as little as possible. When combining materials have enough variety for interest, enough similarity to preserve unity.

2. Children like color. Don't be afraid to restore or to change color by the use of dyes. Good directions are given on all the packages.

3. Frequently better surface and color are obtained by turning the material: in which case none of the old work may be saved. Before washing try a scrap of the material, and always abide by the washing rules for the specified fabric.

4. If there is any doubt about getting one garment out of another try laying the pattern on top of the garment before doing any ripping. Avoid unnecessary ripping, and try to preserve as much of the original work as is compatible with good designing. Never cut anything until the entire layout is planned.

5. If it is necessary to use joinings that can't be concealed, make them an integral part of the design, not just seams at random.

FISH AND CHIPS: A recipe for delicious and unusual creamed fish and potato chips comes from the Fisheries Department:

Combine one cup of medium thick white sauce with two cups of canned or left-over, cooked fish (boiled, steamed, or baked.) Place alternate layers of the creamed fish and potato chips in a greased casserole. Season to taste. Top the casserole with buttered, fine bread crumbs and heat well in a moderate oven until the top is brown. Whitefish, salmon, trout, haddock, halibut, etc., may be used.

LUNCH BOXES: For those who pack lunch boxes—and their number is legion—Nutrition Services suggest that part or even all the daily quota of vitamin-filled vegetables may be frequently introduced into the sandwich filling. Finely chopped parsley in generous quantity, chopped celery or celery leaves, grated carrot or turnip add food value and combine well with meat, egg or fish fillings.

SPICY OAT-RAISIN PUDDING: Introduce new recipes in the New Year. Here is one for a hot desert that is different and good and thoroughly in tune with the times. It comes from Laura C. Pepper, Chief of the Agriculture Department Consumer Section and is called Spicy Oat-Raisin Pudding:

Mix and sift one cup sifted all-purpose flour, ½ cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt, one ⅛ teaspoons baking soda and one teaspoon cinnamon. Add one cup quick-cooking rolled oats and ¾ cup raisins. Melt three tablespoons of mild-flavored fat and add to one ⅛ cups sour milk or buttermilk. Add one ½ teaspoons vanilla and mix into the dry ingredients. Pour into a well-greased pudding mould, cover closely and steam for one hour and 15 minutes. Serve with any preferred sauce. Serves six to eight.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 8

THE AFFAIRS of this day may be definitely changed by important news, with prospects of promising openings, or advice of ways and means to rearrange factors that have been thwarting, beclouding, or disturbing the orderly progress of events. Complex situations may be simplified, possibly by a settling of excitable, restless or nerve racking experiences. Intelligent, clever, and thoughtful decisions, agreeing with new plans or associates, may open profitable and pleasant avenues for definite progress. Sign agreements with prudence but swiftly.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have an acceptable solution for entangles or dubious affairs by the receipt of news of major importance to the final profitable issues. While change and rearranging of ideas, plans and policies are probable, the decisions may be made swiftly and under pressure, although new affiliations may be reliable, and have integrity and desire for definite progress and personal gratifications. Thought, intelligence, alert and clever consideration should precede signing of papers or accepting agreements. Pleasant associations both business and private are indicated.

A child born on this day should have good ideas, with acumen versatility, and skill, but be over eager, restless or excitable. If this is controlled it has excellent opportunities to achieve its ambitions.

Dr. H. A. Turner Is Wed In Ottawa

The marriage took place in Ottawa on Thursday of Blanche Matilda Clarry and Dr. Henry A. Turner, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell G. Cameron, Cobourg Street, the latter a sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. W. McNairn, St. Paul's-Eastern United Church. Both the bride and groom are well known throughout the Peterborough district, the former being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Simpson Clarry of Millbrook, but for some years she has resided in New York. The groom has been for many years a well-knwn practising physician in Millbrook. Dr. and Mrs. Turner have gone to Victoria where they will spend the winter.

The report that 830 boxes of 300 cigarettes each had been sent to Airforce boys overseas, was made during the reading of the annual reports at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the R.C.A.F., held Thursday in the Green Room o' the Y.W.C.A.

In addition, it was reported that 200 overseas boxes were sent during 1943, 42 were sent to the coastal command, 15 boxes of Laura Secords went to boys who did not smoke, and 197 ties were sent to R.C.A.F. boys serving in Canada.

At this meeting, the executive of 1943 was returned for another year by acclamation. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. George Graham; first vice-president, Mrs. G. H. Roper; second vice-president, Mrs. F. E. Johnston; recording secretary, Mrs. C. H. McWilliams; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Willis.

During the business period, arrangements were made for a bingo to be held early in March, and also for the selling of tickets on a bridge cloth and a hand-made table cloth, on which a draw will be made, and which will be on display soon

It was announced that the next meeting, to be held February 3 in the Y.W.C.A., will take the form of a social afternoon, and thank-you letters from boys who received gifts from the Auxiliary will be on display.

5-Pin Seniors In Close Race

The City League bowling men are staging the tightest race in years as witnessed by the standing of teams at the finish of the first half of the season's schedule which was completed last night Jay's, the seven times champions and heavy pre-season favorites to repeat again this year, are in first place after winning 32 of the 45 points they have bowled for to date, but they are finding the going tough. The Cleanrites are only three points down on the leaders with 29 while the Ramblers and K. of C. have 28 points each and Sunoco's, Outlaws and Fractional Motors are very much in the running with 26 points each.

Sunoco's topped the parade of heavy hitters as a team last night when they downed the Machine Shop 3 to 0 on a 3650 score. Outlaws, with Buck Guerin contributing 370, nailed the big single team game, 1324, while Jack Playford of Jay's was the lone performer in the 800 class when he made the grade with an 801 count.

Good singles included Guerin's 370, George Robertson 335, Bob Dyer 327, Bill Prindible 321, Bill Stanbury 313, Maurice Caccavella 309, Jack Patte 304, Fred Martin 303 and Roy Suddards 300.

Capitals Beat Buffalo Bisons

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals, in third place in the American Hockey Hockey League, defeated Buffalo Bisons 2-1 last night in the loop's lone scheduled encounter.

With a total of 27 points—12 behind leading Hershey Bears— Caps now have won nine games and tied nine in 28 starts. Bisons nave won seven and tied eight for a total of 22 points.

Not a single penalty was handed out in the game, but Caps tost two men. Defenceman Moose Sherritt developed a Charley-horse early in the second period and was off the ice for keeps. Then Red Kane smashed nto the boards and suffered a severe hip injury which put him out.

Morey Rimstad gave Buffalo a 1-0 lead in the second period and it wasn't until 1.57 in the final round that Johnny Sorrell finally evened the count. On the 13-minute mark Bernie Ruelle made it 2-1 and clinched the game for Indianapolis.

Hockey's Big Seven

By FRED D. CRAIG

When Hard-Boiled Hannigan went berserk in his bout with Whipper Billy Watson in Toronto Wednesday night and used some unknown sharp instrument to open up a deep gash on the champ's head he robbed Peterborough fans of a chance, for the present at least, of seeing a return bout between the Whipper and Texas Karl Davis. It had been all set for next Tuesday night but as the result of the injuries sustained by Watson Wednesday has been postponed. "Whipper will not be able to wrestle again for at least three weeks," Phil Lawson, Watson's manager, telephoned this column yesterday. "He was badly cut in his bout with Hannigan and on top of that he hurt the knee that was injured in Tuesday's battle with Davis in Peterborough. It took four stitches to close up one of the cuts on his head." Lawson added that he himself was going to the Laurentians for a few days holidays and he was hoping that the Whipper would be recovered sufficiently by the week-end to join him there. Watson has been going through a tough schedule and the injury may prove to be a blessing in disguise as it will force him to take a rest.

* * * * * *

Although the return match between Davis and Watson is off for the present Peterborough fans will see plenty of action next Tuesday night nevertheless for Earl McCready has eagerly jumped into the breach and offered to meet the Texan in the main bout, an offer thankfully accepted by Promoter Tunney. McCready was beaten by the Krippler here some weeks ago when Davis twisted the Moose's knee with his stepover toe hold and eventually won the match after McCready had taken the first fall. The Canadian, usually a placid performer, declared after that bout that he had been the victim of a raw decision from Referee Bert Maxwell and he has been clamoring for a return bout ever since. He claims, with a lot of reason, that he had had a distinct edge on Davis over most of the distance, until his injured knee and Referee Maxwell combined to rob him of a win. "My injured knee has recovered completely," McCready said yesterday, and I am going out to show that loud-mouthed maverick from south of the border that Canadian wrestlers are as tough and as clever as anything produced over there. I know Davis' tactics now and he won't find me a sucker for that toe hold." McCready is a prime favorite here and he will have everybody around the ring giving him vocal support. The wild man exhibition given by Davis here Tuesday night sank him lower than ever in the estimation of Peterborough fans and they all want to see him taken apart.

Girls' League Re-opens

Greatest interest in tonight's double-header at the Y.W.C.A. gym which will get the Ladies' Basketball League running again after a lull during the holiday period centres in the first game on the card which brings together the St. John's team, at present in second place and the Generals, who are holding the third slot. A win for the C.G.E. team would wipe out an early defeat at the hands of the Saints and leave the two outfits practically tied for the runner-up position. On the other hand a triumph for St. John's would give the church team a firm hold on second. The last time the two outfits met one of the closest games of the season resulted with the Saints just able to nose out a win by the narrowest possible margin. Generals hope to even up the count tonight in the first game on the program, starting at 7.30 o'clock. In the second game the Transports who have not come close to losing a game this season and probably won't, meet the Y Cadets, a team of willing young girls who will battle their strong opposition until the last toot of the referee's whistle. Their clash is scheduled for 8.30 o'clock.

The Belleville junior O.H.A. squad won their opening game of the season the other night when before 500 fans in the Belleville arena they defeated the Trenton kids 8 to 3. In his notes on the game Ken Colling refers to some of the hockey celebrities in attendance as follows: "It was "old home week" in the Hume Arena last night when hobknobbing together were "Gunner" Arnott, visiting from Preston, "Bouncer" Holway and Bill Green, a trio of local boys who brought hockey glory to Belleville in the early 20's when there was none of this "A" and "B" business and no blue lines of any kind to give a forward a head start. At one stage last night Doug Green and Bill Holway teamed together on the local defence. "It's a long time since a Holway and Green worked on a Belleville defence," wise-cracked Bill Green. Then at the Trenton end of the rink there was Harry Filion, brother of George Filion, one of the better hockey players to come out of Trenton in the last 20 years. Harry is the image of George and is in the Navy. Then young Lemorre, who played wing for Trenton, comes by his hockey honestly, as the Lemorres have been playing hockey in Trenton for decades back. Yes, it was like old times last night."

Entries Pouring In

Although the invitations to the 17th annual Ontario bonspiel were only mailed out on New Year's Eve there was a most surprising and enthusiastic response and by Tuesday night there was a total of 33 entries; one third of the maximum that can be accommodated during Curling Week—from Feb. 14 to 19. This response bears out the early prediction that there will be a lengthy waiting list and that the limit of 100 rinks will be reached before the end of January. Toronto High Park is setting the pace with five entries; from G. R. Meech, Rev. J. S. Shortt, Ken A. Miles, Gordon Jones and Frank Raney. The Toronto Granites have three —E. H. Pooler, H. C. Rose and Harry Howard, winner of the North American Life trophy last year. Torontos have one, Nicol MacNicol, and Royal Canadians also have one, Bert Kennedy. London and Chatham lead the outside clubs, each with three. J. A. Mason, Dr. J. A. Wright and F. N. Allen are the London trio while the Chatham entrants are A. J. Paquette, Peter Gilbert and W. E. Reid. Three clubs each have two representatives already. W. J. Card and A. McN. Austin are from Chapleau; T. L. Van Epps and one other from Portage, Wis., and C. J. Watson and one other from Glencoe, Ill. Other U.S. entrants are D. C. Fish of Detroit, winner of the Waterloo trophy in 1943, and R. P. Hallowell of Brookline, Mass.

A tipoff to the quality of hockey being played generally in the N.H.L. this season is the fact that the Chicago Black Hawks used two lease-lend players from the Toronto Mercantile League in their game with the Leafs last night in which the Daymen were victorious 6 to 1 and that the only Chicago goal was scored by one of the pair, Grigor of the Staffords team. The other reinforcement was the 31-year-old Whitey Farrant who is with Peoples. You can see a double-header in the Mercantile League any time for a quarter yet the players are apparently good enough to get by in the $2.50-a-seat-in-the-blues brand. The Leafs had little trouble in winning that fixture and Detroit Red Wings who have been skidding badly had an equally easy win over the Rangers in New York by a 5 to 0 score. The most interesting thing about that affair was that 12,811 fans paid to see it.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 — (AP) — No doubt there are plenty of good commonsense reasons for redrawing the baseball map, but we still wonder why major leaguers are so interested in this essentially minor league project . . . its the big league officials who keep pointing out that it is silly to have little leagues over-lapping on each other and towns where natural rivalries might develop operating in different circuits . . . and generally they add that if the leagues were more compact and travel expenses were reduced, the minor clubs could operate under local ownership and would not have to keep running to their big brothers for help . . . they might be anticipating another anti-chain move by Judge Landis, of course, but our guess is that last season's declining attendances, made the chain operators think about divesting themselves of the expensive appendages.

After the Chicago U. basketball team ended its two-year, 45-game losing streak, Coach Kyle Anderson explained: "We have no trouble over losing men in the draft, but the club has been laboring under a mental strain, nevertheless. Most of the fellows are worrying about their dads going into service."

Quinn Gets Job

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Quinn has been appointed manager of the pari-mutuel betting system for the Long Branch Jockey Club and the Metropolitan Racing Association, under whose auspices the half-mile Dufferin track operates, it was made known last night. He succeeds Ed. Vivell, who died last week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Chicago Skids Before Leafs, Loses Game 6-1

By The Canadian Press

Paul Bibeault may have been just what the doctor ordered as a mid-winter tonic for Toronto Maple Leafs.

In Bibeault's case, the doctor also ordered an army discharge, enabling the former Montreal Canadiens' netminder to join Leafs as a replacement for aging Benny Grant.

And Bibeault came through last night, playing a star role as Leafs took a 6-1 decision from the crumbling Chicago Black Hawks to gain a second-place tie with the idle Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League race.

Chicago skidded to a fourth-place stalemate with Detroit Red Wings, who blanked New York Rangers 6-0 before 12,811 fans.

George Grigor, elevate from Toronto Mercantile ranks for a one-night, lease-lend stand along with Whitey Farrant, saved Chicago from a shutout midway through the second period after Leafs had stowed the game away with four goals. Tommy O'Neill scored two goals for Leafs, his first of the season, while singles went to Elwin Morris, Gus Bodnar, Lorne Carr and Don Webster.

Carl Liscombe potted two goals for Detroit in New York as Rangers suffered their 18th defeat in 23 starts, but Joe Carveth led in points with a goal and two assists. Syd Howe and Pat Egan, obtained this week from Boston Bruins for Flash Hollett, were the other goal getters.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 7—(CP)—Picking champions in mid-season is risky business in any sport but it does seem likely that the Canadian senior men's basketball title will not change hands this year. In other words, we figure the golden gonfalon will remain right where it now hangs—in the mess hall of Patricia Bay's R.C.A.F. Gremlins on Vancouver Island. The other night Gremlins handed a strong Vancouver team a 58-37 trimming in Vancouver's own backyard and Norm Baker showed his shooting eye has not left him by counting 21 points for the Airmen. Baker is the one-man gang who totalled 72 points as Gremlins beat Windsor Patricks three straight games in the 1943 national final, including 36 of his team's 58 points in the first game. Dominion titles are right up Baker's alley. He won in 1942 with Victoria Dominoes. Unless the R.C.A.F. stops basketball like it did hockey he is likely to win again. And here's more bad news for rival hoop teams: With Baker at Pay Bay is Ralph (Porky) Andrews, another former Dominoes player. Porky had a spell with University of Oregon a couple of years ago and set New York by the ears in the U.S. National Intercollegiate tournament.

Quip of the Week:

Dan Parker of the New York Daily Mirror: "Lester Patrick, who was 60 years old on the last day of 1943, will be 70 on his next birthday if his Rangers don't snap out of it."

N.H.L. Enterprises

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle, who pioneered opposition to the N.H.L. player "gag" rule, has investigated further and discovered the league has a rule imposing a $100 fine on any official or player conspiring to throw a game and making the offender subject to expulsion. Another clause provides a fine of between $200 and $1,000 be imposed on any club official "who gives to the press for publication any statement reflecting on the conduct or performance of any official."

Incidentally

Flt. Lt. Fred Garvey, awarded the D.S.O., is a former sports writer for the Vancouver Daily Province. His father, the late Art Garvey, was sports editor of the Province. . . . Many hockey observers consider Flash Hollett one of the most valuable players in the N.H.L. yet Boston Bruins apparently made an even trade with Detroit Red Wings—Hollett for Pat Egan, no ball of fire this year. The reason is Hollett and Manager Art Ross are not exactly buddies at Boston.

The first and second teams will play-off at the end of the schedule.

The schedule has been drawn up and submitted by R. K. McKee, secretary of the Public School Athletic Association.

Conick Leads Scoring Parade

TORONTO, Jan. 7—(CP)—Johnny Conick still leads the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A", scoring parade, official records showed today. The Hamilton star has 14 goals, 16 assists, for 30 points, two more than team-mate Doug Runions and Gus Giesebrecht of Kingston Army, tied for second with 28. Blink Bellinger of St. Catharines is an undisputed fourth with 27 counters, followed by two Kingston forwards, Red Hamill and Jim Peters, who have 25 and 23 points respectively. Red Reynolds of St. Catharines and Dillon Brady of Hamilton round out the first eight, each credited with 22-point totals.

In the Junior "A" group, Kenny Smith of the powerful Oshawa Generals regained scoring leadership during the week by boosting his point total to 33, one better than Galt's flashy Johnny Ubriaco and Bobby Schnurr and Joe Sadler of St. Michael's, in a three-way tie for second place. Bill Ezinicki of Oshawa holds fifth spot with 31 points, followed by Bob Love of Oshawa and Bob Thorpe of St. Catharines in that order with 28 and 27 points.

New Radio Hit Show Coming Over CHEX

"That Brewster Boy", now heard over the new nation-wide network every Friday night, is swell, down-to-earth, rib-tickling entertainment, full of fun and interest for the whole family. This program will be carried every Friday evening at 9.30 over CHEX.

Life with the Brewsters begins with Joey, 'teen-aged ball-of-fire, full of "super" brain-waves which certainly land him in the 'soup'! Joey is played by Dick York, young, peppy, talented, and a veteran star of radio.

Aiding and abetting him is his squeaky-voiced pal, PeeWee the woman-hater, who is clever, young Jerry Spellman in real life, and a 'wow' as the other half of this team of trouble-magnets.

Mrs. Brewster, Connie Crawley to her friends, and a charming radio personality, is a delightful "Mother Brewster", full of quiet fun and motherly good humour, who will certainly win the sympathy of all listening mother's, especially the ones who know what life with a 'teen-aged idea-factory can be like!

Hugh Studebaker brings to life the part of Dad Brewster, with a magic touch which shows "Father" as slightly bewildered, but still in there punching, trying to keep that 10,000-volt son of his on the beam. As usual, "Dad" claims Joey takes after his mother's side of the family!

And when Joey claims "Minervus wreck", he's referring to his faithful girlfriend, Minerva, cute as a daisy, awash with 'teen-aged sentiment, who suffers through all Joey's screwball 'shenanigans'!

By The Canadian Press

No less than 1,500 thoroughbreds in the Miami, Fla., area are available for the 50-day meeting which opens today at Hialeah. The meet follows the highly-successful 20-day session at Tropical Park where a number of betting records toppled although attendance was not up to pre-war standards. Feature of today's eight-race card is the inaugural handicap, $5,000 added, which has attracted 17 sparkling entries.

Defenceman Bill (Flash) Hollett, traded by Boston Bruins of the N.H.L. for Defenceman Pat Egan, went to his home in Clarkson, Ont., instead of reporting to Detroit Red Wings and Manager Art Ross of Boston yesterday gave permission to Jack Adams to play Egan against New York Rangers.

Thirty-three entries have already been received for the 17th annual Ontario curling bonspiel to be held in Toronto Feb. 14-19, with rinks nominated from clubs in scattered sections of Ontario and the United States.

Registrations for the Regina City Parks hockey league have dropped this season to 1,000 players from the pre-war peak of 1,400 youthful puckchasers, it was reported last night from the Prairie City. The higher-age divisions have been hit by the war.

Wally Kilrea, 34-year-old member of a famous Ottawa hockey family and leading scorer of the American Hockey League with Hershey Bears, yesterday was accepted for the United States Army at Harrisburg, Pa., after passing his final medical test.

Lift Suspension

The suspension on Robert Dill, former Buffalo Bison, for striking the referee in an A.H.L. game at Pittsburgh last Saturday was lifted yesterday by League President Maurice Podoloff, following the sale of the player to the New York Rangers.

After passing his U.S. Army test, Bobby Ruffin, 23-year-old Long Island lightweight, was ordered yesterday to report at Fort Dix, N.J., Jan. 26, before which date he will fight Tippy Parkin in a bout scheduled for Jan. 14 at Madison Square Garden.

William J. Bingham, former graduate-manager of athletics at Harvard and now in the U.S. Army, was named chairman of the National Collegiate football rules committee yesterday at New York to deal with proposed grid changes.

Hightland Park, N.J.—Lew Maxwell, 136, Newark, outpointed Sammy Mamone, 140, Greenwich, Conn.; Pte. Hugh Murphy, 163, Camp Kilmer, outpointed Danny Aldridge, 166½, Newark, 6.

Price Ceiling Boosts Lamb Prices

TORONTO, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Cattle prices were down 15 to 25 cents on steers and heifers. Calves, hogs and sheep were steady. Lambs gained 50 cents to $1 at the opening but eased off by the close with a net gain of 50 cents for the week.

The run of cattle was liberal for the season. Buyers made an effort to lower values which had been creeping up throughout December. Good to choice weighty steers closed at $12.50 to $12.65 with only small lots at $13. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $10.50 to $11.75. Fed yearlings were $12 to $13.50. Butcher cows sold at $7 to $8.75 with a few at $9. Bulls were $8 to $9.25. Small lots of the stockers sold at $7 to $10.25. Good milkers and springers were $130 to $160 each.

Calves were unchanged to $16.00 to $16.50 for choice vealers with common downward to $10.

Hogs were steady at $17.15 for dressed for the basic grade with sows at $13 dressed.

The new price ceiling of 26¼ cents dressed sent lamb prices up 50 cents to $1 with an opening range of $13.50 to $14 for good ewes and wethers. The close was easier at $13.50 for the general run Culls sold at $8 to $11. Sheep were hard to move at $3 to $6.50 with several lots unsold.

78th Congress Resumes Next Monday

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (CP).—Senators and representatives come back to Capitol Hill Monday for the second session of the 78th Congress—a session that promises to be charged with historical portent and bright with forensic fireworks.

This is a Presidential election year and already the two Houses of Congress have heard strange interchanges as members use them as sounding boards for political ambitions.

Members re-assemble as the country enters upon what leaders agree may be the crucial year of the war.

But under the constitution the Americans must elect a new president and a large section of Congress this year and that means that the game of politics must be played even amid such tragedy and horror as this unprecedented war has brought to the whole world.

Busy Session: President Roosevelt will send or take a message to Congress asking for what the administration wants in the way of legislation but both Houses have enough measures before them to provide plenty of work.

An outstanding problem yet to be settled is the setting up of machinery to provide an opportunity for some 10,000,000 Americans in uniform, many of them scattered through the world, to vote in the next November elections.

Civil aviation: Pennsylvania-Central Air Lines' application to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to extend its Washington-Buffalo service through Rochester to Ottawa is at the foot of a long list of extension applications the company has made, also an application for permission to build three great floating seadromes at intervals of 800 miles across the Atlantic. But the proposal to connect the two capitals by air may get earliest consideration.

U.S. SOIL EROSION

Erosion carries off an estimated three billion tons of topsoil in the United States annually.

GENERALS DISCUSS STRATEGY—General Mark Clark, commander of the American 5th Army, recently paid a visit at the headquarters of the Italian commander, General Capino, during which they were photographed, as shown here. The Italian army is in the field again now, helping to free Italy from the Germans. Both infantry and artillery units have been in action recently in the Mignano sector of the 5th Army front.

was Lipovets, 25 miles east of Vinnitsa, and 39 miles from the Warsaw-Odessa railway running through Zhmerinka, 20 miles below Vinnitsa. To the northwest other Russian units converging on Sheptovka, an important rail junction, overran the Miropol rail station and were less than 28 miles away from the point where the Krosten-Tarnopol and the Kazatin-Kowel lines meet.

North of Nevel, in the area above White Russia, Gen. Ivan Bagramian's Baltic army was pushing steadily west toward the Latvian frontier. "Advantageous positions" were captured yesterday, the Soviet communique said.

Msgr. W. Dooner Dies At Renfrew

RENFREW, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Msgr. William Henry Donner, the parish priest of Renfrew, died today, aged 63. He had suffered a heart ailment for several years.

Msgr. Dooner was born near Osceola, Ont., one sister Miss Minnie Dooner of Pembroke, Ont., and two brothers, Rev. Alfred Dooner of Toronto and Edward Dooner of Provost, Alta., survive.

He was ordained a priest in the Roman Catholic Church at Pembroke in 1908 and was curate at Renfrew for three years before being created parish priest of Griffith. Then, in 1916, he was assigned to open the parish at Calabogie. He served this parish for seven years, and was chairman of the committee of parishioners to reorganize parochial financial affairs. His work in this regard resulted in his elevation to Monsignor.

As a student at Ottawa University he was a member of the university football team that won the Canadian championship in 1901 and the Quebec championship in 1902.

MacDonald Brothers Held For Theft

TORONTO, Jan. 7 (CP) —Donald (Mickey) MacDonald, 37, and his brother, Edwin, 19, charged with armed robbery in connection with theft of 600 cases of liquor Dec. 13 and kidnapping of truck driver George Butcher of Windsor were remanded for hearing to Jan. 11 when they appeared in the court yesterday.

The older brother, now on bond of $5,000 waiting trial on another charge, was not allowed bail. Bond of $15,000 was suggested by the crown for the younger.

Police now have nine men in custody on charges connected with the theft of $35,000 worth of liquor from the Western Freight Yards. The liquor and truck were found shortly after the robbery abandoned in an Etobicoke Township barn.

Dominate Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(CP).—The British Export Association revealed yesterday that it "prevented Germany from buying woollens in Spain and Turkey for Nazi soldiers on the eastern front by buying it all," the BBC said yesterday in a broadcast recorded by CBS.

Italian States To Form NewGovernment

NAPLES, Jan. 7 (AP).—Formal authorization to assemble a conference of the six democratic parties of Southern Italy and Sicily at Bari on Jan. 8 was handed to the party representatives by the Allied military government to-day.

It opened the way for the most important political action in Italy since the fall of the Fascist government—the formal demand by a representative political gathering for the resignation of King Victor Emmanuel.

Originally the Naples committee of the six parties attempted to convene the assembly at Naples last Dec. 2 but the gathering was banned on the ground that clashes with Monarchists might arise.

The party representatives have notified the British and Americans that about 90 delegates would attend, that the meetings would be held in Chambers and that the party heads assumed personal responsibility for maintaining order.

Board Refuses Caretakers' Plea

WINDSOR, Jan. 7 (CP).—Windsor Board of Education has voted unanimously to turn down a request from the school caretakers for a collective bargaining agreement.

Cecil W. Daynes, chairman of the board, argued against the decision of his fellow trustees but, since he was in the chair, he did not vote. All members of the board were present at the committee meeting called to discuss the caretakers' request, with the exception of Dr. M. G. Brick.

It was pointed out that no other school board in the province has entered into a collective bargaining agreement with its caretakers and it was also said that school boards do not come under provisions of the Collective Bargaining Act.

stone buildings where the Germans had barricaded themselves.

While the Americans fought from one pillbox-converted house to another, British troops on their southern half of the 10-mile front pushed an attack from Rocca D'Evendro, capturing 79 prisoners for a two-day total of 126.

Cold weather with snow falling in the mountains and dense clouds obscuring the mountain tops impeded the movement of the 8th Army on the Adriatic coastal front. Indian troops nevertheless made a short advance west of San Tommaso.

The weather grounded most Allied aircraft, but dive-bombers and fighters attacked German gun positions and troop concentrations in the Cervaro and Quino areas just behind the enemy on the 5th Army front, and shot up the town of Fondi, north-east of Terracina as well as motor convoys and trains east of Rome.

Intercepting 20 German planes over Central Italy, Spitfires destroyed two for the only score of the day against enemy aircraft. No Allied planes were lost yesterday.

Treated Like Cattle

LONDON, Jan. 7 (CP-Aneta).—Foreign workers in Germany are treated like livestock according to a comprehensive account of their living conditions given to Aneta by a Netherlands student who recently escaped from the Reich after being shipped there from the Netherlands for forced labor. Workers were housed in crowded, unsanitary huts behind barbed wire over which factory police stood guard. Beatings were left to the judgment of foremen.

Advisory Board Studies Student Status

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP). — University Advisory Board recently appointed by Labor Minister Mitchell to study manpower problems affecting universities today held its first meeting, under chairmanship of Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service.

Mr. Mitchell gave assurance members' recommendations would receive "most serious consideration" by the department.

In a brief review of the manpower situation, Mr. Mitchell said that in the armed forces and war industry there now are 2,000,000 Canadians in jobs which did not exist before the war. In addition, manpower had been provided for an all-time record production of food and timber. Reports indicated a record for pulpwood production would be established this winter.

The new advisory board would deal largely with problems involved in the military call-up of university students and the shaping of university policies to better serve wartime needs in regard to university graduates.

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Manitoba, is vice-chairman of the board. Other members are Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.; Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto.

Japs Admit Retreat

LONDON, Jan. 7—(CP).—A Tokyo broadcast heard today by Reuters News Agency said "our forces in New Britain now are inferior to enemy forces which have landed on the island." Allied troops are steadily pushing inland after winning two bridgeheads on the western end of this island. At the opposite end is the important Japanese base of Rabaul.

Courteous Governor Delights Visitor

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 7 (AP)—Disappointed because doors were locked when she arrived for a long-anticipated tour of South Carolina's capitol, Mrs. Frances Moorefield of Danville, Va., asked a man walking down the steps if it were possible for her to see the building even though after visiting hours.

The man courteously reopened a door and personally conducted Mrs. Moorefield about the building, pointing out various historical spots. Then he asked:—

"How would you like to have the governor take you home?"

"That would be marvelous," Mrs. Moorefield answered.

"Then permit me to show you to my car," said Governor Olin D. Johnston.

Mosquito Planes Lash At Germany Again

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP)— For the sixth night in succession R.A.F. Mosquitoes streaked across the English Channel last night to plaster targets in Western Germany and keep the Allied air offensive against Hitler's European fortress rolling around the clock.

The bombers skipped away without loss, an Air Ministry communique said.

The daylight pounding of the continent began soon after the return of the Mosquitoes when the usual parade of fighters and fighter-bombers was observed starting across the Strait of Dover, soon followed by high-flying groups of medium bombers protected by fighters.

R.C.A.F. bombers during the night laid mines in enemy waters, all returning safely, Canadian Headquarters said.

Target Not Named.

In addition to bombing objectives in Germany, the identity of which was not disclosed, the Mosquitoes also stabbed at Northern France and other R.A.F. planes laid mines.

Apparently a considerable number of the hard-hitting Mosquitoes participated, for observers on the British south-east coast reported last night they had heard outward bound planes passing overhead for almost two hours.

The Mosquito raids were accompanied by air alerts in Geneva and other Swiss cities, the German-controlled Paris radio said.

Yesterday, the Air Ministry said, R.A.F. light and medium bombers teamed up with fighter-bombers to attack military objectives in Northern France. The light and medium bombers were escorted by Allied fighters.

R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and Allied fighters also carried out supporting sweeps, the Ministry said

From the daylight operations six Allied aircraft were reported missing. Three enemy planes were shot down.

Solve 29 Deaths

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 7—(AP).—Twenty-nine homicides, twenty-nine solutions. That's the record of the city's police department for 1943, the first year the books could be closed with all cases cleaned up. The city's record high of cases was in 1936 with 56 cases and 46 solutions.

Waterloo Driver Faces Serious Count

KITCHENER, Jan. 7 — (CP) — After preliminary evidence had been taken in the motor manslaughter charge against Harry Hartleib, of Waterloo, Magistrate Hugh R. Polson, today reserved judgment for a week.

The case arises out of a double fatality on the Waterloo-Bridgeport road Nov. 27, in which a taxi driven by Hartleib skidded on a patch of ice and killed two children, Harold Rumig, 12, and Eileen Rumig, nine, brother and sister.

Bail of $1,000 was renewed.

Armed Services Forego Claims

OTTAWA, Jan. 7 (CP). — Under an order-in-council announced to-day the armed services will forego claims for damages to vehicles and property after accidents involving two or more services and will abide by a decision of the Judge Advocate-General as to which is to be assessed damages in connection with accidents involving two or more services and civilians

Formerly, each service carried out a laborious and prolonged investigation to place responsibility and then entered claims and counter-claiams. The new "knock-for-knock" agreement and decision to accept the Judge Advocate's ruling will do away with a great deal of administrative work and result in no undue financial burden being placed on any one service.

RECTAL SORENESS AND
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

RANGERS RECRUIT TWO.

The Prince of Wales Rangers (AF) have added two recruits to their battalion strength at recent parades. They are James Travers, 141 Rubidge street, and Harry Clifford Smith, 389 Aylmer street.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED

In police court this morning because of the absence of the interested parties, Magistrate O. A. Langley announced that he would defer the reading of his judgment in a charge against Clair O'Brien, Indian River, of illegal parking on a highway, until Monday morning.

AIRWOMEN GRADUATE.

Violet Mary Hobson of Peterborough, who is in the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, has graduated as a clerk stenographer at No. 2 Composite Training School, Toronto. Another graduate of the same school was Kennetha Joyce Wilcox of Port Hope, who qualified as a fabric worker.

A MINOR ACCIDENT

When 80-year-old G. Harrison of Lakefield went to make a left turn into a field to cut wood this morning, another south-bound car driven by Guy Peel, also of Lakefield, collided with the other vehicle. Neither driver was injured and the damage to the cars was slight. The accident happened near Gill's butcher shop on the Lakefield Road.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

The Peterborough police department was notified Thursday night that the car owned by D. A. Wilson, stolen from Elcome Crescent during the previous night had been found abandoned in Sca[illegible]ro Junction by the police there. It was stated that the stolen vehicle had not been damaged and the tires were intact.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The Friday night clinic of the Blood Donors' is expected to bring in a sizable group of contributors, possibly as high as 85, it was indicated this morning by Mrs. Charles Ray, director of the Blood Donors' service. In addition to servicemen from the training centre and a deputation from Lakefield, there will be a special group representing all the local dairies.

FIRE REPORT

An overheated pipe running through the ceiling that set fire to a joist in the home of F. M. Magee, 215 Lake street, Thursday night at 5:45, caused damage estimated this morning by the fire department at $100. There was an alarm at 8 a.m. caused by wood in a stove at 305 Louis street, home of H. E. Wright, catching fire and filling the house with smoke. This morning at 11:30 a chimney fire occurred at 578 Gilchrist.

A hen belonging to Mrs. Hilliard Lyttle of Young's Point laid an egg measuring 8½ by 7¾ inches around and weighing 4¾ ounces. Inside the eggshell and encased in the white of the large egg was another egg, itself perfectly formed and about half the size of the big one.

BIG HOCKEY GAME.

The youngsters transferred their skating mileage from the lake and canal to glare ice nearer home last night, the streets of the neighborhood. A great shouting down the block attested the importance of some hockey game with six or seven players all told, the noisiest affair the locality has heard in years. Fast ice and Dobbin candle power was everything the boys could ask for.

THE WRONG NAME.

The member of the Public Library Board whose term is now expiring is William C. Ackerman and not John R. Marshall as reported in the Examiner Thursday. The reference was to the first application of the automatic-ouster resolution with which the City Council rubricated its records last year. So, it will be Mr. Ackerman who presumably has been a diligent and capable member of the Board who gets the gate as the instrument of ejection goes about is work without any sensibility of discrimination.

RANGERS OFFICERS AWAY.

Two senior officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R.F.), Major J. McGrath, M.M., and Major V. Eastwood, M.C., are away from Peterborough at the present time taking advanced training courses. Maj. McGrath left last Sunday for Brockville, where he will remain through January at the 1st (Reserve Army) Field Officers' Course. Maj. Eastwood returns next week after completing a course in administration at the Canadian Army Administration School in Kemptville. In their absence Maj. Gordon Monkman, M.C., E.D., takes charge of the battalion.

FALSE ALARMS

Fire Chief George Gimblett and his whole department were justifiably annoyed this morning at the thoughtlessness of some nameless, would-be funny man who set off a false alarm from box 5 in front of the Canada Packers Thursday night at 11:30. The streets were slippery and the fire truck had to crawl along over the ice, but even so the rear end of it came in contact with a steel post on the sidewalk while rounding a corner. There was danger of several men being injured by the collision, Chief Gimblett stated, pointing out the hazard of operating on these icy streets. All in all, the fire department does not see anything funny about these ringers of false alarms.

ARMY CASUALTIES.

Pte. John William Grieder of Peterborough and Acting Sgt. Earl Delue Phillips, of Harold, Ont., are named in the latest casualty list of the Department of National Defence as "missing, believed killed." Both boys are members of the Eastern Ontario Regiment, and Pte. Grieder's next of kin is his mother, Mrs. Alice Grieder, listed as living on R.R. No. 2. No family of this name appears in the Peterborough directory, but information developed from other sources reveals that Pte. Grieder came from Cobourg, where he lived at 327 Walton street, and that he worked ata the C.G.E for a time prior to his enlistment, boarding the while at 266 Aylmer street. Sgt. Phillips is the husband of Mrs. Mabel Irene Phillips, R.R. 1, Harold.

TANKMAN OVERSEAS — Tpr. Norman Gawley of the Ontario Tank Regiment has been stationed in England since his arrival overseas in November of last year. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gawley, 41 Park Street, he enlisted in February, 1943, qualifying as a wireless operator. Prior to joining up he had been in the Punch Press Department at the C.G.E. for two years, and at the time of his enlistment was employed by the Standard Electric Co., Toronto. Tpr. Gawley's father is a veteran of the last war, having served with the 2nd Machine Gun Battalion.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR — AW.2 Betty Kent, formerly switchboard operator on the Examiner, is training as a telephone operator in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. At present she is at Rockcliffe, but expects to be posted to Arnprior shortly. She enlisted in October, 1943, and after her basic training took a 3-weeks' course in Toronto. AW.2 Kent is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kent, 386 Murray Street, and her brother, Tpr. Robert Kent, has just arrived overseas.

G. Wilson Craw Is Chosen Board Chairman

Recognizing that a year is under way which has forecast important events, the 1944 Board of Education at the inaugural meeting Thursday night wasted no time in striking its committees and electing G. Wilson Craw, as chairman. During 1943, he served as vice chairman, and this job has now been placed in the hands of T. J. C[illegible]rley. K. C.

A special committee made up of five members, H. G. Walker, T. J. Carley, Alex Sollitt, J. Fred Reed and Dr. C. M. Scott were appointed to strike the committees and they presented the following report which was adopted.

Finance committee — Mr. Reed chairman; Mrs. F. K. Harris; Dr. Scott; Mr. Walker; and the county representative.

Property committee— Mr. Sollitt, chairman; Mrs. Harris; Mr. Carley; Mr. Sollitt; D. V. Canning; and P. D. Scollard (Separate School representative).

Supervision committee — D. V. Canning, chairman; Mrs. R. Parnall; Mr. Carley; Mr. Sollitt; county represenetative.

Health committee — Dr. Scott, chaidman; Mrs. Parnall; Mr. Walker; Mr. Reed; Mr. Scollard.

Advisory Vocational committee— Dr. Scott; Mr. Craw; Mr. Carley; Mr. Sollitt; Mr. Reed; Mr. Scollard. In addition, six other names were recommended: George A. Macdonald, superintendent of the DeLaval; Ian McCrae, Works Manager of C. G. E.; C. Derry, Western Clock Company; C. B. Westbrook, superintendent of the Peterborough Lock Co.; J. J. Cunningham, of Nashua Paper Company; and Thomas McMillan of the Outboard Marine.

Checking Up

The entire board will serve as the committee on appointments with T. J. Carley chairman.

After expressing his thanks for the honor of being elected chairman, Mr. Craw welcomed Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Parnall, the first two women to serve as members on the Board at the same time, He predicted that they would not find them "a difficult outfit to get along with." He also congratulated two of the old group who were re-elected, Mr. Canning and Mr. Carley

Asks Salary Increases

Requests from the public school principals, Collegiate men teachers, Mr. Fred Finnie (maintenance manager), Miss Barbara Bothwell (assistant at the Collegiate), and the public school caretakers, for increases in their rates of pay, were referred to the committee on appointments, on a motion by Mr. Walker and Mr. Carley.

The principals pointed out that their duties were now evenly divided between teaching and administration and the new system made their work more arduous. The men on the Collegiate staff felt their salaries were lower than other schools this size and smaller, and Miss Barbara Bothwell requested an increase of $10 a month beginning January. Mr. Finnie, maintenance manager for eight years, felt that his service entitled him to higher wages and the janitors stressed that both civic and factory employees received pay for overtime, where they had less responsibility than was their lot.

Pte. J. J. Ireland Arrives As Hospital Case

While his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ireland, worked in the Genelco plant producing guns which they hoped would help their son in Italy, and a sister went active with the C.W.A.C., the fourth member of the family was doing the fighting and he suffered severe injuries in Italy in September. He arrived today in Kingston as a hospital case, and his parents are leaving tonight to visit the boy whom they have not seen for four years.

This is the second time that Pte. Ireland, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, has been wounded. During the invasion of Sicily he suffered minor shrapnel wounds on July 15 and he was discharged from the hospital on August 7. He had only been in action again for about five weeks, when he was wounded September 14.

His parents received no notification from the War Office, but their son's letters informed them of his progress. He was in a hospital in North Africa till near the end of October, when he was transferred to a base hospital in England.

Although his parents did not know how his wound occurred, a Canadian Press story declared that he lay on the battlefield with a shrapnel wound watching while a group of Canadian tanks cleaned up on four Nazi vehicles which had scattered his Bren carrier section. Pte. Ireland wrote that his leg was broken above the knee, and no further details are available.

Pte. Ireland had only been out of school a short time when he enlisted March 5, 1940. When he went overseas in June of the same year he was 18. He attended Collegiate, and when he left there he acted as a guard at the Armouries for a short time.

"It is almost four years since we saw our son off to the wars, and it is grand to have him back in Canada with us. Even with his injuries, we at least know he is not under fire and apt to hurt at any time," his mother said.

PTE. JAMES J. IRELAND

His only sister, Pte. Jane Sorby, of the C.W.A.C., is still stationed in Canada, and makes up the 100 per cent. war effort of the Irelands. The two at home produce the weapons at war and the C.W.A.C. releases another man for active service.

Martin McNee Is Fined $50

Registering a conviction against Francis Martin McNee, Simcoe street on a charge of failing to obey a Selective Service order to report for an interview, Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Thursday afternoon fined McNee $50 and $9 costs.

The case lasted most of the day with W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuting and W. J. Arthur Fair defending McNee.

In giving judgment Magistrate Gee said that he believed the evidence of Lewis Grant, Selective Service officer, that a notice to report had been sent McNee and that the latter had telephoned the Selective Service office several days afterward in connection with the order.

"The department does not look on this case lightly," said Mr. Huycke when the question of the penalty was being considered. "I do not think that the fine should be under $200."

The maximum penalty for the offence is a fine of $500 or twelve months imprisonment or both.

"I think that a $10 fine would be enough," said Mr. Fair. "This is the first charge of its kind we have had here. Ten dollar fines have been handed out for selling coal under the ceiling price."

"And the magistrate got rapped over the knuckles for that," returned Magistrate Gee.

While he said he did not want the fine he was about to impose regarded as a precedent in such cases Magistrate Gee remarked that he thought a $50 fine would be sufficient under the circumstances.

IN CANADA — LAC. Gerard Primeau of the R.C.A.F., son of Mrs. Mary Primeau, 270-B Rubidge Street, is a clerk accountant at a post in Canada. He enlisted in May, 1942, and trained at Manning Depot, Camp Borden, and I.T.S. in Toronto, and he hopes later to be able to train as a pilot. A brother, Joseph, served overseas for 3½ years with the R.C.A.S.C. and has now been discharged. LAC. Primeau attended St. Peter's School and spent two years taking a commercial course at the Collegiate. He has always been interested in drawing and at one time was an Examiner carrier boy.

Lt. Kirkpatrick Arrives On Hospital Train

After almost three years overseas, Lieut. H. A. Robert Kirkpatrick, whose wife lives at 781 George street, has been invalided home and is expected to arrive in the city this afternoon. In spite of his injuries, he was able to make the trip, although several of the other Peterborough boys were hospital cases.

Lieut. Kirkpatrick was hurt in manoeuvres in England, where he was serving with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and he is suffering from injuries to the spine and from sinus trouble. His wife said today that she had not expected him home until February or March and was quite surprised when she received word that he was in Kingston.

At the time of his enlistment in the engineers, Lieut. Kirkpatrick was an inspector at the C.G.E. After going overseas he became a sergeant-instructor. Some time ago acting on the suggestion of his superior officers, he voluntarily reverted to the rank of private in order to transfer to the Ordnance Corps, where greater use could be made of his special qualifications, particularly in connection with tire building and repairs. Lieut. Kirkpatrick was soon selected for officers training school, following his transfer and was given his commission.

The Ordnance Corps is a popular service with the Kirkpatricks, for this soldier has two brothers in Canada, serving with that branch of the Army. Warren Kirkpatrick is stationed at Ottawa, and Bert, too is at a post in Canada.

Other Peterborough and district boys on the same hospital train which arrived in Kingston this morning were Sgm'n John R. Buchanan of Peterborough, Gnr. F. R. Woodcox of Madoc, Gnr. G. W. Clark of Havelock. Pte. J. J. Ireland was aboard same train but he is being held in hospital for a few days. The others left Kingston at noon for their homes.

Judge's Opinion

Sunday School Gives Aid To War Victims

All precepts of moral worth have a far greater teaching value when put into practical use, and thus it follows that words without deeds cannot hold anywhere as much significance to the receptive mind of the young, who are more keen to take stock of such things than one would deem them capable of.

In this respect, children who attend the many Sunday Schools devoted to teaching the tenets of the Christian faith, will certainly feel that they have unitedly taken a stand in following the teachings of the Great Master, Who went about doing good for others, when they join together in doing a work of good to help those whom misfortune has unduly afflicted.

A number of Sunday Schools have found their opportunity to do this very thing through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, which operates purely in the name and on behalf of all the residents of this city and district to raise funds for the purpose of giving aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain.

The latest of these groups to send in help for this purpose is the Stewart Hall United Church Sunday School, located in a district whose people have been very much minded of the needs of others in more ways than one, this fund having benefitted through a number of efforts held on the market by them as a community, and only recently their public school was listed in the receipts acknowledged in this column.

This latest contribution amounts to $12.45 credited in today's list, and was turned in by Miss D. Savigny of the Bank of Commerce staff.

Two Men Hurt In Car Crash

Two men received injuries and two automobiles were badly damaged in a traffic accident on Charlotte street, just west of Stewart street, late Thursday night.

Leslie Would, 21 Aylmer street, driver of one of the cars, sustained a broken left knee cap and Gordon Fallen, 576 Charlotte street, the other driver, had a rib broken in the crash.

Would was driving east on Charlotte street and Fallen's car was travelling west on the same thoroughfare when the two vehicles met in collision. The road surface at the scene of the accident was very slippery.

The two cars were both badly damaged around the front by the impact.

KILLED IN ACTION — This picture appeared in the Examiner late in November of Pte. Jack E. Conroy taken in Italy. Son of James Conroy, Armour Road, his father received word today that his son had been killed in action in Italy.

Pte. Jack Conroy, H. and P.E. Regt. Killed In Action At Ortona Battle

James Conroy, 547 Armour Road received word today that his son, Pte. Jack Conroy, had been killed in action, December 23 in Italy, probably during the battle of Ortona. He was serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Pte. Conroy enlisted late in 1939 and has been overseas for almost four years. He was educated in the Immaculate Conception School in Ashburnham and lived practically all of his life at 547 Armour road, except for a short time in Western Canada. He was 36.

At the time of his enlistment he was employed as a yard man at the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer, and Ernie Gregson, the manager, who received letters from him regularly stated today that he saved one letter in particular which the soldier had written. The letter was written shortly after he arrived in England and he said "England is a Garden of Eden and well worth fighting for".

At other times he worked at the Quaker Oats Company and for a short time with Bert Withers.

Surviving are his father, James Conroy, two brothers and three sisters, Fred of Peterborough, Roy of Toronto, Mrs. William Jones, (Josephine), 281 Romaine street, Mrs. M. J. O'Reilly, (Elizabeth), Edmonton, Alta., and Agnes of Toronto, Two half sisters, Rita and Teresa also survive at 547 Armour Rd.

Poastal Service Praises Public

The Peterborough Post Office, along with other post offices throughout the Dominion, was commended in a recent statement of Hon. William P. Mulock, Postmaster-General of Canada, for its fine job in handling the unprecedented volume of mail during the Christmas season. Tribute was paid by the Department head to postal personnel and to the many extra helpers engaged by the Post Office over the rush period who so faithfully measured up to unaccustomed tasks during the busiest Christmas season the Post Office has ever known.

"The Post Office Department faced a particularly serious situation in the pre-Christmas period," Hon. Mulock said. "Ordinary mail volume had risen to record proportions and the service was faced with a shortage of trained personnel. To meet this situation thousands of High School students and inexperienced women had to be enrolled for postal duties."

He expressed as well his appreciation of the whole-hearted co-operation given by the public to the repeated appeals to "Mail Early for Christmas," stating that despite the heaviest volume ever handled, the peak Christmas mailings were recorded considerably earlier than ever before. As a result, postmen were able to deliver greetings and gifts before and not after the holiday, thus giving the public far better service than could have possibly been done otherwise.

OBITUARIES

DAVID RUMMING.

An employee of the Peterborough Canoe Company for over 50 years, David Rumming, 369 Brock street, died at his residence on Wednesday. Mr. Rumming, who had lived in the city for more than 60 years, had been in ill health for some time.

Born in England, the son of the laate Mr. and Mrs. David Rumming, he came to Peterborough from the land of his birth. He was a member of the Bethany Tabernacle.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Margaret Sphronia Smith, a daughter, Marion, and a son, Donald. Two sisters are also surviving, Mrs. C. Davison and Mss Sarah Rumming. All are residents of the city.

The funeral is to take place on Saturday at 2 p.m. from the family residence, W. S. Crone officiating. Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

FRANCIS DAVID BARTON

HAVELOCK, Jan. 7 — (ENS).— An old and highly esteemed resident of Belmont township, Mr Francis David Barton, passed away in Belleville General Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Born near Springbrook, June 29 1872, he was the son of Mrs. Francis Barton and the late Mr. Barton. He received his education in Rawdon township and learned the trade of cheese-maker near Belleville. In 1896, he married Emma Pearl McMullen of Rawdon township and they moved to Rush Point and operated the cheese factory there and also the Star factory at Preneveau. For a few years he worked for the C. P. R. at the round house and also as a fireman.

Later Mr. Barton returned to cheese making at Rush Point, and after the factory was burned in 1912, he erected the new cement block factory, which he sold in 1923. He also owned and operated a threshing machine and was well known throughout the township. A member of the Methodist Church and later the United, he was a Conservative.

Surviving besides his mother, Mrs. F. Barton (aged 94 years) is one daughter and four sons (Erma) Mrs. Asa Lloyd of Belleville, Clayton of Castleton, Reginald of Rawdon; Carl of Campbellford and Murnie of Battawa. His wife predeceased him five years ago. One sister and three brothers also survive, (Nettie) Mrs. Elijah Reid of Springbrook; Charles of town, Orrie of Springbrook and Roy of Rawdon township.

The funeral service was held today from B. A. Curtis' Funeral Parlors, conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, with interment at the Maple Grove Cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Keating, Robert Buchanan, Ben Newton, George Keating, Charles Davidson and Wesley Petherick.

THOMAS CLARK HOLDEN.

The death of Thomas Clark Holden, beloved husband of Estella Tice, occurred on Thursday in his 79th year. He had been in ill health for the past two years.

Mr. Holden, who had made his home in the city at 222 Park street south of recent years, lived at Downer's Corners for half a century and was in business as a market gardener. He was born in Sydney township near Frankford, the son of the late John Holden and Mary Askew, and came to this district when a young man. Connected with the Orange Order for over 60 years, he was a member of L.O.L. No. 321, Downer's Corners; past preceptor, R.P.B. No. 261, and honorary member, L.O.B.A. No 650. He was a member of St. James' United church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and son, John Arthur of this city. Two sisters, Mrs. Burnham Lott, and Miss Jane Holden, of Frankford, also survive, and there are five grandchildren.

The ladies of L.O.B.A. 650 will hold service at 8 o'clock to-night at Belleghem Chapel.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter street, with service conducted by the Rev. J. W. Craik of St. James' United church. Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN CONDON.

The death of John Condon, for 48 years an employee of the Alfred McDonald Lumber Company, took place on Wednesday evening. In poor health for several years, he had been at the House of Providence.

Born in Douro the son of the late John Condon and Margaret Mahoney, he moved to Peterborough as a young man. His wife predeceased him some time ago.

Surviving are two sons, Carl of Thorold and John of Hamilton; a daughter, Mrs. W. L. Davidson of Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Annie Mead of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning from the J. J. Duffus Funeral Parlors at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, where high mass will be offered. Interment will take place in St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN HENRY MOORE.

The death of John Henry Moore, R.R. No. 1, Cavan, occurred on Thursday following a short illness. He was 67 years old.

Born in Dummer township the son of Mrs. Mary Ann Hunter Moore and the late Henry Moore, he moved to Cavan 25 years ago. He was a farmer the greater part of his life, and a member of the United Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Emma Louisa Carveth; his mother; two daughters, Mrs. Ray Williamson of Manila and Mrs. Donald Lang of Cavan; and a son, Ernest of Cavan.

Funeral service will be held in the chapel of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water Street, at 1 p.m., Saturday, thence to Warsaw United Church for service at 2.30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Everson of Springville will officiate, and interment will be made in Warsaw Cemetery.

Adopt Plan

A resolution left by the old Board for consideration providing a plan for cumulative sick leave was adopted in the first part on a motion of Mr. Canning and Mr. Sollitt. This means that all inspectors, supervisors, teachers and principals, who have completed five years continuous service with the Peterborough Board are eligible. The accumulation of sick leave credit will be assumed to have commenced January 1, 1939, and the calculation for allowances for 1944 will be based on the accumulation made between 1939 and 1943 inclusive. In each succeeding year, allowances shall be based on sick leave gathered up during the 5-year-period immediately preceding the current year. This sick leave credit may be used in whole or in part, for sick leave in any year in addition to the statutory 20 days. Each year without absence counts for four days, or one-fifth of the unused statutory sick leave.

The second section of the resolution recommending cumulative sick leave for other employees of the Board was referred to the committee on Appointments, on a motion by Dr. Scott and Mr. Reed.

The question of increasing car allowances for the superintendent of building, truant officer, inspector, two school nurses and the secretary treasurer, when they use their machines on Board business, was settled, when the 1943 resolution was adopted with little change setting forth that these people receive 6 cents a mile, and they are required to turn in a detailed account which is settled monthly.

Investigation proved that with the existing payments, these employees were on the losing end. Inspector Wightman explained that he drove on an average, of between 250 and 400 miles a month, and during the 10 months of the school year something between 3,000-3,500 miles, and he asserted that the truant officer drove farther than he did. The new motion was made by Mr. Walker and Mr. Canning.

Special Meeting

Notification was made by the city clerk that a meeting had been arranged for January 14, of the groups interested in the question of annexation of certain properties in North Monaghan. These civic groups will meet in the county council chambers at the Court House at 2 o'clock. Mr. Craw and Inspector Wightman will represent the Board of Education and the solicitor will be called when needed.

The Queen Mary Home and School Association drew the matter of buying a school radio to the attention of the Board and it was delegated to the Supervision committee, with the understanding that this committee would study the detailed report turned in by the 1943 property committee.

Will Redraft Senior Schedule

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—(CP) —Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association to-day announced that the O.H.A. sub-committee would meet Sunday with representatives of all senior clubs to redraft the schedule in view of the withdrawal of the Toronto R.C.A.F. team under an order from Air Force Headquarters, effective yesterday.

He said the game scheduled for Monday night between Kingston Army and Toronto Navy would be played as previously scheduled.

The sub-committee also will discuss the use of Albert (Red) Tilson by Toronto Marlboros in a Junior A game with Oshawa Generals. Manager Harold Ballard has been asked to explain the use of Tilson, whom Mr. Hewitt said was ineligible for junior competition due to having played several scheduled games for Kingston in the senior series. Tilson, a former Oshawa player, now is stationed in Toronto. Oshawa won the game in which Tilson played.

Main Genelco Contract Nearing End

An official of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America informed the Examiner to-day that a report had been received from the management of Genelco Ltd. to the effect that a serious curtailment of operation at this Government-owned plant was possible with the next two or three months.

According to the information the completion of one type of production which has formed the major portion of the operation of this war plant is "practically in sight." While lesser but still important war contracts are on order at Genelco, employment of only a percentage of the former staff is envisaged. Selective Service officials state that some workers will be absorbed in local industries, but a rapid canvass of local manpower demands points definitely to most of these workers being forced to accept employment in other centres.

In a statement issued to the press, District Representative of the United Electrical Workers' Union W. E. Blair says:

"This threatened major lay-off in a Government - owned plant again brings the paramount question of post-war and rehabilitation procedure to the forefront. The workers rightfully demand that immediate planning for reconversion of these war plants be undertaken and that the closest co-operation and co-ordination of the efforts of everyone — employer, worker and Government alike— is essential.

"The workers demand they be included in all planning boards which will deal with the future welfare and allocation of labor. Representation on practically all such boards have up to the moment been denied to labor. If the production soldiers and the returning soldiers are to be given that full employment already promised by responsible Government officials, then planning for reconversion, retooling and changes to peace time operation must be undertaken immediately. Workers must not be forced to return to the depression years of the 'thirties' and with proper planning now, even temporary unemployment can be eliminated.

It was in November of last year that a similar situation threatened the employment condition in this plant and caused the members of Genelco Local 524 of the U.E.R. Union to seek the assistance of the local municipal authorities to bring pressure on the planning boards of the Federal Government for the reallotment of war contracts and the rapid planning for the full use of this plant in the post-war period At that time, lay-offs were reduced to a minimum through the co-operation efforts of the management of Genelco and the union."

Mr. Blair said he understood an executive of C. GE.-Genelco was in Ottawa and that some definite statement relating to future operations and employment might be available by the middle of next week.

30,000 Believed Killed In Recent Berlin Raids

BERNE, Jan. 7 —(AP). — The Basler National Zeitung said to-day that Allied bombings so far had destroyed 50 per cent of greater Berlin, with another 25 per cent badly damaged.

Much of the remainder of the city is without windows, and in many cases without roofs, the dispatch said, adding that an area of several square kilometers had been wiped out.

Well-developed air raid shelters have kept the number of dead within "endurable" limits of 20,000 to 30,000, the newspaper said.

Duties Of Preacher Outlined In Week Of Prayer Service

Continuing the services of the Week of Prayer in the city the fourth service was held in Mark Street United church on Thursday evening. An excellent congregation assembled for the evening worship. Rev. E W. Rowland, the well-known pastor of the church conducted the service assisted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, who offered prayer. Mrs. H. Northrop sang an impressive solo, "The 23rd Psalm" by Malotte. Following the offering the choir of Mark Street church rendered an appropriate anthem, "The Splendour's of Thy Glory Lord."

Rev. W. J. Gallagher, D.D., offered special prayer for those suffering through sickness, and those perplexed and in sorrow in these stersful times. Following the prayer Dr Gallagher preached a sermon on the subject "Preaching the Word of God."

The speaker in forceful words outlined the duty of the preacher in being a sower of the seed in the work of the Kingdom of God and also the privilege of the worshippers in rightly understanding the ministry of the word as being the imparting the bread of life for the soul.

"The preacher stands as the prophet of God to speak forth the Word of God to us. He proclaims not just his own notions and his own ideas of the truth but the Word given to him. Worshippers ought to approach the time of preaching saying "I came not to hear the minister preach but to hear what God will speak to us through His servant."

Then the preacher stands as the representative of the Church to witness to the age-long faith and experience of the Church. Ministers spend years in preparation for the great task of preaching and their lives are thrown open for God to use. The preacher is never a mere individualist. He is the organ of the whole Body of the Church of Christ. Certainly preachers are not perfect but they are working hard and sacrificing much for the good of the flock.

The preacher is an instrument of God

No minister professes to be perfect or to have the power and knowledge to interpret the whole counsel of God to his people but he is an ambassador. He carries the fresh, vital, and vigorous message of light and love and power to his people.

Some will say we do not find this in the preaching we hear to-day. Probably not. That may be the fault of the hearers. It takes a good preacher as well as a good congregation to make the preaching of the Word a means of grace for the nurture of the Christian life. The hymn chosen for the service were very appropiate, and the spirit of the service was excellent, Rev. Fred Craik of St. James Church offered the closing prayer and benediction for the service. The service of Prayer and Preaching will be held in St. Andrew's United church this evening at 8 p. m.

New Vichy Chief Patterned After Himmler

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 — (AP).— The German Transocean Agency to-day quoted the Nazi Party newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter as saying that Joseph Darnand, newly appointed Vichy "Secretary-General for the maintenance of order," would "break force by force."

Meanwhile the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet declared that Darnand's appointment gave France "its own Himmler" who would "in reality become as much an interior minister under German control as Himmler is in Germany."

The Transocean dispatch, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said:

Darnand has made a name for himself as a leader of the fighting militia which has gone beyond the circle of his adherents and fighting followers. He fought the terror of his opponents by organized resistance and, as an old front soldier, breaks force by force."

Darnard was appointed by puppet Premier Pierre Laval, according to the Vichy radio, 'to preserve France fom a civil war."

Vichy radio said to-day that Lucien Romier, who resigned December 3 as Secretary of State without portfolio in the Vichy Cabinet "died suddenly last night of a heart attack."

The announcement of Romier's resignation was carried in the same Vichy broadcast last week which announced Darnand's appointment. No reason was given for Romier's resignation.

Japanese Ships Hit Again Off New Ireland

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 7 (AP). — The destruction of 17 Japanese planes and two freighters, and a direct hit on an enemy cruiser rewarded Allied aerial assaults ranging from Dutch Timor to New Ireland, a Southwest Pacific Command communique reported to-day. The Allies lost four aircraft.

United States marines on the eastern flank of their expanded invasion holdings at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, took the initiative against Japanese in the Borgen Bay area, using tanks and artillery with aerial support to drive the enemy farther east.

To-day's communique said a direct bomb hit on a Japanese cruiser off New Hanover, north of the enemy base at Kavieng, New Ireland, was scored by a bomber from Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific airfleet.

Catalinas manned by Royal Australian Air Force fliers bombed Kavieng airdromes' supply areas Monday night, starting many fires, and the next day heavy bombers blasted shipping in the harbor there and shot down three of 19 Japanese interceptors.

Yugoslav Officers Switch To Tito

CAIRO, Jan. 7 (AP). A number of regular Yugoslav officers and men have formed the nucleus of a movement to join the rival army of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) fighting the Germans in their homeland, it was learned yesterday.

Confronted with an unprecedented situation, King Peter's government here permitted the men to resign from the Royal Yugoslav regular army as formed in the Middle East.

The government was silent on the switchover. Gen. Draja Mihailovic, King Peter's war minister, heads the government's force in Yugoslavia.

Toronto To Seek More Industries

TORONTO, Jan. 7 — (CP). — Mayor F. J. Conboy said Tuesday in a service club (Optimist) address that Toronto will appoint a representative in London in an effort to induce European industries to Toronto. He said that 40 per cent of the branch industries established in Canada since the start of the war have been located in the Toronto area.

Name Church Officers

LINDSAY, Jan. 7—(ENS)—At the annual congregational meeting of the Bethel United Church, Emily township, Mrs. Eugene Switzer was elected president of the Women's Association and Eugene Switzer was appointed Sunday School superintendent. Other officers of the W.A. elected were: Vice-presidnet, Mrs. W. Darling; secretary, Mrs. W. Howden, Mrs. M. Ruth, L. Jackson; pianist, Mrs. E. Storey. Conveners for the three groups: South group, Mrs. E. Storey; Centre, Mrs. W. Darling; North, Mrs. H. Lowes. Conveners for Red Cross work: Mrs. M. McCarrel, Mrs. W. Howden, Mrs. R. Ruth.

Canadian Girls Receive Plenty Of Food

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND Jan. 7 — (CP). — Canadian Women's Army Corps members on active service in the field do not get many fancy things in the way of food—but they get food, wholesome well-cooked meals. And they eat like plowmen.

The girls of one company live on the outskirts of a large Canadian Army camp and work in the camp laundry.

When 11.30 in the morning came it didn't take them long to line up by the door with their cups, knives, forks and spoons in their hands. Colonel, the police-dog mascot who wears a crown and two pips on his collar and belongs to Sgt. Maj. Elizabeth Butterhill of Guelph, Ont., bounded along beside the girls.

The big cheerful kitchen and dining hall was full of appetite-tingling smells. Sgt. Sadie Fletcher of Guelph, in charge of the C.W. A.C. cooks, was giving the last stirs to a pot of beef stew. As the girls filed past the serving table they were receiving generous servings of stew, peas, potatoes and the chocolate cream pie that was their dessert.

"It was hard to get variety in the meals at first," said the sergeant, "but the girls seem pretty satisfied with the food now."

Court Martial Starts For 3 Medical Men

FREDERICTON, Jan. 7 — (CP). —A general court-martial of three Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps officers opened yesterday with Capt. G. G. Alleyn, formerly of Quebec City, pleading not guilty to a charge of negligence. The proceedings were open to the press and public.

The charge read against Alleyn is that he was negligent in the medical examination of Charles Fraser Smith, Woodside, N.B., on September 14 last, that Smith told him he was suffering from diabetes and that the accused failed to have a further examination made. Smith was passed into the Army and died September 17 in the Fredericton Military Hospital.

The other officers involved in the court-martial are Lt.-Col. H. E. Baird, formerly of Chipman, N.B., officer commanding the hospital, and Capt. Ner Littner of Toronto. Alleyn and Littner are attached to No. 7 Military District Depot Medical Staff here. Captain Alleyn's case is being heard first and will be followed separately by those of Capt. Littner and Col. Baird, with the entire proceedings possibly extending over a fortnight.

The prosecutor, Capt. Fergusson claimed before the court to-day that Smith, a 41-year-old laborer, had been suffering diabetes for 17 years and receiving treatment from qualified doctors.

Change Tourist Law

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7 (CP)—R. L. Whitman, secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce, said today he is sending a recommendation to the Canadian Chamber's Publicity Bureau in Toronto urging that an approach be made to have the 48-hour limit on tourist buying removed by the Dominion and United States governments.

Present rule is that an American must be in Canada at least 48 hours in order to take out up to $100 worth of merchandise duty free.

Du Pont Surprised At Court Action

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 7—(AP)—Walter S. Carpenter, Jr., president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours, said yesterday the action of the Department of Justice in filing a suit against du Pont, Remington Arms Co., and Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., charging they maintained an international cartel agreement in violation of the anti-trust act, "is difficult to understand at his particular time in our war effort."

In a statement, Carpenter added:

"The existence of the agreements which are the subject of the present attack has never been concealed. Copies have been in the possession of government agencies for approximately ten years. They have been before several investigatory committees of congress."

The company, Carpenter said, "denies that it is now or ever has been a party to any cartel agreement using the term cartel in its generally accepted sense." However, he said, du Pont had an "agreement" with Imperial Chemical Industries "providing for a mutual opportunity to acquire patent licences and technical and scientific information relating to the chemical industry."

CENTER ALL ON IT

WHETHER the contract be suit or No Trump, a solid or nearly solid long suit in the dummy is such a formidable thing that wide-awake defenders concentrate all of their fire generally on keeping the declarer from using its great power for his purpose That means, anything which can keep him from running it and discarding losers of his own hand on it. In doing this, hold-ups may be used and any kind of device to knock out side entries which might help to bring it in.

Both opponents thought they saw a chance to best that contract and neither felt too sure about making 5-Hearts, so both of them passed In fact, both East and West passed at two different duplicate tables, and the opening lead in each case was the heart A. That was ruffed, as neither declarer thought of discarding a club on it, and at both tables the spade 6 was promptly led then from the dummy and the 10 played from South. Then came the differences.

At one table West took that second trick with his spade Q and, to prevent ruffs of hearts, led back a spade to the A. South then sent a diamond to the K, East winning with the A and returning his club Q. That was the end of a bad defense, as the spade J both settled the last defensive trump and started South on a run of diamonds to make a total of 11 tricks, one over his contract.

When the declarer finessed the spade 10 to the second trick at the other table, West held up his Q, though knowing South doubtless could now drop it. But by so doing, he kept the spade J from being a third-round trump entry to dummy. South then led to the diamond K, East holding up his A and winning the next diamond. He returned the heart 2 to the K, a club being ditched in dummy. The heart 6 was ruffed by the spade 7, the club 6 came to the A and the club 2 was ruffed by the spade J. On the diamond J, which East ruffed, a club was thrown, but then the club J scored, and the 10, ruffed by the spade 9, was over-ruffed by the Q, setting the contract. Holding up the spade Q and the diamond A by the defense was mean business, according to South.

90 YEARS OF PROGRESS

When, ninety years ago, Mr. James Beatty Grafton opened the small store in Dundas which was to become the forerunner of the present large organization, he did so with supreme faith in the future of Canada—and an idea. In a day when business methods were far different from those in general use today, he was among the first to lay down a policy of honorable and fair dealing to all alike. That policy has been maintained ever since, during which time we have made clothing for four generations of Canadians.

Older then, than the Dominion of Canada itself, and unique in its record of remaining under the direction of one family throughout this long period, Grafton's today have eight modern stores in seven Ontario cities, including a Dry Goods store in Dundas, besides a large and fully equipped warehouse and factory, supplying Men's Clothing direct from Maker to Wearer, Men's Furnishings, and Boys' Clothing and Furnishings. And our registered trade-mark, "High Grade", today—as ever—stands for the utmost that can be put into Men's Clothing, at a maker-to-wearer price, and with a guarantee of entire customer-satisfaction, which must always uphold Grafton's ninety-year long record of upright business principles.

Death Blow Shakes German City

Twin City Of Mannheim Also Battered Mosquitoes Out Again

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 8—(AP)—Mosquito bombers, raiding Germany for the sixth consecutive night, hit targets in the western Reich last night without loss in the wake of a strong American daylight attack which Swedish reports said gave the chemical city of Ludwigshafen a "death blow."

Stockholm's Morgon Tidningen declared the force of hundreds of heavy bombers which drove deep into southwest Germany yesterday bombed the I. G. Farbem poison gas works at Ludwigshafen and that the city "now looks completely flattened out."

Quoting private reports, the paper said block-busters and incendiaries were dropped, setting giant fires which turned the town into "a sea of fire."

Stockholm reports also said the twin city of Mannheim was struck.

A joint British-American communique released today failed to identify the targets. Neither did the British designate where their Mosquitoes hit last night.

One U.S. pilot described the daylight formations as "the largest number of American planes I have ever seen on one mission."

Get 42 Planes

In yesterday's large-scale operation, 42 German fighters were shot down.

United States fighters, making a round trip flight of some 800 miles, accompanied the heavy bombers to yesterday's targets in southwest Germany. R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and Allied fighters hovered along the return route to give additional protection.

The communique said the bombers pressed home their attack through heavy clouds. Twelve bombers and seven fighters were lost. All Canadian planes returned safely.

Enemy opposition encountered in the operation generally was weak, although some bomber and fighter

Russian Drive Bewilders Huns

By JAMES F. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(AP).— The Russian New Year offensive, considered in the light of the Teheran unification of strategy among the Allies, is keeping the Germans off-balance in their guessing as to when the western invasion will begin.

Obviously the opening of the second front will be keyed closely with the tie-up of the maximum number of German forces.

Late April or early May is the period generally speculated upon as the invasion time, but by then the Red army may be at low ebb if the present exhausting offensive — already unbroken for six months — continues. Besides April and May are the mud months of the continent.

The best Allied views available here is that neither mud nor the state of the Red army offensive necessarily is an accurate barometer.

As even some German spokesmen have pointed out a western front does not require coordination to an active Russian offensive since even the threat of a possible general attack serves to prevent the Germans from weakening their eastern force to reinforce the west.

Sink 2 Subs Within 8 Hours

LONDON, Jan. 8—(CP).—Destruction of two German U-boats within the space of eight hours by Royal Navy craft while on patrol northwest of the Azores some weeks ago was announced today by the Admiralty. Both the underseas craft, the announcement said, fell victim to depth charge attack, their final minutes being marked by "breaking up noises" and deep underwater explosions audible to those aboard the British ships.

The first U-boat, a large patrol or supply submarine, was encountered on the surface at night by the sloop, the H.M.S. Kite, but submerged quickly as starshells illuminated the scene.

The Kite attacked, but without success. Because of the darkness of the night further attempts were withheld, but the Kite and other sloops which sped to the area maintained contact with the enemy until dawn.

Attacked At Dawn.

The H.M.S. Woolcock attacked with the first light.

"A few minutes after the sloop had dropped the first pattern of depth charges noises of cracking, rending and breaking were heard coming from a point deep under water, the communique said. Two explosions followed. The second was near the surface of the sea and was clearly audible to the ship's company in the H.M.S. Starling.

"Soon afterwards considerable quantities of oil and wreckage floated to the surface."

Another contact was made in early afternoon. The Starling and H.M.S. Wild Goose both attacked.

"Again breaking up noises and a deep underwater explosion were heard," the Admiralty announced.

"Out of a spreading pool of oil which welled to the surface there appeared foodstuffs and clothing of German origin. Soon the sea was covered with abundant further evidence of destruction.

Attack On Mosley

LONDON, Jan. 8—(CP).—The Daily Mirror said two sticks of dynamite exploded last night at the entrance of the Oxfordshire inn where Sir Oswald Mosley, pre-war British Fascist leader, and his wife have been staying since released from prison in November.

The newspaper attributed the act to resentment of the villagers over the presence of the Mosleys, and said no one was hurt and no damage was done.

Engineer Favors Rocket Planes

By STEVEN WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—(AP).—Jet-propelled aircraft, with terrific speed and proven efficiency at great altitudes, will be "a highly important tactical weapon" against the Axis and may even be used in the expected invasion of Europe from the west, Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky predicted today.

"Before this war is over, jet propulsion of aircraft may be very much in use by the Allies," the noted aeronautical engineer, designer and air warfare strategist said in an interview in which he explained the principle which sends craft streaking through space without propellers above the atmosphere.

De Seversky declared that for the present the jet propulsion principle, which he estimated might double the speed of ordinary planes, would not be employed to any great extent for long sustained flying.

Works In Reverse.

He said he believed it would be used in the near future principally for home defence aircraft and as interceptors for short range flying, because of its high fuel consumption.

"But," he added, "we may be able to install the rocket engines in existing heavy bombers to obtain 'flash performance.' This would help big planes take off more swiftly with heavier loads or give them added speed in getting away from attackers."

De Seversky said the jet engine works in reverse—it can bring the craft to a quick stop or slowdown as well as give it more speed.

He said the device is "in itself a reactive engine where gases burn and expand rapidly and where the reaction is controlled through a specially designed jet, controlled by the pilot, to get a maximum thrust (speed)."

Eventually, he said, there will be "no limit" to the jet-propelled plane's speed.

3 Asphyxiated

KINGSTON, Jan. 8 —(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marshall, both 50, and John Booth, 49, were asphyxiated early today in their home in Kingston's northern section. Police said coal gas fumes escaping from furnace pipes caused the deaths.

Marshall, chief caretaker at headquarters of Military District No. 3 here, was a well known singer and entertainer who had appeared before the troops many times. Booth lived with the Marshalls.

Partisans Forced To Withdraw

LONDON, Jan. 8 — (CP). — Yugoslav Partisans were able to keep their forces intact in withdrawing from Banja Luka after a six-day house-to-house battle, the headquarters of (Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today, and fighting is continuing near that town and Prijeidor.

His broadcast communique said that while fighting was going on in Banja Luka strong units of the 5th Bosnian brigade stormed and captured Bosnaska Gradiska about 20 miles to the north, but then were forced to abandon the town.

The bulletin also told of heavy fighting between Teslic and Dobroj, in Central Bosnia where the strong German forces were said to be attempting to press into liberated territory.

In Croatia, units of the 12th Slavonian division have cut the Gradiska-Osijek railway line and partly destroyed two other railway lines, the communique said. Offensive operations were said to be continuing in the Dinara Alps, although reduced by cold and snow.

British Unit Nears Cassino City

Allies Scale Peak Cut Road Supplying Nazis

By WES GALLAGHER

ALGIERS, Jan. 8 — (AP).—Victorious United States troops massed around captured San Vittore today forming a spearhead which stormed at the outer defences of Cassino, 70 straight-line miles from Rome.

The fall of the fiercely defended little mountain village of San Vittore alongside the Via Casilina was disclosed yesterday by Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead. His dispatch from the front said San Vittore had been seized Thursday after a violent 40-hour battle from house to house. The village is six miles from Cassino.

The capture was confirmed today in the headquarters communique which said the Anglo-American 5th Army had advanced all along a 10-mile front in the jagged hills on both sides of the road.

Even before this official announcement of the taking of San Vittore, the Americans had smashed on in the direction of Cassino and were fighting in the streets of Giusto, a tiny village more than half a mile to the north.

Across the peninsula, the British 8th Army engaged in strong patrol activity, to-day's communique said, while Allied bombers pounded the airfield at Perugia in Central Italy, blasted an aircraft factory at Maribor in Northern Yugoslavia, struck at the railway yards at Fiume in Northeastern Italy and lashed at shipping off the Yugoslav coast.

Capture of San Vittore came as other 5th Army forces, attacking on the right flank of the army's 10-mile wide offensive, scaled 3,500-foot Mt. Maio east of Cassino under heavy Nazi artillery and mortar fire and cut the German supply road from Cervaro to San Vittore. British troops at the southern end of the active front pushed steadily northward from Rocca O'Evandro, taking prisoners.

Mt. Maio, highest peak yet captured by the Allies in Italy, is less than four miles from Cervaro, which lies in the Cassino plain three miles above San Vittore toward Cassino.

Canadians Share House With Germans

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan 8—(CP Cable)—There's a battered house on the western side of the captured Adriatic coastal town of Ortona which a platoon of Canadians will remember for years. They shared it one night with Germans.

Like so many Italian houses, this one was built on a ledge and the back entrance was one storey higher, than the front. For this reason persons on the ground floor were separated from those on top, with a trap door the only interior communication.

"We moved into that part of the town at night," said Sgt. J. G. Smirle of Los Angeles, who at that time was acting platoon commander. "The men we were relieving told us the Jerries had cleared out."

The Canadians took over the top floor of the house, entering at the back, and were settling down to their regular duties when someone spotted a German through a window 15 yards away. They fired at him and their tracer brought answering fire from another enemy in the district.

"We saw the trap door and seriously considered opening it and going down below where we thought it would be safer," said Pte. P. A. Searson of Douglas, Ont., who joined with Sgt Smirle and Pte. E Woodward of Cecil Lake, B.C., a stretcher bearer, in telling the story.

"It was a good thing we didn't," Searson added.

During the night the men could hear people moving about below them, talking and laughing. Several vehicles drove up and down what they had been led to believe was a deserted street.

It wasn't long before they realized that they were sharing the house with the enemy.

First Aid Post.

"All night long we were expecting to be blown up at any minute," said Woodward.

5 German Divisions Routed As New Offensive Sweeps Ahead In Ukraine

Reds Extend Gains Across Poland Move In 15 Miles Capture Klesov In Rovno Province

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 8 — (AP). — Troops of the 1st and 2nd Ukrainian Armies poured through great gaps in the German lines in swift advances today and units which had surrounded Kirovograd smashed to within three miles of the city in one place in the Dnieper Bend country, as the Red Army's winter offensive continued on the upsurge.

Advance units of the force which captured Klesow at the northern tip of the great drive, were plunging deeper into Rovno Province (eastern part of Poland) and reached a point within 12 miles of Sarny.

Farther south from encircled Kirovograd, stronghold for the German forces in the Dnieper Bend, some Soviet forces lunged forward to within 18 miles of Dolinovka, western railway junction which feeds Krivoi Rog.

Troops of Gens. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev, which have joined south of Kiev, meanwhile were within striking distance of Kanev, 64 miles southeast of the Ukrainian capital.

(The German high command said in its Saturday communique that "fierce fighting" is raging in Kirovograd.

(The BBC, in an announcement recorded by CBS, said Kirovograd's outer defences already were under shell fire with "substantial" Nazi forces cut off there.)

Garrison Doomed

Front line dispatches said the fate of the German garrison cut off at Kirovograd was already decided.

They said the Germans were battling desperately to halt the westward drive toward Novourkrainka, junction on the next to last escape railway left open to large German forces in the Smela area between the Korovograd and the Kiev offensives.

In the Kiev offensive, the Soviet southwestward drive in which new Soviet successes were reported west and south of Berdichev and along the Shepetovka railway was tightening a noose about Vinnitsa from three sides.

Vinnitsa, Bug River garrison point for the Odessa-Warsaw railway junction of Zherinka, lies 20 miles northeast of Zhmerinka and less than 50 miles from the Dniester River. The Dniester forms the pre-war Rumanian border.)

Gen. Konev's tanks were reported in front line dispatches to be creating panic along the rear of the Nazi Ukrainian forces, with German communications reported to have been reduced to congested bottlenecks.

The entire German position was described as shaping up as one of the most disastrous in Hitler's Russian campaign.

Gen. Konev's men, the captors of Kharkov, began their offensive Jan. 5, the Soviet communique said, breaking through the German defences on a broad front and sweeping up more than 120 localities.

Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's forces sweeping along in a 300-mile arc in the western Ukraine, also moved ahead 15 miles from Berdichev through Tamushpol and farther south passed through Komsomolskaya, 12 miles south of Berdichev. Still farther south, advance Soviet units passed Lipovets, 47 miles east of Vinnitsa.

The wedge being driven toward the Vinnitsa railroad junction was further broadened by the capture of Oratovo, 22 miles east of Lipovets.

Rumania Fears Russians May Crack Down

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

BERNE, Jan. 8—(AP).—Rumania has begun a hasty dismantling of factories in the frontier towns of Cernauti, Chisinau, and other places in the northern province of Bucovina and the eastern province of Bessarabia, a Budapest dispatch to the Basler Nachrichten said today.

Increasingly threatened by Soviet advances which are within about 50 miles of the Rumanian frontier, the Rumanian Government has ordered the machinery of as many factories as possible to be moved to the interior behind mountains, the dispatch said.

The evacuation measures extended throughout Bessarabia and Bucovina with peasant carts loaded high with goods, blocking the roads in flight into the interior. The peasants were said to be driving long columns of cattle before them.

Cadets Held.

Civilians have been forbidden the use of the railways apparently to facilitate the use of transport for withdrawal of troops and the carrying out of defence measures in the east.

The Basler Nachrichten said cadets at the Chisinau School who were home for the Christmas holidays were told not to return to school and to await further orders.

Mrs. H. Hoover Dies In 69th Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, "first lady" of the United States from 1929 to 1933, is dead.

With former president Hoover at her side, she died unexpectedly at their Waldrof Towers apartment last night, shortly after she was stricken with an acute heart attack.

Mrs. Hoover, who was [illegible], had just returned from a concert and appeared in good health. Then the stroke came, just as her husband was telling her goodbye preparatory to leaving for a dinner. She died a few monents later.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Chancellor emeritus of Stanford University and one of the Hoover family's closest friends, paid tribute to Mrs. Hoover as "a typical American woman."

"She was a great success as a mother, a wife, a friend, as the presiding lady of the White House and as an executive of the Girl Scouts," said Dr. Wilbur.

Both she and her husband were born and reared in Iowa, but their first meeting and courtship were on the Stamford campus in California.

Bulgaria Believed Key to Balkan War

Reports Of Allied Landings On Yugoslav Coast Denied By Allied Chiefs

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Quite an international flurry was caused yesterday by Stockholm's grapevine report that Allied troops had invaded Yugoslavia—a sensation which still retains elements of great interest despite the quick statement at Allied headquarters in Algiers that the story was "completely erroneous."

Apparently what happened was that somebody with a magnifying glass mistook a grain of truth for a sand storm. It's a fact that Britain and the United States for a considerable time have been sending missions of officers and technical experts into Yugoslavia to assist Marshal Tito in his violent manhandling of Hitler's harried troops. Presumably a contingent of such specialists was mistaken for part of an amphibious fighting force.

Yugoslavia and the rest of the Balkans are an increasingly hot spot because of the fast-moving Russian offensive towards Rumania—gateway to the peninsula. As this column has pointed out previously, the Balkans have been the bulwark protecting the right flank of the fuehrer's great Russian line. The corollary is that if the Nazi chief can be deprived of this Balkan shield, his right wing to the north will be in a bad way.

Marshal Tito, having pulled a guerilla army out of his hat, has been out-smarting a numerically superior forceof regulars from one of the most powerful fighting-machines the world has known. Because of that the Allies have been giving him all the assistance possible. This has included an all-out effort, both by bombing and by psychological pressure, to compel neighboring Bulgaria to forsake the Germans.

Bulgaria is the lever with which the Allies could turn the Balkan peninsula bottom side up—if they could get hold of the lever. The situation is complicated, as one would expect in the unfathomable Balkans, but Bulgaria's attitude is bound to depend heavily on what Turkey does. Should the Turks enter the war on the Allied side, the presumption is that Bulgaria would desert Hitler and make a play for Allied clemency.

Bolivia Seeks Recognition

Anti-Allied Influence Believed Working

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP). — The revolutionary government in Bolivia is sending another representative to Washington, although United States State Secretary Cordell Hull has indicated chances for United States recognition are slim.

Fernando Iturralde Chinel, the Minister of Information and now undersecretary of foreign affairs in the new regime of Major Gualberto Villarroel, is the man who is chosen to bring Bolivian views to the United States.

Hull has already said however, that sufficient information about the origins of the revolt that ousted President Enrique Penaranda, December 20 has been gathered to strength the belief that anti-Allied influence played an important part.

Hull's statement said that the exchange of information with 18 other American republics about origin of the revolution in Bolivia "should soon permit each government to reach its own conclusions."

British support would be essential if sanctions are slapped down on Argentina, and there is every indication it would be forthcoming within 24 hours if the United States announced its decision to cut off trade.

17,000 Shipbuilders Out

Ignore Navy Secretary's Order To Return

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8 (AP) — Ordered to return to work by United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox, the National head of their Union, and the United States War Labor Board, 17,000 striking workers at the Cramp Shipbuilding Company remained idle today pending a meeting of the general membership tomorrow.

High Union officials predicted that the demands made by Knox, President John L. Green and the W.L.B. would end the strike—but not before Monday. They said there was no machinery for getting official word to all the workers before that time.

In one of the sharpest rebukes ever administered to wartime strikers by a Labor leader, Green, president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (C.I.O.) ordered the idle employees back to work immediately last night and said any member failing to return "will be aiding the enemies of our Union and the country. . . . .

The work stoppage began Thursday after the Company dismissed 42 painters who Company officials said refused to use sprayguns instead of brushes. The painters contended the premium pay for spraygun work was too low.

Rinfret Named Chief Justice Succeeds Duff

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night announced the appointment of Mr. Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret as Chief Justice of Canada, succeeding Sir Lyman P. Duff who retired yesterday in his 80th year.

Making the announcement, Mr. King referred to Mr. Justice Rinfret, a native of Montreal, as the senior member of the Supreme Court of Canada, now that Sir Lyman has retired. The new Chief Justice was first appointed to the court in 1924.

"The newly-appointed Chief Justice, like his predecessor, has had wide judicial experience and is highly esteemed by members of the judiciary and the legal profession of Canada," said Mr. King.

Mr. King referred to Sir Lyman's nearly 40 years of service in the high court—he was appointed 37 years ago—and said that in many of the judgments he delivered Sir Lyman "interpreted the spirit rather than merely the letter of the law."

The new Chief Justice is 64. Before his appointment to the Supreme Court 20 years ago, he spent two years as a member of the Quebec Superior Court.

His appointment to the Quebec bench in his early 40's climaxed a brilliant legal career in Montreal, during which he made himself an authority on corporation and municipal law. For 10 years he was professor of comparative law and the law of public utilities at McGill University.

During recent years as the senior puisne judge, he has been Sir Lyman's closest collaborator. Sir Lyman frequently held whispered consultations with his colleague on the bench over points of law raised by

Wealthy Rumanians abroad were said to be convinced that the Russian advance means the end of their fortunes, but their fears were as nothing compared to those still in Rumania where there was panic selling of real estate.

Flee From Partisans.

Meanwhile, Hungarian frontier guards were said by the Basler Nachrichten to have refused entry to 1,600 Ustachis (Croat puppet troops) and about 100 German militarized Elite Guards fleeing from Yugoslav Partisans and attempting to escape across the frontier from Yugoslavia.

The Partisans had cut these troops off from their units.

The Bulgarians presumably count on their old friend Russia to be kind and forgiving in post-war deals but on the basis of information available here the Rumanians are frankly worried.

The Rumanans particularly fear the approaching Soviets because of likely retribution for Rumania's annexation of Moldavia and other territories on the heels fo the Nazi thrust into Russia.

Frank O'Brien, Associated Press staff writer at Istanbul, reported that a highly placed Balkan informant declared last night that Rumania directly in front of the Soviet southwest drive, was ready to rally behind Juliu Maniu to make peace with Russia.

Leaders Baffled

They apparently do not know what course to adopt now, with the Germans at hand and Russians approaching and with little prospect of any Anglo-American sympathy. They are confining official actions to a withdrawal as fast as possible from the easternmost territories.

The Bulgarians, on the other hand although collaborating with the Germans, obviously count heavily on the indulgence of Marshal Stalin since their country and Russia are not actually at war. They hope, judging from recent propaganda, to play Russia against Britain and emerge from the war retaining Thrace and Macedonia which they got when the Nazis carved up the Balkan Peninsula.

Although there are many indications both Rumania and Bulgaria would like to withdraw from the war, the German control of the Black Sea coasts constitutes an important factor in whatever either country might decide to try. This control was emphasized pointedly within the past two weeks by new photographs of the German foritifications in Nazi journals.

W.A. Decides To Use 3 Groups This Year

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8 (ENS)—Though they will continue with the group system, members of Hoard's W.A. have decided this year to eliminate one group, making three that will function throughout 1944. This decision was reached at the first meeting of the new year held Thursday afternoon at Mrs. James Thompson's when 1943 officers reviewed the year's activities. Mrs. Jack Rannie presided for the opening and contributed a poem, titled "1944." This was followed by prayer led by Miss Mildred Heagle, who also gave a poem.

Miss Elsie Rannie gave the treasurer's report revealing the W.A. had fallen slightly short of its 1943 allocation with two of the four groups exceeding their own share and the other two falling below. There were five quiltings and seven pot luck dinners during the year and proceeds of these activities were all turned over to church work with part of the sum, $30, being used to provide materials that were used in re-decorating the church.

Mrs. John Rannie was in charge during the W.M.S. meeting that followed and Mrs. W. S. Milne presented the annual statement of the secretary disclosing there were ten meetings. She said there were five life members and seven annual members in the Society and that givings had exceeded those of 1942. During the year they prepared and shipped a bale to St. Paul's Hospital at Hearst, Ont.

Of the 42 enemy planes down, the bombers accounted for 33 and the fighters nine.

While the big American formation was penetrating into Germany, more than 750 R.A.F. bombers protected by R.C.A.F. fighters were delivering day-long attacks on the French invasion coast.

It was the 16th day of heavy attacks on this sector in the last 18.

An Air Ministry announcement today said R.A.F. and United States medium and fighter-bombers attacked military objectives in Northern France yesterday, destroying two enemy aircraft. Three Allied fighter-bombers and a bomber were lost.

The Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded by U.S. Government monitors, said one of the targets in raids on Northern France on Wednesday now was a "heap of ashes." The broadcast said more than 2,000 bombs were dropped in a northwestern section of the Somme Department.

The German high command, confirming Swedish reports that Ludwigshafen and Mannheim were the American targets, acknowledged that heavy damage had been done the twin industrial cities. It claimed that 23 Allied four-engined bombers were shot down over Reich territory during the first week of the new year.

Meanwhile indications that the Allies were attacking Northern France for the 17th time in 19 days came in a Vichy broadcast report of morning raids in that area.

Cheese Industry Bonuses Surpass $12 Millions In Nine Years

Bonuses paid to the cheese industry of Ontario by the provincial and federal governments in the nine years from 1935 to 1943, inclusive, amounted to $12,688,320, Stanley Joss of Belleville, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association told the members of its Peterborough county branch at its annual meeting here Friday afternoon.

"I don't wish to claim all this assistance as coming through our association, but I leave the question to the patrons of this district as to what subsidies they would have received from the Ontario and Dominion governments if they did not have through those years their cheese patrons' organization," Mr. Joss said.

He remarked that in spite of the publicity which the association tries to provide for its members, many of them apparently have only a hazy idea of what their organization accomplishes for them. Recalling that the association was organized in 1934 with an office in Belleville, Mr. Joss said that in the following year appealed to Hon. James Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, for a bonus to assist the industry, and the sum received by the industry in Ontario that year was $816,920. In 1939 representatives of the Cheese Patrons' Association of this province discussed with Hon. Mr. Gardiner the granting of a quality premium. Payment that year was $508,234; in 1940 it was $844,094; in 1942 the subsidy amounted to $1,275,153; and the estimated total for this year $1,110,000.

The subsidy of the Ontario government was $2,191,622; in 1942 it was $2,530,582; and estimated for this year $2,250,000.

Mr. Joss also informed the meeting that Hon. Mr. Gardiner was consulted early in December about the price that could be expected for 1944. The Minister replied that the subsidy of 30 cents a hundred pounds which had gone into effect towards the end of last year would be continued this year, thereby assuring producers that they would receive 27½ cents a pound, f.o.b. their loading points, for the cheese they make this year. The corresponding price last year was 24 cents a pound. The 1944 price will be paid on all cheese scoring at least 94 points.

"This is the first time that cheese patrons have known so early in the year the price to which they can look forward," Mr. Joss said.

In setting a production mark of 167,000,000 pounds for this year, Mr. Joss said that the winter output was likely to be less than last year because of the feed shortage, "and it is a serious question whether we are going to be able to make up that deficit when we enter into our season of high production. When we remember the excellent pasturage of two summers ago, and the highly favorable conditions last year, it may be too much to expect three good years in a row. To take care of a dry season that may possibly come, our dairy farmers are being asked to begin thinking about supplemented pastures for next summer."

Less Cheese Made

C. E. Lackner, Toronto, director of the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, informed the meeting that cheese production in Peterborough county declined last year 357,000 pounds; in Ontario 23,300,000 pounds, and in the Dominion 40,000,000 pounds.

On the credit side of the industry was an improvement in quality from 95.82 per cent first grade cheese in 1942 to 96.06 per cent in 1943, an accomplishment in the face of a shortage of labor which might be expected to conduce to a lower grade.

After passing out that compliment Mr. Lackner discussed the results of 16,000 sediment tests made last year in Central Ontario area that comes under the supervision of six instructors. That phase of the discussion may be considered off the record. The tests were aimed at further improvement of the Ontario product, and the Dairy Branch was advocating the adoption of the single service strainer employing a filter disk that can be used only once.

"We wouldn't need to worry about sediment if we could get all our patrons to use this strainer," Mr. Lackner said.

To that comment, the meeting responded later with a resolution by R. E. Thurston of Bobcaygeon, seconded by Howard Bullock, recommending to the provincial association a proposal that use of the single service strainer be made compulsory.

Representatives to the annual provincial meeting in Toronto on March 7-8 were appointed: George Elliott, president, Gilbert McIlmoyl, Stewart Clysdale, Fred Crowe, and R. E. Thurston, each with permission to name a substitute in the event that he could not attend.

Officers Elected.

The members made only one change in their executive, adding Harold Van Volkenburg.

George Elliott was re-elected president; Gilbert McIlmoyl vice-president; Frank C. Paterson, secretary-treasurer; and the executive, Gordon Fitzgerald, Charles McNulty, Mr Thurston, Mr. Clysdale, and Mr .Van Volkenburg.

Mr. Elliott suggested that he had been president long enough, seven years, but the members decided to carry on.

A committee wa appointed to arrange ofr a dinner at Warsaw early in June. Its members are Fred Crowe, Gordon Payne, Mr. McIlmoyl, Mr. Clysdale, Mr. Elliott, and Mr. Paterson.

A membership grant of $10 was authorized to be paid to the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture.

Prices at Peak.

J. M. Bain of Atwood, chief dairy instructor for Western and Central Ontario, said the price of cheese to-day was now at about the highest level it had ever reached. Factories in Central Ontario had made a decided improvement in equipment, but some of them still lacked an adequate water supply.

W. J. Moore, dairy instructor in this district, said his section was "down about 10,000 cheese this year, but the quality was up." There were still too many under-grade cheese being made "even where we have good men. It is the conditions they have to work under that should be changed."

Late delivery of milk was cited by Mr. Moore as a faulty practice that should be corrected, especially at one factory where the milk often did not arrive until noon. "It is the producers who are losing money," he commented.

Grading Summary.

A summary of the cheese grading in this district last year was presented by Mr. Elliott. In this statement, first grade cheese are those scoring 92 points or higher; and second grade are those under 92 points. It also shows the number of cheese produced, and the percentage of first and second grades as follows:

Warsaw— 1,699 cheese; 96.8 per cent first grade, 3.2 per cent second.

Killarney—1,748; 99.4, 0.6.

Selwyn—1,033; 100 per cent first grade.

Silverwoods Ltd.—706; 100 per cent first grade.

Oakdale—391; 97.7, 2.3.

Warminster—1,167; 99.3, 0.7.

Port Perry—2,317; 93.8, 6.2.

Indian River—1,056; 100 per cent.

The Coffee Club Makes $75 For War Victims

A Coffee Club from its very name, naturally suggests a group who meet together for a morning or afternoon refresher, and while not altogether new to these fair parts of the globe, it is still of such recent vintage hereabouts, that it could be called quite modern.

This refresher as connected with the particular group that this story concerns, may be said however to form only a part of the fascination for the members, for all of them are business men to whom the stirring events of the times in which they live are of vital concern, and from the fellowship which has thus been engendered by their meeting together as far as the calls of business will allow, has on more than one occasion resulted in much tangible help in some form or other for various assists to the war effort.

About the middle of October, one of the members suggested they have what should be known as a brown money fund, by which all those in attendance at each morning session should pool all the brown money they had, and save it up until a fair sum was reached, when it would then be sent on its way through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund to stretch out a helping hand across the wide expanse of ocean to those who had suffered through air raid attacks over Britain.

They Make $75

The plan was well received, so much so, their enthusiasm could hardly be kept in bounds by just the giving of coppers, and being business men, they set about devising ways and means of raising money in a more accelerated manner, which must at least for the time being remain a business secret, for a patent has not yet been secured, but suffice it to say it was quite successful, for the sum of $75 is today recorded in their name, a tangible proof of just what can be accomplished when folks set out to do some good for others, and really mean to make a success of the self imposed task.

With an objective of $50 before them which loomed large at the start, this group went over the top in true Peterborough style to raise 150 per cent of that amount, and within the writer's knowledge are the only club of their kind so far to take time out to make their association together the means of giving a helping hand to this fund.

Neill's Office Girls 18th

Here is a group of young ladies who really do things when it comes to following an ideal for good, and keeping up the good work with no thought of getting weary in the race to be run.

Today they are listed with their 18th contribution to the fund, all of which have been for the sum of $5, giving them a total credit of $90 which is outstanding for such a small number as this group consists of.

Fire Claims Life Port Hope Woman

PORT HOPE, Jan. 8.—Apparently suffocated by smoke in a fire which damaged her home here yesterday, Mrs. H. A. Barnes, 65, was found dead in a bedroom by a member of Port Hope fire department.

The fire started in a small pantry cupboard off the kitchen and, spreading upstairs, damaged a bedroom used by Mrs. Barnes. Mrs. Barnes apparently became confused and was unable to get down the stairway, which was thick with smoke but only slightly burned. She made her way to the south end of the house and when found by Fireman Bill Tozer was lying in a bedroom.

Her husband died some years ago and a son, Frank, resides in Montreal. There was a cut on her head, which, police say, may have been caused by a fall. An inquest will be held.

Heads Hospital

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7—(CP)—Dr. Leigh J Crozier of Chapleau, Ont., has been named superintendent of Victoria Hospital here, William Loveday, chairman of the Hospital Trust, announced to-day. Dr Crozier will assume his post on February 1.

994 New Borrowers Use Services Of Public Library In Past Year

At the annual meeting of the Public Library held on Thursday night, Fred M. DelaFosse, librarian reported an increase of 994 borrowers using the services offered by the library. He also reported a gratifying increase in circulation over the previous year in nearly every class of books.

The branch library established during the year in the Park Hill Road wartime housing area has 192 borrowers and 700 books were supplied this branch.

During the year 87,339 books were loaned from the Public Library and 1,014 from the Dixon Centre library making a total of 88,353 books against 87,314 books for the same period in 1943.

Librarian's Report

The following is Mr. DelaFosse's annual report to the Board.

"In looking over the figures of circulation it will be seen that most of the classes of books show a gratifying increase over the previous year; there are two that show a regretable decrease, viz: those dealing with Biography and the Fine Arts. In the record of circulation in the adult department, taking in of course the figures from the Branch library at the Dixon House our tables show a gross increase of 1,039 over those of the year 1942. I think that considering the difficult conditions under which the society is laboring at the present time we may congratulate ourselves that so much interest is being taken in the matter of reading.

To offset the absence of so many of our old and regular patrons of the Library many newcomers have been added to our lists of borrowers, but it takes time for people to get accustomed to fresh conditions and very many do not yet know of the advantages that the Library offers for the asking. During the past year we have added several valuable books to our shelves in the reference department and have not neglected, by any means, the needs of the public in the other branches of reading.

There has been a steady demand for historical works and also for works dealing with the various phases of the stupendous struggle that is being waged all aver the world."

Branch Library

"In order to satisfy the requests of many new residents living on the outskirts of the city northwest of Park Hill Road the Library Board determined to open a small branch library as a trial in the Dixon Community Centre. The Branch was opened on July 15 for the distribution of books one day in each week. Mrs. C. S. Thompson, Counsellor at the Centre, very generously offered her services, gratis, for the purpose of taking charge of the books and acting as librarian.

It was not long before Mrs. Thompson had on her record book 70 names and this number has now swelled to 192.

About 700 books were sent to the Centre, including about 100 for children not old enough to be allowed to join the juvenile section of the Public Library. Since the library was opened the circulation has proved most gratifying, averaging about 10 volumes to each borrower.

Circulation Figures.

"I append hereunder the figures for the circulation of adult books during the year:

For 1942—

Reference Room.

"Certain needed changes have been made during the past year in the Library among which the Reference Room must be mentioned. The change of its location to a larger space on the north side of the building has been a beneficial one and will show up to greater advantage when the public gets used to the re-arrangement of the books.

Reading Rooms.

"The reading rooms have been well patronized during the year, but there does not seem to be the same interest exhibited by the ladies as by the gentlemen, in the use of papers and periodicals.

Library Register.

"During the year 994 borrowers were added to the list of patrons of the Library—390 men and 604 women. With the names, amounting to 192 from the Dixon House added to the juvenile figures, we have the following very satisfying total of:

Men 390, women 604, Dixon House 192, Juvenile 1,062.

"The total number of registrations since the opening of the new register in 1942, including the number at the Branch Library is now 2,248.

"The report for the Juvenile Department as before remarked, exhibits an encouraging state of affairs. There has been an increase of over 4,000 in the circulation of books during the past twelve months. The total number of books circulated was 66,998. In the preceding year it had been 61,364.

"Reading Room attendance was estimated at 21,213, an increase of 672 over the preceding year. The registration now stands at 1,062, an increase of 204 over last year.

Books Purchased.

"The books received from all sources for the Public Library during the last year were 1,397. In the Juvenile section there were 704 volumes added, making a total of 2,101 volumes.

"I give hereunder the circulation in the Juvenile Department during the past year:

CHURCH NEWS

Writings of Apostle John Have Made Strong Appeal

REV. E. R. JAMES

In the Beginning Was The Word, And The Word Was With God And The Word Was God.
St. John 1:1.

To many it is startling to realize that the Epistles were written for the first generation of Christians. These converts were nourished by word of mouth teaching. Their teachers were men who had either known the Lord Jesus in the days of His flesh or had been taught by the Apostles. Truly they were men who were sent with the Good News for the people who sat in darkness. Without doubt it was an age of darkness; cruelty and horrors were every day events. We are living in somewhat similar times. The Gospels were written for the second generation of Christians. They desired to read and know something of the Personality of the Lord Christ.

St. Mark's Gospel was written for the Romans; St. Luke for the Greeks; St. Matthew for the Jews. About 90 A.D. men began to desire a Gospel which would make its appeal to all men; a Gospel which would be universal and truly Catholic. It would meet the needs of men everywhere and always. This task fell upon St. John the Divine the son of Zebedee. The Primitive Church called him "The Leaner on the Breast." Moved by the Spirit of Christ he wrote this Gospel. Men felt that no man knew the mind of Christ as did "The Disciple whom Jesus loved."

This Gospel is written in simple language. A child can read these opening words: "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was God." Simple yet extremely deep. Thinkers of every generation find they are unable to explain fully these simple words. Multitudes of plain people have read and reread the fourteenth of St. John. Their hearts have been warmed; their drab, hard lives have been brightened by the Master's statement: " In My Father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you—my little sheep—I will come again and receive you unto Myself that where I am there ye may be also."

On the other hand the Gospel is so very deep and sublime that the greatest scholars of the ages find they can only touch the fringe of the meaning. Bishop Westcott, one of the greatest of the New Testament thinkers of nineteenth century, brought his wide and mature learning to the study of this Gospel. His commentaries contain treasures for many generations of students. He reminds us that the only true Commentator will be some eastern Christian who inherits centuries of mystic insight.

It is easy to understand that this Gospel made its appeal to the thinking men of the first century. The Church was then making its appeal to thoughtful Greeks and Romans who had been trained in the philosophies of Plato and Aristotle. Modern scholarship remains us that Greek philosophy was to be the school master for Christianity in the Western world as the Law was for the Jew. Such men would be deeply attracted by these words: "In the beginning was the Word."

It is the most sacramental Gospel. It contains teaching for those who have eyes to see. The water turned into wine symbolizes that the Lord Jesus came to change our human nature into the Divine—that through His indwelling Spirit the mysterious change would take place.

This Gospel gives the seven Names Our Lord applied to Himself: "The Good Shepherd"; "The Door"; "The Bread of Life"; "The Vine;" "The Light of the World"; "The Way, the Truth and the Life"; "The Resurrection and the Life." Think upon these simple words and you will be given a vision of that Divine-human Personality.

In the day of sorrow you may read the story of the raising of Lazarus from the dead. Your heart may be moved as your eyes fall upon these words: "The Teacher is come and calleth for thee." He "The Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief" is drawing near to reveal something you could not otherwise learn. "Come unto Me," He whispers. He will comfort you as a Mother comforteth her son. Then with deep insight you will read these words:—"When the warning was come Jesus stood on the shore" to welcome your beloved and yourself, when your work is finished.

Can you think of a better New Year resolution:

SON OF MAN, TAKE THIS BOOK AND EAT IT. AND I DID EAT IT AND IT WAS IN MY MOUTH AS HONEY FOR SWEETNESS.

Jesus' Ministry of Love Played Important Part

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 9 is Mark 1:23-2:14, the Golden Text being John 9:4, "We must work the works of Him who sent Me, while it is day: the night cometh when no man work.")

TODAY'S LESSON tells us of Jesus' ministry of love in healing the poor sick and afflicted people who, hearing of His miracles, flocked to Him. His infinite tenderness and compassion make the telling of these acts one of the loveliest passages in all scripture.

In our last lesson, you remember, we left Jesus and His followers at the temple, where Jesus had been preaching "as one having authority." In the synagogue there was a man possessed of an evil spirit. The spirit which the man cried out to Jesus, saying, "Let us alone; what have we to do with Thee, Thou Jesus of Nazareth? art Thou come to destroy us? I know Thee who Thou art, the Holy One of God."

Jesus answered sternly, "Hold thy peace, and come out of him." The unclean spirit came out, tearing his poor victim as he came, that is, putting him into a convulsion.

Witnesses Amazed

All who witnessed this were amazed, saying. "what is this thing? what new doctrine is this?" Jesus' fame began to spread everywhere, but He came out of the synagogue and went to eth home of Simon Peter and Andrew, with James and John. Here He found Simon's wife's mother sick with a fever, and He went to her, took her by the hand, lifted her up, and immediately the fever left her, and arising, she waited upon them all.

That evening the poor people flocked to the house, bringing their sick and possessed members. And He healed many. In the morning, however, Jesus rose very early, and going to a solitary place outside the city of Capernaum, where these deeds were performed, prayed alone to God. His disciples and others followed Him, however, and when they found Him they told Him many were looking for Him. Jesus said, "Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also." And Mark tells us that "He preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee."

Among them a poor outcast, a leper, came to Him, pleading with Him, and "kneeling down to Him, and saying unto Him, If Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus, "moved with compassion, put forth His hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, I will; be thou clean." A leper in an advanced stage of the disease is a loathsome sight, but Jesus touched the man with His hand, so great was His sympathy toward him.

As soon as the Lord had spoken the leprosy left the man and he was clean and whole. Jesus told him to tell no one, but he could not keep the miracle to himself, but went out and blazed the news abroad so that Jesus could not enter the city for the crowds of curious who sought Him. So He went to the desert places outside the town, but still people came to Him from every quarter.

Jesus Preaches to Them

After some days Jesus again came to Capernaum, but when it was known that He was in the house, people gathered in crowds so that the house was full, and He preached the word to them. But four men carried on his bed a friend who was desperately sick with palsy. Not being able to enter the house where Jesus was, they climbed up on the low roof, made a hole in the same and let the bed with the sick man on it, down into the room. If you look at pictures of the houses of this type in Palestine you will see that it can easily be done.

When Jesus saw their faith He said to the sick man, "Son, thy sins be forgiven thee." Whereat those around murmured and said, "Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? who can forgive sins but God?" Jesus perceived what they were thinking and saying and asked them why they thought thus. "Is it easier to say Thy sins be forgiven thee, or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?

"But that ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (He saith to the sick of the palsy), I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house." And the man immediately did so, and all were amazed.

Jesus then went again to the seaside and multitudes again followed Him and He taught them. As He passed by the place where people were made to pay their taxes to their Roman conquerors, He saw Levi (known to us as Matthew), and said to him, "Follow Me." And the man arose and followed Him. This man, employed by the Romans to gather taxes from his countrymen, was hated by the Jews, but when he saw Jesus' face and heard His voice, he gladly left the job that must have been hateful to him, although it might have made him rich in money and goods, and followed his Master.

Marking Centenary in 1944 Of the Rockdale Pioneers

By MOST REV. J. C. McGUIGAN
Archbishop of Toronto

1944 is the centenary year of the Rochdale Pioneers and they deserve world - wide celebration. Those 28 poor textile workers who opened their lattle store hit upon one of the most successful economic experiments in the modern world. Consumers' co-operation is a major factor in the life of Britain and it has contributed perhaps more than anything else to working-class welfare and social stability in a country where the problems of industrialism have been presented on the largest scale.

In other countries producers' co-operation has made the more progress. The co-operative dairy and bacon factory are even more significant than the co-operative store in Britain. Different countries have their own characteristic forms of co-operation. From the pioneer days in Canada we inherit traditions of the barn-raisings, thrashing bees and beef-rings. A Canadian, Alphonse Desjardins, of Levis, Que., is revered as the founder of the Credit Union movenment in North America. In recent years the Antigonish movement which stands for the twin ideals of economic co-operation and adult education has attracted world-wide attention.

Yet we must recognize that cooperation is only a subordinate economic factor in Canada today. Giant corporations directed by the profit motive dominate the scene and governmentalism is most advocated as the necessary counterpoise. Competition is lauded on the one side and State control on the other. There is real danger of the threat of one kind of economic dictatorship leading to the establishment of another.

What should be realized is that the spirit of co-operation, which means seeking our own good in harmony with that of our fellows, is more important than any of its particular forms. Besides consumers' co-operative and producers' co-operative there should be cooperation between employers and employees and there might well be very beneficial co-operation between small retail and other businesses.

The Church gives her special favour to economic action on cooperative lines. This is expressed in the Declaration by the Canadian Hierarchy published in October last. The Pope himself has expressed his approbation of the Antigonish Movement and that movement owes much to the leadership it has received from Ministers of religion, Protestant as well as Catholic. Cardinal Villeneuve recently attended the Congress of the Superior Council of Co-operatives for the Province of Quebec and said that co-operation was the system which could break, without violence, economic dictatorship. As co-operation is a spirit more than a form it allows for a great variety of forms of private business. It seeks no monopoly and it makes democracy real by extending it from the political to the economic sphere.

Greatest Era of Expansion Been in Last 150 Years

"The universal church is the hope of the world," declared Rev. Dr. W. J. Gallagher of Toronto, guest preacher for the local week-of-prayer campaign, in addressing a meeting in St. Andrew's United Church on Friday evening. It was the last address of the week for Rev. Dr. Gallagher who spoke on the subject of "The Fellowship of the Church Universal."

Friday's service was under the charge of Rev. Dr. W. W. Young, pastor of St. Andrew's.

The opening prayer was by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints and the prayers for youth and its leaders by Rev. C. W. Kidd, for success for the Allied cause by Rev. Fred W. Craik, and for missions by Rev. Dr. George C. Easton were offered.

The choir under the direction of R. B. Harle led in a service of praise and Mrs. R. Williamson sang as a solo "The Lord's Prayer."

"We cannot live alone, our life consists in relationships. And our life is the richer, the wider the range and extent of our relations and interests," said Rev. Dr. Gallagher at the beginning of his address. This is true of the Christian life. It is a life of fellowship in the Church, the household of the faith.

"The Christian Church includes the believers of all the ages and of all the world. She is a world-wide organism. From her earliest days she has been that in the faith and vision of her members, because of the Christian experience that in Christ there is neither Jew nor Gentile, Greek nor barbarian, but all are one. It our time the church has become world-wide in actual fact as never before. The last 150 years has been the greatest era of expansion in the Churche's history, so that now she extends into almost every nation."

"In the fellowship of the Church Universal all Christians are one Body. In recent years there have been demonstrations of that in several world - wide Christian movements, world conferences and the World Council of Churches in process of formations."

"The universality of the church involves her in difficulty in a time like this when totalitarian nationalisms seek domination; and in many parts of the world the Church is under attack and our fellow - Christians are suffering hardship and persecution.

"The Church, however, is resisting falsehood and tyranny. Before the attack many of her members have yielded, but not all. From Central Europe and from the occupied countries come many evidences of heroic Christian witness. In the latter countries the life of the Church is characterized by "the three R's"—resistance, revival and resolution — and in Germany itself a number of the Church leaders have shown themselves worthy of the land of Luther.

"The Church is also endeavoring to maintain the Christian fellowship, even in wartime by cooperation in aiding refugees interests and prisoners of war, by supporting "orphan missions," by such communications as are possible and by planning for reconstruction of Christian institutions after the war.

"The world-wide fellowship of the Church offers the widest possible range of interests for the nurture of Christian understanding, sympathy and good-will and the exercise of Christian service."

"The Universal Church is the hope of the world, for in Christ, in whom there is no East nor West it has the secret of unity for mankind, which the world so sadly needs."

At the conclusion of the address the thanks of the Ministerial Association and of the congregation were extended to Rev. Dr. Gallagher for his excellent series of addresses through the week by Rev. F. W. Craik.

The closing meeting of the week of prayer campaign will be held tonight, Saturday, at the Salvation Army Temple when the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church will be the guest preacher and give the address.

Jesus Busy With His Ministry — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 1:23—2:14

In the synagogue in which Jesus preached there was a man possessed of an unclean spirit, who appealed for help to the Master, and He cast the spirit out.

Jesus' fame spread abroad, and He went to the house of Simon and Andrew with James and John, and Simon's wife's mother was sick with a fever.

Jesus took the sick woman's hand, and lifted her up, and immediately the fever left her, and she was able to go about her duties ministering unto them.

That evening the people brought all their sick to be healed, "and all the city was gathered together at the door."

Hail To The Squirt!

In these days when reality far outdistances the feverish inventions of the Superman comic strip we are not particularly surprised to learn that Captain Frank Whittle of the R.A.F. has invented a workable rocket plane, operating at astonishing speed on a principle called 'jet propulsion'. His invention has been thoroughly tested; when first it made its trial trips over London people fled to the air-raid shelters, taking it for a giant bomb; later they became used to it, and because of its peculiar whistling noise when travelling through the air, they called it 'the squirt'. Until a more dignified name for it is made, The Squirt is a handy and expressive appellation.

The progress of artificial flying has been advancing slowly since the days of Plato's friend Archytas, who made a wooden dove which flew for short distances; Leonardo da Vinci designed a plane which might have flown if he had ever built it, but the greatest procrastinator in history failed to do so; Regiomontanus built a wooden eagle which Charles V. treated as a toy; the balloonists of the eighteenth century at least made their machines to carry human beings. The recent history of human flight is well known, and it has hitherto depended upon propellors which, as it were, seize the air and pull the aircraft forward. Captain Whittle's machine is moved through the air by a series of power explosions. How these are caused, or regulated, or what fuel the rocket plane uses only a few people know, and it is not likely that the knowledge will become general until after the war.

One thing, however, seems certain. The invention of The Squirt is a great moment in the history of this century. It can outstrip any plans designed on the old principle, and such things as Atlantic flights, which presented no difficulties to the conventional planes are mere trifles to The Squirt. The world, which has been growing smaller rapidly, has suffered a sudden and violent shrinkage. The rapidity and convenience of travel has been vastly augmented; likewise, the horrors of future wars have been increased beyond anything of which we can guess at from the experience of the past four years. Man's ingenuity has created another great machine, and we can only pray that man's good sense will increase fast enough to teach us how to use it properly.

An Assistant To Churchill

Most people, we are sure, will agree that Winston Churchill should have a full-time deputy, and hope that the present discussion of the matter will result in the choice and appointment of a good man for that job. Churchill is a man of abundant and dominating energy, but he has had two serious illnesses in the course of a year, and doubtless his physicians will want him to take matters a little more quietly than he has been doing. A first-rate assistant could relieve him of many minor responsibilities.

It appears that Mr. Churchill does not like to delegate responsibility. Contrary to popular belief, many first-rate administrators do not like to entrust anything to an assistant which they can possibly do themselves. Perhaps Mr. Churchill feels that no one else can do a job quite as well as he can do it himself, and he may be right. He likes to put his individual touch on everything which comes his way. We feel, however, that even his tremendous will must be overborne by the advice of his doctors, and that he should confine himself to the really vital matters of state, leaving routine work to an able deputy.

A Lesson In Gift-Giving

Arthur Rodzinski is the conductor of the New York Philharmonic, one of the great orchestras of the world; he is also a keen farmer. Not long ago he had a birthday, and the management of the orchestra wanted to give him a present. They sounded out some of Mr. Rodzinski's friends to discover what he would like best for his birthday — what gift would really gladden his heart. They learned that the conductor wanted a really fine cow—a cow with class. So they bought him a well-connected cow named Tulip, and now Mr. Rodzinski is a happy man.

We mention this because a season of gift-giving has just passed, and we wish to draw the delicate technique of the Philharmonic management to the attention of the public. Few things are so delightful as being given something which one really wants; few things are such a pain in the neck as being given something which one does not want. The management could have given Mr. Rodzinski an ivory baton inlaid with gold, and it would have cluttered up his house for years; they could have given him a complete set of Mozart scores bound in morocco, and they would not have been as useful to him as his own set of well-marked and thumbed scores; but he wanted a cow and that was what they gave him.

The really gracious gift is what a man wants, however fantastic his desire may seem. Next time you go shopping for gifts, remember Rodzinski's cow.

Setting Aside The 'New Deal'

President Roosevelt has told the people of his country that he thinks the term 'New Deal' which has so long been used as the tag of his administration, is no longer suitable; he thinks that 'Win the War' is a better name for it. In 1932 Mr. Roosevelt was elected because he promised 'a new deal for the American people'; he is now convinced that his administration has delivered the goods; the people have a new deal, and their most important job at the moment is not personal betterment but winning the war.

The President was insistent that he had in no way repudiated the beliefs upon which his New Deal administration was based, and his arguments that the New Deal had become a fact were convincing. We think it is clear, however, that he is getting his big guns ready for the presidential campaign which will come later in the year. There has been a marked swing toward the Right in American political thinking, and many voters who were once mildly sympathetic toward the New Deal and strongly sympathetic toward the President as a man are being drawn toward the greatly strengthened Republican party.

It is not impossible that the President himself feels that a mitigation of his New Deal thinking would be a good thing for his country. In the early days of the scheme he had some unfortunate experiences with men whose theories were congenial to him but whose abilities as executives were quite inadequate to the tasks he gave them to do. The use of the word 'professor' as a term of opprobrium in the U.S. might almost be said to date from 1932. Since the U.S. became implicated in the war Mr. Roosevelt has been more inclined to choose his executives from men in industry, whose theory and practical experience were evenly matched. They were the men who brought about the miracles of production and organization which have made the U.S. a great fighting country.

A Win the War administration would certainly be popular now, and perhaps that promise will put Mr. Roosevelt in the seat of power for another four years. And when the war is won he promises an enlargement of his original plan—a new New Deal. What that will be only time can tell.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Doctors are said to have a vocabulary peculiar to their work of 25,000 words. But the ones they use most are "Let's see your tongue".

A beauty expert says that a stocking tied under the chin improves the lines of the face. Yes, and sometimes a sock on the jaw will improve its expression.

The trouble with a lot of people who buy 'on time' is that they don't know where time leaves off and eternity begins.

A celebrated Pennsylvania sausage-maker has gone out of business. Probably feels that he has earned a rest from the grind.

We read of a man who jumped to his death from a dentist's window. Probably he was depressed by reading rumours of war in those 1937-38 magazines.

Pretty soon Germany will be ready to bury the hatchet, but we mustn't let that fool us. The last one Germany buried sprouted up as a crop of battle-axes.

A man in Montreal who is 101 years old boasts that he is a bachelor and proud of it. The only safe place for a man to make a boast like that is in his will.

Diary of A Year's End

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Passed the day in the usual pleasant post-Christmas lethargy, my one really constructive job being the disposal of Christmas wrapping. It seems a pity that so much handsome tissue and ribbon should be wasted, but there is nothing that can be done with it.... Took a preliminary glance at Maisie Ward's new life of G. K. Chesterton, which I must read and review as soon as I can; it is a fat, appetizing book about a fat, appetizing man. I see that it contains some extracts from his love letters which, like all love letters, should have been kept private. A man writing to his future wife does not write for publication, and what he says makes embarrassing reading. This is particularly so in the case of a man like Chesterton, who was at no time a conventionally romantic figure. ....It was a soft, mild day today; can it be that we are to have a mild winter?

MONDAY: Some merchants observed Boxing Day today, and some did not. So far as I could see, they might all have closed their shops, for there was not a loose dollar to be seen on the streets; the post-Christmas poverty lies heavy upon us....I see by a New York paper that Robert Benchley means to give up writing, and confine himself to acting in the movies in the future. I admire his self-knowledge and self-restraint. He has been re-writing himself for the past ten years. Many a wit exhausts his vein early in life, and goes on with his writing long after he has ceased to be funny. Certainly one very prominent Canadian humorist has done so. As a matter fact, I have never found Benchley very funny; his principal joke is his own ineptitude; to him the fact that he cannot pack a suitcase, or drive a nail is excruciating; to me it is merely dull. Such blunderers are only funny in small doses. Still, he was funny once, and I am grateful, and wish him success in Hollywood: God rest you merry, Benchley, let nothing you dismay.

TUESDAY: This evening heard a man read aloud a Christmas story which he had written; it contained some of the best romantic adventure I have heard in a long time. Many modern adventure stories are written to horrify; too few are written to give pleasure....Visited some friends who had provided a bowl of nuts as Christmas cheer; they were those pecans which used to sell for 19 cents a pound before the war and now sell at 75 cents a pound. I would have respected them as a luxury, but as I was hospitably urged to tuck in, I did so, and the host and I finished the bowl between us....It is a mistake to eat too many nuts at once; they are very rich.

WEDNESDAY: A speaker in the U.S. has declared that the people of China, India and the Asiatic countries are waking up to their worth and dignity as human beings, and are demanding that their full dignity be accorded to them. Hokum! Dignity is not a thing which anyone gives you; it is a thing which you give yourself, if you can. It is a common fault nowadays to imagine that all blessings can be added unto a man by his friends and neighbours; the idea of self-development is almost forgotten. I dare say that there is as much real human dignity in the East as there is here; the people who can develop it have it, and those who cannot, have it not. How annoying these people are who pretend to know all about the East but have no knowledge of what is going on under their noses! This speaker lives in a city which was recently disgraced by race riots.

THURSDAY: Some newspaper writers seem to be amazed that Shakespeare's "Othello" should be a success in New York, where Paul Robeson is playing it. Consequently they insist that he is using a "modernized" version of the play; they cannot account for his success otherwise. But it is not so; he is just using the old play which Shakespeare wrote in 1604, and which is more modern than "Abie's Irish Rose," which convulsed this continent twenty years ago. How I loathe people whose fetish is modernity! Do they really imagine that they are the ultimate product of evolution, and that nothing worth while will follow them? If so, they will find eternity an intensely humiliating experience.

FRIDAY: New Year's Eve, and so I tackled the Herculean labour of cleaning up my desk, compared with which the sweeping of the Augean stables was a trifling exertion. Blushed as I uncovered many things which I had not done which I ought to have done; if I should ever be forced to work under an efficiency expert it would be a bitter contest to see whether he, or I, would first crack under the strain ...Spent the afternoon at home, cleaning out drawers there, and pasting clippings in my scrapbook relating to happenings in 1943 which I should not like to forget. This business of cleaning-up is desperately hard on the feet; one has to run up and down stairs so much....Saw the New Year in very quietly, playing records on the gramophone and sipping a hot drink. At midnight turned on the radio and heard some people in New York making a great fuss over someone called Count Basey, who pounded a piano and produced a quantity of that feverish, pseudo-erotic, feeble and shallow din which is called 'jive,' or 'hot jazz,' or something of the sort....Well well; so this is 1944!

SATURDAY: New Year's Day, and so I went sliding with some children, but as there was not enough snow we did not have a very good time....I made no resolutions for the New Year; tried to think of faults in my character which could be mended, but none occurred to me; appealed to several other people to tell me of faults in myself, but they replied, quite honestly, that I was perfect as I was; spent the day in a glow of self-approbation.... This evening read the new cookery book, "Clementine In The Kitchen," which is a brilliant work; it aroused such hunger in me that I went to the kitchen and ate like a tiger for some time before going to bed.

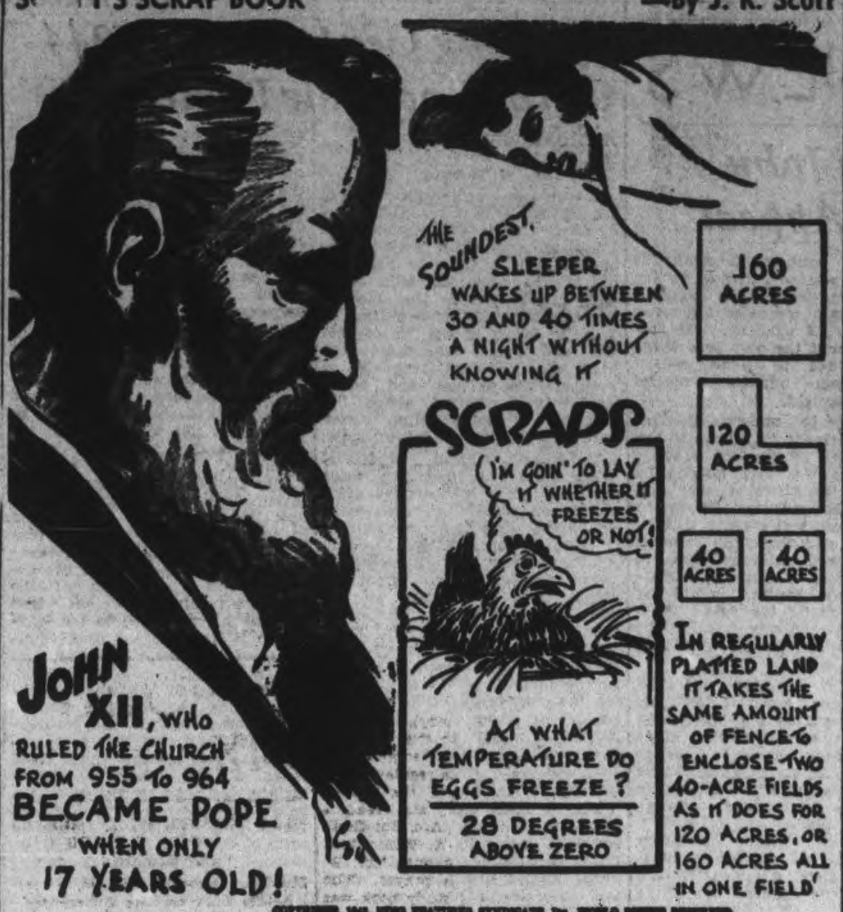
Quebec Political Note

—A lifelong observer of the political scene in the Province of Quebec writes that alarm over the apparent strength of the Bloc Populaire reminds him of the farmer who undertook to supply a summer hotel with a hundred frogs a day from a marsh on his farm.

The menus listing frogs' legs were already printed when the farmer turned up with his first day's catch. It consisted of four frogs. His excuse for default of his contract was that in making his estimate of supplies he had been misled by the noise.—The Printed Word.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By J. R. Scott



A Curb On Free Expression

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

A PECULIAR and somewhat disquieting use of the CBC's discretionary powers of interpretation is reflected in the ruling made against the drama serial program being presented over station CKAC by Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated. In effect, it is decreed that the ban in CBC regulations on "dramatized political broadcasts" has been violated by interpolated discussion, by the characters in the dramatic presentation, of various aspects of the projected expropriation of the power company by the provincial government.

The interpolations dealt chiefly with the service and progressive reductions in electric rates given by the power company, the general advantages of private as against public ownership, and some of the defects which have shown themselves in various spheres of state monopoly. Basically, the brief commercial material dovetailed into the programs in their original form was aimed at presenting arguments to defend the company against attacks on it and to show why the expropriation should not be carried out.

This is indeed stretching rather far the regulation forbidding "dramatized political broadcasts," which incidentally are not defined in the regulations. The program in question was and is clearly identified as sponsored by the power company—not by any political group—and the issue between the company and the government can hardly be called political, certainly as far as the company is concerned. As a result of the CBC ruling, the program has been brought into compliance with regulations merely by separating the so-called political material from the drama content, and presenting it beforehand as a direct "commercial" talk by a speaker.

The power company is thus, in effect, prevented from answering the government's criticisms and proposals (political though these may be) in a manner which company officials deemed would be attractive to radio listeners and capture public attention. This is definitely a curb on the freedom of a commerical enterprise or an individual to express a viewpoint in defense against a procedure undeniably open to debate. It lends added weight to the protests of those who contend that either the CBC regulations on free discussion of public questions need revising or that their administration should be drastically overhauled.

The CBC official involved in the power company broadcast matter insists that he acted on his own responsibility, and without representations from political sources or higher CBC executives. But the suspicion is bound to arise that political distaste and complaint in regard to the program lie in the background of the affair. It cannot be overlooked that the power company programs were initiated at least partly to counter the violent attacks that have been made on the company through the weekly review program sponsored by the provincial Liberal organization.

But whether or not the ruling against the power company was due merely to an excess of zeal and a questionable opinion on the nature of the material broadcast, it applies a most unpalatable restriction. The ruling should be withdrawn, or steps should be taken to clarify for dependable future reference just what is meant by "dramatized political broadcasts."

The Defeat of the C.C.F.

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE decisive defeat of all C.C.F. candidates in the Toronto civic elections indicates quite clearly that the Socialist party reached its zenith in the recent provincial elections and its popularity is now definitely on the wane. If the defeat of the C.C.F. had been confined to "Tory Toronto," it might not have been particularly significant. But the same thing happened in Peterborough, one of Ontario's leading industrial cities. There the three C.C.F. candidates for the city council ran last in a field of twelve, polling between them 1,869 votes, or 1,186 less than Alderman R. M. Glover who headed the poll. Out of 18,739 votes polled, the three C.C.F. candidates received 1,869, or less than 10 per cent. The C.C.F. candidate for the Board of Education was second from the bottom of the poll.

The reason for the defeat of all C.C.F. candidates in Toronto and Peterborough, and also for their very poor showing in the municipalities surrounding Toronto early in December, is, we believe, a revulsion of feeling on the part of the electors against Socialism. The people of Canada today are for the most part sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters, and other descendants of the pioneers who built this country, and are at heart the same rugged individualists as their forbears. They do not wnat to be regimented, nor do they want to be controlled by a group of C.C.F. appointees. Furthermore, they still want the right to work, save and invest in a home, be it a farm or a city home, with the right to own it outright and to dispose of it when they die in any manner they see fit.

Another factor which, in our opinion, has led to the wane in the popularity of the C.C.F. is that the two old parties—Liberal and Progressive-Conservative—have both placed before the people of Canada platforms that are based on the Four Freedoms of the Atlantic Charter, while at the same time leaving to the people the Fifth Freedom, freedom from state control of their lives.

Cooking In Liquors

Until the turn of the nineteenth century meats and fish cooked in wine or ale were not regarded as holiday delicacies, but merely represented a meal to come home to at the end of an ordinary workday, H. S. Sarson, London industrial chemist, explains in Nature, British scientific journal.

In those pre-vitamin days this type of cooking was a nutritional boon, Mr. Sarson suggests. Wines and ales, rich in riboflavin (vitamin G in America, vitamin B2 in England) imparted to the foods with which they were prepared enough vitamins to replace a substantial dose of present-day vitamin pills.

"Mawmene," fifteenth century dish, was made from a mixture of finely shredded pheasant, partridge and capon, often with the addition of pork or veal. During the cooking process wine was added six times, and ale once.

Sir Kenelm Digby, a 17th century gourmet, recommended that chicken feed be mixed with ale, and that chickens have strong ale to drink.

For stewing rump of beef, Sir Kenelm instructed: "Put upon it about two quarts of good strong deep well bodied claret wine."

A popular scurvy remedy at this time was a mixture of scury-grass, wormwood, horse-radish, and various herbs steeped in five gallons of ale. The patient was required to drink a pint of this stimulating brew night and morning for a three-week period.

Port and sherry were used on all possible occasions in 18th century recipes. Steaks were usually stewed in ale. For captains of sea-going vessels, a recipe for mushroom ketchup to keep 20 years starts, "Take a gallon of strong stale beer."

Present-day departure from this type of vitamin-filled cooking can be traced to the industrial revolution of the 19th century, notes Science Service. A population movement toward the city, with its cramped kitchens requiring ready prepared foods, coupled with the ever-increasing tax on fermented liquors and the decline of home brewing, resulted in the change to our less exciting foods of the present day.—Windsor Star.

Unconsidered Trifles

Three men were fishing in a small rowboat when a heavy squall came up and overturned the boat. Two of the men began to swim, but the third floundered helplessly.

"Say," asked one of the swimmers, "can you float alone?"

"Look!" said the sinking one, "I'm drowning, and he talks business!"

Jones: "Hallos, Smith! How are you? Haven't seen you in the garden for quite a time, and you never come and see the wife and me now. Why is that?"

Smith: "Well, old chap, it's not through ill-will or bad feeling or anything like that you know; only you and Mrs. Jones have borrowed so many things from me that when I see your place it makes me feel quite homesick."

The dividing wall between Heaven and Hell having collapsed, the devil and the Keeper of the Gate met in conference as to its rebuilding.

After long discussion, the former said: "I think I must ask for time, so that I may consult my solicitors."

"Ah!" replied the Keeper of the Gate, shaking his head, "that's where you have the advantage of me!"

A Bible Message

The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry....The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit. Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all. (Ps. 34: 15, 16, 19.)

And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda. And there he found a certain man named Aeneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy. And Peter said unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron saw him, and turned to the Lord. (Acts 9: 32-35.)

Letter To The Editor

CALLING BUS STOPS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Please permit me space in your valuable paper, for a suggestion in the New Year.

As a citizen, I would like to bring before your notice respecting the facilities of the Bus Transportation Co. which is very satisfactory in every way and courtesy only lacks one thing and that is, the calling out of the names of streets at each bus stop. If done I'm sure this would be a great help to the travelling public. I have noticed many cases where some over-run their stops, and others get off too soon. This happens particularly at this season of the year when windows are frosted at night time on crowded buses. I'm sure this idea would not cause much extra duty for the driver, and would be greatly appreciated by all concerned.

Post-war Taxes

Hughes Cleaver, Liberal member of the Canadian House of Commons for Halton and Chairman of the House of Commons Committee on War Expenditures, has voiced an opinion which will meet with the general endorsation when he declared that taxes in Canada can be reduced sixty per cent after the war if the national income is maintained. However, he qualified this view with the statement that the key to the whole problem is full employment.

The question of post-war taxation is one of the major problems which worry people today. Undoubtedly the Canadian industrial structure has shown a remarkable expansion in recent years but since the outbreak of the war most of this expansion has either been Government-financed or Government-assisted, as admittedly at the tremendous burden of taxation on the receipts of both corporations and individuals has done much to discourage the normal development of business and industry.

Thus it would appear that one of the best means of the Government assisting the restoration of economic normalcy after the war would be a drastic reduction in taxation so that the ability to make a reasonable profit on invested capital would be restored. But the rather disconcerting note has been witnessed in recent months that most plans for economic reconstruction in the postwar period call for terrific expenditure of government money which can only be obtained through taxing of the people, thus defeating the very objective which they are fighting for. —Sherbrooke Record.

Absent Friends

"To go where the need is greatest" has been the declared policy of the Friends' Ambulance Unit, and the Unit's latest, well-produced and vividly illustrated report shows the wide dispersion of Quaker and pacifist service in this war. From Norway to China and mid-Africa the medical relief work has been carried. In Syria and the Lebanon F.A.U. men are helping to staff the five clinics established by the Spears Mission, while others are working in eleven hospitals in Ethiopia, where fighting leprosy is one of the most splendid and dangerous forms of peaceful combat. In the Bengal famine the Unit has organized canteens, now accepted as administrative models; the first eleven fed 1,800 children a day in Calcutta. In China, transport of medical supplies and hospital work on the Yunnan front are further forms of that "Friendly" action, whose workers are now so far and strangely parted from the quiet Meeting Houses in the grey English towns.—London Observer.

FUNCTIONAL FASHIONS—Some of the very best designs created by America's leading designers are of fashions that are as functional as they are smart. This New York creation is by Kiviette, and is an all-purpose ensemble in gray woollen. An unusual feature is the self-binding that forms the yoke and makes the slit pockets. A black satin blouse is made with a high cowl neck in front and low formal cut-away in back.

Minister Advises Society To Choose Important Goal

Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart, spoke to the ladies of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Friday of the necessity of selecting the most important things in life and setting them up as goals, and concentrating upon them.

The speaker asked his audience not to lessen their efforts for greater achievement, saying that in these days, people have a tendency to have a multitude of activities and scattered interests. Consequently, they really have no main goal to work toward.

Another necessary prerequisite for the successful achieving of a goal, he went on, was the ability to concentrate on that goal, and to bend all energies toward its attainment. Everyone is given 24 hours in each day, he continued, and it depends upon themselves how they spend them.

In conclusion, Dr. Smart asked the group to remember its spiritual purpose, and expressed hope that this group would be the means of joining together all the different women's organizations in the church.

The occasion for this address was the January meeting of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's, held in the Guild Room, with Dr. Smart in charge of the installation of officers for 1944. After congratulating the officers who were elected, thanking the ladies for their support, and expressing the hope that they would continue that support, Dr. Smart installed the officers.

The executive for 1944 is as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. R. Fortye, Mrs. James H. Savigny and Mrs. E. Fairbairn; past president, Mrs. James Dutton; president, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, for a third term; first vice-president, Mrs. J. Craig; second vice-president, Mrs. T. McArthur; third vice-president, Mrs. W. Gray; treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Hendry; assistant treasurer, Miss B. Brealey; secretary, Mrs. W. Cochrane; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. D. Clark; envelope secretary, Miss Lena Eakins; press secretary, Mrs. A. E. Barrie; pianist, Mrs. W. D. Taylor; social committee, Mrs. Thomas E. Barrie, Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. E. Bathgate; visiting committee, Mrs. F. Finnie, with representatives from each of the five Church groups; strangers and shut-ins committee, Mrs. James Dutton, Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, Mrs. W. Burrell; church floral and flower committee, Mrs. George Simpson, Mrs A. Spencely, Mrs. Bristow; manse committee, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, and Mrs. R. Ross; telephone convener, Mrs. W. G. Morrow.

Reports from committee conveners were read. One hundred and nineteen boxes were sent to boys in the services during the month of December, Mrs. Robert Ross said and she also gave an account of the work done at Nicholls Hospital, saying that one month's sewing had been done by the ladies of St. Paul's, and that they had also help with the preserving and canning during the summer.

Miss Nina Davidson, reporting for the Red Cross, stated that almost one hundred articles had been made by St. Paul's sewing groups during 1943. The statement of the sick and shut-in committee showed that 40 plants had been sent out to shut-ins at Christmas, and letters from boys who received boxes, have been listed by the secretary, and will be read at the next meeting.

In the matter of raising money, the decision to continue with the cent-a-day system was made, and the bulk of the group's funds will be donated to the Restoration Fund, to help raise the total to the $5,000 objective set at the beginning of the year.

Mrs. James Ross conducted the devotional period, and read the 91st Psalm, following with a prayer. Mrs. McIntyre announced that the next meeting would be held February 4.

Alice L. Fallis Weds R. Bradley

Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated at the ceremony in the parsonage of Mark Street United church Friday afternoon, when Alice Leone Fallis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fallis, of Peterborough, became the bride of Rupert Glen Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bradley, Pontypool.

The bride wore a two-piece blue wool dress, with brown hat and grown suede shoes, and wore a gold locket. She was attended by Miss Irene McNaughton, of Nassau, who was dressed in blue jersey, with black accessories. Mr. Harold Berry, of Peterborough, was best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles Crowe, 232 Edinburgh street, and was in the form of a buffet luncheon. For a trip to Toronto and points west, the bride chose a two-piece printed brown dress, with brown accessories. On their return the young couple will live in Pontypool.

ADD DIFFERENT

No two snakes species have identical venoms.

Miss Norma Cain of Peterborough will spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cain, Pontypool.

Friends of Mr. B. E. Hay, Bolivar street, will be pleased to know that he has returned home from St. Joseph's Hospital and is improving rapidly.

AC2 Gerald Killingbeck, R.C.A.F., of Mont Joli, Quebec, has returned to his post after spending a leave with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Killingbeck, 86 Gladstone avenue.

Pte. Betty Killingbeck, C.W.A.C., of Fort Frontenac, Kingston, has returned to her post after spending a leave with her husband's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Killingbeck, 86 Gladstone Avenue.

Out-of-town guests at the Bradley-Fallis wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McGill and son Charles of Bethany, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bradley and son Larry of Pontypool, and Miss Irene McNaughton of Nassau.

AW.2 Mary Trotter, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), of the medical corps, graduated this week as a hospital assistant from No. 1 Composite Training School, Trenton, and headed her class. AW.2 Trotter is the daughter of Mrs. B. W. Trotter, 548 Downie Street.

W.M.S. Meets

Mrs. Laura McIlmoyl, Fleming Place, was hostess to the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church for its regular meeting. Mrs. E. Brown, the leader, opened with prayer, and read a poem, "Dreams They Are, But God's Dreams," and Mrs. A. White took the Scripture reading, with Mrs. W. J. Allison leading in prayer. The next chapter in the study book was read by Mrs. G. Breckenridge, and a social hour was spent and refreshments served.

Welsh Society Meets

A donation of $10 to the Welsh War Victims' Fund was voted at the business meeting of St. David's Welsh Society, held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. Jones, Simcoe street, and it was decided that the Society's money from its war work be divided between the British War Victims' Fund and the Welsh War Victims' Fund. A bale of clothing for Russia has also been packed by this group.

The draw on the Chesterfield set on which tickets are being sold, will be made on January 27, at the birthday of the Society, to be held at the home of Mrs. A. Bartley, Morrow street.

Mrs. R. Bradley Given Shower

Prior to her marriage Friday afternoon, Mrs. R. G. Bradley, nee Alice Leone Fallis, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given in her honour by the members of the Bag Department of the Quaker Oats Company. The shower was held in the ladies' dining room where a lunch was served, and gifts were presented to the bride-elect. Miss Fallis, assisted by Miss Emily Parson, opened each gift, and thanked the girls.

Those present were: Alma Hunter, Marion Mahood, Phyllis Lake, Dora Coones, Barbara Parsons, Josie McLean, Millie Rome, Gwen Parsons, Gladys Brown, Frances O'Heron, Emily Parsons, Barbara Rome, Wanda Lockie, Carlotta Laing, Margaret Peel, Jean Murney, Hilda Robins, Jean Sutton, Irene McNaughton, Alma Dobbin, Hazel Malcolmson, Emily Willshaw, Sanka Zeneka, Mae Willshaw, Madeleine Toms. Girls who were unable to attend but who sent gifts were: Mary Johnston, Eva Porter, Phyllis Ellis and Margaret Flagler.

On Thursday, as she was leaving the plant, the bride-elect was presented with a beautiful chenille bed-spread as a wedding gift from her department.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 9

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most auspicious and happy one for all affairs of church and state, with promise of expansion, enhanced prestige, increased finances and power, both to organizations and to individuals dedicated to noble, progressive and philanthropic, social and political welfare.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of great promise for the fulfilment of their cherished hopes and wishes. Business, credit, finance, prestige and personal popularity are benignly enhanced under the current rule. Beneath the elements of progress and sudden factors of productiveness is a sound and stabilizing influence promising future security and comfort. Sentimental and social attachments also flourish.

A child born on this day may be well equipped for an important, progressive and influential career, with its fortunes and happiness on firm foundations.

For Monday, January 10

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a definite success for all those plans and propositions carefully worked out and organized, with a view to stability and endurance. Objectives may be lofty and purposeful but demand concentrated effort and diligence.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which their affairs and objectives looking to future security and well-being, should engage their most thoughtful consideration. The forces, faculties and ideas should be centered on such fundamental ambitions and aspirations, under organized and constructive plans for consolidating the future and its enjoyments.

A child born on this day may be blessed with stable, far seeing and enduring elements for assuring a comfortable, happy and responsible future. Elders and relatives may encourage this attitude and objective.

Y.W.C.A. Holds Informal Party

The Y.W.C.A. girls in residence were at home to their friends at an informal party held Friday evening in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A., with Jack Marshall's orchestra providing the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Paige Rowell, Mrs. E. Morrison, superintendent of the residence, and Miss Leta Brownscombe, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A. received the guests, among whom were a number of boys from the test department of the C.G.E. and also several from the staff of the local Training Centre.

General conveners for the party were Peggy Couch, Margaret Gray, Elizabeth Stewart, and Mary McKee, and these girls arranged the prize waltz and elimination dance and the other entertainments of the evening.

DOROTHY DIX

WISE SOLDIER WILL PREPARE TO FIND ALTERED CONDITIONS

Children Grow Up; Wives, Sweethearts Look on Life Differently With Man at War

The universal desire that the men in the army express is to find everything when they return from the war just as they left it when they went away. Especially do they want their homes to be just as they picture them in their memories as they keep their lonely watches in tropical jungles or on the ice-bound islands of the North, or when they are trying to forget the fever that is burning them up by thinking how cool are the waters of the little spring from which they have drunk so often in their boyhood.

Or, perhaps, it is of some easy and luxurious way of life of which the soldier or the sailor is thinking—of a palatial home, of hot baths and soft beds, of rich food, of fast cars, of gay parties, of the boys and girls he has grown up with and played about with and, maybe, of some particular girl in a blue dress and a rose in her hair.

Dreams Keep Nostalgic Soldiers Alive

And there are thousands upon thousands of lonely men who would die of nostalgia except that they keep their starving hearts alive by feeding them upon a dream of some old farmhouse, with Father coming in from doing his evening chores and Mother putting the supper on the table, or of some little suburban cottage, with a woman standing in the door with a bungalow apron on, and little children rushing with outstretched arms down the path to welcome them home after their hard day's work.

Each man to his own memories. This longing for the past and desire to find it unchanged is one of the primal instincts of human nature. It is what sends us back, after forty or fifty years of wandering over the earth, to the place where we were born, and that always makes the return to the old home a tragedy.

For the house that we had idealized into a noble piece of architecture is a weather-beaten old cottage falling into decay. What we had remembered as a towering mountain is just a small hill. The red apples have lost the flavor they had in our childhood, and our old comrades are no longer boys and girls. They are decrepit old people, with rheumatic joints and store teeth, and whose conversation mostly runs to their ailments.

Doomed To Find Conditions Changed

So when the soldiers write us, as they do continually; not to change anything at home; that when they come back they want to find everything just as they left it, they are following one of the deepest impulses of the human heart. But, alas, they are dreaming a dream that can never come true. For we cannot stop the clock. The hands move on and we cannot relive even a second of our lives. Change is the eternal law of life.

The soldier who comes back after the war will not be the same individual he was when he went away. He will be older, more mature, more worldly wise. He will have seen life in the raw. He will have rubbed shoulders with death and been tried out in the fires of danger. He may be better, or worse, for his experiences, but he will not be the same. He will be changed.

And the same thing will have happened to the girl he left behind him, no matter whether she is sweetheart or wife. She will no longer be the little sub-deb whose only thoughts were of dates and dancing. She will be a woman who has lost some of the beauty and freshness of youth, whose eyes have gotten the hard and predatory look of the gold-digger, or that have grown softer and gentler in the long nights she wept into her pillow and prayed for the safe return of the man she loved.

Children Grow Up, Wives Different

The soldier who dreams of coming back to a home in which nothing has been changed is due for the surprise of his life. He will find that the baby he left in the cradle has climbed out of it, and that the little tikes with whom he was a tin god are strangers with whom he will have to get acquainted. Perhaps that the wife whom he kissed good-by in the kitchen is now a boss riveter who has no intention of ever bothering with pots and pans or working for her board and clothes again.

Or he may find that the clinging vine wife has turned into a sturdy oak, capable of supporting the family better than he ever did. Or that fluffy-headed Lulu, who could never run a budget, has done a miracle of financing in keeping their home together on an infinitesimal income that would entitle her to be Secretary of the Treasury, if she got her just deserts. Or he may find that Susan, who sat down and wept over every trifling disappointment, has developed into a stoic and a philosopher who meets every crisis with a smile.

But, whatever, it is, he is going to find home changed and, if he is wise, he will be preparing himself to meet it. Or else —

Women Report $300 On Hand

MARMORA, Jan. 8 — (ENS). — The St. Andrew's Women's Association is beginning the year with slightly more than $300 on hand, it was announced at their meeting. The financial secretary gave a report of the year's receipts and the amounts raised by the four circles. The full statement is to be presented at the annual meeting of the church on January 12. The president-elect, Mrs. E. C. Prentice, read from the manual the duties of the various officers. Several new committees were named and members on the committee for each month's program will be responsible for hymns and prayers and will function under the name of the devotional committee.

Mesdames H. W. Sabine and F. S. Sweet were appointed to prepare the Communion on the first Sunday in each quarter. A flower committee made up of Mesdames F. R. Wells and T. Dickson will procure flowers for the church. The mortgage on the church having been fully paid off, the Association is arranging to start a special organ fund for buying a new instrument. The sum of $100 was voted as a beginning for the new venture, with Mrs. H. W. Sabine and Mrs. H. A. Burwash acting with Mrs. Wells as treasurer, as an organ fund committee.

Two readings were given by Mrs. L. Green, "The Way Out" and "The Things That Count." Misses Doris and Iris Hannah sang a duet, and Mrs. H. W. Sabine conducted a Bible quiz.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy. No Cooking.

A pleasing surprise is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about four times as much for your money, and is splendid for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup, and you have 16 ounces of really effective cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. You'll say it's very satisfying in its action.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Lou Little sprang a right smart idea the other day—that football officials should be made to keep out of the players' way...of course, you might think that Lou meant for them to stay off the field entirely (which might not be a bad stunt, either) but he says all he wants is for them to stay out of the part of the field that the players are using at the moment...How many times have you seen a paunchy referee try to outrun a scatback or serve as an extra blocker?.. or a fight ref spoil a bout by spending too much time between the boxers? or, as we saw in the Garden Thursday, a hockey official chasing the puck-carrier down the rink, oblivious of the fact that an injured player was sprawled on the ice behind his back?...regardless of all Pat Kennedy antics, officials are paid to see without being seen.

CITY CARPETBALL

With the entrance of two new teams in the league we are again forced to switch the schedule around. Entries were received from the Mad Masons of the Fire Hall, who are just getting warmed up to show us slow-pokes how to roll, and the other from the Antiques, who are entering into the league under B.E.S.L. colors. The Antiques found that the wood worm was eating them up and they needed some exercise to get them out of their system.

The Fire Hall team is No 8, Albert Mason skip. B.E.S.L. team is No. 9, Bert Rumary skip.

This week the schedule is as follows:

Wardens No. 6 v. Fire Hall No. 8.
Brintons 4 v. St. James 7.
L.O.L. 2 v. All Saints 5.
B.E.S.L. 1 v. B.E.S.L. 9.

There were only two games reported this week and the change in standings show the Old Soldiers and King Billy's squad in tie for top place with the Old Sweats trailing owing to a lower average.

The Fighting Parsons lost out at the Orange Hall with a trouncing they deserved by the way they were rolling the porcelains. Harry Beal was about the best man on the team.

Several games may have to be played to get the schedule on a level keel again, but we are hoping this can be overcome as the season progresses.

Your scribe suggests that, owing to the odd team and the byes caused by the odd numbers, a single schedule be played. This would eliminate any team being idle for two weeks in a row.

The schedule for week of January 17 will be 8 v. 9, 5 v. 7, 3 v. 6, 2 v. 4, 1 bye.

Montgomery Wins

DETROIT— (AP)— Even while missing, Bobcat Bob Montgomery, former holder of the New York-Pennsylvania version of the lightweight title, is quite a puncher. He proved it last night by hammering out a unanimous 10-round decision at Olympia stadium over Joey Peralta of Douglas, Ariz.

There was no knockdown. Montgomery weighed 137, three pounds more than Peralta.

Transports Beat Y Cadets At Basketball

The unbeaten Transports added another victory to their string and the second-place St. John's team strengthened their hold on the runner-up position Friday night as the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. got away after the holiday layoff.

Transports smothered the Y Cadets 57 to 15 while the Saints again defeated their closest rivals the Generals 24 to 20 in a hard-fought game.

St. John's won on the strength of a first period drive that saw them outscore the Electricians 13 to 7 with Eva Clarke pacing the attack with seven points. However the winners lost her services when she had to go out of the game in the first half because of four personal fouls and the Generals came on after the rest and outplayed the church team. The latter held on grimly and were only outscored by one basket in the second session.

Mary McPherson was tops for the losers with seven points, all scored in the second half.

St. John's (24)—Theresa Hislop 4, M. Dyer, Eileen Hewitt 4, Marg Hawthorne 5, Eva Clarke 7, Doreen Groombridge 2, M. Vosberg, Edith Harte Maxwell 2.

Generals (20)—Eleanor Craig 2, J. Hickey 2, Fran Merrett 2, Dot Allen 5, Mary McPherson 7, Monica Lawless 2, Shirley Mortimer, June Moore.

With Ruth Hewitt sparking the attack with twelve baskets from the field for a total of 24 points, the league-leading Transports had no trouble in polishing off the young Y Cadets in the second game of the double-header. They had too much scoring punch and experience for the Cadets although the latter never stopped trying.

Half way home the Transports were in front 30 to 13 and they came back in the second half to widen their big margin by scoring 27 as against 2 for the losers. B. Stewart with six points, four of them on free throws was leading scorer for the Cadets while Ruth Hewitt topped the winners.

Transports (57)—Isobel Crary 6, Ruth Hewitt 24, Jean Castle 6, F. Bestard 2, Dot Bestard 14, Janet Collins, I. Stewart, R. Fleming 5.

Y Cadets (15)—D. Saunders, N. Sootheran, M. Spicer 2, Betty Lou Braund 1, L. Edwards 2, N. Stanton 1, B. Stewart 6, P. Martyn, N. Young, B. Cooke 3.

Boxing To Have Big Year In '44

By ABE J. GREENE
Pres., National Boxing Association

PATTERSON, N.J., Jan. 8 (AP)—Anaemic and scrawny in quality, but well fattened and paunchy in box office appeal, boxing in the United States can look forward to another busy year in 1944.

Promoters the country over are setting up for a big year. Lifting of dimouts in coastal areas has added to their anticipation. Ball parks and outdoor arenas are being figuratively whitewashed for a grand summer splurge.

But what of the future? therein lies the rub.

As one of the major sports industries of the country, boxing can stand to have its collective nose rubbed in the sand a bit. Boxing has its National Boxing Association.

But N.B.A. doesn't have New York in its membership, and so long as the juicy bait of Madison Square Garden payoffs remains without the N.B.A. organization, there will be bountiful mutiny.

In spite of the marked progress other key cities in the country—notably Cleveland, Philadelphia and Los Angeles—have made in staging major attractions, New York, with its Garden and its manna, is still the mecca to which star entertainers turn.

In this new year, and in anticipation of the day when thousands of new-found boxers and fans return from the wars, boxing has got to cut its cloth to a new pattern of decency and universal ethics. Otherwise, how can the farcical dual championships which consistently crop up to plague the game be averted?

I contend this is...a weird, untenable and ridiculous situation which should not prevail if boxing were organized on a national scale, with proper power in the hands of its officers.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Arrangements have been completed for the windup of the Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League for the Dominion Life Trophy with the final game scheduled for a week from tonight. Tonight either the Frigates, piloted by Steve Csumrik or the Cruisers led by Gord Johnston will drop out of the picture. They clash in a sudden-death game at 7.15 o'clock and the loser will be out of the running. There will be a double-header on Monday night bringing together tonight's winners and Jim Ferguson's Corvettes in the first game at 7.15 and Pete McArthur's Fairmiles and Harry Currie's Destroyers in the second fixture at 8.15 o'clock. The two losers Monday night will drop off the stage and the winners will clash Thursday night in the semi-finals to decide which team will enter the finals to be played next Saturday night. Joe Stewart's undefeated Algerines who finished on top of the heap have been given a bye into the final game. There should be some exciting basketball for the next week as the remaining teams battle to see which is to have the honor of taking on the Algerines next Saturday night in the decisive battle for the Dominion Life Trophy.

The merry gang of volleyball players at the Y.W.C.A. came into their own again after the holiday layoff this afternoon when the first games in the league for the Lillico Trophy were staged. There are six teams in the loop and the competition promises to be keen all the way. The captains are El Jones, Jack Hardill, Eric Vincent, Albert Dryland, George C. Scott and Bill Stanbury and with these six doughty leaders piloting six well-balanced squads there should be plenty of interesting volleyball before the 1944 champions are decided. The available material has been spread out among the six teams and on paper they look to be fairly even in strength so that the league battles should be keenly fought. The regular schedule winds up on March 11 and the play-off dates have been set for March 18 and 25. The first four teams will participate in the final series, the two bottom teams at the end of the regular schedule being eliminated.

No Love Feast

This Earl McCready-Karl Davis bout next Tuesday night is going to be far from a love feast. Davis of course has established himself as about the toughest bad man in a long parade of ring villains and on Tuesday he is going to meet an opponent who on this occasion is likely to be just as nasty as himself. McCready, usually one of the most even-tempered mat artists in the game, is going into this battle determined to hand Davis some of his own medicine. The Moose has been burning up ever since he met the Texan here last month and Davis used the ropes to twist the Canadian's leg so badly that McCready had to sit out two or three big bouts he had scheduled. Earl claims that the big boy from Texas got away with murder on that occasion and that Referee Bert Maxwell slept through it all. "I am not going to depend on the referee for protection after this," McCready declares. "From now on I am going to protect myself and if Davis wants to be tough I'll meet him at his own game and see if he is as good at taking it as he seems to be handing it out. I like to wrestle according to the rules but if this big wind from Texas wants to scrap all the wrestling code and fight back-alley style it's all right with me." That is a lot coming from a quiet athlete like the Aurora farmer and it indicates that the rowdy Davis would be justified in looking for a lively evening.

* * * * * *

Along with this stellar main bout Promoter Tunney is tossing two other battles that deserve top billing. In the semi-final he is going to give Peterborough fans a chance to look over the roughhouse Cowboy Roy Graham whose bout in Toronto a few weeks ago had the fans on their feet all the way. The Cowboy, a picturesque performer who has the same disregard for the rules as his fellow countryman, Karl Davis, is matched with a baby who will be just as tough at any stage of the game in the person of Toar Morgan, the battling marine, who was seen some months ago and showed himself capable of defending himself in any kind of going. And as curtain-raiser he has arranged a return match between the robust Bunny Dunlop and Pierre DeGlane, the French flash. The two have staged several torrid contests and twice Dunlop has been disqualified for too vigorous tactics against the black-haired DeGlane. The two cannot seem to meet without producing fireworks and their clash here is not likely to be any exception.

The Army Is Out

The announcement Friday that Army hockey teams and Army players must drop out of Allan and Memorial Cup competitions has about wrecked the senior competition and will have repercussions in the junior ranks as well. Such teams as the Kingston Army Frontenacs and the Winnipeg Army team, leading their respective loops, will vanish from the scene and senior loops all over the country will suffer. The ruling will occasion no surprise. It has been brought about by the fact that there have been men in military circles who seemed to put hockey ahead of the war. That in itself was bad enough but when it led to players being shoved into staff jobs and kept in Canada when other young men in uniform were being sent overseas the condition caused such a volume of complaint that the higher-ups were forced to act. The Air Force led off by hauling all their teams out of the Allan and Memorial Cup series and now the Army has followed the R.C.A.F. example and made a similar ruling. There will be howls of anguish in Kingston and other centres affected but they will fall on deaf ears.

Discussing the visit of Frank Sargent, head of the C.A.H.A. delegation to the Capital this week, Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal comments (It was written of course before the Army ruling): "Before leaving for his home in Port Arthur, Sargent claimed that even if the Army decides on the same restrictions as the Air Force, the C.A.H.A. would continue with a playdown arrangement. He admitted the difficulties even while pointing to some fairly strong civilian teams across the country. But he thought, at least for the purposes of publication, a playoff was feasible. Yet for all Sargent's hopes in the presence of reporters, we seriously doubt that he will recommend continuation of a playoff schedule if the Army pulls out teams and players. On the contrary, it may be fairly safe bet that Sargent will be among those to recommend that the Allan and Memorial Cups be withdrawn from competition. As it stands now the only hope left for Allan Cup playoffs is that the Army will stand pat on its present policy. It's fairly well known by now that some high ranking army officials are still nettled by some of the hockey developments. Some are for continuing on the present basis, but it's said that others are all for following the Air Force move. A number of reasons are advanced for the Air Force refusal to change its policy. One of the chief ones mentioned is rivalry among various commands, which led to transfers hither, thither and yon. It led to criticism and much of it apparently was drawn to the attention of those in authority. And don't think that the poor reception given Air Force teams by crowds from time to time didn't have some effect. Air Force teams never seemed to prove as popular as expected and the jeering hurt."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Don Gallinger of the Boston Bruins will play his last N.H.L. game for the duration in Toronto tonight....Gallinger has enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force....Kingston Army team were beaten 6 to 5 in St. Catharines last night, the victory leaving the Saints tied with the Frontenacs for first place....Apparently Army teams and players are to be allowed to finish out their own loops but they will be barred from further playdowns....That ruling is not nearly as drastic as it first sounded for the Army authorities failed to follow the example of the Air Force and set a specified date for the withdrawal of service personnel....Return of Mike Karakas to the Chicago nets shows how hard up the N.H.L. is for player material....Karakas was thought to be all through years ago... He was sold down the river to Providence five seasons ago.

Moose Eager To Meet The Krippler

With Whipper Billy Watson a hospital case as a result of Wednesday night's big battle in Maple Leaf Gardens, Promoter Frank Tunney will give Earl McCready a chance for sweet revenge here on Karl Davis next Tuesday night. McCready suffered one of the few setbacks of his great mat career when he met the "Krippler" a month ago. But the big Aurora Farmer has wisely waited until his injured knee has strengthened before asking to meet his ruthless antagonist again. On hearing that Watson was injured, McCready immediately wired Tunney from Cleveland and demanded the right to replace the Whipper against Davis. Since the bout is an absolute natural, Tunney gladly availed himself of Earl's plea, and the re-match is on.

In their bout last month, both Davis and McCready showed some of the greatest wrestling action this city has ever witnessed, but even though Davis was the technical winner, most fans agreed that McCready was actualy the better man. Karl the "Krippler" gained his deciding fall by injuring Earl's leg in the ropes and actually the Texan deserved little short of disqualification for his tactics. Referring to the match in a recent statement, McCready is reported as saying: "If and when I ever do meet up with Mr. Davis again I'm going to throw sportsmanship to the winds and really go out there to give that skunk the beating of his life."

Those are strong words for a man of McCready's gentlemanly disposition but Earl is bitterly incensed not only over the injury, but also because it has cost him at least three lucrative matches elsewhere.

Dot Bestard had high score in the Ladies' Bowling League at the Y.M.C.A. this week when she toppled the pins for a 618 total. Kay Calladine and M. Moore were close up with 603 each. Marion Timm had high single with 247. The scores:

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

With a spectacular 66 on the par 71 course of Wilshire Country Club, Sammy Bird, former outfielder of the New York Yankees, roared to the front in the championship first round of the $12,500 Los Angeles open golf tournament yesterday. Trailing with 69 were such stars as Olin Dutra, who was playing his home course, Jimmy Hines of New York, and Willie Hunter of the Riviera Club, Los Angeles. Byrd, who quit baseball in 1936 to specialize in golf, registered six birdies in the 18 holes and putted faultlessly throughout.

A galaxy clustered in the 70-score groove for the day, including Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, former tennis champion; amateur Ralph Evans of Inglewood, Calif.; Leo Diegel of Tucson, Ariz., and Johnny Bulla of Chicago. Recent rains, resulting in slow greens, spoiled the play for many competitors in the field of 135 qualifiers.

President Frank Sargeant of the C.A.H.A. announced at Port Arthur last night the lifting of the suspension for the war's duration of Joe Gollat of Fort William for alleged breach of contract with the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League in 1942. Gollat will be permitted to play in Fort William only.

George Hayes of Ingersoll, baseball organizer and O.H.A. referee, has been appointed to the refereeing staff of the American Hockey League and will officiate Saturday night at Cleveland in a game between the Barons and Buffalo Bisons.

The public address system at Crosley Field, Cincinnati, will be used to explain plays and decisions in the coming baseball season for home games of the Reds in the National League.

Tiger Hurler Dies

Pitcher for the Detroit Tigers for 14 years, George Joseph Mullin died at his Wabash, Ind., home yesterday after a month's illness. He was credited with a no-hit game against St. Louis Browns July 4, 1912, and led the American League twirlers in 1909 with 29 wins and eight losses.

Willie Hoppe of New York held the lead, 250 points to 224, yesterday at Kansas City, Kansas, at the close of five blocks of play in a 1,900 non-title billiard match with Welker Cochran of San Francisco.

Pitcher Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators was reclassified 1-A by the U.S. Draft Board at Springfield, Ill., yesterday and the knuckle-ball specialist expected to be called for service early in February.

President George Trautman of the American Baseball Association and chairman of the minor leagues' post-war planning committee declared yesterday he did not expect radical changes in the baseball set-up and had no fear pro football would displace the diamond sport after the war, adding "but I do think baseball needs to be alert."

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The sudden drop in the temperature that commenced around noon on Friday and continued all afternoon and evening made it possible for the curlers to play all of their schedule games. True, some of the ices were not as good as others, but after a layoff of a day or so it takes a little while to get them back into shape, however, we expect to have them all in good order over the week-end.

There were some close games and some not so close. Mr. R. F. Downey broke into the winning column when he came from behind to nose out Wallace Harvey 10 to 9. Vern Selkirk, pinch-hitting for G. Braund had a good fight with R. Payne and finished three up. President E. Thomas just managed to stay in there long enough to get the verdict over Jack Welsh by one shot.

D. Davis and I. Hamley went along for about three-quarters of the way very close and then the older Hamley boy walked away and breezed home a nice winner. The remaining games were a little one-sided.

We are offering congratulations to Mrs. H. Dulmage, Miss G. Patterson, Mrs. M. Patterson and Mrs. O. M. Steer on their wonderful showing up at the Toronto Granite rink the last couple of days. True they did not win the trophy, but they were in the final game and this is something. They were pitted against Ontario's best lady curlers and they did well. We are predicting that this rink will go a long way.

Tonight at 7.30 o'clock, we will hold our first mixed bonspiel of the season. Come one, come all. Draw from the board and the fee is 25c.

Kingston Loses Overtime Tilt To St. Kitts

By The Canadian Press

St. Catharines Saints required almost 10 minutes of overtime to register a 6-5 victory against the Kingston Frontenac Army last night at St. Catharines in the only played match of the senior O.H.A. series, Toronto R. C. A. F. having defaulted their scheduled game at Hamilton because of the Air Force ruling against continued participation in Allan Cup hockey.

Twice during tthe encounter the issue was deadlocked, the score standing 1-1 at the close of the first period on scores by Red Reynolds of the Saints and Tisdale for Army. St. Catharines held a comfortable 5-3 lead going into the third but Doran and Foster quickly made it square at 5 to 5. Eventually necessitating the extra time with Blink Bellinger ramming home the shot for the winning goal. As a result, the Saints went into partnership with the Kingston squad for first place in the standing with 18 points apiece but the rivals face each other again tonight on Kingston ice — when anything can happen.

Eleven players accounted for the 11 scores last night, the sharpshooters for the winners being Reynolds, Goble, Mundrick, Backor, Mason and Bellinger. Scorers for Kingston were Tisdale, Grigg, White, Doran and Foster.

In the Junior O.H.A. fixture in series "A" at Port Colborne, Stratford Kroehlers came from behind in the third stanza to win 6-5 against the recreationists who clung to a one-goal margin with less than four minutes to go, only to see Rohfritsch equalize on a shot set up by McKelvey and Jackson, and Jackson win the struggle with a score just two minutes from the end.

Morrison was the leading goalgetter for Stratford with two while McKelvey, Schillizi, Rohfritsch and Jackson earned one each. For Port Colborne, Pitts bagged two and singles were registered by Wallace, Simpel and Savicky. It was the fourth win for Stratford in 12 starts. The game brought no change in the group standing.

Lineups:

Kingston: Goal, Mortimer; defence, Hamill, Galbraith; centre, Doran; wings, Peters, White; alternates, Booth, Grigg, Tisdale, Corrigan, Foster, Phillips.

St. Catharines: Goal, Sargent; defence, Backor, Fritz; centre, Goblee; wings, Mason, Concessi; alternates, Boston, Adamson, Reynolds, Mundrick, Bellinger.

Officials—F. W. Moore and Jack Boyd.

First Period

1—St. Catharines, Reynolds (Mundrick) 10:58
2—Kingston, Tisdale (Foster) 15:15
Penalties—Phillips, Tisdale.

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — (CP) — Dick Irvin couldn't believe it if he hadn't seen it with his own eyes. The Montreal Canadiens coach says his players actually are concerned about something other than their share of goals and assists. Canadiens, Dick told Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette, are willing to take time out from their goal-scoring to help Goalie Bill Durnan. "Against the Red Wings the other night, after we scored our first three goals, the fellows said, 'We've got enough goals to win now. Let's help Bill get a shut-out.' When Grosso scored for Detroit they were as sore as if they'd lost the game. I've never seen it happen like that before in all the time I've been in hockey."

Carroll adds this comment: "There was a little incident in that game which may explain the reason for Bill's popularity. He lost his stick and, while it was lying on the ice a Red Wing shot hit the goal post. Canadiens cleared the puck and Bill retrieved his stick. Then he patted the goal post affectionately and muttered, 'Good old goal post.'"

Identify the redhead:

He went from third trumpet in the Oxbow, Sask., Town Band to write sports in Winnipeg and Toronto, enlisted as an Army private, went overseas as sergeant, then was recruited by his newspaper as war correspondent. That's right. He's Ralph Allen of the Toronto Globe and Mail, home on furlough after a nifty job reporting Canadians in action in Italy.

This will jar you:

When the lowly New York Rangers obtained defenceman Bob Dill from Buffalo Bisons, the Montreal Herald headed the story: "Rangers Get Dill, Hoping to Get Out of Pickle."

Across Canada:

New sports columnist of the Halifax Herald is Larry Honnor, whose newspaper experience has taken him to many Canadian cities..... Sqdn. Ldr. James Harold Baird, who received a commendation in the New Year's honors list, is Jimmy Baird, former jockey who, with his brother Sammy, was a familiar figure on Western tracks before the war. Sammy is in the Royal Canadian Navy.....Gypster, King's Plate candidate of the Cosgrave Stable, is being trained at Florida's Hialeah Park.

Incidentally:

Spike Larabie the former Ottawa athlete who made quite a name in sports at Halifax after joining the Navy, is reported in serious condition in hospital in Newfoundland following an operation on his head. It is reported the operation was to correct an old hockey injury and that he will never play football or hockey again....E. O. Sliter, who died last week in Kingston, Ont., aged 80, was a former coach of Queen's University rugby teams, and is credited with being the first to use a second line of defence in the Canadian game.

Train On Skis

TORONTO, Jan. 8 (CP).—With the weatherman's co-operation, Toronto reserve army units will be ski-trained on practice slopes in High Park here and on more thrilling hill-trails of ski club properties north of the city. On week-end jaunts before spring it is expected more than 300 reservists will be trained on skis, snow shoes and toboggans.

Chicago Hawks Buy Karakas

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Jan. 7—(AP)—Goalie Mike Karakas of Providence Reds was sold Friday to Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League for cash, believed to be upwards of $10,000 and two players. The Hawks sent Goalie Vic Highton and Forward Gordon Buttry to the Reds and also gave them option on a third but undisclosed man.

Karakas broke into pro hockey with the Hawks in 1935-36 and won the Calder trophy as the outstanding rookie that season. He joins the Hawks in Detroit Sunday night. Mike was "farmed" to Providence mid-season in 1938-39 and sold to the Providence club the next year.

Worcester, Mass.— Leo Sawicki, 145½, Worcester, and Al Evans, 147, Newport, drew, 10; Jimmy Taylor, 147, Lowell, and Oscar Suggs, 145, Newport, drew 6.

Marion Timm Leads Outboard Team

Sparked by Marion Timm who had a high-three of 731 and Betty Castle who came through with a 694 total the Outboard Marine team piled up 3107 in taking three games from Corvettes in the Ladies' City Five-Pin League this week. Betty Castle had a high single of 369.

Westclox were bowling nicely too to take three straight from the Five V's with Marg. Hawthorne setting the pace with 623.

There were blind score winners P. Hawthorne with 495 and E. Wood with 487. The blind score was 491. The scores:

Decision Goes To Beau Jack

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — (AP).—Beau Jack had to go all-out down the stretch to take a 10-round decision from Lulu Costantino in Madison Square Gardens last night after absorbing a boxing lesson in the early going that at times made the lightweight champion look like an awkward amateur.

A 1-to-4 underdog in the betting against the one-time shoe-shine boy from Georgia, Costantino danced all around him in the early heats, scoring with slicing left jabs, and had the Jumping Jack missing punches by as much as three feet as he held an edge over the New York version of the 135-pound king for 7 of the 10 rounds.

Then, in the eight, Jack leaped in with a smashing hook that caught the local larruper with his guard half down and snapped his head back. From there to the end he took the play, although in the 10th Lulu met the Beau head on and fought him to the wire.

On The Associated Press score card Jack had five rounds to four for Costantino and one even.

The officials were split on the verdict, with Referee Eddie Josephs giving Costantino the fight, eight rounds to two. The judges, Bob Cunningham and Marty Monroe voted for Jack, five rounds to four, with one even.

Gallinger Goes To Join R.C.A.F.

By The Canadian Press.

The disparity of player strength which has split the National Hockey League race into four practically water-tight divisions leaves little room for speculation on anything except the battles now being waged for second and fourth place.

Montreal Canadiens are so far in front and New York Rangers are so far behind there is little prospect of immediate change in their fortunes, but there is no leeway in the other two divisions. Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins are deadlocked for second place with 28 points, while a similar impasse occurs in the struggle for fourth place, which finds Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings on even terms with 20 points.

Some progress in settling these two duels should be made in week-end competition, which calls for Boston to play at Toronto to-night and Chicago at Detroit on Sunday night. The other two games match top and bottom, Rangers playing at Montreal Saturday and at home against the Canadiens Sunday.

The Boston-Toronto game marks the farewell appearance of Don Gallinger, 18-year-old Port Colborne, Ont., centre now in his second season with Bruins. Gallinger one of the league's brightest young stars, has been ordered to report to the R.C.A.F. on Monday.

Dulmage Rink Loses In Finals

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — Mrs. W. E. Pepall's Granite rink won the Robertson Trophy, emblematic of the Ontario ladies' single rink curling championship, yesterday at the Granite Club by turning back Mrs. H. Dulmage's Peterborough quartette 15-4.

It was a close battle for six ends, but a five on the seventh end enabled the Granite rink to take a commanding lead, and they never looked back.

Joint Program Urged For Ladies' Groups

MILLBROOK, Jan. 8 (ENS) — Mrs. H. Ross Edmunds was hostess for the initial meeting of the new year of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church, held at her home this week, with the vice-president, also a hostess, taking charge in the absence of the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley.

The worship theme was "Facing the New Year." Mr. Franklin Bannister reading Psalm 91, and the verse chosen for the ensuing twelve months being Psalm 90:1. The antidote to fear, namely trust in the Living God, was stressed in the talk, hymns and prayers.

A letter from Mrs. Fred Horton, Peterborough, urging action on the idea of a joint program for the W.M.S. and W.A. organizations of the Presbytery, in order that prompt reports could be sent to the committee in Toronto, was read, and left for definite decision to the executives of the two local societies.

A donation of $20 for the work of the society from A. Coons, of Toronto, was acknowledged, and the treasurer reported further money had come in since the December meeting, making the total for 1943, $510.46; with a balance on hand of $238.58. It was decided to fix the date for the annual bazaar as the third Saturday in November, the custom being to arrange this at the January gathering.

The annual fall rally was announced for January 25 in Peterborough, and if it meets with the approval of the minister, the pot luck supper, postponed from December, will be held on the same date as the annual congregational meeting, near the end of this month. The February meeting will be at Mrs J. McKnight's home and afternoon tea will be served, as a means of adding to the funds. Mrs. F. J. Smith read: "New Year's Resolutions," and Mrs. Sisco closed with prayer.

Real Estate Men May Oppose Plan

HAMILTON, Jan. 8 (CP)— C. E. Purnell, president of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards, announced today the association will resist any attempt to freeze house leases throughout Canada for the purpose of allaying local conditions.

It is thought such an attempt might be made if Montreal tenants carry out a threatened march on Ottawa to demand freezing of all residential leases. The Montreal Tenants Association proposed the march last Wednesday in protest of a Prices Board order which froze leases in multiple dwellings but made provision for certain exceptions.

Mr. Purnell said the association lays blame for much of the present housing dissatisfaction on the "short-sighted policy" of the rentals administration.

Mission Circle Meets At Mrs. Young's Home

GILMOUR, Jan. 8 (ENS).—The first meeting of the new year of the Gilmour Senior Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. James Young with a splendid attendance.

The president, Mrs. Telford, was in charge for the opening and then it was turned over to Mrs. Roland Scott, who took the devotional period. The topic was the different mission fields, Anglican: Mrs. Howard Clarke; United, Mrs. Harry Blewett; Home, Mrs. Max Archer.

Women of the senior circle served lunch.

Organize 2nd Army

ALGIERS, Jan. 8 (AP). — The French National Committee yesterday formally voted for th formation of a second expeditionary force to participate in the Allied invasion of Europe from the west or south. The commander was not announced.

The committee also decreed mobilization of youths of 18 and 19 beginning Feb. 15.

VETERAN SAGUENAY A TRAINING SHIP—Battered veteran of the convoy lanes, H.M.C.S. Saguenay is now serving as a training ship. She survived a German torpedo that wrecked her bows, a collision which detonated her depth charges and blew off her stern and rode out a week-long hurricane, the worst the Atlantic had seen in decades. The shattered remains of her stern only a foot or two out of the water, Saguenay was towed home after a collision with a freighter on a dark, foggy night off the coast of Newfoundland. Already patched many times, she has been converted to a training ship.

Old Saguenay Now Serves As Navy Training Ship

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP).—Battered veteran of some of the most exciting incidents of naval warfare, the old destroyer Saguenay rides at anchor in an East Coast Canadian port and serves as a training ship for new recruits to the Royal Canadian Navy.

Once often in the news, the Saguenay dropped from sight after her last bit of tough luck about a year ago and naval service headquarters revealed to-day her present status and details of her war-time career.

The Saguenay, although one of Canada's oldest fighting ships, is not old in years but only in service and hard knocks. Her steaming days are over, but as youngsters in the navy tread hed decks and learn the ways of the sea they occasionally encounter old-timers who know her story and say, "she always a lady and always will be"—high praise from a sailor for any ship.

Here are some of the highlights of the Saguenay's career:

1936—Sailed to Boulogne with the Vimy pilgrimage.

1937—Sailed to Britain for the Coronation of King George VI.

1939—With Skeena, met the King's ship when he and Queen Elizabeth visited Canada and later escorted Skeena when that destroyer carried Their Majesties to Prince Edward Island.

1939— Sailed with the first wartime convoy to cross the Atlantic and later joined the Caribbean Sea patrol.

1939— Shifted to North Atlantic patrol.

Picked Up Survivors.

1940—Picked up 31 survivors of a torpedoed Norwegian merchant ship.

1940—(November)—Hit by a torpedo which wrecked bows and started a fire, reached Britain badly limping after feats of seamanship which won the O.B.E. for her commander, Capt. G. R. Miles of Rothesay, N.B.

1941—(May)—Back on duty and helped hunt down German battleship Bismarck, serving as screen for British battleships which brought Bismarck to bay and led to its sinking.

1941—(June)— Served in escort for battleship Prince of Wales when it carried Prime Minister Winston Churchill home from the Atlantic conference with President Roosevelt.

1942—(December) —After repairs and seven months more of convoy duty, had stern sliced off in collision with a merchant ship. Collision set off depth charges on Saguenay's deck and explosion sank the merchant ship but Saguenay survived and reached port for the second time with a gaping hole.

Canadian - American Unit Puts Fear Into Germans

WITH THE 5th ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 8—(AP)—High in the snow-covered peaks of the Apennines the Germans have learned to respect and fear one of the most unusual fighting units assembled in this war.

It is a specially trained force of Canadians and Americans welded into the North American continent's first "international army" which was brought to Italy to aid in the Allied drive against Nazi defences along the road to Rome.

Recently the enemy has learned to know the members of this unit well for their endurance, daring and courage in storming mountains which some thought were impossible to capture.

So far as these troops are concerned, international boundaries have been obliterated. It makes no difference whether a man is from Ottawa or Washington, Toronto or Toledo, Montreal or Mobile—they work, play and fight together as one team.

That was the idea behind the organization of this special unit.

"It is one for all and all for one in this outfit," said Maj. Tom Cassidy of St. Louis, Mo., a former University of Kentucky football star.

"As long as a man is a good officer or soldier we don't care whether he is a Canadian or American," he added. "We have American troops under Canadian officers and Canadian troops under American officers."

A patrol from a unit led by Capt. Stewart L. Dymond, a Canadian living in Helena, Mont., encountered a group of Germans on a rocky mountain ledge. The Germans had the advantage because they were on the upper slope. Somehow a lone soldier became separated from his comrades and was only a few yards from the enemy who called to him in English, Polish, German and Italian, ordering him to surrender.

Shouting defiantly the youth hurled a hand grenade and killed six of the seven troops. But the seventh German opened fire with a machine pistol and wounded the American in the back as he crouched in a rocky niche.

Sgt. Lindsay of Renfrew, Ont., saw his comrade's prediction.

"I'm going after him," Scharfe said.

And although he was in the line of fire, Scharfe crawled out and dragged his American friend to safety, enabling the first aid men to get him quickly to the doctors who said the wounded man had a good chance to live.

SunderlandCrew Adrift 3 Days

WITH THE R.C.A.F. OVERSEAS, Jan. 8 — (CP). — The R.C.A.F. revealed today the rescue of the entire 12-man crew of an R.C.A.F. Sunderland flying boat of the Coastal Command after they had spent 3½ days in rubber dinghies, tossed around on rough seas with barely enough rations to keep them alive.

The men had taken to the dinghies after their aircraft crashed into the Bay of Biscay during an anti-submarine patrol.

The R.C.A.F. said major factor contributing to their rescue was 12 "Mae Wests" which the crew tied together and trailed in a long line astern of their two dinghies to increase their chances of being sighted from the air. A United States Liberator spotted them and called an R.A.F. Sunderland to the rescue.

Before landing on the rough ocean, the rescue plane jettisoned its depth charges and dropped an emergency kit. Sharks, stirred by the depth-charge explosions, kept circling the dinghies and even followed Flt. Lt. J. A. de Le Paulle of Washington, D.C., skipper of the wrecked flying boat, when he swam out to get the ration kit.

Another American in the crew was the second pilot, while five Canadians and five Englishmen completed the line-up.

The Canadian survivors, all uninjured, were Flt. Sgt. D. J. Wells, Raymond, Alta., third pilot; FO. Alexander Bolton, Ardill, Sask., first navigator; WO2 A. W. T. Joyce of Hamilton, second navigator; R. D. Hiscox of Hamilton, the wireless operator-air gunner.

Betty Post, President Of Daisy Mission Band

HAVELOCK, Jan. 8 — (ENS)— At the annual meeting of the Daisy Mission Band of the United church, Betty Post was elected president for the ensuing year.

The leader, Mrs. J. W. Wilknson, presided over the election and other officers are: Secretary, Helen Anderson; treasurer, Eleanor Forsythe; World Friends secretary, Joan Page.

The prayer of dedication was offered by Mrs. John Kinnaird. In the 1943 report, it was shown that 13 meetings had been held during the year, with an average attendance of 12 members. The year's allocation of $44 had been met and forwarded to the Presbyterial.

2 Million Rosaries

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP). — Two million rosaries have been sent to Catholics in the United States armed forces throughout the world by the National Catholic Community Service. The 2,000,000th was blessed yesterday by Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States.

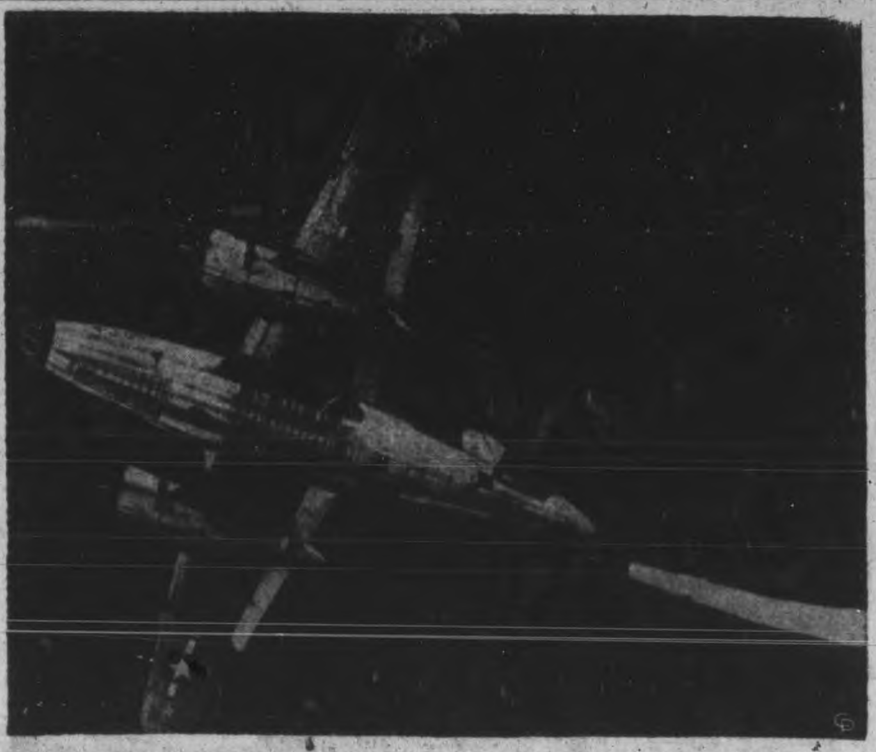
Incendiary Club

Chelsea, Mass., Jan. 8 (AP)

YOUTHFUL applicants have to start at least two fires to become members of a neighborhood "boys club" in this city.

The incendiary membership rules were discovered by police and fire department officials after arrest of a 14-year-old boy accused of setting his own house on fire in order to get into the "club."

Fire officials attributed the desire to join the "boys club" as the underlying cause of at least 12 incendiary blazes which occurred within two square blocks since Dec. 18. The property loss was estimated at $10,000.



BOMBER TOWS TARGETS—The famed twin-motored bomber known to the U.S. army as the B-26 and to the U.S. navy as the JM-1, has been found to be useful in ways other than bombing. At the Norfolk naval operating base in Virginia the bomber has been pressed into service to tow aerial targets like the one being reeled out in this photo.

WILL PAY VISIT.

Rev. R. H. Black, formerly parish priest at Wooler, has arrived in Vancouver from Kiska, where he was with the Canadian forces during the last year. He is expected in Peterborough next week on leave. Father Black is a brother of Mother Josepha of Mount St. Joseph, Monaghan Road.

THREE SPEAKERS.

Three members of the Peterborough Lions' Club will give short talks on post-war problems at the meeting to be held Monday. The speakers are Walter Smook, Bruce Sargent and P. D. Scollard. This continues the discussions started by the Lions some months ago, with a view to arriving at decisions and resolutions to be sent to the parent organization.

FENDER DAMAGED

A car and a truck were in collision at Park and Chamberlain streets Friday night and the lighter vehicle received some damage, B. Brooks was driving a truck owned by Herb Payne south on Park street and was making a turn to go west on Chamberlain street as a car owned and driven by Clifford Galvin, Lakefield, travelling east on Chamberlain street arrived at the intersection. The two vehicles came into contact and the right rear fender of Galvin's car was damaged.

HOME DESTROYED.

Hum Hoy, manager of the Paris Cafe, received word from his wife and family in China on Friday that fire had destroyed their home and entire season's crop of rice.

AN EXPLANATION.

The Albert Wright who was charged in police court the other morning with being drunk was not Albert Wright of 536 Waterford Street.

REPORT QUIET NIGHT

The police department report an unusually quiet night. There was not a telephoned complaint of any kind during the whole night and the only phone calls were the usual duty calls—a far from normal condition around the station during the nocturnal hours.

Pte. Edwin Miles Stoney Lake Hurt In Italy

Pte. Edwin Miles of the Princess Pat Regiment has been wounded in action in Italy, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Miles, R.R. No. 2, Lakefield. A telegram received on Tuesday notified the family that their oldest son had been wounded Dec. 14.

Overseas now for a year, Pte. Miles enlisted in February of 1942, was stationed at the local training centre for some months, following which he joined the Royal Rifles in British Columbia. It was after his arrival overseas that he transferred to the Princess Pats, the regiment he was with at the time he received his injuries. He is 28 years old.

Pte. Miles has two younger brothers, both of whom are serving in the Canadian Active Army. Pte. Clifford Miles, 23, is stationed at Camp Borden now, having previously been in British Columbia, and he has been in uniform for more than a year, while Pte. Raymond Miles, 21, has been overseas for a year, arriving in England about the same time as his oldest brother. Though he has been in the Mediterranean area, he has not as yet seen actual combat and is at present stationed in England.

Edwin was at home prior to his enlistment, while Clifford worked on a farm near Omemee, and Raymond was employed in Peterborough by Fanning's Laundry and later worked for the city.

Lawrence Charlton of Lakefield is a brother-in-law of the Miles brothers, and he too is serving in the Army, being attached to the South Saskatchewan Regiment in England. He enlisted in March, 1943.

3 Candidates Up For Warden

The inaugural of the county council will be on Tuesday, January 18 beginning the first sessions with the election of a Warden and proceeding to the general business of organizing for the year.

Reeves M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith and Isaac Anderson of Belmont-Methuen are mentioned as candidates for the position of presiding officer.

All the local municipal officials including those of the city are looking with favor on the progress of a winter that has imposed upon them hardly a dollar of snow removal expense.

A year ago the snow shovelling job was running away with public funds, and township, county and city officials were lamenting the expenditure "of good money" on a mere convenience that would leave no permanent value.

Lieut. Robert Ingram Arrives In Britain

LIEUT. R. INGRAM

Lieutenant Robert H. Ingram has arrived overseas with a convoy which left an eastern port on Christmas Day and reached Britain on January 6. A cablegram to his wife announced his safe arrival. It is understood that Lieutenant Lloyd Grose was also with this contingent.

Lieut. Ingram, a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Ingram, was for a time with the Prince of Wales Rangers under Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., in the Pacific command.

Sgnm. M. Fitzgerald Awarded B.E.M. For Fighting Tanker Fire

SGMN. M. J. FITZGERALD

A former Peterborough boy, Sgmn. Michael J. Fitzgerald of the R.C.N. V.R., has been awarded the British Empire Medal for his part in helping to extinguish a fire on a United States gasoline tanker which had been in a collision.

Sgmn. Fitzgerald, whose home is now in Toronto, was born at 265 Carlisle avenue in this city, and his father, James Fitzgerald, came from Otonabee township.

The citation, made public by Naval Service Headquarters, was one of 40 operational awards to personnel of the Royal Canadain Navy in the New Year's honors list.

Sgmn. Fitzgerald was one of a volunteer boarding party from the Canadian corvette Cobalt that fought the fires aboard the tanker for more than two hours with hand extinguishers when the ship was in danger of blowing up at any moment. Head of the small expedition that faced the intense heat of the flames and the continual hazard of their hard heroic job was Mate A. W. Bett of Toronto, who is well known to farmers of this district as an inspector of dairy herds. Mate Bett received the coveted George Medal.

Bett, Fitzgerald and one other lad who also received the British Empire Medal, were the first personnel from the corvette to board the stricken gasoline tanker, which had collided with another ship in a fog and instantly caught fire due to the nature of its cargo. Later they were reinforced, but for over two hours they battled the flames, turning extinguishers on the blazing gasoline in the pipe lines and on top of the tanks.

Sgmn. Fitzgerald, who is 24, had this comment to make when questioned about the heroic incident which won him a service medal: "It was quite a bit of fun."

Mrs. John Burke, Downer's Corners is an aunt.

Cpl. M. Johnston Suffers Wounds

CPL. MURRAY JOHNSTON

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 8 (ENS) —Another Campbellford boy, Cpl. Murray Johnston, 21, has been wounded in Italy, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Matthew Johnston, who has four other sons on active service.

Enlisting with the Irish Regiment of Toronto in February, 1942, he went overseas in July of the same year, and some time ago transferred to the Saskatoon Light Infantry. The War Department announced that he had been wounded December 16.

The four brothers in the forces are L-Cpl. Donald and Pte. Lindsay Johnston, overseas, and Sgt. Earl stationed at North Bay and LAC. Morton Johnston stationed at Jarvis. Two other brothers are at home. Prior to joining up, Cpl. Johnston worked at the Campbellford Cloth Company.

W. J. Arthur Fair Chosen President

At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Law Association W. J. Arthur Fair was elected president. The other officers chosen were W. R. Philp, vice-president; W. C. Grant, secretary, and P. D. Scollard, treasurer. The honorary presidents are His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke and His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. The old trustees were re-elected.

Obituary

GEORGE DECK.

The death of George Deck, farmer of Belmont township, who has been resident of the district his entire life, occurred early this morning at the home of his brother, William Deck, 254 Munroe Avenue. Ailing for two weeks, Mr. Deck passed away in his 81st year.

He was born in Belmont township, the son of the late Robert James Deck and Margaret Elliott, and lived with his parents on the farm until their deaths. He was a member of Park Street Baptist Church.

Never married, he is survived by four brothers: Thomas, William and Albert, all of Peterborough, while Frank Deck has made his home in Montana.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte Street, with service conducted by the Rev. E. J. Whan. Interment will be made in Norwood Cemetery.

LEONARD THOMAS FAUX

OSHAWA, Jan. 8—Well known to a large section of the people of Oshawa and district as the manager of the United Cigar store, on Simcoe street south, for the past 17 years, Leonard Thomas Faux passed away in the Oshawa General Hospital. He had been confined to hospital since December 11.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Faux, he was born at Peterborough on May 29, 1888. Prior to coming to Oshawa 18 years ago he lived in St. Catharines for six years and during the last war served overseas with the Royal Canadian Artillery for three years. At the time of his death he was employed in the aircraft department at General Motors.

He is survived by his wife, the former Etheleen Blott, to whom he was married at St. Catharines on October 14, 1919. Two sisters, Mrs. Annie Fee of Peterborough and Mrs. Margaret Madill of Uxbridge and one brother, William of Three Hills, Alberta, also survive. Two sisters predeceased him, Mrs. James McBain and Mrs. David Forsyth of Peterborough.

The funeral was held from the Armstrong Funeral Home, King street east at 2 p.m. today followed by interment in Mount Lawn Cemetery. Rev. D. M. Rose conducted the services.

Invite Citizens To Attend Council Opening

Mayor Hamilton has issued an invitation to citizens to attend the induction meeting of the new council Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The form of the inaugural will follow the precedent of recent years. Bishop J. R. MacDonald has been requested to offer an invocation for divine guidance, and will probably have a personal greeting to offer to the Council of 1944.

Mayor Hamilton has been working between times this week on his address, and after these preliminaries the council will adjourn into committee to appoint its active committees for the year with their chairmen.

It is understood that Alderman Bradburn will be unable to attend the opening meeings. He is recovering from an attack of pneumonia which was checked promptly after his relapse of a severe cold which was aggravated by too early outcoming to attend the last meeting of the council in December.

Civic Bodies To Discuss Annexation Plan

Annexation discussions will be resumed at the Court House Friday, January 14, at 2 p.m. Notices of this meeting have been sent to the city, county and North Monaghan councils and to the Board of Education of the city and township and also to the Separate School Board.

Several men who have been actively interested in the negotiations so far have recently expressed to an Examiner reporter a hope that the municipal representatives will be able to make some substantial advancement toward agreement at the meeting which was virtually ordered by the Ontario Municipal Board.

So far details of negotiation have been lightly skimmed as if all such matters were to be taken for granted in the city's attitude of offering no inducements whatever to the Monaghan neighbors except that they will become members of the big family and on equal terms even if they have come in late. When they have been taken into the fold their needs will be considered not on any preferred basis but simply in their turn with the other parts of the community.

Agreement with the township council's opinion that the new western boundary should be the line of their recommendation has been growing among city men who attended the Municipal Board's meeting. Recognition of the likelihood that no further steps toward annexation will be taken within the next generation or even beyond that is suggesting that the municipalities might as well lay out ample boundaries in the direction of the city's growth, depending on the willingness of the residents of such area to be embraced by extended city limits.

Two-Headed Calf Lives

HOLLEY, N.Y., Jan. 8 (AP).—A two-headed Holstein calf, born New Year's Day, is still alive and well at the James K. Hurd farm. The animal weighed 80 pounds at birth.

BOOKS
For Men and Women in the SERVICES

Wherever men and women of the three services are fighting, training, on guard, hospitalized or imprisoned, there you will find the world's best books sent by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. The Peterborough branches of the Daughters of the Empire will be canvassing the homes in this City from January 10 to the 22nd, to secure funds and good books with which to supply those who are in the services with needed reading material.

One of the young ladies of the I.O.D.E. will call at your home for your subscription and at the same time will tell you where books and money that you may have to send to the Services, may be sent.

Your earnest consideration of this appeal is solicited.

Young Folk Patronize Card And Dance Party

SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 8 (ENS).—The Springville young people held a party in the Co-Op Hall with cards and dancing. Leahy's orchestra played.

Patrons and patronesses for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Preston and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowles.

There were several door and novelty dance prizes and winners were as follows: Spot dance, Viola Neals and Gordon Darling; holders of lucky numbers, Madeline Sullivan and Jack Whitfield; novelty dance, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Fairbairn; leap year dance, Mayme Cathcart and Bruce Clarke; married couples dance, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Murray.

The conveners for the party were Misses Janet McIntosh, Dorothy and Mayme Cathcart and Mr. Gordon Morrison.

Young People's Union Holds Winter Party

HAVELOCK, Jan. 8 (ENS). — A social evening opened the midwinter season of the Young People's League of the United church.

The program was in charge of Miss Thelma Graham and opened with a vocal duet by Ruth and Stella Wilkinson, "Sweet and Low"; a reading, "Which Was the Rescuer," by Margaret Anderson; a musical quiz contest on terms of music, was won by Robert Watson's team. An invitation was accepted from the Trent River League to attend a skating party at Norwood rink next Saturday night, and the next meeting will be held at Miss Margaret Anderson's.

Parents Charged For Child Neglect

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — AP). — Accused of leaving their two babies in a heatless tenement while they went to a movie, Mr. and Mrs F. Jiro were arrested Thursday on a charge of endangering the lives of the children.

Jiro, 25, and his wife, Julia, 23, had been taken before Children's Court Justice Herbert O'Brien, who placed the two children, Frances, 2, and Frank, one year old, in the care of the New York Foundling Hospital.

Would Retain Islands

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 — (AP).—Senator Albert B. Chandler (Dem., Ky.) says the United States should retain all mandated Pacific islands after the war.

"We are taking those islands now at the cost of many American lives," he told the Democratic luncheon club yesterday, "and it would be absolute cruelty to give them up after the war only to be forced to retake them with further loss of lives at another date."

Weekly Paper In 50th Year

MARMORA, Jan. 8 — (ENS). — The Marmora Herald begins the 50th year of its existence as a weekly newspaper this month and the present editor, H. W. Sabine, has been in charge since 1906.

The printing office used to be in the J. W. Pearce block on Main Street, which was destroyed by fire in 1905. For over 35 years the business has been carried on in the building which now houses the printing plant and which was erected for that purpose.

Passing through the varying fortunes which face the average weekly newspaper of a small community it is today one of the best equipped of the small weekly offices.

Russian Christmas

Moscow, Jan. 8 (AP)

CANDLE-LIT Christmas trees sparkled in Russian homes today and church worshippers turned out in greater numbers than any time since 1917 as Russians celebrated their Orothdox Christmas 15 days after its observance in the western world.

Except for the special church services, however, the Soviets put in a war-time working day as usual, with no provision being made for a civil holiday, and the munitions factories turned out their usual quotas.

Job Of Rehabilitation Will Be One Every Canadian Must Share

By GRAHAM WHITING.

What fate lies in store for the discharged serviceman returning to civilian life when the war is over? If he has been disabled or has other problems to face, what will his country do to help him? Will he fare better than the veterans of a generation back?

There are questions which are being asked all over Canada by the servicemen themselves. They are being asked abroad—in the army camps, at air stations, on ships Behind the front lines.

What can Canada do? What are all the promises worth? The answer is found in an investigation of the aims of private citizens who are banding together in communities all across Canada intent on seeing what provisions of the law in respect to ex-servicemen are carried out fairly and that none of the personal tragedy which ensued as a sequel to the last war should occur again.

Hundreds of these groups— citizens' rehabilitation committees — are now being established over the Dominion of Canada, and their avowed objective is full and immediate aid to servicemen and women returning to civilian life. They will give practical effect to legislation enacted by the Federal Government by adopting a direct and personal approach to the problems of each soldier returning to their respective communities; they will see to it that every ex-serviceman, be his problem what it may, will receive the fullest help and the soundest, most sympathetic advice that his fellow townsmen can give him.

Peterborough Committee.

Already such a committee exists in Peterborough and it has handled successfully the cases of two or three servicemen who found themselves confronted by general indifference on the public's part or by the perennial problem of the law's delay. Headed by D. G. H. Melton, it was formed here last summer and is now adding to its number. This local committee's intention, like that of groups in other cities, is to open an office where a secretary will devote his time to the work of advising and helping servicemen; and it will enlist the support of local industries and service clubs in the difficult job that lies ahead.

"These committees," Mr Melton explained to the Examiner, "are formed by representatives of the Department of Pensions and National Health, and to date about 110 have been organized across the Dominion. A Veterans' Welfare Officer of the Department— in the case of Peterborough it is Bass Dawson of Toronto — contacts the Mayor and arouses the interest of representative citizens. Thereupon, a committee is formed, the purpose of which is to have a central point in the community where discharged personnel may come with their problems. Committees function under the authority of the Department and its heads, Ian Mackenzie, Minister, and Walter Woods, Deputy Minister."

Study All Phases

The aims of the Citizens Committees were set forth in a draft of their objectives at a meeting of delegates chosen to represent key spots across Canada held in Ottawa not so long ago. Here it was agreed, as Mr. Melton, himself a delegate at the conference, revealed, that committees would strive to acquaint members with all phases of the rehabilitation program; that they would assume responsibility for the program's being adequate and fitted to the particular needs of their own communities; that they would promote employment preference and wide interest in training plans, and unearth possible opportunities for handicapped persons. In a general way they would supplement the work of the Department of Pensions in handling the legal and personal difficulties of returned men, interesting themselves in adjusting the men and women who come back to the social and recreational life of their community.

Members of these committees believe and say, as did Mr. Melton, that the job of rehabilitation is not one for the Government alone but one in which the people as a whole must share. They advocate the type of personal service which no government can render, and their studies of the problems have led them to the conviction that "a co-ordinated plan combining Government facilities with voluntary assistance can achieve the successful rehabilitation of practically all those disabled in their country's service on a basis whereby they suffer little or no economic handicap because of their sacrifice."

Co-operating with the Government these committees will work to bring about the fullest realization possible of the announced aims for successful resettlement of discharged personnel during and after the war. With the program they have to work with—and Canada has been commended for achieving the greatest progress of the English-speaking nations in putting into law its plans for rehabilitation of men discharged from the armed services—and with the zeal and sense of responsibility they themselves feel spread out over a wide segment of the general public, there is no room for doubt that Canada and its people will fulfil their obligations to their fighting men. This will not be like the other war, when 88 per cent of war veterans were left to shift for themselves. The young men of this fight, who are quick to discern what is real and what is phoney, need not fear for their future at home. Citizens Committees, vitally interested in their welfare, are going to see to that.

8,802 Planes Made In Month

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP) — Aircraft left the assembly lines at a rate of 339 for each working day in December in the United States, the Aircraft Production Board reports in announcing that 1943 production nearly doubled the output of 1942.

Last month 8,802 planes were produced, 13 more than in November.

December output brought the year's total to 85,946 military planes of all types, compared with 1942 production of 47,873.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the United States War Production Board is preparing to revise drastically its order which not only barred iron and steel in a long list of goods, but also any substitute metals except gold and silver.

Among those which fell under the original ban were items such as coathangers, bathtubs, compacts, flashlight tubes, ice cream freezers, laundry trays, lipstick holders, house numbers, parking meters, automatic pencils, match boxes, mop wringers, pie plates and shower stalls.

Norland Airman Bags Jap New Year's Eve

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP). — Two Canadian airmen—FO. V. G. B. Buttler of Edmonton and Flt. Lt. H. Lecraw of Norland, Ont.—destroyed one Japanese bomber, probably destroyed another and damaged two more on New Year's eve while operating with a far east fighter squadron south of Chittagong in Bengal.

This announcement was made in the R.C.A.F.'s official summary of operations during the last week.

Buttler and Lecraw are in an all-empire squadron attached to Air Marshal Sir John Baldwin's far east tactical air force. Their successes were part of the full squadron's New Year's Eve score of 13 Japanese aircraft destroyed and nearly as many probably destroyed.

This was "the most outstanding success of any fighter squadron on that front," the R.C.A.F. said.

FO. Buttler "destroyed one bomber, probably destroyed another and damaged a third," said the weekly summary. Lecraw "damaged a bomber although enemy fighters were on his tail."

This reference to Far East operations was the first time the Air Force summary has included references to Canadian activities there.

The rest of the summary dealt with operations over Europe and on overseas coastal patrol.

Two big raids on Berlin and one on Stettin, important supply base for the Russian front, formed the major activities for bomber squadrons based on Britain.

26 Cadets Killed As Train Hits Bus

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 8 —(AP). —Twenty-six Aviation Cadets were killed last night when a Santa Fe Railroad freight train collided with a bus carrying 36 airmen stationed at the Kingman Army Gunnery School here.

Two of the 10 victims were not expected to survive, Air Base Public Relations Office reported.

Preliminary information indicated the bus, which was returning the Cadets from a night training mission on a gunnery range near the base, did not stop at the crossing.

Over in Detroit this week Ray Best's quartette did not win the bonspiel but they made Justice Kelly's rink go all out before calling it a day. The score was 9-8 in favor of Justice Kelly and that is as close as they came.

It is many a long year since any Peterborough curler has played in Detroit and our boys are to be congratulated all round.

The rink was composed of Ray Best, M. Cruthers, S. Lowe and A. Gibbs.

PRODUCTION DOUBLED

British vegetable production was nearly doubled in the first years of war. In comparison to the 1938 crop of 2,500,000 tons, the 1941 crop reached nearly 4,000,000 tons.

36 People Make First Donations To Send Blood To Wounded

Since Peterborough has begun to receive more casualty lists a great deal of interest has been evidenced in the Blood Donors Clinic and a number of people have been phoning in for information. At the Clinic Wednesday out of the 98 donors, 36 were there for the first time; eleven people gave their sixth donations and G. R. Penhall made his eighth. The same trend was shown a week ago when there were 24 new donors on one day.

Women's Institute Plans For Banquet

WARSAW, Jan. 8 — (ENS). — A special meeting of the Women's Institute was held this week at the home of Mrs. H. G. Digweed, to make plans for the banquet to be held at a future date. The social evening arrangements were left with the committee.

The treasurer reported all bills paid and a balance of $10.00 was on hand. Current events were given by Mrs. Digweed and a reading "Let Us Take Time" was given by Mrs. Charlotte Cooper.

The regular meeting will be in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, January 13, in the form of a demonstration lecture on nutrition. A representative from the Department of Agriculture will speak. This is an open meeting for the public.

Mrs. Digweed served dainty refreshments at the close of meeting and Mrs. Arthur Payne made the vote of thanks.

Personals

Mrs. Archie Crowe and Joyce have returned home after spending some time with her mother in Norwood who has been seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Payne, Barbara and Irwin were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hannon, Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Elliott and Brenda are with Mrs. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Payne. Mrs. Elliott will spend some time here as Mr. Elliott is joing the R. C.A.F.

LAW. Lois Clysdale, Trenton, was a week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Clysdale.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan were guests Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Crowe.

Children Taken

WINDSOR, Jan. 8 (CP).— Death of three-year-old Reginald Burleigh here last week was attributed, by a coroner's jury last night, to some form of violence not brought out in evidence submitted. The jury recommended Mrs. Herbert R Burleigh, mother of the child, be relieved of the care and welfare of her remaining six children and that they be entrusted to the Children's Aid Society. Investigation into the child's death followed discovery of body bruises at a Windsor funeral home.

7700 Heavy Guns Along Coast

LONDON, Jan. 8 — (CP). —The Berlin radio, continuing its pep talks on Nazi preparations to beat off the expected Allied invasion, said today that the Atlantic rampart from the Pyrenees Mountains to Narvik in northern Norway bristled with "7,700 heavy guns."

These heavy emplacements, the broadcast went on, are in addition to more than 3,000 heavy anti-tank guns and "millions of land mines" strewn along the coast southward from the North Sea.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was directing many German divisions in anti-invasion manoeuvres along the French coast.

He said also the Nazi general was testing long-range heavy coastal batteries which fire explosive shells "having a devastating effect on airplanes flying in close formation."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DON'T BE TOO TRUSTFUL

READING cards is fine, but a method of declarer play which depends for success on treating a defender's lead or play as being strictly conventional is certainly not to be preferred over one which bids fair to work regardless of what the opponents may do. Slick opponents have a way of refusing to help you make your contracts, and it is even suspected that some of them really try to defeat you.

North: ♠ A 10 6 2 ♥ A Q J 8 4 2 ♦ 5 3 ♣ K

West: ♠ 3 ♥ 10 9 7 6 5 ♦ Q 10 9 7 2 ♣ Q 5

East: ♠ J 9 4 ♥ 3 ♦ A K J 8 6 4 ♣ A 7 3

South: ♠ K Q 8 7 5 ♥ K ♦ None ♣ J 10 9 8 6 4 2

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	2 ♦
2 ♠	3 ♦	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♦	Dbl	6 ♠

At one duplicate table, where bidding was like that, West made the perfunctory lead of the diamond 7. South ruffed, then decided to set up clubs. The A won the K, and the diamond K forced South to ruff again. But he didn't care. The club 4 and Q were ruffed by the spade 2. Then came the spade K, Q and A, followed by set up cards.

South went wrong at the other table after West made the tricky lead of the heart 9. Reading that as probably top of a doubleton or trebleton, which he should not have done when West was leading right into the dummy's opening bid suit, he reckoned he could discard five clubs on hearts, ruff one club and thus make his contract.

So, after winning the lead with the heart K, he scored the spade K, Q and A, then began to run the dummy's hearts. But East's discard on that second heart showed he was doomed. He scored also the heart Q and J, ruffed the heart 4 to set up the 8, led a club to the K and A, ruffed the returned diamond K with his own last trump, then ruffed one club in dummy and scored the heart 8, but had to give up the final trick to the diamond A, being down one after very unsound play.

South's right method, after the heart lead, was according to the same general plan as the declarer used at the other table, but he didn't see it that way until after the damage had been done.

Your Week-End Lesson

Outside of unblocking plays, to enable your partner to have the ranking card of a suit instead of yourself, can you think of any other reason why a defender against a suit contract should discard the ace and king of a suit while his partner is taking tricks in another side one?

Canadian Bags 2 Fighters In 15 Seconds

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP). — Royal Canadian Air Force crest bears the Latin inscription "through adversity to the stars." No better words could be found to describe Canada's front-line boys who make up the City of Windsor Spitfire Squadron in Italy.

From a humble beginning where lack of action struck at morale, the squadron formed part of the Desert Air Force that swept through Africa, Sicily and southern Italy in support of the Glorious Eighth Army. Today there's no "hotter" outfit in the Mediterranean war theatre.

A celebration was in the making as two other Canadian war correspondents and myself, on a tour of the battle areas, plowed through thick mud past canvas living quarters to the officers' mess tent on a plain near Foggia. There was excited talk from within—and with reason.

Less than an hour previously, on the squadron airfield a couple of miles distant, a four-plane patrol taxied to a halt, parachute-laden figures clambered laboriously from the cockpits and shouted in repetition "Bert got two." The cry spread like wildfire around the tents and dispersal bays.

Sqdn. Ldr. Bert Houle, holder of the D.F.C. from Massey, Ont., lighted a cigaret as he emerged from his fighter. He had just destroyed two ME109s within 15 seconds and, quite frankly, he didn't believe it.

The action was so fast that Bert, newly-appointed to command the squadron, figured he was shooting at the same plane all the time. But everyone else on the patrol, as well as British military observers on the ground, saw his blazing guns destroy two and raise the squadron score to four destroyed and a probable within three days.

Rehashed Gain

Now the fighters were gathered around a glowing fire in an improvised brazier that once had been a gasoline tin and listening intently to accounts of the fight. A radio blared in one corner and bespectacled, tousle-haired pilot officer, Pen Power, squadron adjutant and son of Canada's air minister, acted as bartender. The "bar" was a keg of Italian wine atop a rickety table.

An electrical engineer in a mine before the war, Bert raised his total to seven destroyed, one probably destroyed, and five damaged. He received the D.F.C. for shooting down two Stukas in one day at El Alamein just prior to the big Allied drive that drove the Germans out of Africa.

Bert's latest feat came three days after the squadron destroyed two fighters in a dog-fight over the Sangro.

It was only recently the squadron saw much action—and even now it's a problem to engage German pilots because they turn tail at the sight of Spitfires. Formed in England two years ago last November, the unit soon transferred to the Middle East where it first engaged in aircraft delivery, patrol and coastal defence. That 'browned off" the personnel.

Jolliffe Hints Action Coming

TORONTO, Jan. 8. — (CP). — Thirty-four C.C.F. members of the Ontario Legislature opened a two-day pre-session caucus Friday and E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader, said that conclusions reached by the recent Regina conference of the C.C.F. on financial agreements between the Federal and Provincial governments were discussed. They "will have to be reviewed," he said.

Postwar conditions also were discussed, he said.

Mr. Jolliffe declined comment on the defeat of C.C.F. candidates in the recent civic elections in Toronto. "There will be something arising out of the civic election next week," he said, declining to amplify the statement.

Youth Gets 30 Days Dodged Army Call-up

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 8 — (CP). —Michael Quinn, 20, of Prescott, was sentenced in court today to 30 days in jail for failing to report for medical examination after receiving military call-up. In another case, Wilfred S. Pitcher, 23, of Brockville, was fined $25 for failing to keep registrar M.D. No. 3, advised of his address. Charges were laid by Selective Service.

No Happiness in the Home When Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties.

She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way may find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy with which to help recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and assist them back to health—happiness again.

AXIS STRONGHOLD TOTTERS — This close-up of the terrain in which advanced Canadian units of the Eighth Army have been battling one of Italy's worst winter storms, as well as the stubborn enemy, gives some idea of the physical handicaps that have been faced in the slow drive to Pescara. The story of Ortona's "last stand" battle already has joined the war's classics and the fight against Pescara, Axis Adriatic stronghold, has been waged midst a furious off-sea storm. Pescara stands on the road to Rome.

14,000 Workers Get Vacations

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 CP). — The National War Labor Board today directed the Ford Motor Co. of Windsor, Ont., to institute one week's vacation with pay, for hourly-rated employees, who have one year or more seniority.

The Board's action was taken in allowing an appeal by the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) against a decision of the Ontario War Labor Board which "authorized" the Company to grant vacations.

Some 14,000 workers are affected by the decision.

Details of the vacation plan will be the subject of negotiations between the Company and the Union, the plan to be finally approved by the Board.

The Union said rest periods were important in maintaining the health and morale of workers. Granting of vacations would be in line with a policy followed by the Board in other cases.

Cut Absenteeism

Union co-operation had contributed to a reduction in absenteeism, and absence from work could be further cut if vacations were granted.

240 Trucks a Day

The Ford Motor Co. plant at Windsor, Ont., is turning out 240 fighting vehicles a day for the armed forces of the United Nations, it was disclosed here today by a Company official.

W. H. Clark, Ford personnel manager, appeared before the National War Labor Board to present the Company's opposition to a vacation-with-pay plan, subsequently ordered by the Board to be instituted.

He said the plan to give hourly-rated employees with a year or more of seniority an annual one-week holiday would result in loss of 400,000 man-hours, equivalent to closing the plant for five working days.

This, he said, would result in loss of 1,200 fighting vehicles for the fighting forces.

On that basis, daily production of fighting vehicles at the Ford plant is 240 a day.

Coldwell Raps Profits Tax

VICTORIA, Jan. 8 (CP). —M.J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, told a public meeting here last night that the Federal excess profits tax is failing in its purpose because provisions for "special or accelerated depreciation" is placing vast properties, for which the United Nations paid, in the hands of corporations

Replying to a question as to giving Canadian-born Japanese full citizenship, Mr. Coldwell declared that "as a Christian and democratic nation, Canada should acknowledge that people born in this country ought to have full rights of citizenship." Japanese nationals should be interned the same as German or Italian nationals but second and third generation Japanese-Canadians should not, he contended.

The C.C.F. could not merge with the Labor-Progressive party, Mr. Coldwell said, because the latter party was "just the Communist party under another name," a totalitarian party, while the C.C.F. believed in democracy.

Expect Lay-offs To Come By June

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—(CP)—There will be "lots of lay-offs between now and June, D. W. Foster, associate director of National Selective Service, Service, said yesterday in forecasting before a meeting of the Canadian Restaurant Association that National Selective Service will be called on to solve a "lot more" manpower problems.

He said that between 2,000 and 4,000 men are being laid off in a war industry in Nobel, Ont. (Defence Industries Ltd.). Of these, perhaps only 100 will not be placed immediately in other employment, and it is expected that slightly more than 100 claims for unemployment insurance will be made.

Mr. Foster said that in future there will be 100,000 men after jobs rather than jobs available for 100,000 men. Unemployment can happen again, and "I think the best thing to do is to talk little about it and do as much as we can to avoid it."

He suggested that a post-war employment service, modelled on present-day selective service, be set up. An "efficient" government employment service would do much to help solve post-war labor problems.

Speaking in place of Arthur MacNamara, Selective Service Director, who is ill, Mr. Foster said there is a shortage of 100,000 men in industries in "A," "B" and "C" priority groups. About 15,000 workers were shifted into essential jobs by the six compulsory transfer orders issued so far, but compulsory labor transfers could not be credited with putting the manpower situation "over the hump."

Kenneth W. Taylor, foods administrator for the Prices Board, said no great increase in Canada's farm production can be expected because of the manpower situation. The 1944 food supply will be about the same as in 1943, but there will be greater demand for available supplies.

Farmers, with three-quarters of pre-war manpower, have boosted their production 42 per cent. despite this, demands for food from Canada still exceed output and they can be expected to increase when the liberation of Europe began.

NOW OVERSEAS—Gnr. D. A. Kelly, R.C.A., has arrived overseas according to word received by his wife at 132 Hilliard Street, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly, 472 Reid Street. He left the C.G.E. to enlist in 1942 and trained at Cornwall and Camp Borden.

Claims Ghost Tore Heel Off Her Shoe

HALIFAX, Jan. 8 (CP). — Resident of quiet Eastern Passage, across the harbor from here, are hunting spooks and "haunts" as the result of a series of mysterious goings-on reported at the home of the Louis Hilchie family there during the past two weeks.

The whole thing started Christmas eve when three loud and traditionally hollow, knocks resounded through the 1½ storey house Since then many sinister things have happened, the Hilchies reported to police.

A washing machine moved across the floor under its own power, tables tipped while the Hilchies were seated at them, scissors fell off a shelf, a bowl of soup floated through the air and spilled over one of the children, alarm clocks and kettles of boiling water tipped from their appointed places—all apparently without human aid, the Hilchies vow.

Police Baffled.

To cap it all, Mrs. Hilchie reported, an unseen hand twice seized her foot and wrenched on the heel of her shoes. The second time she fell downstairs and broke her ankle, wrenched her shoulder and hurt her head.

Reporters and photographers visited the house, but saw no unusual happenings. Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigting, but have turned up nothing supernatural.

The happenings at Eastern Passage recalled a "spook scare" last spring at Bible Hill, near Truro, and the famous "Mary Ellen" tales of 20 years ago.

Strange and spooky events were reported at the Bible Hill home of Mrs. Lucy Langille, but cause of them never was found.

The "Mary Ellen" case saw an elderly couple driven from their home near Antigonish, after a two-month "reign of terror."

Mary Ellen MacDonald was the adopted daughter of an old couple of the same name, and a series of strange happenings and fires finally resulted in her detention in an institution.

100 Casualties Reach Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — (CP). — More than 100 Canadian fighting men and one nursing sister arrived in Toronto early to-day en route home after seeing service on Canada's fighting fronts overseas and in some cases long internment in German prison camps. The men were aboard a hospital train from Halifax where they landed last Wednesday from the hospital ship Lady Nelson.

Nine officers, the nursing sister and 95 other ranks were included in the group, 10 of whom were amputations. Forty of the arrivals were immediately taken to hospital, 19 of them stretcher cases.

Pte. Charles Butters of Hamilton, Ont., said he was wounded at Assora in Sicily and added "I was the first one on whom penicillin was used."

Bdr. Joseph P. McCauley of Stratford, Ont., was blown off his motorcycle just eight days after he landed in Sicily. "I wasn't there long enough to know whether I liked the country or not," he said.

Pte. Norman Colley of Windsor, Ont., lost his right leg while fighting with the Essex Scottish at Dieppe. He was a prisoner of war in Germany for 14 months.

Cpl. Ernest McMillan, also of the Essex Scottish, Windsor, and captured at Dieppe, suffered a fractured jaw when hit by shrapnel on leaving the beach.

I shared a tent with Sqdn. Ldr. Ken. MacGillivray of Toronto, a public relations officer, and F.O. Ken. Coleman, photograhper from St. Thomas, Ont.

Like Clippings.

Led by Sqdn. Ldr. Bert Houle, D.F.C., Massey, Ont., some of the pilots ahd finished a dawn patrol when we arose in the morning and walked through mud to the main mess tent. There, thawed by a coal fire in a tin that once contained gasoline, we took a truck to the field and watched four planes take off on a front-line patrol.

Led by Flt. Lt. Hedley Everard, of Timmins, Ont., the patrol soon returned. It came in fast and the boys made a rush for the mess when it was announced mail and parcels had arrived.

Over a steak dinner there was brief mention of the day's activities. Such pilots as newcomers John Case, a flying officer from London, Ont., Flt. Lt. William Whitside of Simcoe, Ont., and FO. Gilbert Lequerrier of Montreal had passed around newspaper clippings containing the mail from home.

There was plenty of letter-writing that day, by such fellows as WO. Paul Lapointe, relative of Canada's former Justice Minister, who hails from Montreal and WO. Walter Chittenden of St. Catharines, Ont.

Incidentally, the boys are unanimous that one of the first places they will make for on their return to Canada will be Windsor, Ont., the city that adopted them.

Windsor citizens took the squadron to heart. Cigarets, packages and letters come from people they never have seen. It gives them a warm feeling inside.

England Plans To Produce MoreVegetables

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 — (CP). — Almost 600,000 acres of good lands in England and Wales has been taken over for airports and other military installations, but food production has been increased and agriculture generally may be in better condition after the war than it was before, Lord De La Warr, chairman of the United Kingdom Agricultural Research Council, told a press conference here to-day.

With food supplies threatened by shipping losses, the United Kingdom had embarked early in the war on a great program of increased land utilization. About 6,000,000 new acres had been plowed since the war started, and hundreds of thousands of other acres reclaimed — some of them in areas not plowed since the time of the Romans.

Before the war, the United Kingdom produced about 45 per cent of its food needs.

"Now we feed ourselves to the extent of about 70 per cent of our total requirements, including the provision of supplies to our own troops and those of other nations within our borders." said Lord De La Warr. "Perhaps we'll be able to raise this by some five per cent in the present year."

In Canada to consult with technical agriculturalists and address meetings in a number of cities, Lord De La Warr said that in 1940 particularly farming was conducted as if the English fields were in the front line..

He said that on his own farm in Sussex he found 500 incendiary bombs after a night of raids on London, and that some 70,000 bombs were dropped on the farms of Kent alone.

Land that seemed hopeless was made to produce under the British agriculture program, assisted by research workers and by local committees, said Lord De La Warr. Machinery depots were set up and sometimes the Government did the work for the farmers, collecting expenses only after the crop was harvested.

No Fire Sale On Equipment When War Ends

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Jan. 8 (CP). — J. B. Carswell, newly-elected president of War Assets Corporation Limited, a Crown Company created by the Federal Government to dispose of all surplus and obsolete war material, said at a press conference here Thursday "there will be no 'fire sale' or public auctions of jeeps after this war."

Mr. Carswell said it was important to dispel in the public's mind that still useful war material of the Canadian armed services could be bought from the government at very low prices.

"The policy for the disposal of surpluses after the war will be one of compromise between the necessity of maintaining full employment and the right of Canadian taxpayers to see that valuable material, bought with good, hard Canadian dollars not go to waste," Mr. Carswell said.

Mr. Carswell was elected president of War Assets Corporation Limited at the first meeting of the board of directors since creation of the crown company was announced at Ottawa in November.

Hon. Wilfrid Gagnon of Montreal was elected vice-president and FWMO. Peterson also of Montreal, was elected secretary-treasurer. Mr. Carswell said the appointment of a general manager will be made shortly.

Speculating on the possible length of time, the corporation would operate, Mr. Carswell said it would be "a matter of 10, 15, or even possibly 20 years."

He said the present corporation was set under the War Measures Act — similarly to the 27 other Crown companies — but that an Act of Parliament at the next session would make it "a straight commercial company enabling it to continue its operations beyond war years.

Mr. Carswell's statement said the problems facing the new board could be divided under five headings. It was the corporation's job to deal:

1—With surpluses of war equipment proper from the three fighting services.

2—With all surplus camps, barracks, flying fields, buildings and real estate throughout Canada.

3—With munitions plants and machinery now the property of the the Munitions Department and its Crown companies.

4—With surpluses of raw materials and to set up stock-piling arrangements.

5—To deal with similar authorities in the United States and Great Britain to obtain as far as possible unified action in all three countries.

Nurse Shortage Affects V.O. of N. Program

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 — (CP).—Miss Maude H. Hall, acting chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, said today that the Order does not "feel free" to urge communities to organize branches because "we cannot be too sure of being able to supply the staff."

The shortage of nurses arises from increased wartime claims for nurses on the home front and difficulties in obtaining sufficient of the nurses with public health training, Miss Hall said in an interview at national headquarters here.

Ten new branches have been opened in the war years despite personnel problems, at Windsor, N.S., Campbellton, N.B., Gananoque, Ont., Peterborough, Ont., Porcupine, Ont., St. Thomas, Ont., Welland, Ont., Niagara Falls, Ont. Trail, B.C., and West Vancouver.

Reviewing wartime operations of the Order, Miss Hall said the work has "changed in various places because of the shifting population."

"There is a definte wartime trend toward selling the service to industry and V.O.N. has taken over nursing service to staffs of industrial plants in addition to their usual service in the home."

Recently the branch in Hamilton, Ont., arranged to supply nursing services to three war industries, the Toronto branch to one, and the Kitchener, Ont., branch to one.

Since the start of the war 44 of the nearly 400 nurses in the Order have entered the nursing services of the armed forces, 25 of them going overseas. Thirty-five are members of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, two are in the Royal Canadian Navy and seven in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Mothers' classes in pre-natal care, lessons in the care of babies-to-be and care of new mothers, and their babies form the greater part of the Order's increased wartime work.

Mariposa Pioneer Couple Wed For 73 Years

LINDSAY, Jan. 8 (ENS). — Believed to be the oldest married couple in Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Minthorne of Mariposa township, celebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary this week. They are living in the same house, three miles west of Lindsay in which Mr. Minthorne was born, erected on the land which his father and grandfather cleared from the virgin forests and made into one of the most beautiful farms in the "banner" township. Mr. Minthorne is of Dutch ancestry and is proud that his "ancestors came to the new world in the Mayflower." His grandfather came to Canada in 1808 with the United Empire Loyalists and settled at Hogg's Hollow, north of Toronto.

His father was one of a family of twelve boys and two girls, all the boys being over six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds each. He was one of the pioneer settlers in Mariposa township and brought animals and equipment from Whitby to set up the first blacksmith shop in the district at the settlement of Little Britain.

Mr. Minthorne can recall when all supplies had to be bdought from Whitby through the fosest to Lake Scugog and then across the lake by raft. He took an active part in the building of the first railway in this part of Ontario and greeted the first locomotive which steamed in to Lindsay. He has vivid memories of the great fire of 1861 which destroyed the entire business section of this town.

Mrs. Minthorne was born in Devon and is typical of the pioneer aggressive women who helped open up Canada. She traces her genealogy back to the Hoover family of the United States and is related to ex-president Hoover.

Name Reporters To Cover Invasion Front

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP Cable) — lineup of Canadian war correspondents to cover the battles of Canadian troops in the western invasion of Europe as well as the rest of the Mediterranean theatre campaign is beginning to take shape.

Some correspondents who covered the Sicilian and part of the Italian campaigns have returned to England to prepare for the invasion assignment from here and others are likely to follow. Several new war correspondents are planning to go to the Mediterranean to replace veterans and there will be a good representation of reporters in both theatres.

A rough allocation indicates these correspondents may be with the invasion force: Frederick Griffin, Toronto Star; J. A. M. Cook, Sifton newspapers; Ralph Allen, Toronto Globe and Mail; Frank Fisher, British United Press; Lionel Shapiro, MacLean's magazine and the North American Newspaper Alliance; Gerald Clarke, Montreal Standard.

Change Possible

The CBC has Peter Stursberg, Andrew Cowan and Paul Barrette available in London although there may be some switches with Matthew Halton and Marcel Ouimet in Italy.

Western invasion staff of The Canadian Press will be William Stewart, Doug How and Ross Munro with the army and Louis Hunter covering air activities.

Remaining in Italy at present are R. L. Sanburn, Southam newspapers, Maj. Bert Wemp, Toronto Telegram, William Wilson, British United Press and Wallace Reyburn, Montreal Standard.

It is understood that Greg Clark of the Toronto Star is leaving Italy. Paul Morton is likely going to Italy to replace Clark and Clifford Sifton to replace Cook.

The Canadian Press has Douglas Amaron and Foster Barclay in Italy with Maurice Desjardins representing French-Canadian papers.

Negro Singer Rejects Demand

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Herald Tribune says today that Paul Robeson, Negro singer, has rejected a demand by the A.F.L. Central Trades and Labor Council that he quit a C.I.O. union honorary membership or risk being barred from the stage, screen and radio.

The Herald Tribune quotes the singer and actor as saying in an interview he is more sympathetic toward the congress of industrial organizations than the American Federation of Labor because of the respective policies "toward the Negro and toward collaboration with Russian trade unions."

The story says that Robeson, now starring in "Othello," belongs to Actors' Equity Association, A.F.L., but recently accepted honorary membership in the C.I.O. State County and Municipal Workers' Union in addition to holding life memberships in two other C.I.O. unions, the National Maritime Union and Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

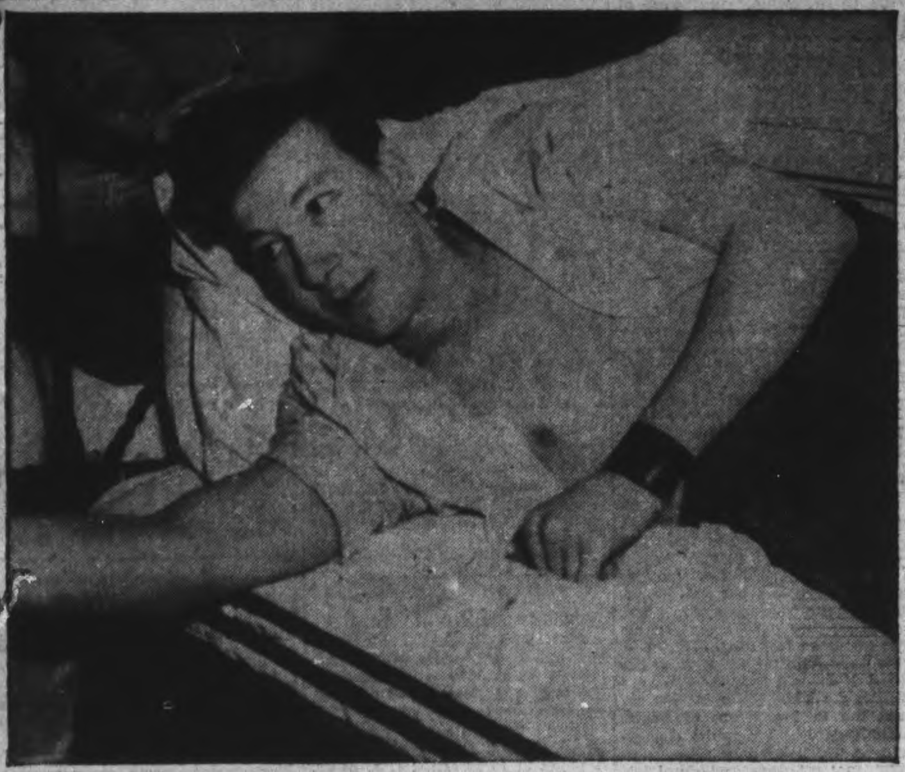
RUSSIAN TRAP CLOSING ON GERMANS



WOUNDED IN SICILY—Pte. J. J. Ireland, 23, of Peterborough, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was wounded severely at Gramacheli. He had the unusual experience of watching the enemy gunners who got him, "got" by crack Canadian gunners of several Three Rivers regiment tank crews. This happened on July 15. He came home recently aboard the hospital ship, Lady Nelson, and is a hospital case at Kingston. (Canadian Army Photo).

Queer Tales About Ortona

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 10—(CP Cable).—Stories stranger than fiction are still being told of the grim, eerie week that Western Canadian troops of the Canadian 1st Division spent clearing the enemy from blasted houses and rubbled streets of the Adriatic port of Ortona. Ortona fell December 27 to the Westerners—the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Loyal Edmontons and the Seaforth Highlanders.

The tales are legion and they are true. If in many cases the heroes must be unnamed it is only because they have since been wounded or killed.

"We were right in the German area for three days," said Capt. J. F. McLean of Vernon, B.C., and Vancouver. "It was eerie work going from post to post in the middle of the night not knowing what was ahead or behind."

"You'd clear an area in the daytime and they'd return by night. It was not only a house-by-house battle but often a room-by-room."

One night McLean set up headquarters in a "rubble heap with a roof" and the roof collapsed. Another time an armor-piercing shell hit the doorstep of a small room where McLean and six others were staying. It blew every object in the room to bits, but the only casualty was a runner who was scratched.

Canada's Leaders Eulogize John Dafoe, Famous Editor

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10—(CP).—Tributes from across Canada reached here today following the death of John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press. Mr. Dafoe died Sunday in his 78th year.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said:

"A sense of national loss will be felt throughout Canada as the country learns that John W. Dafoe has passed away.

"Less than three months ago, Mr. Dafoe celebrated his 60th anniversary in journalism. On that occasion the press of Canada was filled with tributes to the place he occupied in his chosen profession. He was everywhere recognized as the dean of Canadian juornalism and the foremost living Canadian journalist. It will be a source of consolation to Mr. Dafoe's family and to his wide circle of friends and admirers that he should have been afforded during his lifetime that striking evidence of the esteem and affection in which he was held by his fellow countrymen.

Heavy Bombers Aid Yugoslavs

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

AIR HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Jan. 10 — (AP). Heavy United States bombers of the 15th Air Force operating from Italy struck a new blow in support of the embattled Yugoslav Patriots Sunday when they set the harbor of Pola, at the tip of the Istrian Peninsula, boiling with fires and explosions.

This was the first disclosure the heavy bombers are operating from bases in Italy.

Protected by fighters, the bombers dropped their bombs on the harbor area, drydocks and nearby factories. One explosion threw the flames and debris 1,000 feet in the air. Delayed explosions still were shaking the port as the Fortresses turned away.

Pola, once an important naval station of the Austro - Hungarian Empire, is one of the three main supply ports through which the Germans push their supplies to Nazis divisions in the Balkans.

Returning crewmen said their bombs plastered the harbor area and one merchant vessel in the port was believed hit. Submarine pens in the harbor may also have been damaged, they said.

In A Hurry

GLENDALE, Calif., Jan. 10 —(AP).—Mrs. Ella Berry, 83, was struck by a truck and dragged 30 feet. Policeman Cliff Brown saw the accident and rushed to her aid. Her comment: "Young man, don't stop me. I'm in a hurry and have to get to the market." Injuries: One pair of broken glasses and a minor bruise.

Hog Marketings Increase

Farmers Urged To Maintain Production

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—(CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said to-day that 1943 hog marketings were 14.6 per cent. higher than in 1942, the previous peak year, and cited reasons why farmers should seek to maintain the highest possible production:

1. There is a market in Britain for all good-quality hogs Canada can produce;

2. Continued high production not only would help Britain maintain her four-ounce weekly bacon ration but would help Canadian farmers, by demonstrating Britain could depend on them for supplies in peace or war;

3. It would inspire confidence that a long-time contract to supply the British market with a greater amount than the minimum of 900,000,000 pounds for two years, now promised, can be fulfilled;

4. The future of the hog-producing industry could be made secure if highest production were maintained by farmers in 1944.

Mr. Gardiner said that last year Canadian farmers marketed through inspected packing plants 11 hogs for every five they sold before the war.

The 1943 marketings totalled 7,147,546, representing a gain of 120 per cent. over 1938.

Fifth Army 2 Miles From Cassino

Dominate Heights Preparing For Final Push

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 10 —(AP)—Fifth Army forces bit deeper today into the tough defence belt of Cassino in western Italy with British troops crossing the Peccia River and Americans advancing two miles northeast of Cassino.

Despite intense artillery fire, British Tommies clung to a bridgehead they forged across the Peccia west of Mount Maggiore near the western end of the 10-mile offensive front of the 5th Army.

This advance was just south of the main western highway to Rome which runs through Cassino. North of the highway Americans in a thrust from Mount Maio captured the 3,500-foot peak of Catena Vecchio overlooking the road from captured San Vittore to Cassino.

Fifth Army troops also occupied other heights preparatory to an assault directly on Cassino itself.

Americans captured 1,500-foot Mount Chiaia just south of Cervaro and still farther south they completed occupation of 900-foot Mount Porchia by mopping up surviving Germans entrenched on the mountain's western slopes after tanks had entered actively into the push.

Overlook Cervaro

The Americans thus overlooked Cervaro, four miles due east of Cassino.

Their advanced elements were more than two-thirds through the six-mile zone of fortifications between Cassino and the captured village of San Vittore.

The troops who captured Mount Chiaia continued their advance northward toward Cervaro supported by fighter-bombers which attacked German positions.

Deep snows in the mountainous sectors of the 8th Army front restricted fighting to patrol activity and heavy artillery and mortar fire exchanges.

Sofia, Bulgarian Capital, Heavily Bombed Planes Swoop Over City In Daylight Raid

ALGIERS, Jan. 10—(AP).—A large force of American heavy bombers bombed Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria, today.

The packed formations swept it about noon, it was announced, for the fifth heavy bomber assault in two months on the German-controlled capital. The raid was a close follow-up to yesterday's first announced operation by American heavy bombers from Italian bases, when the port and naval base at Pola in the northern Adriatic area was hit severely.

Sofia is a rail centre for German troop and supply movements in Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria, while Pola is a shipping centre used by the Germans to supply their Yugoslav front.

No further details of the Sofia bombing were made available immediately.

Congressmen Cannot Join Forces

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP).—President Roosevelt instructed the Secretaries of War and Navy today that members of Congress "may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a formal statement that Attorney-General Francis Biddle had advised him that the Constitution forbids simultaneous service in the armed forces and in Congress.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that in issuing his instructions to Secretary of War Henry Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, the President was closing out a matter that had been dragging along for some time. A number of members of Congress have gone into uniform, although some have given up their seats to do so.

Canadians Serve.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10—(CP).—No objection has yet been raised to members of parliament in Canada joining the armed forces.

Some 22 members of the House of Commons are now in uniform, a considerable number of them overseas. Until recently a member of the Senate was in the army and a good number of members of provincial legislatures are in the forces.

When service requirements permit they may obtain leave without pay to attend to their parliamentary duties but otherwise they are granted no special consideration as compared with other members of the forces.

50,000 Airmen Have Graduated

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. announced last night that its instructors in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan have qualified more than 50,000 fully-trained aircrew men, enough to man more than 15,000 fighting aircraft.

In a press release outlining the behind-the-scenes work of the instructors, the R.C.A.F. gave brief thumbnail sketches of some of the most outstanding of Canada's "flying professors."

Rating high among Canadian air heroes is Group Capt. John Fauquier, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Ottawa, who trained under the Commonwealth Plan and spent many months as an instructor at Camp Borden, and Trenton, before going overseas in June, 1941.

Wing Cmdr. Ralph Christie, D.S.O., of North Bay, a former bush pilot who joined the R.C.A.F. and became an instructor, was stationed for months at the service flying school at Brantford.

Nor are the instructors who have gone to operations the only ones who have tasted glory, said the air force.

Wing Cmdr. J. W. Reid of Belleville, former instructor later ferry command pilot flew the German General Von Arnim from Africa, after his capture there.

Wing Cmdr. J. G. (Pat) Twist of Saulte Ste. Marie, Ont., a graduate of the Empire Central Flying School, Eng., and one of the most experienced instructors at Trenton, has contributed in great measure to the safety of flying through extensive "spinning" tests.

Warship Sunk In Stettin Harbor

LONDON, Jan. 10—(CP).—Allied air activity against continental targets from British bases during the week-end simmered down to small-scale forays and none was announced immediately for last night, although radio silence in Vichy suggested attacks in that area.

Maintaining the record that has sent aircraft to the attack on Germany every night since the New Year, however, R.A.F. Mosquito bombers again attacked the western Reich Saturday night. Berlin said the old City of Aachen was the target.

Heavy bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. last were out in force to raid the Baltic port of Stettin Jan. 5.

During the raid on Stettin "a German warship of about 4,000 tons was sunk in the middle of the harbor when it received direct hits," according to a Stockholm report quoted today by BBC.

Other vessels were wrecked, added the broadcast recorded by CBS at New York.

RUSSIANS REACH SARNY

LONDON—The Berlin radio said today that Russian units had reached Sarny, rail station 35 miles inside Poland on the north-south rail link between the Warsaw-Odessa and Warsaw-Minsk lines.

KITCHENER, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Peter Martin of nearby St. Jacob's solved his part of the village's housing problem with the aid of eight tractors. He moved his own two-storey frame house into the village when no others were available. The job took two days.

More For Bottles

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP). —Ontario Liquor Control Board officials said last night the board has approved an increased refund value of one cent a bottle on all Canadian beer sold in Ontario. Reich Has Jitters As Invasion Nears

Germans Set Middle Of February As Likely Date For Action

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's unhappy Reich is on tiptoe of tenseness in anticipation of Anglo-American invasion—a state of nerves which is aggravated by the grave dangers of the Russian battle.

News from Moscow today emphasizes the threat to the vital Nazi rail communications both in Poland and to the south in the Dnieper bend where a big German army is threatened with encirclement. Berlin spokesmen are preparing the public for more bad news. Should disaster overtake the Hitleries in Russia at the same time a major invasion was launched in the west, it would represent the worst situation that even the most gloomy Nazi could envisage.

The Germans are jittery in all possible invasion zones, from the Balkans clear around to Norway. The fact is that while they know where invasions might be staged, there's no way of telling just where the Allies intend to deliver their major blows and where the feints will come.

Thus the Hitlerites are forced to stand on the alert everywhere, and hope against hope that they have their forces distributed to the right spots. If they guess correctly, the Allied task will be multiplied; if they're wrong, the difficulties of invasion will be lessened. This matching military wits is a matter of life or death for thousands of soldiers who soon are to undertake this great adventure into the unknown.

The Germans, fishing anxiously for information, say the Allies have mapped out a five-week bombing program to pave the way for the invasion of Western Europe. This would set the date about the middle of February. Well, if the Nazis come as close as that to the zero hour, they will be lucky. Anyway, Hitler is taking no chances but is rushing preparations for defence.

FDR Will Send Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt on the advice of his physician will send his annual message to Congress tomorrow rather than deliver it in person, but he will broadcast a shortened version tomorrow night.

Mr. Roosevelt today arranged a late afternoon conference with Congressional leaders — Vice President Henry Wallace, Speaker Sam Rayburn, Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley and House Majority Leader John W. McCormack.

Indian Opinion

YORK, England, Jan. 10—(CP).—L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, said in a speech here last night that one of the chief reasons for Indian rejection of Britain's offer of Dominion status after the war, made by Sir Stafford Cripps, was a belief that the offer came because of Britain's consciousness of her weakness, and that Britain would not honor her obligation when victory became assured.

Huns In Dnieper River Area Face Encirclement; Reds 30 Miles Inside Poland

2,300 Germans Killed, 110 Villages Retaken As Soviets Push On Doggedly Seeking To Close All Escape Lanes

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 10—(AP).—Spearheads of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's 1st Ukrainian Army plunged within 15 miles of the Bug River today, and neared Vinnitsa, rail city on the Bug serving as main control point for German communications to the Dnieper Bend.

Other Vatutin units slashing southward sent deeper one jaw of a possible trap for thousands of Germans in the Smela gap, a Nazi-held zone extending eastward to the Dnieper River. This southward drive was pushing toward a junction with Gen. Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army, advancing westward through Alexandrovka north of Kirovograd.

Farther north, the Soviets were within five miles of Sarny, 35 miles inside Poland.

Vatutin's western advance guards seized Zhornishche, 15 miles from a bend of the Bug River. Zhornishche is 30 miles southeast of Vinnitsa and 33 miles from the important Odessa-Warsaw railway.

The Bug River, a natural defence line, is the eastern border of Transnistria, the Soviet area given Rumania by the Germans.

Other units pushed through Schastlivaya, 19 miles east of Vinnitsa itself, threatening to cut the most important east-west railway left the Germans in the Ukraine.

(The German high command asserted the Soviets attempted a landing west of Ochakov on the Black Sea, between the Dnieper's mouth and the naval base of Odessa, but were thrown back. There was no Russian confirmation of the reported landing, which might be a flanking assault to bottle up the Germans in the Dnieper Bend.)

Vatutin's army was engaged in a complicated manoeuvre, pressing westward even while driving to the south, and mopping up areas to the rear.

Capture of Sarny, a junction on Wilno-Rovno line, would force the Germans to rely for north-south communications on railways meeting at Brest-Litovsk, 130 miles farther west. The Odessa-Warsaw railway, on which the Russians are advancing from captured Zhornishche, is the main escape line for German troops in southern Russia.

Stockholm dispatches describing the German retreat as "almost chaotic," quoted German military spokesmen in Berlin as admitting that their armies are fleeing during a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends."

The Germans also face disaster in a wide pocket west of the Dnieper River as the 1st and 2nd Ukrainian Red Armies—the first pushing south through Buki and the other driving west through Alexandrovka—narrowed the jaws of a possible trap to less than 75 miles. A junction of the two armies would close a ring around the Germans in the Smela Gap in an area 80 miles deep running back to the right bank of the Dnieper.

Capture Booty.

On their entire front Sunday the armies of Gens. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Iva S. Konev swept up 110 more towns and hamlets, killed 2,300 Germans in two actions alone, and captured huge stores of war materials, a Soviet communique announced.

The Russians took Polonnoe, just inside Kaments Podolsk Province bordering Rumania, in an advance of 50 miles west of Zhitomir which

1943 Chairmen Re-appointed By City Council

(For Mayor's Inaugural Address see Page 9.)

With only one change in its membership of last year, the decision of the electors at the New Year's Day polls, the city council this morning accepted from its constituents and retained its standing committees and their chairmen without any changes except the substitution of Alderman W. G. Ovens for G. N. Gordon, K. C., who retired from the municipal service at the end of 1943.

The inauguration of the new administration received the encouragement of the presence of a rather large attendance of citizens and also the invocation of God's blessing upon the Council of this year and upon the city and its people at home and abroad in an opening prayer by Peterborough's new Roman Catholic bishop, the Right Reverend John R. MacDonald.

Mayor Hamilton expressed to the assembly of ratepayers his appreciation of their evidence of interest in the council and the duties which it is now undertaking for this year, and said that he felt certain every member of the council joined him in the welcome which he gratefully extended to the public.

The gallery of the council chamber was not quite fully occupied, but the attendance was encouragingly notable in its contrast with some recent years when only a few citizens were present for the simply impressive ceremony with

Bulgaria Ready To Attack Turkey

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP). — The Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten said in an article reported to the United States' Office of War Information to-day that there are "signs that Bulgaria is preparing an attack on Turkey, which is not expetced to be able to remain neutral until the end of the winter."

"During the last week, military patrols searched people on the streets of Sofia," the article said. "The radio station, war ministry and government palace have special guards with machine-guns ready for an attack.

"In any case, Bulgaria gives the impression of a country preparing itself for war. Several names are discussed in connection with a government change. As presidents are named Tetsjankov, leader of the Bulgarian Fascist party, Peter Gabrovski, a former interior minister, and Slaveki Vasiljev, president of the reserve officers' association."

Von Mannstein Loses Job

Disasters In Russia Believed Responsible

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10 — (AP). — The Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen quoted a private informant today as saying Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein had been seen on January 2 in civilian clothing in Vienna, an indication he no longer is in command of German forces on the southern front in Russia.

In the last week there have been a number of rumors that Von Mannstein had been relieved of his post after a dispute with Hitler, but confirmation so far has been impossible.

Aftontidningen said it was rumored that Field Marshal Karl Von Runstdet, heretofore in command of the invasion coast of France, would be Von Mannstein's successor. Marshal Erwin Rommel has been taking an increasingly prominent role in German preparations to counter an Allied invasion from the west.

It was recalled here that Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch former German commander - in-chief of the army, and Marshal Wilhelm Ritter Von Leeb, a former German commander in the east first turned up in Vienna after dismissals where it was presumed their appearance would attract less attention.

Bitter Fight Rages In New Britain

Marines Advance Slowly Towards Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 10— (AP). — Bitter ground fighting is raging in Northwestern New Britain, with Allied bombers supporting the United States' marines' new push to clear the Japanese from the Borgen Bay area near Cape Gloucester.

Bombers concentrated 58 tons of explosives on enemy forward positions, the Allied communique said to-day. A Headquarters spokesman said the battle was resumed Friday after a lull, and the high Command announced that the marines had reached Hill 660, in an advance of 1¾ miles.

Hill 660, an artillery observation point, south of Silimati Point where the marines landed Dec. 26.

Ground patrol clases also were reported in the hills in the airdrome area west, the communique said. Marines captured the airdrome Dec. 30, four days after the invasion began.

Bombers and fighters of the South Pacific Command struck enemy installations at Cape St. George on the southern tip of New Ireland. The target area is across narrow St. George channel from Rabaul, Japanese stronghold in Northeast New Britain.

Stiff enemy interception of the attack Friday gave evidence the Japanese will resist desperately any attack that might eventually soften a new landing spot for a flanking assault on Rabaul. At least 10 Japanese interceptors were shot down, and probably two others. Six Allied planes were lost.

American Captures 19 Nazis

By KENNETH L. DIXON—Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 10—(AP).—Pte. Billy Miller, 21, a fast-talking soldier from Peoria, Ill., hoodwinked a German lieutenant and 18 men into believing they were surrounded and then marched them single-handed to captivity across 600 yards of no man's land. Miller pulled off the exploit when he went into action for the first time Thursday night as his company attacked a hill in the San Vittore area. Surrounded by 50 Germans while he and a few comrades were bringing some wounded and a prisoner to the rear, Billy and his mates had to surrender.

A platoon of 19 Germans took charge of Billy. In a cave where they put up for the night, the Jerries started talking about taking him back to a prison camp. The lieutenant, who spoke English, told him what they were saying.

"You'll never make it," said Billy. He knew he was at least a quarter of a mile in front of his own line, but he added, "We've got you surrounded. Listen!"

Gunfire crackled outside, echoing in the cave. They spent the night there.

Next day the fighting was still terrific, so the German platoon moved only a short distance farther back, this time to a farmhouse in the valley behind the hill.

Next day, the German lieutenant insisted that the time had come to try to make contact with other German outfits. As he talked, Billy looked out the window.

On a distant hill paralleling the valley he saw troops moving. It was worth a gamble.

"I tell you we've got this place surrounded," he said. "Come outside and I'll show you."

They stepped outside and Billy pointed to the movement on the hill. The lieutenant stepped back inside, talked to his men a moment, which Peterborough's civic administration begins its organization for the year.

Among those present were three former aldermen, G. N. Gordon, K.C., H. J. McCannan and Mel. Turner; G. W. Craw, chairman of the Board of Education; Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., R. L. Dobbin of Utilities Commission; John R. Marshall, E. B. Fowler, G. H. Roper, Fred G. Mann; P. J. Scollard; J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Pilot Officer J. G. Sullivan who accompanied his father, Alderman Sullivan.

List of Chairmen

The chairmen of the standing committees were, re-appointed as follows:

Board of Works: Alderman Dutton.

Finance: Alderman Cotton.

Fire and Light: Alderman Sullivan.

Manufacturers: Alderman Bradburn.

Parks: Alderman Curtis.

Property: Alderman Swanston.

Welfare: Alderman Glover.

Alderman Ovens was substituted on the committees of which Mr. Gordon was a member last year, and the only other morning change was the enlargement of the legal and reception committee absorbing the salary committee with Alderman Sands, chairman and the addition of Alderman Sullivan. That committee is now composed of Aldermen Sands, Bradburn, Glover, Mark, Sullivan and Ovens.

Special Committees

Three special committees suggested by Mayor Hamilton in his address to the Council, post-war planning, hospitalization, and purchasing were left for the regular meeting of the Council tonight.

Mayor Hamilton opened the meeting by expressing regret in the absence of Alderman Bradburn who is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. "We are all glad that he is getting better, and we hope he will soon be with us again," he said.

His Worship said it was hardly necessary to introduce Bishop MacDonald, who, he said, had already become generally known in the city, but he did introduce Lt.-Col. R. G. McGillvray, M.C., chief assistant of the Roman Catholic chaplains in the Canadian Army.

People Expect Leadership.

Bishop MacDonald congratulated Mayor Hamilton on "your return to your high office by acclamation, and I wish also to congratulate the aldermen who received election by ballot."

"May I say to the members of the Council, who have been freely chosen, that the people expect leadership from you,and they expect also that in the exercise of your duties you will always remember that democratic leadership means service to the people," Bishop MacDonald said.

"Great privilege and responsibility go with the honor that has been conferred on you by your fellow-citizens. That is true in normal times, and it is particularly true in these extraordinary times with the new problems and difficulties which confront all men who hold public office. That you will fill these obligations and measure up to your responsibilities is my wish, as I am sure it is the wish of all the citizens.

"In this Christian country and in a Christian community such as this it is eminently fitting that the blessing of God be sought for all your undertakings. It is your custom to ask for Divine help and guidance, and through the courtesy of His Worship, Mayor Hamilton, I am here to-day for that purpose."

In the prayer which he offered, Bishop MacDonald asked God to bless with His Holy Spirit of counsel and fortitude the members of the Council that their administration might be conducted in righteousness "to Thy people over whom they preside," and shine forth in all the steps taken by them for the welfare and happiness of the citizens. "Deign also, O God, to bless all our citizens that they may dwell together in peace and friendship, and may this blessing which we ask go forth far and wide. May its power go out to those sons and daughters of Peterborough, who are absent, wherever they may be."

His Excellency prayed that those who are in the armed forces be protected from harm, and that this country would be guided through the sacrifices and horrors of war to peace founded on justice and charity.

Mayor Hamilton thanked Bishop MacDonald on behalf of the Council for the inspiration of his words and expressed the hope that the members would try to do more for the city and its people than in the past.

The meeting concluded with two formal resolutions, one by Aldermen Cotton and Ovens, renewing the declaration of the Council's and the city's loyalty and devotion to His Majesty King George VI., and to strengthen the British Commonwealth of Nations, and also the pledge of support to the Government of Canada in the successful prosecution of the war.

The other resolution by Aldermen Glover and Sullivan conveyed the Council's sympathy to the families of Peterborough men who had given their lives in the war and an appreciation of the work of all citizens who by their sacrifice and leadership were helping to forward victory of the United Nations.

Noted Winnipeg Editor Passes

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for John Wesley Dafoe, 77-year-old editor-in-chief and president of the Winnipeg Free Press, who died yesterday, the result of a heart attack suffered on his way to hospital.

Dean of Canadian journalism, recipient of honorary degrees from Manitoba, Queen's, Alberta and Columbia Universities, and Chancellor of the University of Manitoba, Mr. Dafoe was at his desk last Saturday as usual and in good health. Yesterday he had complained of a sharp pain in his side and his doctor ordered him to the hospital.

Born in the village of Combermere, Ont., on March 8, 1866, Mr. Dafoe began as a cub editor with the Montreal Star for $6 a week, and last October, 60 years later, was honored at testimonial dinner as one of Canada's greatest journalists.

He declined a knighthood, diplomatic posts and Cabinet positions in favor of his editorial position, where he kept his newspaper in the forefront of every political struggle in the Dominion and every major issue in international affairs.

"I have always been interested in politics, but not in political honor for myself," Mr. Dafoe had said.

been captured but slipped into church, changed into civilian clothes and stayed there all Christmas night sitting on his Tommy-gun for fear the Germans would spot it.

The next day he was wounded.

Cpl. Dick Moir of Kamloops, B.C., whose platoon was commanded by Lieut. Jim Allen of Weyburn, Sask., said he and 11 others spent Christmas Eve in a house so close to the Germans they could hear the enemy giving catcalls to one another.

At 5:20 a.m., German paratroopers moved in on the house and threw grenades through the door.

"Mr. Allen wished us all Merry Christmas and told us not to worry —they were only grenades," said Moir.

"Then the Germans blew up the house and there were only nine of us for Christmas dinner."

Carried Dynamite

There were also stories how Lieut. Fred Debanke, Chatham, Ont., found a decorated Christmas tree in a tunnel used by the Germans, how the major, since wounded, sat outside the basement window Christmas Eve listening to paratroopers singing "Silent Night" in German.

There were stories too, how four unarmed privates carried 100 pounds of dynamite across the street under fire.

Maj. June Thomas of Vancouver said at the height of the battle "I'm staying in the same houses as Jerry." One of his men bent down beside a wall in the house and had a brick kicked in his face by a German in an adjoining room.

The final story concerned the medical orderly and the German who took shelter in the same doorway during a shelling. The unarmed orderly gave the German a piece of his mind in strictly unprintable language.

When he finished, the German said in the best English, "OK, Buddy, go to it."

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.
A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.
To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Ross Declares Cowley Frame-up Victim

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP).—Art Ross, manager of Boston Bruins, today was quoted by Andy Lytle of the Star as saying that an injury to Bill Cowley of Boston in Saturday night's National Hockey League game with Toronto Maple Leafs was the result of "a savage and deliberate attack."

Cowley, who suffered a shoulder separation, was injured when body-checked by Jack McLean, Toronto forward.

"McLean didn't try to play hockey," Lytle quoted Ross. "He was the central figure in a mass attack craftily designed to put Cowley out of business."

"I'm not going to take the Cowley incident lying down. My players won't either. Three-for-one, that's our slogan. Nothing can convince me it wasn't a frame-up to get Cowley.

"Tell Day (Coach Hap Day of the Leafs) to bring plenty of reserves into Boston and to bring Selke (Manager Frank Selke of Leafs) along because he's the instigator."

questions. On public affairs his views and opinions were widely sought. To leaders in public life he was a wise counsellor and hopeful friend."

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, said:

"While Canada mourns the passing of John W. Dafoe, we all have reason to be grateful for the contribution this man of letters has made to our public life. With strong convictions and well-based principles, he exercised a wide influence throughout the land. The field of journalism was particularly enriched as a result of his vigorous pen and powerful personality. He always had the courage of his convictions.

"He was an outstanding and effective champion of the west and we were together on many issues concerning the welfare of the people of that section.

"He had a breadth of vision that never left him parochial in his views. He never championed a cause that left Canada, as a whole, poorer for his action. John W. Dafoe stood for those things that make for Canadian progress and he seldom stood on the sidelines."

Spoke With Authority.

Canadian journalism has lost not only an outstanding figure but a great man, said Wesley McCurdy, vice-president and publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune and president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

His tribute to Mr. Dafoe said:

"In the sudden and unexpected passing of John W. Dafoe Canadian journalism has lost not only an outstanding figure but a great man. Equipped with unusual native ability and a capacity for patient and untiring industry, coupled with a world viewpoint, he lost no opportunity to establish contact with the great actors on the international stage. As a result his utterances, both written and verbal, achieved authority possessed by relatively few Canadian newspaper editors."

OBITUARIES

JOHN CONDON

Many friends and relatives on Saturday morning gathered at St. Peter's Cathedral to pay their last respects to an old pioneer citizen of this city, John Condon, who was born in Douro 87 years ago, by assisting at the high mass which was offered at 9:00 o'clock for the repose of his soul by Rev. J. T. Finn.

He was a faithful employee of the Alfred McDonald Lumber Company for many years. He spent his retired life in the House of Providence where, by his genial disposition, he was beloved by all.

Spiritual offerings and floral tributes were offered to his sorrowing family and relatives, during the time the remains rested at the J. J. Duffus funeral parlors, as a symbol of the high esteem in which the late Mr. Condon was held by all who knew him.

Friends from a distance who were in attendance at the funeral included Mrs. James Mulso and Mrs. W. L. Davidson, Detroit, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Condon, Thorold; and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Condon of Hamilton.

Rev. Father Finn recited the prayers at St. Peter's Cemetery where interment was made.

Casket bearers were Messrs. Frank Neary, J. McCarney, J. Bolton, John Loucks, M. Roddy and J. Cavanaugh.

JOHN COLBORNE WOOD.

The death of John Colborne Wood, 777 Water street, beloved husband of the former Josephine Morrison, occurred on Saturday evening in his 82nd year. He had been in ill health for two months.

Born in Camden township, the son of the late Nicholas Wood and Mary Ann Baker, he had resided in Peterborough for over 37 years, coming here from Harrington. Retired for the past 15 years, he had been a milling sales representative. He was a member of George Street United church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and two sons, FO. Maitland Wood, R.C.A.F., stationed in Newfoundland, and Ian Wood, of Peterborough. A sister, Mrs. Clara Taylor, lives in Kingston.

The body is resting at the late residence, 777 Water street, until Tuesday noon. Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in George Street United church, with service conducted by Rev. H. L. Roberts. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

SEVERELY WOUNDED.

The name of A.S. Sgt. Alvin Edward Neil of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and son of Mrs. Sarah M. Neil of St. Olga appears in today's casualty list as being severely wounded in Italy.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 10 — (CP). — The R.C.A.F. Coastal Command squadron had just been briefed for a run over the Atlantic to protect a convoy already under U-boat attack for five days. Sgt. R. G. Locke of Winnipeg and WO. R. R. Haar of Woodfibre, B.C., looked at the convoy's position and shook hands solemnly as Locke declared: "Boy, we're going to get a U-boat to-day."

They did. They and the other members of the crew of the Sunderland captained by FO. A. H. Russell of Edmonton got the sixth U-boat destroyed during an eight-day hunt for the prowlers by the Canadian, British and American airmen. It was Russell's first attack as a captain.

The "kill" came at the end of the day, 15 minutes after Russell's Sunderland had set course for home. Suddenly FO. Menhaul of Lindsay, Ont., the second pilot shouted: "There's a U-boat."

Flu And Weather Change Plans Of Prayer Services

MILLBROOK, Jan. 10—(ENS).—The illness of two of the clergymen, Rev. A. E. Chevis of St. Thomas' Church, and Rev. A. L. Sisco of St Andrew's United Church, interfered with the program of the annual week of prayer services which concluded on Thursday. The general theme was "Three Great Necessities." The three local churches unite for these services, the opening one being in St. Andrews Church, with Rev. Walter Patterson of Grace Presbyterian Church, giving the address on The Necessity of Faith, basing his remarks on the story of the withering of the fig tree, with emphasis upon the words of Christ, "Have faith in God." The service Wednesday evening was in St. Thomas Anglican Church, E. H. Barnes taking the place of the rector in reading of the prayers, and introduction of the guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Harding of Bethany, who spoke on "The Necessity of Prayer." Basing his remarks upon Acts 4, 24-30, Mr. Harding made clear the importance of prayer in the individual life, and in public worship, under three headings: (1) Prayer does not give God information; (2) Prayer does not persuade God against His will to give us our petitions; (3) Prayer gives perspective, brings personal poise and peace, and enriches personality.

Obedience Important.

Rev. A. E. Honey of Cavan spoke at the concluding service in Grace Presbyterian Church, the topic being: "The Necessity of Obedience." Choosing passages from John 14 and 15, the speaker showed that obedience rests upon the Lordship of Jesus Christ, Who Himself "learned obedience, even the way of the cross." He said His followers must also "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ."

An offering was taken, and after expenses for printing programs are paid the balance will go to the Bible Society. Accompanists for the services were Miss E. L. Hetherington, Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke, and Mrs. Harold Hubbeard.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people are working harder, worrying more, sleeping less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living lowers resistance—increases body and mental fatigue. Overwork; hasty meals; irregular hours; worry—any of these may upset proper kidney action.

When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and poisons remain in the system. Then backache, headache, rheumatic pain, disturbed rest or that "tired-all-the-time" feeling may soon follow. To help keep your kidneys in good order—to help guard against physical let-down—use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for over half a century a favourite remedy for faulty kidneys. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. Look for the blue box with the red band. 126

A vote of thanks was moved to officers and retiring officers. It was decided the executive would later set the promotion day date. The meeting closed with the benediction pronounced by Mr. Unstead.

Campbellford WMS Holds First Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10. — (ENS).—Mrs. J. D. Mills, newly elected president of St. John's W.M.S., presided for the first meeting of the New Year on Friday afternoon after Rev. G. N. Maxwell had conducted the installation of officers. Reports were then presented from the treasurer and secretary and Mrs. C. W. Turner declared 193 calls had been made by members during the past year. Mrs. W. Ward gave a very comprehensive report of the C.G.I.T. work sponsored by the W.M.S.

Following the business came the programme conducted by the president. This opened with a hymn and prayer and followed with a paper on "Christian Stewardship of Time" by Mrs. J. Stillman, Mrs. A. Hutcheon and Mrs. J. A. Mitchell gave Scripture readings and Mrs A. G. Watson contributed a vocal solo, followed by a story "Counting the Cost," by Mrs. A. E. Wragg. A feature of the afternoon was a short dialogue introducing the new study book and those who took part in it were Mesdames A. J. Armour, A. E. Burgis, P. Sanders, T. L. Diamond, W. A. Kingston, Chas. K. Stephen and A. L. Malcolm.

Farmers Urged To Not Let Up Spraying Trees

COBOURG, Jan. 10—(ENS).—Labor shortage made it advisable to economize on labor in the apple-growing industry, but as far as spraying was concerned there should be no sacrifice to labor scarcity, declared Professor J. E. Howitt of O.A.C., in addressing the convention here Friday of the Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association. Thorough distribution of the spray throughout each tree should be aimed at, Professor Howitt said. He described proper spraying methods through the aid of chart. Every tree should be thoroughly covered, even if it meant stopping at every large tree.

Speaking from 25 years' experience in the apple business, Don Kimball of Wyndham Orchards, Simcoe, gave the practical growers' viewpoint on "Factors Which Control Profitable Growing." He urged realization of the fact that planning with vision reduced costs and worry. Farming is a tricky occupation where one man has to do both mental and manual work, a difficult combination, the speaker said. One or a few lines on a large scale will make more money than the same amount of energy spread over many different lines of farming. The speaker advised against adhering slavishly against the customs of past years. For example, in tractor use some growers have found to their surprise that because a tractor enables proper timing of each farming operation, the purchase price may be returned to the owner in a single year's profits.

Orderly Marketing.

Gambling on prices is now definitely out, as orderly marketing is now possible through cold storage facilities and co-operative groups. Mr. Kimball declared that most of the farmer's difficulties was due to his own way of handling affairs, and can be cured by the individual's effort in his own back yard. In apple growing production can be doubled without planting another tree, and the quality trebled just by making use of all the knowledge which has been developed in the past five to ten years, he declared.

D. Blair, Horticultural Department, Ottawa, described approved methods of pruning apple trees. He said pruning's object is generally misunderstood and that even authorities do not agree on all the details. The main object in pruning the non-bearing young tree is to develop strong, wide-angled crotches. The aim in pruning bearing apple trees is to prevent them from becoming too dense, and to fecilitate spraying, as well as to remove weak wood.

The principles of pruning were outlined by the speaker who said that young trees are inevitably dwarfed by pruning and that heading-back should not be done before the tree begins to flower. Pruning in bearing trees usually results in reduction of total field for the year, except in the case of previously devitalized trees, or too dense branch systems. New growth is stimulated by pruning and this eventually gives added fruiting area.

Early spring pruning before growth starts was advised, as the wounds can then heal more quickly. This is not thought practical in some large orchards, because of the amount of work to be done and so work is started in the fall. This is dangerous if the temperature reaches a low mark during the winter, in which event much winter killing is likely to result.

Merchants Lodge Protest With Dr. Vivian

COBOURG, Jan. 10.— (ENS).—Merchants on King street, whose places of business were adjacent to the creek which runs underneath the business section, who for years have been enduring the sewer gas that a times permeates the whole section from the sewer which runs through the creek, got in touch with Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health, during the week-end while he was at his home in Port Hope. The situation was described in detail to Dr. Vivian, who suggested that they place their grievance in writing and send it to his department, after which a department officially would be sent down to look into the situation. Whether anything will result from the official's inspection remains to be seen, but if the past can be any indication, the results will be nil.

Complaints For Years.

For years there have been complaints about the creek and its odours. At times clerks in the stores thus affected have had to go home ill from the fumes. The Board of Health of the town knows all about it and has in the past made certain recommendations but no council has done anything about it. Some years ago a storm sewer was built along the creek, which some councillors at the time said was too small, and a concrete top was placed over the creek. Now and then the sewer blocks up and at times residents along the creek have blamed the tannery for it. Last week the sewer blocked up and residents on Buck street had water from the sewer, with its accompanying odour welling up in their cellars. Their comments to the council on the matter were as strong as the odour which they were they were objecting to.

"I'm fed up," stated one merchant to the Examiner. "This time the thing has to be cleaned up and the council will have to do something instead of passing the buck as has been done from year to year."

Landing Attempt Fails Huns Claim

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP). — The German high command said today that Russian forces had attempted a landing west of Ochakov, Black Sea port about 40 miles inside the southern anchor of the German line, but had been beaten off.

Ochakov lies almost midway between the mouth of the Dnieper River, which is the southern end of the German line, and Odessa, the Nazi-occupied Black Sea naval base.

The landing attempt, which was not confirmed from Moscow, could have been intended as a flanking movement against the southern German anchor — the southern arm of a Russian pincers movement to trap German forces in the Dnieper bend area.

Splendid Cough Relief, Mixed in Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough syrup that can be depended upon for quick results, and gives you about 4 times as much for your money. And no trouble—it's so easily prepared.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it's your favorite cough treatment. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Small Group Of Ladies Completed 164 Quilts In Past Three Years

HASTINGS, Jan. 10 — (ENS). — Mrs. Arthur Beamish was hostess to the Cobourg Road Red Cross for the January meeting There were 17 members present. The president, Miss Clara Williamson, presided. They quilted three quilts in the afternoon. The treasurer, Mrs. Eric Pulfer reported two meetings during the past year, also receipts of $335.50 from a dance, pot-luck dinner, canvass, travelling apron, and euchre parties, with a balance on hand of $96.44. The treasurer resigned and Mrs. Lou Lamey was appointed as treasurer for the New Year. Letters were read from Harry Porter and Pat Doyle (overseas) thanking the members for their Christmas parcels. They decided to send all the boys cigarettes this month, and a parcel to each boy for the month of February. A donation of $10 is to be given to the Hastings Red Cross. Mrs. Gordon Dickey, Mrs. Eric Pulfer, and the president were appointed to make a paper collection, the paper to be left at Mrs. Lou Lamey's home.

Mrs. Cecil Oliver gave the year's sewing report, stating they had completed 47 quilts, this making a total of 164 quilts in the past three years. 12 girls' dresses and panties, 7 ladies' skirts, 8 ladies' blouses, 16 boys' shirts, 100 men's khaki handkerchiefs, 25 operating sheets, 25 personal property bags, and 2 hospital jackets. The knitting convener, Mrs. Arthur Beamish, handed in four helmets and a pair of gloves which had been completed for the month of December. Her yearly report was as follows: 36 pairs of socks, 18 pairs of gloves, 37 helmets, 6 tuck-ins, 10 sleeveless sweaters, 3 turtle-neck sweaters, 1 scarf, and also they made 13 pairs of socks for Christmas parcels for the boys overseas. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, February 1, at the home of Mrs. Donald Beamish.

Friendship Circle Meets.

The Friendship Circle of the Fleming's district held its January meeting on Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Alfred Forde's home. The president, Mrs. H. Johnston, presided. There were eight members present, and they quilted a fancy Dresden plate quilt The secretary, Mrs. Forde, reported receiving $16 for the two fancy quilts which had been sent to Toronto last month. A pot-luck dinner was enjoyed by all present. The next meeting will be held on February 3 at the home of William Fleming.

Fife's Red Cross Meets.

The Red Cross of Fife's Community met at the home of Mrs. Scott Fife. There were nine ladies present and they quilted two quilts during the afternoon and pieced part of another quilt. The next meeting will be on Wednesday afternoon, February 19, at the same home. The hostess served dainty refreshments.

Fumes Suffocate Two Roomers

HAMILTON, Jan 10 — (CP). — Police said to-day two persons died in a fumigation accident here last night and 10 others were taken to hospital. The dead, James Foster and William McGrogan, succumbed shortly after they entered a rooming house which had been fumigated early Sunday.

All but one of those taken to the hospital were able to leave after treatment.

Police said that the building where the deaths took place, a one-time hotel at King and Charles Streets, was occupied prior to the fumigation by a number of roomers and apartment dwellers on the second floor. The tenants were readmitted after midnight last night and police soon after received a call that a man was believed to be having a seizure.

When they reached the room, they discovered that the man was dead. On investigating they found a second dead man in a bed in an adjoining room.

Windows were quickly thrown open and help summoned. About a dozen persons were overcome or partly overcome.

Arrested As Spy

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (AP)—A United States Army corporal, said by the F.B.I. to have been at various times a radio commentator, department store floorwalker, Chinese army general and a U.S. Army lieutenant, was held under $10,000 bail today on charges of being an unregistered agent of the Japanese. The man, Arthur Clifford Read, 32, American born, was arrested while on furlough from Camp Croft, S.C., yesterday.

Layoffs In The Next Six Months

Speaking in Toronto on Friday last Mr. D. W. Foster, an associate director of National Selective Service, said that there would be many layoffs in Canadian industry between now and June, but he predicted that the loss of employment would be temporary, as the men and women laid off would be absorbed in new work. It is as well that everyone should understand this situation now, so that ill-feeling and a sense of injustice may be avoided later. It is particularly necessary that we should understand how these layoffs happen. They are not a sign that the war is nearly over and that a change to a peacetime program of production is beginning; they are much more likely to be caused by changes in the nature of the war effort demanding new weapons and materials. And they are not caused by the industries which lay off the men; those industries are working in close connection with the Department of Munitions and Supply and have to meet its wishes. This situation is thoroughly understood by the unions, and we are sure that the unions will do their part in explaining layoffs and changes to their members.

But however well the companies and the unions do their job in explaining and easing these layoffs it is the attitude of the individual worker which will make them either smooth or difficult. The position of the worker is admittedly an unenviable one; he may suddenly find himself out of a job, and subject to transfer to a new town and to new work, and a measure of hardship may be involved. Industrial work is war work, and it has its rough side. The job of National Selective Service in arranging these transfers of labour will be an intricate one, but it will be made much easier if the workers will be reasonably co-operative. Not industry, but war, is the cause of their upheaval. Everything will be done to place them in new jobs as soon as possible, but the transfers will all take time and organization.

It is particularly desirable that we should avoid brooding on unemployment, either now or in the post-war period. Canada needs every man who can work, and will need him just as much when the war is over, and civilian wants have to be supplied. There is work for everyone, and Selective Service will find it as soon as possible. The layoffs which are predicted mean, not loss of work, but change of work.

Education And Philosophy

In a recent edition of the London Times' Literary Supplement there appeared a paragraph which we think is of the deepest interest to all people who concern themselves with education. Here it is:

> "There are many thousands of students who now go to colleges asking only that they may be taught how to do something—how to farm or how to write shorthand. The response to their demand is called vocational education. If we gave it a less pretentious name and called it instead 'apprenticeship', we shall not despise it; for assuredly there is a great virtue in apprenticeship to a craft if it be honoured as what it is and not puffed up as to what it is not. Nevertheless, to ask: how shall I do this or that?, is evidently not a final question. Underlying it is the question: what shall I do? And underlying this are the questions: where am I? and: who am I? If the saying of Maritain ('I must know where I am and who I am, before knowing, and in order to know what I should do')—if that saying of Maritain were put before students about to choose their courses of study, and before legislators about to reform education, they might all be led to ask themselves salutary questions now seldom asked, and the schools of philosophy might be fuller than they are. For philosophy is not removed from common life except in the sense in which it may be said that the heart is removed from the surfaces of the body".

We hear a good deal, from time to time, about 'the enquiring mind of youth' but our complaint against the mind of youth is that it is not enquiring enough. It is too ready to accept as self-evident things which are not evident at all. The questions put in the foregoing quotation are not easy to answer, but they should be grappled with; no one who has made a serious attempt to say who and what he is, and what is the real nature of the country in which he lives, will ever be quite the same again. He will be humbler, and he will have his feet more solidly planted on the earth than his friend who has never tried to answer the questions, or dreamed that they could be asked.

We draw particular attention also to the reference to the modern tendency to puff up things into something which they are not. It is interesting that in these supposedly democratic days very few people are content to call humble trades by humble names, or to use honest, plain words to describe honest, plain things. We all want to make our jobs a little fancier, a little more high-toned than they really are, and the man who wants to be a barber goes to a 'college' just as does the man who wants to be a doctor.

One of the first aims of education should be to help us in dispelling any fanciful notions we may have about who we are and where we are; such knowledge would help us greatly in discovering what we should do and what we really want to do. Perhaps the chief fault of modern education is that it puts the gaining of factual knowledge before acquiring the ability to think, particularly about ourselves.

The New Chief Justice

As was generally expected, the Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret has been appointed to the office of Chief Justice of Canada, succeeding Sir Lyman Duff. Mr. Justice Rinfret was appointed to the Supreme Court in 1924, and was next in seniority to Sir Lyman; he was for many years the trusted friend and colleague of the former Chief Justice, he has had a brilliant legal career, he is a thorough Canadian, and he should support the dignity of his great office with ease and assurance. He is 65 years old, and as members of the superior bench are usually long-lived, he will doubtless give many years of service to this country.

Mr. Justice Rinfret was born in Montreal, and received his education at St. Mary's College and at McGill. For ten years he was Professor of Municipal Law and the Law of Public Utilities at his old university and he was appointed to the Supreme Court of Canada in 1924. His interests are wide and he has taken a prominent part in the cultural life of his native province.

The office of Chief Justice is one of the most important in the country, and it is a matter for satisfaction that a man of Mr. Justice Rinfret's abilities is available to fill it.

Toronto's Master Plan

The city of Toronto has gone in for town planning on the largest possible scale. Whether the plan will come to anything we cannot possibly say, but we hope that it will; it would be an excellent thing for Canada to see one city which was really planned, and not built on a principle of higgledy-piggledy mess. Too many of our cities are planless without being picturesque, and crowded without being convenient. The capital of Ontario might show the way to something better.

It would take enormous sums of money to build the Toronto of which the planners dream, and for that reason the advance of the plan will be slow, or it may fade into oblivion. But these things do not invalidate the excellence of the Master Plan. The modern city which we have grown used to is a cramped, sunless, inconvenient warren in which hundreds of thousands of people spend their lives bereft of the advantages which intelligent planning and zoning, proper parks and playgrounds, and a satisfactory transportation system would give them. Of course it is out of the question to tear down existing cities and build well-planned cities in their places; judicious compromise must be used to combine the possible with the desirable. We are glad that Toronto has made a beginning, even if it has gone no farther than making a Plan.

Torontonians will understand that we intend no malice when we say that their city is ugly and inconvenient; it just happened to grow that way at a time when its growth could not be controlled. But the Master Plan, or even a few of its improvements, would do much to make Toronto a beautiful city, in which it would be pleasant to live and which it would be a joy to visit. We hope that it will be possible to undertake the long and slow job which will make the Master Plan a reality.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

NOW that we are almost half through January it is well to be considering what grain we shall sow this spring. The quantities of coarse grain which Ontario farmers have had to bring from the Western provinces during the past year make it important that as large a yield of these feed grains as is possible will be important in 1944. Freight and subsidies have been paid on such Western grain in 1943 but we cannot tell how long these may last, nor what the yield of coarse grains may be on the Prairies this year. In any event, it is a fine thing for a farmer to have full bins of feed grain in his granary. To insure a good yield care must be taken in seeding to give the grain sown the best possible chance to produce good vigorous plants.

In calculating what our yield may be it is well to keep "mixed grain" in mind as a useful crop. If a field is in a good condition of tilth and fertility we can expect a larger yield from seeding with mixed grain than from seeding with any one variety. If you are aiming at a large yield of grain you must provide the plant food necessary to grow it, and a liberal applications of chemical fertilizer, strong in phosphates, will pay with a crop like this. Most farmers make oats the basis for such a mixture and seed a larger quantity of oats than of other grains. It is well to use an early maturing variety of oats so they will ripen with the barley. I know a farmer who has good strong clay land and his mixture, for each acre seeded, consists of one bushel of oats, one half bushel of barley, 15 lbs. of Durum wheat and 10 lbs. of peas. The grain should be very thoroughly mixed and treated with ceresan before sowing. A trace of flax in such a mixture will add greatly to its feeding value and can be easily mixed with the grain in the box of the seed drill, and thus ensure better distribution. The quantities of grain might be varied according to your soil, but, if possible, use the four varieties of grain as this will increase the yield in a quite substantial way. On good clay land, carefully tilled, I have seen 100 bushels per acre threshed from such a mixture. The grain should be well cleaned so that nothing but good heavy fertile seed is used.

It would be a good plan to select one or two fields on your farm for such a crop this year. For this purpose use the best of your cropping fields as you are after a good return, and this can be made your best paying grain crop.

ON quite a number of farms in this province dairying is not a leading feature but perhaps six or eight cows are kept for the double purpose of breeding young stock and bringing in a milk cheque from the grass. In this case such cows are mostly dry for three or four months in the winter. As soon as a cow ceases to give milk there is a temptation to forget about her for a while and give her but a very meagre maintenance ration. This is a mistake. You expect this cow to produce a calf in the spring and then give a good return in milk. She can only do this if she is in good health and reasonable condition. Feed her so she will put on some flesh and so not only give you a good healthy calf, but begin at once to earn a useful milk cheque. She should go to the grass in good fit and earn money at once. If she is only just brought through the winter it will take her a month to make up in the spring which is a distinct loss and one you cannot afford. It always costs more to bring an animal back into condition than to keep it up, or even improve it as you go along. Don't let your milking cows down and then wonder why they don't pay.

SOME of the differences between being in the war zone and being far removed as Canada is from it, are indicated by what is now taking place in Britain. In southwest England some 600,000 acres of farm lands are to be used for training American forces. For some six or seven weeks three or four hundred service men and Land Girls have been assisting farmers to evacuate their farms and homes. The movement of cattle, particularly dairy herds, is one of the greatest difficulties. Compensation will be paid those moved but, as is freely stated, there is always a loss greater than can be calculated, and the delay in a Government paying compensation is always an annoying loss. Nobody is saying it should not be done, and there are no threats not to move. There is a grim determined enemy to defeat and everything necessary to the accomplishment of that must be done. There will be a large army of troops from the United States quartered in Britain. They must have room to train; they have a life-and-death struggle ahead of them, and they must be kept on their toes with training until our foes are beaten. Live shot and shell will be used by these American troops training in this area so the complete evacuation of civilians is necessary. From around four small villages 3,000 farmers are being moved. Some late harvests have been taken off but the rest must be lost. A good part of this area was to be cleared before the beginning of this year.

THERE is a battle training school in the north of Scotland and a great many farmers had to be cleared out of it before the middle of November. Several thousand head of livestock were sold by auction and the farms abandoned. Good prices were paid for cattle and horses at these sales. Grade dairy cows brought up to $245, two year old bullocks sold for prices running around $130 and crossing bulls owned by small holders ran from $250 to $300. Sheep did not sell so well as most customers for feeder lambs were supplied at the fall sales. Good breeding ewes brought $20 to $25. It is difficult for us to realize what it means to many of these people, not only to abandon their homes but to get settled again. This is what war is meaning to them and as the final struggle approaches they may have hardships to endure which can scarcely be imagined now. In the south of England spring begins to make itself felt about the first of February, which will help moving.

Preparations In France

According to a letter from Nice, written nearly three weeks ago, the Allies are well informed about conditions in France by parachutists.

The car of two physicians was requisitioned by two men in German officers' uniforms recently, the letter said. The men said the car would be returned to a garage in Nice.

That night, when one of the doctors went to the garage, the car was there with a note on the driver's seat. It said:

"Here is 200 francs for the gas and oil. Many thanks from the two British parachutists to whom you were kind enough to lend your car this morning.—Berne Report.

Another Bus Franchise

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IN connection with the election returns of New Year's Day, it is interesting to note that in Peterborough a by-law giving the Peterborough Bus Company a ten-year franchise was carried by 3,462 to 648 against. The campaign for this franchise was very well carried out by the Border Transit Limited, the owners of the Peterborough bus lines, and in an open letter the company explained its position over the signature of Frank Mitchell, the president. Mr. Mitchell pointed out that they were serving the city with sixteen modern, efficient buses, and that the company planned early in January to inaugurate a ten-minute service. The ten-minute service is made possible, according to the statement of Mr. Mitchell, through two things: the securing of extra equipment, and the co-operation of the local Selective Service office.

The people of Kingston are vitally interested in bus franchise because this city's franchise with the local bus company will expire on the 31st of December, 1945. As it is a matter which will have to be voted upon by the people, it should be presented to the people on the first Monday in December of this year in order that both the bus company and the city officials can adjust themselves to any changes. The Whig-Standard feels it should draw this matter to the attention of the public early so that they can give adequate consideration to the whole problem.

When the bus service was inaugurated, this newspaper advocated a ten-minute service. We protested strongly a few years later when the company was allowed to put into effect a twenty-minutes service on some routes. However, the bus company presented arguments that apparently satisfied the city authorities and the majority of the patrons of the buses. We believe these matters, together with the present fare of four tickets for twenty-five cents, should be reconsidered carefully before a franchise is again granted. Today Kingston buses are terribly overcrowded, a condition which should be remedied by a more frequent service just as soon as the transit controller will allow.

It is interesting in this connection to note what has been done in the city of Brantford, an industrial city in Western Ontario of about the same size as Kingston. A few years ago when the people of Brantford voted to scrap the old street-car system and inaugurate a bus system, there was considerable doubt expressed in some quarters in that city as to whether it would be successful. It has, however, we are credibly informed, been more than successful. The bus system is municipally owned and is operated by the Public Utilities Commission. It has a five-cent fare and gives six tickets for a quarter. It has a ten-minute service on some runs and a fifteen-minute service on others. It operates twenty-seven buses, and a Brantford-to-Paris bus which also carries some city traffic. Last year this bus system in the city of Brantford made a gross profit of $66,000, out of which the Public Utilities Commission pays for its new rolling stock. In fairness, we should state that we understand that a bus system owned by a municipality, as in Brantford, pays no taxes, which are a very heavy charge today against any privately owned transit company.

The city of Kingston is expanding rapidly. It is no longer a static city of 23,000 or 24,000 people, but a growing industrial city with a population of nearly 35,000 in addition to the armed forces. The bus service that answered the purpose ten or even five years ago does not answer the purpose today. This city badly needs a better bus service. This need should be given careful consideration before the terms of any new franchise are settled.

Pill of Immortality

The Ts'an T'ung Ch'i describes the preparation of the pill of immortality by the heating together of the Two Principles in a closed vessel from which no vapors can escape, at first gently and finally with a strong fire. The hermetically sealed vessel, which the later European alchemists denominated the "Philosopher's Egg," is described by Wei- Po-yang: "On the sides there is the walled enclosure, shaped like a p'eng hu pot. Closed in all sides, its interior is made of intercommunicating labyrinths. The protection is so complete as to turn back all that is devilish and undesirable, and the meandering passages take good care of emergencies."

Persons who ate the pill of immortality became "hsien," supernatural immortals, forever young, able to travel great distances, to pass through fire without being burned, through water without being wetted, able to change their forms to appear and to disappear at will. The powers of a "hsien" were the powers of a "jinn" as described in "The Arabian Nights Entertainments," suggesting that the Arabic word may perhaps be derived from the Chinese and indicating a possible line of transmission whereby alchemy came from China to Europe.—(From "Endeavour," Recording Progress in Science.)

Pidgin English

There is an amusing story regarding Dr. Wellington Kee: A diamond-in-the-rough American general was invited in London to an official banquet (during second-front discussions) and found himself sitting next a Chinese citizen for the first time in his life. He did not know that the Chinese gentleman was Dr. Wellington Koo, a graduate of Oxford and Columbia universities, and one of the most erudite people in the world. But the general felt that propriety demanded his making at least one comment to Dr. Koo, and as the waiter removed the soup dishes he said: "Likee soupee?" Dr. Koo merely nodded his head, surprised, and smiled. His duty done, the general devoted himself to his other neighbour. While liqueurs were being passed Dr. Koo was called upon for a speech. He rose and spoke brilliantly for ten minutes, while the general became more and more uncomfortable. As he sat down, Dr. Koo turned to the general. "Likee speechee?" he inquired sweetly.—Winnipeg Free Press.

England and Russia

(Extract from letter to The Times, London, England.)

"Allied convoys bringing British and American supplies to Russia are now using the same route as was used 390 years ago by Richard Chancellor, the first Englishman to land in Russia and to be received at the Russian Court. In August, 1553, Chancellor's ship, the only one of the three which formed part of the expedition headed by Sir Hugh Willoughby to survive the voyage, reached the mouth of the Northern Dvina, not far from Archangel. Chancellor's visit laid the foundations of long and fruitful intercourse. Some 100 years ago, Dr. Joseph Hamel, of the Imperial Russian Academy of Sciences, who was the first to study in detail the early history of Anglo-Russian relations, suggested that the presumed spot of Chancellor's landing—the place which the English described as Rose Island, on account of wild roses which grew there in profusion, would be a fitting place for the erection of some kind of memorial. Perhaps it would be even more fitting to revive Hamel's idea now, when so many Englishmen are braving not only the elements but also enemy submarines and bombers, to reach the northern coast of Russia and deliver supplies to their Russian allies.

Hamel also suggested that the 300th anniversary of Anglo-Russian relations might be suitably marked in 1853 to commemorate so remarkable an example of uninterrupted amicable intercourse between nations. Unfortunately the amicable relations between the two nations were temporarily marred by the Crimean War of 1854-56. It is to be hoped that 10 years from now on the occasion of the 400th anniversary of Chancellor's arrival in Russia, Hamel's idea of suitable commemoration of the jubilee will be carried into effect."

Unconsidered Trifles

A small storekeeper, much to the astonishment of his neighbours, suddenly decorated his shop window with a gorgeous new blind. It was a sensation of the day, and few of his brethren failed to make some remark to him about it.

"Nice blind you've got there, Isaac," said one.

"Yes, Aaron."

"How much did it cost you, Isaac?"

"It didn't cost me anything, Aaron. My customers paid for it."

"What! Your customers paid for it?"

"Yes, Aaron, I put a little box on my counter, 'For the Blind,' and they paid for it."

A Bible Message

What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord. (Ps. 116: 12, 13.)

The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? (I Cor. 10: 16.)

For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come. Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. (I Cor. 11: 26-28.)

Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.... Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. (Ps. 51: 7, 10.)

A Lover of London

A year ago John Burns, octogenarian English Labour leader, died. Now Lord Southwood, head of the Odhams Press, British publishing merger, has bought John Burns' famous library of books about Old London and is presenting it to the city on condition that it be available for the use of the people. This is as John Burns would have wished. During his long residence in London, when he served as organizer for a union, member of Parliament and eventually Cabinet minister, his hobby was walking about London's streets, particularly at night. His powerful strides carried him over long distances, and he stopped to talk with people all along the way. He is supposed to have known most of the "Bobbies" in London's East End.

He liked to find out about places too, and knew where most of the famous men were born—Old London marks such places with plaques — and stories about the London that was. His collection of books is regarded as one of London's historic treasures. Lord Southwood paid £6,000 for the books, but many of them are priceless in the sense of being irreplaceable. Some of the books contain descriptions of London dating back to the times of Queen Elizabeth. They reflect and preserve the love John Burns felt for Old London and Londoners.—London Free Press.

The Right Costume

Mr. Churchill in costume has become versatility itself. He signed the Atlantic Charter in a nautical pea jacket. Three years ago, at the time of the Battle of London, he was wearing the so-called siren suit of the ARP. Last summer, we recall, when Mr. Churchill was given a luncheon by some journalists here, he arrived in a suit of plain beach cloth, a soft white shirt and collar, blue polka-dot bow tie and dark-rimmed spectacles, which is, of course, the traditional hot-weather uniform of the Washington correspondents' corps. Thus it can be pretty safely predicted that when Mr. Churchill takes his seat at the peace table he will be wearing a long loose nightgown and halo. While Mr. Churchill's fondness for changing his costume may be compared in a way to Herr Goering's, it is necessary to observe that that unhappy marshal has never exhibited anything like the Prime Minister's instinct for adapting his costume to the occasion. Otherwise, the marshal would certainly have put on jester's motley when he made the famous statement about the impregnability of Berlin.—Washington, D.C., Post.

The Future of the CBC

Comes the Winnipeg Tribune with a demand for a "clean sweep of the present inefficient, wobbly and discredited Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation."

This, perhaps, is a bit too strong. But what clearly is needed, if public confidence in the CBC isn't to wither and die, is that the CBC Board be strengthened, that its existing vacancies be filled, and that there be appointed a general manager who is, in addition to knowing radio, capable of efficient administration and able to win trust of the public.

Basically, that is what is wrong with the CBC. Give it a Board of Governors able to win public confidence, and provide it with a general manager of ability and common sense, and all this friction over political broadcasting and other things will speedily vanish. As it is, the CBC is suffering, and broadcasting is suffering, from failure of the Government to appoint the right kind of governors for the right reasons; and Government indifference to the consequences of bad appointments. Radio is being left to languish.—Ottawa Journal.

First Bingo Held

The opening bingo for 1944, under the auspices of the Citizens' committee, and held Saturday evening at the Recreation Centre, was well attended, and the boys greatly enjoyed the bingo, and the sing-song which followed the concluding of play.

Pte. L. E. Vankoughnett, of Dunchurch, Ontario, won the telephone call donated by the Lions' Club, and Pte. C. E. Smith, Hamilton, won the photograph given by Farthing's Studio, and another photograph, donated by Morris Duke Studio, went to Pte. Sacks, of Owen Sound, Ontario.

Other prizes won during the evening included cigarettes donated by Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, L. Yeotes, Joy's, Empress Hotel, and McDermid and Jury, and the three theatres each gave five theatre tickets.

Friends Honor Warsaw Couple

WARSAW, Jan. 10—(ENS)—One hundred and fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett on Friday evening to bid them farewell and wish them success in their new home.

The evening was spent in dancing and cards and at lunch time an address was read by Mrs. Harold Clifford and a well-filled purse was presented to them.

Mr. Bennett expressed appreciation for the occasion for himself and Mrs. Bennett. They are leaving for their new home in Peterborough this week.

Messrs. Mark Freeburn, Hilliard Hamblin and Gordon Quirk furnished the music for dancing.

Mrs. J. Gerrard Heads Knox WMS

Mrs. J. Gerrard was re-elected president of Knox United church Women's Missionary Society, at the annual meeting of the Society held in the church parlors. Other officers for 1944 are as follows: Honorary president Mrs. J. McCurdy; first vice-president, Mrs. R. Laing; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. M. D. Armstrong; third vice-president, Mrs. Thompson; secretary, Mrs. A. Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. F. English; secretary of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. J. F. Morrison; Community Friendship secretary, Mrs. A. Sanderson; Associate Helpers secretary, Mrs. R. Hanscom; temperance secretary, Mrs. E. Benson; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. J. Allen; literary secretary, Mrs. S. Thexton; supply secretary, Mrs. M. Ego; pianist, Mrs. Lewis; social convener, Mrs. G. Davis.

The president, Mrs. Gerrard, opened the meeting with a message for the New Year, and heard reports of the various committee conveners. Margaret Johnston reported for the Mission Band, Mrs. Murduff told of the activities of the Frances Watt Mission Circle, and Mrs. H. Clegg reported for the Helen Roger Auxiliary. The work of the C. G. I. T. was given in detail by Mrs. E. Johnston, who also gave the report from the Senior Auxiliary.

It was announced during the business period that in addition to reaching its allocation the W.M.S. by means of the "Birthday Box" had been able to make a "special object" gift of $15. Also, the family of the late Mrs. William Stevens, a faithful W.M.S. worker donated a sum of money in her memory.

An executive meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary and the W. M. S. was called for January 17, to complete arrangements for the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society, which is being held in Knox Church January 25.

The president read portions of the study book, and a worship service was conducted by Mrs. J. F. Morrison. The theme was, "The Bible for all Canada's children", and Mrs. A. E. Sanderson and Mrs. R. Laing assisted.

Hostess Girls Give Program

Sunday evening, in the theatre of the local Training Centre, twenty of the Sunday Hostess girls assisted Major R. M. Bamsey with his Sunday night "Song Service," and a short program interspersed with community singing, was presented, with Mrs. C. Norman at the piano.

Miss Phyllis Cowie sang "Ave Maria," Mr. Ted Collis sang "The Blind Ploughman," and Pte. Dickson sang "The Lord's Prayer." A duet, "In the Garden," was sung by Jewel Scott and Marjorie Goldie, and a trio, Ptes. Dickson, Thiesson and Penner, sang the negro spiritual, "Were You There."

Following the program, a lunch was served in the Canteen by members of the Peterborough Women's Service Corps.

Pot Roast, Plus

The colder the weather the more your family will like this spicy pot roast of beef

Our 'hint' for this week introduces one of the most useful tricks in the cook's repertoire. That of the marinade or "steeping sauce."

Many of the less popular cuts of meat can be given unusual and attractive flavours by soaking them in such a sauce.

Try the marinade given in the panel with a pot roast of beef . . . a 4 lb. beef rump or chuck . . . prepare the meat as directed and let stand, covered, in cool place for 2 hours or more. Pour off liquid and save. Rub meat with mustard and brown in hot fat. Add the spiced mixture. Cover and cook slowly adding hot water as needed for 3 to 3½ hours. Vegetables (onions, carrots, celery, etc.) may be added just long enough before serving to ensure tenderness.

'MARINADE FOR BEEF'

- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 teaspoon (each) grated nutmeg, ground cinnamon and cloves
- 2 bay leaves
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 clove garlic (optional)
- 1 cup apple or grape juice
- Boiling water as required

Wipe meat with damp cloth and place in bowl. Mix salt and spices and rub over top of meat. Add sliced onion, garlic (if used), bay leaves, brown sugar, vinegar and fruit juice.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 11

WHILE THERE may be some unusual or exciting opportunity for making quick turns, either in industry, business, science or invention, judging by the lunar transits, yet there is danger from the hasty and overstrained effort, which may retard or defeat entirely the desired objectives. Under the advice of superiors or others whose co-operation is required, and with proper consideration of the rules and regulations, definite advance may be expected Practical efforts even in promoting extraordinary propositions or projects may prove productive.

Alluring Opening.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which there may be an alluring opening for launching some program or project of more than unusual importance. In fact, exceptional novel, or radical ideas may attract the support and sound advice of competent and influential persons, whose promotional ability as well as funds are requisite. The danger of being carried away by excitement or a compelling impulse to win out even at cost of accepted codes, is imminent. With restraint, practical skill, ingenuity and friendly advice there may be progress in attaining desired objectives.

A child born on this day, while having skill, ingenuity and advanced ideas and objectives, is likely to overdo or defeat itself by emotional excitement or rash impulses.

BOSS MORE CONCERNED ABOUT MAKING SALE THAN SECRETARY

Average Employer Could Not Identify Hard Working Aide If She Were Run Over

Most wives are jealous of their husbands' secretaries with, or without, cause. Generally this is wasted emotion for, contrary to the movies, which always depict business offices as love nests, during their working hours men are more concerned with chasing the lady on the dollar than they are any flesh and blood female, however pulchritudinous she may be; and if the average employer's stenographer should be run over by an automobile on the streets, he wouldn't be able to give a good enough description of how she looked to enable the police to identify her.

Of course, there are Sugar Daddies who hire their stenographers for their shapes and not for their spelling, but, speaking by and large, most men are not flirtatiously inclined and those who are do their philandering after the shop shuts up, and with strange women, instead of the one with whom they have worked and wrangled all day.

Secretary Often Unattractive

Still, for all of that, we cannot wonder that wives get green-eyed when they read in the paper of how many eligible widowers, from Lloyd George down, have married their secretaries, and of how often it is the stenographer who figures in the divorce cases in which men have lost their taste for their mates. This brings about a situation which leaves women gasping for breath, and asking: "What has Miss Pothooks got that I have not got?" For the secretary who captures the matrimonial prize, or breaks up a home, is not always young and beautiful and glamorous. Just as often she is as plain and middleaged as the woman she supplants.

But I think the explanation is not hard to find. In the first place, the stenographer strives to please, and that is a charm that a woman can always conjure with. She has a good job and she wants to keep it, so she tries to give satisfaction; whereas the wife knows she cannot be fired, so she takes liberties with her position. She should worry if her husband doesn't like her cooking, or the way she dresses, or the people she runs with. And nothing cools off a man's enthusiasm about marriage quicker than to discover that his wife regards him as just a mere husband who isn't worth dolling herself up for, or wasting upon him any coquetries, or even trying to keep him interested and amused.

Girl Knows How to Handle Boss

The secretary plays up to her boss. When he is grouchy because business is bad, or because he drank too many cocktails the night before and didn't get enough sleep, she doesn't talk back to him. She smooths his fur the right way and yes-yeses him until he is purring under her hand and congratulating himself upon being such a wonderful executive.

When he criticizes her work, she doesn't burst into tears and tell him a few home truths. She meekly apologizes for what is probably his mistake. She laughs at his old stories, instead of saying: "For Heaven's sake, are you going to drag out that old chestnut again?" For she knows that if the Office Wife treated her employer as the Home Wife does, the woman turnover in business would be something terrific.

The secretary who gets to be something more than a piece of office furniture studies her employer's business until she knows as much about it as he does, and she is just as much interested in it as he is. She is excited over every new deal he is trying to put over, and is willing to work her fingers to the bones to do all she can to help make it go through. She knows that she is sitting in the biggest gambling game in the world and she thrills to every subtle move in it.

Above all, she is never weary of listening to shop talk, and that makes many a stenographer more of a companion to her boss than his wife is, who yawns in his face when he tries to tell her about his plans and ambitions, and says: "For pity sake, can't you leave your office down town, instead of dragging it home with you every night?"

Many Wives Loaf After Marriage

No secretary spends her time telling her employer her troubles, because she knows he has plenty of things to worry about of his own. Nor does she whine continually over not being able to do the things that rich women do. Nor is she perpetually asking for a raise in salary. Nor does she consider that having gotten a job she can loaf on it and not do anything to earn her pay, or else she wouldn't be a secretary very long. Yet there are plenty of wives who go on the principle that a marriage certificate entitles them to sit down on the do-nothing stool and howl for the balance of their lives.

If you will get this picture of a woman who comes down to work every morning spick and span and clean looking; who is an appeaser instead of a counter-irritant; who puts her brains and her heart in her work and turns out a good job, and who has the same interests and speaks the same language her employer does, it will give you a rough idea of why so many men fall in love with their secretaries, and marry them.

Puny Female

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9—(AP)—Clarence L. Zeise was sitting in his Knoxville home last night when he heard a woman scream. He dashed into the street and found the woman was his 35-year-old wife. She was sitting on a man, holding him down. "He tried to take my purse away from me," she explained. "When I wouldn't give it to him, he hit me over the head with his gun. After that—well, I guess I lost my temper."

Reporter Finds Former Champ Blind, Penniless

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (CP)— Sam Langford, blind, penniless and far from being the young buck who, as the "Boston Tar Baby," cut a wide swath through boxing ranks three decades ago, laughed happily today and declared stoutly:

"Don't nobody need to feel sorry for old man. I had plenty of good times. I been all over the world. I fought maybe three, four hundred fights and every one was a pleasure. If I just had me a little change in my pocket, I'd get along fine."

Langford, born in Weymouth, N.S., on a date he does not know —pressed, he'll say March 4, 1886 —was found by a New York Herald Tribune reporter in a dingy hall bedroom on 139th street, the heart of Manhattan's Harlem. He has only memories to remind him of his days in the ring when he fought and defeated such boxing greats as Jack Johnson, Harry Wills and Fred Fulton, despite their huge advantage in size.

The Boston Tar Baby fought at 165 pounds. He is now 210, although only five feet, 6½ inches in height. The Herald Tribune termed him a "gnome with a prodigiously broad flat nose, a cauliflower ear and an immense amiability."

The buffeting he received in the ring left Langford blind and he now ekes out an existence on a few dollars a month income from a foundation for the blind.

Langford began fighting before 1900 but boxing records list his first fight as in 1902. His last was in Mexico City October 19, 1923, when he knocked out Fireman Jim Flynn in three rounds.

Louis Wants More

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 10— (AP) — Sgt. Joe Louis, duration heavyweight boxing champion, won't hang up his gloves if he is in his early thirties when the war is over, he said today.

Joe is 29.

Regardless of whether he fights again, Louis said he would like to remain associated with boxing.

"I owe boxing everything," he said. "I would like to stay in the game and give young men the benefit of what I have learned. I would like to be of some help to them."

Hollett Gets Busy

DETROIT (AP) — Defenceman William (Flash) Hollett changed his mind Saturday about leaving the National Hockey League and joined Detroit Red Wings here Sunday night against Chicago Black Hawks. Hollett told Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings by telephone he had reached an agreement with Boston on what he said were some grievances.

KELLIE'S CORNER

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Earl McCready will be a badly disappointed individual if he doesn't succeed in handing big Karl Davis an artistic trimming when he meets the ornery Texan here tomorrow night in the feature bout of the Tunney wrestling show at Brock St. Arena. Ever since Davis managed to secure a win over the Aurora Farmer here early last month and at the same time to cripple the big Canadian by twisting the ligaments of his knee McCready has been looking for revenge. The injured leg is all right again and now he has his opportunity to square things with Davis and he hopes to do it tomorrow night. Davis on the other hand doesn't think the Moose has a chance. "I beat him by getting two out of three falls the last time," growled the Texan, "he got me once with that fancy rocking-chair hold of his but he won't get a chance to work that one again. As for me I know that his legs can be hurt and so I know just how to go to work on him." Davis intimated that he was sorry that it wasn't Watson he was going to meet. "That baby will have to wait until he feels fit again," he said, "and I'll knock him off then. Meanwhile I'll polish off this McCready and do it so easily that there won't be any demands for a return match."

* * * * * *

That is the kind of talk that has got Davis in wrong all over the Canadian circuit. Everywhere the fans have been pulling for somebody to kick the big fellow around and the only trouble so far is that Davis has been tough and good enough to back up all his boasting. Local enthusiasts think that McCready has the size, will be there behind him solidly rooting for a Canadian win over the skill, the experience and the courage to do the trick and they will be there behind him solidly rooting for a Canadian win over the Texas invader. Another rough-house artist from the other side will be seen in action on the same bill for Cowboy Roy Graham who rides them all high, wide and handsome will be stacked up against Toar Morgan in the semi-final. The Battling Marine is likely to take some of the fight out of the cowboy before the battle is long under way. And as if two bad men on one card wasn't enough Promoter Tunney has Al Bunny Dunlop billed to meet the French wrestler Pierre DeGlane in the opener. Dunlop fights only one style and that is plenty tough and he and DeGlane have staged a couple of tumultuous brawls recently in which Dunlop wound up by getting disqualified. He's likely to get the same dose tomorrow night if he doesn't slow up a little.

Ready For The Playoffs

The stage is all set for the House League playoffs at the Y.M.C.A. and Saturday night will see the Dominion Life trophy winners for this season decided. Frigates knocked the Cruisers out of the playoff picture by smothering Gord Johnston's team 62 to 26, Saturday night. It was a sudden-death affair to see which club would enter the final series and Frigates sparked by Bill Edger were too powerful for the Cruisers. Tonight the preliminary round of the playoffs will be staged with a double-header. In the first fixture, billed for 7.15 o'clock the Frigates, fresh from their Saturday night victory will clash with Jim Ferguson's Corvettes who had been playing some smart basketball before the holiday layoff. The second game will see Pete McArthur's Fairmiles battling with Harry Currie's Destroyers in what should be a very evenly contested battle. The two winners will tie into each other in the semi-finals on Thursday night and the team to come down in front in that clash will go into the final round against Joe Stewart's Algerines who finished the regular schedule without a loss and were routed directly into the last round.

* * * * * *

Local curlers will find this description by Joe Burns in the Windsor Star of the final game at Detroit in which Ray Best's Peterborough rink was defeated by one shot by Judge Kelly highly interesting: "Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly—known to the curling world as Dan—edged out Ray Best in the final of the featured Gooderham & Worts Trophy last night to win the championship of the Detroit Curling Club's 57th International Bonspiel, and if matches such as theirs are frequent, one can well understand why the ancient Scottish pastime is known as "the roarin' game." For it was a roarin', rousin' finish that gave the portly and pleasant Toronto jurist victory over the long, lean white-haired Peterborough veteran who this year is president of the Ontario Curling Association. With his last rock of the 12-end battle, Judge Kelly made a perfect draw shot to score a 9-8 victory after 12 ends of just about as fine an exhibition of curling as has ever been seen at the Detroit club. It looked bad for Kelly when Skip Best, delivering his stones prior to his vis-a-vis, laid down two seemingly perfect guards to protect a Peterborough rock that appeared to be the winner. But Kelly, after 15 years of the sport, knows a few things himself, and though the task was terrific, he proved up to it. He chose to try an out-turn where many another man would have chosen an in. It proved a wise choice. With the aid of a little dexterous sweeping, the Toronto rock slowly curved to the right of the Peterborough guard stones and continued on in to beat out Peterborough's best-placed granite. Believe it or not, the margin—over a distance of 125 feet and after three hours—was less than an inch!"

He Was No Asset

Doug Vaughan's comment in the Windsor Star on Pat Egan, traded to the Boston Bruins last week is interesting. Here it is: "It was only two short months ago that we hailed Pat (Box Car) Egan as a valuable addition to the ranks of the Detroit Red Wings. On the strength of what we had seen of him when he was a member of the New York Americans we pictured him as a fearless bodychecker of enemy puck carriers in addition to a guy who could, and would, score goals himself. Yesterday the Wings announced that they had traded this fearless bodychecker and great puck-carrying defenceman to the Boston Bruins for Bill (Flash) Hollett. So now, perhaps, you want us to admit that because the Detroit club has traded Egan all the things we said about him were wrong. Well, we won't admit it. But we will admit that Egan didn't play the hockey of which he was capable while he was a member of the Red Wings. Putting it bluntly, Pat was more of a handicap than an asset to the Wings. He committed more blunders as a defenceman than any other member of the rear-guard division. Further, he didn't score goals. Still further, he didn't help the morale of the club. Regardless of whether or not Hollett ever joins the Red Wings, we still think that Manager Jack Adams did the right thing in getting rid of a potentially great hockey player who never did, and apparently never would, play the hockey of which he was capable while he was in Detroit."

* * * * * *

Canadiens, showing no sign of faltering, increased their lead over the week-end by taking two games from the tail-end Rangers and ran their consecutive wins up to nine. Dick Irvin's crew had an easy task winning at home Saturday night when they swamped the Rangers 8 to 2 but they had to work all the way to nose out the Young Men of Manhattan in New York Sunday night 6 to 5. The Rangers staged a strong finish that almost pulled the game out of the fire. Toronto Leafs handed Boston Bruins one of their worst shellackings of the season in Toronto Saturday night, winning 12 to 3. Bill Calladine scored one of the Boston goals and set up another. Flash Hollett bolstered up the Detroit defence as the Red Wings beat the Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 2.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Kingston Frontenacs went back into the lead in the senior O.H.A. group Saturday night by eking out a 5 to 4 win over the St. Catharines Saints....Ches McCance, Winnipeg football star has enlisted in the R.C.A.F.....Bill Cowley, Boston star, hurt his shoulder in Saturday's game and may be out of action for a month....That will about end his chances of setting a new N.H.L. scoring record....Cowley was crashed into the end of the rink by McLean, an incident that shows that a run-of-the-mine rookie can put a star out of commission... And goodness knows the N.H.L. cannot afford to lose many more stars... Incidentally there was no penalty; in fact Referee Lamport did not issue one all night....Babe Pratt had five assists against the Bruins, which is really setting them up for a defence player.

Ladies' Bonspiel Starts Wednesday

By HERB MARTIN

The big attraction at the rink this week is the ladies' big open bonspiel. Play is scheduled to start on Wednesday, Jan. 12 at 9.30 o'clock and will continue two days. According to the entries received it looks as if some of the outstanding lady curlers of Ontario will compete. Mrs. Code, High Park, Toronto, who won the bonspiel last year, is coming back to defend the Warne Trophy. Mrs. MacIntosh of Bobcaygeon, Tankard winner not so long ago, is coming. Mrs. Dr. Breselau, Toronto Granites, always a strong contender, will be here, as well many other prominent in curling circles Mrs. J. Humphrey, now of Toronto Granites, and who learned the art of curling right here in our rink, is coming down with a strong rink just to let us know she hasn't forgot. Our own club is entering seven rinks so take it all in all, we, the people, should see some nice curling

The public is cordially invited to attend the rink and see this game as it should be played.

No Protests

PORT ARTHUR —(CP)— Frank Sargent, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said yesterday the C.A.H.A. "regrets" the loss of Army hockey teams, but accepts "without any protest" the ruling from Ottawa. It was announced in Ottawa that Army teams and Army personnel will not be permitted to play in Allan and Memorial Cup competition.

Two Captains

CLEVELAND —(AP)— American Hockey League teams will be required to name a team captain and substitute captain for all games, a league rules interpretation meeting decided last night. The new regulations stipulated that a captain represent his club in all protests unless he is in the penalty box. In the case, the sub-leader must replace him.

Starter Resigns

TORONTO —(CP)— The Globe and Mail says today there are rumors that Thomas (Nipper) Rowe, identified with starting and schooling of horses on Canadian race tracks for 23 years, is planning to resign as starter on tracks operated by the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations. The paper said that Walter Richey, native of Arnprior, Ont., likely will succeed Rowe if the resignation materializes.

Kingston Stays In

KINGSTON, Jan. 10. — Kingston Frontenac Army will complete its schedule in the O.H.A. senior series. They will enter the playoffs for the Ontario title if qualifying, but will not advance in the Allan Cup playdowns, according to army regulations. The Kingston soldiers were advised they could play in scheduled district games and exhibitions.

They will play Navy in Toronto tonight, but future games will depend on the revised schedule to be arranged by the O.H.A.

Kingston Soldiers will play Detroit Red Wings of the N.H.L. an exhibition game in Kingston Wednesday night.

Frigates Trim Cruisers 62-26

Steve Csumrik's Frigates killed the chances of the Cruisers to get into the Y.M.C.A. House League playoffs by defeating Gord. Johnston's team 62 to 26 Saturday night despite the fact that Johnston was back with his team after being out of action since the beginning of the season with an injured hand.

Frigates opened out at too rapid a pace for the Cruisers and with Bill Edger doing some gilt-edger shooting and getting lots of support from his team-mates the winners ran up a big score in the first session, leading at the half by 42 to 14. Cruisers pulled themselves together better after the rest and had considerable of the play but not enough to keep the Csumrik team from adding to its lead. Edger led the winners with 20 points and Franks had 16. Geraghty was tops for the Cruisers with 8 points.

The teams:

Frigates (62)—Edger 20, Seabrooke 10, Franks 16, Estlick 14, Csumrik 2.

Cruisers (26)—R. Johnston 4, Sisson 4, Geraghty 8, Ketchebau 4, G. Johnston 6.

Referee—Joe Stewart.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Leo Durocher, bound overseas on a troop-entertainment tour, will miss the Dodgers' first two weeks of training at Bear Mountain...but in a quiet place like that, the players probably can hear him anyway... Hank Armstrong, still determined to make another "comeback," may take on Saverio Turiello at Kansas City...Dick Farman, the Washington Redskins' all league guard, will be able to play pro football again next season as the result of a recent operation to relieve the pressure on a nerve.

Not in the League:

"Baseball's too cheap," says William Terry,
Whose absence won't make the fans less merry.
The hours are tough and the pay is rotten—
You'd think Bill sold Nylons instead of cotton.

Monday Matinee:

Although the Giants are listed among the opponents of chain store baseball, they're looking for a couple of good class "D" connections... Fearless Peter, the two-minute pacer who won 16 or 17 races for Doc Parshall and Don Gullinger, will be brought out of retirement next summer.

Who Won?

Tarzan Taylor, former Marquette U. line coach, tells this one about the Marquette team that kept drawing penalty after penalty for taking too much time in the huddles ...Finally Taylor yanked out the quarterback and, when the kid reached the bench, asked him the reason for the delays...."Why, coach, the quarterback explained, "I was listening to the scores being announced over the loud speaker."

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association, meeting in Toronto yesterday, drew up a one-week's revision of the senior schedule but went no farther because of conditions that were described as unsettled. The new dates were necessary because of the withdrawal of Toronto R.C.A.F. January 6 under the Air Force ban on Allan Cup competition. Kingston Frontenac Army, Hamilton Majors, St. Catharines Saints and Toronto Navy are continuing in the loop.

Manager Harold Ballard of the Toronto Marlboros in the Junior "A" series was given a warning for having played Albert (Red) Tilson, an ineligible player, against Oshawa Generals one week before and Tilson was ruled out of junior competition because he had played too many senior games this season. The same reason was applied to Pat Powers whom St. Michael's College wanted to use, while William Jordan was ruled out for the Owen Sound Greys, in the Junior "B" series after having played for Falcons in the U.S. Eastern Hockey League with Philadelphia. Don Skirk was awarded to Waterloo Juniors and Derwin Garner of Breslau was granted permission to play with the club nearest to his home town. Brantford Manufacturers League was admitted as a four-team group, the winner to participate in the Intermediate "A" playoffs. The application of Barrie to enter the North York "B" group was refused.

Russo Says No.

Southpaw Marius Russo of the New York Yankees announced yesterday at New York he would not play this year because he expected to remain in war work at the Republic Aircraft Company plant at Farmingdale, N.Y. This will leave the world champions with only two rookie southpaws, Johnny Johnson of Kansas City and Willis Baker from Elmira, N.Y.

With an average of 243 in 15 games, George Hall of Guelph defeated Charles Roxton of Sarnia in a $100 five-pin challenge bowling match at Guelph on Saturday, Hall's aggregate being 3,644 against 3,574 for the loser. Both went over the 300-mark for a single game.

The New York State Athletic Commission has asked Manager Chick Wergeles to appear at a hearing in New York on Tuesday to explain his comments regarding ring officials following the appearance of his fighter, lightweight champion Beau Jack, against Lulu Constantino in Madison Square Garden on Friday night, the bout resulting in a split decision.

Durocher An Optimist.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers offered at Miami, Fla., yesterday to lay odds his team would finish no worse than third in the 1944 National League race. He conceded, however, the St. Louis Cards were the team to beat for the pennant.

After 20 years with the New York Giants, William Harold Terry, general manager of the club in 1942, announced yesterday at Memphis, Tenn., he was quitting baseball for keeps in order to devote full time to the cotton manufacturing business. He claimed that baseball had become a "cheap business."

Black Badge, odds-on favorite, defeated a 35 to 1 shot, Good Bid, in a photo-finish Saturday for the $5,000 Hialeah Stakes at Hialeah Park, Miami. Third in the six-furlong dash for three-year-olds was another long shot, Brief Sigh, which paid $21.70 to show.

The Chicago Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America yesterday announced the selection of third-baseman Bill Johnson of the New York Yankees as the rookie find of 1943. Johnson will receive the Louis Comiskey Memorial Trophy.

Willie Hoppe, billiard king, scored 400 for eight sessions to win by 58 points Saturday night at Kansas City against Welker Cochran of San Francisco. Hoppe took the final block of the match 50 to 49 in 61 innings.

Record Crowds Attended 1943 Football

By ELMER LAYDEN
(Commissioner of the National Football League.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 — (AP). — A year ago the continuance of professional football was fronted with a number of perplexing problems. These problems amounted to a challenge The National League owners accepted the challenge and were rewarded with their best season.

Continued operation in 1944 presents the same problems. They no longer, however, constitute the formidable challenge that confronted owners in 1943 when on every hand well-meaning observers warned that teams could not be got together.

New stars came to the front in 1943. More persons, by some 34,000, saw the 42 league contests last year than witnessed 56 games in 1942. The average game attendance was up 36.7 per cent. Receipts for the championship game on December 26 broke all existing play-off records.

Much of the increased enthusiasm for professional football stemmed from the better balance in the league. In the main, the perennial leaders remained the leaders, but their margins of superiority were reduced to a minimum. Further shrinkage in these margins can be expected next fall.

Talk of immediate expansion in the league probably is premature at this time. Expansion, however, is inevitable in the post-war period.

All in all, the 1943 season has left such a favorable impression that it is difficult to adopt a pessimistic attitude toward 1944.

BROCK ARENA

Leafs Swamp Boston 12-3; Cowlev Injured

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Symptomatic both of Montreal superiority and the inferiority of their opposition is the fact that Toronto Maple Leafs appear the only club capable of catching Canadiens before the National Hockey League schedule ends in March.

They'd probably have to do it with mirrors, at that, because injuries to Bob Davidson and Mel. Hill have stripped Leafs down to three N.H.L. veterans in Reg. Hamilton, Lorne Carr and Paul Bibeault, a Montreal castoff. However, the other clubs are too far back to have anything but an academic interest in the question.

Leafs slipped into undisputed possession of the runner-up spot Saturday by routing Boston Bruins, their chief rival for the berth, 12-3 before 11,093 fans. More than that, they unwittingly became the instrument in removing Bill Cowley for at least a month. Checked by Jack McLean early in the third period, the 30-year-old Boston centre star crashed into the boards and suffered a shoulder separation, third serious injury of his bigtime career.

Reduces Chances

The loss of the league's outstanding playmaker not only leaves Bruins in the position of an automobile with out a steering wheel, but also cheats Cowley of a chance to shatter the modern scoring mark of 73 points, set by Ralph (Cooney) Weiland of Chicago Black Hawks. Up to Saturday, Cowley had accumulated 52 points (19 goals, 33 assists) in 25 of the 50 games Boston will play.

In other games during the N.H.L.'s 11th week-end of competition, Detroit Red Wings mastered Chicago Black Hawks 4-2 Sunday to snap their fourth-place tie with Hawks, while Canadiens assaulted New York Rangers twice, 8-2 in Montreal Saturday and 6-5 in New York Sunday, to increase their league lead to 13 points and their current victory string to nine games.

Goals by Mud Bruneteau, Carl Liscombe, Hal Jackson and Syd Howe gave Wings their victory over Hawks, who relied upon Doug Bentley for both their scores. The game, which marked the return of Mike Karakas to the Chicago nets, also left the Hawks without a victory on Detroit ice in 16 games since 1940.

Mike McMahon and Toe Blake with two goals apiece featured Montreal's home-ice victory against Rangers, but the tailenders threw a scare into the Habitants at New York as Dutch Hiller scored three goals against his former teammates.

Despite Hiller's efforts, two goals apiece by Murph Chamberlain and Ray Getliffe spurred Canadiens to their one-goal verdict, sending the Rangers down to their fifth straight defeat and their 20th in 25 games.

George Boothman scored three goals at Toronto Saturday as Leafs staged their sharpest offensive display of the season with 26 scoring points, while three other Toronto youngsters—Gus Bodnar, Jack Ingoldsby and Jackie Hamilton—collected two apiece. But the brightest Toronto star was defenceman Babe Pratt, who set about 50 per cent of the Toronto attacks in motion and received five assists on the night.

Leafs— Goal, Bibeault; defense, Pratt and Morris; centre, McLean; wings, J. Hamilton and O'Neil; alternates, Carr, Bodnar, Webster, Boothman, Kennedy, Ingoldsby, R. Hamilton.

Bruins—Goal, Gardiner; defense, Clapper and Egan; centre, Cowley; wings, Cain and Boll; alternates, Gallinger, A. Jackson, Calladine, Palazzari, Kopack, H. Jackson, Labrie.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP).—President James Heffering and the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations took a merry and international word beating for the inanity of the annual report on racing in Ontario.

Dan Parker of the New York Mirror commented: "In James Heffering, Canada seems to have come up with the provincial version of Herbert Bayard Swope (New York Turf Commission chairman). Mr. Heffering actually out-heifers our own Herbert in his annual report just handed down. In fact, some of Jim's purple passages seem to have been swiped intact from Swope, such as their vayardian (not barnyardian) flavor. In his opening paragraph he states that "the tracks provided a welcome relaxation and stimulation to tired bodies and distraught nerves.' If that ain't Swope I'm a dope—and maybe I am even if it isn't."

Parker agonizes over Heffering's references to the tracks' 'almost insignificant percentage of the total wages" but Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail cracks down even harder, and with statistics, as follows:

"The I.C.R.A. report insults the intelligence of the two-buck bettor when it observes that 'after Federal and Provincial government deductions, plus a very small percentage to the track, the balance is returned to the public.' Oh, sure, sure, sure! You see, you bet $1 on a race and then, after the track and the government have nibbled at it, you get back about 83 cents. So you bet the 83 cents on the next race and you get back about 69 cents. If you keep at it you wind up with nothing but a headache and a handful of frayed pari-mutuel tickets."

Puck Patter.

Those anguished cries are from Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials who have visions of complete collapse of Allan Cup playoffs following banning of R.C.A.F. and Army personnel from title competition....Where does the Navy enter the picture? Maybe the Tars managed to keep their skirts clean through the whole hockey mess. Here's the Navy angle as reported by PO. Alec Ross, former manager of Victoria Navy team: "A Navy player neither asks nor gets any breaks. He does the same work as any other sailor. His hockey is just something that's been added. Take Rayner, a $6,000 a year man in the N.H.L. if he gets hurt—say an eye—all he would get would be a small pension....If you lose a game you're a bum. If you win—well, you get a nice crest for your sweater."

Week-End N.H.L. Stars

By The Canadian Press

Mike McMahon, husky Canadien defenceman, who scored two goals Saturday night when Montreal whipped Rangers 8-2.

Captain Toe Blake, Canadiens, who collected two goals and two assists during the Saturday night game.

Murph Chamberlain, and Ray Getliffe, Canadiens, who paced the 6-5 victory over Rangers last night by collecting two goals each.

Dutch Hiller, Rangers, who collected three goals and helped score another last night.

Doug Bentley, Chicago, who scored the two Black Hawk counters.

Babe Pratt, Toronto defenceman, who collected five assists Saturday night when Leafs thrashed Boston Bruins 12-3.

Jackie Hamilton, Toronto, who collected two goals and two assists.

Kingston Beats St. Kitts For 10th Win

By The Canadian Press

After a third-period see-saw scoring struggle, White of Kingston put the senior O.H.A. game against St. Catharines on ice Saturday night for Frontenac Army with only 10 seconds to go, the Soldiers winning out 5-4 after the torrid session. The fixture saw the Frontenacs take their 10th match of the season and assume leadership in the race once more with a two-point margin over Saints.

Pete Backor put St. Catharines in the lead at the outset when he converted a pass from Red Goble and the Saints held a 2-1 advantage at the close of the initial period when Concessi came through with a score after Foster had found the net for Army's first counter. Both sides notched one in the second stanza, with Peters doing the trick for the homesters and Fritz counting for Saints.

Phillips of Kingston tied it up once more in 1.18 of the third period and the Soldiers went to the front 4-3 on Corrigan's tally two minutes later. Paul Mundrick registered the equaliser for the visitors 14 minutes later but, in the closing moments, Peters and Corrigan set up the play which enabled White to find the target for the winning goal.

Oshawa Tops

In the junior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association Saturday night, Port Colborne Recreationists were outclassed 12-2 at Oshawa by the Generals, the latter running in 10 goals before Kaiser found the cage late in the second period for the visitors' first goal.

At Galt, the Kists required overtime to dispose of Brantford Lions 5-4, with Harry Kazarian pulling off a mystery shot which entailed a decision by referee H. McLean of Hamilton after a goal judge failed to flash the signal. Galt is now tied with St. Catharines for group 2 leadership with 20 points apiece.

The afternoon double-header at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, witnessed an 8-0 whitewash of Saint Catharines by St. Mike's and an 8 to 2 victory for Hamilton Whizzers over Toronto Young Rangers.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Despite the fact 42 goals were scored in four National Hockey Legaue games during the weekend, no one changed places in hockey's big seven. Boston's Bill Cowley and Herb Cain, who head the list with 52 and 44 points, respectively, were inactive, while the other players picked up a few points—but not enough to change positions.

Bisons Win Two Over Week-end

Bp The Canadian Press

Buffalo was the only team in the American Hockey League to win two week-end games. Last night they defeated the league leading Hershey Bears 4-1 and Saturday night the second-place Cleveland Barons 6-2.

Bears gained a 2-1 victory over Providence Saturday night while Barons took a 4-3 decision over Indianapolis Capitals Saturday night. Pittsburg Hornets defeated Caps 3-1 Saturday night and Reds whipped the Hornets 4-1 last night.

Last night Captain Wally Kilrea scored Hershey's only goal. He was playing his last game in Buffalo before reporting to the United States army. Maxie Bennett and Larry Thibeault tallied for Buffalo in the first period to take the lead. Fred Hunt added another in the second round and Thibeault made the fourth in the final.

In the Bison-Baron game, Buffalo scorers were Roger Leger, Dede Klein, Walter Atanas. Fred Thurier (2) and Bennett. The Cleveland goals were scored by Phil Hergesheimer.

Close Battle.

In the Bears' 2-1 victory over Reds, George Patterson tallied for Hershey at 1.32 in the first period, but Harold Cooper tied the count three minutes later. The second period was scoreless, but Hec Highton, former Chicago Black Hawk goalie in the nets for Providence, stopped a flying puck. Three stitches were required to close a cut above the left eye, but he returned to play. Billy Hudson added Hershey's winning goal in the third period.

Young Highton played brilliantly again last night when Providence Reds took the Hornets for a 4-1 ride. Cooper collected two goals while Art Giroux and Hec Pozzo made the other two. Lloyd Roubell scored Pittsburg's lone tally.

Barons outskated the Caps at Indianapolis last night and won their 4-3 victory with Hergesheimer shooting the winning goal at 17.22 in the final period. Tommy Burlington started the scoring in the first period.

Saturday night's game at Pittsburg was Hornets' fourth straight victory on home ice. Tony Hemmerling, Lee Richard and Jones collected Pittsburg's three counters while Nakina Smith scored Caps' only goal in the last round.

Polish Force Releases 200 Prisoners

BARCELONA, Jan. 10 — (AP)— The Germans started evacuating Polish and Russian prisoners from the eastern part of Poland and from East Prussia as soon as the Red army plunged across the Polish border, according to information from inside Germany.

A force of Polish guerillas was said to have suddenly attacked German troops evacuating Poles from a prison camp near Vilna and to have freed 200 of them.

The Russian drive also touched off a new campaign of anti-Nazi propaganda within Germany itself it was said.

A flood of pamphlets was reported to have appeared on Berlin sidewalks, giving news of the front and showing Hitler and Napoleon looking at two maps.

One map was described as showing the former German positions at Stalingrad and the other the Russian positions on the Polish border, with Napoleon saying, "I saw it coming."

Refugees Clog Rumanian Roads

ISTANBUL, Jan. 10.—(AP).—Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania was reported to-day to have ordered the Governor of Bessarabia to clear refugees from all roads and railways leading into the interior of Rumania in order to facilitate the movement of troops.

Antonescu was said to have acted after receiving a sharp complaint from the German minister, Baron Von Killinger, that refugees were fleeing from the threat of the Russian advance toward the Rumanian border were clogging communication lines. Von Killinger was reported to have threatened severe measures.

The Budapest correspondent of the Turkish newspaper Aksam said many of the Bessarabian refugees were selling their farms for trifling sums in the belief they would never be able to keep them.

The same source said that leaders of the Rumanian Opposition parties had sent a message to King Michael opposing the war.

"At the controls at the time was Wing Commander J. R. Frizzle of Halifax, commanding officer of another R.C.A.F. Sunderland squadron," said Russell recounting the story of the attack. "But it was impossible to attack the U-boat directly as we had come into the clear out of cloud at less than 500 feet with the sub only a couple of hundred yards away."

The wing commander gave up the controls to Russell as he drew away on the U-Boat's beam and the Sunderland's rear gunner pumped several hundred rounds into the conning tower despite the flak.

"My worry was visibility," Russell continued. "In some places it was nil, at maximum half a mile, and as I turned the U-boat was momentarily lost to sight. But luck was with us and there it was where I judged it would be."

Russell straddled it with depth charges and as the Sunderland swept in, FO. Harry Forrest of Winnipeg blasted the enemy gunners with several more hundred rounds. Circling over the spot a few minutes later, Russell and his crew saw the bodies of at least 15 members of the U-boat crew, a spreading patch of oil, and debris.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

EMPLOYERS MUST REPORT
On Numbers of Persons in their Employ

EMPLOYMENT and Selective Service Offices have mailed Form DLR-1A to all employers—in industry, in commerce, in trade. These forms are for completion and return to the Local Office on or before January 15th, 1944.

The co-operation of every employer in giving complete and accurate returns is earnestly requested, as much of Canada's manpower planning depends upon the data they will contain.

If you have been missed, please ask the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office for blank forms, which carry full instructions on their use.

The completion of this form is required under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations. Employers in agriculture, employers of household domestic workers and Government Departments in respect of regular staffs, are not required to report.

brought them to within 22 miles of Shpetovka, a junction on the Korosten - Tarnapol and Berdichev-Rovno lines.

The 1st Army's southern drive, which was reported making the most progress, took some of Vatutin's forces through Buki, while the other units mopped up the west bank of the Dnieper south of Kiev, capturing Kagarlyk, 12 miles southwest of Rzhischchev.

Konev's 2nd Army encountered stiff resistance around recaptured Kirovograd, but occupation of Alexandrovka, 35 miles to the north, helped straighten the front. They also cleared the Germans from 40 other localities.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JOHN MATHER

Mrs. John Mather, mother of Peter Mather, reeve of Otonabee Township and Warden of the County, died on Sunday in Nicholl's Hospital at the age of 78. She had been in ill health for a long time.

Born in Otonabee the daughter of the late James Bennett and Mary Jane Emmerson, she had lived in the township all her life and was a member of Keene United Church. Her husband, John Mather, predeceased her seven years ago.

Surviving are five sons and one daughter: Ray Mather and Mrs. William Stewart of Otonabee; George of Woodstock; Frank of North Tonawanda, N.Y.; Joseph of Calgary; and Peter at home. She leaves also a brother, John Bennett of Summerburg, Sask.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the late residence, Lot 10, Concession 10, Otonabee, with services conducted by Rev. George Murray. Interment is to be made in Keene Cemetery.

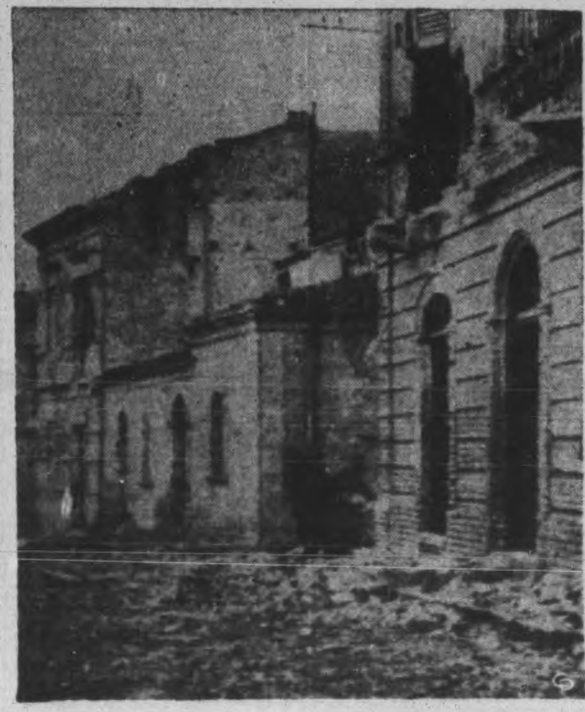
MRS. ELIZABETH ANNA AINSLIE

Injured in an accident in Toronto early last summer when she was struck and knocked down by a horse-driven bread wagon, Mrs. Elizabeth Anna Parker, widow of the late Henry Lance Ainslie, died at the home of her son Ernest L. Ainslie, 225 King George street, on Saturday night in her 84th year.

Born in London, England, Mrs. Ainslie had been a resident of Canada since her early childhood, spending most of her life in Toronto. She came to Peterborough to the home of her son last October.

Mrs. Ainslie is survived by two sons, Charles Ainslie, Detroit, and Ernest L. Ainslie, Peterborough, and a brother Alfred, and a sister Sarah, both living in Alberton, Ont. Surviving too, are four grand-children and one great grandchild.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the William Sharrin Funeral Home, 873 Kingston road, Toronto, with interment in Mount Pleasant cemetery.



HOUSE CLEARING — Corporal "Smoky" Atkinson, of Goodfair, Alta., and Private W. L. Squires, of Peace River, Alta., are shown moving down a street in Ortona, Italy, during the Eighth Army house-to-house clearing operations in that city after eight days of bitter street fighting.

Gnr. G. W. Clark Arrives Home

HAVELOCK, Jan. 10 — (ENS).— Looking somewhat tired and exhausted from his voyage home on board the Lady Nelson, Gunner George W. Clark arrived in Havelock on Saturday night, and is spending a furlough with his sister, Mrs Harold Saltern in Belmont Township. Gunner Clark has suffered greatly with rheumatism and spent several months in hospitals in England.

Enlisting at Kingston with the Royal Canadian Artillery, he received his training in Kingston and went overseas in June, 1941. During his 2½ years in England, he said he received all of his parcels regularly and that they were truly a God-send to the boys over there. He offered the suggestion that the two most welcome articles to the armed forces overseas are letters and cigarettes. The climate over there is damp, dull and foggy, but if the sun would shine more often England would be a perfect picture with all its flowers and foliages. He said that he much preferred Canadian foods, but that their Christmas dinners were all that could be desired.

When his furlough is up, Gnr. Clark will report back to Kingston. Before enlisting he was employed at the Raybestos plant in Peterborough.

then came back to Billy, unbuckled his pistol belt and handed it to him.

"You are not our prisoner now," he said. "We are your prisoners."

So back across no man's land, the five-foot five-inch soldier led the column of prisoners. Walking up to his lines, he turned them in, together with seven German automatics, nine binoculars and one machine pistol.

Germans Rob Canadian Who Plays Dead

TORONTO, Jan. 10—Lance Corporal Ronald Moyle of Dome Mines, Ont., one of the arrivals on the hospital ship Lady Nelson from overseas, told at Christie Street Military Hospital today how his arm and leg were shattered by machine-gun bullets near Campobasso, Italy. He was behind the German lines and "played dead" when inspected by Germans. Later, Italian civilians returned him to the Canadians.

While Moyle feigned death, two Germans searched his pockets and stole his watch and ring. He could feel the breath of one of the Germans on his face.

He was wounded at a spot which was occupied by the enemy in a brief counter-attack shortly afterwards. Two of the Germans came across the wounded man, and one of them gave him a kick in the ribs. "I was never so scared before or since," Moyle said. "I held my breath and tried to pretend I was dead. The Germans fussed around with my equipment." They emptied his pockets, took his ring and his watch. Fortunately the watch was on his right arm. His left was wounded "and if he had touched that I could never have endured the pain without crying out."

Alone All Night

Then the Germans departed and Moyle lay all that night. "It was the longest night I ever spent," he said. "I was paralysed on one side and couldn't even roll over."

The next morning he heard someone coming again, and could tell there were at least four. He kept his eyes closed. They moved away a short distance and he opened his eyes and found they were Italian civilians.

He spoke to them in Italian, and had another scare when the Italians asked what he was doing in a Canadian uniform. He said the Italians thought that only Germans could speak Italian.

"My mother's letters saved my life that time. I pointed to them and the Italian decided that I was a Canadian and immediately became very friendly."

The Italian told Moyle that the Germans had retreated. The next day the Canadians came up and he was taken to the field hospital.

Noted Winnipeg

While a representative of the Department of Public Information at the 1919 Paris Peace Conference Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain offered Mr. Dafoe a knighthood. "What would I do with a title?" the Winnipeg editor asked. "I shovel my own snow and tend my own furnace."

Among the causes he advocated was the creation of national status for Canada. In this capacity, Mr. Dafoe took a prominent part in every Empire Press Conference from 1909 to 1930. He also wrote books on constitutional affairs.

From 1937 to 1939 Mr. Dafoe's major interest was his work as a member of the Rowell-Sirois Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations.

He was noted for his vigorous writing in a fight against restrictions on world trade. These interests brought him many outside duties, including the presidency of the Institute of Pacific Relations from 1916 to 1938 and the chairmanship of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

Last Oct. 16 Mr. Dafoe told 500 members of the newspaper profession, friends and admirers from all parts of the Dominion who had gathered in Winnipeg to honor him, that he had "hopes that when the 'long trick's over' there will be a judgment that I have made some contribution to my times and to my country."

Survivors include his widow, four daughters, all of Winnipeg, and three sons.

OLDEST SENATOR — Senator Carter Glass of Virginia recently celebrated his 86th birthday. Shown reading his many letters and telegrams of congratulations, the oldest member of the U.S. Senate is recuperating from a critical illness.

May Set Rent Prior To Making Apts.

OTTAWA, Jan 10 (CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said Saturday house builders and landlords intending to divide existing houses into apartments may apply to the Prices Board for determination of rentals prior to construction.

When the premises are completed they will be inspected by an official of the Prices Board.

Mr. Ilsley said the pre-determination of rents had two chief purposes. It would give greater certainty to those who planned to build or sub-divide for renting purposes. Although predetermination of rent should be an advantage to the landlord it is not compulsory, the minister said.

"If a landlord wishes he may wait until the premises are completed and apply to a rentals appraiser for determination of the maximum rental within 30 days of signing a lease with the tenant," he continued.

The predetermination would enable the same procedure to be applied to tenants leasing from the government under the house-conversion plan as is applied to other tenants.

Although technically free of control, the government, as landlord of housing accommodation created under the house-conversion plan, is subjecting itself voluntarily to the maximum rentals regulations administered by the Prices Board, Mr. Ilsley said.

Rentals fixed under the government's conversion plan have been in line with legal ceilings, Mr. Ilsley said, but it was desirable to remove any possibility or appearance of discrimination by giving all tenants the protection provided by the maximum rentals regulations.

Under the house-conversion plan the government leases large houses and other buildings from their owners, converting them into apartments to provide additional housing units at minimum costs in congested areas. The plan was tried out on an experimental basis in Ottawa, and has since been extended among others, to Montreal, Toronto, St. Catharines, Brantford, Windsor, Sarnia, Galt and London, Ont.

Eggs Plentiful On Farm Market

A plentitude of pullets, seeming excess of eggs and ample apples were the staples of the produce market Saturday. Rows of baskets full of eggs suggested an explanation of a lower range of prices from 35 to 40 cents a dozen. Chickens were 35, 38 and 40 cents a pound. Most of them were selling around 35 to 38 cents, but some of the producers were holding out for 40 cents, esspecially for their plump select stock.

"Here's one 7¾ pounds at 40 cents; that comes to $3.10," said one woman. "Probably there are not many buyers who feel like paying that much for a chicken, but I think it is worth it."

A few broilers were offered at 40 cents a pound. Turkeys, geese and ducks were missing from the morning's offering of poultry, but apparently there were chickens enough for everybody.

The outdoor market was a cold and vacant space with about five or six apple and vegetable growers picking up some business. Norman Moncrief's prices were Spies 70 and 80 cents a peck; and by the bushel $3.10 a bushel for No. Ones and $2.50 for domestics; Talman Sweets 70c a peck and $2.50 a bushel; Russets 75 a peck and $2.75 a bushel.

Of potatoes, not a bag in sight, and other vegetables were notably scarce. Perhaps it was the cold weather accounting for the slim attendance on Peterborough's exposed market.

PICTURE AT CAPITOL.

GETS TEN DAYS.

Howard Innis, who pleaded guilty this morning to creating a disturbance in the Louis Cafe, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to ten days' imprisonment in the county jail.

SAND APPRECIATED.

Motorists report that the Board of Works was a little more generous with the sand during the last week, sprinkling it on the centre of George street where ice made driving hazardous. Previously sand had been placed only at the intersections and on the hills, but tossing a little at the other bad spots proved a boon to car drivers.

FIRST CASUALTY.

At eight o'clock this morning, a requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the late Pte. Jack Conroy, was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church. Pte. Conroy is the first member of this parish to give his life in the present conflict. He died in action on December 23, at Ortona, Italy, serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

MEET OVERSEAS.

Mrs. Joseph Primeau, 709 Elcome Crescent, has received a cable from her son, Flight Sgt. Jack Primeau, R.C.A.F., saying that he and his brother, Sto. James Primeau, R.C.N.R., had met overseas for the first time. Both boys have been overseas for about a year, and have been corresponding, but this was the first time they had been able to get together.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

As Leo Shine, 267 King street, was driving his car west on Charlotet street Sunday, he told police that as he neared Maitland avenue a car in front of him suddenly made a left turn into Maitland avenue. When Shine slammed on his brakes to stop his car went into a skid on the icy road, turned round and collided with a parked car owned by Coleman Blewett, 543 Downie street. Both vehicles were damaged in the collision.

BROTHERS MEET.

Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr., 52 Victoria avenue, received a cable from her two sons, Chief Petty Officer, D. K. (Bunny) Dorrington, R.C.N., and Sgt. C. P. Dorrington, saying that they had met overseas, and had spent Christmas together Chief P. O. Dorrington has been in the navy for ten years, has seen service on a number of Canadian ships, and is now taking a course in England. Sgt. Dorrington is with the 4th anti-tank battery, and has been overseas three years. There are two other brothers in the services, Pte. Edward Dorrington, stationed at Barriefield, and Chief Petty Officer W. E. Dorrington, R.C.N.V.R., serving on Atlantic patrol.

TEMPLE COMMANDER.

Major and Mrs. John Wood will arrive in Peterborough from Toronto on January 20 to take charge of the Salvation Army Temple Corps in this area. Major A. Dixon, former commander of the Peterborough post, departs for Orillia and his new command in the north district on Wednesday.

AIRMAN TRANSFERRED.

Cpl. Roy Locke, R.C.A.F., who graduated as a gunnery instructor at Mountain View Air Base and qualified second highest man in his class, has been transferred to Lethbridge, where he will instruct air crew. His wife, who lives at 368 Downie street, will accompany him.

COUSINS OF EDITOR.

Misses Bessie and Isabel Elcome of 692 Elcome Cresent, are cousins of John W. Dafoe, famous Canadian editor who died suddenly on Sunday in Winnipeg. Mr. Dafoe was editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press and completed 60 years in Canadian journalism last October.

VAGRANT JAILED

John Brown, 49, who said that his home was in Owen Sound, and that he was passing through Peterborough en route to Belleville, pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge in police court this morning and was sentenced to five days in jail. "You can have a rest and then be on your way" said Magistrate Langley.

CHARGE DISMISSED

A charge of vagrancy against Archie Currie who describes himself as a shoe salesman, was dismissed in police court this morning when the police announced that no evidence would be offered. Currie had been under remand for a week. "We are satisfied after making an investigation that there is nothing against this man," Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer informed the court.

SUFFERS BRUISED KNEE

Mrs. William Peacock, Cavan suffered a bruised knee Saturday when the car driven by her husband was involved in a collision with a taxi cab at Charlotte and Water streets. Peacock was driving his car south on Water street and at Charlotte street his vehicle and a Capitol taxi driven east on Charlotte street by Thomas Buck, 176 Brock street, came into contact. Mrs. Peacock was the only person to receive injuries but the two vehicles were damaged considerably in the crash.

ARRIVES IN BRITAIN—Included in the latest draft of Canadian troops arriving overseas is Lieut. James S. Smith, who is the son of Adam Smith, 468 Reid. Street. Made up largely of airmen, the convoy reached a British port recently. Lieut. Smith graduated from officers' training centre at Brockville on May 15, 1943.

Fire Damages Hotel Furniture

Damage estimated at between $75 and $100 was caused by a fire which broke out in a room at the Champlain Hotel early Sunday afternoon. Apparently caused by a cigarette butt left burning by the tenant of the room when he went out, the fire destroyed some of the furnishings before being put out.

Smoke seeping under the door of the room was the first sign that something was wrong. Noticed by a girl clerk on duty at the time, a call was put in to the Fire Department at 12.40 p.m. but before firemen arrived on the scene. Mr. McGillis, proprietor of the Champlain, had succeeded in extinguishing the blaze with a hand pump.

Three other fires, all of them the result of chimney troubles, occupied the Department over the week-end. Saturday night at 8.40 an alarm was sounded from 494 Bolivar street, the home of M. P. Mahoney; at 3.10 p.m. Sunday a call came in from 182A Hunter Street West; and at 4.40 p.m. a chimney fire occurred at 663 Water street, residence of Roy March.

Retirement Can Wait

DETROIT, Jan. 10—(AP).— Capt. Leonarjd June, 68-year-old Great Lakes skipper, signed on with the merchant marine Saturday with the comment that his retirement "can wait until this war is over." June, who has sailed around the world seven times, left the Great Lakes in 1917 and became a lieutenant in the navy and served in convoys on the Atlantic.

Save 1 Gallon

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(AP)—If every American passenger car used one gallon of gasoline less a year, the fuel saved could send 3,000 bombers from Britain to Germany and back for five days, Julius A. Krug, vice-chairman of the War production Board, said last night in a broadcast program.

Hunter Hides Among Cattle In Farm Yard Bags Fox On His Return To Get Poultry

How to nail a red fox by hiding among the cattle in the barnyard was successfully demonstrated Saturday afternoon on the farm of George Tindle, at Fife's Bay. This unique hunting strategy was carried out, with fatal consequences to the animal concerned, by Henry Archer, R. R. No. 7, a neighbour of Mr. Tindle's.

The story was told this morning by Archibald Campbell of the Quaker Oats Company, who journeyed out of town to meet Mr. Tindle for a fox-hunt that afternoon. Arriving at the concession line which marks the boundary of Mr. Tindle's property, he found that a third Nimrod, who was Mr. Archer, had joined the expedition. The three turned down a sideroad, when Mr. Archer suddenly experienced an intense desire to circle round the field and see what he could see.

The other two waited in the car until such time as their companion would report back, when the quiet was abruptly broken by the sound of a shotgun going off. Mr. Campbell and Mr. Tindle hurried across the field to see what had happened and their eyes lit on the form of a good red fox, dangling wounded over the barnyard fence, with Mr. Archer preparing to finish him off. The fortunate hunter explained how he had done it.

From a distance he had seen the fox in the barnyard chasing the chickens, and then the cows, annoyed at the intrusion, putting their heads down and going after the fox. The fox got out in a hurry back over the fence, but Mr. Archer, feeling certain he would try again, decided to be in there among the cows and give him an even better welcome the next time. So he circulated among the cows, obscuring himself from the watchful eyes of Mr. Fox, who sure enough decided on another attack. He never knew what hit him.

School Concert Gives Aid To War Victims

One of the popular means by which various schools raised money for various charitable objects during the Christmas season, was through a concert suitable to the times, more than one good purpose being thus served, for the children learn something outside of their regular routine in the line of public performance, and the parents are thus brought into close contact with the talent that their offspring may possess, while the money raised teaches the children the importance of all good works on behalf of the less fortunate.

On December 20, the Villiers School, No. 1 of Otonabee township, under the direction of Miss Vera Bradshaw, held such an event, in which a very widespread use was made of those under her charge, displaying that a great deal of work of preparation had been done, for the whole school participated, with many of them taking part in quite a number of the items presented.

With Charles Hope as chairman, a lengthy program of choruses, recitations, solos, greetings, dialogues, a drill and a number of plays were presented, in which Gordon, Shirley and Donnie Hope, Barbara Garnett, Lois, Agnes and Isabel Dickson, Helen, Myrtle, Clifford and Jimmy Davis, Joe and John Steel, Doreen Varcoe, Lorna and Danny Hubbs, Marie, Vera and Billy Wood, Shirley Clysdale, George Mather, Harold Davidson, Dora Robertson, and Harold Bryant all took part, many of them in a number of the various items presented.

Assistance from outside of the school talent was given by Miss Mary Mather, Mrs. Ross McIntyre and George Mather, while the teacher supplied the accompaniments for most of the numbers by the children.

Through this, the sum of $5 is to day credited in the list for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, registering another credit to the various schools outside of the city who have given help to the fund in recent times.

To Mark Own Birthday.

On a few occasions receipts have appeared in this column to mark a person's own birthday, given in a spirit of thankfulness, besides a token that it is better to give than to receive, particularly when the object is one of doing good for others in unfortunate circumstances.

Today a contribution from Bob Everett appears in this manner, and it would seem that in a city and district of this size, this could provide an incentive to a great many others, who could do likewise and gain much satisfaction for a good deed done on this day of days to them personally.

Then too, other gifts from time to time have appeared to keep alive the memory of departed relatives or friends, another gift that borders on the spiritual, for there can be no nicer way to keep their memory green, than by doing good in their name after they are gone. Today another such appears "In Loving Memory of Dad," from A. and V. B., which has been noticed in this column or former occasions.

Another personal gift from Mr. and Mrs. George Parsons is noted today, while the ratepayers of the adjacent township of North Monaghan through Bert R. Butler are also credited with another gift of $2.

13 Fatalities

By The Canadian Press

There were 13 week-end fatalities in Eastern Canada. Three were asphyxiation victims, two died in a fumigation accident, two died as a result of falls, and auto and train mishaps claimed one life each. One was killed in the crash of an R.C.A.F. training plane, one died from injuries received when caught in an elvator shaft, one froze to death, and one woman was found dead in her home from an internal skull hemorrhage.

Vocational Training

TORONTO, Jan. 10—(CP)—The present system of education for Canada's armed forces will have to be converted into one of vocational guidance immediately after the armistice to permit readjustment to civil life, Col. George Kilpatrick, director of army education, said here Saturday night. He was addressing a meeting in Convocation Hall University of Toronto, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Institute.

RUSS LAUNCH SECOND UKRAINE DRIVE—Here are the latest phases of the terrific Russian drives to the west and south. As Cossacks of the first Ukrainian army advance rapidly into Poland near Olevsk, the all-important "trap drive" from recently captured Beyala Tserkov moves southward at the rate of 30 miles in a single day as Reds race to cut off all Nazis in the Ukraine and the Dnieper River Bend area. Meanwhile the second Ukrainian army has started a new and powerful drive southward in the direction of Krivoi Rog threatening the Nazis in this area. The new drive is indicated by the small arrow. The smash through of the Red Army, direct from Kiev, to cut off the Odessa main line railroad supply-route is also making powerful headway.

Member Of Eastern Ontario Unit Has Deep Respect For Germans

(By Staff-Sgt. T. H. TURNER)
Public Relations Division M.D. 3

KINGSTON, Jan. 10 — Although he has been firing 2-inch mortars at enemy positions in Sicily and Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Pte. John L. Lewis, 23-year-old Lansdowne, Ont. farmer, who lost his left leg in Italy, has a deep respect for German marksmanship.

Pte. Lewis was among several soldiers of Military District No. 3 who returned to Canada on the hospital ship "Lady Nelson." At present hospitalized at Kingston Military Hospital, a number of these men, although reticent to talk about their own part in the war, unfold stories of the heroism of others.

Knee Cap Shattered

Pte. Lewis lost his leg during a forced march by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment on the town of Motto. He stated the H. and P.E.'s were fired upon by a hidden machine gun nest. A bullet shattered his knee cap and his leg had to be amputated above the knee. He along with the others at the hospital had nothing but praise for the officers and men of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. "They went out of their way to do things for us, and they were very considerate and efficient," remarked Pte. Rex Shannon, of Picton, another "Hasty Pee." Shannon was the only one of four who escaped death when 88 m.m. exploded in a slit trench they were holding following the now historic cliff climb of the H. and P.E.'s at Assoro, Sicily.

Shannon, who was blown four feet in the air, received shrapnel in the back. Speaking of his buddies who were killed, he said "One couldn't wish for a better bunch of fellows beside him in action. They were tops," The three with Shannon who were killed were Cpl. Charles Lloyd, Picton; Pte. Joseph Weymark, Belleville, and Pte. Gordon Leavitt, of Picton.

Pte. "Mac." Douglas, of Fort Stewart, who suffered leg injuries in Sicily during tank action was among the first to land on the Sicilian beach when Canadians landed from assault boats. "I hated to leave those guys. There's one thing they are plenty confident of their leaders," he said.

Pte. L. J. Van Cleaf, of Wellington, Ont., had nothing but praise for Pte. Harry Hyatt, of Trenton, whom he credits with saving his life during bitter fighting at a bridge near Assoro, Sicily.

Enemy Opened Fire

Van Cleaf related that the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was advancing when they came to the bridge. They dismounted from Bren Gun carriers and were reconnoitering when the enemy opened up with mortar fire. Van Cleaf was seriously wounded and Hyatt, after dragging him to safety in the early dawn, was able to get back to a Bren Gun carrier and bring up stretcher bearers to take the wounded back for medical treatment.

Van Cleaf, who was given three blood transfusions, said that he wished to thank someone somewhere who had given blood donations so that his life might be saved. Serum was used in the transusions.

Sgt. James Gordon Halliday, of Kingston, who served in England with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, was among those hospitalized. He repaired all kinds of army vehicles and kept them in running order for schemes which fitted the Canadian soldiers for the strenuous battles in which they are now engaged.

Another member of the H. and P.E.'s injured at Assoro, Sicily, was Pte. Joseph P. Seames of Belleville. He lost his left arm when an 88 m.m. shell blew him off his motorcycle. Seames was a despatch rider between battalion and company headquarters in the field.

Gunner L. N. Boire, Pembroke, was injured during an air-raid in England while on coastal duties.

Another member of the Hasty Pees said that the Regiment landed in Italy just before the rainy season. "It was fair going on the flat country but it got boggy in the hills," he said. Remarking on the Italian wine, he said he drank it until he saw it being made. "When I saw 14 bare-footed Italians tramping grapes down in a big vat to make the stuff...that was enough for me," however, the soldiers said, the Italian champagne had quite a kick.

Jersey Breeders Elect Officers

Lorne Reynolds of Smith township was elected president of the Peterborough Jersey Breeders' Association Saturday. Gordon Staples is the vice-president for the year and Harry Young continues as secretary-treasurer. The directors chosen were: William Bell, Perry Neals and Joseph Armstrong. Auditors: Cecil Neals and W. Bell; representative to the Federation of Agriculture, Mr. Reynolds.

Gordon Staples invited the association to hold their field day at his farm. S. S. Staples was appointed director of extension, and arrangements were made for some of the members to attend the Canadian Jersey Breeders' meeting in Toronto February 1 and 2.

The association granted three dollars to the Federation of Agriculture and named Gordon Staples as their representative to the Millbrook Fair Board. They are also continuing their support of the Millbrook livestock show, and under the presidency of Mr. Reynolds they generally planned for an active year in their breed interests.

30 Men Lost

CAPE MAY, N.J., Jan. 10—(AP)—Bodies of 30 men from the sunken naval patrol ship St. Augustine have been brought ashore and identified at the Cape May coast Guard Station, Lt. Daniel J. Bergen the 4th Naval District Public Relations Office said here yesterday. The St. Augustine was lost in a collision with an unidentified merchant ship Thursday night.

Four Witnesses Swear Driver Drunk At Wheel

While one civilian witness and three police constables all swore that Elmer Worr, Chamberlain street, was drunk when they saw him after an accident in which his car was involved with a truck in front of the Staff House, Monaghan road on New Years' Eve, Worr himself testified in police court this morning that he had only two pints of beer before the collision and was perfectly sober.

Worr was charged with drunk driving, pleaded not guilty and was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

John L. Henry testified that he was driving a truck owned by P. DeCarlonis south at 20 miles an hour on Monaghan road on New Year's Eve and as he approached the Staff House noticed another car driving north. There was a car parked on the side of the road in front of the Staff House. When the northbound car was nearly even with his automobile Henry said it suddenly came over to his side of the road.

"I swerved to my right to try and miss him," said Henry, "and then to the left in an attempt to avoid striking the parked car. I hit them both."

Henry stated that Worr was the driver of the north-bound car and that he was drunk. He said Worr staggered around the road, his eyes were half closed, and he couldn't talk coherently and smelled of liquor.

Constables Gordon Trennum and Reg McMillan who investigated the accident both swore that Worr was drunk when they sam him after the crash and Constable Leo Murphy who was in the police station when the accused was brought in also testified that the man was drunk.

"We gave him the walking line test," he said, "and he almost fell over a chair."

Worr, first witness for the defence, said that after getting out of work at 4 o'clock the afternoon of the accident he had driven two friends Neilson and Nelson, to the brewery warehouse where between them the two had bought 36 pints of beer. Worr said he did not buy any himself because he had exhausted his quota for the month and had also had all the liquor he could buy. The three drove to the home of Nelson, witness said, and there had two pints of beer each and Worr said that those two pints were all the inxticating liquor he had that day.

"I wouldn't get drunk on two pints," he said. "I don't think two quarts or even four quarts would make me drunk."

In regard to the accident he said that the DeCarlonis truck had been travelling at 40 miles an hour and that it was skidding as it came down Monaghan road toward his car. He said there had been romo to pass his car and the parked machine if the truck driver had driven carefully.

The case adojurned for luncheon at this stage.

Thieves Ransack Fur Warehouse

Furs valued at over $1,100 were stolen from the fur warehouse of Harry L. Jopling, 248 Murray street, some time Saturday night.

The robbery was discovered at 11.40 o'clock Saturday night by Constable Leo Murphy, who in patrolling his beat found the front door of the warehouse forced in.

Jopling was called to the place and a checkup showed that some 70 red fox skins, five beaver pelts and a lynx skin valued at $50 had been taken by the thieves. A number of other pelts stretched out on the drying board were not taken.

Entrance had been gained by breaking in the front door. The furs were in an upstairs room.

Two Airmen Die

Mayor In His Inaugural Address Reviews Problems To Face City Council During Present Year

Mayor Hamilton in his inaugural address this morning expressed his personal satisfaction with the decision of the citizens in the recent municipal elections to keep the civic door closed against the entry of a political group as represented by the C.C.F. candidates.

His Worship was not so direct as that in his reference, but it was quite evident that he was pointing his comment to the New Year's Day voting.

"During my years in City Council I have seen no evidence of political favor in any of its deliberations and the citizens have long agreed that the business of this city shall be decided on a merit basis only, unfettered by political consideration," Mayor Hamilton said.

"In the recent municipal elections, not only here, but throughout the province, the people have re-emphasized their position in this regard. You will agree with me that this is one of the great strengths of civic administration, and not one to be given up without a struggle."

Mayor Hamilton affirmed that the city's financial problem of some years ago could now be regarded as far advanced to solution, leaving the field clear for the consideration of post-war questions.

"As I have stated elsewhere, and as the citizens now fully appreciate, Peterborough is in a sound financial position. Each year our position is improving steadily. Our debenture debt has been reduced more than 50 per cent in the last 10 years, and we now have a debenture debt of less than a million dollars. At the same time our tax rates and levies have been reduced, the rates for 1942 and 1943 being 30 mills, the lowest since 1920, and all necessary municipal services have been carried on satisfactorily.

Hospital Problem

Increased and improved hospital accommodation requires our immediate attentions if our citizens are to gain the full benefit of the new plan of hospitalization which is planned and ready to be introduced I believe, by the the Ontario Legislature. In finding a solution to this I know we shall have the goodwill and aid of present Board of Nicholls Hospital. I believe that the future administration of any hospital in Peterborough, which is to be aided financially by municipal taxation or by public subscription, must have its governing board more largely representative of and wholly responsible to the general citizens. I would ask the Council at this meeting to appoint a Special Committee to deal with Hospitalization.

An airport for Peterborough has been the subject of discussion and study by Council for the past four years. Because of undulating topography of our district we have been faced with repeated disappointments in trying to to locate a suitable area. However, this Council should continue its work to secure an airport, and keep particularly informed of all developments in aviation which will assist in bringing air transportation facilities to this city soon.

Monaghan Annexation

The annexation of the greater portion of the urban area of North Monaghan Township to the city was being considered last year and this annexation is now before the Ontario Municipal Board. I believe that Peterborough in the full sense of good development should be a self-contained unit with no parts of it under separate administration. Within the next few days representatives of this Council will be invited to meet with representatives of the School Boards, and of the Township and County Councils in order to decide in a friendly way the boundaries of this annexation. I suggest that the Legal Committee, a Standing Committee of this Council might very well be given this responsibility.

Immediately following the war there promises to be much building activity in the city, which if properly planned should add to its general utility and attractiveness. These buildings will include a new Federal Building, the long-promised combined Post Office and Customs House, and a new City Hall, which is this Council's responsibility and

CASH LOANS

NO ENDORSERS NEEDED

Here's a quick, private way for men and women workers to borrow $100, $300, $500—Repay in convenient monthly instalments

NEED $100, $200 or up to $500? Here's a way to get additional cash without fuss or bother. Just tell Household Finance about your problem and choose a convenient payment plan from the table below. No endorsers or guarantors are ever required And we do not question friends or relatives about your credit. Household Finance loans are made largely on character and earning ability. So if you have a job or other source of steady income don't hesitate to apply for whatever amount you may need.

Rate reduced on loans over $300

You may repay your loan in 2 to 15 monthly instalments. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. A $100 loan repaid in 12 monthly instalments of $9.46 each—a total of $113.52—costs $13.52, if repaid in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each the cost is only $7.10. Charges on loans of more than $300 were recently reduced. Notice that 12 monthly instalments of $46.73 each now repay a $500 loan in full. Payments shown in the table include both principal and all costs. You pay nothing more. We have no hidden charges of any kind.

Cash for most any purpose

You may get cash at Household to pay old debts, taxes, insurance, medical or dental service, to help relatives—for almost any purpose. If you need money at any time, phone, write or visit Household Finance.

GUTHRIE—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Isabella Guthrie, who died one year ago, January 8, 1943.

Not dead is mother, but sleeping
In her Father's home above,
Rewarded for her suffering
Rewarded for her love.
—Fondly remembered by Clifford, Viola and Family.

EVANS—In loving memory of Bella Evans, who passed away nine years ago today, January 10, 1935.

From our happy home and circle,
God has taken one we loved,
She was borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how much we miss her,
None but aching hearts can tell:
Lost on earth but found in heaven—
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father and Sisters, Nancy and Irene.

CAMPBELL—In loving memory of Malcolm L. Campbell who passed away at his home in Detroit one year ago today, January 10, 1943.

Long days, long nights you bore your pain,
Waiting for a cure, but all in vain;
God saw that you were suffering
And that the hills were hard to climb;
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered peace be thine.
—His wife, Mary E. Campbell, and Family.

McILWAIN— In loving memory of Mrs Robert McIlwain.

What would we give her hand to clasp
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In Heaven, that happy life.
—Remembered by Husband and Family.

FIFE—In memory of George Webber Fife; who passed away January 9, 1943.

He is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Ethel, his sons, L. Cpl. S. Fife, Woodstock; James; John; Dick. His Brothers and Sisters.

McILWAIN— In loving memory of Mrs. Robert McIlwain.

We loved her, yes we loved her
But Jesus loved her more,
And He has sweetly called her
To yonder shining shore.
The golden gates were open
A gentle voice said come
And with farewells unspoken
She calmly entered her heavenly home.
—Remembered by her dear Auntie, Mrs. M. Brisbois, 281 McDonnel street.

the funds of which were made possible by the splendid gift of the late W. G. Morrow. I know that certain retail merchants and commercial firms are planning already for new, or enlarged premises. Reliable information has reached me that several industries are planning early additions, and here I suggest that we must continue our policy of encouragement and assistance to industrial development in order that Peterborough may take fullest advantage of post-war industrial changes.

We must continue our development work with renewed energy, not only to encourage the progress of our present splendid industries, but also to secure new industries. With this particular work I think we should properly include lending leadership to developing the true potential attractions of the Kawartha Lakes as a summer and winter playground. Not only must we advertise ourselves, but we must improve our facilities. This includes the improving of highways and side roads, and particularly the bettering of hotel accommodation in the lake district. The tourist after the war will have money to spend for a holiday at the lakes but he will expect some of the conveniences and comforts to which he is accustomed. I pass on this thought not only to present and potential tourist resort owners in this area, but also to the Township Councils who can do much to encourage the erection of new hotels. I am assured that the Ontario Highways Department has plans ready for highway improvements, particularly along Highway 7 between Peterborough and Ottawa, which should be of much benefit. We must continue our efforts to secure a better highway along a more direct route between this city and Toronto.

A committee of citizens is already at work upon the projected construction of a modern arena in the city which would not only serve for skating and hockey in the winter, but also as an auditorium and community centre throughout the year. I believe the citizens will be willing to share in this enterprise as will our industrial and commercial firms.

The council last year gave some study to a Post War Works program. This program was prepared not only as works program to put the City in a position to give some definite assistance during the postwar re-adjustment period but also to do some of the necessary works required but which were delayed because of the depression and later by the war. I suggest to you that more detailed consideration must be given to this works program, particularly as to detailed costs, etc., if, as is hoped, the Dominion Government is to contribute to the cost of the works.

The need for an organization in Peterborough to assist and advise in the re-establishment of our soldiers in civilian life will become more and more important as peace draws near. We are particularly fortunate in having now a well organized committee, called the Soldiers' Rehabilitation Committee, composed of public-spirited citizens, which is responsible for this work. This committee is under the chairmanship of Mr. D. G. H. Melton, who withdrew from other public work in which he was interested in order that he might devote himself more fully to this important task.

For some years now Councils in Peterborough have been of the unanimous opinion that a contributory pension plan for municipal employees should be established. I hope that definite progress will be made this year in introducing such a plan since its need has become more and more apparent.

I want to express appreciation on behalf of the council and the citizens, of the loyal and excellent work of the civic employees in all departments. In this I desire to include the members of the Police Department, the Fire Department, the Board of Works, and the City Hall staff, all of whom quietly but sincerely and efficiently carry on the city's work day after day, and whose work contributes so much for good municipal government and services.

I trust that we of the council will perform our duties in a spirit of harmony and sincerity of purpose, and in a manner which will be satisfactory and of benefit to all citizens.

Welcome to Members

As the result of the election, it gives me pleasure to welcome back to their seats, Aldermen R. M. Glover, R. S. Cotton, Floyd Curtis and Tom Mark. Inaugural addresses are sometimes inclined to be flowery, but at this time I would like to express my appreciation on behalf of the citizens for the splendid service you men are giving your community. Rollie Glover has always served Pe-

NOTICE

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the LOT OWNERS of the LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY COMPANY will be held in the Board Room of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, 437 George Street, Peterborough, on MONDAY, JANUARY 17, 1944, at Four o'clock in the Afternoon, to receive the Financial Statement and Reports for the year 1943; to Elect a Board of Directors, and to transact such other Business as may properly come before the meeting.
E. J. SAUNDERS, Secretary.

terborough well and throughout his life he has found many opportunities to do so, frequently sacrificing his own personal interests as well as his time and health. Bob Cotton has a remarkable record of municipal service, which perhaps is unequalled at the present time in the council membership of any of the important Ontario centres. His work here and his lively interest in many community enterprises have helped, I suggest, to keep him young and vigorous and full of energy. Aldermen Mark and Curtis merited their renewed success at the polls by the soundness of their work during their previous term.

I particularly want to welcome Alderman William Ovens, a new member and yet not a new member. Alderman Ovens is a busy man. He found it necessary two years ago to retire from Council because of the pressure of his business affairs, but now he has returned giving new evidence of his desire to serve his community. He is the type of younger man whom I would like to see more frequently taking an active part in the affairs of Peterborough, and his judgment will be most useful to Council in a year that, I promise you, will be packed with important problems requiring decision."

Moose Ready To Drop Tough Texan

If Karl "Krippler" Davis, the brawny Texas wrestler still thinks Canadian grapplers are "punks" as he once claimed, he will get another rugged opportunity to prove his claim on Tuesday night. Davis has been re-matched with Earl McCready the wrestler he temporarily crippled here a month ago. While admitting that Earl "can wrestle a bit" Davis referred to the rest of the Canadian wrestlers as "greenhorns and amateurs." However in his two matches here, one against McCready and the other against Watson, Davis came as close to losing as any wrestler would want to and now that he meets the Aurora Powerhouse again it might be wise for him to keep his comments to himself, at least until he sees how he goes this time.

Certainly Earl McCready is prepared to give the Texan talker the going over of his mat career. Earl is still burning aver the injury which Davis inflicted on him by the illegal use of the ropes. When he asked Promoter Tunney for the re-match, the usually gentle-spoken McCready made a few statements that caused even the sophisticated Tunney to blink a bit. "If," stated the Canadian, "that loudmouth Texan tries that stuff on me again, he's going to end up being called 'crippled' instead of Krippler. And anyone who knows the quiet Earl will realize what lengths he has geared himself up to to come out with such a prediction.

Nancy Marigny To Hold Sale

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP). — Nancy Oakes de Marigny, returning to Nassau to settle her personal affairs, said last night that she was little hope of a new investigation which might solve the murder of her father, Sir Harry Oakes, who made his fortune in Canada's gold mining country.

"I would turn heaven and earth if it were possible, but I am helpless without the co-operation of the Bahamian government," she stated

Mr. and Mrs. De Marigny now live in Havana, Cuba.

Mrs. de Marigny said colonial authorities in the Bahamas had refused to grant her permission to take out of the country any of the money owned in her own right or willed to her by her father. Sir Harry's will directed that she be paid the equivalent of $1,000 in United States money monthly.

At Nassau, she plans to auction her household furnishings, some of them exotic objects of art gathered on a trip to the Far East with her father in 1939.

Court Martial Acquits Medical Doctor

FREDERICTON, Jan. 10 (CP). —Proceedings in the first of three general court-martial cases ended Saturday in acquital of Capt. G. G. Alleyn on a charge of negligence in the medical examination of a man who died a few days after he was admitted into the army.

The cases of two other army medical officers will be tried this week. Hearing of Capt. Ner Littner, formerly of Toronto, will begin today, and will be followed by that of Lt. Col. H. E. Baird, formerly of Chipman, N.B., Charges against these officers have yet to be made public.

Littner, like Alleyn was a member of the medical board which examined Charles Fraser Smith last September. Col. Baird is officer commanding the Fredericton military hospital, where the 41-year-old call-up died three days after he was approved for army service.

The defending officer, Col. P. Elmer McLaughlin, mover for dismissal of the charge against Alleyn on the ground that the prosecution had failed to establish a prima facie case.

President's Statement

In announcing the court's finding, Col. G. S. Stairs, Montreal, president of the presiding board, stated:

"The court allows the submission by the defending officer, the accussed is found not guilty; the accused is discharged from custody and the court is closed until Monday morning at 10 o'clock."

The 21st and last witness of the three-day Alleyn hearing was Dr. Clyde W. Holland, Halifax diabetes expert, who said that according to the testimony he felt Capt. Alleyn had made the only test available at the time — an urinalysis—and believed he had come to a "very reasonable conclusion."

Asked if he would have approved Smith for army service if he had been on the medical board, Dr. Holland said he "probably would have."

After moving for dismissal of the charge, Col. McLaughlin took exception to the fact that the charge was laid under a section of the Army Act entitled "Neglect to the prejudice of good order and military discipline." Alleyn was charged with negligently failing to have further examination made of Smith, before passing him as medically fit for military training, after Smith had stated he was suffering from diabetes.

"Cock and Bull Story."

"To any reasonable man, Smith's story and claim of having diabetes must have sounded like a 'cock and bull story'," said the defending officer. Two other members of the medical board also doubted the "improper and unreasonable story," and two civilian experts on diabetes had expressed opinion Capt. Alleyn came to a proper and reasonable decision.

"I submit he carried out his duties in a right and honest way and should have approbation rather than find himself hailed before this court," continued Col. McLaughlin.

"The medical officer is left to rely on his own judgment. There is no evidence that Smith died of diabetes or in any way by neglect on the part of the accused. The urinalysis on Sept. 13 and 14 was negative. There was evidence of a test of urine on Sept. 17 and that it showed sugar in the urine. The quantity is not before the court. It has never been proved Smith died of diabetes.

"Neglect, to be punishable, must be blameworthy. If neglect is caused by an error in judgment it is equally clear that it is blameless and cannot bring conviction."

Prosecutor's View

The prosecuting officer, Capt. A. S. Fergusson, submitted the charge had been properly laid.

"The prosecution has proved that Smith was diabetic," he stated. "The only charges is that the accused negligently failed to cause further medical examination of Smith. There is no charge that the accused was responsible in any way for Smith's death."

After adjournment of Court, Col. Stairs informally called Capt. Alleyn forward and shook hands with him, as did other military officials.

Wants Peace

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10—(AP)—Theofficial Finnish radio has reiterated its declaration that "Finland wants peace and is willing to make peace," but still insists that Russia's terms be made known first, the newspaper Afton Tidningen said Saturday.

SURPRISE MEETING—The meeting of these two men aboard the Lady Nelson was a bit of a coincidence. Left to Right, they are Pte. Joseph LaMarre of Waterford, Ont., and Pte. C. G. Butters of Hamilton, Ont. LaMarre was wounded when his unit, the 48th Highlanders, was sent forward to assist Butters' unit, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, which was trapped on a 2,500-foot mountain inside the town of Assoro.

Canada Pioneers Cold Weather Flying Clothing

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 10—(CP)—Behind a spic-and-span desk in a sprawling office in downtown Ottawa sits a slim-mild-mannered air force officer surrounded by an unruly pile of gadgets and flying equipment.

On a shelf is a "Mae West" and an emergency signalling device flicking rhythmically. From a cabinet overflows and assortment of flying suits, helmets, goggles, emergency kits and oxygen masks. Against the wall are trick stretchers sleeping bags, flying boots and gloves.

This is where Group Capt. Ed Hall and his colleagues discuss Canada's latest contribution to aviation research and development—a contribution that has been aimed at protecting the health and well-being of airmen of Canada and other United Nations. For much of the flying equipment developed in Canada now is in use by her allies and some of the equipment, developed by Allies, has been improved in Canadian research "labs."

Substantial contributions to the pool of research knowledge also have come from Britain and the United States. Recently this international scientific brain-trust was enlarged to include Russia which has many of Canada's flying problems. Private Canadian industrial research also makes important offerings.

Canada, of necessity, has specialized in development of cold-weather flying equipment but with R.C.A.F. squadrons now based in every clime the band of scientists—who counted the late Sir Frederick Banting a member—do not confine their activities to the Dominion's problems.

Hold Exhibition

The cold weather of the stratosphere has always been an obstacle to health and efficiency of aircrews. That is, until now.

The first exhibition of the fruits of Canadian labors will be opened in Toronto Jan. 15 and will later be seen in other Canadian cities.

The scientifi cteam of officers and civilians has also devised and impressive collection of emergency equipment and with Canada the pioneer in providing high-altitude flying training for her aircrews it is perhaps significant that the Dominion has produced the best oxygen mask in use today.

The Canadian scientists have heard that the enemy has already adopted some of their products—and they admit that enemy gadgets are dissected and anything that seems worthwhile is incorporated into new Canadian designs.

Among Canadian developments introduced into the air forces of other Allied nations in high altitude flying training are double pile fabric linings, quick-release zippers, two-way zippers, the curved flying glove, functional design clothing and many safety and rescue devices.

Fairmount W.M.S. Names Two Delegates

FAIRHMOUNT, Jan. 10—(ENS).—The Fairmount W.M.S. held their January meeting at the home of Mrs R. C. Hanbidge Wednesday at which Rev. J. F. Everson installed the officers and impressed on their minds that the church and society is facing the biggest problem yet in the year of 1944.

It was decided to hold a pot luck dinner next Tuesday, Jan. 11 at the home of Mrs. E. K. Earle and the afternoon to be spent in quilting. Mrs. Jas. Seymour and Miss Helen Earle were appoitned as delegates to attend the Presbyterial Jan. 25 in Peterborough. Mrs. R. F. McIndoo gave a paper on Christian Stewardship, "Christmas, the Wee Christ Child."

Mrs. C. W. Seymour was in charge of the following program: A poem. 'New Year's Greeting,' by Mrs. W. Windrem; 'A Happy New Year,' by Mrs. H. M. McBain; 'A Golden String for the New Year,' by Mrs. C. W. Seymour, and Mrs. Jas. Seymour gave an extract from one of Rev. Allan's sermons. A paper by Jean Hanbidge. 'A New Year's Wish.' Mrs. C. W. Seymour closed the program by a short poem, and Rev. Everson pronounced the benediction.

Winchell's Tribute

MIAMI, Jan. 10 (CP) — Walter Winchell, radio commentator, in a broadcast from here last night paid tribute to Canadian troops fighting in Italy saying the Nazis have learned the Canadians combine the fighting qualities of the Anzacs, Guardsmen and Texans.

"The Germans have learned that the man who attacks like an Anzac, holds like a Guardsman and fights like a Texan is a Canadian," Winchell said.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A PLAY HAS MANY USES

NOBODY ever could catalogue all of the uses that may be made of each different play in bridge. An outstanding example is the procedure of discarding high honors. Ordinarily that is for the purpose of unblocking, so that your partner's hand will be able to win some later trick instead of your own. Who would think of such discarding for the purpose of making yourself void of a certain suit, so that you could over-ruff an opponent who also is void of it?

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	4 ♠

West, of course, led his singleton heart, which East won with the Q, and the heart K came back from East, South putting on the 10.

Right there is where West put on his thinking cap, figuring out what South probably held and what to do about it. In view of the kind of bid South had made, he obviously had a very short suit in his hand, probably a blank. Clearly he held three hearts originally, as the missing J was undoubtedly his, since East would have used it instead of the Q on the first trick if he held it. So another heart lead was almost surely due from East.

Such being the case, it would be possible for West to blank himself in diamonds by discarding his two honors. West decided that would be wise, as a blank in diamonds was likely for South, who doubtless held high cards in some suit other than his trumps, which could not be hearts and could not be diamonds, so therefore must be clubs.

Consequently West discarded his diamond K on the second heart and his A on the third one. East caught the idea easily and switched then to a diamond, thus assuring a trump trick to West, no matter what South played, and setting the contract in the only way it could be done.

Rocket Plane Inventor Gets Promotion

LONDON, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Group Capt. Frank Whittle, 36-year-old inventor of the jet propulsion engine for fighter aircraft, yesterday was promoted to a wing commander in the R.A.F.

Whittle's rank of group captain is a temporary one and the promotion elevated him from squadron leader, which was his former permanent rank.

Announcement that the new-type craft was being manufactured for Allied use was made simultaneously yesterday in London and Washington.

Whittle was 14 years developing his idea. His first engine ran successfully in 1937.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 —(AP). — Capt Eddie Rickenbacker said yesterday that "if the war lasts another five years," the new British-American jet-propelled airplane will change the whole course of civilization with respect to transportation and travel.

"As far as progress is concerned," the First Great War ace said, "it has brought us 50 years further than we would have been had the war not occurred. There is no question about its prospects and possibilities."

Rickenbacker said, while the plane is an outstanding contribution to aviation, he doubted that it would become a great factor in winning the war, because its development presents too many problems, and he thought the war would be over before these problems were solved.

Taxable Insurance

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP).— Mr. Justice J. A. Hope ruled Saturday in an Osgoode Hall judgment that an accident insurance policy is to be considered under succession duty legislation in the same light as life insurance and is eligible for duty.

GERMANY CORNERED—Assaults from the east, west and south against the Nazi fortress of Europe are indicated by large arrows on the map. After the recent conferences in the Middle East there was an implied invitation to the Nazi satellite states (blackened areas with tiny swastikas on the map) to topple their Nazi leaders if they wished to avoid total disaster. Already that invitation is bearing fruit. The pro-Axis Premier Bojilov of Bulgaria has been ousted and King Michael of Rumania has left Bucharest and is reported to be flying to London to seek peace terms.

200 Members Attend Meeting Of Apple Growers' Association

COBOURG, Jan. 10 —(ENS) — Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association held their largest annual convention in many years at Cbourg Friday, with many years at Cobourg on Friday with over 200 growers in attendance. Harold Gibson presided.

The convention endorsed in full the recommendations of the Resolutions Committee, they decided to give a grant of $15 to each of the Northumberland and Durham federations and to prepare a brief to be presented at the annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association in February covering consideration of fruit growers for depreciation on fruit trees for income tax deductions. Before the convention closed a committee of Harry Sirett, Brighton; Russell Osborne, Newcastle and Harold Gibson, Newcastle, were appointed to prepare this brief. The third resolution read that since permits were granted to local fruit dealers for transportation of apples to Eastern Ontario markets up to Dec. 31, 1943, be is resolved that they be extended for the movement by trucks to April 1, 1944.

The following officers were re-elected for 1944: Past president, Harry Sirett, Brighton; president, Harold Gibson, Newcastle; vice-president, J. Alyea, Trenton; secretary-treasurer, E. A. Summers, Bowmanville; directors, J. A. Wilson, Cobourg; Gordon Finlay, Colborne; S. J. Tinson, Brighton; Harry Crews, Trenton; W. F. Rickard, Newcastle; Howard Gibson, Newcastle; F. R. Currelley, Port Hope and Irwin Colwell, Newcastle.

More Maggots

Addressing the convention Friday afternoon, Professor R. W. Thompson, O.A.C., Guelph, told the apple growers that 1943 saw the highest increase in apple maggot infestation than at any time during the last 11 years. Prospects were that the residual apple maggot was enough to provide a good start for the pests in 1944. A survey had shown that Northumberland was 60 per cent infested in the cross-section which had been inspected and that Durham County was 77 per cent infested. He declared its menace was perhaps greater than the codling moth and if it were permitted to get out of control it would be very difficult for fruit growers to catch up on. In spite of a war-time economy program it was more economical to put on another covering spray, in addition to the sprays usually recommended by the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Thompson advised.

After the apple maggot fly punctured the apples and laid its eggs, the larvae fed inside the apple, protected from weather and enemies, the speaker explained. The apple finally dropped to the ground and the larvae immediately went into the soil and entered its pupa stage. In the following summer, about July, the apple maggot had developed into a winged insect, somewhat smaller than a house fly. For a week after its emerging as a fly it fed on liquid material and very small solids found on the apples. It was during that week of feeding, prior to starting to lay eggs, that the spray got to work. After the week was up and the fly had laid its eggs, the spray was of no value for that particular issue of flies. The flies emerge over a period of several weeks. Last year they were issuing from the soil for a period of ten weeks and a single spray, particularly in the wet weather, did not last long enough to be effective. For that reason the Depratment had decided on a fourth spray. It had been found that moist, soft soil had been ideal for the emergence of the flies.

Discuss Spraying

George Wilson of the Ontario Fruit Branch, addressed the gathering briefly, reminding the apple growers that now was the time to study the problems which would affect marketing, processing, packing and storing in the postwar periods. Morley Webster led the discussion period and the questions and answers revealed that there were practically no sprayers to be had although parts were still available. The quota has been increased but there is no indication where the equipment will come from. Proper pressure for spraying with a four-nozzle broom was set at not less than 450 pounds. There is some difficulty in reaching top parts of the trees with a broom spray but one grower described how to alter the whirling disk to add about 20 feet more range. Cultivation for a radius of about four feet around the trees and removal of infecting vegetation was revealed as being the best way to control the Buffalo tree hopper. There was little advantage in cleaning loose scale bark from the trunks of trees as spraying did the job anyway of controlling pests.

Ordnance Corps Uses Synthetic Rubber

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP).— U. S. Army Ordnance has made more than a 50 per cent conversion from natural to synthetic rubber, Maj.-Gen. L. H. Campbell, Jr., chief of Ordnance of the Army Service Forces, announced today.

He said this represented a saving of more than 10,000 tons of natural rubber a month and added:

"Conversion to synthetic rubber will be increased as rapidly as tests can be completed and as quickly as industry can handle the change."

Institute Gives Girls In Forces Service Jewelry

ROSENEATH, Jan. 10 (ENS). — Four identification bracelets have been purchased for Roseneath girls in the services, it was announced at the W.I. meeting. The girls include L.-Cpl. Lois Arber, C.W.A.C., W2 Audrey McCracken, R.C.A.F., Jean Edington, C.W.A.C., and Audrey Pacey, C.W.A.C.

Mrs. Frank Adams was hostess for the meeting, which was held in the town hall and the president, Mrs. Earl Waldie, presided. Mrs. Stewart Thackeray, secretary-treasurer, reported a balance of $23.20 on hand. It was announced the members' and officers' rally for West Northumberland would be held in Roseneath town hall on April 24. A Department speaker will speak on "Parliamentary Procedure." It was decided to cater to the District L.O.L. annual banquet February 1, and a committee appointed to arrange for the annual Valentine party included Mrs. E. Waldie, Mrs. S. Thackeray, Mrs. Charles Sandercock and Mrs. Harold Taylor. Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. Harold George were named as program committee for the February meeting, when Miss Ruby Blodgett will be hostess. An offering to war work was given, these collections from July up to date, excepting the October offering, donated to the Salvation Army, totals $11.63.

Mrs. Charlton Grigg, district convener for historical research, emphasized the importance of beginning on the homes hewed out of the forest, as historical research is studied in a community. She stressed need for study of Canadian literature, music and art in preference to foreign arts. In conclusion Mrs. Grigg suggested a record be compiled and filed of the men and women from the township in service, accompanied by a brief history of each. It was decided to adopt this suggestion and Mrs. Grigg was appointed officer in charge of the plan.

In an address by Mrs. Waldie on home economics, proper diet, with meals at proper hours were named as part of the foundation of happy homes, these in turn being the backbone of the community. That leaders of families must be happy and optimistic with faith in the future, that mothers should be leaders in community life, were conclusions reached by the speaker.

Mrs. J. W. Pacey, program convener, announced the numbers as follows: A reading, 'School of Happiness," by Mrs. Charles Sandercock; a song, "Paper Dollies," by little Miss Mary Halstead; and a reading, "Mother's Love" by Mrs. Frank Brown. In addition, two quilts were quilted, to be donated to the Salvation Army.

OBITUARY

JAMES FARRELL.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10 — (ENS).—Last rites for James Farrell, 89, a resident of this town for the past forty years, were held from St. Mary's church Friday. The death of Mr. Farrell early last Wednesday morning marked the first break in the family since he wedded Ellen Callaghan at Marysville 63 years ago.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Farrell, he was born in Marysville, where he spent his early life on the farm. From there he went to Plainfield where he operated the old Royal Hotel for a number of years before removing to Campbellford wtih his family in 1903.

For sixteen years Mr. Farrell worked with the T. A. Brown Construction Company and in 1919 he became caretaker of St. Mary's church, retiring six years ago. He had always enjoyed good health and on the occasion of their sixtieth wedding anniversary three years ago, all but one of their seven children were able to be home to join with their parents in observing the occasion.

Mr. Farrell was ill for about a week prior to his death. He was a devout Catholic and had been a member of the Holy Name Society for more than fifty years. He was also a member of the C.M.B.A. There survive besides his widow, four sons, Vincent of Campbellford, Jack of Ponoka, Alta., Lambert of Toronto, Harold of Aylmer, and three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Kelleher, (Sara) of Campbellford, Mrs. James Reeves, (Irene) of Toronto, Mrs. Frank Mullany, (Lottie) of Detroit. One sister, Mrs. Sara Farrell, of Chicago, also survives.

Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. P. Collins of St. Mary's church and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. The pallbearers were three sons, Vincent, Lambert and Harold, and three nephews, Frederick, Emmett and Bernard Kelleher.

WINS DOUBLE HONOR

How to Save Other Foods

Compared with other countries Canada is rich in food. No one here need go hungry. But because we are well-off, our obligation to others is that much greater. It is our duty to our country — to the world — to pledge ourselves not to waste what we have.

Three things every housewife can do:

1. Take care to serve the foods that are in abundance — fruits and vegetables in season — cereals all the year round.
2. Use up every scrap of food you buy!
3. Replace or extend meats and other protein foods, which are so badly needed overseas, with cereal products.

• Save meat by adding Kellogg's All-Wheat to your regular Salisbury Steak recipe. Enjoy a flavour treat at the same time.

Try all seven Kellogg cereals. Serve them more often for breakfast—lunch—between meals. Remember, if it's Kellogg's it's the finest of its kind. Complete your assortment tomorrow. Your grocer has them. Made by Kellogg's, London, Canada.

RUSSIANS WIPE OUT 12,000 GERMANS

Russians Suggest New Border Poles to Take East Prussia

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP).—A clear warning that the Russians will not yield the Ukrainian and White Russian territories incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1939 came today from the Soviet Government, which at the same time reaffirmed its desire for a strong, independent Poland to be rebuilt with areas taken from Germany, assuring her an outlet to the Baltic Sea. In an official declaration broadcast by the Moscow radio, the Russians offered the "Curzon line" of 1919 as a possible basis for a new Russian-Polish border, a line which would leave the U.S.S.R. in possession of all but 3,800 square miles of the Polish territory the Red Army occupied under the 1939 Soviet-German partition of Poland.

The Soviet declaration, asserting that Russia was striving "towards the establishment of friendship between the Soviet and Poland on the basis of solid, good-neighborly relations and mutual respect," also suggested that Poland could join the Soviet Union and Czecho-Slovakia in a bulwark against the Germans by becoming a party to the Soviet-Czech mutual assistance pact recently signed in Moscow.

Oppose Exile Group.

The broadcast, however, used strong language in referring to the Polish Government in London, asserting that the "emigre Polish Government, cut off from its people, has shown itself incapable of establishing friendly relations with the Soviet Union."

There was a wide but unconfirmed belief that the Moscow declaration had been known in advance to the British and American governments. It was learned that Britain, at least, knew of the recent Polish note to the United Nations before it was issued.

The principal obstacle to an early settlement and a resumption of diplomatic relations appeared to be Moscow's outspoken opposition to Poland's government in London which thus far has refused to talk, openly at least, of any compromise of the eastern boundary.

Execpt to say that an early meeting of the Polish government is expected, Poles declined immediate comment on the declaration.

"As is known," declared the Moscow broadcast, "The Soviet constitution established the Soviet-Polish border in accordance with the will of the population of the Western Ukraine and Western Byelo-Russia (White Russia) as expressed in a plebiscite which was carried out on a wide democratic basis in 1939....

"The inclusion on the Western Ukraine and Western Byelo-Russia in the structure of the Soviet Union not only did not violate the interests of Poland, but on the contrary created a reliable basis for a solid, permanent friendship between the Polish people and their neighboring Ukrainian, Byelo-Russian and Russian peoples."

Germans Say Count Ciano Executed By Firing Squad

AT THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 11—(AP). — German radio said a Fascist firing squad at dawn today executed Count Ciano, former Italian Foreign Minister and son-in-law of Mussolini, and four other members of the Fascist Grand Council sentenced to death at Verona for high treason.

Eighteen members of the Fascist Grand Council were convicted because they voted to oust Mussolini last July 25. The only ones in custody were the Count, Marshal Emilio de Bono, Giovanni Marinelli, Carlo Pareschi and Luciano Gottardi. The others were tried and sentenced in absentia.

Frontier reports continued contradictory and confused.

One such advice asserted that Pope Pius XII asked clemency for the condemned men.

The Fascist press and radio did not mention either the trials or the Heaviest Losses Expected Soon

OTTAWA, Jan. 11—(CP).—The next few months of the war "will be the grimmest and bloodiest we have ever known," says Lord De La Warr, chairman of the Agricultural Research Council of the United Kingdom.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Junior Board of Trade here last night, Lord De La Warr said persons who believe in an early and easy finish of the war are in for a "terrible shock."

There is a "dangerous optimism" regarding the early and easy finish of the war, he said.

"That optimism can be extremely wrong, and it is certainly extremely dangerous. There is a terrible shock coming to those who believe it. There is a great deal more fighting and heavier losses ahead than we've ever seen, and we'll need all the fortitude we can muster to bear the sacrifice."

He paid tribute to Canadian soldiers overseas and said he hoped that "you are as proud of them as we are fond of them."

Nazis Scuttle Ship Flew Argentine Flag

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 11—(AP)—The newspaper O Globo says the German blockade runner sunk last week in the South Atlantic was camouflaged but flew the Argentine flag and carried a number of Argentine seamen.

The same paper reported yesterday that the ship had been scuttled by her crew Jan. 3 during a chase by U.S. and Brazilian naval and air forces, going down between Ascension Island and the African coast.

It added that 145 crewmen had been interned in a camp in northeastern Brazil. An official announcement last Saturday had said that the ship was sunk by the pursuers while carrying contraband from Japan to Germany.

Mosquito Raid Stabs Berlin

LONDON, Jan. 11 (CP). — Allied heavy bombers, mediums and fighters swept across the English Channel today in a renewal of the daylight offensive against Europe a few hours after R.A.F. Mosquitoes attacked Berlin and Western Germany during darkness.

Berlin radio asserted that "the strong formations of four-engined American bombers" attacked localities in Central Germany around noon and claimed "heavy losses" were inflicted by Nazi defenders.

The Mosquitoes attack last night was their ninth foray of the year and it was executed without loss. Save for Berlin, other night targets were not specified.

FDR Suggests To Congress Service Act

Five-Point Program Is Outlined In President's Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—A five point legislative program, headed by enactment of a national service law, was recommended to Congress today by President Roosevelt.

He proposed a National Service Act for the duration to "prevent strikes" and, with some exceptions, to "make available for war production or for any other essential services every able-bodied adult in this nation."

These were his other points:

1. "A realistic tax law."
2. Continuation of the law permitting renegotiation of war contracts.
3. A "cost of food law."
4. Re-enactment of the economic stabilization act which expires next June 30.

In his annual message to Congress, which he was prevented by the grippe from delivering in person, Mr. Roosevelt dwelt largely on domestic problems, but he spoke also of the war and its progress.

His legislative program was proposed "in order to concentrate all our energies and resources on winning the war and to maintain a fair and stable economy at home."

His five measures, the President said, "form a just and equitable whole."

Act Is Necessary

The President said he was convinced a National Service Act was necessary.

"Although I am convinced," he said, "that we and our Allies can win without such a measure, I am certain that nothing less than total mobilization of manpower and capital resources will guarantee an earlier victory."

Supporting his arguments for a national service act, he said millions "are not in this war at all" and that the act would be a means by which every man and woman could make the fullest possible contribution to victory.

Mr. Roosevelt described "a realistic tax law" as one which would tax all unreasonable profits, both individual and corporate, and reduce the ultimate cost of the war.

The revenue bill now in Congress, which would yield only about a fifth of what the administration had sought, does not start to meet this test, he said.

On his third point, a cost of food law, he said it should enable the Government to put a reasonable floor under farm prices and a ceiling on the prices that consumers pay. It should apply only to necessities, he declared, and public funds will be required to effectuate it. He figured the cost would be about one per cent. of the present annual cost of the war.

Fear Price Choas

Unless the stabilization statute is renewed, he said, the country can expect "price choas by summer." He said positive action must be taken to maintain the integrity of the dollar.

The President touched with relative brevity, at the outset of his message, on the war conferences

Cruiser With Bow Sheared Off By Torpedo Wins Battle, Limps Into Port For New Prow

BREMERTON, Wash., Jan. 11—(AP).—The United States Navy said today a torpedoed cruiser with her entire bow shot off came into the Navy yard here, was fitted up with a made-in-advance replacement and went back to prowl the Pacific.

The Navy release, without identifying the vessel or listing the date, said "The veteran crew...saw the severed bow go to the bottom even while the cruiser's guns still blazed at the Nips."

The ship started for Puget Sound with an emergency fore section. A replica of the severed section was made from the plans of a sister ship while the wounded cruiser was on its way. Welders went to work and the ship was made whole again.

Store In Lakefield Burglarized 4 Youths Arrested With Goods

PORT HOPE, Jan. 11 (CP). — Four youths aged 16 to 19 years who gave their names as John Caride, Joseph Warslyn, Alf Watts and Dugal Brunette, all of Toronto, were arrested early to-day at Bowmanville after a chase in which the car they were riding sped at 70 to 80 miles an hour.

Police here said they found a quantity of clothing, confectionery and tobacco in the trunk of the car. They added the car had been stolen in Toronto and a store at Lakefield robbed. The youths were charged with the robbery.

Provincial Constable R. H. Pollard, Port Hope and Constable R. Carr of the Port Hope police were patrolling the highway looking for a car reported stolen from Peterborough when they were notified by a truck driver of a car travelling at high speed through Newtonville.

The youths are charged with the theft of merchandise valued at $185 from the store of Theodore Crawford, Lakefield.

"At Bowmanville the car failed to make a turn at the bridge," the constable said. "Before they could regain their course we drew up alongside and arrested the boys."

The store of Theodore Crawford, Bridge Street, Lakefield, was broken into between 2 and 5:30 o'clock this mornng, entrance being gained through the front door. Chief Garnet Samis states that the store was all right when he examined the premises at two o'clock this morning but shortly before six o'clock two early workers, Arthur Montgomery and A. Crapp were on their way to catch the Peterborough bus and they discovered the break-in.

The amount of goods stolen was estimated by Crawford at $185. It included five or six ladies' felt hats, six sets of woollen underwear, overshoes, 8 packages of flat 50's cigarettes, several heavy windbreakers, boys' breeches, 25 pairs of overalls, a table cloth, a quantity of men's ties and hats and other articles.

Clarence Foster's gasoline station at Lakefield was also robbed early this morning and a quantity of gas stolen.

Citizens Urged To Assist Curbing Dare-Devil Flying

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Group Capt. F. S. Wilkins, R.C.A.F., chief inspector of accidents, appealed to the general public today to regard stunting and low-flying pilots as "dangerous drivers" rather than "smart young dare-devils," and asked: "Report them; don't wave to them."

Group Capt. Wilkins, who has been investigating air crashes since the start of the war, said in a statement that "too often" the accident findings show fault to lie in "show-off tactics" of inexperienced pilots or bored instructors.

"Sadly, the culprit usually drags others to their deaths in his own flaming finish," he added. "Those lucky enough to survive the fruits of their carelessness get rigid disciplinary treatment. Discharge from the service or reduction to the ranks and detention have become the rule in low-flying convictions.

Mountbatten Captures Maungdaw

NEW DELHI, an. 11 (AP)—Allied ground forces under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten are continuing their advance along the coast of Burma toward the Japanese base of Akyab and now are in possession of Maungdaw, 55 miles to the northwest it was announced today.

Aided by R.A.F. fighters and dive-bombers, the southeast Asia forces pushed ahead west of the Mayu mountains to capture a number of enemy strongpoints. "On the central part of the front, our troops made similar advances," the communique covering operations since Jan. 5 said.

Allied bombers, fighter-bombers and medium bombers swarmed over Japanese-occupied Burma from Nanyaseik, 25 miles northwest of the rail and river port city of Mogaung, in the north to Akyab in the south, suffering no losses in the period reviewed. Communications, oil and supply dumps and airfields were bombed and strafed with good results. One twin-engine enemy plane was destroyed on the ground at Akyab.

2 Soviet Armies Unchecked Reach Suburbs Of Sarny Menace Smela Rail Junction

8,000 Germans Trapped In Dnieper Bend Annihilated In Battle Noose Tightens On Huge Nazi Army

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 — (AP). — Russian spearheads, steadily bringing war nearer to Rumania, drove toward the Odessa-Warsaw railway today, and advance scouts felt out the eastern bank of the southern Bug River after capturing a long stretch of land southeast of Zhmerinka, a junction on that main railway line.

To the rear, the 2nd Ukrainian Army of Gen. Ivan S. Konev fought within 15 miles of the Dnieper Bend rail town of Smela, after wiping out 8,000 Nazis encircled north of Kirovograd.

The German High Command declared the Soviets had launched a new attack from their bridgehead north of Kerch in the Crimea, with fighting still continuing. There was no Soviet confirmation. Berlin also said fighting raged all day yesterday for possession of Sarny, rail city 35 miles within Poland.

The 1st Ukraine Army hourly increased the threat of severing the Odessa-Warsaw railway, a disaster for the Germans that would throw them back upon Rumania for supplies and use of railways and highways, and put the biggest burden yet upon that satellite nation.

The danger to the Germans in the Smela gap also mounted steadily.

Listing yesterday's advances a Russian communique said more than 12,000 Germans were slain during the day.

In addition to the 8,000 wiped out by Konev's forces, Vatutin's veterans accounted for 4,000 more as they drove toward Sarny. Advance units of the Red Army were reported five miles east of Sarny yesterday.

Approach Rovno

Berlin dispatches to Stockholm newspapers said the Germans had evacuated Sarny and that Vatutin's army is threatening to encircle Rovno, another rail junction 50 miles to the southwest.

Vatutin's left wing, operating about 70 miles to the west of the Konev army, captured Voronovitsa and Nemirov in a drive for Vinnitsa and the Warsaw-Odessa railway. A junction of Konev's and of Vatutin's forces would isolate thousands of Germans already outflanked in the Smela-Kanev sector of the Dnieper bend. Konev's advance guards were within 15 miles of Smela, the communique reported.

Capture of Voronovitsa, 13 miles southeast of Vinnitsa, severed the Voronovitsa-Khristinovka rail line and put the Russians within seven miles of the Bug river, and 21 miles from the Odessa-Warsaw railway. The Bug forms the last natural Nazi defence line before the Dniester river.

Russian guerilla forces were reported lending invaluable aid to the regular Army forces, the Soviet communique reported. They were marching with Vatutin in his thrust into Poland and were active on the Black Sea coast near Odessa, where they were wrecking German rail facilities.

The two armies captured 116 towns and villages in their westward sweeps yesterday, the war bulletin said, and one column was converging on Sheptovka (a rail junction which commands the gateway to the southern half of old Poland). Soviet spearheads were less

Allied Pincers Close In On Cassino City

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALGIERS, Jan. 11 — (AP). — A 5th Army pincers closed in on the German bastion of Cassino, 70 miles from Rome, to-day with one arm reaching the outskirts of Cervaro, fortified village four miles to the east, Headquarters announced.

British troops completed capture of Mount Pedro, five miles southeast of Cassino, and continued to forge ahead. Americans threatened the German mountain defences of Mount Rocchio, less than three miles from Cassino.

As the tentacles of the Allied offensive stretched out to take Cervaro, American troops captured Mount Di Piperia, 1,500 yards from the village and then pushed down toward the heavily-defended town itself.

Meanwhile, night bombers in a swift follow-up of yesterday's daylight pounding of Sofia, showered the Bulgarian capital with more tons of explosives.

Naval action flared on the Adriatic where destroyers sank three Axis schooners and darted close to shore to shell trains on a coastal railway. Four schooners were left abandoned.

In air actions, Allied gunners shot nine German planes out of the sky for a loss of three Allied aircraft.

American infantry established a foothold on the mountain in the morning against stiff resistance, and then launched an afternoon attack which met no opposition as the Germans had withdrawn.

There was no sign of slackening in the Allied 5th Army advance, which started a week ago and is progressing steadily. However, there was no evidence of weakness in the German defence nor any indication that the Allies will be able to make a break through for a big

Big 3 Alliance Staves Off World War 3

Fear That Communism May Dominate World Believed Unfounded

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Note the highly-important declaration by James C. Dunn, the United States State Department adviser on European political relations, that but for the agreement reached at the Moscow Conference by Russia, Britain, America and China, a third great war was certain.

"These four nations," said Mr. Dunn in a week-end broadcast for the State Department, "committed themselves to a policy of continuing co-operation. If they had not done so the dread certainty of a third world war would have settled on us even before world war II was finished."

While he did not mention "alliances," his disclosure fits well with a statement made in this column about a month ago on the question of peace versus war.

In the previous column I recorded that there is a considerable school which feels that, looking at the matter from a purely horse-sense viewpoint, the maintenance of peace must depend on a military alliance among the Big Three—Britain, America and Russia—just as the winning of this war hinges on the continued co-operation of these three dominant world-powers on the battle-field.

It strikes me that if the lesson of the League of Nations means anything, it is that any peace organization to be successful at this junction of our history must have as a nucleus an alliance of the dominant powers which are agreed to maintain peace by force if necessary. Around this nucleus may be formed a united nations. Certainly China should be included in the alliance, but at the moment her strength is potential rather than actual, because of the ravages of her protracted war with Japan.

Since we were in an alliance in the last war, and are in another now, it's argued that it's a logical step to continue the pact for the purpose of maintaining peace and security.

There's one fear which I constantly encounter in discussing this burning problem. Many people are afraid that an alliance with Russia may in some way result in Communism being thrust upon their countries, or at least in the barrier to its being lowered. They seem to have the idea for some reason that they must be kind to the "ism" because of friendship with the Soviet Union. However, I haven't yet found anone who can explain why we are under obligation to foster any political belief we don't want, any more than Russia is under obligation to accept our form of government.

Must Take Tokyo—Halsey

Claims Jap Fleet Badly Crippled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., reporting the Japanese fleet is seriously crippled, declared today "we will keep on presing and hitting him continuously," until Tokyo is occupied."

The 51-year-old commander of naval forces in the South Pacific urged that the people refuse to accept any peace until troops reach Tokyo.

Halsey told a press conference that "there is only one definite place that has got to be taken and that is Tokyo. Don't let anyone stop us until we get it either."

He said that the forces in the Pacific in continuing to pound the Japanese are relying upon keeping the enemy guessing.

"He'll get set in one place and we'll hit him in another," he said.

"Either they are saving their force until we approach the shore of the Japanese empire or think they can wear us down by attrition tactics so we'll get tired and make a negotiated peace suitable to them, which God knows I hope no one will permit."

Sweden Signs Trade Treaty With Germany

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 11—(AP). — Sweden and Germany signed a trade treaty Monday providing for reduced exchanges of goods in 1944, and the Nazis agreed to lift their blockade on Swedish shipping to North and South America next Saturday.

Sweden agreed to ship 7,000,000 tons of iron ore to the Nazis in 1944, almost 3,000,000 tons less than in 1943. Coal and coke imports from Germany will be cut correspondingly, since the trade is balanced equally.

Six Swedish ships were reported ready to sail for North and South America, and six more were leaving foreign ports for Sweden with resumption of safe conduct, suspended by the Germans last October.

The Nazis unsuccessfully demanded that Sweden give assurance that two Norwegian ships at Goteborg would not be allowed to attempt to slip through the North Sea to England. They were the last of 10 vessels caught in Sweden when the Germans completed occupation of Norway. They dashed for England in March, 1942. Two succeeded, six were sunk, and the other two reached Goteborg.

A Foreign Office spokesman said German shipments of buna rubber would be continued to Sweden this year on the same reduced scale as in 1943, when 1,100 tons were received.

He declined to provide the figures on anticipated shipments of ball bearings badly needed by German war machines.

Jap Lifeline Pounded Hard

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 11—(AP)—Sea and air attacks on Japanese plane and supply centres accented Allied warfare in Southwest Pacific, with enemy's lifeline along the New Guinea northeast coast taking a heavy hammering.

The big base at Madang and its nearby protecting airdromes and defence points were hit with 168 tons of bombs, the Allied communique said today, making a total of 986 tons laid on supply dumps, gun positions and air fields there in the past 10 days.

Madang is 55 miles northwest of the United States 6th Army invasion holding at Saidor.

Medium bombers ranged about Madang to Ulangi destroying three loaded barges and leaving pillars of smoke and fire rising above wrecked installations and gun positions.

sentences. The only definite report received here about them was a brief German D.N.B. dispatch dated Milan.

Corriere Del Ticino of Lugano said the trial in Castel Vecchio actually was a mockery held in secret and attended by only a few trusted followers of Mussolini The newspaper said it had been rumored that Mussolini was supposed to attend and accuse Ciano and De Bono.

It was learned definitely, however, that Mussolini was unable to leave his villa on Lake Garda where his health is steadily declining.

Another report said Ciano was shot while attempting to escape but this was generally discredited.

D.N.B. said that four other men convicted with Ciano also were executed. These were listed as Marshal Emilio De Bono, Giovanni Marinelli, Carlo Pareschi and Luciano Gottardi. They were among 19 former members of the Fascist Grand Council and were convicted yesterday of treason charges, the Germans announced. Of the remaining 14, 13 have not been arrested but were convicted in absentia and one convicted man, Tullio Ciannetti, was listed as having received a 30-year sentence.

Reign Of Terror Sweeps Poland

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP-Reuters) — Tens of thousands more Poles have fallen victim to a new phase of the German terror which began in October, Polish Home Minister Wladyslaw Banaczyk said in a broadcast last night.

"The Germans are murdering thousands of Poles daily in Pawiak Prison in Warsaw and in hundreds of other prison and concentration camps. These murders, unlike the public executions, are done secretly in prison cells and 'interrogation rooms' of the Gestapo headquarters."

aircraft between the coast and Berlin; they destroyed war plants and stores and thus weakened the German war machine on the Russian front; and they forced Hitler to maintain at least a thousand men on aircraft defences in addition to those deployed to meet the threat of invasion.

It forced the Germans to maintain three quarters of their fighter aircraft between the coast and Berlin, it destroyed war plants and stores, thus affecting the maintenance of armies on the Russian front, and there were at least a million men manning aircraft defences in addition to those deployed to meet the threat of invasion.

Britain had changed since his last previous visit in 1941. Then the confidence fo the people in ultimate victory "seemed to be based on little more than a passionate intuition that decency and justice must in the end prevail.... now victory is no longer in doubt."

Unity of purpose and equality of service characterized Britain's war effort and she was preparing for peace in the same spirit, being far along the road of post war planning, reconstruction and education. These were not permitted to divert attention from winning the war but were looked on "as a part of victory itself."

which took place overseas in the final weeks of 1943. He hailed them as intended to prevent mistakes made at the conclusion of the last war.

"Of course, we made some commitments," he said. "We most certainly commited ourselves to very large and very specific military plans which require the use of all Allied forces to bring about the defeat of our enemies at the earliest possible time.

"But there were no secret treaties or politinal or financial commitments.

The one supreme objective for the future, which we discussed for each nation individually, and for all the United Nations, can be summed up in one word—security.

"And that means not only physical security which provides for safety from attacks by aggressors. It means also economic security social security, moral security — in a family of nations."

Mr. Roosevelt warned against over-confidence, and complacency, asserting the way to fight and win the war is "all out" and not with half an eye on the battlefronts and half an eye on personal, selfish or political interests at home.

He said he hoped Congress would recognize that while 1944 is a political year, "national service is an issue which transcends politics."

He said he believed American people would welcome a measure based on a just principle of "fair for one, fair for all."

Asking Congress to look into means for implementing what he termed an economic, second bill of rights, Mr. Roosevelt vigorously assailed "whining demands of selfish pressure groups who seek to feather their nests while young Americans are dying."

He spoke of the need for unity at home, pounding away on a theme he has used before — that there is only one front in the war.

"Each and every one of us," he declared, "has the solemn obligation under God to serve this nation in its most critical hour—to keep this nation great—and to make this nation greater in a better world."

His second bill of rights, under which he said a new basis of security and prosperity could be established for all, included these points:—

1. The right to a useful and remunerative job.
2. The right to earn enough to provide adequate food, clothing and recreation.
3. The right of every farmer to a return for his products which will provide a decent living for him and his family.
4. The right of every business man to be free from unfair competition and domination by monopolies.
5. The right of every family to a decent home.
6. The right to adequate medical care and an opportunity to achieve and enjoy good health.
7. The right to adequate protection from economic fears in old age, illness, accident and unemployment.
8. The right to a good education.

"All of these rights spell 'security,'" the president said. "And after this war is won we must be prepared to move forward in the implementation of these rights, to new goals of human happiness and well being.

"America's own rightful place in the world depends in large part upon how fully these and similar rights have been carried into practice for our citizens. For unless there is security here at home there cannot be lasting peace in the world."

If history were to repeat and America were to return to the so-called normalcy of the 1920's, he said, it is certain that though we have conquered enemies on battlefields abroad "we shall have yielded to the spirit of fascism here at home." All clear thinking business men, he added, share a concern over the grave dangers which would ensue from a "rightist reaction" in America.

It is definitely the responsibility of Congress, the president emphasized, to explore methods to effectuate the economic bill of rights. Some of its features already are covered by pending legislation, he said, and he added that he would communicate with Congress from time to time on these and further proposals.

Although he did not make the recommendation at this point, the president appealed for federal legislation to give soldiers, sailors and marines the right to vote.

World War Vet Aids Partisans

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP Cable).—A Toronto veteran of Vimy Ridge in the First Great War has become a leading figure in the war Marshal Zros's Partisans are waging in Yugoslavia against the German invaders, the Daily Telegraph said today in a front-page story from its Cairo correspondent.

He was not named and no further clue to his identity was given.

The story said that this Canadian now is serving as liaison officer with the Partisans and is described in reports reaching Cairo as the most popular man in Slovenia where Broz (Tito) is campaigning.

Ballads praising his courage and resourcefulness are recited in Partisan camps, it said.

British fighters also were busy over the continent last night on intruder patrols, the Air Ministry said, shooting down one German plane during these operations. One British plane failed to return.

Only light aerial activity was reported over the continent yesterday, small formations of Typhoon and Mosquito bombers co-operating in attacks on the coastal area of northern France. Two Allied planes were lost and one German craft was shot down.

Daylight raids continuing today were indicated in a Federal Communications Commission report that the Hiversum radio station had gone off the air this morning and the German Bremen and Friesland radios had failed to go on the air as scheduled.

The consistent Mosquito raids by night have set off sirens in a dozen of jittery German cities, and last night marked the third consecutive visit to the shattered Nazi capital.

A Paris radio broadcast declared that four United States four-engined bombers were downed in Northern France during attacks yesterday, but there was no U. S. air force announcement of any operations.

"Operational flying is a hard game —there will be deaths. There will also be casualties in the small number of unpreventable training accidents. But those who kill themselves and others in satisfying their personal desire for a thrill have contributed nothing but a blot to Canada's war effort."

Strict rules govern the practise of aerobatics. They must never be performed over populated areas and always at high altitudes. Definite areas are laid out for necessary training in low flying. These never include cities, towns or villages.

"Civilians who watch, heart in throat, an aircraft stunting just over the roof can easily be the means of saving a life by noting and reporting the number of the machine," he said. "If that number can be read from the ground, then that pilot is courting death.

Red Cross Clubs Boon To Soldiers

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, an. 11 (CP)—A couple of the essential ingredients for a good leave in London for a Canadian serviceman is a clean, comfortable bed and a good filling meal. The Maple Leaf Leave Clubs, operated by the Canadian Red Cross give him just that.

For approximately 62 cents (2/6d) he can have a bed and breakfast. He'd pay six times that much in even a very down-at-the-heel backstreet hotel.

The big lounge of Maple Leaf Club No. 2 was decorated for Christmas when I saw it.

"It's good to have a place like this to come to in London—most of us can't afford the hotels," said Sgt. Harry Cowan of Ottawa and Toronto, R.C.A.F.

"Then it makes leaves in London less lonely. I always meet someone I know here—mostly guys I trained with in Canada and haven't seen since."

Cadet Officer Alfred Pettit of Calgary was having lunch in the dining room—a three course meal of well-cooked food for about 45 cents.

"It's about the only place in London that I know where you can get a decent meal under five shillings ($1.25)," he was saying.

Margot Murray of Halifax, N.S., director of the Club showed us the bedrooms. There are four single beds in the larger rooms, two or one in the smaller rooms. There are lots of bathrooms, and lots of hot water for baths.

There are also quiet writing and reading rooms.

"This is a gay place in the evening," she said, "there's always something doing—a party, a dance, a sing song, or games."

Seven Children Die When Home Burns

MATANE, Que., Jan. 11 (CP) — Seven children were burned to death yesterday when the home of their parents—Mr. and Mrs. Delphin Cote of nearby St. Paulin Dalibert—was destroyed by fire.

The victims were: Berthe, 13; Marie Paule, 11; Lorraine, 10; Jeanne Irene, 6; Maurice, 4; Gerard, 3; and Enoel, nine months.

Mrs. Cote and her 14-year-old son, Gilbert, escaped with minor burns. Mr. Cote was absent from his home when the fire broke out.

Cause of the blaze is unknown and damage was reported as heavy. No other details were available.

The fire started about 1:30 a.m. Four of the victims were asleep on the second floor where there were no windows while the three others were in bed on the lower floor with Mrs. Cote. The narrow stairway leading from one floor to the other was soon burned down and Mrs. Cote rushed outside trying desperately to get help to bring down her four children.

When Mrs. Cote, realizing she was helpless in her efforts to save the upper floor occupants, tried to re-enter her home and help her other three children, flames prevented her from doing so.

Lindsay Asked To Plan For An Airport

LINDSAY, Jan. 11 — (ENS). — Criticizing the present system of education ex-warden James Guiry of Downeyville, addressing the inaugural meeting of the Lindsay town council yesterday, Mr. Guiry remarked that the present system of training in public schools and collegiates particularly was not fair to farmers. Boys are raised on the farm, he said, and if they are sent to town to receive the benefits of a good education they become dissatisfied with agricultural work. He urged that school training should include special courses on agriculture and that this important industry should be made more desirable from an educational point of view.

The speaker's remarks were approved by Donald McQuarrie, the chairman of the Victoria Red Cross Society, who stated that in place of too much scholastic training girls should be taught how to be good housekeepers and boys should be trained in business courses and how to work with their hands.

Mayor Charles Lamb outlined the work of each municipal department for 1944, stressing economy and the importance for a post-war program of public works.

Plan For Airport

The council was advised by Mr. Bruce McNevin, M.P., to plan for an airport near Lindsay as a post war project. He stated that a very good site a few miles east of Lindsay had already been inspected by the engineering department of the Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Chairmen of municipal committees were appointed as follows:—Finance, C. E. Ferguson; Police, H. Elliott; Parks and Grounds, A. E. Hick; Tourists and Industries, S. R. Pitts; Town Property, R. Butler; Lighting, H. McFadden; Market and Corvette, A. Graves; Board of Works, L. T. Braunton; Salvage, W. H. Heslop.

AVOIDED PRAIRIES

American pioneers believed that country which could not grow trees was worthless for agriculture and for years avoided settling on the prairies—most fertile of all farm land.

Town Planning Committee Urged By Mayor

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11 (ENS) —The heavy responsibility that rests with members of the 1944 council was pointed to by Mayor Frank Long in his tenth inaugural address delivered to that body here Monday morning. Speaking after an opening message by Rev. H. R. Bryant, the Mayor congratulated members of last year's council who were returned to office and the new members who were taking their place at the council table for the first time.

"We all fully realize that we have been selected by the ratepayers of Campbellford to look after the interests of the citizens of our town. It is a great responsibility and we should be prepared to carefully perform our duties. Campbellford has made steady progress in civic welfare during the past few years. To-day we are in a very happy position financially," he said pointing out there would be a $12,000 reduction in debenture payments in 1945 and this would result in a 9 to 10 mill reduction in taxes. However, it was not in his opinion a wise plan to pass all of this back to the ratepayers. It would be better if some of this money found its way back in the form of a park or other post-war building project. Mayor Long declared the sound financial position of the town had been reached by careful planning and the carrying out of these plans by councils in former years. "Let us work together in harmony and earnestness and continue the good work throughout the present year."

Urges Committee

"I suggest that a town planning committee be formed in the near future. We have it on the highest authority—that of General Eisenhower—that the war in Europe will be over this year. The good news from Russia in the last few days would warrant the hope that it will be over fairly early in th year. And when the war is over our men who are in the armed forces will return home. We must plan for their rehabilitation—the change over from the pursuits of war to the occupations of peace. This isn't going to be easy. A great deal will depend on what the Federal Government intends to do by way of assistance in a financial sense, in carrying out post war plans. We have tried to get war industries but we failed to do so. Possibly this made it harder for us to carry on in war time, but this has its brighter aspect; for when the dawn of peace arrives, we will not have a group of special war workers or which to provide jobs."

"Federal money will be granted to assist in financing post war work designed to provide employment for returned men. We want our share. And so, in closing, I suggest that we, as a council, plan for perfect team work to help keep Campbellford in the forefront of Ontario towns."

Council lost little time in getting down to the year's business and in fact, so intent were they on completing the work on hand that the usual recess for lunch at twelve o'clock was waived aside and the session continued without interruption from eleven o'clock till 1.30 in the afternoon. The first item on the agenda was that of naming standing committees, and following the customary procedure Mayor Long, on motion of the council, appointed the nine chairmen, who in turn picked the members of their committee.

Committee Heads

One of the most important committee chairmanships, that of Finance, went to Deputy Reeve Harry Fowlds, who stepped up from the ranks of council last year and he succeeds Charles Calver in that position. And an unexpected change came with the appointment of Harvey M. Donald as Road and Bridge chairman, to succeed Reeve P. H. MacMillan, holder of that heavy chairmanship for the past six years. When Councillor Donald pointed out that he would have preferred another appointment the Mayor recalled that Reeve MacMillan had asked to be relieved of this work as he was so short of help in his own business and did not feel he could give the committee the time it warranted.

Standing committees for the year are as follows, with the first named in each case being the chairman—

Finance—Deputy Reeve H. Fowlds, Reeve MacMillan, Councillors Brady, Donald, Taylor.

Road and Bridge—Councillor H. M. Donald, Deputy Reeve Fowlds Councillors Taylor and Brady.

Police—Reeve MacMillan, Councillors Taylor and Bell.

Legal—Councillor H. J. Taylor, Deputy Reeve Fowlds, Councillor Donald.

Industrial—Councillor W. H. Brady, Deputy Reeve Fowlds, Councillor Taylor.

Property — Councillor Roy Bell, Reeve MacMillan, Councillor Anderson.

Relief—Councillor Grant Anderson, Reeve MacMillan, Councillor Taylor.

Fire, Water and Light—Councillor Fred Macoun, Brady and Anderson.

Hospitalization—Councillor W. H. Brady, Reeve MacMillan, Councillor Macoun.

Licensing of Bicycles.

Bicycle owners of this town are going to receive the protection registration and licensing affords during the year 1944. Members decided to follow the plan of a number of large municipalities in licensing all bicycles operated by residents inside the corporation. The action was taken following receipt of a letter from a firm making the license equipment in which the advatnages of such a system were pointed out. Under the plan being adopted by council each owner will be required to purchase a 25 cent license that will be sealed to his bicycle, thus providing a safeguard against theft. Several members sounded the opinion that it would be a splendid idea and Reeve MacMillan recalled there had been several bicycle thefts during the past year. On motion the matter was left with the police committee with power to act and it is expected the necessary by-law covering the sale of licenses will be ready for presentation at the next meeting.

Under the heading of "new business" Councillor Donald brought up the wood subsidy question and pointed out that since the town had already bought and paid for its emergency fuel supply at the rate of $12.00 per cord, a request should be made to the department for the subsidy. Following a report from the town solicitor on the question of paying Water and Light Commissioners for their services which had come before council at their statutory meeting last December, the matter was re-opened. It was pointed out that such payment was quite legal and Deputy-Reeve Fowlds moved that they be paid the same rate as councillors, a maximum of $65.00 per year for each of two members and $100.00 per year for the chairman, the same to be taken from the Utilities revenue.

A suggestion that before the year was out council might decide to increase the size of the Water and Light Commission board was seen from the reception given Councillor Brady's suggestion that the commission should be enlarged. In contrast to the 3-man commission which last year directed a $55,000 business was the school board which had less financial responsibility and was composed of 13 members. "That seems to be the general feeling," commented Councillor Donald, "but I don't think we can do anything about it now."

By-laws were passed making the following annual appointments: High school trustee for 1944-45, E. C. McKeel; Auditors for 1943, W. A. Kingston, J. M. Bygott at $100.00 each; to the Library Board for 1944-5-6, R. H. Townsend; Board of Health, J. Roy Barnum.

BLASTING A JAP BASE—Geysers of smoke and debris fly skyward from the Japanese aerodrome at Jaluit, Jap base in the Marshall Islands, as bombs from U.S. navy flares score direct hits during the attack made last November. The salary for the assessor was fixed at $160, this to include postage and stationery, and that $10 be advanced before he starts work, and on a motion by Steenburg and Purdy that James Young be appointed assessor for the 1945 roll. Taxes for 1944 are to be collected on the same basis as used in 1943, this on motion by Newton and Purdy. An abatement of $2.03 dog tax is to be granted to Charles Ellis.

By-law No. 809 to borrow money from the bank to meet current expenses was given its three readings and passed, on motion of Councillors Purdy and McNeely.

By-law No. 810, stating an estimated road expenditure for 1944 was given its three readings and passed, on motion by Councillors Newton and Purdy.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Robert Marshal, abatement on dog tax 1943 to Rae Forbes $2.03; Robert Marshal, abatement on dog tax 1943 to Charles Ellis, $2.03; Rae Williams, relief, $15.00; A. Leeson & Son, relief, $8.75.

Obituary

LANCELOT NICHOLSON

The funeral of the late Lancelot Nicholson was held on Thursday afternoon from his family residence, "Cedar Grove Farm" in South Monaghan to Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough. The funeral was largely attended by his neighbours and friends.

Mr. Nicholson who has been in failing health the last few years, had been showing great improvement in the last few months and enjoyed good health over the holiday season spending New Year's in Peterborough.

He was born in Moulton, Yorkshire, England, in 1859. Coming to Canada at the age of 26 years. He settled down near Millbrook were he married Isabella Stinson (who predeceased him 24 years ago). He started farming near Baillieboro and several years later he took up residence at "Cedar Grove Farm." He was well known and highly respected throughout the township.

Rev. A. H. McConachie, a personal friend and pastor of Bensfort United Church of which Mr. Nicholson was a life member, conducted the service.

He is survived by two sisters, who reside in England, one brother John in the United States, five children, Almonson and Mary at home, Harry of South Monaghan, Mrs. R. J. Bullock (Charlotte) of Lakefield, Mrs. George Thorne (Annie) of Millbrook. Thirteen grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren. Two grandsons are in the R.C.A.F. and one grandaughter in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F.

The pall bearers were Allan Bell, Laurence Finnie, Chester Fisher, John A. Nurse, Russel Thompson and George Fletcher.

SOLD 2,600 COPIES — Harry Illingsworth of the Salvation Army who sold 2,600 copies of the 1943 Christmas War Cry in Peterborough. Mr. Illingsworth led all Canada in sales and this achievement is all the more remarkable for he is nearly 80 years old.

Cheese Factory Clear Of Debt

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 11. — (ENS).—Another milestone in this district's booming cheese industry was passed at Ivanhoe on Friday evening when prominent figures of the dairy branch joined with patrons of Beulah factory at a banquet designed to honour the occasion which marked the completion of payment of the factory built in 1926 at a cost of $11,000. Highlight of the evening was the burning of the last cancelled cheque tendered in payment for the final instalment on the factory mortgage. This ceremony was performed by Charles Mitts, who was president at the time the new factory was built, and Henry Wallace.

The key address of the evening was given by Charlie Mitts, who gave some interesting data on the early history of the plant. He recalled the factory which had preceded Beulah had been one of the first in that section and went under the name of Ivanhoe—a name which was subsequently discarded when for various reasons cheese sold under that label lost favour in England. Thomas Flemming, Reeve of Huntingdon township, introduced Roscoe Robson, M.L.A.-elect for East Hastings, who paid due tribute to the financial standing of the company and to its years of successful operation. He was followed by Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray who introduced the chief instructor for Western and Central Ontario, J. M. Bain, who gave some contrasting data on the industry as it dated back to the 60's. C. E. Lachner, Director of Dairying brought the industry up to date and reviewed operations during the past year, making a strong appeal for increased production in 1944. Other speakers were J Owen Herity, Belleville; John Bell, county president of the Hastings Producers' Association; E. Batman, president of the Belleville Cheese Board; H. Johnston, Stirling, and Rev. R. Wager, Ivanhoe.

Recent Newlyweds Honored At Party

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 11 (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, a recent bride and groom were honored by a large number of friends and neighbours on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs Peter Tully.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn read a lovely address, penned by Olga Wilson, and two beautiful occasional chairs were presented the bridal couple by Mary Milburn, Betty Cockburn, Ronald Mahood and Bobby Cockburn.

"Ted" expressed sincere appreciation on behalf of himself and his bride for the gifts, and gave a cordial invitation to all to visit them in their new home.

The evening was pleasantly spent in playing progressive euchre after which lunch was served.

Finish 4 Quilts

GORE'S LANDING, Jan. 11 — (ENS)—The Red Cross members met in the Public Library on Friday afternoon with a good attendance. Four quilts were quilted and finished. Two were cotton crazy quilts and two were made of woollen blocks.

During the afternoon 13 pair of short socks and four pair of 27-inch seamen's stockings were turned in. The convener, Mrs. Milton Ames, has a quantity of airforce blue wool on hand to make ladies sweaters and would like volunteers to help with this knitting. Wool was also given out for other knitted articles. The next meeting will be held in two weeks.

Senator Opposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(CP).—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel (Dem.-Texas) called yesterday for the defeat of President Roosevelt and his followers in Congress "as the only hope of restoring constitutional government in this country."

Quick Relief From
RHEUMATIC PAIN

Hundreds of Canadians suffering from the tortures of rheumatism, sciatica lumbago, neuralgia and neuritis are happy over their discovery of Ru-Ma, for they have, at long last, found a reliable, fast acting formula which quickly relieves those exhausting muscular pains and aching joints. If you want to again feel happy and contented in being free from rheumatic pains so you can work in comfort and sleep in peace be wise and try Ru-Ma to-day under our promise of "money back" if it fails to help you. Ask at Tamblyn's or any drug store to-day for Ru-Ma.—(Advt.)

Sam Leroux Given Three Months

COBOURG, Jan 11 (ENS)—Three months concurrent on each charge was the sentence imposed in police court yesterday on Sam Leroux of Campbellford. Leroux pleaded guilty last week to ten charges of breaking and entering and theft laid by Chief George Hardy of Campbellford and one charge of breaking and entering and theft which was laid by Provincial Constable G. Hayes. He was arrested in December by Chief Hardy and with his arrest police recovered all the stolen goods with the exception of $100. in cash, for which restitution was later made. The offenses go back over two years.

Charles Sparks of Toronto, formerly of Port Hope, appeared in court Monday on a charge of refusing to answer questions put to him by the R.C.M.P. He was remanded for a week.

Gregory Clarke of Port Hope pleaded guilty to a charge laid by the R. C. M. P. of failing to keep his divisional registrar informed of change of address was sentenced to 2 days in jail, at the expiration of which he will be taken to the nearest military training centre for medical examination.

City Council Accepts Invitation

The members of the Council accepted last night the invitation from Rev. Dr. E. W. Young and the Board of Session of St. Andrew's Church to attend the morning service at that church on Sunday, Jan. 23.

City Clerk Outram was instructed to write Bishop MacDonald expressing the appreciation of the Council "for his kindly service at the inaugural meeting this morning." The resolution by Alderman Glover, was sceonded by Alderman Sullivan.

Authority to City Treasurer Shaver to issue interim monthly payments as follows: Board of Education, $30,000; Public Library Board, $1,250; Separate School Board, $2,800; until the estimates are determined, was conveyed in a resolution by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Alderman Ovens.

A request from Nicholls Hospital Board for an interim payment of $10,000 was referred to the finance committee.

Another routine motion by Alderman Cotton provided for the borrowing from the Bank of Montreal up to $600,000 for current expenditure and relief account. The interest is 4½% on the general requirements and 4% for relief. The amount prescribed is the total of the city's permissive borrowing. Actually it means that City Treasurer Shaver may draw on the bank funds to cover municipal expenses until the first instalment of the 1944 taxes are paid into the treasury.

Five Delegates Named From Northumberland

COBOURG, Jan. 11—(ENS)—Directors of the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture met at Warkworth last week to appoint delegates to the annual meeting to be held in Toronto on January 11 and 12. It was decided to send five to represent the county in the persons of Charles Quinn, Colborne; Kenneth Crews, Trenton; R. E. Drope, Harwood; George Airhart, Campbellford and H. Morrow, Wooler. The organization is a central group for all farm associations and its particular field is to correlate the educational and commodity groups. A policy of collecting one-fifth of mill through township taxes was considered, but left over until after the annual meeting in Toronto. This is being done in Durham County and is felt to be a good way of financing, but necessitates each farmer signing an agreement to have the amount added to his taxes. In previous years the amount has come in the form of grants.

Cobourg Paratrooper Is Killed Overseas

COBOURG, Jan. 11 (ENS)— Formerly of Cobourg, Paratrooper Bruce Cullen has been killed overseas. He is about 27 years and is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cullen of Hamilton, who at one time resided in Cobourg. He has a brother, Orville, who resides at Oakville.

Paratrooper John W. Greider, another former Cobourg resident, has been listed as missing, believed killed. His mother, Mrs. Alice Greider is now a resident near Peterborough. He and his mother resided for some time in Cobourg, moving out of town last November. He was employed at the time of his enlistment with a local dairy.

WAR WORK DEMANDS THIS Vitality Element

NO OTHER NATURAL CEREAL GIVES IT SO RICHLY

With less meat today, wise women are happy to know that by serving Quaker Oats for breakfast, they can give their hard-working family a rich source of meat's main element—protein. No other natural cereal is so rich in this vital factor for energy and growth as whole-grain oatmeal. And it is richest of all natural cereals in Vitamin B_1 needed for sound nerves and energy! No wonder more families than ever are calling delicious, hot breakfasts of Quaker Oats daily a "must" for wartime diets.

SCOTTISH NURSE helps relieve MANY AILMENTS with Mustard

MRS. M. MILLER came from Aberdeen, Scotland. She has a nursing home in Swift Current, Sask.

"I learned many of the uses of mustard and its value in home nursing while I was in training in Scotland," explained Mrs. Miller. "One in particular was the method of causing a patient to perspire freely, thus helping to break the fever and eliminate poisons from the body." She described how a flannel blanket is dipped in boiling water containing a half a cup of mustard and then wrung out and wrapped around the patient to induce perspiration.

Bronchial Trouble in Babies

"I never hesitate to use a mustard poultice on small babies in case of bronchial trouble," states Mrs. Miller. "It helps to give quicker, safer relief than any other remedy. I saturate the chest or back with olive oil and apply mild poultices mixed one part mustard to five parts of flour on the affected areas." Just by knowing this simple fact, thousands of babies may be relieved from bronchial suffering. Never leave a poultice on longer than twenty minutes.

Pure Mustard is Safe Mustard

The best proof of the value of mustard in treating so many common ailments is the fact that thousands of people like Mrs. Miller depend on it year after year. Keep mustard always handy in your home to help relieve Chills or Colds, or when you feel depressed by Grippe or other Winter infections. Use it to help relieve pains of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired muscles, etc. Call your doctor if symptoms are serious. Be sure that you use famous Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, made entirely from mustard seed of highest quality and packed to preserve its uniform quality and full medicinal strength. Sold by grocers and druggists everywhere.

The Mayor's Inaugural Address

Mayor Hamilton's inaugural address, which he delivered yesterday morning and which was fully reported in this paper yesterday afternoon, has sent the city's business for 1944 off to a good start. There is much to be done, and the Mayor touched off the principal tasks briefly but pungently. The matter which he put first, and which we think that a majority of citizens wish to see dealt with as quickly as possible, was that of a new hospital. The two hospitals now operating in Peterborough are not large enough to take care of all the people who need hospital care, and Nicholls Hospital has reached a point where overhauling and renovating can do little for it. The city needs a new hospital, designed to suit modern methods, and large enough to give Peterborough the service which it needs now and which it will need increasingly in the next twenty-five years. Nicholls Hospital has done splendid work in its day, but that day is past; every citizen, we feel sure, would be pleased to see the great generosity of the late Charlotte Nicholls suitably commemorated in a part of the new hospital. But a new hospital, and a revision of the system by which the hospital is controlled, cannot come too soon, and we hope that great advances will be made toward this end by the new Council.

The vexed question of annexing a part of North Monaghan seems to be coming to a head. It still remains to be seen, however, what the annexation would cost the Board of Education, and we think that the citizens of the annexed property may want an explanation of what annexation to the city will bring them, and when and how, before they take the plan to their hearts.

The Mayor laid stress on the problem of communications, which is always a pressing one in Peterborough. It cannot be said too often that we are off the beaten track here, and that we cannot afford to allow communication with Peterborough to become more difficult than it is already. An airport and a better highway to Toronto cannot be counted as great steps forward when we get them; they will merely be ways of keeping up with the times. Peterborough must never allow itself to become isolated, and in a world where communication is becoming easier in every direction we dare not lag behind. As the Mayor pointed out, this county will only be able to realise its full possibilities as a tourist playground when better communications make it easier for tourists to get here. The modern tourist likes to rough it as easily as possible, and if we want his patronage we must do our part in making Peterborough county attractive to him. As the largest centre in the county, this city must be as accessible as possible to the rest of Ontario and to the lakefront.

The Mayor has unfolded the program of work which lies before the 1944 City Council. The people of Peterborough—more, we hope, than the 32 per cent. who voted on New Year's Day—will watch its accomplishment with the keenest interest.

New Proverbs For Our Day

The New Statesman and Nation of London has a weekly literary contest which frequently affords the best reading in the paper. In a recent issue it presents the winning answers to a request for new proverbs. There is great good sense in this. Proverbs are the distilled wisdom of the ages; if we never invent any new proverbs, we admit that our age has no wisdom.

Some of the answers to the contest are so good that we reproduce them here. What could be more apt, for instance, than this: "When theology goes out at the door, ideology flies in at the window". Or this: "A guest without ration is a guest out of fashion". Or this: "One brilliant talker in company may offend like a light in the black-out". Very familiar war situations are reflected in "Take care of your pence; the State will take care of your pounds", and in this, "Never hate your enemy; he may be your co-belligerent". The unctuousness which seems to be inseparable from broadcasting is reflected in this one: "Listeners-in always hear good of themselves".

A cynic contributes, "Rations are based on Reason, and are therefore small", and another from the same hand says, "The Civil Servant must not become the uncivil master"; we might all cherish that one in our hearts for use after the war. "Two in a hurry catch the same ambulance" is good enough to be taught in schools as a traffic motto. And what could better express parochialism of thought than this: "The crunching of a man's own toast is louder than God's own thunder".

A good proverb has been called the wisdom of many and the wit of one. Surely our age has enough wit and wisdom to produce a few proverbs which will live?

The Public Library Report

The people of Peterborough, we think, will take a good deal of satisfaction in the excellent report of the Public Library for the year 1943. The number of books loaned in the course of the year - 88,353 all told—shows that the Library is busy and that it is filling an important place in the community. Understandably works of fiction accounted for about three-quarters of this total; to most people a book is a 'story' of some kind or other. But considerable numbers of books on philosophy, history, art and science were also called for, and the reference section of the Library was well used.

According to the Librarian's Report, there are 2,248 people in Peterborough who hold Public Library cards—at a very rough calculation, about one person in every ten, which is not too bad. But there must be a great number of people who are unaware of the service which the Library gives, or are for some reason reluctant about using it, or who have not discovered the pleasure of reading. The Library is for them as much as it is for the two thousand who use it, and they might like to look inside it some time, just to see what it is like; the atmosphere, we can assure them, is in no way forbidding.

Excellent use is being made of the Juvenile Library, and it has over a thousand card-holders. Learning how to use books is an important part of any child's education. Books are sources of accurate information; books are to keep safe all the information which we cannot be expected to carry about in our heads. If a child gets the habit early in life of using books to augment his own knowledge, and to broaden his horizons, he is well on the way toward becoming an educated man.

The Public Library gives Peterborough excellent daily service, for which the city is grateful. Particularly we think that Peterborough is grateful to its Librarian, Mr. Fred DelaFosse, whose work through the years has given a character and individuality to the Library which is very valuable and which, if needlessly altered, would be a decided loss.

Anonymous Letters

In the course of a year we receive a great many anonymous Letters To The Editor; some of these are clearly not designed for publication, but others we should be glad to publish if the names and addresses of the writers were attached to them — not necessarily for publication. However innocuous their contents may be, we will not break our rule against publishing anonymous letters.

Many letter-writers seem to misunderstand the use of the pen-name in letters to newspapers. A pen-name may be used for the sake of privacy with perfect propriety, but it is not a device behind which a writer may hide while he maligns a man, or a group of men, or an institution. A housewife writing to make a suggestion concerning the bus service, or to criticise a ruling of the Wartime Price Board might legitimately use a pen-name; but a housewife writing in condemnation or abuse of the Mayor, or Premier Drew, might not legitimately do so. People who have very strong views, and who wish to express them through a Letter To The Editor, should be courageous enough to sign their names to what they say.

It must also be pointed out here that newspapers, being responsible for everything which they print, must protect themselves against the possibility that a letter may be signed with an assumed name, or that the name of a living person—not the writer—has been signed to it. The latter is an offence of the utmost meanness, severely punishable by law.

When writing letters to the paper—which we hope that you will do as often as you wish—please sign your own name and give your address; if you wish to use a pen-name, sign that also. But it is easily understood why a newspaper must know who has written the letters which it is asked to print.

Bosses of the New Tyranny

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

THE Economist comments in a recent issue on what it calls the "futile and distracting discussion about the merits and demerits of control" which is raging in Britain as it is in Canada and other democratic countries. The observations of the Economist upon the use and the limitation of controls fit this country as neatly as they do Britain: "Control as such—that is, the negative imposition by one set of persons and prohibition on the activities of others—should everywhere be reduced to a minimum. A community needs to take its brakes off, not put new brakes on." This broad principle would doubtless appear very reactionary to those C.C.F.-ers who spent several days at Regina last week thinking up new ways by which they can interfere with the lives and activities of others in those happy days which they dream about when a credulous people will put power in their hands. Equally unsatisfactory would be the general principles which should, in the opinion of the Economist, govern the application of controls:

The only correct approach to the problem is strictly utilitarian. The object is the greatest possible use and distribution of the nation's resources, material and spiritual, in the freest possible way; and state action is called for only to the extent to which it is necessary to secure this condition of full enterprise. Where public enterprise is needed to achieve social needs, it should be boldly introduced; where it is not needed, it should be avoided with equal determination. What is required is not more and more planning, but better planning wherever it is needed.

TO these principles of planning every Liberal worthy of the name will subscribe. But they are anathema to the crusted reactionaries of the right, and to the ardent and fanatical socialists who are in control of the C.C.F. Advocates of these conflicting views are much given to quoting and applying Abraham Lincoln's saying: "The Union cannot exist half slave and half free." They seem to think it conclusive each for his particular point of view. It, of course, has no application whatever to the question of social controls. Slavery is morally indefensible even in a single application; but the control of the individual or any aggregation of individuals for the well-being of all, when the need for it is clearly established, is an essential principle of all orderly government. The character and extent of these controls are matters about which there is and ought to be continual discussion and periodical adjustments. The purpose of these controls is, as the Economist says, to ensure full production by private enterprise as well as by public action. The state by collective action may properly create conditions which open fields for individual enterprise and capacity. The state may, for instance, make a monopoly of the sources of hydro-electric power; but the power when created is everywhere available on fair terms to private enterprisers, great and little, who proceed to put it to uses designed both to serve the public and to make a profit. The first end is more certain of attainment than the second. To listen to the Socialists, private business does nothing but make fat profits at the expense of its workers and the public; but the facts are very different, as everyone who has any familiarity with business life knows.

TO the doctrinaire and theoretical socialist this is a scandalous state of affairs. The state—personified by hordes of individuals with official uniforms adorned with brass buttons in plenty—must own everything and boss everybody, telling each person what he is to do, how he is to do it, and what he is to be paid for doing it. Under such a regime the right of a personal choice of a suitable job is found to be very limited. The average individual will take what he is given, and be grateful for it—or else. It is strange but true that your socialist thinks that this is an ideal form of human society; and that private employment is degrading both to employer and employee. "A capitalistic factory, here or in Germany," writes Brailsford, the well known English socialist, "is a totalitarian society, based on unequal rights and subject to the will of an owner-Fuehrer. Men doomed to work in such a factory will never become truly social beings. It is an environment which represses most of them, and for wrong ends." This is, of course, Communist doctrine; Communism is the end of the road for all one hundred per cent socialists, however vigorously they assert that there is a gulf between the two philosophies. "Doomed" is the word employed by this veteran socialist to establish the fate of a man who works for a privately owned and managed business.

WALTER LIPPMAN, in "The Good Society," which is a book for these times, gives expression at the outset of his study to his astonishment at this craving of men to re-establish the state controls that the Liberals and reformers of yesterday succeeded in breaking after a struggle lasting for generations. He writes:

Nearly everywhere the mark of a progressive is that he relies at last upon the increased power of officials to improve the condition of men.... The only instrument of progress in which they have faith is the coercive agency of government. They can imagine no alternative, nor can they remember how much of what they cherish as progressive has come by emancipation from political dominion by the limitation of power, by the release of personal energy from authority and collective coercion.... The assumptions of this whole movement.... are, in fact, contrary to the assumptions bred in men by the whole long struggle to extricate conscience, intellect, labour and personality from the bondage of prerogative, privilege, monopoly, authority. For more than two thousand years the main preoccupation of political thinking has been to find a law which would be superior to arbitrary power.... This is the meaning of a thousand years of struggle to bring the sovereign under a constitution, to establish for the individual and for voluntary associations of men, rights which they can enforce against kings, barons, magnates, majorities and mobs.

MR. LIPPMANN seeks a justification for "the gigantic heresy of an apostate generation" and comes to the conclusion after a lengthy examination that none is to be found. Explanations of various kinds are offered; and these can be readily supplemented by other observers of the phenomenon. One such explanation of this eruption of would-be leaders, calling loudly for chains and whips is that in the new world which they are so keen to bring about, they see themselves as the wielders of the whips and the bestowers of the chains. They are to be the barons and the magnates in the new tyranny.

Liquor and Socialism

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

THE Canadian liquor muddle, with its high taxes, high prices, bottle-necked distribution, consequent queues, and also consequent bootlegging, has been subjected to keen and striking analysis by a distinguished Canadian newspaperman and author, Bruce Hutchison. "The vending of liquor," he points out in an article in The Kingston Whig-Standard, "is our first general experiment with Socialism at the retail level. We have socialized railways, power plants, telephones and other public utilities in various places.... Liquor is the first article we have marketed socialistically over the counter in nearly all parts of the country."

The results of this none too noble experiment, Mr. Hutchison asserts — and who will disagree with him?—are scarcely gratifying. The theory of the case was all right. The system was designed to provide liquor (which people insist on having) at reasonable prices, in respectable surroundings. It was intended to reduce the consumption of beverage alcohol. But, as Mr. Hutchison observes: "Except for the respectable surroundings, the socialist liquor system has failed on all counts. It has produced ridiculously high prices. It has encouraged everyone to drink as much as possible. It has created the most dismal, wretched, melancholy and inhuman institution in the western world—the Canadian beer parlor." Moreover, the Government, instead of providing liquor in moderate quantities at cost, "proceeded to exploit the liquor business for profits.... It was much easier to get revenues by soaking the poor soaks than to tax the non-drinkers."

Soon, Mr. Hutchison continues, the Provincial Governments were depending for a large part of their total revenues on the drink trade. In effect they were levying a tax, "not on the whole electorate—the only fair kind of tax—but on a part of it. Nor was this tax levied according to ability to pay. The poor workman requiring a bottle of rye on Saturday night had to pay the same extravagant tax as the millionaire."

This presents the case primarily in its economic aspects. The question of whether drinking is morally right or wrong does not alter the argument. The fact remains that the "hidden" and discriminatory taxes on the bottles are high indeed. Mr. Hutchison says: "This is our first experiment in Socialism at the retail level. I hope you like it. When the Government retails everything we may expect equally interesting results in all forms of merchandise." Beneath his gentle irony there is a barbed truth. It may be said, and without much fear of successful contradiction, that Canadians, be they liquor drinkers or teetotallers do NOT like it. And their regard for the system is not increased either by the method of rationing and distribution or by the fact that the authorities are now dispensing decidedly "watered" stock at the old or even higher prices. No doubt something quite acid could be said about the ethics of that particular practice, too!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

COMPULSORY VOTING IN AUSTRALIA

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Previous to the recent municipal elections two editorials appeared in this paper on the subject of compulsory voting and formed part of a vigorous campaign here appealing to electors to turn out and vote on New Year's Day.

The result of that campaign was disappointing though there was a slight improvement over the figures of January, 1942—yet 32 per cent. is a miserable record.

It is generally understood that there is a system of compulsory voting in Australia, but only a vague idea as to the operative methods, so an application for information was made to the Australian Trade Commissioner in Toronto. A courteous reply was received enclosing a prepared statement of the Australian form of government and the system of compulsory voting in that Dominion.

The Australian Federal Parliament consists of two Houses, a Senate of 36 members and a House of Representatives of 75 members. The Constitution provides that the total number of members of the House of Representatives (our House of Commons) must be as nearly as possible double that of the Senate. Members of both Houses receive $3,200 a year. Six members of the Senate are elected from each of the six states (Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, West Australia and Tasmania). Senators are elected for a term of six years, but one-half of them resign at the end of every third year. Senate elections are held at the same time as elections for the House of Representatives (our Provincial parliament). In the House of Representatives the states are represented on a population basis and the House is elected for a term of three years. It is to be noted that members of the Senate are elected by popular vote and not "appointed."

In both Houses members are elected by universal adult franchise but under a recent Act of the Federal Parliament the vote normally restricted to persons 21 and over has been extended to all servicemen who have served or are now serving overseas.

Compulsory voting for Commonwealth elections was introduced prior to the election of 1925 and an exceedingly heavy vote (over 91 per cent.) was cast in that year. This high percentage has been exceeded in subsequent elections, for example, 96.13 per cent. in 1937, and 94.82 in 1940. In 1901 (the first Federal elections) the percentage of voters who exercised their franchise under the voluntary voting system was only 55.69 per cent.

The Commonwealth Electoral Act states that "it shall be the duty of every elector to record his vote at each election." At the close of each election it is the duty of the divisional returning officer to prepare a list of the electors who have not voted and to certify the list by statutory declaration. This list constitutes "prima facie" evidence of the fact that the electors whose names appear thereon did not vote. The elector is called upon to give, within 21 days, a valid truthful and sufficient reason why he failed to vote. The Electoral Act provides that every voter who failed to vote at an election without a valid reason for failure or on receipt of a notice as previously mentioned fails to complete and return the notice in the prescribed period, or who states a false reason for not having voted shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten shillings or more than two pounds.

The position in regard to states elections varies considerably. In Queensland compulsory voting was introduced at the elections held in May, 1915. This was the first instance of compulsory voting in Australia. In New South Wales compulsory voting was introduced at the 1930 election. The effect of this is shown by the fact that the percentage of voters who voted rose from 82.5 per cent. in 1927 to 94.9 in 1930, and has remained at approximately that figure since. In Victoria compulsory voting was first observed at elections for the Legislative Assembly (Lower House) in 1927. Voting is not compulsory in South Australia. In Western Australia voting for the Legislative Assembly was made compulsory in December, 1936, and in Tasmania it came into force in 1928.

This article is in no sense intended to discuss the merits or demerits of the system but to give a clear statement of facts obtained from an official source.—Yours,

C. H. IRESON.

News In Alabama

A young friend in the services just back from the U.S.A. (I can vouch for his veracity) tells me of a remarkable incident that occurred when he and a friend were hitch-hiking in Alabama. They were picked up by a farmer driving one of those ancient Fords. After a long silence it began to dawn on him that his passengers were not wearing American uniforms. He wanted to know where they came from. England, they told him. A long pause. Was England in the war? he asked. Yes, they said, and had been for some time now. Another, rather longer pause. Then, grudgingly, came the final question: "Which side she on?"—London New Statesman.

Government Is Responsible

In the United States, if inflation comes, all the parties to the disaster will have their alibis ready; and the controversy, still unsettled will get into the histories. But here in Canada the responsibility of the Government, while it commands the support of Parliament, is inescapable. This is a provision in our constitution that may stand us in good stead in the days that are ahead. There is for the Government no alternative to a policy of unflinching resistance to all makeshifts and expedients definitely inflationary in tendency. If that policy is to be changed the people themselves will have to take the responsibility of unloosing the avalanche upon themselves.—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Bible Message

These are the words of the covenant, which the Lord commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, beside the covenant which he made with them in Horeb....

See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil; in that I command thee this day to love the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it....

I call heaven and earth this day to record against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live: that thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that you mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days: that thou mayest dwell in the land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give them. (Deut. 29: 1; 30: 15, 16, 19, 20.)

How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light. (Ps. 36: 7-9.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A church dignitary was asked to preside at the baptism of the latest arrival in the already crowded home of the minister of the parish.

The dignitary gave out for the congregational singing one of the paraphrases often used on such occasions in Scotland.

"Let us," he said, "sing from the second verse 'As sparks in close succession rise'."

To his consternation he noticed that the congregation seemed unable to repress a tendency to giggle.

Afterwards, asking the minister's man what had been wrong, he was told: "Ye see, sir, the minister's name is Sparks, and yonder is his tenth bairn."

"Conductor," said the grim-faced woman as she forced her way on to the platform of the crowded bus, "didn't I tell you I wanted to get off a Rajput Avenue?"

"Yes, but——" began the conductor.

"Don't make excuses!" snapped the lady. "I know all about your bus being crowded and that you can't be expected to remember where each single person wants to get off."

"But——"

"Don't argue! You may be sure that I shall report you for your impudence."

With much dignity, she alighted. Then, as the bus started again, the conductor touched his cap and called to her:

"Excuse me, madam, but Rajput Avenue is half a mile farther on."

United States General and Labour

A terrific row has broken over the United States with the disclosure that the "high authority" who on New Year's Eve declared that threatened railway and steel strikes brought comfort to the enemy and perhaps "prolonged the war against Germany" was none other than the United States Chief of Staff, General Marshall. Despite his great reputation, Marshall now is being assailed bitterly by labour as having lent himself to "the filthy propaganda trick of a Goebbels."

The incident, no business of Canadians, illustrates the wide difference between British and American ideas of government. In Britain, as in Canada, no army officer, no matter how highly placed, would be permitted to enter a controversy which concerned government policy; we could never imagine General Montgomery or General Alexander assailing British strikers on the ground that they were helping the enemy. That, in England, is for the Government; for some responsible minister. In the United States, on the other hand, where authority and responsibility are divided, and where departmental heads and bureau chiefs are often more important than cabinet members, almost anybody, no matter what his post, can rise at most any time to say anything.

We like the British way best. Because the trouble with the United States system is that it makes for too many water-tight compartments, too much jockeying and shifting of responsibility and too much confusing and often harmful talk by everybody simultaneously.—Ottawa Journal.

Mrs. J. R. Marshall of Toronto, president of the Provincial Council of Women, will be guest speaker at the luncheon of the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women, to be held Thursday, January 20, in the Y.W.C.A.

FOR THAT Morning Freshness...

Try this at bedtime tonight

Put an end to those restless, uneasy nights when sleep comes slowly or is light and unrefreshing.

Try taking a cup of warm Ovaltine at bedtime. It helps to relieve that feeling of nervous tension.

Its special food elements, processed for easy digestion, and its rich supply of Vitamins A, B_1 and D and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron, help to replenish worn out muscle, nerve and body cells.

You'll find Ovaltine an aid to sound, refreshing sleep. See if you don't wake up fresher and more buoyant. Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

The attendance banner was awarded Mrs. R. Rutherford's class and after a short business session, the meeting was adjourned and Mrs. J. Murray and her committee served tea.

Comparison Made In 25 Years Of Shoe Styling

"Boots! boots! boots!" goes the old song, and a glance at the styles of 1914-1918, as set forth in the window of a shoe store on George Street, will show that the old song was right, for, although high shoes were on the wane during the war years, there was still a great demand for them, as the display clearly shows.

Long pointed toes, and Louis, or French, heels were features of shoes during the last war. Materials were kid, for a dress shoe, and calf for walking oxfords, and, appearances to the contrary, the shoes fit well and were comfortable.

Today, the styles have changed considerably, and flat, low, "loafer" type is most popular, and is in just as much demand as the high-heeled styles of 1914. However, it might not be good policy to laugh too loudly at the styles of twenty-five years ago, because, in another twenty-five years, the styles most popular today will probably look just as ridiculous to another generation.

The planning for this display was begun last fall, and the idea was to show the shoes of two wars and to give the public an idea as to the differences in price, and the part which the price ceiling has played in keeping costs low. "Boots, boots, boots, moving up and down again," goes the song, and, as this display proves, not only style but also price is moving up and down again.

The Wartime Prices and Trades Board was entirely in accord with the plan, and so the display was gotten together with the help of interested persons who collected shoes as a hobby. These shoes were placed beside representative shoes of today, showing differences in styles, and of price.

A great deal if interest has been shown in this unique idea, and it has been decided to send the display to other cities in this district, with Oshawa and Kingston named as the first two stops.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 12.

A determined effort to put over exceptional or untried programs and projects by main force is noted in this days astral configurations. A strong urge to forge ahead, regardless of accepted systems or regulation methods, is likely to prove an impediment, since reckless or ill-directed energies might beget explosive conduct or perhaps physical dangers. While speed and strenuous action may be necessary, yet studious and well-planned tactics may enlist the support of steadier and calmer influences. Results depend on safe and sane acts.

Major Objectives.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which some sudden and unusual opening for putting over major objectives of exceptional scope or singular character. While this opportunity should be grasped with determination, and due aggressiveness, yet the effort must be backed up by practical skill and well-organized tactics, as well as controlled and tempered conduct, probably in connection with a wiser head or less excitable influence. Certain dangers not only as to the success of projects but as to physical mishaps or accidents are not improvable. Serene, composed and regulated acts should sustain skill and unusual ingenuity.

A child born on this day will have much practical creative ability, with sufficient skill and ability to put over important plans, if it will exercise proper restraint and not jump too fast and too far in excitement.

Lt. Col. Agnes Neill Directs Scores of Canadian Nurses

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A CANADIAN HOSPITAL, Somewhere in England, Jan. 11 —(CP)— When Lt.-Col. Agnes Neill said, "The Canadian Nursing Sisters are the most active young women in England," she knew what she was talking about.

The Peterborough, Ont., woman who is principal matron of the Nursing Sisters Overseas was thinking of a dozen or more Canadian general hospitals like this sprawling establishment—No. 10 Canadian General from London, Ont.—where the blue-clad, cheery nurses scurry along miles of wards, chat or study in a comfortable mess before a fire, or bound about the badminton court.

For girls who work so hard, the nurses are amazingly bright-eyed, glowing with energy, from Matron Edith Dick of Milton, Ont., down. They go on duty at 7 a.m., if they're on day staff, 7 p.m., if on night duty. They work aproximately from 7 to 7 but during this time they have a four-hour rest period.

Always Studying

And they don't waste much of the 16 hours a day when they're not on duty. There's always one or more study courses going on — some are compulsory, to "stimulate the nurses and keep them up to date with new medical discoveries and researches," Miss Dick explained.

Then there are lectures in hospital administration, discussions on ward management, war first aid. The nurses take these technical courses of 12 hours in two weeks.

For one hour every week the nurses put on slacks and go down to the physio - therapy gymnasium where the hospital's physio-therapists—Mary Miller of Burford, Ont., Elsie Oliver of Brantford, Ont., and Florence Taylor of Glanworth, Ont., give them a brisk workout in physical training.

"The girls enjoy it — and keeps their figures sleek," said Miss Dick.

Once a week there's a staff lecture —also compulsory—when authorities on nutrition, postwar rehabilitation or some new medical discovery speaks to the girls.

Then—because probably one day some of these nurses will serve on a Mediterranean or European battlefront—there are regular lectures in field living, in field hygiene, how to cook field rations over an open fire, how to pitch the tents for a frontline hospital.

That's the work side of a nurse's life—the play side is just as full. Twice a week current movies are shown for the patients and the nurses go if they wish. Twice a week concert parties come to the hospital and the nurses attend if they have time. About one-third of the nurses sing in the hospital choir.

There's a skating rink at a nearby English village—and that's a favorite spot. Then of course, like all other Canadian nursing sisters, the girls have more dates than they can possibly accept.

DAD'S RESPONSIBILITY DOUBLE WHEN CHILD IS LEFT MOTHERLESS

Parent Cures Own Grief in Giving Son All Love of Which He Is Capable.

DEAR MISS DIX—What is your opinion of a father who bears a grudge against his child whose mother died when he was born? Does the fact that the father was terribly hurt when she passed away justify his feeling towards his child.

The father is not actually actively unkind to the boy. He doesn't beat him or abuse him or anything like that. He just never shows him the slightest affection; never has him with him if he can possibly avoid it, and makes the child feel that he blames him in some way for the mother's death and that he just can't bear to be with him. The boy, who is now of school age, is a very sensitive little fellow, and he feels his father's attitude keenly. He has the saddest face you ever saw. Nothing gay and boyish about him.

Is there anything that might possibly change the father's attitude toward the kid? Will the father always harbor a grudge against him? Or is it perfectly natural for the father to feel the way he does about the boy.

ONE WHO CARES.

Army Ruling Effective Immediately

OTTAWA, Jan. 11. — (CP).—Officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and organized leagues to-day studied the effect of a defence headquarters order forbidding army hockey teams, and players from playing in organized leagues whose championship would qualify them to play off for the Allan Cup or the Memorial Cup.

The Army order, announced last night, places Army and R.C.A.F. teams upon the same footing, since on Jan. 5 the Air Force forbade players and teams from engaging after that date in anything but garrison and loop defence competition.

George Dudley of Midland, Ont.; past president and now treasurer of the C.A.H.A., said he believed enough civilian teams would be left to stage the Canadian championships this season, but in view of the loss of army teams under the ruling the whole matter would have to be studied.

"The announcement is unfortunate—but then, wars are unfortunate," Dudley commented, adding: "There should be enough teams left to play for the (Allan and Memorial) Cups."

3 Teams Left.

The Senior O.H.A. loop started out with six clubs, but under previous rulings Toronto Army Daggers and Toronto R.C.A.F. were compelled to withdraw. The withdrawal now of Kingston Frontenac Army will leave only three teams in the loop—St. Catharines Saints, Hamilton Majors and Toronto Navy.

At Nanaimo, B.C., President Jack Ryan of the Pacific Coast Senior Hockey League said it has withdrawn from all Allan Cup competition. but any team in the circuit could challenge for the cup when the playdowns begin.

Sea Island R.C.A.F. Seahawks were withdrawn from the P.C.S.H.L. in line with Air Force Headquarters instructions, but an R.C.A.F. spokesman at Ottawa said the Air Force team, despite the league's intention to withdraw from Allan Cup competition, would not be permitted to return to it.

The Army's hockey policy previously had been interpreted as permitting Army teams and players to continue competition in their present leagues but forbidding them from entering Allan and Memorial Cup playdowns.

Now Army teams are permitted to play intra-mural games in local garrison leagues, and they may also play exhibition games against teams of the other services, providing these are within the same geographical boundaries as the command or district to which the Army team belongs.

The Army ruling means that many civilian clubs in quest of either the Allan or the Memorial Cup will lose the use of their Army players in play-offs. Army players might assist a club such as Ottawa Commandos of the Quebec Senior Hockey League to win the championship of that loop, but the Commandos would have to drop Army players when they entered the playdowns.

The Army's hockey policy was based upon the consideration that participation in hockey or any other sport coulud not be allowed to delay "the complete and earliest training" of every soldier for dispatch overseas.

Army personnel, said a Headquarters statement of Jan. 7, "being either in training or in readiness to proceed overseas, cannot engage in any activity which might take them away from their stations for period of time which would be necessary if they became eligible for cup playdowns."

Text of the Headquarters order to all commands and districts follows:

No officer or soldier of the active army may take part in hockey contests in any organized leagues, the championship of which would qualify the team to play off for the Allan Cup or Memorial Cup.

Army hockey teams may play in inter-mural games in local garrison leagues and may also play exhibition games against teams belonging to the other armed services who are located within the same geographical boundaries as the command or district to which the Army team belongs.

Such exhibition games will not be held more than once every two weeks.

SPORTS - Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Can Earl McCready, one of Canada's greatest wrestlers, toss Texan Karl Krippler Davis into the proverbial ash-can tonight at Brock Street Arena or will he once more have to accept defeat at the hands of the big battler from south of the border? That is the question that is agitating Peterborough wrestling fans and they will all be on hand to watch the answer develop. Of course to a man they will be pulling for the Moose. First because he has always been one of the most popular mat artists to perform here and secondly because Davis has got everybody's goat by his sneering at Canadian wrestlers and the ruthless manner in which he has been handing out punishment to all and sundry. Davis is really ornery. He seems to like hurting the other fellow for the sheer thrill of doing so and he has shown a total contempt for the code of rules and the warnings of officials. When he puts on his pet toe hold for example he uses the ropes to get added pressure and he has put half a dozen wrestlers on the shelf recently by tearing their ligaments. McCready is one of his latest victims and the twist his knee got the last time he met Davis forced him to cancel two or three lucrative matches. That, of course, has added to the Moose's ire and explains why he is going after the Texan with all his guns tonight.

* * * * * *

It has all the appearances of being one of the outstanding battles of the season. The grudge element ensures plenty of ill-feeling and with two giants of the ring in there fighting tooth and nail there will undoubtedly be excitement from the opening clash until the final clang of Fred Seates' gong. McCready showed in their last meeting that he is faster and more skilful than the loud-talker from Texas and if he can keep out of the reach of that toe-hold the Moose should come down in front. There will be lots of thrills in the other two bouts, too. This Cowboy Graham has the reputation of being a decidedly tough buckaroo who resembles Davis in his utter disregard of the rules. He will undoubtedly be plenty nasty but he is an opponent who has abundantly demonstrated here that he has bundles of moxy and courage. Tear Morgan, the Battling Marine will meet the Cowboy at any style Graham elects and guarantee to beat him so that the semi-final looms up like a memorable tussle. As for the preliminary any tilt with Al Bunny Dunlop in it could not be tame. The Toronto strong man can be counted on always to come up with something new in the line of skulduggery and in the slippery DeGlane he has a worthy foil. Together they should make the opener a bright spot on a card that is packed full of excitement and interest.

Some Difference From Here

The enviable position in which minor hockey is in Oshawa this winter is painted by Sport Scribe George Soup Campbell in the following paragraph taken from his column in the Oshawa Times-Gazette: "The Oshawa Minor Hockey Association officially opened their three league schedules on Thursday night. Twelve teams: 4 Bantam, 4 Midget, and 4 Juvenile all saw action in the opening session and there was an encouraging crowd on hand to see the "City League" teams in action. Out of the six games played, there was only one wide-margin victory registered, a 7-1 win by McLaughlin Coal. The other 5 games were all keenly played and the close scores indicate how well the Association officials have done their work. From now on, of course, the four bantam teams will play in the afternoon, from 4.15 o'clock until 6.00 p.m. and the midgets will resume at 7.00 o'clock with the juveniles finishing up. There will be four games every Thursday night, starting at 7 o'clock and the admission is always just a dime. On Thursday night the teams all showed lack of practice but as soon as they have had a few workouts, they'll be displaying a brand of hockey that's really entertaining. Right now, we will predict that Oshawa bantam and midget entries in the Provincial playdowns will make a real good showing this year and the Juveniles always do well."

And down Belleville way it is evident that sport in interscholastic circles is on a much healthier condition than in our own Collegiate where the doldrums from an athletic viewpoint seem to have been reached. Ken Colling tells something of the activities in school sport down his way in the following: "It looks like a gala winter for the boys and lassies of secondary schools throughout the Bay of Quinte area for both hockey and basketball. Why even Stirling High School is giving the hoop game a trial in the boys' junior section, along with Picton, Belleville and Albert College, providing the latter school will participate in a home-and-home game series. Already the other three agreed on that subject to protect Stirling and Picton last night. Locally the three secondary schools, Albert, St. Mikes and the Belleville Collegiate will battle it out in both senior and junior hockey circles, while in the northern end of the circuit, Tweed, Stirling and Marmora will maul each other in their annual senior hockey roundup, which is usually something to talk about. Homer Townsend, athletic director at B.C.I. in the boys' department, entered senior and junior squads in all categories, namely hockey and basketball. The same is expected from Albert College, although Mr. Pepper, the Albert coach, reserved the right of final announcement until next week. Bert McQuaid represented St. Mikes, as Jack Doran was over in Trenton with the Belleville Juniors and Bert entered junior and senior hockey squads for the "Irish."

Makes Good Overseas

A Canadian in the Air Force is making a name for himself overseas as a wrestler, according to Bill Gaynon of the Niagara Falls Review and Peterborough fans will be interested in learning he was a pupil of a mat artist who used to be decidedly popular here when he battled with Frankie Hart and Jack Kogut, none other than Alex Kasaboski the Renfrew battler. Writes the Niagara scribe: "According to overseas informations, Dominic Leone, the fleshy youngster who was quite a frequent attendant at local wrestling and hockey attraction at the Arena before his R.C.A.F. enlistment, is going great in the grappling game across the pond. His relatives tell us that the boy has shed the excess poundage that covered his frame in younger years and sports 190 pounds of solid bone and muscle and his letters report a real fondness for the grunt and groan pastime. Dom was given a good start in this branch while associating with Alex Kasaboski during his Toronto training period. He became acquainted with the colorful leg puller when the latter was headlining local mat bills and the Falls boy made an ideal pupil. Some Falls soldiers who have watched the Ferry Street kid in his English exhibitions, say he has not missed a thing and is wise to the acting end of the game, which is of more importance than ability in this particular form of sport."

The call of the armed services continues to cut deeply into the already sadly depleted ranks of Peterborough sportsmen. Yesterday a group of the city's younger athletes enlisted with the Canadian Navy at Kingston, with basketball again taking a loss for three of the group have been active in the current Y.M.C.A. House League. The group included Warren Smith who played softball with the local juveniles and basketball with the Corvettes in the House League; Bill Edger, the Bowmanville boy who starred with the local junior rugby team last fall and who has been a high-scorer with the Frigates in the cage loop; Jim Fallen, who has been playing with Harry Currie's Destroyers this season and Murray Dewart the swivel-hipped young backfielder of the champion Collegiate football squad of two seasons back. Art Geraghty another well-known Peterborough boy has enlisted with the Royal Navy as a member of the fleet air arm.

Order Finishes Kingston In Senior Loop

TORONTO, Jan. 11 (CP) — "I have no comment to make," declared W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association and secretary-registrar of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, when told between periods of the Senior Amateur fixture at Maple Leaf Gardens last night of the National Defence Headquarters order prohibiting further participation by Canadian Army teams or army personnel in any hockey competition pointing to either the Allan Cup or Memorial Cup.

When told the edict was effective immediately, Bill Hewitt exclaimed: "Gosh, the Kingston Army team is out there on the ice right now! and they're leading against Navy, too!"

Hewitt intimated he was not in position to issue a statement immediately but would consult O.H.A. President F. W. (Dinty) Moore at Port Colborne and President Frank Sargent of the C.A.H.A. Port William after studying the order from Ottawa.

The withdrawal of Kingston Frontenac Army would leave only three teams in the Senior O.H.A., St. Catharines Saints, Hamilton Majors and Toronto Navy. The series started out with six clubs but Toronto Army Daggers and Toronto R.C.A.F. were compelled to drop out under previous rulings.

Frigates Push Corvettes Out

Corvettes and Destroyers were eliminated from the Y.M.C.A. House League playoffs last night, the former losing 66 to 25 to Steve Csumrik's Frigates and the Destroyers going down 54 to 22 before Pete McArthur's Fairmiles. The two winners will meet Thursday night in the semi-final round and the top team after that clash will tangle with Joe Stewart's Algerines Saturday night in the final game for the Dominion Life Trophy.

The call of the Navy cut into last night's' double-header for three of the four teams found themselves short-handed because of players who were in Kingston enlisting with the R.C.N.V.R. In the first game Warren Smith was missing from the Corvettes and Bill Edger who had led the team in scoring Saturday night was absent from the ranks of the Frigates. As a result the teams played four men a side and Frigates proved much too strong. They ran up a score of 28 to 3 in the first half and continued to pile up the lead after the rest with Seabrook pacing the attack with 20 points. Nicholls topped the losers with 16. The teams:

Frigates (66) — Estlick 14, Seabrook 18, S. Csumrik 10, Blackburn, Collins 24.

Corvettes (25)—W. Brown 2, Nicholls 16, J. Ferguson 6, D. Ferguson 1.

Referees—H. Currie, G. Baird.

Destroyers found themselves minus several regulars in the second game and never had a chance against the Fairmiles. The latter rattled in 22 points in the first half against 4 by the losers, and went on to win out 54 to 22. Baird and McCuaig with 16 points each were the big scorers for the winners, while Kemp fired five baskets for the Destroyers to lead the losers. The teams:

Fairmiles (54)—Baird 16, McCuaig 16, Courtney 4, J. Csumik 4, McArthur 14.

Destroyers (22)—Bogue 2, Kemp 10, G. Seabrook 2, Nicholls, Currie 8.

Referees—J. Wolstenholme and S. Csumrik.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Vice-president Roy Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics told directors and stockholders at the club's annual meeting yesterday a determined effort should be made "to quit the American League cellar this year." Connie Mack, his father, was re-elected president and treasurer.

Club owners of the National Football League will meet Commissioner Elmer Layden at Chicago tomorrow and Thursday to discuss post-war expansion of the pro sport, with the immediate prospect the loop will operate with 10 teams next fall as a start.

Tied With Kilrea

Wally Kilrea of Hershey Bears shared first position with Tom Burlington of Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League's scoring table for the week, both players having 40 points. Gautheri of Hershey was three points behind.

Tony Lazzeri, former second-baseman of the New York Yankees, yesterday found himself released as manager of the Wilkes-Barre team in the Eastern Baseball League and complained that the decision had not been made by the club until "all baseball jobs have been taken."

Jack Laurie, well-known baseball pitcher of Niagara Falls, Ont., left for Hamilton yesterday to enlist in the Royal Canadian Navy as second-class stoker.

Among the veteran stars of major league baseball awaiting the season's call is Mel Ott of the New York Giants who will be starting his 18th year in the big circuits, possessing a home-run total of 463. Others still active are Paul Waner of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Manager Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox with a similar length of service.

SHOOT FOR GOLD AND GLORY — Golfdom's biggest event on the west coast, the $12,500 Los Angeles open tournament, has just finished, with most of the nation's available stars among those entered. Among the hopefuls were those pictured above. Jug McSpaden won the tournament yesterday with a 72-hole score of 278.

Curling News

After being three down coming home, it was up to Jim Hutchison to pull a real high class shot to remove two of Tom Ryan's stones and then to count four and win the game. It was a real shot, one you seldom see.

On the next ice C. H. Giroux and Charles Westbrook fought it out tooth and nail all the way with Giroux getting the verdict by two shots.

But the best game of the night was the Putnam-Best affair. The big big rugby player from Sarnia, Hamilton, Toronto and other points west, proved just a little too much for "the white-haired veteran." Gil was always a couple ahead and finished up with that margin.

Dave Grant had no trouble with Jimmy Hall. Jim just couldn't seem to get going.

It is to be hoped that the weather man gives a break to-night and to-morrow. The women are very anxious to put over their bonspiel.

The ladies played all their games yesterday as per schedule and we believe that there are three rinks that have yet to lose a game. This is not official. The rinks we refer to are Mrs. Vern Selkirk, skipping for the first time, Mrs. G. Wood and Mrs. Turner. However, these rinks must meet each other before long and one thing sure they all cannot win.

Commandos Hit By Ruling

MONTREAL, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Quebec Senior Hockey League officials showed little concern last night over an Army ruling barring Army personnel from cup-seeking teams.

"We have nothing to worry about this time," said George Slater, the president of the league that has survived loss of three teams through previous service regulations.

Ottawa Commandos would be the only team in the four-club loop affected by the ruling, he said, "and Ottawa has only three or four Army men, and they have recently acquired a few non-Army additions.

"It was the only thing the Army could do following the R.C.A.F. move," he added.

Jug McSpaden Wins Golf Honors

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 — (AP)—Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia yesterday captured the United States' richest golf championship, the $12,500 Los Angeles open, with a 72-hole score of 278.

Finishing the last 18-hole round on the Wilshire Country Club course with a blistering 66, McSpaden established a new low 72-hole score for the championship on this course. The best previously was the 281 in 1933 by Craig Wood, national champion for the duration. McSpaden is a former Canadian open champion and title playoff runner-up to Sam Snead in 1941.

Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, the Los Angeles open winner in 1941, finished in second place with 281. He took a par 71 for his final round after starting it in a 54-hole first-place tie with Leonard Dodson of La Jolla, Cal. Dodson wound up in a tie at 288 with Craig Wood and Byron Nelson of Toledo.

Dodson played in a threesome with McSpaden and Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, and the pace was too stiff for him. The veteran Willie Hunter of Santa Monica, Cal., finished with 284, followed by Dutra with 285.

McSpaden's five-under-par performance yesterday was one of the two best rounds of the championship. Sammy Byrd of Detroit also bagged a 66 in the first round.

Jug had six birdies and one bogey in fashioning his sensational card. His efficient putter never failed him, and only an out-of-bounds shot on the 419-yard 12th hole, where he required a five, marred his shot-making.

Cool under pressure all day, he sank a 20-foot putt on the seventh for a birdie two, but for the most part his approaches were laid right up to the cup.

The new champion has won four of his last six tournaments, among them the All-American, at Chicago. He picked up $4,375 in war bonds as first prize money yesterday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.— (AP).—The oddest of the "screwy season" ideas about baseball to turn up this winter, is the suggestion referred to the Sporting News by advertising man William C. D'Arcy of St. Louis ....He proposes a 16-team major league "road show" to pay week-end visits to smaller centres and thus stimulate interest and participation in the game.....Besides requiring some 300 more players of major league ability the program would need adequate parks in the small towns and some substitute for the minor leagues to develop youthful talent.

Cowley Leads By 8 Points

MONTREAL, Jan. 11—(CP)—Bill Cowley will be missing from the Boston lineup for some time due to injuries, but it looks as though it will be a week or so yet before he can be boosted out of first place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

The great centre continues at the head of today's official statistics with 52 points, eight more than his line-mate Herbie Cain and nine more than Lorne Carr of Toronto Leafs who holds down third spot.

Canadiens' Elmer Lach has moved up into fourth spot, a point behind Carr and two ahead of Bill Mosienko of Chicago. Tied for sixth place are Doug Bentley of Chicago and Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens, with 37 points each.

It looks as though Cowley's leadership in the assist column will go before his total-point margin. His 33 assists still leave him tops at present, but Lach has crept up to 30, and O'Connor has 29.

Cain still leads the goal-getters with 26, while Gerry Heffernan of Canadiens and Mud Bruneteau of Detroit are tied with an even 20 each.

Mike McMahon leads the penalty parade with 46 minutes, two more than team-mate Murph Chamberlain.

Canucks Oppose Leafs Tuesday

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs entertain Montreal Canadiens in tonight's only National Hockey League game, and if the Leafs can repeat their performance of Saturday night they might trounce the league-leaders. On Saturday the Leafs walloped Boston Bruins 12-3 to gain a two-point advantage over the Bruins.

But the Leafs in second place are still 13 points back of Canadiens, and the latter have won their last nine starts. And the Toronto team will be minus Captain Bob Davidson and Mel Hill, who were both in the line-up when Toronto beat Canadiens a month ago. The injured Davidson had a little skating practice yesterday and may be back in the line-up by the week-end.

There's a vast difference between Leafs and Canadiens in the goals-against column. So far 54 goals have been scored against the league-leaders, while 104 pucks have found their way into the Toronto nets. The game however promises to show a duel between the rival netminders, Paul Bibeault of Toronto and Bill Durnan of Canadiens. Coach Hap Day says Bibeault is a better netminder than Durnan, and tonight he has a chance to prove it.

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — The C.A.H.A.-N.H.L. arrangement by which amateurs may play in the major professional league without losing amateur standing is profitable to players concerned. The Toronto Star quotes Manager Phil Thompson as saying he paid the Toronto amateurs, George Grigor and Whitey Farrant, $100 each for their appearance against Leafs here the other night. In addition to the 100 seeds and by way of bonus, Thompson added his gratitude. "I figured they were willing to help us out and I felt grateful to them as well as giving them what I did." That angle must have been a hangover from mediaeval days when "gratitude" was the only reward of an amateur athlete.

Rugby Player Tony Golab Now Missing

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.— (CP).—FO. Anthony (Tony) Golab, 25, who starred for several seasons with Ottawa Rough Riders, has been reported missing on active service with the R.C.A.F. overseas, his wife was notified last night.

Golab, born in Windsor, Ont., first attracted attention for his football feats when he and Joe Kroel formed a powerful combination for Kennedy Collegiate Institute, Windsor. Later, Golab played for Sarnia Imperials in the Ontario Rugby Football Union before joining the Rough Riders n 1939.

"Athlete of the Year."

Under the guidance of Coach Ross Trimble he continued to develop as a forward-passing and defensive star, and was noted as a driving plunger. With Riders he played on three Eastern Canadian championship teams, and in 1941 was named winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union player chosen the most sportsmanlike and most valuable to his team. Many critics regarded him as one of Canada's greatest footballers of the past two decades.

In the same year he was named "Athlete of the year" in The Canadian Press sports poll. Golab joined the Air Force in 1941, and later was commissioned a pilot officer.

His last fling at championship football was in 1942, when he starred with the R.C.A.F. Uplands team in the Ottawa City League. He arrived overseas about a year ago.

In Mediterranean Area.

Last July a Sicilian dispatch from Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, mentioned that Golab was flying out of Malta and had been on operations over Sicily. In August, while stationed in Sicily, he was promoted to flying officer.

Later he was posted to a North African base. In October his R.C.A.F. unit was sent to Italy. Last May FO. Golab's brother, Sgt. Frank M. Golab, was reported a prisoner of war of the Japanese.

Russians Build Bridge During Night

Written for The Canadian Press
By Z. OSTROVSKY.

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Alexei Topalsky, modest construction engineer who designed and built bridges in Leningrad, had never before served in the army and lacked combat experience. His arrival at the front coincided with the crossing of the Dnieper by the Red Army last autumn.

Topalsky was summoned late one night to staff headquarters and ordered to build a bridge across the wide Ukrainian river. Cutters were towing barges and rafts loaded with machines and troops to the right bank when Topalsky reported to the general.

"You may see for yourself how much you are needed here," the general remarked, pointing to the bustling scene in front of him. "Time is precious. We've got to transfer thousands of machines to the other side and the quicker the better."

After a brief pause he added: "My men will bring up building materials and you do the construction."

Worked All Night.

Topalsky worked out the designs that night. The project was passed by the general the next day. Orders were issued to start driving in piles that same night. But it was necessary first to mark out the bridge with buoys. The construction engineer called for volunteers to enter almost freezing water and set up the buoys. Dozens of young officers stepped forward. Topalsky finally selected Senior Lieutenant Mikailov He quickly undressed and established the first three marking points of the new bridge.

Then began a titanic struggle between the bridge builders and the elements. Topalsky and his small army of sappers worked for three successive days before knocking off for a few hours' sleep. Standing waist-high in cold water, they drove piles by hand. The piles appeared simultaneously in eight different places near both banks and in the middle of the Dnieper. The ranks of the builders grew thinner after each German air raid.

The rest, however, carried on with their work, their fighting spirit unbroken.

One day when enemy shells no longer fell in the area, Russian artillery guns spoke and Soviet divisions on the right bank launched an offensive.

INDIAN PILOTS TRAIN—All decked out in the latest Canadian flying kit, Leading Aircraftman Balakumaran Manivelu of Tranjore, India, is about to take off on a training flight at an air station near Weyburn, Sask. He is one of a number of men of the Royal Indian Air Force who are training under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, in preparation for the day when they can help remove the menace of the Jap from their native land. Also at Weyburn is LAC. Rejinder Singh Sandu, Right, from Pakho Pur, India. A Sikh, LAC. Sandu never shaves or gets his hair cut, but usually washes it daily before doing it up in the traditional turban. Here he studies the mechanics of a bomb sight. (R.C.A.F. Photos)

Brewery Head Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP)—Lt.-Col. Plunket B. Taylor, 80, president and manager of Bradings Breweries Limited and second-in-command of the 77th overseas battalion in the First Great War, died at his home here last night.

Col. Taylor, a director of the Brewing Corporation of Canada, was a former bank manager here and for years was representative of a Toronto Investment House.

He began his banking career in 1900 as a clerk in the Bank of Ottawa and later was at different times manager of the Northern Crown Bank and the Royal Bank of Canada.

He was a member of the Rideau Curling Club and also of the Rideau and Royal Ottawa Golf Clubs.

A native of Kingston, Ont., Col. Taylor was a son of Thomas Dixon Taylor and his wife, Lucy E. Bourchier. He received his education at Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., and later attended the Ottawa Collegiate Institute.

Besides his widow there survive two sons, F. B. Taylor of Ottawa, and E. P. Taylor of Toronto, the latter for a time the chief executive officer o the British Supply Council at Washington.

Council Extends Sympathy To Warden

The sympathy of the City Council was extended to Reeve Peter J. Mather of Otonabee, Warden of Peterborough county last year, in a resolution of condolence by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Swanston.

"We were all sorry to read in the paper tonight of the bereavement of Reeve Mather by the death of his mother," Alderman Dutton said. "Our hearts go out to our neighbors and friends on such occasions of family deaths. I think it would be a gracious thing if the Council would send a letter of condolence to Reeve Mather, and also if we appointed some one to attend the funeral."

Aldermen Cotton, Glover and Swanston will represent the Council at the funeral at Keene

Turkey Warns Trouble Coming

ISTANBUL, Jan. 11 (AP) — The Turkish newspaper Tan yesterday predicted trouble for Germany in the Balkans and hinted that Turkey might play a role in the coming events.

"The Balkans are the weakest point of the fortress of Europe," said an editorial. "Therefore Turkey has become very important to Germany. Consequently the Germans were most pleased when Turkey announced after the Cairo conference here that her foreign policy remained unchanged.

"Today, from one point of view, the fate of the Balkans depends on the Bulgarians' decision. If Bulgaria throws off the military and political pressure on her it will become very difficult for Germany to hold the Balkans."

Russians Suggest

The broadcast asserted, however, that while the 1939 incorporation corrected "the injustice permitted by the Riga agreement in 1921," the Soviet Government "does not regard 1939 borders as unchangeable," declaring that corrections could be made in districts in which there is an overwhelming Polish population.

The declaration emphasized that Poland's western borders 'must be extended by means of incorporating in Poland the primordial Polish lands previously taken away by Germany, without which the whole Polish people cannot be united to its state, which will receive by this means a necessary outlet to the Baltic Sea."

Cede East Prussia.

This apparently would involve the cession of East Prussia by Germany to a reconstituted Poland.

Suggesting that the "Curzon Line" could be the basis of a Russian-Polish border, the broadcast recalled that this line was accepted in 1919 by the Supreme Council of the Allied Powers and noted that it provided for the inclusion of the Western Ukraine and Western White Russia in the Soviet Union.

This line, proposed in 1919 by Lord Curzon, the late British Foreign Secretary, in seeking to end a Russian-Polish frontier war, would run from Grodno in the north, approximately 150 miles south to Brest-Litovsk, thence south-eastward along the Bug River. This would have placed the Polish cities of Lwow, Pinsk, Vilna, and Tarnapol in Russia.

An Allied Council endorsed Curzon's proposal, but Poland rejected it. After two years of fighting, the Treaty of Riga was signed in 1921, establishing the border as it was known until the partition of 1939.

Revenue Climbs

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP). — Increase of $33,742,986 was reported Sunday by the Revenue Department in December customs, excise and income tax collections of $194,521,528, compared with $160,777,542 in the corresponding month of 1942.

Conquering Of Canada

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Canada, in the end, will be conquered either by immigration or by invasion, Jean Charles Harvey, editor of the Montreal French language weekly Le Jour said here to-day in an address to the Canadian Club

"Canada," Mr. Harvey asserted, "now is one of the few countries where another 60 million people might live comfortably, and we must either be prepared to open our doors or to keep constantly under arms sufficient forces to withstand all aggression, armies, incidentally, which we cannot raise in scfficient number to-day, owing to the numerical weakness of our populaton."

Saying that "immigration is our salvation," he added:

"By that means we can guarantee ourselves thirty years at least of immediate prosperity; we can avoid all the social and political crises and the revolutionary movements which we hear rumbling around us, for we can, in this way, set ourselves on a path of development, where private enterprise can have a free chance, and where democratic institutions, which can not be separated from freedom of enterprise, will once again show their efficiency and superiority.

"The arrival of a thousand immigrants in this country means a thousand more houses to build; many thousands more meals each day; thousands more shoes, suits, shirts and everything else; thousands more pay envelopes to be spent, and, in short, a general increase in the industrial and commercial activity of the nation."

gain.

Only patrol activity marked the 8th Army front, where New Zealanders, operating inland from the Adriatic, ambushed a German patrol of 30 men, inflicting casualties.

Air and sea activity flared over the Italian and Balkan areas, as night bombers returned to Sofia to pound the Bulgarian capital in a swift follow-up to yesterday's daylight raid, and British destroyers sank three German schooners and damaged four others trying to run the blockade to Civitanova, Ancona and San Benedetto.

American heavy bombers devoted their attention to a key Nazi rail bottleneck in the Balkans by attacking Skoplje in Yugoslavia, encountering no opposition.

Two-engined bombers hit San Benedetto, 35 miles north of Pescara, the 8th Army's objective on the Adriatic coast, while dive-bombers, attacking communications north of Rome destroyed six German vehicles, a large ammunition truck, a tank and locomotive.

Bombard Trains

R.A.F. and American bombers and fighters supported Allied troops in the battle area, while R.A.F. Wellingtons bombed an airfield at Villorba, 30 miles from Venice and R.A.F. Mosquitoes and Marauders shot up trains in the Po Valley and near Bordeaux and Toulouse in France.

Nine German planes were destroyed for a loss of three Allied aircraft, headquarters said.

The British destroyers Jervis, Troubridge and Tumult sweeping the German-held Adriatic coast Friday night sank three German schooners and bombarded the railway at Civitanova and Ancona. The next night they found four more schooners in the area, damaging them so badly they were abandoned. The destroyers topped off the night by shelling San Benedetto.

Invasion Date Set

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—The United States undersecretary of the Navy, James V. Forrestal, declaring that "invasion dates have been set," said last night that the success of forthcoming offensives depends upon completion of a program calling for construction of 45,000 additional landing craft.

Curved Glove Boon To All Airmen

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP)—The big airman from Calgary piloting a bomber over Berlin is about as comfortably and efficiently dressed as any airman in the world. So is his fellow Canuck from Fredericton back in the ice-box tail. And the groundmen, grooming planes in Alaska or the African desert, aren't forgotten.

For behind the flying equipment of the R.C.A.F. are weeks and months—and some times years—of scientific research that have produced marvels in functional clothing design which have, in many cases, been copied by other United Nations.

Take the curve-fingered flying glove, now used by most Allied air forces.

Flying scientists, searching out problems, noticed the old standard glove gave airmen little comfort in subzero temperatures and greatly reduced efficiency.

A glove was needed that combined warmth, flexibility, durability, economy and efficiency. Quiet men like Group Capt. Hall, chairman of an air force research committee, got around a table and talked things over with a physiologist, physicist, geologist, textile chemist. Textile engineer, medical officer and a member of air crew—the latter for practical advice.

The investigating scientists presents the problem and his colleagues—civilian and service—do the work. Skin and blood temperatures are measured at sub-zero temperatures and clothed in various thicknesses of material. The ideal material is of little use when the fingers, in assuming their natural bent position, cause a pressure at the joints and subsequent loss of warmth. Then one scientist hit upon the idea of modelling glove fingers in their natural curved position.

Comes Off Easily

But the glove must be easily removed in case of emergency in temperatures down to 40 below. So a zipper is installed from fore-finger and then to wrist. A thin form-fitting rayon glove and wool glove, smooth on the inside, completes the assembly.

Now the airman can yank the zipper, and pull off the wool insulating glove. The rayon affords enough protection in the chilling cold for the two minutes emergency work required with the slide rule, instrument panel, jammed gun, radio knob or engine gadget. Then back goes the hand into its snug covering and the guy from Winnipeg or Toronto is nearer top efficiency than his poorer equipped opponent.

The old one piece, Teddy-Bear flying suit was found lacking in many respects. So a two-piece utility flying suit was devised after another exhaustive scientific research program.

Among its features are double-pile, carpet-like lining which is both flexible and does not compress so as to lose its insulation value; quick - release zippers—handily installed—so that in case of a crash the suit can be easily discarded; special shoulder and elbow joints so engineers and gunners can reach their gadgets; and water repellent in case of use on life dinghies after a crash on the water and flash resistant as a protection from burns.

Girls Get Attention

To develop a utility flying helmet that is purhaps the best now in service anywhere, the head measurements were taken of 1,000 Canadian airmen and six standard sizes evolved.

And the ground crews and airwomen have not been forgotten. The world has been zoned by the scientists and surveys made and a schedule of appropriate equipment drawn up for each area. It includes everything from anti-glare glasses, ice-creepers, and eskimo-like mukluk boots to special super-absorbing hankies for dripping noses in cold climes, kneelets, sand puttees and special ankle-length drawers for airwomen serving in wintry jobs.

180 Teachers Threaten Strike

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP)— Approximately 180 lay teachers in 37 Separate Schools here have threatened to go on strike Feb. 1 unless the Separate School Board increases their salaries, it was learned yesterday.

The teachers' demands were said to have been placed before the Board in a letter to Aime Arvisais, secretary-treasurer, from Rodrigue Lemay, president of L'Institute Pedagogique de L'est Ottawa, an Association of French-speaking teachers.

Mr. Arvisais said the letter would go before the monthly meeting of the Board next Wednesday.

The Separate School Board has been under the supervision of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs since July, 1942, when the Board defaulted in the payment of its debentures.

Casualties Severe In Berlin Raids

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 11 (AP). — Indicating the efect of Allied bombings of Berlin's war production, the Goeteborg newspaper Handels-Ochs Jjoefartstidnings said to-day that 45,000 of the capital's workmen are missing—either casualties or fugitives from the city.

The newspaper, which quoted German sources, said also that another 420,000 Berlin workers are unemployed as the result of the destruction of plants and factories. Some 100,000 of these were reported to have been removed to other cities.

Hun Propaganda Weakened

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LISBON, Jan. 10 — (AP). — German propaganda, once a powerful weapon in Hitler's arsenal, is retreating on a broad front in Europe after being forced to the defensive by the reverses suffered by the Nazi armed forces.

This is not merely a United Nations view, for it is supported by dispatches published in German papers. For instance, the Pariser Zeitung published recently under a Lisbon dateline a description of the increasing pro-Allied tone of the Portuguese press and acknowledged that the trend was even more pronounced in Sweden and in Switzerland.

The story bemoaned the fact that Portuguese movie theatres are "completely dominated by Anglo-American films" and that the bookstalls and newstands are now "flooded" with British and American books and periodicals of all kinds.

German setbacks on the Eastern Front, the sinking of the Scharnhorst, the aerial battering of Berlin and other demonstrations of growing Allied air strength have been most effective propaganda here as well as elsewhere.

In the face of these setbacks, German propagandists have been forced to develop a new line which is wholly defensive to nature. The German papers now are emphasizing the construction of great defence works for the European fortress while excusing Nazi defeats in Russia by stressing the enormour strength of the Red Army.

Newspapers like the Voelkischer Beobachter and Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, meanwhile, devote their front pages to articles designed to convince wavering Germans that Italy's example shows that "capitulation means starvation."

Farmers Endorse Marketing Program

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 11 (CP).—A meeting sponsored by the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture in nearby Cannifton last night endorsed in principle a proposed marketing plan to achieve greater control of hog markets.

A control board similar to the present cheese board was recommended as a means of gaining market control. The meeting also passed a resolution asking the Federal government to establish a 20-cent-per-pound price for dressed-weight hogs for export f.o.b. Toronto.

MAGIC'S HONEY BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
¾ tsps. salt
¼ cup shortening
3 tsps. Magic Baking Powder
½ cup honey
⅓ cup milk (scant)
1½ tbsps. grated lemon rind, if available

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until mixed. Combine ½-cup honey with milk; add to first mixture. Knead on lightly floured board enough to shape into smooth ball; pat ½-inch thick. Cut with floured biscuit cutter, place on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450°F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Mix remaining honey with lemon rind and dribble over tops of biscuits just before removing from oven. Makes 14.

CAR STOLEN.

An automobile belonging to Miss Sadie Land, Sherbrooke Street, parked in front of 256 Princess Street, was stolen during the night, the Police Department was informde early this morning. Earlier the police had been notified that a taxi belonging to Capitol Taxi, left for a moment with its engine running, had been stolen off George Street. However, this machine was recovered later on Murray Street.

SOLDIER EXPRESSES THANKS.

Gnr. Clarence McFarlane, who has been stationed in England for the past three years, received as part of his Christmas cheer a gift parcel from the I.O.D.E. In a letter written to his mother, Mrs. Mary McFarlane, Charlotte street, he reported the safe and timely arrival of this package and expressed his thanks to the organization which sent it. Gnr. McFarlane, a volunteer at 17, attended Central school.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER.

The interesting story of how synthetic rubber is being produced to meet the war shortage was told members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon yesterday when J. W. Symons, manager of the Transport Maintenance Department of the Dominion Rubber Company, Toronto, addressed the club. Mr. Symons was introduced by Rotarian J. K. Hughes and Rotarian Robert Abbott moved the vote of thanks. President George A. Gillespie was in the chair.

CWAC RECRUITING

Three prospective recruits for the Women's Army left for Kingston this week to take their medical examinations. They are the first candidates for 1944 who have gone through the local recruiting office. Inquiries made at the recruiting centre here in recent weeks reveal that a good deal of interest is being shown in service in the corps by girls who as yet are too young to join up. Enlistment age in the C.W.A.C. is set at a minimum of 18 years, and this itself is three years below the figure of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Army.

FIRE REPORT

Sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof and caused approximately $10 damage Monday morning at 11:30 at 461 Hunter street, the residence of John Meadows. A trio of chimney fires in the afternoon occurred at 208 Rutherford avenue, home of W. J. McGrath; at 621 Water street, Mrs. E. Montgomery; and at 46 Lafayette, home of Mrs. H. Haylock. Later in the evening at 11:30, a call was received by the department from a resident of the Jackson Park wartime housing area, who mistook a wood fire blazing in a metal tube at Wolsely and Stormont streets, where the new school building is being erected, for a house fire. An alarm this morning, at 10:07 a.m., brought firemen to 403 Sheridan street, residence of Roy Castle, where overheated pipes were found to be the cause of the trouble.

MILK FOR BRITAIN

The sum of $2.00 has been received from Mrs. William Shannon and regular monthly donors to the Milk for Britain Fund bring the total to date to $14,784.44.

CALLING UP MANY MEN.

Major C. H. Stuart, Area Recruiting Officer, reports that quite a large number of young men in the city and district are being called to report for medical examination subsequent to undergoing military training under National Selective Service, Mobilization Section. Major Stuart suggests that these men report to the recruiting office, Telephone 9831, at the Armouries, prior to the date of reporting.

BLOOD HONORS.

The contribution of C.G.E. and Genelco employees to the city's blood plasma collections continued to be the outstanding feature at the Monday clinic. Thirty-eight were on hand out of a total list of 74 donors. There were contributors from the Quaker Oats, Westclox, Canada Packers, Peterborough Canoe, Peterborough Automotive, Whitakers' and the Lucky Strike Bait Co., and afew donors were in from Warsaw and Lakefield.

BULGING MAIL BOX

A mail box on Armour Road was so packed with letters Monday that a resident of Clifton street could not get a letter into the box. A call to the post-office brought the collector who emptied the bulging box, almost filling a small bag. One woman claims she posted a letter Wednesday and received a long distance call Sunday from her parents, seeking advice on her health. Apparently the letter was still uncollected in the box. It is believed a change in mail collectors resulted in the box being missed.

OPEN ALL WEDNESDAY.

The public lobby of the Post Office will henceforth be open in the evenings for the convenience of box-holders until 9 p.m. and not 10 p.m. as was formerly the case. This measure has been adopted in the interest of wartime conservation, for the saving of fuel and electricity. It was said this morning by Charles Lacheur, postmaster, that many people are in doubt as to whether the Post Office is open regularly on Wednesday afternoons and numerous calls are received each week from persons inquiring on this point. Business is as usual on Wednesday afternoons, Mr. Lacheur stated, and all regular services of the Post Office are available to the public as on other weekday afternoons.

New Water Mains Cost $100,000

In a rough estimate to the Utilities Commission Monday afternoon, R. L. Dobbin said the extension of water main in North Monaghan in the event of annexation being approved would cost around $100,000.

"We may get 800 or 900 new customers in those areas, but it is going to involve a lot of extra work," Mr. Dobbin said. "We would have to extend further into the south end the main we have laid on Bethune street down to Sherbrooke Street. Then there are the street laterals and services, amounting in all to $100,000."

The Commission is approaching more closely to an appraisal of post-war work.

Their discussion elicited the fact that a substantial back-log of work has funds on hand for its purpose five years, that the Commission also has unds on hand for its purpose of extension and reconstruction, and that its undertakings would provide employment for 50 or 60 men for at least two years.

G.S. Matthews, chairman, is attending at Belleville on Wednesday a meeting of the executive of the Central Ontario Municipal Electrical Association of which Ross Strike of Bowmanville is chairman. One of the questions which is thrust up to the top of the list is the so-called stabilization of rates.

Requisitions made upon the municipalities by the Hydro - Electric Commission have built up an amount which in its application to Peterborough is equivalent to $15. a horse power on the 1943 peak load. Peterborough is paying $26 for its power, and this fund has reached a point at which it is more than half the local power cost.

The Association, Mr. Matthews said, is considering the making of representations to the Hydro for the suspension of this, whose levy on Peterborough for this year is $36,000. If this payment could be evaded, the Commission would have that much more substance in its hands.

DOCTORS ON CALL

The Peterborough Doctors are observing Wednesday Afternoon as a Half-Holiday throughout the year. Those on call on Wednesday Afternoon and Evening of this week are: Dr. Walsh, Dr. H. Young, Dr. Moffat, Dr. Cameron.

Signalman Burnham Arrives Overseas

Signalman Ken Burnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burnham, 5 Cricket Place, has arrived overseas according to a cable received by his parents on Tuesday morning. He was employed as a clerk in the office of the Brinton Carpet Company when he enlisted back in December of 1942. For some time he trained at Cornwall, and later took advanced signal training in the Kingston area.

Answering the call of the Royal Canadian Air Force Women's Division "that men may fly" Miss May Simmons, Isabel Harvey and Ruth Paul are shown being sworn in as standard tradeswomen by Wing Commander J. M. Roberts, commanding officer No. 11 R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, 200 Bay Street, Toronto.

City Council Rescinds Motion Restricting Term Of Service

Prefaced by the rescinding of their resolution of last June, which restricted to three years their appointments of certain trustees and other associated public bodies, the Council last night returned to the Board of Health, Alderman Dutton and Alderman Sullivan, and selected with them D. V. Canning of the Board of Education.

William C. Ackerman was re-appointed to the Public Library Board, and A. G. Metheral was assigned to the committee in charge of the Almina Grover Foley trust fund.

Recission of the automatically terminating resolution which was passed last summer was moved by Alderman Cotton and seconded by Alderman Mark following expressions by most of the members suggesting that its present effective application did not seem advisable and in the interest of the various bodies to which the council named one or more representatives.

The naming of Mr. Metheral to the Almina Grover Foley estate committee on Alderman Cotton's motion, seconded by Alderman Ovens, did not conflict with the restrictive resolution for the reason that he had served only part of the term for which Alderman Cotton had been appointed.

In the discussion of the reconstituting of the Board of Health Alderman Dutton, who has been chairman of the Board for some years, pointed out that the three members of last year, himself, Alderman Sullivan and G. G. H. Melton were ineligible by the incidence of the debarring resolution.

Citizens Opposed

"There is nothing personal in what I have to say," Alderman Dutton stated. "As I said this morning in regard to the Board of Works, if the Council wishes to appoint some one else in my place it is all right with me. And it is the Council's business if it wishes to appoint an entirely new Board of Health. However, I know that it has been felt by many responsible people that the resolution was one of the most unsatisfactory things the Council has done. It has also been intimated that the Council was lacking in courage in passing that resolution; that we wanted to do certain things and that we were lacking in courage to do those things which we wanted done. I am resentful of that implication."

Alderman Dutton said it might seem that the council was hiding behind the resolution. If a man's usefulness in a certain position had expired the council should have the courage to say that it did not want to re-appoint him.

"There is also a feeling that there was some personal animus back of it. That would be unfortunate if allowed to go. I am of the opinion the Council would be wise to rescind the motion altogether. If the Council feels that any man on a Board has outlived his usefulness, the best

Court Dismisses O'Brien Charge

Guided as he said by a decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal on the point of issue in the case, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Monday dismissed a charge against Claire O'Brien, Indian River, of illegal parking on Highway 7.

O'Brien had been charged following an accident in which his car after it had been stopped because of an over-heated engine, was run into from behind by another vehicle driven by J. C. Edwards, Otonabee. The evidence was heard some time ago.

In his judgment Magistrate Langley said that the only evidence as to what had happened had been given through admissions by the accused himself and they did not indicate how long the car was stopped, after O'Brien had halted the machine when it started to heat up, for the purpose of getting some water out of the ditch alongside the road.

The Appeal Court by an unanimous decision in a somewhat similar case had ruled that such a stopping did not constitute "parking" or "allowing to stand" within the meaning of the section under which the charge was laid.

Accordingly His Worship said that he felt constrained to follow the Appeal Court decision and dismiss the charge against O'Brien. W. J. Arthur Fair defended the accused and Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure prosecuted the case.

Salary Committee Is Retained As Proposed Move Protested

"In so far as I am concerned I'll not act any further, and I request that my name be deleted from the legal committee," was the phrasing of Alderman Sullivan's protest against the absorption of the special salary committee of last year into the legal committee of 1944.

That change in the morning's appointment of standing committees for the year was undone Monday night, and both the salary and legal committee were returned to their separate being and functioning.

The salary committee, whose adjustments and shifts have so far escaped the light of publicity was composed last year of Alderman Sullivan, Alderman Bradburn and Alderman Sands. Presumably the council wished to reduce the number of committees in the prospect of several new ones coming into existence and activity as intimated by Mayor Hamilton in his address Monday morning.

Alderman Sullivan disclosed his interpretation of this folding up of his committee as a broad hint that it had not done a good job and the "S.O.S. was out."

"While I don't think we did a 100% job, it was not from lack of effort," he added, and adding his appreciation of the fine support he had received from Aldermen Sands and Bradburn.

When the council heard that little rift right in the brand new lute, some of its more persuasive and mollifying members set about patching it up.

Alderman Cotton in his softest tones, like the best bedside manner of a comforting doctor, admitted "We might have been a little hasty this morning; and it slipped by without realizing what was being done; and both committees ought to carry on as they were."

Alderman Sands backed up the Sullivan stricture. He is chairman of the Legal committee which had been the absorbent. "I suppose we didn't please everybody, but anyway it should be confined to about three members. There is a lot of detail and we spent a good deal of time on it. If any one else starts on it he will have to go back over it from the very beginning."

Alderman Sullivan told the council the salary question had been a football for years. They would propose certain changes but in the end would drop them altogether. That went on until the council appointed the special committee of three members, and Alderman Sullivan said he and Alderman Sands and Bradburn had enquired into this question just as thoroughly as they could, and the council had adopted their recommendations.

"There has been no lack of faith in the committee," Mayor Hamilton declared. "I know it is one committee that has been most faithful to their responsibility. At their last meeting they began at 2 p.m. and were still there after 5 o'clock.

Alderman Cotton closed off the conversation with a motion, seconded by Alderman Mark, that the report on the standing committees be amended, and that the salary committee be the same as last year with Alderman Sullivan as chairman.

No Such Charge Found Under Act

When charges against William Clinton and William Davis of Burleigh Townships of having hunted and killed deer in the Peterborough County Game Preserve were called in Police Court this morning, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., pointed out that in his opinion there was no such charge under the fish and game regulations.

As a result Clinton and Davis were then charged with illegal possession of deer, and their counsel, John A. Bradshaw, in view of the fact that a new charge had been laid, asked for an adjournment. By consent the cases were adjourned until January 25.

The original charges were dismissed when the Crown announced that no evidence would be offered.

Jack Whittington Killed In Action

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. James Whittington, South Monaghan, received a cable from the War Office at the weekend, informing them that their son, Sergeant Jack Whittington, had been killed in action in Italy, on December 24, 1943. The cable added that a letter would follow. Previous to enlistment, Jack, who had been overseas for a little over two years, was teller in the Bank of Toronto at Millbrook, and was a very popular citizen, with young and old alike, dependable in character, and cheerful in disposition. He was twenty years of age, and had been wounded, and back in action a comparatively short time, when his death occurred.

G. S. Matthews Is Re-elected Utilities Head

For the eighteenth successive year, G. S. Matthews was appointed chairman of the Utilities Commission a its first 1944 meeting Monday afternoon.

His proposal by G. A. Macdonald, seconded by Fred Hills, his two associate Commissioners, was as unanimous as his re-election in the municipal nominations. Mr. Matthews is beginning his nineteenth year as a member of the Commission.

Operating reports for December by R. L. Dobbin, manager, indicated the month's power peak at 12,000 h.p. as compared with 11,550 h.p. in December 1942.

Water pumpage for the month was 95,347,000 gallons and for the corresponding month last year 91,180,000 gallons.

December weather was not so cold as last year when the sharpest dip was 30 below, last month 15 below. Temperature comparisons for November and December were:

	1942	1943
November	33.8	33.6
December	17.9	19.0

Three new water services were laid last month and two relaid. "We laid 336 feet of six-inch water main on Park Hill Road west of Park street to serve some new houses in that district," Mr. Dobbin reported.

Gas production was 4,903,400 cubic feet as compared with 3,995,000 cup. ft. in December 1942.

Electric power consumption increased last month; domestic lighting 10.3 p.c.; commercial lighting 3.88 p.c.; and commercial power 13.4 p.c.

The total sale of gas last year was 4,913,600 cubic feet more than in 1942. The amounts were: 44,876,800 in 1942 and 49,790,400 in the twelve months of 1943.

Drunk Charge Follows Crash

Arrested Monday afternoon after his car had crashed into a highway guard fence at the intersection of Otonabee street and River Road on Monday afternoon, Edward Briant, R.R. 4, Lakefield, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of having been drunk in charge of a car.

On that count he was sentenced to ten days in the county jail and an order was issued by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to the police to impound the accused's car for three months.

On a second charge of illegal possession of liquor to which he also pleaded guilty Briant was fined $15 and $2.50 costs, and the liquor, about two thirds of a bottle of gin was ordered confiscated.

Constable C. J. McGilen, giving evidence, stated that Briant's car had crashed into the guard rail and broken off three posts.

"Only the wire prevented the car from going down a 20-foot embankment," said the officer. "The accused was very drunk."

"This is the first time I have been in this kind of trouble," Briant told the court, "and it will be my last."

Briant said that he had a son who had been overseas for four years with the Canadian army and had been twice wounded. He was now convalescing in North Africa, he said.

Havelock Boy War Casualty

HAVELOCK, Jan. 11—(ENS)—Another Havelock boy, Pte. David Franklin Quackenbush, has been wounded in Italy, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Fayette Quackenbush.

Enlisting with the R.C.A.S.C., at London on Sept. 7, 1939, he received his training at London and went overseas in December, 1939. He served at Dunkirk, was in the Sicilian drive and is now in Italy. The director of records announced he had been wounded in action on Dec. 27, but nature and extent of wounds was not yet available. Another brother, George Quackenbush is with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in England. The brothers have married English sisters since going overseas.

Parking Tickets Yield City $784

Parking tickets issued by the police yielded $784 to the city treasury last year. Total police court receipts were $7,135.73, of which $5,537.85 passed into the community coffers and $1,597.88 was disbursed as fees or paid to the Provincial Treasurer, as reported in an office review to the Council Monday night by City Clerk Outram.

Dog tags realized $1,338 and marriage licences accounted for $1,675. Total receipts in the clerk's office were $15,649.73.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP).—Congressional action to force a temporary suspension of all meat rationing in the United States was sought yesterday by Senator John Thomas (Rep., Idaho) on the ground that a current surplus, particularly of pork, is clogging trade channels.

Lily Lake W.A. Gives $80 To War Victims

The solid worth or greatness of any individual or group may be said to lie in their ability to rise to all emergencies that arise to confront them, and adapt themselves so as to successfully fulfill that part that their abilities make them capable of.

Shortly before the war commenced, a group known as the Lily Lake W.A. was formed, their prime objective being to raise the funds for the purpose of financing the building of a Hall in their own district which comprises the first and second lines of the Township of Smith.

When the war started they immediately decided to let their own needs and objective await the more peaceful days, feeling that their energies should be directed towards the larger project of giving what assistance they could in helping various efforts which were themselves endeavouring to assist in promoting the day of victory.

The life of people who live on the farm is quite a busy one, so it rebounds all the more to the credit of this group that their work in this direction has been very successful, and one has only to come into contact with them to appreciate the energy they have put into this work, which undoubtedly explains the reason for this success.

They Give Another $80

The Peterborough and District British War Victims fund has more than a passing knowledge of the excellent results these ladies have obtained from their work, for it has benefitted on quite a number of occasions in a substantial way, prominent among which was a donation of $300 which came as a result of their work at the ploughing meeting held some time ago.

And now, once again they have come forward through Mrs. Sarah Middleton, their treasurer, with another substantial gift amounting to $80, which is credited in today's receipts, to add to the splendid record of assistance they have already given to this fund. Long may they continue to work in such a successful manner for national and community assist such as this represents.

Repeats Personal Gift

There is always direct evidence of sustained personal interest when people come back time and again in this manner to give a helping hand to the fund, which happens to be the case with Mrs. William Shannon, who has supported the fund on a regular monthly basis for a long time now. Mrs. Shannon has had a son serving in the active forces overseas for a long time now, so that service to the country and the needs of those who suffer from air raid attacks in Britain, go hand in hand with each other in this instance.

One other personal gift from P. W.J. is also included in to-day's list of receipts.

Previously acknowledged	$72 163.45
The Lily Lake W. A. per Mrs. Sarah Midleton, treasurer	80.00
Mrs. William Shannon ..	3.00

Hero Mentioned

BRAS D'OR, N.S., Jan. 11 (CP)—Heroism of Pte. William A. Day of Bras d'Or when an Italy-bound troopship was under attack last fall was commended in a letter written by the head steward of the vessel and received yesterday by his parents. The letter inferred at least one ship in the convoy was sunk, for it cited the 23-year-old soldier for work "far beyond the call of normal duty, manning lifeboats, rescuing survivors from the sea and then later making repeated trips from the deck foyer to the hospital with wounded persons."

Motorist Gets 7 Days For Drunk Driving

Declaring that after considering all the evidence he had come to the conclusion without the slightest doubt that the accused had been drunk when he was driving his car on Monaghan Road on New Year's Eve, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning registered a conviction against Elmer Worr, Chamberlain street of having been drunk in charge of a car.

In view of the fact that the accused had had no previous record and that the offence happened on New Year's Eve, His Worship said that he thought that the minimum sentence would meet the ends of justice and sentenced Worr to seven days in jail.

There was an order to the police to impound Worr's car for three months.

After the hearing of the evidence yesterday the case had been adjourned until this morning for argument by W. J. Arthur Fair, counsel for Worr and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

When the hearing of evidence was resumed at Monday afternoon's session Albert Vass was called by the defence. He stated that his attention had been attracted by the noise made by the DeCarlonis truck as it came down Monaghan Road.

"Did you see Worr after the accident?" asked Mr. Fair.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Did he tell you anything about the accident?"

"He did but I couldn't make out what he meant."

Vass said that Worr was under the influence of liquor.

"Andy" Nielson, a fellow employee of Worr at the Genelco said that at 4 o'clock on New Year's Eve he had driven up town with Worr to get a beer. They found the hotels all closed so he decided to go to the brewery warehouse to get a case of beer. He bought a case of 24 pints, he said. Angus Nelson was there and he bought a dozen pints.

Later the three had driven to Nelson's house where each drank two pints of beer out of the large carton. To Mr. Fair Nielson said that when Worr left him that night after driving him home to the Staff House less than an hour before the accident he was quite sober.

Claimed Was Sober

Nielson, said, in answer to a question from Crown Attorney McElderry, that he was in the room at Nelson's house with Worr all the time they were there.

Angus Nelson corroborated Nielson's story about getting the beer and about the two pints consumed by each of the three at his house. He admitted to Mr. McElderry that when Worr had left the house he had warned him to be careful but said that admonition had been given because of the condition of the roads.

Charles Crowder who said that he had been waiting in his car at the west gate of Genelco to pick up a friend told the court that he saw Worr at the Staff House gate at around 7.40 or 8 o'clock when Worr had driven Nielsen home and that the accused was quite sober then.

Mrs. Pearl Worr, wife of the accused said that her husband had come home that night about a quarter to 8 o'clock and was sober. He had told her he had had a couple of drinks and she could smell beer off his breath but said that he was sober. After he had shaved and changed his clothes they had started out for Nelson's house and the accident happened en route.

To Mr. McElderry, Mrs. Worr stated that when they had left home her husband was perfectly sober. "If he hadn't been I would never have got into the car," she declared.

Later the witness said that she had seen her husband drink as much as four quarts of beer and it did not affect him.

parable if he lets matters drift along as they are now.

For these are the formative years of the child's life, the time when its habits of thought are formed, the time when every impression sinks deepest. And if he lets the boy feel now that he is unloved, unwanted, that even his own father hates him, he will give him an inferiority complex that he will never be able to overcome.

Being a man of intelligence, it is incomprehensible that the father does not see the situation in its true light—that the boy was in no way responsible for his mother dying when he was born; that only HE who holds life and death in HIS hands knows why such tragedies happen, but the fact that the child was left motherless doubles the father's responsibility to him and he has no right to shirk it.

Also, the father must know that if it is possible for the dead to know what is happening in this world that he is dimming the glory of Heaven itself for his wife by the way he is treating the boy. She could not rest in peace if she saw the face of her little sad, neglected, doubly orphaned child.

It is pitiful that the father cannot bring himself to see that the cure for his grief lies in his giving to his little son all the love of which he is capable, in making him a friend and companion, and in finding a renewed interest in life in watching and developing the boy's mind and character and making him the sort of man his mother would have wished him to be.

No hands have the healing for a hurt heart that a little child's have.

DEAR MISS DIX—Up until about two months ago I thought I would never meet a man whom I would want to marry. Then I met him and discovered that love is not only wonderful but miserable as well. For the man I love does not love me, and I made the big mistake of letting him know how very much he meant to me. I know that he is the only one for me, but I am afraid that I have lost him forever.

Has there ever been a way in the world for a woman to make a man love her?

Love Must Originate in Each Person

ANSWER—If there is such a recipe, I have never heard of it. There are plenty of ways in which a woman can make a man marry her, but love—ah, that's something different. That has to be spontaneous, something that man thinks of for himself, and if he doesn't originate the idea he never seems to get it.

No man ever knows why he falls in love with a woman. It just happens. It isn't, as is generally supposed, because of her beauty, for men fall in love with homely girls just as often as they do with glamorous ones, as you can perceive if you look about the married ladies of your acquaintance. It isn't because of a girl's good qualities, for one might have all the virtues under the sun; she might cook like a chef; pinch pennies like a miser; be kind to her old parents and have a bit of money of her own, yet leave him cold. Thousands of girls who are cut out to be good wives are old maids.

On the contrary, men go along, generation after generation, marrying the girls they know they should not marry; poor boys marrying clothes-mad girls; domestic men marrying girls who are constitutional gadders; intelligent men marrying nitwits; educated men marrying girls who never even read a best seller; all because they fell in love with them for some reason they can never account for afterwards.

So no one can chart out a course for you to pursue in trying to make a man fall in love with you. It is just luck and there is nothing you can do about it that will help, except to play indifferent. Sometimes it arouses a man's curiosity to observe that a girl seems to have recovered from her infatuation for him and, while he is trying to find out how it happened, she hits his fancy.

Halifax Senior Loop Folds Up

HALIFAX, Jan. 11—(CP)—Army and R.C.A.F. orders restricting activities of service teams brought disbandment last night of the Halifax Senior Hockey League, for years one of the leading loops in the Maritimes.

A meeting of the league decided that the regular schedule will be discontinued, with the leading Navy team meeting the R.C.A.F. in fortnightly exhibition games and playing outside teams in occasional exhibitions.

At the time of the breakup, the circuit was composed of Navy and Air Force and civilian Crescents. It started out the season as a four-team league, but the Army had to drop out earlier.

Frank Shaw Heads Diamond Lodge

At their first meeting of the new year held last week, Diamond L.O.L. No. 80 elected and installed a new slate of officers for the coming year. County Master Mel Holden performed the installations.

The following were officers for 1944:—Frank Shaw, Worshipful Master; Rex Glenn, Deputy Master; Alvin Lowes, Chaplain; Harry Stewart, recording secretary; and Charles Wiley, financial secretary, Harold Wilson, secretary treasurer, George Foster, marshal; Roy Swan first lecturer; Nelson Lowes, second lecturer; Wally Lowes, Harold Bannon, A. Anderson, William Wilson and Jack Wilson, the committeemen.

City Council

thing to do is to say so."

Alderman Cotton said he agreed with Alderman Dutton's proposal.

Alderman Sands said he drew the line at the reference to the passing of a man's term of usefulness on a board. If that were allowed to stand a man might feel that his usefulness was passed if he were not reappointed. There were many men in the city who liked to see passed around.

Lose Experience

"I think it would be unwise to leave the Board of Health without the service of three experienced members", said Alderman Glover. "I am inclined to feel that we should rescind the motion. Members of this Council allow themselves to be reelected a good many years if the people are willing to do so. We say nothing as to whether we continue three years or up to 20 years providing the people still keep electing us. I have no complaint against any of the members of the boards for the manner in which they have carried out their duties. This resolution would leave us without the service of three men who have done a mighty fine job on the Board of Health.

I think that some of our younger men should be getting into the Council, the Board of Education, the Utilities Commission; and those other boards would leave openings for men who have served the city well in other positions. I think the effect of the resolution has not been brought home to us, and personally I think it was unwise."

Alderman Swanston said he endorsed the view that the various boards affected by the resolution "have done a pretty good job. But, the Council has kept on naming the same men years after year to boards without bringing on any new men in their places and to become experienced. It is unfortunate that the Board of Health has come up as it has. I don't think that at the time the resolution was passed any member of the Council had any animosity to the Board of Health or to any individual."

Alderman Dutton said he wished to express his agreement with the statement by Alderman Sands. "Whatever motive the Council had, one thing was outstanding and that was the sentiment expressed by Aldermen Sands and Swanston. There are men in the city of ability and good judgment who are well qualified to serve on bodies appointed by the Council. Their enlistment by the Council to those positions is a valuable service to the community. That is especially true in those days when the tendency seems to be toward centralization, and of the state doing things which were formerly done by groups of individuals, and by individual persons. Further centralization would be to lose the thing we are striving for in representative democratic government. The voluntary service of intelligent men was never more needed than now, and was never more acceptable."

Alderman Dutton said that changes became necessary from time to time, even to the extent of 'cleaning the slate', but it was always within the power of the Council to pass resolutions that would not be obnoxious to many people.

Mayor Hamilton commented upon "a feeling that if a man was appointed to a position for some time it was almost up to us to reappoint him. Some members of boards may have felt that they got these positions automatically. I believe that is one of the things the Council had in mind last year."

Alderman Ovens recalled that he was a member of the Board of Health for about a year and a half, an experience which left with him the conviction that it would be a great mistake to make a sweeping change of its members. "It would take a new member about three years to get his feet wet. You can't get experience in that work in a year or so."

Alderman Sullivan said he did not think the resolution was aimed at the Board of Health. "As Alderman Ovens has said any one who has served on the Board of Health realizes the seriousness of that responsibility, because our first duty to our people is to safeguard their health. I would gladly give my place on the Board to some members, and I think he would enjoy the work as much as I have. I certainly think it would be a great loss to the Board if it was to be without the service of Alderman Dutton. Only those who have been close to him can realize the outstanding quality of what he has done over a period of years in building up the health services of Peterborough to where they are today."

Alderman Dutton repeated to the Council that he was not thinking particularly of the Board of Health. "If the Council wishes to clean the slate it is all right with me. But, I am thinking of the whole effect of the resolution, that it is not in keeping with the way this Council has done its work."

When the Cotton-Mark motion was adopted, Alderman Sands said he hoped the Council would not revert to its customary practice of simply re-appointing the same men over and over again.

Proceeding with the passing of the Board of Health membership bylaw, the name of G. W. Craw, chairman of the Board of Education was mentioned for the post vacated by D. G. H. Melton, the previous representatives of that Board.

"That is if he has time to accept it," Alderman Swanston added.

Doubt was expressed that Mr. Craw would be able to find time for that extra work, and Mr. Canning was appointed on Alderman Cotton's motion, seconded by Alderman Ovens.

Mr. Ackerman Appointed

Turning to the Council's representative on the Public Library Board, City Clerk Outram reported that the present term of W. C. Ackerman was expiring.

"I don't know any one who could make a better job of it especially from the financial end, than Mr. Ackerman," said Alderman Glover.

The re-appointment of Mr. Ackerman was moved by Alderman Swanston and seconded by Alderman Sands.

Bill Cowley To Leave Hospital Today

TORONTO, Jan. 11—(CP).—Boston Bruins centre ice star, Bill Cowley, was hopeful today he would be able to leave Wellesley Hospital tonight to go to his home in Ottawa to recuperate from the shoulder separation he suffered when bodychecked by Jack McLean of Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game here Saturday night.

Telling how he was injured, Cowley said: "I was going around the south goal and McLean was checking me. He eased me into the boards. I felt my shoulder pain and skated directly off."

He had no comment when told that Manager Art Ross of Bruins was quoted as saying yesterday that the injury resulted from a "savage and deliberate attack."

"I am afraid Arthur is building this up for Boston consumption," said Frank Selke, Leafs' manager, who was named by Ross as the instigator of the attack. "I guess now I'll have to go to Boston next Tuesday or Ross will think I am ducking. I hadn't planned on going for this trip. I think his statement is foolish. For if something does happen in Boston—and it could quite easily—then Ross may find his statement more serious than he believes."

Coach Happy Day of the Leafs, whom Ross said wasn't "smart enough" to think up the attack on Cowley, said "I am certainly smart enough to not make a statement like he has and leave himself liable to a fine of $3,000." Day's reference was to the N.H.L. rule providing a maximum fine of $1,000 for players or club officials giving statements to the press criticizing other officials.

Bethany W.A. To Secure Honor Roll

BETHANY, Jan. 11 (ENS)—The regular meeting of Women's Association of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Fallis, January 4, with 20 in attendance. Mrs. Fallis read scripture lesson, taken from Rev. 3rd chapt., and lesson thought were given by Mrs. Veale. Prayer by the president followed.

After discussion it was moved by Mrs. Row and seconded by Mrs. Fallis that we secure a book to be used as a study book for the society.

A letter of resignation was read from the work leader of Group 2, but no leader was available to take her place at this meeting. As the Congregational tea takes place in January, some thought was given to the menu, and each group leader was made responsible for the meat pies.

The president spoke of the advisability of getting an honor roll. Moved by Mrs. Driver, seconded by Mrs. Given that we send for an honor roll. Carried.

It was suggested that we send some gift to each of our soldiers. The following committee was appointed to take charge of the matter: Mrs. Jackson, Miss H. Staples, Mrs. W. L. Rowan and Miss Lily Thompson and were requested to report at the February meeting.

Letters of appreciation for Christmas parcels received were read from H. Bristow, Lawrence Steer, and Stewart Thompson now overseas.

Mrs. W. L. Rowan then took charge of the following program and hymn, "Standing at the Portal" was sung; a reading "Thoughts on the New Year" was given by Mrs. Jackson; an instrumental on piano by Mrs. McNeil; a reading on "New Year's Facts" was given by Mrs. Driver and greatly enjoyed by all present. After singing "Oh Life that Makes All Things New" the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Mrs. Veale moved a vote of thanks to our hostesses for the splendid lunch served which received due applause. Collection amounted to $3.30.

O.H.A. President Calls Special Meeting

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — F. W. (Dinty) Moore of Port Colborne, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, has called an emergency meeting of the O.H.A. Sub-Committee and the remaining Senior A clubs to discuss the situation brought about by withdrawal of the Kingston Army team under orders from Army Headquarters last night, it was announced to-day. The meeting will be held in Toronto (Royal York Hotel) on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

Sports Day By Day

the military authorities making yesterday the dead-line for army teams there are only three clubs left in the senior division of the O.H.A., Toronto Navy, Hamilton Majors and St. Catharines Saints.... The army order applies to individual players as well and a number of civilian teams who have been using soldier material will be hit by the ruling.... Joe Louis says that he is not going to give up the ring after the war.... However the Bomber is 29 now and he may find that Father Time has caught up to him.... Canadiens play in Toronto tonight and the Leafs will probably find them considerably tougher than were the Boston Bruins Saturday night.... Art Ross's charge that Bill Cowley was deliberately injured will probably cause a lot of fireworks.

LAMP LIGHTING TIME—In order to speed the flow of material and men to the front, authorities decided to permit vehicles in rear areas to move up to the front with headlights lit. Imitation clocks made of wood indicate when lights go on. Lance-Corporal J. Woodcock of the British Eighth Army sets one of the clocks.

Airman Claims Jap Flier Better Than Hun

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP)—Only Canadian in the Mediterranean war theatre to have met both Japanse and Germans in air combat, Flt. Lt. Hedley Everard considers the Japanese as the tougher opponent of the two.

"Both the Germans and the Japs are good in the air," said the 23-year-old flight commander from 101 Tamarack street, Timmins, Ont. "But the Japanese consider it an honor to die for their emperor and will fight to the end—if it is practically suicide. Once they start coming at you, they keep on coming.

"The German fights well but he has no hesitation in turning and running for home when things get tough.

Hedley had just returned from a front-line patrol over the Sangro River when three touring Canadian war correspondents now back in London cornered him in the squadron mess tent on a muddy plain in Italy. He hasn't seen many Nazi planes—except wrecked ones on the ground—since he joined the City of Windsor squadron last summer after a year in India.

"I think German planes are slightly better than those of the Japs, mainly because they carry more armor," he said. "However the Jap planes are very good. Take the Zero, for instance. It's fast and manouvreable, and there are plenty of them."

Now approaching 300 hours of operation flying, Hedley was posted to the Far East a year ago and flew Hurricanes in Burma. His squadron was the only R.A.F. fighter unit on that front.

Garfield Anderson Named CCF Deputy

TORONTO, Jan. 11 (CP).—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, today announced that Garfield Anderson, C.C.F. M.P.P. for Fort William, was chosen deputy leader of the C.C.F. for the coming session of the Legislature at a week-end caucus of party members.

Anderson, Mayor of Fort William since 1942, has been prominent in municipal affairs there for several years and was once president of the Fort William Trades and Labor Council.

The announcement added that Charles Strange, member for Brantford, was named party whip and Grieve Robinson, Waterloo South, caucus secretary. Strange, a member of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.), is a member of the Ontario C.C.F. Trades Union Committee, while Robinson, a Galt business man, has acted as secretary of the two caucuses the party has held since the August 4 Ontario election.

Twin Cities Arrange Post-War Survey

KITCHENER, Jan. 11 (CP)— E. J. Shoemaker was named general chairman with Leo Henhoeffer as vice-chairman at organization sessions over the week-end for the fact-finding survey to be conducted in the twin cities of Kitchener and Wataerloo late in January and early February.

Entitled the "Kitchener-Waterloo survey for post-war planning," the project is sponsored by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Kitchener Board of Trade. The survey is intended to serve as a model for all other Canadian communities.

Scouters Club

The monthly meeting of the Scouters Club will be held in the headquarters of the Park Hill Community Group, the Dixon House, on Wednesday, January 12, at 8 p.m.

At St. Luke's

Many Cubs were seen climbing the Jungle Trail to the Council Rock where one minute silence was observed to honor the Rector and Chairman of the Group committee the Rev. G. J. Bousfield. Test work for the evening found Gerald Stock demonstrating folding clothes and how to save money while Doug Britnell was turning somesaults. Both boys passed the tests. Games of Bunny Hop and Spot the Colours were played. The red flower consisted mainly of the singing of the Cub songs. During the evening Ross Barker left the Cub Trail and he placed his feet on the wider Scout Trail being accepted into the Troop by Scouter Nokes in a going up ceremony.

We regret to learn that Cub Joe Burns met with a serious accident recently, having been run over by a car. Akela, Baloo and all his friends in the Pack wish him a speedy recovery to good health. A "cheerup" box will soon be under way. Akela King would like any Cub mother to phone 9442 should any boy under his charge be taken sick.

The Troop: Games of Pussy Cat and Rooster Football followed the opening ceremonies and inspection. At the tests, Mac Van Allen, Peter Ferguson, Lavergne Butcher and Allan Northcott passed Kims game. Ross Barker joined the troop after following the Cub Trail. There was some deep discussion on the formation of a hockey team. On Saturday members of the troop visited the Y.M.C.A., afterwards dining down town and completing the evening by attending a show.

St. John's

The Cubs: Games and test work were the theme of the get-together meeting of the new year with the Akela taking compass work, Baloo instructing on time and Raksha preparing boys in signalling work. The awarding of Jungle names to newly invested Cubs was the Red Flower program.

The Scouts: In the absence of Scouter Ford, who is confined to his bed with cold, Patrol Leader Jamie Collis carried on under the supervision of Skipper. Carl Sergeant and Wilfred Woodcock passed their compass work for second class badge. The troop is warned to meet at 7:30 on Friday next instead of the usual 7 p.m.

4 Murder Charges On Toronto Docket

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Four charges of murder and one of conspiracy in regard to draft deferment are included in a heavy list of cases to be heard in sittings here of the Assizes Court, which opened officially Monday with the jurymen assembling and a grand jury picked to consider the criminal charges.

First case the grand jury will hear is that of R. A. Irwin, former National Mobilization Registrar at Toronto, Robert A. Allen, Naiffe Stephen and Robert Douglas, charged in the draft deferment case.

Six cases of manslaughter will also be heard during the sittings.

Noted Geologist Dies

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 11 (AP).—Dr. George Otis Smith, 72, a noted geologist and chairman of the United States Federal Power Commission in President Hoover's administration, died here Monday shortly after being stricken with heart disease. Smith also served as chairman of the Federal Coal Commission in 1922-23.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ONLY ONE CORRECT WAY

TO THE average player, certain hands offer optional methods of play on either offense or defense. These same hands, however, when carefully analyzed from an expert standpoint, may present only one truly correct course of action, any other method being unsound. Thorough application of plain ordinary common sense, which some people call by the fancy name of "card sense," is a habit of mind which can be developed at the bridge table by most of those willing to try.

When West led the diamond 2, East could read it clearly as a singleton. Dr. Louis Mark, Columbus, O., star who sat in that position, also read a great deal more. If permitted a bum pun, we might even say that, after his deductions, the correct defense was clearly "marked."

Reading West for the singleton placed two diamonds with South. Dr. Mark saw that, if he won that first trick with one of his lower diamonds, collected his diamond A and then a third diamond, South undoubtedly could afford to ruff it high enough to prevent an over-ruff by West. South then could run his trumps and use the dummy's clubs to discard any remaining losers, thus making five-odd. To prevent the extra trick, he could cash the spade A before leading the third diamond.

Better still, however, was to put West in the lead and have him return a spade. How could he be caused to return a spade? Dr. Mark assured it by taking the first trick with the diamond A instead of a lower one, then returning the diamond Q. West naturally trumped this and, since it was an unnecessarily high card, read it as a suit-preference signal calling for return of the higher ranking spades instead of the lower-ranking clubs. Consequently, his spade return enabled Dr. Mark to get two spade tricks pronto, setting the contract.

Americans Buy Many Canadian Bonds

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP).— The booklet which sets forth the government's wartime exchange regulations is a bulky document but, a foreign exchange board spokesman said today, the only regulation causing much complaint is the one passed in July, 1940, preventing money being obtained for pleasure travel outside the Dominion.

Asked if the board proposes to be more liberal in this regard now that United States dollars are somewhat more plentiful, this official said it is a matter of "government policy" and he had no idea whether the ministry plans any changes in the present regulations.

"We had many a close squeak in 1940 and I often wonder now how we were able to get by and provide enough American dollars to meet our commitments, but we did," he said. "The situation is much better now."

Sales of Canada pulpwood paper had increased. Under the Hyde Park agreement for mutually-beneficial exchange of war goods, sale of farm products, metals and munitions also were up. Accordingly, American funds were reaching Canada in greater volume and there was not the same scarcity as before.

Another important factor in relieving the exchange situation was the desire of American investors to buy Canadian securities. Sales of securities have been averaging about $20,000,000 a month recently. Most of that buying provided additional American dollars.

While the situation had improved, the public should realize that Canada still needs all the U.S. dollars she can get, the board source said. It would be poor economy for Canadians to use for pleasure travel money coming from the purchase of Canadian securities by Americans. Such purchases meant Canada was going farther in debt to the United States. Money obtained that way should not be wasted.

Nazis Sentence Ciano To Death

LONDON, Jan. 11 — (CP). — A German news agency broadcast announced to-night that Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Benito Mussolini and Italy's Foreign Minister when the country was led into war at the side of Germany, had been sentenced to death at a Nazi-sponsored "treason trial."

D.N.B. said all 19 members of the Fascist Grand Council who voted July 29 for the deposing of Mussolini from his dictatorship had been condemned to death with the single exception of Tullio Cianetti, former Minister of Corporations.

Only six of the 19 defendants, including Ciano, were in Nazi-Fascist custody, however, the other 13 having escaped the clutches of the Germans and Mussolini, according to German radio reports.

Heads Travellers

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 11 (CP).— R. Keenleyside was named general chairman of a committee to plan the grand council session of the United Commercial Travellers, to be held here June 2 and 3, at a Saturday meeting of the London council. About 60 representatives from Ontario and Quebec are expected to attend the sessions.

ALWAYS TIRED —Yet Sleep Didn't Help!

Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, full of pep? Yet so many, especially over 40, get up tired all over, with aching joints, never really feel their best.

The reason is usually a common complaint—a system clogged with poisonous food waste. Like most people, you need help to clean out a sluggish system, get back pep and sparkle rightfully yours. The natural action of BILE BEANS is a mild yet effective aid thousands rely on.

Made from 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans are so gentle they are called "The Medicine That Copies Nature". These small laxative liver pills tone up entire system by stimulating flow of liver bile, so essential to good digestion and daily regularity.

FEW SURVIVORS OF SCHARNHORST—The photo, on the Left, radioed from London, shows three of the British torpedomen aboard H.M.S. Jamaica, who sent the final torpedo into the Nazi battleship Scharnhorst, off the northern coast of Norway sending it to the bottom of the sea. Very few Nazis survived the shelling, torpedoing and sinking of their ship. In the picture at the Right a few survivors are shown, hatless, aboard H.M.S. Duke of York, British battleship which crippled the Scharnhorst.

Tim Buck Plans To Answer CCF

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Tim Buck, Leader of the Labor-Progressive Party, has been instructed to reply to C.C.F. rejection of an offer of co-operation, says a statement issued here to-day by the party's national committee. The statement says the Labor-Progressive national executive met with Mr. Buck January 5 and 6, decided to mobilize members and supporters for a campaign along stated lines, and instructed him to reply to the C.C.F. rejection "along the lines of the policies and decisions of the meeting."

The Labor-Progressives hold two seats in Ontario's 90-member Legislature. The C.C.F. has declined offers of affiliation and co-operation from the Buck-led party.

The Labor-Progressive meeting pronounced an aim of "electing a majority of C.C.F., Labor and Farmer members to the next House of Commons," and the statement said the executive "will urge provincial councils to select a limited number of Federal constituencies which offer good prospects for the election of Labor-Progressive candidates, and will concentrate the party's strength and resources upon the task of electing its candidate in these constituencies."

Support for "generous cash grants, post-war reconstruction measures, and a halt to "layoffs in war industry" were among the aims listed.

New Year's Party Is Huge Success

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11 (ENS). — The annual New Year's party, in connection with St. Andrew's Sunday School was held on Friday evening, with over one hundred sitting down at 6.30 to a bountiful hot supper, with teachers and officers acting as hosts and hostesses. Following this, a sing-song of Christmas carols was enjoyed by all, and the assistant superintendent, Wilfrid Elson, gave out the awards won during 1943: For perfect attendance, Master Ralph Richards; for memorizing selected verses of Scripture, Gerald Hubbeard, Marian Rowe, Margaret Dawson and Ralph Richards.

The program which followed featured recitations by Margaret Dawson, "Peace on Earth"; Fred Weatherilt, "Like George Washington"; Francis Dawson, "The Purple Cow"; after a group of songs by the primary class, Hazel Rowe recited "His Christmas", and Leona Ball, "A Little Elf Man", and the Misses Kathryn and Edith Elson sang a duet; "That Lovely Ash Grove"; Mary Guthrie's reading, "There'll Always Be A Christmas", and Anne Dawson's poem, "The Snowman's Resolution", were appropriate, and were followed by a quartette, "Billy Boy" by Yvonne and Nancy Richards, Joan Wright and Mary Guthrie; Concluding the program was the stunt, "Two o'Clock Lunch", by Joe Lunn, Jimmy Elson, Herbert Ball and Ralph Lunn.

Poles In Action

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 (AP).— Second Polish division, the "Hendrich Dombrowski" division, has gone into action with the Red Army against the Germans, it was disclosed yesterday. The army newspaper Red Star said the new Polish division would fight the Nazis for "a free, democratic Poland."

Dr. Allan Dafoe Was Fourth Cousin

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11 (CP). — J. W. Dafoe, president and editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, who died here yesterday, was known wherever newspapers were published, but he had an equally well-known cousin, a little country doctor whose fame spread through the world.

He was the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe of Callander, Ont., who on May 28, 1934, brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world.

An obscure physician before the birth of the now world-famous daughters of Mrs. Olivia Dionne in a Northern Ontario farmhouse, Dr. Dafoe was a fourth cousin of Mr. Dafoe.

Instal W.M.S. Officers At First Meeting

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 11 (ENS). — Mrs. D. H. Charlton was hostess to the W.M.S. of Regent Street United Church for the first meeting of the new year and Mrs. E. Jory, president, presided.

The treasurer's report showed that $410 had been sent to the Presbyterial, and a balance of $8.84 was on hand. Mrs. P. H. Darling and Mrs. D. H. Charlton were appointed auditors for the year.

Mrs. G. F. Kelly, Mrs. G. Graham and Mrs. C. Hunter will be the Mission Band leaders. Mrs. P. H. Darling offered her home for the Bible Study meeting on January 20.

Rev. G. F. Kelly presided for the installation of the officers.

Mrs. C. S. Tanner gave an instructive talk on prayer for the youth. Mrs. J. A. Porter then read a prayer which had been composed by her aunt, the late Mrs. Charlotte Welsh. Mrs. Darling gave the third chapter of Study Book, which dealt with the agricultural projects of our missionaries among the farmers of India, Burma and China.

Mrs. Kelly announced that Rev. J. B. MacHattie, B. Sc., would be guest speaker at the United Church on Sunday.

Women Snipers Gave Trouble

TORONTO Jan. 11 (CP)—Canadians in Sicily had more trouble with women snipers than they did with Italian soldiers, who made themselves a "nuisance" by surrendering in droves, Sgt. Roland Amyot of North Bay, Ont., said in an interview here today.

Amyot, 21, lost his right arm and was wounded in four other places at Nissoria in Sicily when Germans shelled the town from surrounding hills after the Canadians had recaptured it. He is recuperating in Christie Street Military Hospital.

His arm was removed in a base hospital four hours after it was pierced in two places by shapnel shrapnel from mortar fire. He suffered other wounds in the right leg and chest.

When the women snipers were found "they were treated just like any other snipers," Amyot said.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Amyot, he enlisted in 1940 with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment—the Hasty Petes. Before the war he was a miner at Malartic, near North Bay, and was known as a catcher with North Bay ball clubs.

Before going to Sicily Amyot married a Scottish girl, whom he hopes to bring to Canada in the spring.

Wooden Egg Cases Becoming Scarce

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 — (CP). — The Agriculture Department said to-day a severe shortage of wooden egg cases to handicap movement of eggs into the domestic trade and to egg-drying plants where egg powder is made for the United Kingdom.

The Department said the shortage is due to "some neglect in the return of egg cases to wholesalers, some careless handling, a shortage of lumber and other incidental causes." An appeal was made to all persons handling egg cases to return them promptly to shippers and avoid damaging them.

Christmas Messages

With the Canadians in Italy, Jan. 11 (CP Cable).

IT'S a little late for Christmas stories but this one came to light only when the Canadians were going through a tunnel in the captured Adriatic coastal town of Ortona which the Germans used for billets.

The Canadians found inside a decorated Christmas tree and nearby this message: "Sorry we can't stay to put on the mistletoe but we'll make it hot for you in the hills."

C.N.R. Director Urges Canada Take Immigrants

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP). — Adoption of "a more generous immigration policy" for Canada was urged to-day by J. S. McGowan, director of the colonization and agriculture department of Canadian National Railways...

In an address prepared for delivery to an Ottawa service club (Rotary), Mr. McGowan said such a policy is essential if Canada is to take her rightful place in dealing with post-war problems of the United Nations.

"Canada cannot hope to close her doors and at the same time expect to trade freely with other nations," he said. "We cannot be a party to a good-neighbor policy if the door is locked with the sign up 'nobody wanted.'

"At the same time, no one will for a moment suggest that it will be possible to return to the free and unregulated movement of people such as we had in the early part of the century."

Mr. McGowan spoke optimistically of the post-war period:

"I predict that Canada will enter a period of comparatively rapid growth in the post-war years. I make only one reservation with regard to that statement—provided that international trade is allowed to flow more freely; or, to put it another way, provided terms of the Atlantic charter become a reality."

The concensus on a conservative basis was that Canada could support three times her present population without any material reduction in living standards, but many years of hard work would be required to reach that position.

Mr. McGowan listed four factors which he said will be important in determining immigration movements:

1. Freer exchange of goods throughout the world. With markets for her natural products Canada could double her population and provide gainful employment for all.
2. Improvement in agriculture as an industry.
3. Development of natural resources.
4. The desire of people in the British Isles, United States and European countries to establish new homes in Canada after the war.

SCIENCE'S NEWEST CONTRIBUTION TO PROTECTIVE NUTRITION

★ 5 VITAMINS
A, B_1, C, D and Riboflavin.

★ 3 MINERALS
Phosphorus, Calcium, Iron, compounded to meet minimum daily requirements.

SCIENCE achieved wonders by isolating the life-and-health elements in food which we call vitamins. Then achieved new wonders by reproducing these individual vitamins in any quantity.

Now comes the biggest achievement of all! In "ALL-in-ONE" you get five vital vitamins all combined in ONE tiny tablet! No need to take one capsule to furnish one vitamin and other capsules to supply other separate vitamins. With "All-in-ONE", you fortify your nutritional needs as nature does—all essential vitamins are included in your diet. Each vitamin, you see, is necessary to make the other vitamins function properly.

"ALL-in-ONE" Tablets are the first vitamin source to offer you this convenience, effectiveness and economy because they are the first to use a special vegetable yeast as a medium to hold their potency. Further, they contain phosphorus, iron and calcium—three minerals essential to full health.

Simply take ONE tiny "ALL-in-ONE" Tablet at breakfast — another at dinner. A full month's supply of "ALL-in-ONE Tablets— at your drug store—costs only $2.15

U.S. PLANES HIT BERLIN IN DAYLIGHT

Russian Army 35 Miles Inside Poland

Nazis Hold Open Narrow Corridor Near Dnieper Bend

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 — (AP). — In the face of German counter-attacks, the Russians kept up their advances today in the western Ukraine and north and south of Sarney where the Red Army is pushing westward.

After cutting the north-south railroad through the Pripet Marshes at points seven miles to the north and south of Sarny, the Russians were just 75 miles short of being halfway between Kiev and Warsaw.

(The dispatch suggested that the Russians plunging through old Poland were by-passing Sarny, 35 miles inside the old frontier. Besides the troops north and south of the city, other Russians last were reported five miles east of Sarny.)

"On many sectors, offensive battles were assuming a more violent character," the army newspaper Red Star said, "the enemy has introduced new units to complete his defeated infantry and tank divisions."

Other Russian columns advancing toward Rumania increased their threat to the Odessa-Warsaw railroad.

In the upper Dnieper bend sector the Germans by hard fighting and heavy losses still were holding open their narrow escape corridor from the Smela-Kanev area where they were being squeezed between the first and second Ukraine armies. No Russian report suggested a German withdrawal, although the peril to the Nazis increased every hour.

The Nazis were mustering all available tank and infantry re-

Ciano Death Believed Start Of Purge

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

AT THE SWISS - ITALIAN FRONTIER, Jan. 12 — (AP). — Execution of Count Ciano and of four other members of the former Fascist grand council on charges of treason to the Mussolini government was viewed here today as part of a purge directed at all who opposed Italy's continuance as a partner of Germany.

The death sentences imposed on Benito Mussolini's son - in - law; Marshal Emilio De Bono and on other high Fascists put teeth in an announcement that provincial retary ,who voted to sustain Mussolied Northern Italy would start next Saturday.

One of the first to be brought before these courts is expected to be Carlo Scorza Fascist party secretary, who voted to sustaint Mussolini in the meeting of the grand council last July but is accused of failing to mobilize the party after Mussolini's arrest and also of having later offered his support to the Badoglio government. Scorza was reported under arrest at Rome.

The BBC said today that "75 prominent Fascists have been assassinated in Northern Italy by Italian patriots" in the last 10 days and "another wave of strikes is sweeping occupied Italy, the third outbreak in four weeks."

A dispatch to the Gazette De Lausanne said Italian reaction to the Verona trials was that they were another sign "of the depth to which Italy has fallen under German occupation," the ineffectiveness of the present Fascists, and the complete lack of power of Mussolini, who did not appear at the proceedings.

Most Italians it was held, believed to the last that the accused Fascists would not be put to death.

Ciano's execution yesterday was the first time in history that a member of the Annunciata—thereby a cousin of the king—had been put to death.

Nazis Advance Against Slavs

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A Yugoslav Army of Liberation communique said today a German tank column had driven to Jajce, 30 miles south of Banja Luka on the Vrbas river, and the Budapest radio asserted the Nazis had occupied the town, previously identified as headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), the Partisan leader.

German tank formations "succeeded in thrusting forward from Banja Luka to Mrkonjicgrad and Jajace," the bulletin added without saying whether they had been occupied, and fierce fighting is raging between the two towns.

Tito's communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, declared the Germans were throwing increasing weight into their new offensive against Central Bosnia, where Jajce lies nigh up in the Vrbas Valley.

German broadcasts claimed the seizure of Jajce three weeks ago.

Units of the Prince Eugen division attacking at Travnik, 20 miles southeast of Jajce, were repulsed by Partisan troops, Tito said, and in Eastern Bosnia, the German-held localities of Frebrencia and Vlasinyaka were captured.

Units of the second Yugoslav Brigade killed 30 Germans near Plevlja 55 miles southeast of Sarajevo, and captured much enemy war material on the Sanjak-Bosnia border, the communique reported.

(Allied planes were sighted over Croatia last night, a Hungarian News Agency broadcast recorded in New York by the U.S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service said. "Their objective," it said, "was to supply Partisans with arms and ammunition.")

EXTRA!

NEW YORK—The Tokyo radio said today several Allied bombers had attacked the vicinity of Takao on the western coast of Formosa last night.

LONDON—The Cairo radio said today that evacuation of Sofia, the much-bombed capital of Bulgaria, now is underway on a large scale.

Piraeus Port Hit Twice In Air Raids

Germans Withdraw From Cervaro Near Cassino Town

By JOSEPH DYNAN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Anglo-American 5th Army has seized more high ground in Italy, in its steady progress toward Cassino, key to the Rome highway, Allied Headquarters announced to-day

The German communique said the Nazis had been thrown out of Cervaro, fortified village four miles east southeast of Cassino on the Rome road "after hard fighting" and also lost a mountain top to the north-east.

Allied Headquarters did not immediately confirm the capture of Cervaro, but Allied troops have been reported in its immediate vicinity, closing in from the south and the north-east.

Cervaro was the last village outpost guarding Cassino.

The ground communique. saying the advance continued added that "some further high ground was seized. Enemy pockets of resistance were cleaned up and our front line straightened out."

Patrol Forced Back.

One German patrol crossed the Garigliano river southeast of Castelforte, Headquarters said, taking up positions in farm houses. But an Allied counter-attack dislodged the enemy and forced them back across the river.

Artillery duels and patrol activity marked both the 5th and 8th Army fronts.

In the air war Allied bombers struck a new day-and-night double blow into the Balkans, battering Pirasue, the port of Athens in Greece, in heavy force.

The one-two punch was started by four-engined American bombers in daylight, followed by R.A.F. Wellingtons swooping in at night. Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, was hammered Monday in the same kind of swift blows.

Crewmen declared many fires were started in the harbor area and a warehouse blew up. Bomber gunners downed five German fighters, and their fighter escorts bagged three more.

The Wellingtons hit about 10 p.m., starting at least nine large fires and touching off one huge explosion.

Eleven enemy planes were destroyed during widespread operations, and seven Allied aircraft are missing.

Allied bombers hit the railyards at Falconara northeast of Rome, and Fabriano in north central Italy, halting traffic in the Falconara yards at least temporarily, and blasting concentrations of rolling stock at Fabriano.

With a week's offensive behind it, the 5th Army today was within three miles of Cassino, key to the main highway leading to Rome, 70 miles away.

Fighting desperately, the Germans had slowed down but had not halted the advance of British and American troops as they drove toward the last prepared stronghold between them and the Eternal City.

American infantry stormed Mt. Di Piperia about 1,500 yards from the village of Cervaro, four miles east of Cassino.

Montreal Editor Heads Wartime Board

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Davidson Dunton of Montreal has been appointed general manager of the Wartime Information Board succeeding John Grierson who has resigned, it was announced from the Prime Minister's Office to-day.

Mr. Grierson will continue as Government Film Commissioner, a post he has held for some time and to which the duties of heading the Wartime Information Board were added about a year ago.

Mr. Dunton is editor of the Montreal Standard and has been on loan from his newspaper to the Government since the creation of the Information Board Recently he has been assistant general manager of the board.

Mr. King's announcement said Mr. Grierson will relinquish the post at the month-end but will continue. in close association with the board, as special adviser to the Government on information.

Mr. Grierson accepted appointment as general manager of W.I.B. in January, 1943, on the understanding he would be allowed to relinquish the post at the end of six months and return to active management of the Film Board. This arrangement was extended for another six months at the request of the Government.

In accepting Mr. Grierson's resignation, Mr. King expressed the Government's appreciation for his work on the Information Board.

Farmers Get Premiums On Top Hogs

Government Plan To Maintain High Production

OTTAWA, Jan. 12—(CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced today that the government will pay premiums to farmers on high-grade hogs at the rate of $3 for grade "A," or select hogs, and $2 for grade "B1."

Mr. Gardiner also announced that negotiations for a four-year bacon contract with Great Britain are in progress.

Mr. Gardiner said at a press conference that the present two-year bacon contract with the United Kingdom provided for the delivery of 900,000,000 pounds in two years, more than 500,000,000 pounds of which probably would be delivered in 1944.

The new premium payment authorized by the Dominion Government is expected to have the effect of maintaining high hog production in the later months of 1944 and into the future, with the prospect Canada will be able to continue supplying the United Kingdom with 500,000,000 pounds of bacon annually for as long as it is wanted.

Food Minister J. J. Lewellin of the United Kingdom said in an address here a month ago that more than 450,000,000 pounds of bacon annually was required from Canada to maintain the British four-ounce weekly ration.

Payment of the premiums was authorized by order-in-council yesterday.

Mr. Gardiner said that on the basis of the 1942 hog deliveries, the estimated cost of the premiums in a year would run from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

In approving the premium payment for top-quality animals, the government took the position that the proposed price for export bacon in 1944 and 1945 of $22.50 per 100 pounds at the Canadian seaboard could not be increased without endangering the present domestic price ceiling for pork.

The order said it was recommended that the minimum quantity Canada should undertake to supply annually during the calendar years 1944 and 1945 to the United Kingdom be 500,000,000 pounds.

Wants Help For 100,000 Veterans

TORONTO, Jan. 12.— (CP).— G. Marchison of the administrative staff of the Federal Government's Veterans' Land Act to-day outlined the purposes and scope of the statute in an address to the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

"The Act will fail in its purpose,' he said, "unless its benefits can be extended to 100,000 veterans in Canada, 20,000 to 30,000 of them in Ontario."

The operations of the Act, which gives veterans a credit for $6,000 to establish themselves on farm lands, were on a long-term basis and would not mature for 10 years after hostilities ceased.

Mr. Marchison said Ontario's problem was to rehabilitate more than 250,000 men and women from the province now serving in the forces Of these he estimated almost 30,000 were farmers.

Arrangements had been completed with Canadian manufacturers to commence delivery of new farm machinery in the spring of 1945, he said.

The Federation endorsed a resolution to study the question of farm credits and seek to have the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry investigate farm credit in the United States, Suburban Credit Unions, the Veterans' Land Act and the Soldier's Settlement Act.

Terrific Aerial Battle Rages Report Nazis Use New Defence

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 12 — (AP). — American heavy bombers roared over Berlin for the first time yesterday, German reports said to-day, setting off one of the greatest sky battles of all time in which the Nazis used "new tactics" and claimed to have shot down 136 planes, including 124 four-engined bombers. The main force of the 8th Air Force's armada, accompanied by new-type long-range fighters, struck at Magdeburg and Halberstadt 100 miles southwest of the capital while other heavyweights staged a diversionary raid on Berlin itself, the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet reported.

This manoeuvre, in daylight, was similar to that used by the R.A.F. recently—a night feint at Berlin while delivering a heavy blow at Leipzig.

Magdeburg is an important German railroad and arms centre.

More than 24 hours after the bombers returned—some of them badly crippled and carrying wounded—British bases of the U.S. Air Force still were computing results, preparatory to issuing an official communique on losses, claims and destructions.

The Germans admitted the loss of only nine planes.

Secret Weapon.

A special communique from the German high command, broadcast last night, also said 123 planes were shot down in yesterday's attack, but D.N.B. today raised this figure to 136. Meanwhile the Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau's Berlin correspondent said there was speculation that Nazi planes were equipped with a new secret device which improved their fighting effectiveness.

A preliminary U.S. announcement on the attack, unquestionably one of the greatest aerial battles of the war, said the bombers' escort included a new type of long-range fighter.

The Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet said part of yesterday's attack, at least, was directed against Magdeburg, important arms and railroad centre about 100 miles west of Berlin, and Halberstadt, in the same vicinity. The correspondent added that Fortresses flew across the outskirts of Berlin for the first time in attacking these places.

Aftonbladet said the American fliers feinted toward Berlin, and an alarm sounded there just before noon yesterday—the second time since the war's start that a real daylight warning has been given in Berlin. An "unimportant part" of the bombers swept over the outskirts of Berlin, and was met by anti-aircraft fire, while most of the planes turned south toward the main objectives, it added.

"No large damage was caused at

Feud Between Hungary And Rumania Grows Nazis Fear Open Clash As Reds Advance

CAIRO, Jan. 12 — (AP) — The feud between Hungary and Rumania over Transylvania is approaching a new crisis which might lead to a major armed clash between the two Hitler satellites, according to reliable information filtering out of the Balkans today.

(Rumania reluctantly bowed to German-Italian arbitration of her differences with Hungary in August, 1940. Hungary was awarded approximately half of Rumania's Transylvania territory which Hungary had lost after the First Great War.)

The Nazis were described as straddling the question and giving promises to both sides in an effort to maintain the status quo and to free more German troops during this critical period.

The word reaching official sources was that many Rumanians literally are "living from hour to hour" in fear of both the Germans and Russians. It was emphasized there have been no signs of organized resistance against the Germans but there are definite efforts to placate the Russians.

The ruling powers in Hungary, as well as in Rumania, are reported still clinging to the Germans because of the slow Allied gains in Italy and indications there will be no immediate Allied invasion of the Balkans.

Padre Praises Canadians Defeated Top Nazi Legions

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 12—(CP Cable).—Fundamental qualities of Canada's soldiers as fighters and as men came to the fore in the Moro valley battle, which ended December 27 when Western troops of the Canadian 1st Division drove the Germans from the Adriatic coastal town of Ortona.

Stacked against the cream of the German army on ground which favored defence, the Canadians outfought and outlasted the enemy.

They have been praised by their commanders and now praise of another sort—for their courage—has come from a man who probably is even closer to the troops than their commanders.

This praise came from the padre of one of the battalions which captured Ortona, Maj. Roy Durnford of Prince Rupert, B.C., and was expressed in a simple sentence: "It has been wonderful to see."

"Although we met the cream of

Stewart Named House Speaker

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP).—Premier Drew announced today that W. J. Stewart, Progressive-Conservative member for Toronto Parkdale, will be appointed Speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Drew's statement said: "Mr. Stewart will bring to this highly responsible position great administrative experience acquired over many years as a member of the Toronto City Council and the Ontario Legislature.

"While Mayor of Toronto for four years he showed great judgment and tact in presiding over public meetings of council and over various committees connected with its work. Since then he has acted with great ability and distinction as chairman of other important committees, particularly the committee which dealt with the location of a new military hospital in Toronto a short time ago.

"Few speakers in the history of Ontario have come to that high office with such valuable experience in presiding over important public deliberations."

Tony Golab Safe Wife Advised

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP)—Wounded in both arms and both legs, FO. Anthony (Tony) Golab, former Ottawa football star, has returned safely to his Mediterranean base after being missing in air action over Italy, his wife here was notified officially today.

Mrs. Golab had been advised two days ago that her husband was missing on active service after air operations.

Golab, who starred for several seasons with Ottawa Rough Riders, was born in Windsor, Ont., and played for Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union before joining Rough Riders in 1939.

He played with Riders on three Eastern Canadian championship teams and in 1941 was named winner of the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy, awarded annually to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union player chosen the most sportsmanlike and most valuable to his team.

In the same year he was named "Athlete of the Year' in The Canadian Press Sports Poll. He enlisted in 1941.

2 Firemen Hurt As Church Burns

TORONTO, Jan. 12 —(CP)—Two firemen were injured and six others showered with falling plaster from a collapsing ceiling as a $60,000 fire swept through Grace United Church and Sunday School at College and Sheridan streets in western Toronto early today.

Assistant Deputy Chief Peter Herd was taken to hospital with bruises on the right eye and forehead suffered when he was hit by a section of the falling ceiling. Fireman Samuel Armstrong was also treated in hospital for a cut in the right foot when he stepped on a six-inch spike.

More than 100 firemen fought the two-alarm blaze which ruined the interiors of the church and adjoining Sunday School. Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

No Signs of Collapse in German Army

Hitler Believes He Can Successfully Withdraw Armies In Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

While expectation of imminent wholesale Nazi collapse on the Russian front is unwarranted at this time, it is a fact they are laboring under such terrific Red pressure that both German and Allied high commands are bound to consider the contingency of disaster overtaking the invaders.

That does not necessarily mean that either command expects such a debacle. However, they can't over look the axiom that potential catastrophe always hangs on the flanks of armies retreating under a heavy attack.

A point of vast importance to both sides is that the Russo-German struggle and the projected Allied invasion of France are in considerable degree, interdependent. Should the Germans crack in Russia, it might result in a speeding up of Allied plans for invasion, to take advantage of Nazi weakness.

Presumably a disaster in Russia would force Hitler to withdraw troops from Western Europe to defend his eastern frontier. Today's reports show Hitler rushing all his available reserves into battle in the Ukraine theatre in an effort to halt the Red onslaught. Should he have to deplete his forces in France obviously the invasion across the English Channel would be simplified.

The Red tactics are resulting in the development of the dangerous drive directly west into pre-war Poland, and further, south we have the turning movement that has brought the Russians within a score of miles of the Warsaw to Odessa railroad upon which the Nazis depend so heavily. In this southern sector, the Hitlerites are threatened with being forced to retreat into Rumania, thereby opening the way for a Russian drive through to the German border and making it exceedingly difficult to move the Nazis back to the Reich from Rumania.

Despite all these potentialties, Hitler undoubtedly still is figuring on being able to pull the bulk of his eastern forces back to his own border for a final stand. And he may be able to do so.

Elephant Stampedes Japs

Draws Enemy Fire Showing Positions

NEW DELHI, Jan. 12. — (CP-Reuters).—A wild elephant, which crashed through the Burma jungle when disturbed by a night patrol and drew Japanese fire that betrayed enemy positions, played a part in the British advance through the important village of Maungdaw, northwest along the coast from Akyab. The elephant escaped unhurt

British troops now are in contact with the Japanese southeast of Maungdaw where light machine-gun fire is being encountered from the village of Kanyindan.

Meantime, the hitherto anonymous British force in Burma has been identified as the 14th Army by Prime Minister Churchill in a letter to "S.E.A.C.," new daily newspaper of the Southeast Asia Command.

"I know that with confidence in their commander and comprehension of the great issues which lie in their hands, they will acquit themselves with the audacity, valor and resourcefulness which our country and common cause now need," the Prime Minister added.

McCarthy Presents Credentials To F.D.R.

C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 —(CP)—Hon. Leighton McCarthy today presented to President Roosevelt his credentials naming him Canada's first ambassador to the United States.

The ceremony was shorn of all traditional formality as the two old friends met in the president's White House office shortly before noon.

Mr. Roosevelt received the letters by which the King asked him to accept Mr. McCarthy as ambassador and to accord him the rights and prerogatives of that office.

Dewey, Willkie, Contenders

Poll Of Members Reveals 2 In Lead

By JAN HARTNETT and WILLIAM J. CONWAY
(Copyright, 1944, by The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 —(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell Willkie topped possible contenders for the Republican United States presidential nomination today in a poll taken among members of the party's national committee.

The test of sentiment also disclosed that a large number had not yet decided which candidate they would prefer.

Tabulation of the survey made by the Associated Press during the committee's meeting here Monday and Tuesday showed these results:—

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York 21; Wendell Willkie 21; Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio 5; Lt.-Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen 4; Senator Robert Taft of Ohio 2; Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois 2; Gov. Earl Warren of California 2; General Douglas MacArthur 1; Dewey or Willkie 1.

The poll also brought out that 23 still were open-minded on the subject.

350 Delegates Attend Federation Meet

TORONTO, Jan. 12 (CP)—More than 350 delegates representing most Ontario Counties today will hear discussion of post-war agricultural reconstruction at the closing session of the eighth annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. The convention started yesterdayq.

Last night Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, announced legislature to give the government authority to assume control of Union Stockyards in Toronto.

A Commission, established by the government, would operate and administer them "for the benefit of the farmers of Ontario," the Minister said in a speech read to the meeting by M. McIntyre Hood, secretary of the Ontario Agriculture Commission of Inquiry. Col. Kennedy, ill with a cold for more than a week, did not attend.

A government spokesman later said the question of prices to be paid present shareholders of the Stockyards, some of them representing United States interests, will be determined by arbitration.

Another Bill under consideration by the government was to authorize and make plans for construction of a terminal warehouse for fruit and vegetables in Toronto.

"We are going to decentralize the work of the Provincial Department of Agriculture," he said. Thus the farmers would participate in the forming of Ontario's agricultural policies. Under the plan, agriculture policies would start in different parts of the province and then would be presented to the department for approval.

Markets must be found for surplus farm products and an office already rented in London would be headquarters for marketing surplus Ontario produce in Europe. A similar system of marketing would be established across Canada.

Assessors Plan To Meet In City

Assessors of six counties have been invited to a meeting at the Court House Friday of No. 5 district of the assessing officers of Ontario, an extension into this area of the expanding activities and interests of the Provincial Association of Municipal Assessors.

George D. Scott of New Toronto, provincial president, is expected to attend, and Max R. Sloan, district director, will be chairman. The invitation has gone out to assessors, members of municipal councils, clerks and treasurers of the counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough.

The conference will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue throughout the day. The program includes an address of welcome by Mayor Hamilton, and papers on problems and phases of assessment.

H. R. Townsend, assessor of Campbellford, will discuss the subject of problems of assessing in a small urban municipality; Reg. Hunter, assessor of North Monaghan, has been assigned the subject, "Problems of Assessing in a Mixed Urban and Rural Municipality"; and William Telford, assessor of Smith Township, has two topics, "Assessing a Rural Municipality" and "Assessing Summer Cottages."

W. J. Henry, assessor of Peterborough, will conduct a round table discussion on such details of assessment as "The question of values today," "The use of field cards and zone maps," and so on. There will also be a question box and a place on the program for resolutions.

More Mental Cases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP).—A congressional move was launched yesterday to care for cases of mental derangement reported increasing among the large number of women government workers living or employed in the "Pentagon area" across the Potomac River from Washington.

Licenses Jan. 24

TORONTO, Jan. 12—(CP). —Highways Minister George Doucett announced yesterday that owing to unavoidable delays in obtaining supplies, 1944 motor vehicle permits and drivers' licenses will not be available to the public until January 24. In the meantime the term of 1943 licenses and permits has been extended to make them valid until those for 1944 are ready.

SCENE OF INVASION REPORTS—The British First and the U.S. Seventh Armies have begun invasions of Yugoslavia at several points, according to reports, and this map indicates the areas at which landing blows may have been struck. At Bari, the much-discussed Gen. Patton and Britain's Lieut.Gen-. Anderson have been reported gathering large forces, which they will individually command. The bomb bursts point to areas where Gen. Tito's Partisans are engaged in heavy fighting and where Allied bombers from Foggia have been striking. In Italy, the battle line is shown.

OBITUARIES

MRS. THOMAS BANNON

HIAWATHA, Jan. 12.—(ENS). — Word was received here recently of the death at her winter home in Akron, Ohio, of Mrs. Thomas Bannon, who with her husband has been a regular visitor to this community every summer for nearly 20 years. Taken ill on Christmas Day, she died one week ago.

Mrs. Bannon was well known in the community. She took an active interest in church affairs, and was deeply concerned in the welfare of the Indians of the reservation. She helped them in their problems, ministered to their needs and often paid visits to them when any of their number was sick in hospital. A member of the sewing circle, she was a diligent worker for the Red Cross.

A special service honoring the memory of Mrs. Bannon will be held on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the United Church of Hiawatha, and her many friends in the district have been invited to attend.

WILLIAM ARTHUR MARTIN.

The death of William Arthur Martin of Cameron street, North Monaghan, occurred Tuesday following an illness of three weeks. He was 62 years of age.

Born in Raglan, Ont., the son of the late Sampson Martin and Suzanne Lake, he had resided formerly in Seagrave before coming to Peterborough 31 years ago. He was a sawyer. His wife, Lillian Foster, predeceased him.

Three sons, Pte. George Martin, overseas, Arthur of Peterborough, and Wilbert of Toronto, survive him. There are also three sisters, Mrs. A. Tripp and Mrs. H. Killingbeck of Peterborough, and Mrs. G. Stone of Fort Parry; while two brothers, George and Preston, both live in the city.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, with service conducted by Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United church. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

Pioneer's Daughter Mrs. M. Halpin Dies

Mrs. Mary Halpin, a life-long resident of Peterborough whose grandparents were one of the first families to settle in the area of Lindsay, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday night after an illness of six weeks. She was in her 86th year.

Mrs. Halpin, who was born in Peterborough the daughter of the late Martin Nolan and Margaret Cranley, made her home at 211½ Hunter street west, where she had lived for more than 50 years. A member of St. Peter's Cathedral and of the Altar Society, she belonged to the Catholic Women's League. Her husband, John Halpin, predeceased her in 1916.

It was Mrs. Halpin's grandfather, who, coming to the Lindsay district well over 100 years ago, purchased 1,000 acres of land paying for it in gold sovereigns and settled down with his family as one of the pioneers of that district. Today the land that comprised his farming property has been parceled out among different families, some of it still remaining in the hands of the original owner's descendants.

Mrs. Halpin leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and three sons: Mrs. C. B. Elmhirst, Indian River; Mrs. T. F. Clancy, Hamilton; Maud, Toronto; George of Detroit; Harry of Weston; and Grover at home. Two sisters, Mrs. Emma Kenneally of Hudson, Ont., and Mrs. Ellen O'-Brien of San Francisco, also survive.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 9 a.m. from St. Peter's Cathedral, followed by interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Allies Dominate Huon Peninsula

ALLIED HEADUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 12—(AP)—Complete control of the Huon peninsula on northeast New Guinea is in sight for the Allies today. Australians defeated the Japanese in a tank and artillery action there which ended with the victors crossing the Bupi river on the coast.

The Japanese, finding their position more and more untenable as the Australians force them up the coast toward American invasion troops at Saidor, staunchly resisted but finally left their dead on the field.

Allied headquarters' communique reporting the Australian victory also told of Allied air action against enemy barges and supply points along the New Guinea coast. Many barges, some bearing troops which the Japanese may be attempting to evacuate from the Allied nutcracker, have been destroyed recently.

Allied bombers visited the Bogadjim area, the communique said, dumping 76 tons of explosives on supply dumps and destroying eight bridges on the highway that leads to Madang.

United States Marines smashed back two Japanese counter-attacks south of Borgen Bay in northwestern New Britain and advanced slightly in their fight for Hill 660, important height in the Cape Gloucester area. Allied heavy bombers helped with smashing attacks on enemy defence positions.

"In order to maintain production of a sufficient volume of hogs of a quality suitable to meet such requirements until the end of the war and to encourage the channelling of such hogs through inspected plants where their product would be available for export to the United Kingdom, a premium of $3 a head on 'A' grade carcasses and $2 a head on the 'B' grade carcasses be paid when such hogs are delivered for slaughter at inspected plants or at other, approved establishments, until six months after the conclusion of the war in Europe," the approved order recommended.

Mr. Gardiner said on October 22 he announced a new contract for a minimum of 450,000,000 pounds of bacon for Britain in 1944. There was no such arrangement. His announcement had said that the contract was for 900,000,000 pounds for two years.

The suggestion that Canadian hog production might be dropping off in the latter part of 1944 had raised some concern in the United Kingdom that supplies might be low at the end of this year and in 1945. This has led to discussions of the long-term contract. If the contract were extended to four years, "this should encourage the farmers to produce for an assured market," the minister said.

Booth Found Guilty Drunk Driving

Ten days imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Leslie Booth, Waterford street, after he had found Booth guilty on a charge of drunken driving.

As the car the accused was driving at the time of the accident was not his property there was no order for its impounding.

Another charge of careless driving was dismissed when the crown offered no evidence, but Booth pleaded guilty to driving without a license and on that count was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Hearing of the drunken driving case took most of the morning. Booth was defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

The charge arose out of a traffic accident at Romaine and Park streets shortly after 6 o'clock on the evening of December 14 in which four cars were eventually involved.

Joseph Blodgett, 388 London street was driving north on Park street, according to the evidence and arrived at the Romaine street intersection just as Booth driving a car west on Romaine street reached the crossing. There was a collision and after the crash Blodgett's car slid across the west side of the road and collided with a south-bound machine, driven by H. S. Gledhill. Later another car driven by George Royea was involved.

The three other drivers were called by the crown, Blodgett and Gledhill said they did not notice anything particular about Booth's condition at the scene of the accident but Gledhill stated that at the police station afterward he had seen evidences that the accused had been drinking.

Joseph Collins gave similar evidence.

Constables John Morrow and Ernest Beatty who investigated the accident, and Inspector James F. Reid and Constable John Stevenson who saw the accused at the police station later all swore positively that Booth was drunk. Constable Morrow said that the accused was "very drunk" at the scene of the accident and "staggered all over the road."

Alex McKay, Toronto, said that he had lent his car to Booth an hour before the accident so that the accused could pick up a pay check. McKay said that previous to that he had met Booth in the Champlain Hotel and had had one drink of beer with him. Accused was sober, witness said, when he took his car.

Booth in the witness box swore that the drink of beer he had had with McKay was the only intoxicating dring he had had that day and that he was suffering from shock after the accident. He said that he was nervous and shaky as the result of the collision.

To Mr. McElderry Booth admitted that he had been convicted on a reckless driving charge 16 years ago and that he had interviewed most of the civilian witnesses called by the crown before the case was heard.

In his argument Mr. Gordon said that the conditions mentioned by the police officer could just as consistently have been the result of shock.

Magistrate Langley, in his judgment said that on all the evidence he was convinced that Booth was drunk when he was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Mickey MacDonald Refused Bail

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — (CP).—Donald (Mickey) MacDonald, 37, charged with armed robbery in connection with the Dec. 13 theft of 600 cases of liquor valued at $35,000, was again refused bail yesterday, with several others held for the theft, when he appeared before Magistrate R. J. Browne. The men were remanded until Jan. 19 without plea or election.

Others charged are Wm. Baskett, Bendetta Zenella, Sam Marcuso and Edwin MacDonald, with bail of $15,000 each. James Shorting, held on a charge of receiving, was released on bail of $10,000.

V. Taylor and Max Applebaum, charged with vagrancy in connection with the case, were allowed bail of $500, while E. Pecchia, also held on a vagrancy charge, was remanded until Jan. 19 on $300 bail. H. Wilkinson, held as a material witness, was allowed to go on his own bail.

any of these places," Aftonbladet asserted.

A preliminary U.S. communique issued last night said merely targets in northwest Germany had been attacked and that "strong fighter opposition" was encountered. This announcement gave no figures on plane losses, but a supplementary statement said the mission had turned into a three-hour running sky battle to and from the target.

"The Germans threw in virtually every type of aircraft that could give battle to the bombers and their assault was vicious and determined," the statement said.

The German claim that 123 Allied planes had been knocked down was identical with that made after the raid on Schweinfurt last October 14 when the 8th Air Force officially acknowledged the loss of 60 planes—the greatest loss suffered by American fliers in any attack upon the continent to date.

Yesterday's raid was the fourth big American assault on Germany during 1944 and the first since last Friday, when the Germans reported Ludwigshafen and Mannheim had been hit.

the German army our fellows faced the biggest noises the Germans could put up and did it well," he said. "Those lads fought with all the guts in the world."

The padre sat in his office in Ortona and talked of the men for whom he has phrased the motto, "Fear the Lord and dig deep."

He told of Christmas Day in Ortona.

Ate In Church.

The town was a battlefront with every house a citadel. The Canadians and Germans fought from house to house, even from room to room. The spirit of Christmas, however, was kept alive.

The church, which had been holed by shells, was converted "to provide food for the body as well as the spirit." The Germans were only a few hundred yards away, but from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. the Canadian companies were relieved and brought back for Christmas dinner.

"When the men came from the line I gave them a chance to sing carols," the padre said. "Our signal officer, Lieut. Wilfred Gildersleeve of Vancouver, played the organ.

"We put a harmonium out in the cloisters only a few yards from a hole where a shell revealed the sepulchre with its bones. Here the men collected to wait their turn to go inside to eat.

"The men were bearded, haggard, drawn and scarred but one by one they began to sing to the accompaniment of the crump of shells which shook the walls. Gradually their spirits rose, the tenseness left them and they relaxed.

"'What will we sing boys?' I would ask them."

"'Hark the Herald Angels Sing,' they would reply, and then there would be the crump of a shell.

"'It's all right boys, it's our own' I would tell them.

"Someone would suggest 'Silent Night' and another shell would crash nearby.

"After a period of carol singing, the men went in for the meal where they sat down at tables covered with white cloths. The high altar was littered with provisions, and, although this might appear sacrilegious, it was nonetheless a sacrament even though it was tins of bully beef....

"As each man ended, the men were asked to leave as quickly as possible to make room for the next group. They left with hesitation and reluctance, knowing full well they were going back to face death itself. For some of those boys that dinner was their last."

The padre said some of these soldiers were "tough, hard-bitten boys who have always looked askance at religion."

"All that is fundamental comes up in men in times like these. Many of them told me they said their prayers for the first time, and last Saturday the boys asked me if I would take a church parade for them. That never happened before.

"It has been wonderful to see. These boys have been frightened, yet despite their fear, they have gone back into the line. It takes courage to do that."

Roosevelt Edict Splits Congress

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP).—President Roosevelt's request for enactment of national service legislation — under which the services of all men in the United States from 18 to 65 and all women from 18 to 50, with certain exceptions, would be subject to Government call — split Congress to-day and foreshadowed one of the most bitter fights of this election year.

A cross-section of sentiment in both Senate and House of Representatives indicated it would be touch-and-go whether the Presiserves in an effort to stem the Russian advance, Red Star dispatches said, and fighting all along the front was assuming a more violent character. At no point, however, the dispatches added, was the enemy able to stop the Soviet drive.

Tank Battle Rages.

Furious tank charges against the troops of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin approaching the Odessa-Warsaw railway were beaten back, Red Star said, with guerilla detachments lending valuable aid to the Soviet regulars. The Germans were also reported launching fierce counter-assaults south and south-west of Berdichev, but these, too, were smashed, Red Star added.

From inside the Dnieper Bend where huge concentrations of German troops face encirclement by the forces led by Vatutin and Gen. Ivan S. Konev, enemy resistance also was increasing, Red Star reported.

These German counter-attacks were not surprising, it was pointed out, as there have been recurring reports of heavy German reinforcements being pushed to the front as the situation became more and more dangerous.

The Nazis, it was said, must continue their resistance, no matter what the cost, in order to avoid a major calamity not only in the Dnieper Bend but as far west as Odessa.

With sixteen ladies' rinks entered from Toronto Granites, Toronto High Park, Bobcaygeon, Lakefield and Peterborough, play commenced at 9.45 o'clock this morning for the Warne Trophy.

The little cold dip on Tuesday night made the ice somewhat better than it has been for the last day or two, but at that the lady curlers who are used to fast artificial ice found the going somewhat heavy.

In opening the bonspiel Mrs. Reg. Turner, president of the Ladies' Curling Club, welcomed all and expressed the hope that they would enjoy their games and their stay in Peterborough.

Mrs. G. Wood, bonspiel convener, read the rules of the contest, and all the curlers went out on the ice, each hoping and expecting to win the trophy.

At the half-way mark in the first round all Peterborough rinks were leading.

300 Christmas Parcels Required Repairing

There is plenty of room for improvement in packaging parcels for men in the armed services, the post office department states, revealing that during the last week of December 300 parcels required repair at the hands of the "parcel hospital" staff of the base post office. The same week in 1942, there was a total of 416 packages that had to be put in shape before continuing their onward journey.

The post office says that plain common sense is the basic element that should govern the public in packaging their gifts for servicemen and women in far-off places. Consideration should be given to the length of the journey and the season of the year, the heat and pressure of thousands of bags of mail in the holds of ships, and any number of other possible sources of tragedy for insecurely packaged gifts.

Honey, caramel spread and jam in waxed containers, glass bottles and tins with push-on lids still keep the staff at the base pos toffice busy, despite warnings that such substances should be mailed in tins with lids soldered on all the way around, and the tins surrounded in absorbent material; and that glass should never be sent in the mails. Flattened parcels are being removed for repacking and repair because many persons still insist on packing gifts in frail cardboard boxes, including shoe boxes, instead of in corrugated containers.

Credit Union Re-elects A. B. Burrows

The Peterborough (W.E.A.) Credit Union Ltd. held its annual meeting on Monday, Jan. 10 with a large proportion of its 84 members present. The review of its 1943 activities revealed decided progress, both in membership and assets. A. B. Burrows, president, was in the chair. In his address he spoke of his appreciation of the excellent support received from the members of the supervisory and credit committees and especially commended the faithful and hard working service of the secretary-treasurer, A. E. Borland, who has been a most valued officer since the Peterborough Credit Union was formed in 1940. The financial report given by G. Snowden, chairman of the Supervisory Committee showed considerable increase in assets, which now amount to $2,777.56, with $550 00 invested in Victory Bonds and the Ontario Credit Union League. These investments were increased by an additional $400.00 voted later in the meeting. A substantial cash balance remains in the bank. The Credit committee which supervises loans to members under Chairman Gordon Powell, reported loans granted during 1943 of $3,030.00. The purpose for which these loans were made were as follows: for hospital expenses 4 loans, fuel 12, building alterations 4, war bonds 1, municipal taxes 3, income tax 3, university expenses 1, business investment 3, investment in credit union 1, purchase of furniture 2, miscellaneous 6. All loans are insured against loss by death or total disability.

The election of officers resulted as follows: A. B. Burrows, H. Helson and A. E. Borland were elected to the Board of Directors for a further term of three years, H. Frost for two years and F. H. Merritt, one year. W. R. Townsend was re-elected to the chairmanship of education committee for 1944 and G. Powell to the credit committee.

CONTINENTAL LIFE

The Continental Life Insurance Company in its annual report for 1943, shows a year of well-balanced progress. While maintaining as the first essential duty its service to Policyholders, the Company, through the extra efforts of its loyal but reduced wartime staffs, made substantial gains in premium and other income, in assets, and increased its business in force by 9.35%. Payments during the year to Policyholders were again greater, and the amount set aside for future payment to Policyholders and Beneficiaries was the largest in the history of the Company.

Consistent Progress — Business in force December 31, 1943 $54,697,083.
Efficient Service — Payments to Policyholders during 1943 $754,328.39.
Sound Growth — Total Assets December 31, 1943 $12,803,307.49.
Adequate Provision — Policy and Annuity Reserves, Dec. 31, 1943 $10,901,175.00.

The Continental Life Insurance Company is a purely Canadian Company, whose Representatives are skilled in Life Insurance Service. Highly qualified Branch Managers conduct the training and direction of carefully selected Agents. The continued sound progress of the Company is the result of the fullest co-operation of all within the organization—Directors, Management, Field Force and Office Staffs.

Farmers Laud Taking Over Of Stockyards

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — Applause from members of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture greeted the announcement last night the Ontario Government intended to take over the Union Stockyards in West Toronto, and operate them as a public utility. The announcement was made at convention dinner of the Federation at the King Edward Hotel by M. McIntyre Hood on behalf of Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy.

"I think it is a wise move and one that will be greatly appreciated by the farmers of Ontario," said V. S. Milburn, Toronto, secretary of the Federation.

"It would appear the Government has other things in view," said R. J. Scott, president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Association and one of the leaders of farm movements in the Province. "I would prefer to wait and see what other items of policy will be before saying much about it. The mere taking over of the physical assets of the stockyards is not important for after all, stockyards are merely hotels for cattle, and a change in the ownership of a hotel is relatively unimportant — it is what happens afterwards that counts."

Alex McKinney, Jr., president of the Federation, had "no comment" at present.

"More Competition"

Charles Firth, member of the Dufferin Federation of Agriculture said at Shelburne: "The Toronto market has never been as good as when it was an open market. The change should make more competition."

"It appears to be a good move and should prove a saving to the producer" commented Robinson Dynes, former reeve of Melancthon township and a large producer of hogs. "There no longer will be a profit-making motive, and this should be an improvement through elimination of the middle man."

First Trial Set For 2 Gunmen

COBOURG, Jan. 12 — (ENS) — Jerry Semowonyk of Oshawa and Pte. Walter Moscall of Toronto were charged yesterday with shooting with attempt to kill Constable William Thompson and Robert Duncan of Bowmanville. They were remanded until January 18. On a charge of theft of tires from Ira Lorie on Dec. 30 at Darlington township, they were given a further remand of one week. Mike Cembal of Oshawa was released on bail last week to January 18 on the tire theft charge. No further charge has been read against him.

Semowonyk, Moscall and Cembal were questioned last week in connection with the attempted robbery of Cobourg liquor store on December 31 when three men exchanged shots with Constable Roy Doherty of Cobourg, and were also questioned in regard to the robbery the same day of a service station in Port Hope but so far no charges have been laid in those two instances. However the license number on the stolen car used in the liquor store break-in was the same as on the car which Constables Thompson and Duncan chased near Oshawa the morning of the liquor store and service station break-ins. Three men were in the car pursued by the two police officers and they blazed away at the police car with a shotgun.

The three charged, were arrested on January 2 near Oshawa when they returned to a spot where stolen goods had been cached.

Bar Association Meets

COBOURG, Jan. 12.—(ENS). — Northumberland and Durham Bar Association held a business meeting Tuesday night at which they were addressed by Charles Hamilton, General Trusts and Guarantee Co., Toronto. Mr. Hamilton spoke on trust companies and their value in regard to estates. T. Clive Hamilton, of Brighton, was chairman.

Wilson Chairman For Utilities

COBOURG, Jan. 12—(ENS)—Cecil Wilson, newly-elected commissioner, was appointed chairman of the Cobourg Public Utilities Commission at its meeting Tuesday night. He was appointed by resolution moved by Mayor Jack Burnet and seconded by Commissioner Jack Delanty. Mr. Wilson protested that as he was a new member the chairmanship should go to someone else but the mover and seconder of the motion of appointment insisted on the resolution remaining unchanged.

A letter from the O.M.E.A. suggested in order that the post war committee of the association would have something to deal with at their general meeting on January 19 in Toronto, Cobourg Public Utilities Commission should have a written brief or oral representation ready as soon as possible. The committee is considering the flattening of the rates paid for hydro by the municipalities.

Commissioner Delanty said that the whole commission should attend the committee meeting and Mayor Burnet declared that as many of the commission as wanted to could attend but that the manager would really have to do all the talking.

Another letter from the O.M.E.A. notified the commission of the annual meeting to be held at Toronto on February 8 and 9. It was also pointed out at the meeting last night that a new floor was to be constructed at the pump house replacing the present slippery brick floor.

Accounts passed for the electrical department totalled $140.84 and for the water department $10. Prepaid accounts in the electric department amounted to $518.74 and in the water department, $16.83.

Golden Rule Lodge Has Installation

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12. — (ENS).— Members of Golden Rule Lodge, A.F. & A.M. enjoyed a pleasant social evening Monday following the installation of officers for the year 1944. The installation was conducted by F. C. Bonnycastle, with O. C. Watson director of ceremonies. Officers for the ensuing year were as follows: I.P.M., Hilton Beatty; W.M., F. E. Heagle; S.W., Russell Melville; J.W., A. C. Connor; Chaplain, N. Hardy; Treasurer, L. B. Glover; Secretary, F C. Bonnycastle; S.D., R. P. Seymour; J.D., T. Gillibrand; D. of C., O. C. Watson; Organist, Albert Hazell; S. S., S. Hopping; J.S., W. H. Brady; I.G., Alfred Potts; Tyler, H. J. Taylor.

At the conclusion of the installation refreshments were served and the officers and others spoke briefly on Freemasonry.

Odd Christmas In Britain For Canadians

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 12 —(CP). — It was Christmas Eve and midnight and Piccadilly Circus. And it was the same Piccadilly Circus of four nights ago or eight nights ago or more.

The sounds of the night were Piccadilly's sounds, of soldiers who made passes at girls and girls who made passes at soldiers, of that grey, elusive spell which broods through the Piccadilly blackout and is broken by the nails of soldier's boots or the words of soldiers' songs.

But their songs this eve were not the songs of Christmas and there was no snow and no bells and little mistletoe. It was a strange Christmas Eve.

It was strange at the bar of the Overseas League where people from the United States and Canada and South America and India stood and drank and said "Merry Christmas" in a very sober and a listless sort of way.

It was strange at the Brown Derby where the negro band tried hard and two Canadian airmen tried harder but could not make it Christmas.

It was a strange Christmas night too, at the Churchill Club, that newest and best of clubs for the forces, where they have a bar that is as good as there is in tc.n and hostesses who come from some of the best of English families.

It was strange, too, at an American Red Cross club where doughboys marshalled about a beaten old piano and bellowed carols that got less and less like carols until everything was swing and that was all.

A doughboy from near Pittsburgh came over and bought a round of cokes. He talked with a shy grin and his fingers drummed slowly up and down the bottle.

He figured this would be his last leave in London for a time, the soldier from near Pittsburgh said, because he was in the infantry and the infantry would soon be busy a few miles farther on from Pittsburgh.

He didn't know when the shooting would start but he hoped it started soon because the sooner it started the quicker it would end and he could go home again.

Maybe that was the way most folks felt in London this strange Christmas of 1943.

Young People Unite For Joint Meeting

HASTINGS, Jan. 12 —(ENS)— the Young People of St. Andrew's Trinity United Church met on Monday evening in the basement of St. George's Anglican Church to hold their regular January meeting.

A few remarks were given by the Presidents of the other two societies, Program was as follows, Readings by Gladys Hazelwood, Irene McGrayne, Mrs. Jack Taylor, and Mrs. Lennox. Musical numbers by Jack Taylor, Robert Glass and Geoffry Hall. Mr. Lennox gave three different movie pictures which were both enteresting and educational. Mrs. Lennox had charge of the Recreation which brought the evening to a close.

Obituary

WILLIAM R. MATHER.

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — One-time Reeve of Stirling, Ont., and Warden of Hastings County, William Rannie Mather, 86, died on Monday at his home, 31 Northcliffe Boulevard. He had been a resident of Toronto for 25 years.

Born near Campbellford, Ont., Mr. Mather was the son of the late James and Esteth Rannie Mather, Scottish pioneers who settled the communities of Burnbrae and Menie, Seymour Township. Mr. Mather was a resident for some years of Stirling, where he was proprietor of a general merchandise store. He served several times as Reeve of Stirling He had retired from business for a few years.

Surviving are his widow, Effie Meiklejohn Mather; a daughter, Helen of Kalamazoo, Mich., two sons Kenneth and Douglas, both of Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. James Hume and Mrs. Mary Shaw, both of Campbellford.

JOHN R. FORSTER

COBOURG, Jan. 12—(ENS)—Lifelong resident of Cobourg, John R. Forster was buried this afternoon in St. Peter's Anglican Cemetery. Rev. H. R. Deering conducted the service. Pall-bearers were his four sons and two sons-in-law.

Mr. Forster died suddenly on Monday at the age of 69 years. The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Forster, he was born in Cobourg and except for twelve years spent in Buffalo, N.Y. he had resided in Cobourg all his life. Employed by the C.N.R. he retired from the service in 1930. He was a member of St. John's Lodge, A. F. & A.M. and his funeral was held under Masonic auspices.

He was married twice, his first wife dying in 1926. His present wife, Grace Niles, he married in 1928. Survivors are five sons, William of New York; George, overseas; James and Fred of Toronto and Frank with the R.C.A.F. There are two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Barker of Cobourg and Mrs. Roy Harwood of Port Hope.

MAYORESS DIES

MANCHESTER, Eng., (CP). — Five weeks after concluding a year's service as Lady Mayoress of this city, Mrs. Catherine Hill died here.

END OF A NAZI SUB—A terrific depth charge breaks the water into a fountain of spray as it explodes on the port side of a Nazi submarine spotted in the Atlantic and sunk after a five-and-one-half hour battle by five Allied planes recently. Note the white line of small splashes marking strafing from the navy Liberator as it pulled away from its victim. The sub eventually exploded.

Plan Subsidy For Fertilizers

OTTAWA, Jan. 12—(CP)—Transportation subsidies will be payable on commercial fertilizer for use on all essential field, orchard or garden crops in the five eastern provinces and British Columbia, the Agricultural Supplies Board Fertilizers Administration announced today.

Last year, the subsidies were payable only on feed crops.

Purpose of the authorizing order-in-council is to see that fertilizers will cost approximately the same in various parts of Canada and this is achieved by subsidizing all transportation costs above $1 a ton, the administration said.

Total subsidies are estimated at $725,000 in 1944, about the same amount as in 1943.

The change to freight assistance was considered necessary because other groups of crops have become as essential to the war effort as the feed crops.

"The principal point for farmers to remember is that they should insist on not being charged by any distributor for the fertilizer more than $1 a ton above the f.o.b. factory ceiling price established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board," said an official.

Seymour Council Discusses Post War Plans

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12 (ENS) —The township of Seymour at the inaugural meeting of the council on Monday, discussed post-war planning. The matter arose following a communication from the Department of Highways suggesting the possibility of a County Road being constructed from Petherick's Corners, six miles north of here, to link with No. 7 highway. This and the suggestion of a Township Hall to be built in Campbellford gave the first indication that Seymour was considering any post-war project.

Rev. J. O. Ralston briefly addressed members and Reeve William Rowe in his inaugural address expressed the wish that the same harmony as prevailed during the past year would maintain during 1944. Township Clerk Wesley Stephens administered the oath of office. The communications included a letter from Alfred Stephens claiming unstated damages as the result of an accident to his car occasioned on a township road, and this was referred to the Insurance Company. Council renewed its membership in the Ontario Good Roads Association and following an appeal from the Sick Children's Hospital made a $5 grant. Members approved the sale of wood cut from an unused concession road in the north west part of the township to Malcolm Brown at $15.

The Council Frees Its Hands

We are glad to see that the City Council has freed its hands from the restriction of the resolution passed last June, which limited men appointed to a number of trusteeships and municipal boards to three years of service. When the resolution was being discussed the Examiner expressed the opinion that many citizens would be dissatisfied with such an arbitrary ruling; there are municipal jobs which take a full three years to learn properly, and a constantly changing Board of Health or Board of Works means that certain members of the Board are in the apprentice stage, while those who are beginning to get a grip on affairs are facing the termination of their stewardship; this condition does not make for efficient local government. We said at that time that the Council had all the power necessary to remove men from municipal boards who were no longer useful on them, and that it should face that duty, however unpleasant, as one of its jobs; an arbitrary ruling is no substitute for good judgement.

It is undesirable that municipal boards should become static. When all the members of a board are of long standing and well advanced in years it is possible that their good judgement may not be balanced by freshness of outlook. In every governing body the training of new and younger men is an important part of the work. None of us are indispensable, and none of us are immortal, and a man who hopes to retire from public life and enjoy a few years of ease does well to see that there are two or three men who can follow him without having to learn his job from the beginning.

The more flexible a governing body, the more efficient it is likely to be. The Council is elected for the good sense and character of its individual members. In matters of appointment and retirement it is far better to rely upon that good sense and character, than to rely upon a rule which may often remove men from positions where they are giving distinguished service to the community.

Death Of John W. Dafoe

John W. Dafoe, who died suddenly on Sunday, was undoubtedly the greatest of Canadian journalists, and it was his editorial writings which made the Winnipeg Free Press the most highly respected of all Canada's larger newspapers. Mr. Dafoe celebrated the conclusion of sixty years of newspaper work just three months ago; during that long period his wide experience and personal observation of affairs, combined with a scholarly habit and a mind of great clarity and scope, gave him a command of the Canadian scene which none of his contemporaries were able to equal. His writings were not ex cathedra, but were authoritative; those who sought to take issue with him knew that their arguments would be thoroughly searched, and perhaps destroyed. He was a great fighting editor.

When he spoke at the banquet which celebrated his newspaper jubilee Mr. Dafoe told his hearers how he came to be a convinced Liberal. All his life he was a pillar of the Liberal party, but he was not a bigot, and he frequently criticised his own party without sparing. But he sincerely saw the Liberal course, considered in its widest sense, as the best course for a young nation, judging Conservatism to be too restrictive for an organism which was growing rapidly. In his latter days he was an equally determined opponent of the C.C.F., for in socialism he saw a threat to that liberty of the individual which he insisted upon as the basis of all right government. Doctrinaires and theoretical socialists were anathema to him; in our third column yesterday we reprinted the last editorial which he wrote for the Free Press, in which he expresses himself with his usual vigour and uncompromising honesty.

John Dafoe had a noble conception of a newspaper's duty to its readers and to the country. Although he was urged many times to leave his desk and take a portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet he was convinced that his greatest usefulness lay in the continuance of his writing. For many years he was extremely influential behind the scenes in Canadian affairs, he represented Canada on many occasions in international gatherings and his opinion was sought by leaders of both the older parties; his first wish, however, was to be an editor, and it is in that role that he will be remembered. Inevitably there will be sorrow and regret that he died, but he was 77 years old and had had the life which he most enjoyed. Let us give thanks that he lived, rather than sorrow at his passing.

Christianity And The C.C.F.

Today we print a Letter To The Editor on this page from a lady who thinks that the C.C.F. has been misrepresented and unfairly treated by the majority of Canadian newspapers, including this one. In political controversy there is likely to be unfairness and misrepresentation on both sides, even when the controversialists seek earnestly to avoid it, and we do not think that the newspapers have been any more unfair to the C.C.F. than the C.C.F. has been to the newspapers. Some papers, certainly, have condemned the C.C.F. in round terms, but only last week a C.C.F. spokesman, Mr. David Lewis, bade the newspapers "discuss the C.C.F. program on the basis of what we say, not on what they are told and sometimes paid to write"; the C.C.F., which condemns the whole capitalist system, including the privately-owned press, cannot help looking at us with a jaundiced eye; when we criticise them they assume that we have been instructed to do so (by whom we do not know), for they do not seem to think that we could possibly disapprove of them of our own free will.

Our correspondent, in her letter, implies an association between the C.C.F. program and Christianity; a surprising number of people nowadays seem to have got hold of the notion that Christ was a socialist; this we believe to be a grave error. The late G. K. Chesterton, many years before he became a Roman Catholic and as such a professed opponent of socialism, exposed this error with the utmost clarity. As he points out, the question which the modern socialist asks is "What will society do?" whereas the question which Christ aroused in the minds of His followers was "What shall I do". In Christ's teaching the basic regeneration was that of the indivdual; in socialist teaching the basic regeneration is to be that of society, and from this it is presumed that individual regeneration will spring. Christ told the rich man, "Sell all thou hast and give to the poor": the socialist says to the rich man, "We shall sell all you have and dispose of it as we see fit".

To quote Chesterton directly: "It will not surely be denied that not only will Socialism be impossible without some effort on the part of individuals, but that Socialism, if once established would be rapidly dissolved, or worse still, diseased, if the individual members of the community did not make a constant effort to do that which in the present state of human nature must mean an effort, to live the higher life. Mere state systems could not bring about and still less sustain a reign of unselfishness, without a cheerful decision on the part of the member to forget selfishness even in little things, and for that most difficult and at the same time most important personal decision Christ made provision and the modern theorists make no provision at all... Humility is a grand, a stirring thing, the exalting paradox of Christianity, and the sad want of it in our own time is, we believe, what really mades us think life dull, like a cynic, instead of marvellous, like a child. With this, however, we have at present nothing to do. What we have to do with is the unfortunate fact that among no persons is it more wanting than among socialists, Christian and other. The isolated or scattered protest for a complete change in the social order, the continual harping on one string, the necessarily jaundiced contemplation of a system already condemned, and above all the haunting pessimistic whisper of a possible hopelessness of overcoming the giant forces of success, all these impart undeniably to the modern socialist a tone excessively imperious and bitter".

The Conservatives and the Liberals are just as anxious to set right what is wrong with society as the C.C.F. The Conservatives and Liberals number just as many good Christians among their adherents as the C.C.F. Neither the C.C.F. nor any other party has a monopoly of goodwill or good intention. We suggest that any of our readers who regard socialist doctrine as in some way an offspring of Christianity should examine the matter again in the light of what Christ actually said. Christ, it will be remembered, had no wish to be his brother's keeper, although He wished to be every man's friend; what socialist organization can say that of itself?

A Genius Inaugurates A Ministry

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

WHEN, through some curious trick of circumstance, a man of genius is put at the head of a government ministry it will raise the devil with him, for ministries do not like men of genius: when, as happens even more rarely, a man of genius is asked to form a new ministry, he is likely to raise the devil with other existing ministries, for genius and the Civil Service simply will not mix. In the Civil Service honest worth may flourish, and brilliance may have its fling, but for genius there is no place. Therefore when a man of genius finds himself dealing with Civil Servants he must either flatten a lot of them in order to make a place for himself, or he must reduce himself to Civil Service dimensions. The story of Lord Beaverbrook at the Ministry of Aircraft Production is a story of genius raising the devil with the good-breeding, limited outlook, protocol and inertia of Civil Service.

ON Friday, May 10, 1940, Winston Churchill set to work to form a Cabinet to fight a war. He decided that aircraft production was so important that it needed a special ministry to handle it, and he asked Lord Beaverbrook to form that ministry and run it for him. Beaverbrook refused, and kept on refusing with increasing vehemence until the following Tuesday, when he accepted The new ministry had no home and no workers. Therefore Beaverbrook turned his London home, Stornoway House, into a government office, and began to recruit his assistants from all over England. One of the characteristics which has brought Lord Beaverbrook great power and great wealth is that he knows a good man when he sees one; he can detect them almost by scent alone. It was not many days before Beaverbrook, and the best of his men, Colonel Llewellin, had filled Stornoway House with a staff of notable men, some of whom had never been heard of in official circles before.

BEAVERBROOK needed good men. In September, 1939, Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Britain was preparing for three years of war. The aircraft industry, it appeared, was so organized that it would reach maximum production three years later; when, in 1940, the real nature of the war became clear, Churchill was able to give Beaverbrook just three months to put the industry into high gear. Beaverbrook did it, but not without breaking eggs in the process.

IT was necessary for him to make his position clear to the Air Ministry, which was not pleased at having the production job taken out of its control. By all the means known to ministerial ingenuity—means not unlike those by which a haughty beauty rebuffs an importunate lover—the Air Ministry sought to show Lord Beaverbrook what it thought of him; the unity of interest between the two ministries should have made this easy. But almost anything is easier than abashing Lord Beaverbrook; the astonished Air Ministry found its slights and snubs falling on stoney ground; indeed, it found itself being told in good round terms to keep its nose out of Beaverbrook's business. It was not that Beaverbrook stormed at his opponents, or insulted them; his general tone of speech is moderate—even purring—and his words are chosen as the son of a Presbyterian minister should choose them: it is in deeds that he is terrible and he crushed his enemies under his chariot wheels without remorse and almost without thought.

BUT he achieved the ends which he had been appointed to achieve. How he did so is well told in "The Sky's the Limit," a little book by David Farrer. His job was to give the R.A.F. planes to meet the blitz of 1940, and he did it. For a time the fate of England—and the fate of all those countries which would have been defenceless if England had fallen—hung upon his work. Men engaged in such tasks have no time for daintiness in inter-governmental exchanges. But they have, it seems, time for literary allusion: Farrer tells of Beaverbrook's fight to get a German-Jewish refugee named Loew, who was a world-famous expert on aluminum manufacture, into the service of the Ministry; Loew was found, but his assistants were in internment, and hard to find; how was it to be done? asked Beaverbrook's assistants; he quoted Longfellow and Kipling at them: "Well, Evangeline found Gabriel and Jane found her Captain Wentworth; why can't we find Loew men?" They were found.

IT IS difficult to write of Lord Beaverbrook without using the language of myth and legend. Men of genius are incomprehensible to most of us; when they paint pictures or compose symphonies we are content to be baffled by them, for they do not work in our own medium; but a genius in the field of organization and production is a disturbing marvel, for there are many of us who think that we know a little bit about organization and production ourselves. It is not surprising that there are many people who dislike Lord Beaverbrook with an almost prayerful intensity, nor is it surprising that he is indifferent to their dislike. Genius makes it own rules. One of the things about the Ministry of Aircraft Production which alarmed and piqued the orthodox was that there were rarely any 'conferences' there; Beaverbrook spoke, and that was that; he did not believe that angels whispered to a dozen men sitting at a table. Perhaps he was right; whatever the angels whispered to him, he succeeded beyond all expectation in an apparently impossible job.

Wolves Might Reach Toronto

Farmers at Queensville, only 30 miles north of Toronto, are engaged in semi-weekly hunting expeditions to drive away the wolves which have been preying upon their sheep. The animals, it is believed, have been frightened away from the Camp Borden area by the firing of big guns, so it will be interesting to see if the embattled farmers of Queensville can suppress them with shotguns and rifles.

As wolves are craftly and hard to catch, they may be able to dodge into Toronto itself, there to present a problem for the city police who are at present fairly busy with black marketeers and other two-legged malefactors. — Montreal Gazette.

Too Much Paternalism

The Most Rev. Dr. Seager, Metropolitan of Ontario, criticizes the "temptation to look to the Government to do everything." That has, indeed, become one of the curses of our times and it is meaning a loss of much of the sturdy independence upon which this Dominion and its institutions were built. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

—By J. R. Scott

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

IDEALISM OF THE C.C.F.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In the recent issues of almost every paper one may pick up, are to be found editorial tirades and letters against the C.C.F. These papers inclube The Globe and Mail, McLean's Magazine, The Family Herald, The Canadian Countryman, and many others, as well as our own esteemed 'Evening Examiner" from "Our Old Home Town." Fain would I believe these articles to be the result of ignorance on the part of the writers, but not likely.

I hold no brief for the C.C.F. It can stand on its own merits. But I have always disliked wilful misrepresentaiton, and that is quite too weak a word to describe the barrage of lies that have been printed in the hope of beclouding the issues and misleading the people. Why all this hatred and bitter falsifying? Because there are those in Canada who see the handwriting on the wall. They see their strongholds shaken and the common people coming out from under. Money talks. Sometimes it shouts.

There are some things that if you see them, you see them, and if you don't, you don't, and that's all there is to it. A man at the head of a great business concern will lay off a few hundred men when prices fall and the going gets tough and then go to church on Sunday and be very devout and religious, and not see any inconsistency in it at all. That is the result of having been brought up under our present system, which has also made it difficult for the average man to believe there can be individuals in this world, who are not self-seeking, who are not looking out for No. 1, whose whole aim is to be of service to their fellowmen in a self-forgetting way. But such men have lived, and do live, thank God, men who realize that "the great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it. "There is in this province, a man whose name is well known, who had a vision of the wonderful thing it would be for this and future generations if music were taught in every school, even as writing and arithmetic. In the face of severe opposition, he continued to follow the gleam" until his dream was realized—but at a terrific personal cost.

I have read of another man who lived almost two thousand years ago. He had visions of a revolutionized society where men would be their brothers' keeper, where His Golden Rule would function, and root out selfishness and greed and dishonesty and exploitation, where wars would cease. They crucified Him. And as for His teaching, even to this day, we just can't take it! When this war is over what will be the state of religion in Canada? Will we have an "exportable surplus," or shall we have even enough to go round at home. To mean anything, it must involve the physicial and social well-being, as well as the spiritual, of every man, woman and child in the land. It seems to me anything short of this will not be very satisfying when the boys come home.

Let me give just one more instance of high endeavor, of loyal and persistent selfless following of a star, namely the late founder of the C.C.F. Again, severe opposition from friend and foe, but nothing swayed him from his purpose. He sacrificed everything for a high ideal, even life itself. What did he hope to gain? A better Canada.

A place where never again could be seen the disgraceful spectacle of Canadian young men fresh from school and college, riding the rods across the country, jobless, homeless, hungry, and nothing being done about it—until they were needed to man the guns.

A place where farms and homes might be secure—mark you, secure—operated and owned by the people themselves who live in them and not, as now, by the mortgage companies or the government. A place where we may enjoy more personal possessions and property—not less.

A place where exploitation and patronage would be unknown, where every man might have an equal chance to earn an honest living, according to his ability and training.

A place where the amazing natural resources we hear about in this great land, would be operated by and for the people, and not to further bulge the already bursting pockets of men who sit in cushy offices in Montreal and pull the strings.

A place where adequate educational facilities can be available in city, town and country, to the poor man's child as well as to the rich, for brains are impartially distributed.

A place where proper health services are also available for the health of its people should be a nation's chief concern.

A place where there is freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom to make a good life—in brief, freedom.

This and much more. The C.C.F. cannot be called "just another political party." If that were all who could be bothered living for it, not to mention dying for it. It is much more than that—and different. It is a way of life made after a good Canadian pattern for Canadians. And no matter what its enemies, or those who have an axe to grind, or those who hold the money bags, may say of it, eventually "the truth will make you free."

At its beginning the C.C.F. was counted undeserving of more than a mere mention by the press. Now it is deemed worthy of vitrolic attacks on all sides, fore and aft. That speaks for itself, but it would seem more like playing cricket, if its critics would keep even a semblance of truth and honesty.

However, in Canada we are not illiterate people. We can read. There is a small book called "Make This Your Canada." Get it, read, and draw your own conclusions.

E. M. STAPLES.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

The Right Stuff

French Canadians may have their own ideas about conscription, but those of them who get into the firing line show they are made of the right stuff. The French-speaking troops of the Royal 22nd Regiment are doing a job in Italy that is above praise.—Sydney Post-Record.

For Self-Government

"Immediate self-government" is perhaps the last thing Newfoundland wants — the island is prosperous in its present status of colony. There is, too, some sentiment favoring eventual union with Canada—its strength remains to be seen.—Ottawa Journal.

Salmon Sandwiches

More canned salmon will soon be available, although rationed. This is good news for workers who carry their lunches, as nothing is more appetizing for a change than a salmon sandwich with crisp lettuce. Housewives who have to prepare lunches will also be glad, as salmon will afford them some opportunity for diversification in what has become quite a domestic problem.—Hamilton Spectator.

Two Animals

A woman is an animal who does not mind being remembered on her birthday just so long as you don't remember her age.

A man is an animal who would like to have a face that feels as fine as the shaving cream commercial says the product will make it do.—Toronto Telegram.

No Socialistic Menace

Toronto's verdict has its lesson for all upstanding, solid, public-spirited Canadians everywhere. The verdict was an overwhelming one because Progressive Conservatives and Liberals and sane independent electors united to ward off the menace of partisan dictatorship in the administration of municipal affairs. The result was that the Socialists obtained only a meagre fraction of the total vote polled. They had scored unwarrantly in the Provincial elections of last August because of the sharp rivalry between Progressive Conservatives and Liberals, which split the sane vote and enabled the C.C.F. candidates to win no fewer than 25 constituencies without obtaining a clear majority in many of them. There is no Socialist menace in Canada. — Sydney Post-Record.

Thoughtful Censor

Is it not said of an unknown censor that he passed the envelope of a letter which a soldier had written to his girl friend but withheld the letter, substituting his own little note? And that this note read "Your boy friend still loves you but he talks too much"?—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Murderous Jap Typewriters

Secretary Knox says that our combat fleet has doubled in size in the past 11 months. We must all keep in mind, however, that this magnificent navy may be sunk at any moment by the murderous fire of Japanese typewriters.—The New Yorker.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

A Bible Message

For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me, and ye shall live.... Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the Lord, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye have spoken. (Amos 5: 4, 14.)

For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God...

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose....

What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? (Rom. 8: 13, 14, 28, 31.)

The Lord is my strength and song, and is become my salvation....

I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord. (Ps. 118: 14, 17.)

A Second Chance

The British Empire has been given a second chance. In the years between the two wars we neglected the duty to develop our heritage. Now it is certain that we shall be afforded a time to remedy that neglect. Most precious of all the Empire's assets are its raw material resources. Our enemies coveted them above all things, and the Japanese, daring to enter the war in their pursuit, came near to success, and still hold in Malaya and Burma valuable hostages to fortune. There must be speed in recovering what we have lost. But the issue is not in doubt. Our "second chance" awaits us. We shall seize it, however, only if we have learned the lessons of the past. That the rule of bureaucrats and bankers must be allowed to choke the spirit of private enterprise, that Government-inspired policies of deflation spell disaster, and that by our own strength alone can we guarantee the safety of the Empire and the peace of the world.—Daily Express, London.

On Stalin's Shoulder

Without magnifying out of proportion the significance of Stalin's epaulets, we can see in them one more evidence that the fierce ideological hatreds of the Russian Revolution are burning themselves out. That does not mean the Russian people are disposed to abandon their collectivist economy and government—probably their success in war has convinced them more than ever of its rightness for them; but they are steadily less intolerant of the ways and ideas of the capitalist democracies.

Let's put it this way: the epaulet has replaced the chip on the shoulder. — Minneapolis Star Journal.

Of Course, It's Difficult

The story of the creation of the world is told in Genesis in 400 words.

The world's greatest moral code, the Ten Commandments, contains only 400 words.

Lincoln's immortal "Gettysburg Address" is but 266 words in length.

The Declaration of Independence required 1,321 words to set up a new conception of freedom.

The Office of Price Administration uses 2,500 words to announce a reduction in the price of cabbage seeds. — St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Arctic Bewilderment

News trickling down from the Arctic reveals that Eskimos are learning to read and write with the air of ivory jig-saw puzzles that they carved themselves from cardboard models provided them by white friends. We fear that their newly acquired knowledge will not mean an end, but rather the beginning, of puzzles for them. The more they read the more they are going to be puzzled by the woes and problems of a world at war and wrestling with post-war questions.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

No Harm Done

King George has made an American vice-admiral a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath and three other rear-admirals Companions of the Order of the Bath—and all, probably, without putting the slightest dent in their "democracy."—Windsor Star.

9 Missionaries Lost Near Amazon River

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 12 (AP). —The great hinterland of the Amazon Valley apparently has claimed the lives of nine American missionaries who entered the Bolivian jungle near the Brazilian border last November.

The missionaries, eight men and one woman, representing the New Tribes Mission, left the village of Robore, last outpost of civilization 300 miles east of Santa Cruz, Bolivia, in the direction of the Brazilian frontier and the unexplored Matto Grosso region further east.

They plunged into a region inhabited by wild Indian tribes who are completely untouched by civilization.

Disregarding the advice of Bolivian frontiersmen, the missionaries refused to carry arms, explaining they did not wish to antagonize the Indians.

Two days later they left Robore, three members of the party were reported to have returned to the village, where they notified the authorities that the missionaries were being followed by a tribe of hostile Indians. A detachment of soldiers was sent out on the trail of the party, but it faded out near a jungle landmark known as Sant Corazon, 80 miles from the Brazilian border, where traces of an Indian camp were found. It now is believed the missionaries died at the hands of these savages.

18 U.S. Generals Decorated By King George

ALGIERS, Jan. 12 — (AP). — Eighteen American Generals, including Lt.-Gens. George S. Patton, Jr. and Mark W. Clark, received British decorations to-day by order of King George VI for meritorious action in the Mediterranean.

Patton, commander of the U. S. 7th Army, was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath, on recommendation of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in Italy, for his work as commander of the American Second Corps during the Maknassy battle in Southern Tunisia last year.

The decorations were conferred by the new Allied commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson, in a colorful ceremony. The other Generals were praised in their citations for staff work and field leadership.

The decorations included Knight Commander of the Bath to Maj.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, new Chief of Staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's invasion command in Britain; Knight of the Order of the British Empire to Gen. Clark, commander of the U.S. 5th Army.

MISSING — Shown here is Commander Henry Sollett Wygant, Jr., 37, of Camp Hill, Cumberland County, Pa., who was the commanding officer of the U.S.S. Turner which exploded and sank in the lower bay of the New York harbor from a blast of mysterious origin. Commander Wygant has been listed by the navy as "missing in action."

Submarine Launched Way Back In 1898 Raised From Depths Of Mountain Lake

DENVER, Jan. 12 (AP)— Experimental submarine that sank when it was launched in a mountain lake 9,000 feet above sea level in 1898 near the historic mining town of Central City was located and brought to the surface yesterday, the Rocky Mountain News said today in a copyrighted article.

Fred de Mandel supervised salvage operations through the ice. The News said the submarine was anchored with chains until more equipment can be obtained. De Mandel, it was said, had spent weeks locating the undersea craft which had become almost legendary in the district.

Oscar Williams, sheriff of Gilpin county—"the little kingdom of Gilpin"—for more than 22 years, told the News of the launching one Sunday afternoon when he was a boy.

The boat, he said, was the brain-child of R. T. Owens, a Central City contractor.

Williams said the ship was constructed by two carpenters in secret. It was made of wood and sheathed with either lead or zinc. It was 20 feet long and 5½ feet wide.

Williams said Owens at first planned to enter the craft on its trial trip. His friends dissuaded him, and finally the boat was ballasted with rock and slid into the water.

"I guess they got too much ballast in her," said Williams. "She sank with a splash and never came up."

Residents of Central City could not remember how Owens proposed to propel his ship. They said Owens left the district shortly after the ill-fated launching.

Capt. S. B. Profitt Heard At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Jan. 12 (ENS).— Ringing challenge to young people to "go mountain climbing with Jesus Christ" was brought by Captain S. B. Profitt, Chaplain of the Training Centre, Peterborough, who was guest speaker for the Sunday School anniversary, in addresing the morning congregation of St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday.

Basing his sermon on Mark 10:32, and pointing out that the disciples were 'fearful and amazed' at the moral and spiritual heights toward which the master was leading them, the speaker dealt in detail with the facts of mountain climbing, comparing them with similar steps in climbing upward by the way of the Christian life. Points emphasized were: 1, Decision; 2, Following in our Guide's footsteps; 3, The red thread which runs through all proper guide rope corresponds to the red thread of sacrifical living which characterizes Christ and His followers. "And when at last you have reached the summit, and in the sunshine of Heaven, see your Guide face to face, you will be glad you went mountain climbing with Jesus."

The speaker was introduced by Wilfrid Elson, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, in the absence through illness of the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, and the superintendent, Fred W. Fallis. The choir sang as anthem, a beautiful setting of the Twenty-third Psalm, with solo by Homer Oullette, and after the sermon Miss Marjorie McDowell of Toronto and LAW Beatrice McDowell, R.C.A.F. (WD) sang as a duet, "God Will Take Care of You."

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Splendid

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Real Results.

To get really surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—anyone can do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat, for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—about 4 times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it is actually splendid. It works in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

TAMBLYN Suggests Precaution

The so-called "Common Cold" is at the same time both one of our most prevalent as well as discomforting ailments. In fact it is doubtful if we are at any time more miserable than when affected with a bad case of the "sniffles" with its attendant aches and pains. At the present time it is rather difficult for various reasons to stay clear of "cold infection," as we must admit that most of us are somewhat careless as to the infection of the "other fellow." In view of these circumstances, we take the liberty to suggest that extra precautions be taken along these lines, as it is very definitely the responsibility of us all to curb as much as possible the spreading of this uncomfortable as well as dangerous affliction. May we also remind you at the first sign of a cold, to visit your Tamblyn Drug Store, where the necessary remedies for prevention and relief are always obtainable. The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP)—While major leaguers are discussing the advisability of doing some "missionary work" in college baseball after the war, the National Collegiate A.A. may get there first by organizing a national championship along the lines of its basketball tournament...The possibility still is remote, but Prof. Phil Badger, the N.C.A.A. president says: "Some day we may do it."....Chief drawbacks are the difficulty of getting the teams together when summer vacations are about to start and the fact that the colleges lose some $500,000 a year on baseball....It would take a major operation instead of just a shot in the arm to cure that financial condition.

One Minute Sports Page

Johnny Rucker, who decided to play one more season with the Giants because of baseball's manpower shortage, wears a brace every night to strengthen the two weak vertebrae that caused him so much trouble last season...Denny Shea has been let out as business manager of the football Dodgers but will continue as National League treasurer...Although he only took up bowling 15 years ago, 74-year-old Ed Johnston of Trenton, N.J., sports a league average of 185...Lorene Mills, a filly named for the wife of the Illinois basketball coach, will race on Chicago track next summer. We hope she's a whiz kid.

3 Ladies' Teams In Tight Race Five-Pin League

Three teams in the Ladies' City Five-Pin League at Duffus Alleys are having the tightest kind of a fight with only three points separating the Outboard Marines in first place with the Brinton team in the third slot. The Outboards have 28 points, the Westclox team is right behind with 27 and only two points behind the Big Bens are Brintons with 25.

The scoring averages show that R. Pearse has high three so far this season with 854 and that she and Betty Castle are tied with high single with 369.

In the blind score this week J. Hair of Corvettes and A. Johnston of Beavers were joint winners with 497. The blind score was 499.

The standing and scores for the week follow:

Outboard Marine 28, Westclox 27, Brintons 25, Commadnos 19, Corvettes 18, Lucky Strikes 17, Maple Leafs 14, Generals 14, Beavers 11, Five V's 7.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League for the Dominion Life Trophy is rapidly getting down to the final stages this week and after tomorrow night there will be only two teams left in the running. Steve Csumrik's Frigates and Pete McArthur's Fairmiles who survived the preliminary round Monday night meet Thursday in a sudden-death semi-final game to decide which team will meet the league-leading and unbeaten Algerines in a final game Saturday night to decide the championship. Tomorrow night's tussle should be an interesting argument. The Frigates who started the season slowly have been picking up momentum as they went along and in their last few starts have showed good ball handling and a lot of scoring punch with some of the younger players coming to the front rapidly. In their game with Fairmiles they will have Bill Edger back with them as the Bowmanville boy will not begin his navy training for several weeks. He, along with Seabrook, Estlick, Franks and Csumrik will supply considerable scoring power. On the other hand Fairmiles with McArthur and Baird in the ranks have the advantage in experience and in McCaulg they have a high-scoring player who will need to be watched. The two teams should provide a real argument before the question of which outfit will enter the finals is decided.

Averages for the City Five Pin League for the first half of the schedule are released today and they show the boys in the loop have surely been spilling the pins. Up at the top of the heap is the veteran Bud Weese of Jay's team a consistent high scorer over many seasons who is credited with the splendid average of 246 for 39 games. But the smooth-going Weese is by no means running a one-man show for right at his heels is Doug Abraham with 344 and one behind Abraham is one of the league's younger bowlers Bob Dyer of the Ramblers. Fred Martin, teammate of Weese is just a pin behind Dyer again with 242. The pace has been so hot that the consistent leader Johnny Playford finds himself in fifth position wiht 239 and Tick Caccavella who nearly achieved the bowler's dream of a perfect game earlier in the season is sixth with 238. And there is a whole swarm of good bowlers not far off the pace In fact the rolling so far this season has been exceptional and with half the schedule yet to go there could be quite a shaking up in the league averages before the thing is over. In fact any one of the first seven or eight players might be a good bet to finish on top.

Picture Has Changed

The other day this column was congratulating Bill Walshe Kingston sports scribe as sitting on top of the world with his favorite Kingston Army Frontenac team at the head of the senior O.H.A. race and everything rosy. And now the whole picture has changed. First came the army ruling that soldier teams and players would not be allowed to participate in Allan Cup and Memorial Cup games. No date was mentioned in the original statement so that after recovering from the shock, the Kingston club decided that things were not so bad. Even if they couldn't enter the Allan Cup playdowns they could at least carry on in the O.H.A. senior race and cop the provincial championship before they quit. And now that is out too. A second ruling has made it clear that army teams and army players with civilian teams are through and so the Kingston outfit, depending practically on military performers will have to fold up. This is the second time this season that Kingston has had a whole hockey team wiped out. They lost the first one on an early ruling that scattered the original players around the different camps but the gaps were filled in immediately by other soldier material that was moved into Kingston. Now the second team is gone.

* * * * * *

Before the final ruling was made known Scribe Walshe wrote the following paragraph, pointing out that the Canadian title, with the military teams out would be a hollow triumph: "Kingston's senior hockey is not affected by the Ottawa ban on Army teams playing for the Allan or Memorial Cups. The ban only prohibits soldier teams taking part in the inter-district Canadian playdowns and it is doubtful if Kingston, even if successful in winning the O.H.A. championship, would have entered the Dominion eliminations. When the Army announced its hockey policy in October and prominent players were shifted around the country, it was understood at the time that playoffs would not be sanctioned. Yesterday's order from Ottawa only repeated the original policy. The Army order differs from the R.C.A.F. ban. The airmen are not allowed to take part in any schedules that lead to the Canadian championships while soldiers are permitted to play district schedules but can not go any further. The majority of leagues and groups across Canada would be well satisfied if the R.C.A.F. adopted a plan similar to the army. Withdrawing Army and R.C.A.F. teams from the Allan and Memorial Cup play means that the Canadian championships this year will be rather empty honors. Not since the start of the war have the two titled trophies been truly representative of Canada's hockey class, with so many of the boys in the services who in normal years would be playing for the highest honors in amateur hockey."

Ching Still Punching

Peterborough hockey fans will be surprised to learn that old Ching Johnson, once one of the most colorful figures in the N.H.L. but long since passed off the scene, is still playing professional hockey at the reputed age of 45 years. John McLean in the "Taking Time Out" column in the Ottawa Citizen reveals Ching's current activity in the following paragraph: "They're probably not aware of it out in Los Angeles, but California has, in Ottawa's Jo-Jo Collins, an enthusiastic press agent. Collins, who has been playing hockey with Pasadena Panthers in the Pan Pacific League, and who is home on a short visit, dropped in to say hello last night. And so attractive was Jo-Jo's description of life in L.A. we were all for chucking the old typewriter in the ash can and hopping the first freight going west. They're hockey crazy out there, Collins assures us. Phil Henderson is running the show and he's built himself a rink, which he calls the Pan Pacific Auditorium and which seats 5,000. And they hang the S.R.O. sign up each time out! John Beauchamp, another Ottawa hockeyist, has also joined forces with Henderson's circuit, plays defence with the Panthers. Then there's Charlie Sands—remember him?—and there's Ching Johnson. Sands is Henderson's right-hand man, the contact between players and promoter. Johnson—he's close to 45 now—lines up with Hollywood's Wolves."

* * * * * *

Dick Irvin probably didn't enjoy himself in the least at Toronto last night when his fast-travelling Canadiens were beaten 5 to 0, their third and worst loss of the season. There is nothing the Montreal mentor likes more than trimming his old club, especially in Toronto and so the Leaf victory must have been a grievous disappointment. However there wasn't much he could do about it. The Leafs, with Bibeault playing brilliantly in the nets and the whole team fairly flying were masters of the situation all the way running in two goals in the first period, three in the second and holding their own in a scrappy third period. Canadiens still have plenty of lead but in spite of that they wouldn't like that clean-cut licking.

Police Protect Referee Following Bouts

Karl Davis, Cowboy Roy Graham and Al Bunny Dunlop were billed as the bad men of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling rodeo at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night but the real villain turned out to be none other than Referee Bert Maxwell.

The rotund official utterly spoiled the evening for a big crowd of fans by acting as the principal assistant to Krippler Karl Davis in winning a most unpopular decision over Earl McCready.

All Maxwell did was help Davis square the match by clapping a neckhold on the Aurora Farmer, in breaking a melee at the ropes and keeping McCready in chancery until the Texan had time to apply his favorite toehold on the Canadian grappler and flop him for a fall.

Then when the Moose, incensed at this bit of official skulduggery came back for the third round and sailed into Davis with a barrage of rabbit punches, Maxwell four times went to the rescue of the Battered Texan and four times was slammed to the canvas by the maddened McCready.

Then Maxwell proceeded to complete the crowd's disgust by disqualifying the Moose and awarding the fall to Davis who thus took the bout two falls to one.

Police had to escort the referee from the ring and at that he was lucky to have escaped a few punches on his way to the dressing-room.

Up to the time Maxwell threw a monkey wrench into the machinery by scoring an assist on the second fall the tilt was developing into a real battle. McCready, out for revenge after the treatment he received from the Texan here last month was not the placid, cool athlete he has usually been. He displayed a willingness to meet Davis at his own game and local fans have never seen the Moose do so much punching. Davis, of course, was the same ornery customer he has always been here and there were some thrilling exchanges during the 15 minutes the first round lasted.

Rocking-Chair Wins

The Krippler got little chance to use his stepover toe hold. He did manage to clap it on once but before the crowd could groan in dismay the Moose kicked himself out of danger in a hurry. Then Davis went at him with a series of punches and kicks that threatened to take the first fall but McCready weathered that storm and came back at the big Texan with a storm of blows that took all the gimp out of him. Quick to see his advantage the Moose applied his rocking-chair cradle hold with workmanlike deftness and unusual vigor and he rolled Davis around the ring and then flattened his shoulders.

Honors were even in the second round until the Maxwell intervention turned the tide in favor of the Texan. McCready had crowded Davis into a corner and was pounding him vigorously when the referee interfered. Grabbing the big Canadian around the neck from behind he pulled him away from the Krippler and while Maxwell still held his grip on the Aurora Farmer, Davis dived for his opponent's legs, pulled him down and took the fall with a toehold and spread.

The third round was soon over. McCready, seeing red, sailed across the ring as the gong sounded and landed a series of rabbit punches on his opponent's neck. Maxwell attempted to stop him and the Moose hurled him to the canvas with a body slam. Three times more the referee was tossed to the mat as he tried to interfere and finally he awarded the fall to the Texan. McCready, cheered by the crowd, left the ring breathing demands for another chance with a real referee.

The other two bouts on the card both had O. Henry endings. Al Bunny Dunlop won the opener from his old opponent, Pierre De Glane as the result of an accident. After the pair had gone eight minutes and De Glane had shown an unusual ability to hand out the rough stuff the end came suddenly when De Glane tried to brace himself against the ropes to launch a flying tackle at Dunlop and the two top strands gave way. The French grappler toppled over backwards and landed heavily on the floor of the arena. He was out like a light and had to be carried to the dressing-room, with Dunlop awarded the fall after his opponent had been counted out. It was thought at first that the French athlete had broken some ribs but he recovered quickly.

Crowd Gets Assist

And if Maxwell rates a couple of assists on his share of the doings some of the spectators were entitled to one for the part they played in the winning of the second bout by the popular Toar Morgan. The Battling Marine was matched against a new bad man, Cowboy Roy Graham, another Texan who early aroused the ire of the crowd by coming into the ring with a bandaged hand and using the bandage to do some rough massaging of the Morgan nose and eyes. The Cowboy worked a lot on the head and face and his gouging methods won him no friends. Morgan however took it all and came back for more, nearly winning the match with a toe hold that Graham broke with considerable difficulty. At the 12-minute mark the fans did their bit for a Morgan victory. They hurled a verbal barrage at the big cowboy and Graham started to snarl back at his hecklers. Then one of them pulled his bath-robe and the angry Graham climbed out through the ropes on to the apron of the ring and proceeded to tell all and sundry just what he thought of them. He was in fact, so wrapped up with his own eloquence that he failed to notice that Maxwell was counting him out.

The official finished the ten-toll, raised Morgan's arm and it was all over. Graham protested vehemently and tried to slug it out with Morgan but the Marine won the battle of post-bout punches for a double victory.

Maxwell officiated in all three bouts with Fred Scates doing the announcing and timing.

Toronto Mauls Canadiens; Durnan Slips

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A proud parent whose offspring refuses to perform for "company" couldn't be any more shamefaced today than Coach Dick Irvin.

Irvin will find it hard enough to explain how Toronto Maple Leafs happened to maul his Montreal Canadiens 5-0 last night, but that's just part of the story.

He'll have to piece together an ironclad alibi for Bill Durnan, the Montreal netminder who has been ballyhooed as sure pop for just about every reward in the N.H.L. books. Last night Durnan was outplayed—and outplayed, ironically, by Paul Bibeault, recently sold to Leafs by Canadiens.

Bibeault, who has helped Leafs win five games since receiving a medical discharge from the Canadian Army, kicked out 36 shots compared with 32 handled by Durnan as Leafs registered their third straight victory before 12,641 home fans.

It was a miserable evening for Canadiens. The game not only snapped their victory march at nine straight, but saw Centre Phil Watson take heavy punishment in a slugging match with Linesman Jim Primeau and a wrestling bout with young Tom (Windy) O'Neill of Leafs. Watson, who suffered a two-stitch wound and assorted minor cuts, drew a match misconduct and a major, while O'Neill was given a major.

The game was delayed about 10 minutes by the batting, which started with an affray between Jackie McLean of Toronto and turbulent Murph Chamberlain of Canadiens. Both drew match misconducts.

Four of the five Toronto goals were fired by the No. 1 line as Leafs reduced Montreal's first-place margin to 5½ games. Don Webster, substituting for injured Bob Davidson, scored the first two in the opening period on plays with linemates Gus Bodnar and Lorne Carr. Carr converted relays from Bodnar to make it 4-0 and Reg. Hamilton tallied one of his rare goals seven seconds before the second period ended to complete the scoring.

PUCK DIDN'T MAKE IT—The puck lies lonely on the ice at Madison Square Garden, New York, as Rangers' Ott Heller (3) crosses Ray Getliffe (11) of Canadiens. Ranger Goalie Ken McAuley (1) is on the alert, ready to make a save. This action took place during hockey fray between Rangers and Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens won the game, 6-5.

Falcons Grab Top Spot

By The Canadian Press

The twin leadership races in the two Junior A groups of the O.H.A. showed significant changes to-day. St. Catharines Falcons enjoy sole possession of top rung in Group 2, and in Group 1 the Oshawa Generals' lead has been narrowed to two points over Toronto St. Michael's.

In last night's games St. Michael's crept up on the idle Oshawa team by beating Port Colborne Recreationists 6-4. Hamilton Whizzers took a firmer grip on third place in this group by beating Toronto Young Rangers 6-4. In the other group St. Catharines broke its first-place deadlock with Galt by defeating Brantford Lions 8-4.

In the game at Port Colborne, Ted Lindsay bagged three goals for St. Michael's and Gravelle got three for Port Colborne. Joe Sadler got two for Toronto and Bobby Schnurr got the sixth. Port Colborne's other counter came from Simpell.

Another three-goal individual splurge was chalked up at Hamilton by Clancy, Hamilton's recruit from Grimsby. Kaiser, Comfort, and Whitworth scored Hamilton's other counters. For the Young Rangers Dewsbury had two, Ringer and Rutledge one each.

At St. Catharines the Falcons were on top throughout, with Nicowski, Phillips and Warecki each getting two goals and Welch and Barber scoring singles. Evenshen had two for Brantford, whose other goals were scored by Davis and Robin Hewson.

Goalie Paul Bibeault, Toronto, who scored his second shutout of seven-game National Hockey League season last night when Leafs trounced Canadiens 5-0.

Lorne Carr, Toronto, who collected two goals and two assists.

Gun Bodnar, Toronto, who setup the puck for four counters.

GUESTS OF ROYALTY

LONDON — (CP). — Nearly 500 officers of Dominions forces in Britain were the guests of the King and Queen recently at an afternoon party at Buckingham Palace.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — The Pacific clime does things for Eastern and Prairie athletes. Carl Robertson, sports editor of the Vancouver News-Herald, chose Bill Wilkes, Orillia, Ont., lacrosse product, as British Columbia's outstanding male athlete in 1943 for his chore in helping New Westminster Salmonbellies win the Mann Cup. Robertson named several runners-up including Casey Jones, home-run king of the Vancouver Baseball League and formerly of Winnipeg; Bill Carse, Edmonton boy who led Victoria Army to the Allan Cup hockey final; and George McConnell, the Winnipegger chosen most valuable man in the Coast basketball loop.

Gag law:

It appears strange Art Ross, who wrote the notorious gag rule into the N.H.L. constitution, should call himself to the mat. Ross is quoted by Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle as saying Toronto Leafs deliberately "got" Bill Cowley (out for a month with a shoulder injury) and that Manager Frank Selke of Leafs was the instigator. It was Ross who wrote the rule providing a maximum $1,000 fine for any player or club official giving to the press criticism of any other official.

Salty saying:

The Army hockey statement that henceforth the boys will be busy carrying the puck to Berlin led Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell to comment: "One can see that the present haste is necessary if our side is to shake hands with the Stalingrad Reds in centre ice."

Incidentally:

Four former Prairie football stars Dick Haughian and Jimmy Gilkes of Calgary Bronks and Harry Badger and Bill Boivin of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, are all Army lieutenants stationed on Vancouver Island ....Another Bronks player, Gilkes' brother Gobbo, remustered to air-crew and is taking his service flying training at Macleod, Alta.... Conny Dion, Cornwall, Ont., hockey goalie, has been discharged from the Army (N.H.L. clubs should negotiate direct)....A press release from the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues says two Quebec men, J Emile Dion and Lorenzo Morel, have been attending annual minor league meetings for three years and have done such a good job of "selling" that a future convention of the association is likely to be held in Quebec City.

Capitals Win Tenth Battle

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals won their 10th game of the season last night by defeating the cellar-dwelling Providence Reds 3-1 in the only scheduled American Hockey League encounter.

In 31 starts this season Caps have tied nine games and lost 12 others. They now stand in third place in the league—10 points behind Cleveland Barons. Hershey Bears lead the league.

Left Winger Johnny Sorrell started the scoring for Caps last night at 1.33 in the opening period. The playing coach was assisted by Carl Smith and Bill Thompson.

Smith added a second tally at 1.22 in the second round on a pass from Thompson. Halfway through the third period Roland Forget scored Reds' lone counter, but just a few minutes before the final whistle Alex Ritson made it 3-1 for Caps from Red Kane.

Kilrea Released

DETROIT—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings said yesterday he has been notified the Canadian Army has released Ken Kilrea, veteran forward, because of a nasal disorder. Kilrea reports to the Wings for an exhibition game today at Kingston, Ont.

Bud Weese Tops Bowlers With Average Of 246

The following averages for the first half of the Men's City Bowling League show "Bud" Weese of Jay's team setting a terrific pace with a 246 mark for his 39 games rolled to date. Cleanrites' Doug. Abraham is in second position with 244, Bob Dyer of the Ramblers is third with 243 and Fred Martin of Jay's fourth with 242. Jack Playford, last season's winner, is parked just outside the charmed 240 class with a 239 mark. "Tick" Caccavella is right behind him with 238 and a dozen other consistently good performers are well up in the race.

While the scramble for top place between now and the end of the schedule which will finish April 20, is bound to be keen, Weese looks quite capable of maintaining his sizzling pace or even bettering it. Rated as the most colorful bowler on the alleys for year, his remarkable speed and perfect control should pay big dividends in his war on the pins between now and April.

The figures, compiled by League Secretary Vince Fitzgerald show 74 trundlers averaging over 200 each and a summary of the combined work by the whole 16 teams reveals that 765,962 hardwood pins have been knocked cock-eyed up to the present time. Jay's portion of that huge total amounts to 52,174, while Doug. Abraham of Cleanrites in 45 games has personally taken care of 11,016. "Tick" Caccavella of Ramblers is the holder of both high three and high single with 959 and 445. Other outstanding individual scores during the fifteen weeks were 932 including a 431 single by Roy Suddards, 922 by Weese, 919 by Caccavella and 912 by Jimmy Herron.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

President Ford Frick of the National League expressed the opinion in New York last night that baseball will continue in the United States despite the uncertain effects on sport of President Roosevelt's call for a National Service law.

The President's recommendation may bring to a final decision the long argued question whether sports is essential to the United States war effort. A service law would mean that athletes, like all other able-bodied persons, would be liable to specific war-effort assignments in war production plants. This is somewhat different from the Canadian manpower regulations which freeze persons already engaged in war plants and other high priority industries.

In the United States, if professional baseball for instance is to survive next summer, some one in authority must rule that ball players are essential to the war effort for the sake of civilian morale.

Representative Samuel Weiss (Dem-Pa), is leader of a group of legislators which has been striving to have sports classified as essential for morale reasons and he said that if the service law is passed it will bring a definite showdown. In New York Frick commented: "If players are called, they go, that's all." He pointed out that numerous players already have gone into war work.

Leaves Hospital.

Play-making star Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins last night left Wellesley Hospital where he was undergoing treatment for a shoulder injury and planned to leave later in the evening for his home in Ottawa. Cowley was injured on Saturday night in a National Hockey League game with the Toronto Maple Leafs. He hopes to be back in action in a few weeks.

Something new in boxing occurred in New York last night when Chick Wergeles was hauled before the New York State Athletic Commission to explain his complaints about refereeing by Eddie Joseph in the bout in which Wergeles' boxer, Beau Jack, won a split decision over Lulu Costantino. Joseph voted for Costantino. Wergeles was not only set free by the commission, instead of getting a possible fine, but one member of the commission, Dr. Clilan Powell, upheld the charge that Joseph was incompetent.

The 1943 all-star baseball team named last night by the St. Louis Sporting News includes nine players chosen for the first time. Only Mort Cooper of St. Louis came back from the 1942 team and Luke Appling of the White Sox was named in 1940. The newcomers are Dick Wakefield of Detroit, Stan Musial of the Cards, Bill Nicholson of the Cubs, Rudy York of Detroit, Billy Herman of Brooklyn, Bill Johnson of the Yankees, and Walker Cooper of the Cards.

The Board of Governors of the N.H.L. will meet in Toronto on January 21 and it is expected most of the discussion will centre on relations with the C.A.H.A. There have been rumors of a difference of opinion between the pro and amateur bodies.

Former Junior Sets New Scoring Mark

MONTREAL, Jan. 12. — (CP).— The way National Defence Hockey League boosters figure it, Freddie Gibbons chalked up an all-time Kutuick-scoring mark for organized hockey when he rapped in three goals in 33 seconds for Navy against McGill.

Gibbons, former Toronto junior, punched home the last three goals of the game as Navy whipped the Redmen 10-0 Monday night. His third-period times were 14:26, 14:33 and 14:59. He bagged two other goals and an assist earlier in the game.

The N.D.H.L. lays claim to something else in the record business too—they have a team without a goalie. The R.C.A.F. squad, without a regular goalie, have worked out a system whereby each forward on the team will take a regular night in goal. Marcel Bessette did it Monday night and his team earned a 5-5 draw against Army.

The week before Eric Fleet held McGill to a 3-3 draw.

Check-off Plan Approved By Federation

TORONTO, Jan. 12. — A "check-off" system for the Ontario farmer was endorsed yesterday by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, which asked the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry to make a study of the problem of financial support for commodity groups.

Without a dissenting voice the Federation approved a resolution which stated because of the widespread demand for organization of Ontario agriculture on a "commodity group basis," and all "commodity group developments could be greatly enhanced by an automatic membership levy on the products when sold." It further endorsed the principle of the commodity levy and asked for study by the Commission with a view to placing the principal commodities under the Farm Products Control Act, so that the extension of the commodity groups may be proceeded with as quickly as possible."

Take Out Payments.

Under the "check-off" principle, payments to the commodity groups would be made from the cheques issued to farmers before they received them.

Roy Lick, secretary of the Ontario Whole Milk League; S. L. Joss, secretary of the Cheese Producers Association; Howard Craise, St. Catharines; Earl Kitchen, secretary of the Concentrated Milk Producers' Association; Wilfred Bishop of the Hog Producers' Association, and R. J. Scott of the Beef Cattle Producers, all told the convention, which is meeting for two days at the King Edward Hotel, they endorsed the proposal.

"We should evolve some usable means whereby we are brought into a state of organization whereby we can take an active part in marketing our products," said Mr. Scott. "The State is concerning itself in our business and contracts. If it is going to have forward prices and contracts, there is a degree of arbitrary State action. Somebody, for instance, must make decisions on the prices of future commodities. It is a new and recent situation and the State is increasingly anxious that farm people should speak through otheir own organizations."

M. M. Robinson, Burlington, reporting progress by the Commission of Inquiry, paid tribute to Agriculture Minister Kennedy and departmental officials. The Commission, he pointed out, "could not solve all the problems of agriculture. It has been given tremendous powers, to examine, cross-examine; it can force attendance if necessary; it can come to conclusions and pass them on to the Government. But once these conclusions are turned over, the responsibility for action rests on the Government," he said.

"But we have a Minister and a department which is behind us, determined to do something for agriculture and never has agriculture had such an opportunity."

DISCUSSING LABOR MATTERS — At the C.C.F. caucus at Queen's Park, Toronto, are Arthur Williams, Ontario riding, left, chairman of the labor committee, and E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader.

Deer Glides Gracefully Across Icy Lake Bewildered Officer Lassoes Unusual Skater

ROCKAWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J. Jan. 12 (AP).—Dewey Pott, police chief of Boonton township, had to pinch himself the other day when he saw a deer skating on the ice.

The animal glided gracefully across the ice, he said, swaying as if to the tune of a waltz, and it looked as if it were wearing old-fashioned grandfather skates which curled up at the ends.

Pott lassoed the deer and turned it over to the New Jersey State Game Farm at Rockport. Officials there described the animal as somewhat of a freak with hooves that grew out sideways almost six inches. They said the deer might have been sick during the summer and may not have walked for several weeks, thus allowing the hooves to grow so long.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE HUTCHINSON

WARKWORTH, Jan. 12 (ENS). —George Hutchinson in his 87th year passed away at his late residence in Percy township where he has lived for 74 years on Monday night. He was ill about one week.

Mr. Hutchinson was born at Dartford and was a lifelong resident of Percy township. He was an honorable citizen, a kind neighbor and friend and will be sadly missed in the community where he has spent so many years.

Besides his wife he is survived by two sons Harry, Brighton township and Lorne at home.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the family residence.

JOHN DAVIDSON

MARMORA, Jan. 12 — (ENS)— The death occurred in Fairview Hospital, Fairview, Alberta, on January 4 1944, of John Davidson, a former highly respected resident of Marmora township. The deceased who was 73 years of age, settled in the Peace River district on New Year's Day 1914. He was twice married his first wife being Hannah Archer. Of this marriage four children are living at Bluesky, Alberta, namely Mrs. Oscar Rollings, Bert, John, and Roy. Of 19 grandchildren the only one residing locally is Mrs. Lloyd Williams of Marmora. The late Mr. Davidson is also survived by his widow (formerly Minnie Eldridge, of Toronto); four sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Lee of Madoc township; Mrs. Earl Rombough, Foxboro; and Mrs. Margaret Wellman Trenton; and two brothers, William of Marmora township; and Henry of Marmora.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon.

MRS. JAMES HOGAN

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Hogan was held on Tuesday morning from the late residence, 158 Dufferin street, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where requiem mass was offered by the Rev. Joseph Lynch. Many relatives and friends were present at the service, and messages of sympathy and spiritual tokens added further tribute to the esteem and friendship in which she was held. Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery, and Rev. James Greenan conducted the graveside services.

Mrs. Hogan passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Patrick Healey Saturday night, after an extended illness. Born in Marmora, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Exevery Peters, she had lived in Highland Grove up until three years ago, when she moved into the city. Educated in Marmora, she had been a member of the Immaculate Conception church since she came to Peterborough. Her husband, James Hogan, predeceased her in 1930.

Surviving are three daughters and five sons: Mrs. Patrick Healey and Alphonsus of Peterborough; Mrs. Atcheson and Margaret of Toronto; Frank, William and Thomas of Highland Grove; and Leo of Bancroft. Two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Schnitzler of Glendale, California and Mrs. Michael Demas of Nottingham, Sask., also survive.

Six grandchildren of Mrs. Hogan served as pallbearers: Harold Healey, Raymond Healey, Cornelius Hogan, Gerald Healey, Edward Hogan and Joseph Healey.

Lapa Cadillac Mine Loses $34,854 In '43

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Lapa Cadillas Gold Mines Limited, Heva River, Que., to-day reported a loss of $34,854 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1943. This compared with $60,634 the previous year. Working capital was $154,207 compared with $36,462.

Denison Denny, president, reported the company had a substantial interest in Kingston Silica Mines, Kingston, Ont., and an option to purchase control. He reported the prime purpose of Lapa directos was to obtain a new gold property as the shutdown Cadillac property held little prospect for the future. Lapa Cadillac, he added, is free of debt, has substantial assets, and the plant or equipment may be sold or used on another property.

dent's request would be granted or denied, with the Opposition seemingly having the edge at present.

The reaction ranged from Senator Burton K. Wheeler's (Dem.-Mont.) charge that the President's proposal was "a very definite, if not final, step toward Fascism," to the contention of Rep. James W. Wadsworth (Rep.-N.Y.) that it was "the democratic thing to do."

Robert P. Patterson, the United States Under-Secretary for War, said enactment of a National Service Act would result in stabilization of labor in critical industries and would provide a definite morale boost for troops overseas.

Patterson said in an interview he thought "there would be little compulsion" of labor beyond requiring workers to retain jobs for which they have been trained."

Use Snowmobile

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 12 (CP)—A snowmobile mail and passenger service between this Eastern Ontario town and Morristown, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence river, went into operation yesterday. With a capacity of six passengers, the craft is built to travel on water or upon surface ice.

TO MONTREAL — Edward Phelan, director of the International labor office of the League of Nations, told reporters in New York that post-war unemployment is not inevitable. He predicted "considerable properity" for some countries, and named the United States and Canada. He had just arrived on the Pan-American Airway's clipper, on his way to Montreal.

Havelock Wants Streets Re-surfaced

HAVELOCK, Jan. 12—(ENS). — At the inaugural meeting of the Havelock Village Council the clerk was instructed to make application to the county that they wished to have the surface put on the street this summer if possible, and that the municipality would be willing to pay one-quarter of this expense. Reeve Seeney presided and all of the old councillors, E. J. Leeson, R. Sanderson, W. Martin, and James Ketchen, were present. In the correspondence read was the matter of the Municipal Association, and on motion by Councillors Sanderson and Ketchen that the clerk be instructed to join up with this association and to remit the fee of $5.00 for 1944. On a further motion the clerk and Reeve were appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the Municipal Association, and that the clerk gets his expenses paid if he attends.

With reference to a petition of the merchants of Havelock wishing the closing of stores all day Wednesdays, and on motion by Councillors Sanderson and Martin that owing to the fact that the percentage of signatures was not enough, that no action be taken in this matter.

The request for the use of the hall for drilling the Air Cadet Squadron was moved by Councillors Martin and Leeson and granted, but the clerk will notify their commanding officer that the boys be not allowed to wear heavy boots that mark up the floors.

James Hoard was engaged to operate the snow plough on the west-end and Caleb Coon snow plough operator for the east-end of the village at $3.00 a trip. Richard Sanderson was appointed a member of the Board of Health for 1944. Fred McKenzie and Carman Coon were appointed members of the Park Board for the next three years. George Jones was appointed pound keeper for 1944. The auditors for the 1943 books will be Ross Barrons and William Barrie at a salary of $85.00. The question of a topcoat for Chief Akins was discussed, and this request was granted.

By-law 524 confirming the appointment of W. J. Akins as assessor, caretaker of the hall, fire engines, sanitary inspector, weed inspector, and Chief Constable for the Village of Havelock at the allowed price of $85.00 per month to cover all duties was given its several readings and passed, on motion by Councillors Sanderson and Ketchen.

By-law 525, arranigng for the borrowing from the Bank of Toronto of money as required, until the taxes come in, was given its several readings and passed on motion by Councillors Martin and Leeson.

The clerk was authorized to order six subscriptions to the Municipal World and 75 dog tags for 1944. The report of the relief officer was received and account of $6.00 ordered paid. The 1943 collector's roll was received. The rate of pay for all labor for 1944 was set at 40 cents an hour. The following accounts were ordered paid, by Councillors Sanderson and Ketchen:

W J. Akins, December telephone, $2.50; Bert Wannamaker, one trip with snow plough, $3.00; Edward Forbes, five hours sanding sidewalks, $1.50; Harry Tinney, 16½ hours sanding sidewalks, $4.95; C. W. Morley L. Perry Dies In Kingston

KINGSTON, Jan. 12 — (CP).— Morley L. Perry, manager of the Napanee Branch of the National Selective Service Bureau, died today in Kingston General Hospital following a serious operation. Owing to illness he had been on leave of absence from his duties since last July.

He was also the proprietor of the Perry Coal and Wood Company in Napanee. Born in North Fredericksburg, he was a son of the late A. B. Perry and was well known throughout this district. He was a member of St. Patrick's Church.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Violet O'Reilly, a daughter Edith and seven sons, Vernon of the R.C.A.F. at Calgary, and Byron, Jule, Bernard, Jack, Douglas, and Morley, Jr. at home. A sister Mrs. Sperry Fraser and a brother Ray F. Perry, Reeve of North Fredericksburg Township, also survive.

Fall Precipitation Way Below Normal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP).— Lack of normal rain and snowfall during the fall months to-day is causing considerable concern to agriculture department and to war food administration officials in the United States who have been charged with the task of providing large amounts of food in 1944 for civilians the armed services, and lend-lease.

The Agriculture Department said the prospect for a continued heavy volume of crop production in 1944 is not as favorable as it was at the beginning of 1942 and 1943.

The 1942 crop set an all - time record, however, with 1943 figures only slightly lower — and officials point out that an increase in precipitation along with an expected increase in acreage planted this year still would bring in a tremendous food crop.

Fall precipitation from September through December was the lightest since 1939 and about 21 per cent below normal.

Disastrous Fire

MARYSVILLE, Mich., Jan. 12— (AP)—Fire last night destroyed the Morton Salt Company's largest mid-west plant, razing principal buildings and several smaller structures and causing damage estimated by General Manager Fred Philbrick at more than $2,500,000.

St. James' United Church Reports Year Of Increased Activity

The annual congregational meeting of St. James' United Church was held Monday evening in Wesley Hall. The minister, Rev. Fred Craik was elected chairman and J. A. Fife was appointed secretary.

Following a brief devotional period the reports for the year were given. The Women's Association has had another successful year, providing additional furnishings for the parsonage and giving liberally to the trustee fund. The Women's Missionary Society has exceeded the allocation set by the Presbyterial and a splendid spirit has prevailed as groups have planned devotional meetings month by month. The young women of the Mission Circle have met regularly in the homes of the members and show creditable advance in missionary instruction and giving. Keen interest has been shown in the works of the Mission Band. This group of young people will provide leaders in missionary department of St. James' Church through the faithful service rendered by the present leaders.

Special mention was made of the steady progress in the junior congregation under the leadership of Mrs. E. Hunter and Mrs. F. Craik who for three years have been training the children in this important department of church activity.

700 Red Cross Garments

Red Cross work has had its full place at St. James'. A group of faithful workers have met regularly. During the year over 700 garments have been made for the general department of Red Cross in Peterborough.

The Young People's Union reported progress throughout the year. In this department the young people are being prepared to take their place on the official boards of the church. This society subscribed to several important funds of the church and to the general missionary work of the United Church.

The members of the Brotherhood have held regular meetings and enjoyed splendid fellowship. The members have accepted several invitations during the year to assist in special services in rural churches. The Sunday School has enjoyed a most successful year. A staff of fifty voluntary workers are steadily building up an effective organization. The receipts from the whole school exceeded $1,000.

The general financial report was given by C. F. Kitney. For the mortgage, trustee, missionary and maintenance and current funds over $6,000 was reported. A special committee, recently appointed by the Official Board, presented a unique plan for the clearance of the mortgage on the church property. This project will be put into operation by the unanimous vote of the congregational meeting and it is hoped that the full amount will be subscribed by Sunday, April 2, leading up to fitting services of gratitude on Easter Sunday.

Appointments were made to the Sessions for three years: C. F. Kitney, J. O. Fife, A. E. Saunders, E. R. Frost, T. Littlefair, J. Freeman, Mrs. A. Wilson. For one year: R. Ritchie.

Those elected to the Board of Stewards, for three years: G. I. Cuff, J. A. Fife, E. Wood, R. Moore, R. W. Moncrief.

One behalf fo the Official Board and congregation a hearty vote of appreciation was given to Rev. and Mrs. Fred Craik for their devoted service in the several departments of the church and Sunday School. A vote of appreciation was passed and tendered to the organist, Cecil Lapp, and the members of the choir, and also to W. A. Wood and his son Frank for faithful services as caretakers of the church. The meeting was brought to a close by prayer offered by T. Littlefair.

4 Youths Plead Guilty To Theft

Pleas of guilty to charges of breaking and entering the store of Theodore Crawford, Lakefield, and committing theft and to stealing gasoline from Clarence Foster, Lakefield, were entered by three Toronto and a Belleville youth in police court this morning.

The four were:

Alfred B. Watts, 17, of 263 Sherbourne street, Toronto.

Douglas Bunnette, 16, of 21 Strachan street, Belleville.

John Caride, 17, George street, Toronto.

Joseph Wasslyn, 19, of 41 Seaton street, Toronto.

All four elected summary trial on the shop-breaking charge.

At the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., the youthful prisoners were remanded by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., for a week.

The four were arrested by Provincial Constable Pollard and Constable R. Carr of Port Hope near Bowmanville Tuesday morning after a chase. They were brought back to Peterborough during the afternoon by Provincial Constable Price Morris, Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure and Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield.

Savings Clubs Bring Help To War Victims

In taking a part in the activities of the various Stamp Out Hitler Clubs, members are serving a double purpose in connection with the war effort, one feature being the all-necessary giving of money towards providing the tools to help on the day of victory through the purchase of war savings stamps and certificates, and the other the help that they give to assist the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

It is really remarkable what can be accomplished even by steady work of 25 cents a time, for in this manner some 225 certificates of the $5 type have been purchased, thus giving a total help of $900 to the war effort in cash, besides giving a total of $225.50 to the fund.

In this connection a new series of cards have been printed under the name of the Churchill Stamp out Hitler Clubs, from which the first is reported today. credit for this going to Ed. Ryan and C.N.R. uptown office, in which Frank Di Lauro was the winner, to be closely followed by similar clubs at Ackerman's and the Westclox where Miss Allen and Mrs. MacKenzie were the winners respectively. These cards are now available to any person or groups by getting in touch with Bob Everett at the Empress Hotel, who has headed this war assist activity right from its inception.

The most prominent clubs of this kind for some time now are those at the Canada Packers Ltd., led by Nurse Yelland, and the Kiwanis Club, which each hold one draw every week. In the former club the winners are reported as being Fred Storey, Harry LaFave, R. Butchart and E. Trotter, while winners in the Kiwanis Club were D. Fitzgerald figuring twice and C. Huffman and T. Rodger completing the list, while another club, that of Selkirk's Men's Shop, reports one winner in the person of Clayton Selkirk, who also has won on a former occasion, and the Theatre Club gives the name of Ossie Johnston as winner.

Bette Davis Cheque

Another assist from Bob Everett comes in the form of the cheque he received from Bette Davis in response to a letter, which he gave the cash for to keep the cheque as a souvenir. This had been made the means of drawing further help to the fund in a fairly substantial way, and now in today's receipts it represents another personal help on his part for the fund.

Also recorded is some help from the North-end Carollers, who were apparently the only ones this passing Christmas season to make this a means of giving help to the fund. This beautiful custom having its origin in the old land, could really have a much wider usage here when weather conditions permit, for all draw inspiration from the performance of carols telling the story of the Nativity.

Mayor Requests More Thought On Postwar Era

Mayor Hamilton struck a note of self-criticism in his remark to the Council Monday night: "We are not making the progress we should with post-war planning."

His Worship had referred in his opening address to a call for immediate action in appointing several auxiliary committees, and he mentioned it again in the evening, but with another meeting in sight for next Monday night the members decided to leave the appointment of these committees until then.

A report from the Department of Transport relating to an airport site was passed on to the special committee engaged in that canvass of possibilities for development in Peterborough.

"It doesn't sound favorable," City Clerk Outram said as the report was left to the committee for deliberation.

Not Much Hope

Alderman Dutton said it was all discouraging to Peterborough's hopes for an airport.

"We might get an independent report and compare it with these others. From the reports we have received from time to time it seems that unless something out of the ordinary is done we are not going to get a port."

As reported a month ago in regard to this special committee it had devoted a great deal of time and effort especially in interviews and motoring to prospective sites. Alderman Bradburn has been chairman of that committee, and his associates of the council think it may be a month or more before he is able to resume his civic work.

Again quoting Mayor Hamilton's mild self-indictment he said the council would require more information than it now had as to post-war planning.

More Delay

Obviously it is the intention to name this committee Monday night, but an alderman commented to the Examiner Tuesday, "We'll be starting on the estimates in another week or two and that will take up a whole lot of time for the next six weeks. We've done nothing about the city hall plans that I know of, We did make preliminary enquiries I know, and the Mayor and Aldermen Bradburn and Sullivan went to St. Catharines and Kitchener, but what have we done since then? You tell me.

"We heard some familiar phrases Monday morning: "civic responsibility", "serious problems" by Mayor Hamilton, and the people's expectation of leadership from the council as stated by Bishop MacoDnald. And they are all true; they certainly are not trite, but there is a hazard in their familiar sound. I don't know any council that has been confronted with more municipal problems than this council of 1944. All our essential and important routine work seems to have been thrust into a secondary place. It makes you wonder whether we are really as deeply impressed by the challenge of this rapidly changing time as we may think we are. Personally, I am willing to spend a great deal of extra time in weekly meetings, if necessary, so that we can get to grips with some of these problems and get them in hand."

United Church Members Lead In Census

One in every three or four persons in Peterborough is a member of the United Church or directs his denomination preference through it. Every fourth or fifth person is an Anglican and every fifth a Roman Catholic.

These are general averages based on the compilation of the assessment department from its survey of the city in 1943 for this year's taxation. W. J. Henry, as head of department, has presented each member of the Council with a copy.

"This statement," Mr. Henry emphasizes, "is not to be taken as a religious census. In compiling it, all occupants were classified according to the religion of the householder."

The figures apply only to the residents of the city, as follows:

Protestants, 22,013; Roman Catholics, 5,992; total 28,005.

United Church, 9,709; Anglican, 6,242; Roman Catholic, 5,992; Presbyterian, 2,267; Baptist, 1,786; Salvation Army 578.

Bethany Tabernacle, 228; Jewish, 178; Gospel Hall, 163; Assembly Hall, 43; Pentecostal, 314; Christian Science, 29; Free Methodists, 42; Bethel Baptist, 23; Miscellaneous (Protestant), 411.

The population of the five most numerous denominations according to wards is as follows:

	U.C.	Ang.	R.C.	Pres.	Bpt.
South	2474	1604	1658	448	484
Centre	794	742	442	277	154
West	2388	1385	1386	527	334
North	2622	1498	1065	799	552
East	1431	1013	1441	216	262

The population of the city's five wards is shown in this report as follows: South, 7,110; Centre, 2,763; West, 6,400; North, 7,144; East, 4,588.

15 Names Appear As Casualties

Those who lived through the First World War will feel a familiar tug of apprehension as they scan the casualty list to-day, which is the heaviest for Peterborough in the present war. Fifteen names appear on the honour roll of dead and wounded and represent both the city and district.

Members of an Eastern Ontario Regiment killed in action are as follows:

Pte. Eric Cheetham, whose wife Mrs. Dorothy Grace Cheetham, lives at Bowmanville; Pte. Clark Elwood McMurray, son of Mrs. W. G. McMurray, William street, Colborne; A.Cpl. Crother Hubert Wilson, brother of Mrs. Beryl Blakely, Eldorado.

Those serving with an Eastern Ontario Regiment suffering from wounds are: Pte. Frank Baldwin, son of William B. Baldwin, Victoria Road, Ont.; Pte. Henry Joseph Higgins, whose wife, Mrs. Edith Alaine Higgins, lives at Fenelon Falls; Pte. Austin Keeler, son of Mrs. Enima Johnston, Havelock; L.Cpl. Hubert Allen Mountney, husband of Mrs. Ruby Mountney, of Bancroft; although wounded, A. L.Sgt. Herbert Edward Earle Mathison, whose wife, Mrs. Vivian Anne Mathison, lives at 67 Brown street, Port Hope, has been able to remain on duty.

A Lakefield man, A.Cpl. Thomas Raycroft Moore, son of Mrs. Margaret Moore, serving with a Quebec Regiment, also appears on the wounded list.

In addition six other names are given of casualties which are already been published. They include: A.-Cpl. Earl Harold Pruner of Peterborough, killed; Pte. Raymond E. Hay, of Campbellford, died of wounds; Cpl. Harold B. Corrigan, R.R. No. 6, wounded; A. L.-Cpl. Douglas Adair Hill, of Havelock, wounded; Pte. J. J. McFadden, Peterborough, wounded; Pte. Albert Edward Maudsley, Peterborough, wounded.

ARM CHAIR HUNTING

Residents in the West End are getting their hunting in the easy way. Leslie Hunter, 395 Monaghan road discovered a pheasant roosting on his gate Tuesday night, and aided by a friend, Harland Keefer, 611 Walkerfield avenue, they set out to catch it. They managed to drop a crate over its head, but were afraid to leave it because of cats, so turned it over to Ross Dobbin who installed it with the rest of the menagerie at the Filtration plant.

Additional Area For Annexation Being Discussed

Inclusion of the Park-Monaghan Road block in the proposed North Monaghan boundary has become recently a new prospect for discussion between the two municipalities and reference to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Residents of that area south of Lansdowne street and extending to the river have been approaching the idea that they might consider now, when the opportunity is within their grasp, the advisability to themselves and their future interests, the idea of going along with the other sections of the township which have been asking for incorporation in the city.

Some of their representatives have consulted City Solicitor Huycke this week, and it is expected that he may have something to report to the whole council at a committee Thursday afternoon. The Legal committee was delegated to continue consideration of the annexation question, and Alderman Sands, chairman, requested that all the members of the council attend. It is a preliminary to the renewed discussion between the two municipalities and their school boards in the county council chamber Friday afternoon.

Look Ahead

William J. Lundy, who lived in the township many years ago, but has long been a resident of the city, told the Examiner that he agreed with the township council's proposed western boundary from No. 28 highway to No. 7 highway, that is to Lansdowne street. The township is disposed to hold out for the city to assume the subdivided property on the west side of Western avenue. Mr. Lundy suggested that if annexation is to come in to effect both the city and the township residents should take a long view, especially for the future planning of the enlarged city to the south and west.

"Take in that west side of Western avenue to Lansdowne street, then come east on Landsowne to Erskine avenue and go south on Erskine to the river. That should take in a strip of 150 feet on the west side of Erskine. For that area between Monaghan road and Erskine where there is a lot of vacant land probably there might be some agreement as to assessment, except for local improvements. But, that is a detail to be worked out."

Mr. Lundy also proposed that Braidwood avenue be widened to seventy feet. "Now is the time to build for the future. We older citizens will be dead and gone, but the city is bound to keep on growing just as we have seen it. The city cannot area, and obviously all that present plan unless it has control of the part of the township is a suburban block.

"Braidwood avenue will likely become one of the main streets in that part of the township, and the cost of widening it now would be small, because most of the property required, two feet on each side, is not yet built on."

VON Experiences Rush With 81 New Cases

New cases totalling 81 and including 19 cases of the "flu" and five of pneumonia were visited by the Victorian Order of Nurses in the month of December. Of the 81, bedside nursing cases represented 65, and visits for bedside care showed a significant increase over previous months, the Order reports.

The possibility that the Order might be seriously hampered in its work of preventive care with parental cases and mothers with babies should the present boundaries of the city be extended was brought up in the report. It was emphasized that instructional calls of this type were almost nil during December because the staff was engaged with the more immediate needs of bedside nursing cases, and it was stated that "a situataion which would necessitate a permanent curtailment in our preventive program would be regettable."

Operating within its present limits, the V.O.N. found difficulties during the month with its staff as now constituted. Extra time at Christmas and the New Year's was limited to one day as it was found impossible to allow more, and no compensating time could be arranged for the 15 hours spent by nurses on night calls. The report said that the Order had been unable to obtain relief locally, and referred to the effect of the nation-wide shortages of nurses on the extension of V.O.N. services.

TANK CRASHES PUB

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., (CP) —A tank crashed into a public house here and injured one of the four persons in the pub at the time.

KILLED IN ACTION—Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. James Whittington of South Monaghan, that their son, Sgt. Jack Whittington, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was killed in action in Italy on December 24. Sgt. Whittington enlisted with the 1st Midland Regiment in August, 1940, and went overseas in October, 1942, joining the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He left England last July and took part in the invasion of Sicily. Before enlisting he was a member of the staff of the Bank of Toronto in Millbrook.

Lions Discuss Post-War Reconstruction

Three members of the Peterborough Lions Club addressed the club Monday evening, resuming a series of discussions on post-war reconstruction aimed at developing concrete plans to be forwarded to the parent organization later this year.

James Dutton, Jr., president of the club was in the chair and Bruce Sargent, branch manager of Great-West Life Insurance Company, the first speaker, described the part that insurance will play in a post-war world. P. D. Scollard, lawyer, dealt with the recent report by Professor Cyril James on the subject, and he emphasized forecasts of a lower old age and industrial pension age, and also intimated industry may demand higher educational requirements from those who make industrial jobs their life work. Mr. Scollard warned against a wave of buying that may immediately follow the war.

Walter Smook, accountant at Genelco Ltd. discussed wartime controls, and pointed out the need for retention of many such controls for some time after the war is over, in order that we may meet demands for food and other commodities in countries that are now ravaged by war. A special feature of his talk was a reference to a small place in the States that had made its own post-war survey and discovered actual needs and purchasing power of the families with gratifying results.

The thanks of the club to the speakers was voiced by Herbert Jamison.

When the next talks are given, Jim Byrne, Sam Staples, and Ted Weir will be the speakers.

Nelson Hills of Windsor who has been transferred to Peterborough as branch manager of Borden's Ltd. was welcomed as a new member.

Ontario County Trucks Water For Livestock

Midwinter farm activities throughout the province include in Ontario county the trucking of water to keep cisterns filled for livestock. "The shortage is greater this winter than at any other time for quite a number of years. In one district two trucks, each with 500-gallon capacity, have been working long hours for the last month trying to keep cisterns filled."

Hastings county specially mentions sales of hay at $8 and $9 a ton for delivery to the United States. A few cars have been sent to Newfoundland. Prince Edward sold out of the county six cars of stock last week.

Carleton says its farmers are generally "seed minded" and are making provision for requirements 'so that no serious local seed shortage is expected.' Frontenac refers to the heavy production of eggs and marked decline in price. Glengary injects a pessimistic note in its remark that farmers are convinced the hay "does not possess the same feeding value as in some other years." And after al the new knowledge of vitamins and the earlier harvesting of the hay crop.

Too Much Frost

Leeds expects an increasingly acute shortage of labor for this year. A foot of frost in Welland and no protecting blanket of snow, also brings forth a dark opinion, almost an assertion that 'drying winds are injuring the fall wheat.'

Lambton says chick hatchery representatives are scouring the country selecting poultry flocks for a supply of hatching eggs. Two-thirds of the better flocks have been blood tested. That county seems to be concentrating on the poultry branch of its industry.

Wins Decoration

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(CP) —Wing Cmdr. Lloyd V. Chadburn, 24, of Aurora and Oshawa, has been awarded a Bar to his Distinguished Service Order—highest award for gallantry in action against the enemy yet won by a member of the R.C.A.F. in the present war.

Former Peterboro Boy Reported Missing

Although he left Peterborough at the age of four, FO. Carroll Donahue of Toronto who has been reported missing, has relatives in Ennismore. It is believed Harry Cadigan is an uncle and he is the son of John Donahue of Pickering.

Born in Peterborough in 1915, Carroll was brought to Toronto in 1919, being educated at St. Cecilia's Separate School and Humberside Collegiate. He was employed by the E. J. Hunter Tire Co. when he enlisted in July, 1940. Graduating from Jarvis Bombing and Gunnery School in February, 1941, he left for overseas March 10 of that year. By December, 1942, he had made 29 flights and until recently he was acting as an instructor in Scotland. No word of his return to operational duty was received. A sister, Mrs. Leo (Mildred) Fitzgerald, lives in Toronto.

Topping—¾ cup sweetened cranberry sauce, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg. Mix lemon rind, cinnamon and nutmeg with cranberry sauce.

Cake—3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1-3 cups sifted, all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk.

Cream fat and sugar until light and fluffy; add the egg and vanilla and beat thoroughly. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk, beating well. Pour the batter into a deep, well greased, 9-inch pie plate or an 8 x 8 inch cake pan. Spread cranberry topping over the batter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., for 45 minutes. Serves six.

Victory Recipes Tested By Experimental Kitchen

Something hot and tasty is the order of the day at lunch or supper. As a foundation for a wide variety of hot supper dishes such cereal products as spaghetti, macaroni, and noodles are prime favorites, with potatoes and other vegetables running a close second.

As stretchers for the protein foods, which must be used carefully, the macaroni family is hard to beat. Their bland flavor gives to the finished dish the characteristics of the "stretched" rather than the stretcher and prevents their frequent use from becoming monotonous.

The secret of well cooked macaroni, noodles and spaghetti, as disclosed by the home economists in the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, is to cook them in plenty of boiling water. They recommend 1 quart of boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt to 4 ounces of the cereal....1 cup of macaroni in 1-inch pieces equals 4 ounces. Cooking time is from 15 to 20 minutes and should be followed by immediate draining and a cold water rinse to prevent the pieces sticking together in a pasty mess. A tip worth remembering is that a light greasing of the inside rim of the saucepan will prevent boiling over.

Noodle Ring with Vegetables.

4 ounces bread noodles, 2 eggs separated, 1 cup milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Cook and drain noodles. Beat egg yolks until thick and light, add milk, noodles and seasonings; fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a well-greased ring mould, set in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahr., until set, about 1 hour. Turn out on a serving dish and fill centre with well-seasoned creamed vegetables. Six servings.

A ring mould may be improvised by setting a small bowl in a casserole or baking dish.

Savoury Spaghetti.

¾ pound liver, ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 cups tomato juice, 8 oz. spaghetti.

Scald liver in boiling water 5 minutes; drain and grind. Brown onion in fat, add liver and seasonings, and cook slowly 10 minutes. Add tomato juice, simmer 20 minutes. If sauce becomes too thick during cooking, thin with a little water. Meanwhile cook and drain spaghetti. Pile spaghetti on a deep platter and pour over it the sauce. Six servings.

Note.—A clove of garlic may be cooked with the onion and removed before adding remaining ingredients.

Macaroni and Sausage Casserole.

2½ cups macaroni, 1-inch pieces, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup grated cheese, 6 large pan-fried sausages, cut in pieces.

Cook and drain macaroni. Beat eggs until light, add milk and salt. Add this mixture to the macaroni and blend in cheese reserving a little for topping. Place half of the macaroni mixture in a well greased baking dish. Cover with sausages and top with the rest of the macaroni mixture. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Place in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahr., until set, about 1 hour. Six servings.

Note.—Diced bologna or weiners may be used instead of the sausages.

St. James' W.M.S. Reviews Work of 1943

Mrs. E. L. Woodley, Chamberlain Street, was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the members of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary at the first meeting of the New Year, when reports of the past year's activities were received.

Mrs. Wesley Rose, past president, was in charge of the opening devotions and reports of last year's work were given. The secretary, Mrs. E. Kitney, reviewed the year, and the treasurer, Mrs. R. B. English, reported that this Auxiliary had exceeded their allocation. Christian Stewardship was reported by Miss M. Deyell, showing the individual givings of members by envelopes.

Community friendship was in charge of Mrs. G. H. Powe, and this included visiting at homes and hospitals, cards to the sick and bereaved, and made a survey of every home represented in the church, particularly war-time homes. A report on supplies for the bale sent by this Auxiliary was given by Mrs. E. M. Davis.

The Associate Helpers, whose work is done largely through mite boxes, was described by Mrs. McAdams. Mrs. Woodley, reporting for Miss Morton, said that 28 missionary monthlies are taken in St. James', and Mrs. Beavis, temperance secretary, presents her department at each meeting. Literature is in charge of Mrs. S. Hanlin, who procures books for all members. Miss Constance Wagar, Mission Band secretary, reported through Mrs. E. M. Davis, a membership of 48, who exceeded their allocation by $5. She thanked two S.S. classes for generous donations, and the Auxiliary for the gift of 25 subscriptions to "World Friends."

The offering revealed substantial donations from Misses M. Robinson and M. Easson.

The new executive staff for 1944 was installed by Rev. F. W. Craik, and the new president, Mrs. E. M. Davis, took the chair, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Woodley. A solo, "Life to Come," contributed by Mrs. M. Braund, was accompanied by Mrs. G. Wallace. A New Year message to the Auxiliary from Mrs. Jean Wagar was read by Mrs. English.

How Your Child May Be Inviting Colds

Due to being indoors more with less chance for play, many youngsters' bowels become less regular in winter and this condition often lowers resistance and invites attack by cold germs. To help prevent such colds, keep your child's bowels regular with Children's Own Tablets. These pleasant, little tablets are a laxative and more. They also help sweeten the sour stomach that often goes with out-of-order bowels. Get Children's Own Tablets today and guard your child against unnecessary colds. 25¢ at druggists.

Leader Retires From Office After 12 Years

Retiring after twelve continuous years of service as president of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church, Mrs. Howard Clegg gave a brief historical sketch of the Auxiliary, and recalled a few interesting events which had occurred during her term of office, at a meeting held at the home of Miss Ines Barrer, 218 Wolfe street.

The new president, Mrs. Ernest Wesley, thanked members for their confidence, and spoke of the interest of each member in the aims and work of the Auxiliary. The secretary, Mrs. Irwin Oesch, read the "Story of the Year 1943," giving an account of the highlights of the monthly meetings and the work of the secretaries of the Auxiliary. Mrs. Oesch, who is also Christian Stewardship Secretary, announced the allocation for 1944, and distributed pledge cards to the group. The treasurer, Mrs. W. Dale, gave the annual report, and announced that the group had exceeded its objective.

Mrs. G. W. Denike, the new secretary, read a letter from the honorary president, Miss Annie Crocker, and it was announced that the meeting of the Presbyterial will be held in Knox Church Tuesday, January 25, with an executive meeting called for today, to meet with the executive of the senior W.M.S. group.

"The Bible for All of Canada's Children," was the theme of the worship service conducted by Mrs. H. Williamson. Mrs. Clegg and Mrs. Dawson Gourley stressed family worship and Bible reading in the home, and urged the members to share in the work of teaching the scripture among Canadian children.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Pitchford, 115 Morrow street.

Woman Serves Navy As Meteorologist

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 —(CP)—When Sub-Lt. Helen Rosemary Partridge of Toronto joined the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in December, 1942, she applied for a plotter's job and worked in naval operations rooms, but because of experience as a meteorologist in civilian life she now works over drawing boards at naval service headquarters.

She uses colored crayons and ink and her designs affect ships, men and millions of dollars in cargo carried by the Royal Canadian Navy.

Sub-Lt. Partridge is the only woman meteorologist in the navy. She assists the staff officer (meteorology), Lieut. T. Boardman of Hamilton.

Her job is to co-relate station weather reports and prepare a comprehensive picture of weather conditions at all times. She and Lieut. Boardman form the meteorological section at headquarters under Capt. D. W. Farmer, F.R.G.S., hydrographer of the R.C.N.

She completed six months' service as Wren Annesley before being commissioned and posted to H.M.C.S. Bytown here last June. Shortly after she graduated she married FO. David G. Partridge, now stationed at nearby Uplands as an instructor.

Though not yet a qualified forecaster, she will go overseas soon to take a three-months' course with the admiralty, from which she will emerge a full-fledged official weather forecaster.

For Thursday, January 13

PROGRESSIVE IDEAS, with proper constructive thinking and balanced regulation of systems and details, should bring surprising and unforeseen development of very ambitious programs. These may be outside the customary domain of procedure yet call for a calm, rational and understanding grasp of the possibilities, rather than by forced issues, erratic or irregular ways and means. Take time out for rest and working out reasonable measures, and much profit and personal happiness are in sight. Adventure and romance are also in the offing.

Those whose birthday it is are faced by a year of decided opportunity for pushing their afairs into high places of success and progress, probably in unusual channels. But this advancement and objective may be best secured by calm and keen insight into the underlying factors, with a reasonable and workable program for pushing to cherished goals. Snap judgments and slipshod methods would jeopardize high prospects .With clever management there is promise of a profitable, happy and perhaps romantic denouement to exciting affairs.

A child born on this day will have exceptional talent, sustained by practical skill and creative ability. These should be supported by a studious, rational and thoughtful mode of operation rather than impulse and emotion, for a successful and happy career.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Miss Rachel Young, suerintendent of the Children's Aid Society, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Home and School Association of Central School, and had as her topic, "Character Building." She stressed the need for discipline and authority in the home, saying that many mothers, particularly those whose husbands are at war, lack the necessary control over the child, and give in to his whims and fancies.

Home training should consist of physical care, good health habits, and love and affection, to give the child a sense of security. Religion plays a very important part in the building of a child's character, the speaker went on, and it begins at home. Unity is closely coupled with religion, and is very necessary, since discords tends to drive the child out into the world.

Miss Young went on to say that working mothers cannot give adequate care to their children, and that children who start to work too early in life create a bad influence on other children. Children at 14 years of age are not very strong, and lack stability, she continued, and therefore drift from one job to another, and that instability will stay with them as they grow older.

Mrs. L. Groombridge was in charge of the meeting, and sang a solo, "Down the Vale," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gwen James. Mr. F. H. Dearborn gave a short talk on current events, discussing briefly the great difficulties China had experienced in securing supplies, and how she has overcome those obstacles by building roads, and improving transport facilities. He touched briefly on the post-war plans, especially on educational reform in England, which will lay a foundation for a better school system.

Mrs. S. Bennett moved a vote of thanks to the speakers, and to Mrs. Groombridge, and Mrs. C. D. Munro was at the piano for the National Anthem which marked the adjournment of the meeting.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL.

The program for the regular meeting of the King George Home and School Association was in charge of the teachers of the school with F. E. Kerr, Jack Telford, Mrs. J. Payne and Miss E. Fusee planning the evening. Mrs. A. G. Stock, president of the association, presided.

A paper prepared by Mrs. Payne on the report cards from Grades 2 to 7 was read by Miss Fusee. Mr. Kerr reported current events, and also explained the report card for Grade 8. In conclusion, he asked the parents if they were concerned with the immediate or ultimate success of the pupils, because many boys and girls were not doing their best work in school, as they had the idea they would soon be going into employment.

"Some Aspects of Mental Health in School" was the subject chosen by Mr. Telford, and he stated that a child in good mental health was one who attempted to derive satisfaction from life, to achieve a fine degree of efficiency in school, to be sociable with his fellows, and to have a fair degree of reserve.

The speaker developed the idea that competition was poor for mental health, humor was a boon, and that self-discipline was necessary. In dealing with the subject matter taught in schools, he stated that the human animal is too intelligent to remember facts of no importance and that therefore only important facts should be taught and emphasized. Points to be stressed should be imaginative foresight, originality, versatile observation, and liberal thought.

During the evening a sing-song, with Mr. Telford at the piano, was enjoyed, and the attendance book was awarded to Mrs. Samson's room. After a vote of thanks to the speakers, given by Mrs. F. Stevens, refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Scriver and her committee.

WOMEN SIXTH COLUMNISTS CLOSE HEARTS TO WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

Welcome Home May Be More Tragic Than Parting, But Girls Must Help Broken Lovers.

A girl writes: "Before he entered the service I was engaged to be married to a boy with whom I was very much in love, as he was with me, and we planned to be married at the end of the war. He was wounded in action and has been invalided home and is now in the hospital. He will never be perfect physically again. He will always be a cripple.

"When he came back he told me that he no longer loved me and he thought we should break our engagement, but I have since found out that he is only calling our marriage off because he feels that it would not be fair to me. But I still love him and want to marry him in spite of this unfortunate accident.

"Do you think that I should try to forget him, or should I make him realize how I feel and that his misfortune makes him all the dearer to me, and makes me all the more anxious to be with him to comfort and help him?"

Wounded Fiancees a Problem.

The problem that confronts this girl is one that many thousands of other women are going to have to face to-day or to-morrow, for Johnny is not always going to come home with flying banners, playing bands and his chest covered with medals. So piteously often he will come back maimed, a wreck of the strong, handsome, upstanding lad who went forth so gaily in fight for his country.

Sometimes he will have worse than physical wounds. Under the stress of battle, with the scream of shells and the roaring of cannon in his ears, many a man's mind gives way and he is never normal again. He finds it impossible to adjust himself to the dull routine of everyday work and supporting a family. Many another man will be left by the war just a jangle of nerves that will make him irritable and unreasonable and hard to live with.

Much as it wrenched the hearts of wives and sweethearts to say good-bye to the men they loved when they went off to war, their welcoming back may be a still more heartbreaking experience. But it is one that many women will have to go through, and there is no question so important right now as

British Farms Mechanized To Produce More

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP)—British agriculture has become the most highly-mechanized in the world since the war began, and wheat production per acre is nearly three times as much as that of the United States, Lord De La Warr, chairman of the United Kingdom Agricultural Research Council said today.

"Britain produces three times as much per man as Germany," he said in an address prepared for delivery to Ottawa Canadian Club. "Since the war British production has increased by 60 to 70 per cent."

Lord De La Warr, himself a farmer, said the problem of the future must be worked out in two stages: 1. There must be concentration on saving Europe from utter starvation; and 2. There is the duty of making real the words "Freedom from Want" in the Atlantic Charter.

Experience had taught that maximum production will not be obtained unless security of market and price made it possible for producers to make confident long-term plans.

"Britain is not looking for self-sufficiency or thinking of how to provide for her producers at the expense of their fellow-producers overseas," said Lord De La Warr.

"Before the war all food producers were fellow-sufferers in what was in fact a regulated market.

"In Britain at any rate we should not be prepared to give the control of our essential foodstuffs to any but a public body. But that is our affair; what matters to other nations is whether we buy as in the past according to the haggle of the market or a fixed and continuing market.

World Food Policy

"British agriculturists do not look for a national agricultural policy which they know would fail as completely as pre-war policies. They look instead for a world food policy which will give security of market to producers in their own and other countries—and to consumers too."

Industrialists had been the British farmer's principal opponents in the past, "but many at last have learned their lesson," said Lord De La Warr.

"Today more than 70 per cent of the world's population are food producers; therefore if farmers are ruined where is the market for industrial goods?"

Common sense was forcing people to a system of economic co-operation.

"If, as before the war, we all try to cut each other's economic throats, all our throats will suffer," he said.

"The world will be crying out for food, and producers will be crying out to be allowed to supply it. Therefore, we have both potential demand and potential supply. Have we the sense, vision and courage to substitute the word 'actual' for the word 'potential?' If so, there is hope for world agriculture and world trade—and so for world peace."

RETURN HOME ON HOSPITAL SHIP — Two casualties from the Sicilian campaign, both wounded by mortar fire while serving with the First Canadian Division in the 8th Army. They are, Left to Right, Private W. P. Bis of Toronto, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and Bombardier G. Squires of St. Johns, Newfoundland, who served with a Royal Canadian Artillery unit.

A veteran of Dieppe and a German prisoner of war for a year and a half, Pte. Glenn D. Schwegler of Toronto, Left, with Lance-Corporal W. Barnett of Montreal, who was wounded by a bomb from a German mortar outside Moto in Italy. Schwegler was severely wounded in the early morning action on the Dieppe beach.

New Reassessment Of Village Planned By Lakefield Council

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 12 — (ENS). —Decision for a complete, new, reassessment of the village, by an outside valuation was the outstanding feature of the inaugural meeting of the village council on Monday night.

Reeve Gordon D. Scriver said this move was one that had been long overdue and in this he was supported by both old Councillors George Graham and George Charlton. The matter of bringing in an outside valuator was deemed the only fair system to accomplish this job, and though it was realized it possibly would be a fairly expensive proposition it was felt and agreed upon by all members as one that would be justified by results in the long run. It was believed possible the assessment as a whole might be raised but in turn would result in the lowering of the rate, which at present the council felt was too high.

Direct result of the move was the appointing in by-law No. 866 of Chief Garnet Samis as temporary assessor for the year 1944 to assist the valuator in this job.

Named to School Board

Two members were appointed to fill vacancies on the High School Trustee Board with Elwood H. Northey re-named for a term of one year and Frank S. Coyle for two years to fill vacancies left by E. W. Bailey and B. F. Blake.

Dr. J. C. Smith was appointed Medical Officer of Health for the village to fill the gap left by the passing of the late Dr. H. E. Moore. With him acting as Board of Health will be Reeve G. D. Scriver and Clerk E. H. Northey.

Committees for the year were chosen with Councillor G. S. Graham again in charge of finances; Councillor George Charlton back in position of roads supervisor; Councillor W. C. Grant in charge of property and Councillor Reg. Doubt, special committees.

Clerk Northey was authorized to borrow up to $15,000 to handle village affairs until 1944 taxes are paid.

Sanitary Collections

The perpetual headache in the form of the sanitary collectors problem drew considerable attention with the council offering to assist the new collector. Bert Withers in his first month's (December) cash collections, and it will be stressed to the villagers that garbage and sanitary collections day will be the second Tuesday in the month, and that payment must be made to the collector on the second Friday of each month.

In answer to an appeal by the Red Cross for a cord of wood or their committee rooms, the council went one step better and donated a cord, cut and split.

Asks For Light

L. Quakenbush a newcomer to the village, residing in the last house on the northern outskirts asked that an electric light be installed in the ten pole gap of darkness that exists between the Glynnwood Farm and the village outskirts. He pointed out that not only was the stretch particularly dark but since the highway had been improved the walk on the side of the road had been wiped out and pedestrians were forced to use the highway.

Reeve Scriver as member of the Hydro Commission promised the matter would receive favourable attention.

Following the meeting Clerk E. H. Northey and Mrs. Northey were host and hostess to the council and Chief of Police at a turkey dinner.

Fire Chief Allan Clark presented in detail a splendid report on the year's activities of the department.

Accounts were passed as follows: Abner Windsor work on rink, $2.40; Municipal World, poll books $3.07; Percy McFadden, snow plough $4.20; Lakefield News, $86.70; Percy Hockaday, grader, $16.50; Cam. Wasson, sanding, $2.80; William Ruttle $13.30; Thos. Martin, sanding, $2.45; Whillier Co., stationery $5.60; W. J. Charlton, fuel for hall, $78.20; Hydro Electric streets, $134.03 hall $12.75, S. J. Charlton, insurance rink, $50, stable $15; A. H. Clark, Fire Department payroll $110.75; A. H. Clark, telephone, Fire Department $4.91; J. A. Murphy, 25 cords of wood $262.50; Ontario Hospital, $45.50; Garnet Samis, police car expenses, $8; Porter and Co., $10; William Edwards, sanitary, $14.40; Stan. Richardson, gravel connecting link $303.00. Total $1,186.06.

Home For Christmas

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(CP Reuters) —Norwegian airmen spent Christmas flying back to Norway to deliver Christmas cheer to their countrymen in the form of coffee, chocolate and tobacco, the Norwegian Government Information Office disclosed yesterday. The planes roared over the rooftops, dropping sacks here and there in lots of two and three.

RUSS LEADER — Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, leader of the 1st Ukrainian Army, which is rolling back the German hordes into Poland.

A Poor Excuse

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — (AP). — A United States Navy yard employee admitted to U.S. district court to stealing $4,000 worth of government tools and materials from the yard. The worker, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said, not only had more of certain items at his home than the Navy yard had but also had some articles the yard lacks and can't buy because of shortages. The man's excuse: "I just like to take things home."

PROHIBITION?—Rep. Joseph R. Bryson (D.) of South Carolina, is shown here looking over a copy of the bill he introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives to outlaw beverages containing more than 1½ of one per cent. alcohol by volume.

Disease Ravages India

CALCUTTA, Jan. 12.—(CP-Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. Douglas Stuart, commander in charge of Bengal, disclosed last night that a smallpox epidemic had followed the recent Bengal famine which took thousands of lives.

Gen. Stuart said there was a grave shortage of inoculators, and vaccinators. He reported cholera still prevalent but decreasing.

EDITOR'S SON WOUNDED — Captain William G. James, son of George W. James, editor of the Bowmanville "Canadian Statesman," who has been wounded in action at the front in Italy. Captain James enlisted as a private in 1940 and took his basic training at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa. He later won his commission at the Officers' Training Centre, Brockville, and was transferred to the Canadian Armoured Corps at Camp Borden. He was for a time attached to the Governor-General's Foot Guards at Debert, Nova Scotia, as an instructor. Captain James went overseas in 1942. He saw earlier active service in Italy with the Central Mediterranean Forces.

Flashing Light Invented By Canadians

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Canada's Air Force scientists, working with civilian colleagues, have thought of just about everything to take care of air crews forced down anywhere.

Inventive minds have combined to produce emergency outfits that are improvements on some used by Allied countries and others that are available to the United Nations.

Flotation equipment includes a flashing light that will burn for 100 hours and was a development of a Canadian industry, working in co-operation with national research and Air Force scientists who had suggested the need for such a life-saving device. A smoke-signalling tin is another important product of Canadian laboratories.

Two-way zipper casualty jackets and packs that allow treatment of any part of a body without exposing the rest of the patient to cold were conceived in Canada and now are in use in other countries.

Innovations have been added to make the personal emergency kit, strapped to every R.C.A.F. airman, a distinctive piece of equipment.

For instance, there is a plastic whistle that won't stick to the lips in cold weath r like meal and that can be used in maintaining contact between parachuting fliers at night. Formerly, crew members forced to bail from disabled planes over bush country, often landed only 20 yards apart and yet never found each other.

Warm at 40 Below.

In some packs there are utility medical kits, food pills, smokes, toilet paper, a knife, fish hooks, lines and sinkers, a mosquito net for the bush country, darning needles and thread with instructions for making a tent out of a parachute, corn cob pipes and tobacco because cigarettes sometimes get soggy after a water crash, armor-plate glass mirror heliograph, playing cards, a calendar, and pencil and paper.

Sleeping bags that are comfortable in 40 below zero are stowed in planes flying over the northern areas.

The R.C.A.F. also has introduced the English bircham barrel for dropping to crashed planes spotted in isolated areas. It can be dropped in either snow or water without disturbing the contents and carries a parachute rig for dropping to bare ground.

The barrel contains everything from food and medical supplies to warm socks and a packet of candy, and its stock has been modified to suit Canadian requirements and improved to suit Canadian ideas.

Liferafts are similarly equipped and also contain a coloring tin that trails an easily-sighted yellow slick in the wake of the flimsy craft.

Execute 2 Spaniards

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(CP-Reuters) —Two Spaniards were executed in Gibraltar yesterday for offences against defence regulations, it was announced last night. One was found with a bomb in his possession before it could be used and the other placed a bomb on a gasoline tank in a fuel enclosure at a coaling island, starting a "serious" fire. The two were Luis Cordon Cuenca, 23, and Joe Martin Munoz, 19.

SEEKS PEACE—Nicholas Mushanov, leader of the Bulgarian opposition and former premier, who is said to have headed the coup d'etat which ousted the pro-Axi premier, Dobri Bojilov.

British Editors Laud J. Dafoe

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(CP Cable.)—The Times and Telegraph in London and the Manchester Guardian Monday paid tribute to the late John W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, as a great Canadian dean of Canadian editors.

The Times published an obituary of 1½ columns in which he was described as "a man who ranked as one of the foremost Canadians of his day and generation." The story praised Dafoe's liberal thought and his editorial writing and said, "at the end of his career Mr. Dafoe found himself the acknowledged leader of his profession in Canada."

The Daily Telegraph's editorial column said, "Canada loses the man who many consider the Dominion's greatest journalist. He has been editor in chief of the Free Press for more than 40 years and the impress of his cultural liberalism remained throughout that time the dominant feature of its editorial page."

The Guardian in its London column said, "It is not only Canadian journalism but the world of journalism that loses much by the death of that great, independent-mnded, forward-seeing veteran of the press, Mr. Dafoe."

More Germans Be Sent Cut Fuelwood

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP). —The number of German prisoners of war engaged in lumbering will be increased 50 per cent during the next month, Col. R. S. W. Fordham, director of prisoner-of-war labor projects, said today.

There are at present 2,000 prisoners in lumber camps cutting both fuelwood and pulpwood and another 1,000 will be put to work in Ontario and Quebec within the next few weeks.

About 130 have been placed on farms and 35 in an Ontario tannery operation.

The prisoners are paid 50 cents for an eight-hour day but are only allowed to spend 30 cents of their day's earnings. Originally the spending allowance was 20 cents but this was subsequently increased.

Keep Out Japs

VICTORIA, Jan. 12—(CP).—A resolution asking for total expulsion and exclusion of Japanese from Canada was passed by a vote of nine to one by 10 delegates from the farmers' institutes of British Columbia attending a meeting here yesterday.

how they are going to meet the situation.

Women Must Pay Debt to Soldiers.

Are they going to be like the girl who writes the letter I have quoted—big enough and strong enough to take the poor, shattered wraiths, who were once stalwart men, to their bosoms and heal them with their comfort and sympathy? Or are they going to be quitters who will turn their backs on the men who can no longer give them good times and luxuries?

I think that we women will be a poor and contemptible lot of Quislings, a despicable sixth column of traitors to our country, if we welsh on paying our part of what we owe to our soldiers, who have given their youth and strength and prospects in life to defending us, if we shut our doors and our hearts against them.

Yet already we hear many tales of that being done—of wives who are getting divorces from husbands who are unable to ever be moneymakers again, or whose physical and mental state calls for continual tenderness and patience in those who must care for them; and of girls breaking engagements to boys who are not glamorous as they were, nor such good catches.

But each woman is as she is made and if it is not in her to love her man the more he needs her love and to consider it a privilege to work for him and nurse him and take care of him when he is ill and down on his luck, then the kindest thing that she can do is to leave him and make way for a better woman. And no man who loses that kind of a wife or sweetheart need mourn her disloyalty.

Crippled Soul Greatest Misfortune.

But I would like to say to the men who have been wounded that there is a far greater misfortune than to be crippled in body. It is to be crippled in soul. As long as they have that intact, as long as they have courage and hope and determination to make something of life still left to them, they need not feel that they have nothing to offer a woman and that they should set their wives or sweethearts free. That is mistaken chivalry. For they still have love and tenderness and companionship to give their wives, and the privilege of letting them help them to build their futures together. And there is no surer foundation on which to erect a happy marriage than that.

Nor need the crippled man feel that all the opportunities of life are over for him. Medical science does wonders now in building new bodies, in making the lame to walk, the blind to see, and the deaf to hear, and just because a man has almost insuperable obstacles to conquer often spurs him on to accomplishments that he would not otherwise have done.

Jewish Problem

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12 (AP).—The American Council for Judaism, denouncing British regulations which, it said, would forbid immigration of Jews to Palestine and restrict their acquiring more land after April, called upon American Jews yesterday to "organize in strength...behind a non-nationalistic program to deal with the total Jewish problem."

St. John's W.A. Elects Officers

Mrs. M. Montgomery was re-elected president of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church at the annual meeting held Monday evening in the Parish Hall.

Other officers elected are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. W. E. Conway; vice-president, Miss Agnes Stout; secretary, Mrs. E. E. Young; treasurer, Miss A. Milburn; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. B. Ottewell; assistants, Mrs. W. Jolly and Mrs. W. Copperthwaite; E.C.D. secretary, Mrs. Fred Marshall; U.T.O. secretary, Miss V. Foote; literature, Miss M. Lancaster; living message, Mrs. Price Morris; telephone, Mrs. W. E. Conway; visiting, Mrs. J. Bell; publicity, Mrs. L. Spriggs.

Canon W. P. Robertson gave a talk based on the verse, "Ye Are the Salt of the Earth," and Miss M. Lancaster read another chapter in the study book for the year on "Missions in Latin America." Reports of the year's work were read, after which the president thanked the members for their co-operation and assistance for a satisfactory year. She appealed for continued support, as the coming year would brng greater responsibilities and larger quotas to be met.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. J. H. Rowe Is Installed President of George St. WMS

Mrs. J. H. Rowe, the new president, presided at the annual meeting of George Street Women's Missionary Society, held Tuesday afternoon in the board room. Mrs. H. R. Roberts installed the officers, who are as follows: Past president, Mrs. James Brown; president, Mrs. J. H. Rowe; honorary vice-president, Mrs. H. R. Roberts; first vice-president, Mrs. R. Parnall; second vice-president, Mrs. E. Brown; third vice-president, Mrs. H. McHoull; reporting secretary, Mrs. E. Might; treasurer, Mrs. J. Fanning; corresponding secetary, Mrs. A. J. Lane; secretary of stewardship and finance, Mrs. James Spencer; community friendship secretary, Mrs. R. Parnall; sick and visiting secretary, Mrs. J. W. Hales; supplies secretary, Mrs. F. E. Latimer; temperance and Christian citizenship, Mrs. B. W. Manning; literature secretary, Mrs. W. McMillan; Missionary Monthly and World Friendship secretary, Mrs. H. G. Walker; press secretary, Miss E. Might; librarians, Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. J. Girven; pianists Mrs. W. P. Purdy and Mrs. W. Ludbrook; Mission Band leader, Mrs. W. H. Frise; Twilight Mission Circle, Mrs. W. McMillan and Mrs. H. Dulmage; C.G.I.T. leaders, Mrs. Leo Copp, Mrs. Ted Kingdon and Miss B. Harte; Baby Band, Mrs. Q. McKinney and Mrs. L. Hetherington, with Mrs. E. W. Sutton as leader.

When Mrs. Rowe again took the chair after the installation of officers, she asked for the co-operation of all members, saying, "We cannot work the same way or give the same way, but we can all do our best." Mrs. A. White read the Bible lesson, taken from the eleventh chapter of Luke, and Mrs. W. Morrow led in prayer.

Annual reports given showed a most successful year. The recording secretary stated that a total of 115 members were listed, 73 annual members, and 42 life members. Six members were lost through death during the year, and seven moved away.

Due to a special effort on the part of the treasurer, Mrs. Fanning, at the close of the year the Society had reached its allocation of $1,000, and so the same amount was set as the allocation for 1944. Mrs. James Spencer, secretary of stewardship and finance, read two papers, "The Stewardship of Life," and "Special Objects."

The study book, "For All of Life," had been taken up by the different groups at group meetings, and stories of life in Africa, China, Oriental centres in Canada, Syrian homes in Montreal, and boarding homes, schools and hospitals for Indians in Canada were studied.

Mrs. W. H. Morton, reporting for the library, said that 176 books had been read from the Missionary Society library, and Mrs. W. McMillan, literature secretary, said that seven study books, eight blue books, 27 copies of the Missionary Monthly and 30 copies of World Friendship had been ordered.

Mrs. B. Manning, reporting for the temperance committee, said that the committee had had charge of the meeting when Rev. M. C. MacLean of Gilmour was guest speaker. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. J. Lane, reported a total of 25 letters written during 1943, and excellent reports were received from both the Twilight Mission Circle and Fidelis Mission Band, with Mrs. W. McMillan and Mrs. H. Dulmage as leaders of the Mission Circle.

Mrs. D. O. Lavis, speaking for the Baby Band, said that the group had had its best year in 1943, with an average attendance of 18 members at the meetings. The young mothers did some beautiful needlework, and made and gave away five layettes and five baby quilts.

The C.G.I.T., with Miss Betty Brown as leader, met once a week during 1943, and spent one day a month sewing for the Red Cross. Mrs. Hale, reporting for the sick and visiting committee, stated that a total of 789 calls had been made during the year, and Mrs. Parnall, reporting for the community friendship, said that 179 calls had been made in homes, and 37 in the hospitals.

The announcements of coming events made during the meeting included the annual Thankoffering meeting to be held in the church. Also, Mrs. Bryce, a returned missionary from India, will be in Peterborough February 13, and will speak at the evening service on that day, and the hostess tea will be held in the assembly hall on February 15.

Bible Class Has Surplus of $122

A balance on hand of $122 was reported by the treasurer of the Ever Awake Bible Class of St. James' church, at the monthly meeting held at the home of Mrs. E. Davis, 382 George street. Mrs. E. Beavis, class leader, led in prayer, after the repetition in unison of the first Psalm.

Mrs. R. Pagett and Mrs. N. McMurchy were chosen as captains for the "copper contest" for 1944, and Miss Zeta Woods and Mrs. E. Beavis were named as the devotional committee. The announcement was made of the annual banquet to be held at the February meeting at the home of Mrs. N. McMurchy, and after the adjourning of the meeting, several contests were enjoyed and a lunch was served.

Plenty Of Meat

GANANOQUE, Jan. 12 CP). — Consumers are usually the ones to find fault with meatless Tuesday, but this complaint comes from William Hawks, butcher shop operator. He says the observance has lost point, locally at least, because "butchers have more meat in their shops than ever."

Had One In Reserve

SIMCOE, Jan. 12 (CP).— Boys who recently broke into North Simcoe Public School and took jackknives, pens, pencils and the school strap probably missed their main objective. Principal M. L. House in reporting the theft to the school board, assured members he had another strap on hand.

Small Boy Killed

KINGSTON, Jan. 12 (CP).— C. Edward Vallier, Jr., 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vallier, was instantly killed when his sleigh was struck by a truck police said was driven by Wilfrid Allan, 18, of Kingston.

Allan was charged with reckless driving. Bail was set at $500.

They Want More

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — Mayor F. J. Conboy and Alderman L. H. until taxes were paid. Road expenditures for 1944 were estimated at $16,000 and apportioned as follows—bridge construction, $3,500; machinery $500; superintendence $600; maintenance and repairs, $11,400. The most pleasing news of the day was contained in the report of Tax Collector G. G. Stephens who disclosed that the outstanding taxes at the year's end were $1,231.54, while current arrears were a mere $349.95. Total collections in 1943 amounted to $37,136.50 with penalties accounting for but $11.75 and penalties and interest totalled $51.29.

The following accounts were passed—Municipal World, supplies, $12.57; Bell Telephone, $2.85; Sick Children's Hospital, $5; J. P. R. Douglas, retaining fee, $20; Gordon Shearer, labor, $2; D. T. Petherick, supt., $15; G. W. Anderson, school attendance officer, $5.

BATTLE 35-DEGREES-BELOW-ZERO — These two young air-gunners of the "Iroquois Squadron" of the Canadian bomber group stationed in Britain, battled 35-degrees-below-zero weather for over eight hours while making a successful attack on the German city of Mannheim recently. Doffing their kits on their return to base, they are: in foreground, right, Sergt. J. C. Loubert, of Smooth Rock Falls, Ont., and Sergt. J. R. Dixon, of the R.A.F., whose home is at Barnsley, Yorkshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Heaslip Observe Golden Anniversary

LIFFORD LINE, Jan. 12 (ENS).—On Sunday January 9, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Heaslip marked the 50th anniversary of their marriage at their farm home a few miles from Janetville..

Before her marriage Mrs. Heaslip was Minnie Wilson a member of a large family of the late Mr and Mrs. George Wilson, life-long residents at the Wilson homestead a couple of miles from Lifford.

On January 9, 1894 attended by Miss Sarah Heaslip, sister of the groom and the late Mr. Archie Wilson, brother of the bride they drove to Lindsay where they were married. Since that time they have been progressive, highly - esteemed citizens of Manvers township, and hosts of friends joined the family in good wishes for many more years of health and happiness.

On Sunday the happy couple who still enjoy comparatively good health were surrounded by their large family and by other close relatives and friends. Mr. Rutherford Heaslip, their elder son of Toronto composed several verses depicting the life story of the bride and groom of 50 years, not forgetting the numerous drives made by the groom with the "old gray mare" to the Wilson homestead. These verses were capably read by Mrs. "Rud" Heaslip who before her marriage was Mae Arthurs of Janetville. The family presented the parents with two comfortable chairs and a Marshall mattress. Other gifts, messages, etc., were added features of enjoyment of the occasion.

Another son, Wilson Heaslip of the R.C.A.F. and stationed at Dunnville was unable to be present but spent a few days leave at his home during the recent holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. Heaslip's three daughters and their families were among quests on Sunday. They are Mrs. Allan Suggitt (Gladys) of Nestleton, Mrs. Wallace Marlow (Clara) of Blackstock and Mrs. Harry Van Camp (Edna) of Nestleton.

Among those present from Toronto were Mr. and Mrs. Rud Heaslip and family; Mrs. Armstrong, youngest sister of the bride; Mrs. George Weatherile, a nephew and his young son, Jack Weatherilt.

Mrs. Richard Matchett and son Archie of Cavan, the former a sister of Mrs. Heaslip were among the well wishers.

Held Job 60 Years

ST. STEPHEN, N.B., Jan. 12 (CP).—Mrs. Bertha Boyd Hannah of the Ledge near St. Stephen, died yesterday after an illness of three months. She was the official keeper of Spruce Point lighthouse on the St. Croix River a position she had held for nearly 60 years, and was thought to be the only woman to hold such a position in Canada.

Soldier Paintings To Go On Display

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP).— District contests now are being held in various parts of hte Dominion to select the best paintings by men and women in the Canadian Army in Canada for exhibition in the National Art Gallery here, army officials said today.

No date has yet been set for the national exhibition but it is expected to open late in February or early in March.

Any member of the army may enter the district contests, but army officials said they do not believe any entries will be received from artists in the field overseas.

Prizes will be awarded to winners of district contests.

Browder Co-operates

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — (AP)— Earl Browder, American communist leader, said last night that the Communists would co - operate with capitalism's free enterprise system in the United States and also abandon the practice of entering party candidates in elections.

Oxygen Failed

FRESNO, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)— Hammer Field authorities yesterday announced the death of three gunners aboard heavy bombers due to failure of their oxygen supplies while at high altitude. They said they knew of no similar accident having occurred before. The deaths occurred Saturday night while one plane was over Tonpah, Nev., and the other over its base here.

Deport Students

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12 (AP). — The Stockholm newspaper Svensna Dagbladet said to-day that between 350 and 400 more Norwegian University students had been deported to Germany, presumably for labor service, after being arrested for acts which German occupation authorities regarded as unfriendly. Several hundred students from Oslo University were reported deported to Germany last month for similar reasons.

River Catches Fire

TORONTO, Jan. 12 (CP).— For the second time in 48 hours a spectacular blaze was started in oil seepage on the Don River last night by sparks from a passing locomotive. The flames did some damage to the railway bridge crossing the river in East-Central Toronto near the harbor, but were brought under control in about 45 minutes.

Juvenile Thugs

PLEASTANTVILLE, Ia., Jan. 12 (AP)—Two boys and two girls were charged jointly with first degree murder yesterday in connection with the holdup slaying of William B. Bare, Pleasantville filling station operator, and all waived to the county grand jury. The boys, Earl Simbro, 18, and John A. Culp, 16, were held without bond. The girls, Mary Brown, 18, and Phylis Peirce, 19, were held in bond of $10,000 each.

Mother At 10

MONAHANS, Tex., Jan. 12 — (AP).—Dr. E. J. Cook yesterday said a 10-year-old Negro girl had given birth here to an eight-pound, eight-ounce girl, and that both were doing fine. The child was born Jan. 1. A birth certificate produced by the parents, said Dr. Cook, gave the girl-mother's age as 10 years and a few months. The mother is of average size and weight for her age, he added.

Will Shoot Poles

LONDON, Jan. 12 (CP).—There Polish underground radio said yesterday that German plans for the evacuation of Warsaw provide for the destruction of the former capital's industries and communications and the deportation to Germany of all Poles capable of work.

The broadcast, heard by the Polish Telegraph Agency, appealed to underground forces to resist the deportation.

It added that all Poles considered capable of leading an uprising were to be shot together with their families.

Not Responsible

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 — (AP). — Mrs. Marge Wilson told Federal Judge John P. Barnes she was to blame because her son had stolen an automobile. "I wasn't at home at the time," she said. Judge Barnes asked Mrs. Wilson why she wasn't at home. "I was serving on a jury in this court room," she replied. A probation order for her son was entered immediately.

FAVOR THE PROBABILITY

IN A CHOICE between a probability and an improbability, there should not be much argument. Nevertheless, all of us see players attempt plays which are unlikely to succeed, when they could have selected a method favored by the odds. This can be due to either of two factors. Perhaps the player did not notice that there was an alternative way. Or, if he did, maybe he did not realize that the alternative method had a better chance to succeed.

Having nothing in his own hand which could be promoted by a lead from his partner, East decided to ruff the third diamond, so he could lead a spade toward a possible K in West's hand.

South came right in with the A because he reckoned he could discard both of his spade losers on the dummy's club suit. First he drew trumps in three rounds, then scored the club K, A and Q. He was crestfallen when West discarded a spade on the third club, as now his contract was hopeless On that third club he himself had thrown one of his small spades, but he still had the 8, which finally had to be given up to the defenders as the setting trick.

Needing only two discards on the clubs, South had a much better play, one favored heavily by the probabilities, whereas the one he tried depended on the minority chance of the outstanding six clubs being evenly divided. After winning the fourth trick with the spade A, only two trumps should have been scored, then the club K and A, then a small club ruffed, all of his trumps being high, then a trump to the Q, followed by two clubs for two spade discards. This method would have depended on a probable 3-2 division of the five trumps out, and a probable 4-2 division of the club suit, and was sounder since only two discards were required on clubs. If three had been needed, the improbable method actually used should have been tried.

Higher Prices For Farmers Post-War Need

TORONTO, Jan. 12 — (CP). — President A. McKinney of Brampton, Ont., to-day outlined to the opening session of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture convention here a four-point program for the post-war farm prosperity in Ontario and warned that unless adequate markets are provided any "back-to-the-land movement to ease urban unemployment" in post-war years would fail.

Mr. McKinney suggested the Federation seek complete commodity organization, favorable floor prices, increased farm credit and cheaper cost of production through encouragement of co-operative marketing and distribution of products and supplies.

"We must provide farm commodities with the bargaining power to equal other organized bodies in the community," he said. Hogs, dairy products, poultry and meats were commodities marketing of which should be organized.

Floor prices should be established to prevent agricultural prices from "dropping to the ruinous levels" at which agriculture operated during the 1930's. Farmers would accept floor prices with better grace if sponsored by their own organization than if imposed on them by the government.

"We must provide long-term credit for farmers on a greater scale than in the past," he said. "We must provide adequate credit to permit young people or soldiers to re-establish themselves on the land.

Co-operative marketing and distribution of farm products and of supplies should be increased in future years.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said the Dominion body may meet farm organizations from the other parts of the British Empire in Canada next summer.

"These organizations in other countries are looking to us for leadership because they feel Canada is the place for it," he said in his report on the national federation.

Hun Casualties Reported Heavy

LONDON, Jan. 12 (CP).—Yugoslav Partisan troops are taking a heavy toll of German forces pressing a determined offensive in central and western Bosnia, a communique from the headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) reported Tuesday.

Tito's war bulletin, which was broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio and recorded by The Associated Press, said the Germans were attempting to break the Partisan lines from five different directions, so far without success. The Nazis were employing strong tank and motorized columns, in addition to their infantry detachments, in the drive to wipe out Tito's forces.

On all other sectors of the long front, Tito reported, the Partisans were successfully harassing German garrison, troops concentrations and lines of communications.

Learning Is Needed Today

LINDSAY, Jan. 12 — (ENS). — The importance of a scholastic education was stressed by Cecil G. Frost of the Lindsay Board of Education, addressing a meeting of the Rotary Club, yesterday attended by members of the Town Council.

The speaker state that while there was need for more vocational training in public and high schools that this should not displace any part of the regular curriculum. The student should have a solid background in important scholastic subjects before he or she has branched out in any particular occupation. Mr. Frost quoted as the best example of this theory, the training of army leaders. There are men in the armed services, he said, who are born leaders but do not qualify for officers simply because they have not the necessary education to allow them to understand technical details that are so important in the present method of warfare. A, complete outline of tthe work of the Board of Education was given by the speaker, including a report on expenditures. "At the present time the council is paying the Board 42 per cent of the total tax roll." He said "and there is a possibility that we may to call for more funds if we are to organize a proper course of vocational training."

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 12 (ENS).—The annual meeting of the United Church Sunday School was held in the Church with Robert Kelly opening the meeting. The secretary's report showed an average attendance of 50 per cent of the membership roll. The treasurer reported a balance of $16.74 with the 1944 supplies paid.

Rev. Herbert Malcolm was appointed chairman for the election of officers which were as follows—Superintendent, Robert Kelly; assistant superintendent, Rev. H. Malcolm; the secretary, Eileen Thompson; treasurer, Clara Seens; Home Department, Mrs. John Heaslip; Cradle Roll Department, Mrs. Charles Dawson; pianist, Ferne Gainer, assistant, Clara Seens; Teachers: Beginners' class Gdalys Haskins; assistant, Jean Rutherford; Juniors, Winnifred Gainer, assistant, Mrs. Norman Thompson; Intermediate Boys, Robert Kelly; Senior Girls, Clara Seens, assistant, Mrs. Fred Jewison; Women's Bible Class, Mrs. Blanche Dawson; Men's Bible Class, Fred Barnard; Missionary Superintendent, Mrs. Jeffrey Jewison; Temperance Superintendent, Fred Barnard; librarian, William Fell.

Army Air Forces Reach Strength Peak

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP).—The United States Army Air forces has reached the peak of its unit strength and is gradually shifting to a replacement training basis.

That explanation was supplied today for the closing of 69 air bases throughout the United States, a figure estimated by the air forces to represent between five and seven per cent of all A.A.F. installations in the United States.

New units will be organized as the war progresses, but for the most part they will be replacement organizations.

French Units Capture New Heights

New Push Looms As Reinforcements Move Up For 8th Army

By WEST GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 13.—(AP).—Virtually the entire Allied 5th Army was on the move to-day as it broadened its offensive from near the Tyrrhenian coast to Central Italy and sent French units hammering through 3,000 and 4,000-foot mountains to threaten Cassino from a third side.

American infantry swept to within three miles of Cassino in a frontal attack with the capture of Cervaro at 1 p.m. yesterday after almost surrounding the village, Headquarters announced. The Germans already had announced its loss.

In the first day of the French offensive in the mountains of Central Italy, Gen. Alphonse Juin's troops advanced two-thirds of a mile southwest of Roccheta, 12 miles northeast of Cervaro.

They captured a 3,000-foot peak overlooking the road winding almost due west of Iserna between Colli and Atina, took several points on the 4,000-foot Monna Casale range and recaptured two peaks previously lost—Mount Mollino overlooking Acquafondala, seven miles northeast of Cassino, and Mount Raimo, in the same area to the north of Viticuso.

The Allies thus held mountains overlooking Viticuso from two sides. The surprise French advance caught a number of German prisoners.

On Rough Terrain.

Juin's troops, fighting in some of the roughest country in Europe where virtually all supplies must be hauled by mule and hand from one peak to another, were threatening the Cassino-Atina road, one of the two valley highways leading north from Cassino.

On the 8th Army front there were only patrol activity and heavy artillery fire.

Yugoslavs Obstacle to Nazis

Written for The Associated Press by LT.-COL. VLADIMIR DEDIER

CAIRO, Jan. 13—(AP).—In the greatest crisis of Hitler's armies, when every soldier is of vital importance to him, he is obliged to throw into battles in Yugoslavia — which he thought in 1941 he had subjugated—more German divisions than are engaged in any country except Russia. Although we are fighting without heavy artillery, without anti-aircraft guns and without tanks against modernly-equipped enemy divisions, the day is not far distant when our Partisan army, having destroyed these enemy forces, will chase from our soil the last German, fulfilling to the end our part in the anti-Hitler coalition of united nations.

At the finish of our "war of independence' our peoples — Serbs Croats, Slovenes, Macedonians and Montenegrins—will form their free democratic and federal state in accordance with the Atlantic Charter, allowing all people the right to choose at free elections their own form of government. For this principle our people have spilled rivers of blood. For this principle our army is fighting.

Two months ago Mr. Churchill stated our forces were pinning down more German divisions than the 5th and 8th Armies in Italy. Meanwhile Hitler has sent into Yugoslavia new Panzer and Alpine divisions and started the biggest and most fierce offensive yet against our Partisan army.

At this moment 36 German and satellite divisions are trying their utmost on seven separate fronts to crush our armies. And this last attempt of Hitler to subjuagte the liberation movement is his third desperate attempt in the last seven months.

At the end of January, 1943, the Germans threw against us 120,000 soldiers. Some of these divisions and much of this equipment was intended for Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's troops in Africa. In addition, during the Tunisian cam-

2 Germans Suicide In Prison Camp

OMAHA, Jan. 13 — (CP).—The 7th Service Command last night attributed two suicides among German prisoners of war at Concordia, Kas., internment camp to "fear of persecution by the Nazis."

The suicides were Franz Kettner, German army private, who slashed his wrists while held in protective custody at his own request, and an unidentified German captain. The latter, accused of "making remarks against Hitler," hanged himself after being "removed from his quarters by fellow prisoners and taken to another room where he was left with a piece of rope, a bed, a chair, a table, and his personal belongings,' the command said.

The command reported that investigation into the captain's death resulted in "rather conclusive evidence of the existence of a system of "kangaroo court-martials" in the prison camp compounds" at which "officers were 'tried' and informed that they were found guilty of treasonable acts of one kind or another."

Third One Dies.

A third suicide at the camp, by a German officer, was not connected with political beliefs of the man, the official investigation having shown it "was a mental case clearly unrelated to camp quarrels or factional disputes," the command

Report Mustangs Nipped 14 Huns

By HENRY B. JAMESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

U.S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 13—(AP)—The newest and longest range United States single-engine fighter plane, the P-51B Mustang, was disclosed today to have destroyed at least 14 German craft in the great air battles of Tuesday.

The improved Mustang, one of the fastest fighters in operation, is a major addition to the United States Army Air Forces. It is an improved version of the P-51 which has been used with success by Americans in the Mediterranean and Pacific and also by the R.A.F.

In addition to escorting bombers, the Mustangs are expected to be the U.S.A.A.F.'s principal pursuit plane pacing any invasion from Britain. The fighter can be modified quickly from a high altitude performer into a low-level air support craft for strafing trains, busting tanks and bombing.

The Mustang carries either extra gas tanks or a 500-pound bomb under each wing. So far, they have done no bombing.

The Mustang armament consists of four 50-millimetre guns in the wings.

Car-Building Order Offsets War Contract

HAMILTON, Jan. 13 (CP)—R. S. Hart, president of the National Steel Car Corporation, today announced the company would begin Monday on a contract for construction of steel cars for the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

The contract would offset recent cancellation by the government of manufacture of a particular type of gunmount and "all the men who under normal circumstances would be laid off by the cancellation now can be absored in our car-building program which goes into effect Monday," said Mr. Hart. "Even if no more contracts are awarded us for the year we have enough to keep us busy for the rest of 1944."

Spook Problem Clears Up

Daughter Goes To Hospital, Ends Mystery

EASTERN PASSAGE, N.S., Jan. 13—(CP)—The ghostly beings that for two weeks or more disturbed the peace of mind of the Louis Hilchie family here have gone as mysteriously as they came, and once again the people of this little community on a snug inlet of Halifax Harbor can breathe freely.

The Hilchie family, beleaguered since Christmas Eve by strange tappings and mysterious feats of levitation in their home, have been left in peace the last few days and they hope the "ghosts" are gone forever.

Last Saturday 20-year-old Rita, eldest of the family, was taken to hospital in Halifax and since then the mysterious happenings tapered off and finally ceased.

Believers in the theory of poltergeism—whereby strange and occult powers are supposed to emanate from the presence of a young girl who is unaware of anything out of the ordinary—think this may be the solution of the whole matter. No strange events have been reported at the hospital, however.

Rita has been suffering from weak turns and fainting spells several years, as the result of a fall. Today at hospital her condition was reported "good."

Russians Launch New Attack On 50-Mile Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—(AP).—Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's highly mobile First Ukrainian Army, expanding its front on the Sarny sector to a width of 50 miles or more, struck out in several sweeping movements to-day to threaten the German-held strongholds of Rovno, Pinsk and Kovel. The strong armored and infantry force of Vatutin's right wing which captured Dombrovitsa, 20 miles north of Sarny-Baronowicze railway, fought its way through frozen marshland country to within 50 miles southeast of Pinsk, important centre on the Gomel-Brest-Litvosk railway.

It already had passed the worst of the Pripet marshes and advance units were approaching the high rolling ground beyond the swamps.

Approach Mozyr.

While this force was smashing its way to the northwest, a new offensive launched Tuesday, to the north of the marshes by Gen. Konstantin Rokossovsky's White Russian army was approaching the city of Mozyr, 80 miles southwest of Gomel, along a 20-mile-wide front. Dispatches said German troops in front of Rokossovsky's advance were falling back toward Pinsk, and a second threat to that city apparently was developing. Pinsk is 140 miles west of Mozyr at the confluence of the Strumen and Pina Rivers along the northern edge of the Pripet Marshes.

Using Sarny as a pivot, Vatutin sent other flying columns south and dispatches reported them operating within 23 miles north of Rovno, an advance of approximately 27 miles through marshy terrain to high ground beyond.

Other units were reported striking west from Sarny toward Kovel, an important junction on the Kiev-Warsaw railway.

Rokossovsky's drive above the Pripet marshes paralleled a fresh Russian advance along the southern edge of the vast swamp area, where Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army crossed the Sluch River and captured the rail junction of Sarny and Dombrovitsa, 20 miles to the north. Sarny is 270 miles east of Warsaw, on the Kiev-Warsaw

Typhus Epidemic Rages In Naples

CAIRO, Jan. 13—(CP-Reuters)—Middle East headquarters said today a typhus epidemic is raging in Naples, much worse than the outbreak last October. Allied medical officers are giving all possible aid to the civilian population, the statement said.

Brig.-Gen. Leon A. Fox, field director of the United States Typhus Commission who has just arrived here from Italy said that "Naples is seriously threatened and the menace can be expected to extend to Southern Italy."

He said that no cases are reported among the Allied troops but that more than 30,000 Italians are being treated daily with anti-vermin powders.

"Flying squadrons" of doctors are standing by to go to outlying districts if any further outbreaks are reported.

Tuesday's Raid Inflicts Grievous Wound

War Plane Production Impeded By Bombs From U. S. Liberators

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

America's air-fleet administered a major defeat, physical and moral, to the Hitlerites in Tuesday's giant daylight battle over Germany.

The attack was carried to the heart of Nazi defensive strength—a grand achievement. It did great damage to three of the chief aircraft assembly plants of the hard-pressed Reich, thereby inficting a grievous wound on enemy aircraft production at the crucial moment of the war when the Nazis are girding themselves for invasion of western Europe.

Airmen shot down some 100 Nazi fighter planes. But only the Germans know how many hundreds of aircraft were destroyed in the plants at Oschersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick. Only the Germans can say how much their war plane production has been cut down by this attack, but it undoubtedly is large.

It was a good job. I hear a lot of folk trying to estimate the value of that daring operation by the number of men and aircraft lost. Certainly a loss of 595 men and 64 aircraft, including 59 huge bombers, is a tough blow. But you can't figure the thing on that basis.

When the air command considers such an attack the cardinal question to be asked is: Are the objectives worth the risk? If that can be answered with a "yes," then the project is justifiable. It would remain justifiable even if the attack failed of its purpose through no fault of the forces.

What, say you, would it cost in lives, time and money to baw our way across western Europe with a land army to those three German cities and destroy the aircraft plants? The answer is that every time we carry out a successful air assault we are doing the work of a great ground force.

We shall have a chance to check on that before long, when we put an army of invasion ashore in western Europe. And it's well for us to get our minds adjusted to the idea that we are going to see some very heavy Allied loses. Tuesday's unprecedented air battle was a mild preview of what we must expect at the time of invasion, and casualties in landing troops will be hard to bear.

90 Billions for War Alone F.D.R. Asks for Tax Increase

By C. R. BLACKBURN—Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 — (CP). —President Roosevelt's annual budget message to Congress today asked for $100,000,000,000 to cover what he hoped would be the decisive effort toward victory and the critical problems of peace. He requested this astronomical appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945 —about the same as the estimated total expenditures for the current fiscal year—and said about $90,000,000,000 of the total would be for war alone.

The 18 months between now and the end of the next fiscal year would be, he said, "crucial in the history of the United States and of mankind, a period which will see decisive action in this global war."

He said expenditures by the United States on June 30, 1945, would be $397,000,000,000, and the total public debt, by then, probably would be $258,000,000,000.

The deficit on next year's budget would be about 59 per cent. of the total, he said, and he urged Congress to increase taxation, particularly on war profits, revenues for the current fiscal year are estimated to be 41 per cent. of expenditures, and he did not anticipate any increase in the next fiscal year.

(A request by the secretary of the treasury for additional taxation of $10,500,000,000 has been whittled down in the two Houses of Congress to less than $2,500,000,000, and is still under consideration.)

The President assured Congress that the executive would be prepared to adjust expenditures to "changing strategic necessities," and would "use all the authority available to prevent needless expenditures."

Outlining the two-fold purpose of this budget he said:

"While we move toward complete defeat of our enemies we must lay the groundwork to return the nation to peaceful pursuits. This double task is the essence of the government's program and must be reflected in the budget."

Discharge 1 Million.

Capital costs for production plant had dropped and would continue to drop. But costs of a growing fighting force would increase.

An idea of the problems of demobilization was given by the President when he said some 1,000,000 men and women had been discharged from the forces since Jan. 1, 1942, for reasons of fitness, age or other causes.

Reconversion of production plant and termination of contracts coupled with disposal of surplus war material would be an expensive problem. Some $12,000,000,000 in war contracts already had been terminated.

The President said every effort was being made to reduce expen-

Neighbor's Dog Follows 3-Year-Old Boy Saves Him From Drowning In Lonely Marsh

AMHERST, N.S., Jan. 13 (CP)—Footprints in the snow indicated to searchers here that a dog had saved the life of a three-year-old Amherst boy who strayed away from his home.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Crawford, became lost Tuesday. A search was organized, and the searchers learned a small boy and a dog had been seen on a marsh near here.

Following the trail in the snow, members of the party came to a spot where the dog apparently had prevented the boy from falling into a creek. Further along, they saw where the dog had pulled him out of a number of ditches.

Eventually—late Tuesday night—the two were found in an open barn on the marsh, the boy curled up asleep on a pile of hay with the dog alongside him.

The dog was owned by a neighbor.

Believe Russia Progressing In Polish Border Dispute

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 13—(AP).—Soviet newspapers today printed a large, detailed map of the Curzon line and a review of the whole Russian-Polish boundary controversy since 1919. This presentation was accepted by many foreign observers as an indication progress is being made toward an amicable settlement of the frontier dispute.

It was interpreted widely as an effort to keep open the door for negotiations and the assumption was that the Russians are ready to do business immediately on the basis of the Curzon line.

(This line, drawn by an allied commission after the First Great War, was proposed in a Moscow broadcast Tuesday as the new boundary between the two countries and since that time has been under consideration by Poland's government in London).

In its review of the frontier question the Soviet press pointed out that the Supreme Allied Council at Versailles had agreed that the border "was to be derived from ethnographical principles."

This would have given Poland all provinces inhabited by Poles, it was stated, but would have continued as a part of Russia all the districts predominantly Ukrainian and White Russia.

"Minister of British Foreign Affairs (Viscount) Curzon submitted a note to the Soviet Government which became known under the name Curzon Line."

Poles Disagreed

The statement placed this line as following a route west of Grodno, Yalovka, Memirov, Brest, Litovsk, Dorogubsk, and Ustilug,

Tank Soldiers Win Decorations

OTTAWA, Jan. 13—(CP)—"Exceptional bravery" during a tank battle in Italy last Oct. 6, in which they saved other members of their crews after their tanks had been put out of action, won the Military Medal for Cpl. Robert Calvin Campbell, 25, of Clyde Forks, Ont., and Tr. Joseph Wild Collins, 29, of Winnipeg. Clyde Forks is in Lanark County.

The precise language of the official citations, released today with the Defence Department's announcement of the awards, told how the two men, their tanks shattered and set ablaze by enemy shellfire, dragged wounded crew members to shelter under heavy fire.

Cpl. Campbell, a native of Clyde Forks, enlisted in the 12th Army Tank Battalion, Canadian Armored Corps in December, 1939, and went overseas in June, 1941. His father, Fred Campbell, lives at Clyde Forks.

Tr. Collins, born at Brooklands, Man., was an automotive machinist in Winnipeg when he enlisted in the Canadian Armored Corps in June, 1942, going overseas that December. His wife, Mrs. Hazel Collins, lives at Winnipeg.

Citation:

"On Oct. 6, 1943, south of Termoli, when his squadron was in action, Cpl. Campbell's tank was repeatedly hit by A-P (Armor-Piercing) shells from enemy tanks and caught fire.

"Displaying great coolness and control, Cpl. Campbell supervised the evacuation of his crew, including one man wounded whom he helped carry 100 yards to cover, and returned for a wounded British anti-tank gunner and sergeant.

Ex-Service Men To Get Preference

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP) — Steps are being taken to assure war veterans of a preference in obtaining permits to start in business, Prices Board officials said today.

Ex-servicemen who were engaged in retail business before going into the forces are automatically entitled to a Prices Board retail permit to resume business. These men will also be given a preference should they desire to engage in some other type of trade and all ex-servicemen will be assisted as far as possible if they desire permits to open a new business, officials said.

Ciano Death Upsets Fascists

BARCELONA, Jan. 13—(CP)—German and "Fascist Republican" ranks in Northern Italy are being deserted en masse by thousands of Fascists as a result of the execution of Count Galeazzo Ciano and Marshall Emilio di Bona, diplomatic advices said last night.

Reported missing was Edda Mussolin Ciano, who visited her husband before his execution by a firing squad at Verona Tuesday. It was not known whether she was jailed by the Germans or fled Verona.

The events leading to the trials and executions show a clear break between the Germans and a majority of Fascists who, until the trials, were pro-German.

Strikers Kidnap Reporter

Taxi Driver Hurt, Has Heart Attack

MONTREAL, Jan. 13 (CP)—The Gazette says today that during a strike of white collar workers yesterday a Gazette reporter and cameraman were held captive with their taxidriver for a half an hour at strike headquarters.

"Flying squads of impatient and embittered strikers, led by strong-arm gangs in several cars were about to leave their headquarters for a 'raid' on the city's clinics when a reporter and his cameraman arrived in a taxi near the entrance to the strikers' meeting place," the newspaper said.

"After the reporter had asked permission to accompany the strikers. . . . He was grabbed by the arms and led into the hall of strike headquarters where boos and insults, accompanied by threats of violence greeted him. . . .

"Soon after cries of 'kill him and smash his camera' could be heard as the cameraman of the Gazette was led into the hall by the same gang to be followed a few minutes later by the taxi driver who took sick during the 'kidnapping'."

The newspaper added that "kicks and some violence by individual strikers as the trio passed through the hall after some sober elements among the strike leaders succeeded in quietening the crowd, caused injuries to the reporter and cameraman and a minor heart-attack to the taxi driver."

U.S. Airforce Admits Loss Of 64 Planes

Mighty Air Fleet Batters Three Nazi Cities

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(AP).— The flaming battle which a great force of possibly 1,200 bombers and fighters fought over Germany Tuesday with the rocket-firing Nazi air force was viewed on both sides of the English channel to-day as a forerunner of the mighty struggle for air supremacy expected to accompany a land invasion of Western Europe.

A dispatch from Stockholm quoted a German military spokesman in Berlin as describing the three-hour air battle as a "rehearsal for the German defence force which will have to meet Allied invasion air fleets."

The Daily Express declared the attack "indicates the United States bomber force based in Britain has reached a new strength which may soon equal the R.A.F.'s thousand plane (bomber) raids."

More than 700 heavy bombers and a probable record-size fighter escort formed the American aerial task force.

Crippling Blow.

The attacks, directed against factories at Oschersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick (Braunsweig), all within a radius of 100 miles of Berlin, constituted possibly the most crippling blow of the war against the Nazi air arm.

Results were described officially as excellent. In beating their way to and from the objectives and unloading their explosives directly on the targets, the Americans shot down more than 100 of the challenging enemy aircraft.

The London press was virtually unanimous in hailing it as a mighty blow to German air defences. The numbers and fury of Nazi fighters prove, the Daily Telegraph said, that "the battle of Germany is growing desperate" and heading for a showdown.

An 8th Air Force communique late yesterday said the assault cost 64 planes, a record loss. Fifty-nine were heavy bombers and five were fighters.

In contrast, Berlin propaganda outlets this morning still were claiming 124 bombers and 12 fighters were shot down, a claim they had put forth before release of yesterday's U.S. communique.

across Formosa Strait to make the second American raid on that island training ground and troop concentration centre.

Twelve tons of bombs crashed down on the aluminum plant despite intense anti-aircraft action and started fires. The plant is reported to supply a substantial part of the metal used in Japanese aircraft. Japanese leaders for several months have been appealing desperately for a greatly increased output of planes.

Unlike the Nov. 25 raid on Formosa by medium bombers and fighters when 31 enemy planes were destroyed in the air and on the ground, the heavy bombers encountered no Japanese interceptors.

Severe Epidemic

EDMONTON, Jan. 13 — (CP).— About 90 per cent of the 300 population at the lonely outpost of Aklavik on the Arctic Coast suffered from the influenza epidemic which struck the outpost shortly before Christmas, Bud Potter, veteran pilot for Canadian Pacific Air Lines said yesterday.

Dafoe Funeral Attracts Many Mourners

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13.— (CP).— The body of John W. Dafoe, leading Canadian newspaperman, educationist and author on Dominion and international affairs, was laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery here late yesterday after one of Winnipeg's largest funeral services.

Almost all of the Winnipeg Free Press staff paid respect to their president and editor-in-chief and hundreds of others, including the leaders of the newspaper, political, educational and business life of Canada crowded into St. Matthew's Anglican church for the simple but impressive service.

Canon George R. Calvert conducted the service and Archbishop L. Ralph Sherman of Rupert's Land Diocese read a comforting chapter from Corinthians and pronounced the benediction. The closing hymn was "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Some of those who attended were pioneers who, like Mr Dafoe, had travelled the dusty ox-cart trails of Manitoba 50 years ago, compositors of the hand-setting days, or athletes who played lacrosse with him on a lot that now is the city's Central Park.

Officials of the Federal Government, provincial and civic administrations were there. Lieut.-Gov.

Ten Regiments Fight In Italy

ALGIERS, Jan. 13.—(AP).—Allied Headquarters officially announced to-day that the West Nova Scotia Regiment has been fighting in Italy up to Dec. 14, 1943.

The West Nova Scotia Battalion had been generally known to be in Italy, as part of the Canadian 1st Division with which it fought throughout the Sicilian campaign last summer, but its presence on the Italian mainland had not previously been formally announced.

To-day's brief announcement gave no details. The West Nova Scotias are the 10th Canadian unit to be formally identified as fighting in Italy. The nine others are:

The Royal Canadian Regiment, the 48th Highlanders of Canada (Toronto) and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, which together make up the 1st Brigade of the Division.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada (Vancouver) and the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, which make up the 2nd Brigade.

The Carleton and York Regiment (New Brunswick), the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards and the Three Rivers Tank Regiment.

Also known to be in Italy, though not formally identified by Headquarters up to now, is the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec. All these Battalions fought in Sicily before the invasion of the Italian mainland.

"Here's How I Keep Feeling Fit and Well"

Several Years Ago Was Feeling Rundown. Had Aches and Pains, Dizziness and Couldn't Sleep. Found Syntona Gave Him Prompt Relief. "Take It Now Whenever I Feel Out of Sorts," He Says.

Thousands of Ontario men and women have found Syntona Herbal Compound the ideal remedy for occasional disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and resulting indigestion, nervousness, loss of appetite, dizziness, backache and rheumatic aches and pains. Many of them, like Mr. S. Seymour, 165 Province Street South, do not hesitate to say it is the best medicine they ever used and are constantly recommending it to friends and neighbours.

"My experience with Syntona began several years ago when I was badly rundown and having a lot of rheumatic aches and pains in my arms and limbs," said Mr. Seymour. "My back was lame and sore, I was always needing something for constipation and got dizzy, light-headed feelings. I couldn't get my proper sleep at night and felt fatigued and listless all the time.

"After finishing a short treatment of Syntona the aches and pains had gone away and I was enjoying the first sound sleep I had had in months. My appetite had picked up and I felt more energetic. It also got my bowels moving more regularly and the dizziness, together with that tired, listless feeling, disappeared. Since then I have been able to keep fit and well by using Syntona whenever I feel out of sorts. It is my favorite medicine, and has never failed to help me. I am always glad of the opportunity to recommend it to others."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

City Of Sofia Badly Damaged

BERNE, Jan. 13 — (AP). — The entire central part of the Bulgarian capital of Sofia was destroyed by bombs Monday in Allied attacks comparable to the heavy blows at German cities, the Budapest correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten reported today.

All telephone and telegraph communications were broken. Diplomats had only radio on which to send reports.

The Russian and former British legations were destroyed. The parliament building, opposite the American legation, wah damaged heavily. A direct hit was made on the Alexander Nevski cathedral, the Budapest report said. Death toll was high.

The newspaper said an officially ordered evacuation of Sofia became "a mass flight."

said.

Kettner said "something like 'they're after me,'" when he approached an American officer and, at his own request, was placed in the guard house of the American Guard Force section where no person from the prisoners' compounds could reach him, the statement said. But "despite this security, the prisoner grew more despondent, as though under great mental strain."

Two high-ranking officers of the German army suspected of being connected with the suicide of the German captain who hanged himself have been transferred to another camp, the command reported, but their connection with the incident "is still being investigated."

PTE. KEITH NELSON

Pte. K. Nelson Hospitalized

One of three brothers who have been serving in Italy, Pte. Keith Nelson, son of Mrs. A. Nelson, of 348 Stewart street, is in a hospital in the Mediterranean area, according to a letter which she received Wednesday. The letter contained no information as to whether he had been wounded, but he has been serving on the front lines with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment since the invasion of Sicily.

Two of his brothers are also in action in Italy. They are Gunner Dalton Nelson and Gunner Milton Nelson. Cpl. Leslie Nelson is with the R.C.A.F. in England and the fifth brother, Pte. Leonard Nelson is confined to military hospital in Kingston, following an operation.

Pte. Keith Nelson wrote that he was in a hospital staffed entirely by Canadian nurses and the patients found it a pleasant thing to be able to chat with Canadian girls again. He also said they were well cared for and the only thing they lacked was cigarettes.

This is the first word that Mrs. Nelson has had from her son in three months. Before enlisting he was employed at the Beaver Lumber Company, and after serving with the Prince of Wales Rangers (C.A.) he went overseas to the H. and P.E. Regiment a year ago.

House Plants To Be Discussed

For their annual meeting this evening in the office of the Department of Agricuture, Hunter street, the Horticultural Society is offering a special address by R. W. Oliver of the Central Experimental Farm, Horticulture Division, on the subject of "House Plants, Their Care and Feeding."

Mr. Oliver is an expert on house plants and has contributed many articles to the leading horticulture magazines in Canada.

W. C. Wilks, secretary, said today that the Society has had many requests "for a topic of this nature, but could not locate a suitable speaker until we got in touch with Ottawa." The public is cordially invited, and it is hoped by the Horticultural officers that the public will take advantage of the visit of Mr. Oliver even to enquiring about any problems or difficulties relating to house plants.

House plants will be offered as door prizes, and silver collection will be accepted to help defray expenses.

ditures and the great army of civilian workers was shrinking as of October last there were 2,798,000 civilians on the payroll in the continental United States, 154,500 in Alaska, Panama, Canal Zone and abroad, about 75 per cent of them in the War and Navy Departments and other war agencies. But this total was a drop of 205,000 from the peak employment period of last June.

The President said there was as great a responsibility for ensuring maintenance of a peacetime economy that would bring security to all, as for winning the war. A great public works and improvement program would be necessary in the post-war period and plans were being drawn up for it.

Last Phase of War

Mr. Roosevelt said late 1942 saw the end of defensive warfare followed by "the period of aggressive deployment of our forces."

He said January 1944 marks the beginning of "offensive warfare," the last phase of the w--.

Mr. Roosevelt said in addition to his thin distinction between "war" and "non-war" spending, still another classification—"aftermath of war"—is emerging.

In this category he placed three-fourths of the $3,750,000,000 item for interest on the national debt, more than half the anticipated $1,252,000,000 outlay for veterans, and a large portion of the $1,799,000,000 contemplated as the cost of refunds, primarily excess profits and other war-time taxes.

A brief footnote in the main budget document said the estimates were being delayed "because of possible material changes in war conditions."

Early Principal H. A. Yenney Dies At Uxbridge

The funeral of H. A. Yenney at Uxbridge this afternoon recalls his long service of twenty-nine years under the Peterborough Board of Education.

Mr. Yenney was appointed principal of the South Central School at Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets on December 1, 1893, and continued in that position until 1912 when he was transferred as principal to Queen Alexandra School in the north end of the city where he remained until his retirement in 1922.

A long generation of Peterborough's boys and girls in both the north and south wards of the city remember Henry A. Yenney as their teacher in the "Fourth Book," the pupils' designation of the senior class in the primary schools, the stage in their educational development at which they received final preparation and polishing for their entrance examinations and graduation to the Collegiate Institute.

Built Character

Mr. Yenney for years fulfilled his responsibility in directing the ground work in character and intellectual attainment of hundreds of Peterborough's young people. Many of his boys enlisted in the first war, and some of them were killed in action on far off fields of battle. The others and their sisters are now adults with families of their own, and with sons and daughters engaged in another war of defence against an inveterate enemy.

Memories of the Yenney class room at South Central School will be stirred among the young folks of those days who are now dispersed far and wide in life, but with a large number of them still living in Peterborough, some even as neighbors of the old school of their youth. Those former pupils will remember him with affection and with grateful tribute to his ability and earnestness as a teacher, and with respect, also, for an impartial discipline that could sometimes be an aid and stimulus to youthful attention and sharpened interest in the work of the classroom.

His long principalship in Peterborough was evidence of the confidence in which he was held by the Board of Education, and although those years are gone his record of service stands as the accomplishment of an excellent teacher.

Mr. Yenney is survived by his widow and four daughters, Mrs. H. C. Garrard of Fruitland; Mrs. Achilles W. Turner of Peterborough; Miss L. M. Yenney of the staff of the Uxbridge Collegiate Institute; and Mrs. G. A. Lemay of Collingwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner are in Uxbridge for the funeral.

paign we destroyed 217 German trains passing through Yugoslavia.

In a second attempt last summer Hitler launched against Tito's forces 12 divisions, of which seven were German. This prevented reinforcements from being sent to Sicily. With superhuman efforts we succeeded in breaking through the German encirclement, inflicting on the enemy more than 20,000 casualties. We also suffered heavily, losing 5,000 of our best fighters.

In the successful struggle of the United Nations against Fascist Italy we made an important contribution. During two years fighting, 100,000 Italians perished in Yugoslavia.

Although Hitler is attacking us with these large forces on all sides we are fighting back. The five railway lines to the Adriatic have been and remain cut. Almost all the German lines of communication, including the vital Belgrade-Zagreb railway, were frequently attacked. Bridges were destroyed and trains were derailed, causing an increasing loss of German lives and material.

The biggest Krupps works in the Balkans, at Vares and Zonica, no longer produce guns for Hitler. Some German barges carrying Rumanian wheat and much needed oil from Ploesti, Rumania, now are at the bottom of the Danube. The Kananj coal fields, providing fuel for the entire German rail system in Croatia, were destroyed. The largest Yugoslav industry — timber— now is at a standstill.

Planes Helping

Allied aircraft, with great accuracy, have bombed German concentrations and helped us throw back the enemy. Our soldiers greeted with great joy the American Star and the R.A.F. Rondel in the skies over our country . . .

Our arms have been won by the blood, courage and endurance of our people. These almost bare-handed groups of fighting men today have grown into the 5th corps consisting of many divisions with radio communications, lines of supply, hospitals, padres and engineers.

The 5th corps, like the rest of our army is officered by men who started as fighting soldiers and learned the theory of war in three years of fighting.

Now our officers also get special training in various military academies. There are in the Partisan army more than 5,000 of these fully-trained officers.

During the onslaught on Banja Luka there were among frontline troops numbers of our fighting women some of whom are experts with hand grenades. Women also hold certain places of command in our army.

Our liberated territory has grown from one-fifth to over one-half of Yugoslavia and our army has increased from 100,000 to almost 300,000.

2 Northey Boys Killed In Italy

The death in action of two brothers who were born in Lindsay and had many relatives in this district was reported to the Examiner today. They were Arthur and Lloyd Northey, the sons of Mrs. L. Northey of Bashaw, Alta., and the late Richard Northey. Killed fighting with Canadian forces in the Italian campaign, they met their deaths within nine days of each other. Arthur, the older of the two, died on Dec. 11, and his younger brother on Dec. 20.

The Northey family moved to Alberta in 1916, settling first in Forestburg and then, in 1936, in the town of Bashaw. The father died in March, 1940.

No details were received by the Northey family from the official word of their double bereavement, which reached them just at Christmas time. Arthur had previously been wounded, suffering shrapnel wounds in the Sicilian campaign. Both brothers enlisted together in June, 1941, with the Edmonton Fusiliers, and they were together until February last, when Lloyd transferred to the 48th Highlanders and Arthur to another Highland unit.

Their oldest brother, Warrant Officer William Northey, was invalided home after serving in the South Seas with the United States Army, and another brother, Osborne, served in Canada before being discharged for medical reasons. A sister, Mrs. Eric Lowther, and two other brothers, Thomas and Mel, live in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rosebush, 2 Haggart street, are related to the Northey family and Arthur and Lloyd were nephews of theirs.

Torpedo Boats Destroy Barges

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Jan. 13 (AP)—Swift patrol torpedo boats of the United States Navy, darting at night among barges crowded with Japanese, are blasting to the bottom of Vitiaz Strait many of the enemy trying to escape a jungle trap closing on them along the Huon Peninsula coast of New Guinea.

Allied headquarters reported the sinking of nine barges and the severe damaging of 11 others by P.T. boats operating in darkness offshore between Saidor and Sio.

"Many of the barges contained enemy troops," the communique said.

Australians now are battling northwestward within five miles of Sio. From Saidor, invaded by U.S. 6th Army elements from the Sea Jan. 2, the other jaw of the nut-cracker is being pushed southeastward. Japanese trapped within the approximately 55 intervening miles are taking to barges, preferring night movements in an effort to avoid Allied bombers.

In all, headquarters reported the aerial and naval destruction of 43 more barges, including two loaded with troops which were sunk by U.S. Marine artillery while seeking to reinforce Nipponese now battling American invaders at Borgen Bay on northwestern New Britain.

To Meet Teachers

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP).—Ottawa Separate School Board, at its inaugural meeting last night, decided to appoint a committee to deal with a communication from lay teachers who have threatened to strike Feb. 1 unless their salaries are increased.

one side and 60 German fighters on the other, disclosed that at a cost of two of their own planes, the Americans shot down 28 of the enemy.

The Germans, who had taken to the air in Folke-Wulf 190s, Messerschmitt 109s, and Junkers 87s fitted with cannons, used clouds over the target to dart out to within 100 yards of the bombers.

In Italy fighter-bombers attacked the enemy in the Orsogna area on the 8th Army front. R.A.F. Baltimores bombed Palena, 25 miles south-west of Chieti, near the Adriatic. R.A.F. Wellingtons also bombed the airfield at Perugila in Central Italy and communications in Eastern Italy during the night.

A naval communique said enemy shore batteries returned the fire of the British destroyers as they steamed near shore at Porto Civitanova, 25 miles below Ancona, Monday night and added: "Although accurate it caused no damage."

Pedaso, 10 miles farther down the coast, also was shelled and those aboard the vessels saw a fire spring up.

In addition to the attacks on enemy positions by fighter-bombers medium bombers blasted the railway junction in the Arce area, also beyond the 8th Army line. Two enemy aircraft were destroyed and three Allied planes are missing.

east of Grubesjov, through Krylov westward to Rawa Ruska and then east of Prezemysl to the Carpathian Mountains. North of Grodno, it said, the Lithuanian-Polish borders were fixed.

"The Polish Government disagreed with the Curzon Line," the article concluded "and continued war against Soviet Russia.

Poland imposed another border upon us during negotiations at Riga in March, 1921, and annexed the western provinces of the Soviet Ukraine and Soviet White Russia.

"This injustice allowed in 1921 by the Riga agreement regarding the peoples of the western Ukraine and western White Russia was corrected in 1930, when, on the basis of a plebiscite and in compliance with the will of the people, a new Soviet border was established."

The 1939 border, drawn through Poland at the time of the Russo-German partition of that country, while it largely followed the Curzon boundary in the central sector from Brest-Litovsk to a point to the southwest of Sokal, gave Russia large additional areas of White Russian in the north and a smaller extra portion of Galicia in the south.

Maj. General Hertzberg Dies In India

World War Veteran Was Serving As Army Engineer

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Word of the death while in service in India of Major General Charles S.L. Hertzberg, C.B. M.C. V.D., of Toronto, has been received, the Defence Department announced, last night.

The announcement said that Gen. Hertzberg, 57, retired from the Canadian Army overseas last June and was serving with the British Army in India in a special enginerring capacity. He was chief engineer of the 1st Canadian Army before his retirement.

His widow of Toronto, and two sons survive along with a brother, Major General H. F. H. Hertzberg, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

First commissioned as a lieutenant in the militia in 1904, he arrived overseas during the First Great War in January, 1916. He was invalided back to Canada in 1917.

In October 1918, he arrived at Vladivostok with the Siberian expeditionary force and was promoted to captain. Six months later he received his majority.

On demobilization he continued his engineering practice, but on the outbreak of the present war he was recalled to service with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, commanding the Royal Canadian Engineers of a Canadian Division.

When the 1st Canadian Corps war formed, Gen. Hertzberg was appointed chief engineer, with the rank of brigadier. He was promoted major-general and engineer-in-chief of the formation of the 1st Canadian Army. He was born in Toronto.

Farm Federation Names Officers

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture ended its eighth annual convention here yesterday with election of officers for 1944 and passing of several resolutions dealing with post-war agricultural reconstruction.

The meeting decided to ask the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Ontario Agricultural Inquiry Commission to study the problem of rehabilitation of men now serving in the armed forces. The resolution stated that many farmers in the province are prepared to retire because of age or infirmity and that their farms could be purchased as going concerns.

Each inexperienced soldier-farmer placed on such farms should work with the present operator for one year before taking the farm over himself.

Cheese Price Discussed

The federation voted to support the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association in its effort to have the 1944 price of cheese set at 25 cents per pound F.O.B., factory, plus bonuses and premiums. It urged on the Canadian Federation the need for prompt action in obtaining adequate quotas of farm machinery, hay and fence wire, sheet

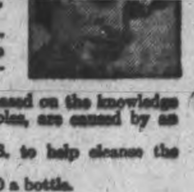
WOMEN PAY BIG PRICE FOR POOR "BLOOD MAKE UP"

You women who feel and look "washed out"—limp and droopy—may be paying the price of hemoglobin shortage in the blood.

The demands of monthly "periods" pregnancy, etc. all conspire to bring about this shortage of the vital red coloring matter in the red blood cells. Try Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

They help increase hemoglobin where there is a shortage of it due to iron deficiency and help chase away that "leaden" feeling of tiredness so often due to this condition. Start your course of Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. Ask your druggist.

Itching, Burning, Stinging Eczema or Salt Rheum



Eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called, is one of the most painful of all skin troubles.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to heat, or the hands placed in hot water are most unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

The relief offered by Burdock Blood Bitters is based on the knowledge that such ailments as eczema, and other skin troubles, are caused by an impure blood condition.

Bring about inner cleanliness by using B. B. B. to help cleanse the blood of its impurities.

Cobourg Kiwanis Observes Charter Night

COBOURG, Jan. 13 — (ENS). — Kiwanians from all over the province and from Rochester, N.Y., joined with local Kiwanians in a banquet-meeting Wednesday night in the Baltimore Hotel on the occasion of Charter Night of Cobourg Kiwanis Club. The local club was organized a short time ago and already is a thriving organization. Kiwanis clubs of Orillia, Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough, Barrie, Kingston, Belleville, Toronto and Rochester were represented in considerable numbers. Eleven made the trip down from Orillia.

John Linklater of Noranda, Quebec, District Governor of Kiwanis International, was the speaker of the evening. The presentation of the charter to President William McGuire of the Cobourg Kiwanis Club was made by Immediate Past District Governor Harold Male of Oshawa. Among those at the head table were Past District Lieutenant Governor John Troke of Peterborough, Lieutenant Governor W. R. McVittie of Barrie, Dick Raine of Peterborough, president of the sponsor club, and other distinguished Kiwanians.

Judge J. C. M. German of Cobourg gave the address of welcome to the out-of-town guests. Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly of Cobourg gave the invocation and Rev. W. P. Woodger gave the benediction. Dr. A. G. Allen was present on behalf of the Kinsmen Club and Reuben Freeman represented the Rotary Club of Cobourg. John W. Troke, who was toastmaster, introduced the visiting Kiwanians, and Lieutenant Governor McVittie introduced District Governor Linklater.

The Cobourg Club was presented with a Union Jack by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club; the American flag by Rochester Kiwanis; gong and gavel by Lindsay Kiwanis; reading desk from Barrie Kiwanis; club banner by Belleville Kiwanis; visitors' book by Oshawa Kiwanis, and a bronze shield and meeting place cards by Orillia Kiwanis Club. Vice-President Maurice Daignault accepted the gifts on behalf of the Cobourg Kiwanis Club.

During the evening, Rex Fleming and Albert Hircock presented vocal numbers, and Fred Hempstead presented two cornet numbers, with Alfred Mortimer at the piano.

Many telegrams of congratulations were received from other clubs who were unable to be represented. Donald B. Rice, president Kiwanis International, sent a letter to President W. H. McGuire which read as follows:

"Dear President Bill,—It is with genuine pleasure that I welcome the Kiwanis Club of Cobourg, Ontario, into the family of Kiwanis International, where joined together with 2,200 clubs, you become a vital element in spreading the beneficient influence of Kiwanis. Your charter night officially marks the beginning of opportunities of greater community service. Our International organization has provided objective which emphasize an all-out effort toward winning the war, renewed devotion to our traditional purposes, and definite plans whereby our deeds can help keep America, American. May the passing years make your charter anniversary an occasion for commemorating the contributions which the Cobourg, Ontario, Club, has made to worthwhile community service. Welcome and congratulations—Very cordially yours, Donald B. Rice, president Kiwanis International."

Letters from the Cobourg Kinsmen and Rotary Clubs expressed best wishes for success and also promised the co-operation of these clubs in all enterprises for the betterment of the community.

Rotarians Hosts To 100 Farmers

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13 (ENS) —An entertainment that will live long in the memory of township residents took place at Petherick's Corners Tuesday evening when members of the local Rotary Club staged their annual farmers' night as a gesture of good will to the surrounding community when 100 were present.

There were several factors contributing to its success and not the least of these was Art Duncan, former Trenton newspaper man, now doing employee relations work with the Bata plant at Batawa where he edits the Bata Bulletin and the Bata Bugle. Mr. Duncan was guest speaker of the evening and though his remarks were designed to be primarily of a humorous nature he succeeded in combining this with a little philosophy. With a background of more than twenty years public speaking Mr. Duncan long ago learned the art of holding his audience. He provided thirty-five minutes of entertainment in which the philosophy of Edgar A. Guest was mingled with good humor and disclosed the speaker was both musician and master of dialect.

Rotary President 'Stu' Stuart conducted the program and in addition to introducing the guest speaker he extended a hearty welcome to the farmers who were guests. Another factor contributing to the success of the evening was George Nicholls as song leader. He was assisted by Rotarian Art Bates at the piano.

The toast to the farmers was proposed by Rotarian Owen Watson and to this Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray responded while Mayor Frank Long of Campbellford also offered a few words making mention of the post war planning which the town is soon to undertake. To the ladies of Zion United Church W.A. who had provided the banquet Rev. G. N. Maxwell made the vote of thanks and the president of the Association, Mrs. A. Petherick, responded.

Proposes Levy On Cheesemakers

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP)—A motion proposing a levy on all district cheesemakers will be submitted to the Spring meeting of the Western Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, the Association was told last night by Delegate L. E. Shank.

At the meeting, which elected Elmer Baechler of Tavistock 1944 president, delegates were told the levy would be collected on cheese produced in the third week in June, at the rate of seven cents a box. The levy would not exceed $8 or be less than $4.

The levy would entitle cheesemakers to Association membership. The present membership fee is $4, considered insufficient for Association needs.

REDS CLOSE TRAP — In view of the swift pace being maintained by the Russian steamroller, Allied observers predict that the Germans are planning a full retreat from Soviet territory. If this is true, a million Nazis face entrapment in the south (shaded area). One Russian army (A), protected by the Pripet Marshes, is moving deeply into Poland, while another column, having captured Berdichev, is moving south and west to close the trap. This force is co-ordinating its effort with the armies that have taken and swept past Kirovograd (C). The destination of still another force is Zhmerinka (B), the capture of which would leave the retreating Germans with only one haven: Rumania.

Council Holds Year's Opening Meeting

MILLBROOK, Jan. 13 — (ENS) — The inaugural meeting of the Millbrook municipal council was held in the council chamber when the following newly-elected reeve and councillors took the oath of office before the Clerk, Reeve Harold D. Bigelow, councillors G. F. Harrington, M. W. Ball, S Olan and J. J. Powell.

The Reeve welcomed the members of the council and expressed the hope that all would work together for the best interests of the village. Councillor Harrington voiced his pleasure on the return of the former Council "showing that the people are satisfied with their work, and have given them another year to continue in it."

The other members also made brief addresses.

Among the communications were —a letter from the Mirror-Reporter asking for an increase in the printing contract; and from Percy B. Seymour soliciting appointment as municipal auditor; it was moved by Harrington-Ball that the printing contract be given the Mirror-Reporter at $215. Councillor M. W. Ball, relief officer, reported relief dispensed during December amounting to $25.50, and on motion of Olan-Powell the report was received and accounts ordered paid.

IF YOUR CHILD IS THIN and NERVOUS

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

Children who are thin, nervous and under par, science has discovered, are often found to be eating foods which do not give them enough of the essential food elements everyone needs for health.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in the diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins — all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, why not start giving New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

What Is The Council's Intention Toward The Young?

When the local organization of the C.C.F. entered four candidates in the recent municipal elections it presented to the people a program of reforms which it hoped to initiate in Peterborough. Among these were the establishment of playgrounds in the city where these are needed, and a campaign to curb juvenile delinquency. There is nothing specifically socialistic about either of these plans; they commend themselves to most people of good sense. Does the new Council intend to do anything about them? The defeat of the C.C.F. at the polls does not mean that the Council has no obligation to do necessary work which was included in the C.C.F. platform; good measures are good measures, whether they are set forth by the C.C.F. or any other body.

There has been a body of opinion in the city for some time that playgrounds are needed in certain sections where living quarters are crowded and the ordinary facilities for play are poor. The playground idea is one which might commend itself to local industries, for such playgrounds would be used to a great extent by the children of their workers. The provision of good playgrounds, with equipment for games and competent supervisors would cost money, certainly, but would it not be worth it if the children in crowded districts were made happier, and given a little sensible guidance during their play hours? In discussing such matters the cost must be weighed carefully against the potential good of the measure. The chief duty of the Council is to give good local government; keeping the tax-rate down, though important, is a secondary consideration. The Council has done a good job in providing skating-rinks in the city; work of this kind might well be carried on all through the year.

As for juvenile delinquency, we feel that something could be done without going so far as the C.C.F. suggested. Their idea was to strengthen the hand of the Children's Aid Society in the matter of inspecting homes, and recommending children for special psychiatric treatment where that seemed necessary. We are not in favour of too great an interference in home life, nor do we think that there is enough serious juvenile delinquency in this city to warrant extreme measures; the Children's Aid Society does an excellent job at present, and to turn it into a policing body might increase the difficulty of its work without serving any useful purpose. Any tendency toward undesirable wildness among the children of the city could be checked by more subtle means, and it is the Council's job to discover those means and use them.

For the Council has a responsibility toward the younger citizens of the city as well as toward the adults. The establishment of good and happy conditions of life and the fostering of a pleasant community atmosphere is just as much the Council's job as a careful stewardship of the city's funds. If a portion of the Council's time were given to such humanitarian considerations as the two we have mentioned, we think that the results would amply repay the cost in money and exertion.

Sinatra The Swoon Crooner

Frank Sinatra, the Swoon Crooner — not to be confused with Li'l Abner Yokum, who is at present in the same profession—has caused more hullabaloo than any popular idol in recent years, except perhaps Lindbergh. When Sinatra sings, women faint, and scream, and give evidence of demoniacal possession. And yet Sinatra cannot read a note of music, he often sings flat, one of his eardrums is punctured, and he has been refused for military service in the U.S. What is the secret of his charm? We cannot say. He seems to be a very decent sort of fellow; he has a wife and a small child, and another was born on Monday: from his picture and his recorded voice we should not say that he was a ball of fire, either socially or intellectually. And yet he causes convulsions among large groups of women. It is, as Sherlock Holmes would have said, a three-pipe problem, Watson.

Our own explanation, which is a somewhat melancholy one, is this: the lunatic fringe of society is much broader than is generally suspected, and seeming trifles are often enough to relax the perilous grip on sanity which is all that many people can claim. They can perform their daily work; earn and spend money; fill up government forms without saying that they were born in 1792 or that their name is Napoleon Buonaparte and, upon the whole, conduct themselves as though they had the usual amount of wits. But something utterly unpredictable, like the reedy note of Sinatra's voice, will shatter the veneer of sanity and send them tumbling down like the walls of Jericho at the note of Joshua's trumpet. It is a solemn thought that any man, by some such neglected accomplishment as wiggling his ears or whistling through his teeth, might provoke a similar response, and become the adored of millions of distracted women.

Sir William's Suggestion

At a meeting of the Canadian Club in Toronto on Monday Sir William Mulock suggested that a non-denominational, bi-lingual university might be established in Montreal at which English-speaking Canadians would learn French, and French-speaking Canadians English; such an establishment, in Sir William's opinion, would give French-Canadians a better chance in the business life of the country, and would help to reduce racial friction.

On the face of it this seems a good idea, but where would the student body for such a university be found? If it were non-denominational, would French-Canadians go to it? If it were bi-lingual would English-speaking Canadians go to it in preference to McGill? We cannot imagine that such a university would draw more than a hundred students at the most, and it would have to be very heavily endowed to carry on under such conditions.

But Sir William made another suggestion which seems much more practical and effective. He thought that scholarships for French-Canadian students should be offered at the University of Toronto. That would probably work very well. French-Canadians are extremely likeable as individuals and it would be good for the young men and women of Ontario to meet them and know them. Similarly it would be good for young French-Canadians to discover that Ontario is not wholly populated with atheists and Orangemen, and that we can be very hospitable when we are so inclined.

Desirable as it is that Canadians should all learn to speak French in order that their cultural scope should be increased, it is a matter of greater practical importance that French-Canadians should learn to speak English. Sir William's second plan seems to go to the heart of the matter.

Another Provincial Election?

A rumour is gaining wide circulation that Premier Drew may call another election in Ontario soon; the story is that he will find an excuse, quite early in the approaching session, to declare that he cannot carry on government without a clear majority, and that an election is the only answer to his problem.

We doubt that there is anything behind this tale. Premier Drew undertook to form a government, knowing very well that he lacked a clear majority; the Liberals in the Legislature have said that they will give him support in his general policy. If the Premier were to find that the C.C.F. and the Liberals were blocking him on a number of important measures he might be justified in throwing in his hand, but that has not happened yet.

Since taking office Premier Drew has done some good work and we think that he has made many new friends throughout the Province. The likelihood is that his support will increase as time passes. It would certainly be foolish to involve the Province in another election, running the risk of alienating the electors and perhaps going back to Queen's Park with fewer supporters than he has at present.

NOTE AND COMMENT

When a girl's face is her fortune it very often runs into a neat figure.

Perhaps the people of Peterborough aren't as lethargic as we thought. Look what it took to lead the Russians to the Poles.

This Thing Is Dangerous

OTTAWA JOURNAL
(No. 1)

MR. COLDWELL, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, told an audience in Vancouver last week that with his party in power, Socialism will be instituted gradually, "but not too gradually."

The Socialism for which the C.C.F. stands has been outlined in many deliverances by its leaders, and is elaborated in a large booklet recently published entitled "Make This Your Canada," composed by Professor F. R. Scott and Mr. David Lewis, with an introduction by Mr. Coldwell, giving it his blessing. The Journal has already criticized one passage belittling the Canadian war effort, but much else in the booklet deserves notice.

The aim of the C.C.F. booklet as a whole is two-fold. First, to give the impression — the grossly false impression—that under the existing political structure of this country the Canadian people, prior to the war, were in a wretched condition. Secondly, that owing to Government measures under the stress of war, Canada has achieved magical things, which proves, according to the C.C.F. booklet, that equally magical things can be done in peacetime by wise "planned economy" by government—namely, by a C.C.F. government.

To illustrate, let us quote from the booklet. To prove that Canada prior to this war was a mass of distress owing to the political set-up, the booklet goes back to the world period of depression following 1929, and portrays Canadian conditions thus (booklet, page one):

"Factories and mines idle. Stocks of goods rotting in warehouses while masses of the people are in urgent need. Foods being destroyed while people go hungry. Everywhere hopelessness. A country without a purpose, tolerating injustice and suffering. A rich land in terrible poverty. An industrious and intelligent people going to waste in idleness and despair."

After such piffle, the booklet trumpets practically Look at Canada now, prosperous and happy, business flourishing, everybody active, unemployment banished, the Government expenditure giving vast stimulus to industry—and then the booklet goes on to exclaim triumphantly:

"If we can do these things under the pressure of war, why can't we do them for the nobler purposes of peace? If we can find the resources and methods to produce tanks, bombs and bullets, why can't we find the resources and methods to build homes, schools and playgrounds?"

Please don't laugh, everybody. The C.C.F. promise to supply you with a millennium on the same basis as that on which the present Government is producing tanks, bombs and bullets. And what is that basis—superbly ignored by the C.C.F. wise-acres? Does the C.C.F. imagine that the Canadian people do not know that the basis just now of industry is the expenditure of ten thousand million dollars put up by the people so far for war purposes? Namely, five thousand million in war loans, and five thousand millions more given in extra taxation?

Will it be believed by anyone who has not seen this C.C.F. booklet, purporting to show how the C.C.F. are going to boom things by "planned economy," the booklet has not a single word about war loans, or about the effect of money spent from war taxation? But so it is. Not one word to suggest that ten thousand million dollars of expenditure by Government, given by the people in four years, has anything to do with present business activity.

The falsity of the C.C.F. booklet's picture of great evil economic and social condition among the Canadian people in pre-war days is a rather vile thing. The truth is that Canada has been a vigorously prosperous country, despite brief phases of business depression of which every country has its turns. Apart from the fact that this Canadian people have been able to put up $10,000,000,000 for war so far The Journal might say a great deal; but perhaps better than Journal say so, it is well to cite a few illustrative facts as furnished to The Journal by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in answer to specific questions—remembering that Canada has but a few over two million families (C.C.F. booklet, page 96). Following are questions submitted to the Bureau, with its answers.

Question—"How many homes are there is Canada?" (The C.C.F. booklet claims great numbers have been homeless, misrepresenting the present shortage of accommodation in the larger cities.)

Answer by Bureau—"According to the census of 1941 the number of buildings in Canada, used for human habitation only, was 2,155,550. This figure is preliminary and is not inclusive of such habitations in Yukon and the Northwest Territories." (Please note that the foregoing illustrates that there are more habitations in Canada than families.)

Question—"How many life insurance policies are in force in Canada?"

Answer by Bureau—"In 1940, 6,460,876." (Not bad for about two million families.)

Question—"How many motor vehicles are registered in Canada?"

Answer by Bureau—"In 1940, 1,500,829." (Not bad again, for two million families.)

Question—"How many radio sets are registered in Canada?"

Answer by Bureau—"In 1940, 1,345,167." (Not bad again.)

Question—"How many individual subscribers were there to the first Victory Loan in Canada."

Answer by Bureau—"The number of individual subscribers to the first Victory Loan of June 15, 1941 was 948,001." (Not bad, was it, for a pauper people?)

Question—"How many shareholders are there in the banks of Canada?"

Answer by Bureau—"In the 10 chartered banks of Canada there are 53,321 shareholders." (The C.C.F. leaders always declaim that the banks and other financial institutions represent a few big capitalists.)

Many other statistics might be cited to illustrate the pre-war prosperity of the mass of the Canadian people, but the above will serve some.

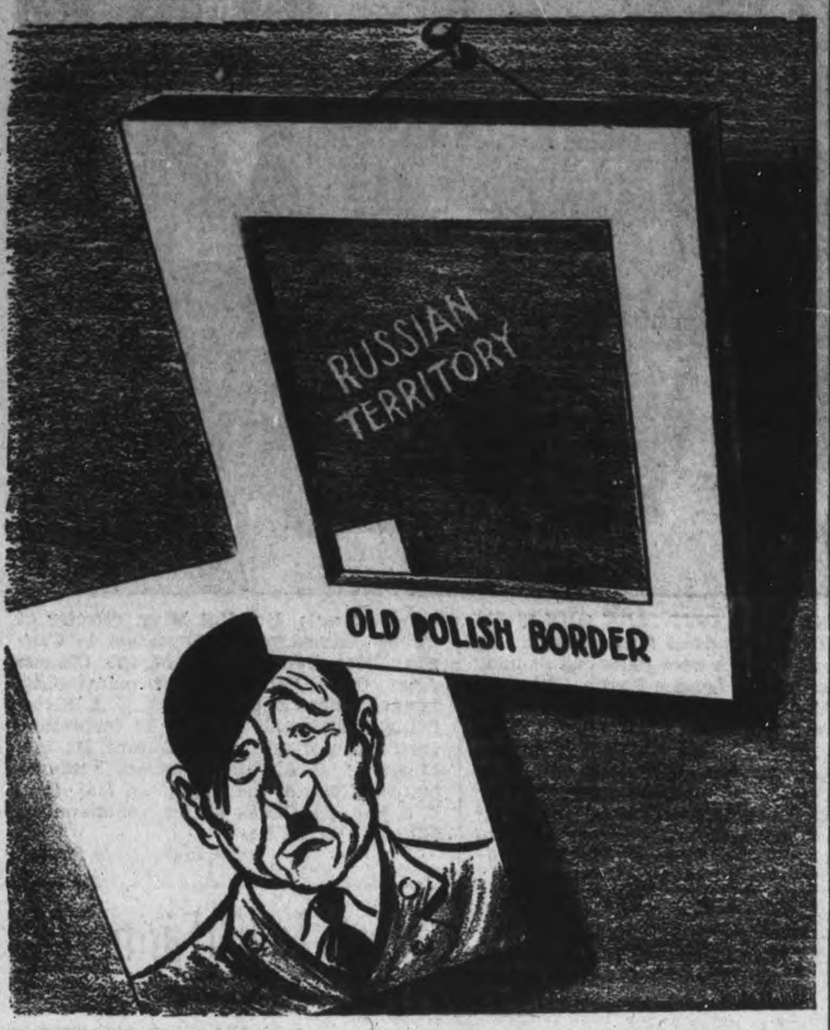
Could Be Hungry

Two London men were fined for catching rabbits by hand, their ferret chasing them out. Of course that was not sport—it is simply not done by good sportsmen — but those men may have needed some rabbit pie for dinner; and with such a shortage of shotgun shells how otherwise could they get it? Rabbits are such multipliers that it is doubtful if the breed needs any protection.—St. Catharines Standard.

DROPPING OUT OF THE FRAME — By Rube Goldberg.



Do You Want To Be A State Stooge?

By CAPT. THE RT. HON. HAROLD BALFOUR, M.C., M.P., Under-Secretary of State for Air

(From the London Sunday Express)

(A reply to "those who are now running a campaign to rivet the chains of State control upon all of us forever.")

WEEK after week the public is addressed, lectured, exhorted, warned, advised and directed by many speakers, including Ministers, on the need to accept continued control of life and property after the war.

Some of these speakers wage their own campaigns with the object of laying the foundations now for their particular brand of post-war planned and controlled State.

Endless control is dangled as the carrot to cure all evils at all times. The claims for the merits of control are pitched so fantastically high that it is about time some spoke out against the idea that control in itself is a good thing.

The truth is that controls are needed where scarcity exists. Scarcity is an enemy, and we destroy it by a counter-measure which in itself is an enemy of freedom.

These super-controllers with their extreme views are doing a disservice to the community because the the lugubrious picture they paint of a nation trussed up tight in stays of State control causes a natural revulsion from acceptance of that degree of continued control which common-sense folk appreciate will be necessary for some indefinite time after the war.

Let each of us put two test questions on our approach to this issue of postwar control.

First, do you seek after the largest amount of control you can manage to retain? Or do you look for how little control you can manage with?

Secondly, do you like control because it fits into your political theories of the ordered State where every one shall do as he is told, and a corrective governmental bash on the head shall be administered to any one who is so anti-social as to achieve individual unlicensed and unplanned success?

Or do you accept the need for continued controls in order to feed and clothe fellow humans in war-ravaged countries and in order to translate from war to peace our economic life in a way of fair share for all and to restore our internal and export trades without the dangers of uncontrolled inflation?

We have many in our midst who with honest answers would admit a wish to impose wide State control as a feature of our national life for all time as a means of attaining their particular political objectives.

It is they who hold a passionate belief that at all times every form of State ownership and control is better than any form of private enterprise.

The broad conception of the State thrusting outward the constantly broadening boundaries of rising social standards of decent and secure life, but within which boundaries individual enterprise, competition and reward shall find their reasonable and right place, does not appeal to these full-blooded advocates of the ordered Socialist State.

They see before them the dawn of a glorious vision of State ownership of all and sundry; State control, State direction form filling, statistics, regimentation of work and leisure by innumerable Government departments and, of course, as a necessary corollary, the extinction of the "little man" and the small business as being inefficient and unwanted in such a perfect ordered society.

The desire for individual enterprise and ownership, however small or great, is to be relegated to that class of things thought "not quite nice."

Their ultimate ideal for this ordered State would be the raising of "utility families" in accordance with State guidance; the children, as soon as possible, being enrolled into the ever-swelling ranks of a new race of "little State stooges" trained to serve and look only to the State for all sustenance, security and benefit right from their days of the State creche to the evening of life "directed" to be spent in some bare-walled, but beautifully sanitary, institution run, of course, under a State medical service.

If the picture I have drawn is accused of being a slight exaggeration or distortion, it is no further from the truth than those other portraits freely spread around in speech and writing of all employers and business men as a gang of frock-coated, top-hatted, over-paunched, hard-faced, unscrupulous ruffians.

Thank goodness I am certain that our citizens will not fall for this fully ordered and planned State to be achieved by the indefinite continuance, and, indeed, intensification, of all our war-time controls.

I do not believe all the acts, orders, regulations and directions that may flow from every Government department will crush down the determination of the ordinary man and woman to enjoy his or her liberty in the way he or she likes and to order their lives in the ways they choose, giving full play to man's individual determination to succeed and to draw reasonable rewards for himself and his family due to the success of his own efforts.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Whose Finish?

"We are indomitably resolved to fight the war to a finish, until the enemy has no alternative but to hope for peace."

Thus Joseph Goebbels, the German Propaganda Minister, reassures a group of Japanese newspaper men in Berlin. Hitler and Hirohito are whistling to keep one another's courage up. One Or The Other

Prime Minister Churchill has aptly described the Germans. "They are," he said, "either at your throat or at your feet." Swaggering bullies and thugs in victory, cringing and whining in defeat.

Regarding themselves as the "master race" and as "lords to command all others," they have long stifled all humour and healthy laughter. In a country more concerned with living than in looting and killing their neighbours, a motley group of upstarts like Hitler and his gang would have been ridiculed out of existence long before they had a chance to come to power.—Halifax Herald.

Letter To The Editor

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS UNIMPORTANT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—On Saturday last I saw in your paper an article called "The Defeat of the C.C.F." To read the headline of the article, one who is not acquainted with the C.C.F. would think they had suffered a bad defeat. Municipal elections are not important. I mean not like a Provincial or Federal election. In Peterborough only a very small percentage came out to vote, about 32 per cent. Showing how the people were not interested very much. If the C.C.F. had been defeated by a 90 per cent vote it would be something. The ones who did vote were the ones who are property owners, and who have grown up with the successful candidates. A C.C.F. defeat in Peterborough is not surprising. This city is an old "Conservative" stronghold. Even in the days when the Liberal regime swept the country Peterborough stayed Conservative. So you can not judge the trend, by this city. We are off the line of travel, more inland, a great many people here think in terms of 30 years ago, and are not as educated in the line of politics as they might be. However even in Peterborough the party is making gains all the time. I do not agree that as the article by the Kingston paper said that the C.C.F. is on the wane. It does not pay to get victory too easy. A party that takes time to get in is more likely to stay than a party that springs up overnight. Also under the C.C.F. individuals would have a better chance to own their own home and to have the right to work.

I remain an "Examiner Suscriber."

Unconsidered Trifles

For nearly an hour, hubby had been standing in the dark and damp cellar. His hands were glued grimly over the leak in the pipe, out of which water was gushing like a miniature fire hose and was rising rapidly. Suddenly his wife's excited voice came from above:

"George, you can take your hands off that leak now."

"I—thank heavens! Is—is the plumber here at last, Betty?"

"No—the house is on fire."

"Oh, no, I only want to call my wife. She's heard you every night for 20 years, and I'm sure it will be a real pleasure to her to meet you at last."

Uniform Wage Rates Set For Shipyards

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP) — Uniform wage rates in Ontario and Quebec shipyards were ordered Wednesday by the National War Labor Board in a direction affecting more than 20,000 shipyard workers.

The Board's action followed a survey of wages paid in all Ontario and Quebec Yards and conferences with employers and Union officials.

The Yards are divided into two zones, and specific rates are set for 72 occupational classifications in each zone. In zone No. 1, which includes Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Ojibway, Ont., and Port Arthur, Ont., the rate for mechanics is set at 85 cents an hour and for laborers at 50 cents.

Rates for zone No. 2, which covers Lauzon, Que., Quebec, Sorel, Que., Kingston, Midland, Collingwood and Port Dalhousie, Ont., are five cents lower.

Included in the mechanics' rate are platers, boilermakers, riveters, chippers and caulkers, sheet metal workers, carpenters machinists, millwrights, electricians and pipe fitters.

Retroactive

Effective dates of the new rates are not given in the general order, but in most cases the new schedule is retroactive to April 16, 1943, the Board said the survey disclosed a wide variation in rates being paid and in working conditions or substantially similar occupations. Some of these rates and working conditions had been effective without the authority required under the Wages Control Order.

"In view of the importance of the shipbuilding and ship repairing industry at the present time the Board must deal with the applications on the basis of the conditions created by the war emergency, however the industry may be affected by post-war developments," the finding said.

The Board said that in setting the rates it had taken into consideration the fact that Shipyard work is normally performed in the open and subject to irregularity as a result of weather conditions—a circumstance not applying to similar occupational classifications in most other industries.

Deloro Safety Committee Shows Reduction In Accident Rate

MARMORA, Jan. 13 —(ENS).— The accomplishments of the Deloro Safety Society for 19 years were outlined at the annual meeting Tuesday night when a comparison of loss in man hours was made showing that between 1923 and 1924, 1162 days were lost, but from 1925 to 1943 they had suffered a large decrease to 1083 lost days.

R. A. Elliott, chairman gave his report and suggested having the women present at such a gathering since in Canada and the United States, 48 per cent of the accidents yearly take place in the home. He touched upon figures given on two large charts. The first was of Lost Days Compensated Years 1923 to 1943 and figures were as follows— C. refers to Compensated Lost Days and M. to Lost Days through Minor accidents.

1923, C. 643; 1924, C. 519; 1925, C. 246;
C. 246; 1926, C. 184, M. 34; 1927, C. 88, M. 41; 1928, C. 126, M. 26; 1929, C. 0, M. 19; 1930, C. 63½, M. 8½; 1931, C. 64, M. 15; 1932, C. 30, M. 0; 1933, C. 3, M. 9; 1934, C. 20, M. 7; 1935, C. 16, M. 1; 1936, C. 0, M. 13; 1937, C. 83, M. 5; 1938, C. 0, M. 6; 1939, C. 1, M.2; 1940, C. 0, M. 16; 1941, C. 0, M. 27; 942, C. 107, M. 17; 1943, C. 38, M. 9;

The second chart of accidents occasioning lost time—

1918, C. 25; 1919, C. 20; 1920, C. 17; 1921, C. 26; 1922, C. 20; 1923, C. 33; 1924, C. 20; 1925, C. 14; 1926, C. 6, M. 12; 1927, C. 4, M. 19; 1928, C. 4, M. 14; 1929, C. 0, M. 8; 1930, C. 3, M. 8; 1931, C. 2, M. 8; 1932, C.1, M. 3; 1933, C. 1, M. 4; 1934, C. 1, M. 5; 1935, C. 1, M. 1; 1936, C. 0, M. 5; 1937, C. 5, M. 4; 1938, C. 0, M. 2; 1939, C. 1, M. 1; 1940, C. 0, M. 9; 1941, C. 0. M. 19; 1942, C. 4, M. 8; 1943, C. 3, M. 8;

Elliott said he desired to place on record the work of the women employees of the past three years as being especially good. The foreman's award he said, had again been keenly contested, three having a clean sheet witth respect to accidents. George Brooks came first with Warden Chrysler second, and with Clifford Watson of the staff will attend the Industrial Accidents Prevention Convention in April as representatives of the committee. E. Hewitt was the other foreman with a clean record.

Touching upon the Trustee Relief Fund, he mentioned that the reserves had been increased in 1943 by about $328. C. H. Buskard of the Staff and S. Sandham of the Employees had recently been re-elected making up with W. H. Brown, H. O. Loveless and R. A. Elliott the Board of five.

Speaking of the future, Mr. Elliott said courage would be needed in 1944. The year presenting a challenge which will have to be met, he said, and he urged a continued effort to prevent accidents and to help on war work. Absenteeism and carelessness retard production he reminded his hearers, and industry will be required to stay on the job.

Thanks to the management for their support of the Safety Movement was extended by the chairman.

H. A. McNally presented the report of the secretary prepared by F. Paquet, who is retiring on grounds of health from the office he has held since the inception of the movement, to be succeeded by Mr. McNally. C. H. Buskard succeeds the late W. L. Rigg as vice-chairman. The secretarial report covered the work of the sub-committees and disclosed that 146 suggestions were received in 1943 as against 113 in 1942, and 88 of these received an award. The Oxide and Engineers held the Star for 6 months each. Representatives of the plant divisions elected to the committee for 1944 are Silver and Cobalt metals, Gordon Knox; Oxide, Smith Fraser; Engineers, Robert Harris; General, Eugene Brady; Stellite, Jack Aitchison.

Adoption of the reports was moved by S. B. Wright, vice-president of the Company, who gave assurance that the Company would support the movement in every way in the future as in the past. The motion was seconded by C. H. Buskard. A list of those to receive certificates of the St. John's Ambulance Association was read and tribute paid to Dr. Crawford their trainer. They were presented by Mr. Wright. The list is as follows: Harold Price and T. Cousins, 3 years; S. Barnett, Mrs. William Simmons, Miss Sylvia Trumble, John R. Fox, Albert Laton, Carmen Sanders, Carl McCoy, Muriel Leonard, Earl Leonard, Harold London, John Aitchison, Merle Gordon, William Goodchild, Mrs. Stella Fraser and Charles Clemens. It was pointed out that Messrs. Price and Cousins would receive their medallions at a later date.

Five entertainers from Toronto were present including Gus Mauro, master of ceremonies and accordian player, Mickie Connolly, dancer, Bob Logan, ventriloquist and Punch and Judy showman, and the Lowell's, tumblers and hand balancers.

The management entertained the group at a banquet preceding the meeting at Deloro Hall.

Not Far Wrong

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 13 (CP). — Attorney - General Blackwell of Ontario told this story in an address on Monday to the Junior Chamber of Commerce here:

He was standing in front of a Toronto hotel when a man who had been drinking heavily approached and said: "Got a light, bud?"

"I gave him one and as he stood there lighting it he said to me: 'You know for a while I didn't ask you because you looked to me as if you had something to do with the law'."

Beauty Shops For Fighters

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP).— The 5th Army's newly developed "beauty shops" are lifting troops' morale in a big way and they are going right along as the front line moves forward.

These "beauty shops"— the soldiers have dubbed them "revival tents"—were planned by the 5th Army's quartermaster group.

Immediately after the fighting men are relieved temporarily from front line duty, they stream to the revival tents which were erected on the banks of the Upper Volturno River.

Less than an hour later, the battered, mud-splattered men emerge showered, shaved and wearing complete new uniforms.

Sgt. Sol. H. Abrahams, Winthrop Mass., in charge of the shower rooms, said that "wherever the infantrymen go, we travel somewhere close behind."

HYGIENE MAINTAINED

During the Battle of Britain, the water supply system was so well maintained that no cases of tyhoid occurred. And in spite of crowding shelters, there was no increase of disease.

CHECKING THEM OVER—Military clothing plants know no season. Even in the middle of winter work on summer uniforms goes on. In the picture above a young employee of a Western Canadian clothing factory leaves her sewing machine for a moment to check waist bands on uncompleted trousers for army summer wear. This is the Dominion's largest military clothing plant engaged in the production of cotton stores for the boys in khaki.

1,300 Teachers Demand Salary Boost

MONTREAL, Jan. 13 — (CP).— A meeting of some 1,300 Catholic school teachers, members of the Federation of English Speaking Catholic Teachers and the Alliance Catholique Des Professeurs De Montreal Tuesday unanimously rejected a proposed, scale of salary increases submitted by the Montreal Catholic School Commission.

In rejecting the Commission offer the teachers held out for their original demands of a minimum of $800 for women teachers, and a maximum of $1,700, with male teachers getting a minimum of $1,000 and a maximum of $2,755, plus an immedate bonus of $200 for all teachers.

The Commission offer provided for a minimum of $800 for women and $1,200 for men with no change in the present maximum. Present rates are women, $625 to $1,200; men $900 to $2,500.

The teachers have given the commission until next Friday to accept their terms. If a favorable reply is not received by then, another meeting will be held to determine future action.

Salesman Nipped

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 13 (AP).—"Hey, mister," the boy was quoted as saying, "want to buy some gas coupons—two bits each for B' tickets, a book of 'A's' for $5." His prospective customer, a policeman off duty, took the 13-year-old to police headquarters.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There should be plenty of action in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow night when the weekly double-header will be staged, especially in the first game which brings together the two leading teams in the loop and will have an important bearing on the final standing. The league-leading Transports who have yet to experience a defeat this season are billed to meet the St. John's team, now firmly established in second place, in the opening game on the card, announced for 7.30 o'clock. The only defeat suffered by the Saints so far this season was at the hands of the Transports and they would like nothing better than to get revenge for that loss by a win tomorrow night. If they should succeed in achieving their ambition the two teams would be tied for the leadership. The second game should also be evenly-fought for it brings together the Y Cadets and the Normal School. Incidentally there is a chance that the loop may have a new entry for the second half in a C.W.A.C. team from the Military Training Centre. They have discovered they have some basketball talent in their midst, have been getting in some practice and may be admitted into the league, although a definite decision has not been reached.

Tonight's game in the Y.M.C.A. House League, a semi-final sudden-death affair will set the stage for the final battle for the Dominion Life Trophy. The contestants tonight are Steve Csumrik's Frigates and Pete McArthur's Fairmiles and the winner will clash Saturday night with the Algerines for the championship. If both teams are at full strength tonight, it should be quite a struggle. Fairmiles have been going at a good clip all season and the Frigates after starting at a moderate pace have been one of the hottest clubs in the loop in recent weeks. Bill Edger has been on a scoring rampage and other youngsters on the squad have been developing into effective snipers with the result the Frigates have been running up big scores. On the other hand the Fairmiles have the edge in experience with McArthur and Baird in the squad and with the chips down they should make it decidedly interesting for the Csumrik crew. The loser is out of the competition so that there will be every incentive for the teams to turn on the heat early and keep it on. Then will come the final test Saturday night when the unbeaten Algerines will have to be faced in a sudden-death battle for the trophy.

Gets Another Chance

Earl McCready's plea for another chance at Krippler Karl Davis with another referee in charge has been granted and the two battlers will fight it out here next Tuesday night as the main attraction in the weekly Tunney show. After Tuesday night's fiasco in which Referee Maxwell practically handed the match to the Texan on a platter there could be no reasonable excuse for not granting the Moose's demand for a re-match. Promoter Tunney saw the unsatisfactory contest himself and he was quick to back up McCready's request and to express his opinion that Maxwell had had a decidedly bad night as the third man in the ring. McCready has a double grievance against the official. He blames him for the loss of his first bout with Davis a month ago, a loss that was all the worse because it included an injury to the Moose's knee that cost him three or four profitable engagements. "That second fall the other night," the Aurora farmer complains, "never gave me a chance. Maxwell in breaking us grabbed me around the neck and he still had a grip on me when Davis dived and threw me over, clapping on a toe hold before I could do anything about it. I know I shouldn't have tossed Maxwell around but he tried to stop me doing something that Davis had been handing out all night without being checked. Give me a referee that knows his job and I'll square accounts with that Texas loud-speaker."

Incidentally Davis and Cowboy Roy Graham who wrestled here the other night have been the centre figures in a storm scene with the wrestling commission in New York State. It seems that both were matched for bouts in Buffalo but they had shown so much rough stuff in previous appearances that Chairman John J. Phelan, the chairman of the commission at first refused to sanction any more matches. He has finally relented but he has laid down a code of cardinal wrestling sins that must be eliminated under penalty of $50 fines and indefinite suspensions. In view of what the grunt-and-groaners have been getting away with here the list is interesting. It is stipulated that the above penalties will be handed out to any wrestler who "throws his opponent out of the ring, uses the drop kick, ups with his knee, strikes with the elbow or the closed fist, uses tactics aimed at knocking an opponent's head against the steel turnbuckle connecting ropes and ringposts." With all those prohibitions the rowdy Mister Davis will be sadly handicapped. However we have an idea that he will forget all about those "Don'ts" as soon as he goes into action in Buffalo and that will be a good test as to whether the commission's rulings stick or not.

Washed Up Says Walshe

As might have been expected Scribe Bill Walshe of Kingston has come out with the weeping towels, following the latest order from military headquarters and here are his views: "Senior hockey is all washed up in Kingston according to the latest army order, although there is still hope that the soldiers will be permitted to complete their O.H.A. senior schedule. Four rulings have been issued this season on army hockey and the last came late yesterday. First the teams were granted permission to play. Then came an order to send soldier hockey players overseas immediately. The third command last week prevented teams entering Allan or Memorial cup Canadian playdowns and yesterday the latest instructions were that teams could not play in leagues leading to the C.A.H.A. playoffs. There may be another order before this is published. No information has been received in Kingston regarding tomorrow night's exhibition game with Detroit Red Wings but as the game was arranged several weeks ago and considerable money spent in promotion, the army will likely grant permission to fulfil contracts. Kingston's senior hockey team was on the afternoon train to Toronto to play the Navy when the order was announced here yesterday but Coach Red Hamill, Roy Giesebrecht and Chuck Corrigan were not with the team. They were on army duties, which have come first in this district since ruling No. 2. If the army team is banned from senior play there will be general regret in Kingston, as the soldiers provided the main sports entertainment and had won a big following, not only in the service camps but also among the civilian population. Only about 14 soldiers of the thousands located here are connected with the team and less than 200 soldiers across Canada are in senior play, yet the structure of Canada's national sport is wrecked."

* * * * * *

From the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School comes the report that sport is not exactly in the doldrums in that centre of learning despite the fact that there has not been much outside activity. It is hoped however that the interscholastic basketball loop in this district will soon be organized and the Peterborough Collegiate will have senior and junior teams ready for action. In addition the inter-form basketball league is to get under way at once, providing plenty of cage fare for the Collegiate boys. Volleyball is also furnishing activity for the school personnel. And while on this subject of school sport we pause to pay tribute to the primary schools for what they are doing to keep hockey alive here. The Public School League has opened and will carry on at C.G.E. rink while at St. Peter's a league is being formed that will give the pupils plenty of opportunity to play Canada's national winter pastime.

Strong Toronto Rinks Are Eliminated

By HERB. MARTIN.

When Mrs. (Dr.) Brereton, Toronto Granite Club, and Mrs. Code, High Park Curling Club, two of the strongest rinks entered in the bonspiel were eliminated in the first round the contest was thrown wide open. Both rinks are always strong contenders wherever they play and their defeat was quite a surprise.

Looking over the score sheet there was some high-class curling. Mrs. DeGraw had two close games winning the second by the extra end route.

Lost by 2 Shots.

Mrs. Bruce of the local club, had a real game with Mrs. Abel, High Park, only to lose out by two shots. Mrs. Wood was lying shot and what looked like game, but Mrs. Northey of Lakefield had other ideas. She played well up, got a couple of rubs on outside stones and landing in for shot. It was a tough one, but it counts just the same.

We believe we would be amiss if we did not mention the committee who had charge of the refreshments. They did their job well and thoroughly. We heard nothing but nice compliments on all sides—

"The dinner was good
And the club right hearty;
And altogether 'twas
An excellent party."

Just how the bonspiel will come out or who will win it we don't know. At the time of writing this article the games are only half over. Play continues all day Thursday, and by six o'clock this evening we will know all the answers.

One interested spectator at yesterday's game said he had watched many games and always enjoyed them. He said it put him in mind of a piece of poetry that ran something like this:

"Behold her poised on the crampit serenely,
With one foot before and the other behind;
She envies not Victoria her sceptre so queenly—
Her sceptre's a boulder, made fit to her mind."

Barons Overtake Hershey Bears

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons have finally caught up with Hershey Bears and now both teams stand tied for top honors in the American Hockey League race.

Sparked by centre Tommy Burlington, who scored two goals, Barons last night whipped Bears 5-2 for the first time this season. In the only other league game scheduled Buffalo Bisons defeated Pittsburg Hornets 4-3.

In 29 games played this season, Bears have won 18, tied five and lost six. Barons have the same number of victories and draws to give them a total of 41 points, but have lost seven encounters.

Burlington became the league's leading scorer with 17 goals and 26 assists. Bears' Captain Wally Kilrea got only one assist and dropped back into second place with 41 points.

In the Bison-Hornet tangle Eldred Kobussen scored the winning goal at 15:29 in the third period after both teams were tied with two counters each.

Pittsburg marksmen were Wendell Jamieson, who counted twice and Tony Hemmerling. Other Buffalo goal getters were Fred Thurier, Fred Hunt and Lloyd Klein.

To Hold Tournament

CHICAGO — (AP) — Lowell D. (Larry) Rutherford, president of the Board of Directors of the Chicago District Golf Association, said last night the Chicago Victory National Open golf tournament, won last year by Sammy Byrd, will be held again in 1944 on June 28 through July 2.

Los Angeles Wants Franchise

By FRANK FRAWLEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13 (AP) — In one manner or another, Los Angeles intends to have a major league baseball franchise after the war, and it fully expects, also, to be represented in the National Professional Football League.

The nation's fourth largest city has been supporting, and liberally a first class minor league club, the Los Angeles, who have outdrawn at the turnstiles some of the major loop representatives, but, as Clarence (Pants) Rowland put it, "we'll simply have to get major league baseball when this war is over."

Rowland, a shrewd veteran of the baseball wars, was voted the minor leagues' top executive in 1943. He made the Angels the best drawing minor league club in America last season. He envisions the possibilty of a third major league, operating from Portland, Ore. south to Los Angeles.

"This Pacific coast area is the fastest growing in the nation," says Pants. "If my associate presidents don't agree with me in striving to get our league classified as a third major, then Los Angeles is going out to buy into the American or National just as soon as a franchise is available."

There are several hurdles to clear, as Rowland knows all too well. There was an amendment to the major-minor agreement enacted at the last session providing that if any major league team was placed in this territory the purchaser would have to acquire the physical property reimburse the Coast League for loss of a member and, also reimburse the league owners individually.

Manager In Pony League

BUFFALO, Jan. 13—(AP).—Manager of the Buffalo Bisons in the International League last season, Greg Mulleavy yesterday was signed to manage the Lockport club in the Pony League, it was announced by Owner William J. Schumacher. Mulleavy succeeds Roy Johnson who will coach the Chicago Cubs.

Detroit Wings Defeat Kingston Army

KINGSTON, Jan. 13 (CP)—Detroit Red Wings waited 15 minutes to warm up last night, then struck for seven goals without reply to erase a 3-0 deficit and pave the way for an 11-3 exhibition conquest of Kingston Frontenac Army.

The Army team, exiled from the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" group this week by a Canadian Army ruling, jumped into command midway through the first period on goals by Gar Peters and Ab Corrigan, and held a 2-1 lead after Bill Jennings opened the scoring for the National Hockey League entry after 15 minutes of the period.

The Wings seized the initiative in the second period, out-scoring Frontenacs 4-0, and built up their advantage in the last period with six goals against one by Foster, a shipbuilder who is the only civilian on the Kingston team.

Adam Brown was chief trigger man in the Detroit attack with three goals. Don Grosso, Carl Liscombe and Jennings scored twice apiece with singles going to Joe Carveth and Dalton (Nakina) Smith.

Lineups:

Detroit — Goal, Dion; defence, Jackson, Quackenbush; centre, Don Grosso; wings, Brown, Carveth; alternates, Hollett, Simon, Armstrong, Liscombe, Jennings, Smith, Howe, Bruneteau, Kilrea.

Kingston—Goal, Stevenson; defence, Booth, Jones; centre, Doran; wings, White, Peters; alternates, Phillips, Galbraith, Giesebrecht, Hamill, Corrigan, Mortimer, Grigg, Tisdale, Foster.

Officials—Gus Marker and W. Stein.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just four years ago to-night, New York Rangers defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-1, and set a new league record of 19 consecutive games without a loss. Their mark surpassed Canadiens' streak of 18 set in 1927-28. However, Boston Bruins, in 1940-41, established a record of 23 games without a loss, a string which still stands.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—Risking a long-range prediction: The post-war sports booms you've been hearing about will be in the amateur, rather than the professional, field...Pro sports in the United States won't find the going very easy under the proposed National Service Law, although some may survive...Meanwhile college athletics get the benefit of U.S. Navy support and leaders feel certain that any American demobilization plan will include subsidies of some sort to encourage boys to resume their college studies...That should equip the colleges with mature, experienced athletes and at the same time eliminate the lure of a little quick dough for playing professionally... Another prediction: If all this takes place, the colleges will spoil their own racket by hoisting prices to five bucks for any $1.50 football game, just as they did back in the twenties.

When Admiral William Halsey returned from the South Pacific just in time to see the Shrine east-west football game New Year's day, he tried to slip into his seat without being recognized...He almost had succeeded when his foot slipped and landed on the toes of an army private..."Ow," protested the soldier, "look where you're going, Mac."... The Admiral turned and the private, recognizing the grin he had seen in newspaper photos, flushed and snapped into a salute...Then he stuck out his other foot and asked: "Please step on that, too."

Rugby League Considers Plan

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP) — The growing National Football League is trying to put the right foot forward without tripping over itself.

Casting an eye beyond 1944 to the post-war future, executives convened today in the final session of their annual midwinter meeting with action still to be taken on bids for franchises from Buffalo, N.Y., Los Angeles and San Francisco.

There appeared to be three alternatives emerging rom yesterday's oratory:

1—To continue its pre-war size of 10 teams by having two clubs merge such as Philadelphia and Pittsburg did last year.

2—To operate as an 11-team setup with Boston, which was granted a franchise last June, going into business as a sixth member of the Eastern division.

3—To accept Buffalo's franchise, backed by Sam Cordovano, line coach under Lou Little for 14 years at Columbia and four other prominent Buffalo business men, and operate as a 12-team league with Buffalo joining the western division.

It was understood the league executives were split 50-50 on all three propositions.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The assigning of weights yesterday by John B. Campbell, New York racing secretary, for three-year-olds entered in the Experimental Handicap, six-furlong dash at Jamaica's spring meeting, gave the first clue to racing qualifications of Kentucky Derby candidates. Top weight of 126 pounds was given Pukka Gin, owned by Lt.-Col. Sonny Whitney, thus giving the unofficial nod to the winner of the Champagne Stake at Belmont last fall as early choice for the Kentucky classic.

George D. Widener's Platter was given 124 pounds after capturing the Pimlico Futurity and Waldon Stakes as a two-year-old while Occupy, voted the two-year-old champion of 1943, Brownell Combs' Durazna and Warren Wright's Miss Keeneland shared third place in the handicapping with 121 pounds.

Rangers Get 3

New York Rangers of the N.H.L. last night announced the acquisition of three players, Kilby MacDonald who, as a former Ranger, captured the Calder Cup as the league's outstanding rookie in 1939-40; Hank Damore from the Brooklyn Crescents and Jimmy Jamieson of the New York Rovers.

Angelo Bartelli, former quarterback of Notre Dame Irish until called up by the U.S. Marines, yesterday was awarded the Heisman trophy by the Downtown Athletic Club, New York, as the outstanding gridiron player of the past season.

Former lightweight champion Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia and Al (Bummy) Davis of New York yesterday were signed for a 10-round bout February 18 in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The board of review, United States Trotting Association, at Columbus, O., yesterday withheld action in the appeal of Driver Clint Hodges of Clandeboye, Ont., from a 60-day suspension and a fine of $150 following a Saliva test on Elgin, a horse driven by him at Cleveland's North Randall track last season. Hodges based his appeal on the premise he was not the owner of the horse.

Wilfred (Rosy) Ryan, former pitcher of the New York Giants, was signed by President Mike Kelly yesterday to manage the Minneapolis team of the American Association, succeeding Tom Sheehan who had been in charge of the team since 1939.

Draft Board To Nab Fritzie Zivic

By WATSON SPOELSTRA
Associated Press Sport Writer

DETROIT, Jan. 13—(AP)—If he didn't have a date next week with his draft board, Fritzie Zivic's fistic series with Jake La Motta might become a road show with real depth of tradition.

Flat-nosed Fritzie, last of Pittsburgh's fighting Zivic clan, tackles Jolting Jacob of the Bronx tomorrow night at Olympia Stadium in the fourth match of a series which La Motta leads, 2-1. New York and Pittsburgh liked the show and so will Detroit, Matchmaker Nick Londes declares, pointing to a big advance ticket sale. However, there's not even the reasonable facsimile of a title at stake.

Naturally, Fritzie thinks he'll beat La Motta over the 10-round route again tomorrow.

"La Motta's the kind of a fighter I can beat every night in the week," asserts Fritzie. "I'm not so fast as I once was, and I can't catch up with a guy who keeps going back. But La Motta comes right in, and then I let him have it."

All this time, La Motta says nothing, but his Detroit record needs no amplification. A relative unknown then, Jolting Jake fought his way to fame and a fat bankroll last year in the same ring where he secretly hopes to flatten Zivic tomorrow.

All told, Jake had six Detroit bouts that paid him close to $75,000. The record shows five victories, topped by an upset that ended Sugar Ray Robinson's long undefeated streak. His only Detroit defeat came in a return bout with Robinson. Both times La Motta had Sugar Ray on the floor.

Navy Team Carries On

VANCOUVER— (CP)— Canadian Navy headquarters here announced last night the Navy team would complete its schedule in the Pacific Coast Senior Hockey League unless orders are received from Ottawa to cancel this plan. The team will not enter Allan Cup playdowns, in any event, it was stated.

Wings, Rangers Bolster Their Line-ups

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, striving to improve their lowly standing in the National Hockey League, are relying heavily upon men discharged from the Canadian Army to bolster their forces.

The Red Wings, holding fourth place by a two-point margin over Chicago Black Hawks, acquired new strength last week with the addition of Murray Armstrong, formerly of Toronto Maple Leafs and the disbanded Brooklyn Americans.

Last night it was learned Detroit has added netminder Conny Dion and veteran forward Ken Kilrea, discharged by the army in Kingston, Ont. In an exhibition game at Kingston last night against Kingston Frontenac Army, Detroit won an 11-3 decision over the team which recently withdrew from the Senior "A" group of the Ontario Hockey Association because of the army's new ruling on amateur hockey participation.

Both Dion and Kilrea played against Kingston and may be in the lineup tonight when the Wings travel to Montreal for an N.H.L. engagement against the leading Canadiens.

Rangers, trailing the fifth-place Black Hawks by 11 points, entertain the Chicago Club at New York tonight in a game which may mark the return to professional hockey of Kilby MacDonald, Calder trophy winner with Rangers in 1939-40. MacDonald, former Ottawa and Northern Ontario player, has been acquired from Buffalo Bisons of the American League in return for Hub Macey, last year with Rangers, Nester Lubeck and Spencer Patchell.

INJURED BY AUTO—Hit by an auto in Boston, Joe (Jumping Joe) Dugan, former star third baseman of the New York Yankees, is in critical condition in Boston.

Hoppe In Lead

CHICAGO—Artful Willie Hoppe, king of the cue ball, held firmly to his lead over San Francisco's Welker Cochran today in their 2,150-point cross-country exhibition three-cushion billiard match. Hoppe won the final of yesterday's three 50-point blocks, 50 to 49, in 53 innings, after dropping the first two sessions.

Galt Juniors Smother Oshawa Team

By The Canadian Press.

Galt Kists sprang a real surprise in the Junior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association last night at Oshawa by blanking the Generals 3-0 for the latter's second defeat in 14 scheduled starts, the visitors gaining a first-place share in Group 2 with St. Catharines Falcons as a result. Oshawa continued to hold top rung in the standing of Group 1, but only two points ahead of St. Michael's College.

The smallest crowd of the winter at Oshawa witnessed wide-open hockey which brought no scores in the first period but Galt went to the front in the second stanza on goals by Johnny Obriaco and Nellie Podolsky and held off the crashing homesters in the third frame to finish off the fray with a third score by Dave Morland on a pass from Podolsky. The nature of the rousing encounter can be gleaned from the fact 14 penalties were distributed during the 60 minutes.

In the other game at Stratford the Queen City crew came through with a 4-3 win despite a strong rally by the home club all during the third period. Marlboros held a 2-1 lead for the first period and extended it to 4-1 at the close of the second session after which Jackson and McKelvey scored for Kroehlers with Goalie Gilson of Toronto credited with many saves in the closing stages. Marlboro scorers were Harding, Schewchuk, Gabourie and Lawlan; for Kroehlers, Rohfritsch, Jack Jackson and McKelvey.

Seniors Revise Hockey Schedule

TORONTO, Jan. 13—(CP)—The three remaining teams in Senior 'A' group of the Ontario Hockey Association—Toronto Navy, Hamilton Majors and St. Catharines Saints—last night decided to continue with a revised schedule, to be released Friday.

At an emergency meeting with an O.H.A. sub-committee, the teams drafted a schedule up to an including Feb. 28, when the first two teams will play off for the Senior 'A' O.H.A. championship. Games and dates for the playoffs will be arranged later.

The schedule revision—fourth since the season started—was made necessary by withdrawal of Kingston Frontenac Army under the Army's new code for hockey. Toronto R.C.A.F. and Toronto Army Daggers previously were affected by service regulations regarding hockey.

The revised schedule to Jan. 19: Navy at St. Catharines, Jan. 14; Hamilton at Navy, Jan. 17; Navy at Hamilton, Jan. 19.

By EYE GOSSIN

Deanna Durbin will be more of an actress and less of a singer in future pictures. In "Christmas Holiday," her next, she will sing just two short songs. . . Though Canada Lee, one of the feature players in Alfred Hitchcock's "Lifeboat," has no connection with the Dominion, Hume Croyn, who also appears in it, has. He's from Western Ontario. . . Hollywood is becoming domesticated. There were more marriages and more births in 1943 than in any past year. . . The big buildup that Frank Sinatra is getting caused considerable advance hostility for him prior to his arrival in Hollywood to make his first film, "Higher and Higher." He proved to be little more than a scared kid who wondered what it was all about instead of a wise guy. So now everyone is crazy about him. . . They're making "The Wife of Monte Cristo" as a film. . . Overheard: "I can't understand the fuss about women getting men's salaries. My wife has been getting mine for years."

Over at Warner Brothers' studio they had to send out a hurry-up call for carpenters the other day. Sydney Greenstreet of "Fat Man" fame, playing a scene in a European railway train for "Mask of Dimitrios," got stuck in the narrow doorway. It had to be widened two inches. . . One of the big names in the days of the silent screen was Director Rex Ingram, who faded out with the coming of sound. He is about to enter production again to remake two of his past triumphs, "Trifling Woman" and "Mare Nostrum." Those films featured Raymon Novarro, Antonio Moreno, Barbara LaMarr and Lewis Stone. The last is still a busy actor. . . Jackie Jenkins, six-year-old son of actress Doris Dudley, who made such a hit in "The Human Comedy," will be seen with Mickey Rooney in "National Velvet."

A certain star who shows plenty of diamonds is referred to behind her back as "Crystal Packin' Mama". . . Bob Hope says that a dollar won't go as far as it used to—but it goes a lot faster. . . A film will be made about the life of the much-married Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who used to win plenty of newspaper space a decade ago. Alice Faye or Betty Grable will play the lead. . . Gig Young, who was scheduled to play a pharmacist's mate in "Destination Tokyo," which stars Cary Grant and John Garfield, gave up the role to enlist in the US Navy. He was just promoted to pharmacist's mate! . . . When Otto Kruger appears in color in "Color Girl" which stars Rita Hayworth, it will be his second such appearance in 22 years. Back in 1921 he appeared with Hope Hampton in "The Marionette". . . In "Riding High," Technicolor spectacle which stars Dorothy Lamour and Dick Powell, you'll see Mounties in Arizona. It was originally called "Calgary Stampede" when written by ex-Torontonian Art Arthur before he enlisted in the USArmy. One scene, a chorus girl number with a Mountie theme, was retained.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (CP). — There's a great scramble around the country to affix the blame for blow-up of service hockey. Actually the Army - R.C.A.F. withdrawal from senior leagues was the result of dozens of incidents and nearly every section of the country is responsible to some extent.

In the first place, the C.A.H.A. lost control of the game partly when it permitted free transfer of service personnel. Service officials took advantage of this situation by transferring players from team to team during play-offs with an eye to hockey rather than the service training needs. Rink and team officials contributed by offering financial inducement to athletes enlisting in certain cities. They used influence to direct some service postings. Men who normally would have gone overseas were kept in Canada from hockey season to hockey season.

Public suspicion that service names were being used to cloak commercial hockey enterprises reflected on our war effort. But even so opinion might never have crystallized against service hockey had it not been for incidents such as the Broda case and some ill-advised statements by hockey officials.

The public will not stand for any suggestion the armed forces are being used as tools to promote civilian enterprise. Heads of the services rightfully intend to make sure thare is no foundation for any such suggestion. For that reason alone, Air Force and Army heads were wise in withdrawing from hockey.

They couldn't be expected to swallow the proposition of President Jack Ryan of the Pacific Coast Senior League, who announced the league has withdrawn from Allan Cup competition in hopes Army and Air Force teams would be permitted to continue; and in the same breath said that any team in the league could challenge for the Cup when the play-offs begin. To accept such a proposition would be an admission of stupidity.

Incidentally:

Kilby Macdonald, who won the Calder Trophy with New York Rangers as the National Hockey League's outstanding rookie of 1939-40, has been discharged from the Army at Montreal and has located with Buffalo. . . .Shep Mayer, who had a brief fling in the majors last season with Toronto Leafs, now is an R.C.A.F. pilot officer and has been playing this year with Pennfield R.A.F. station in New Brunswick . . . . .Wilf Cude, former Canadiens goalie, is coaching the Junior Canadiens in Montreal.

Dutch Hiller Battered Still Carries On

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Held together by several yards of adhesive tape and nine hemstitches, Dutch Hiller, manages to assume an important role in the Rangers' ranks. The sewing around his right eye affects his vision on that side. A serious sprain makes it painful and difficult for him to control his stick with his right hand. Yet Dutch's brilliance is unabated, and is so plainly recognizable while the Rangers are losing that the management makes no effort to temper its praise.

First to Come Back

The suggestion that the Rangers' bosses might be inclined toward restraint in their laudation of Mr. Hiller isn't stretching a point. Hiller is unique in hockey history because he is the first player Lester Patrick has let go and called back to a Blueshirt uniform. Premature praise for the bustling little left wing could be construed by those so minded as a confession of error when Hiller was released.

Neither Patrick or Coach Frank Boucher can be expected to admit that it was a mistake, if it was, to ship Dutch off to Detroit following the 1940-41 season. He was a good player for the Rangers, a tireless, fighting linemate of Bryan Hextall and Phil Watson for four seasons from 1937 to 1941.

Then he committed a blunder.

It happened on the eve of a disastrous defeat for the Rangers in the first round of the Stanley Cup series. They were defending the championship, and the Red Wings put them out in the first round of the opening series. Boss Patrick's chagrin over the setback hadn't abated as he returned from the Olympia to the hotel, and while his disappointment was still at its lowest depth, Hiller asked him if he could go directly home to Kitchener, Ont., instead of back to New York with the team.

He Made Lestaire Mad

Patrick roared with wrath. When the Rangers left New York two nights earlier, they were squared, 1-1, with the Wings. They needed only another victory to reach the semi-final round. Yet, Patrick quickly realized, Hiller had anticipated the possibility of defeat and packed his bags ready for a quick return home.

The Ranger boss made up his mind on the spot. Any one who could brook the thought of defeat at any stage of the Stanley Cup series before it actually happened wasn't welcome with the Rangers. So Hiller went to Detroit. He moved to Boston and finally wound up with Les Canadiens.

In the manpower shortage, he was welcomed back to the Blueshirts this year as part payment in the lease-lend transaction that placed Phil Watson in a Canadiens' uniform. Back in the fold, bespectacled Hiller has fought bitterly to vindicate himself.

Although he wears spectacles, he never flinches at fierce contact. Injury has neither slowed him nor kept him off the ice. He was back in action five minutes after ninth suture was tied over his eye Sunday. He's a scrappy player. Boucher, says he's doing well, and Hiller, looking back on his past, says he guesses he made a mistake.

174 Nominated For Two 1946 Races

By APPAS TAPPAS

Breeders in every Province in the Dominion of Canada are represented in the 174 nominations for the 1946 running of two of the most important races for Canadian-foaled 2-year-olds to be offered by the Ontario Jockey Club during the 1946 autumn meeting at Woodbine Park.

The Coronation Futurity for colts and fillies is already an annual fixture at Woodbine. The directors have inaugurated a new race, the Princess Elizabeth, exclusively for Canadian-foaled 2-year-old fillies, which will have its first running during the fall meeting at Woodbine. Palmer Wright estimates the value of the Coronation in the 1946 renewal will be $8,000. The Princess Elizabeth will be a $2,000-added affair.

This year's foals will be the eligible ones for the 1946 runnings of these events. They will be the produce of the best male and female lines in Canada. No fewer than 48 different stallions standing in stud in this country were bred to the mares in foal. During the past two years several big-name thoroughbreds of racing both in Canada and in the United States were retired for breeding. Among the outstanding young sires whose get are expected to be represented in the 2-year-old classics are Archworth, Worthmore's Illustrious son; Teddy Wrack, Bien Eagle, Imp. Onslaught II, Bunty Lawless and Willies the Kid. The list of stallions bred to other mares include: Imp. Haytime II, Sweepster, Imp. North Wales II, Imp. Kanuck, Imp. Sun Power, Prisius, Imp. Siete Colores, Imp. Filisteo, Sun Craig, Stand Pat, Khorosan, Happy Fox, Imp. Osiris II, Brooms, Fairmond, Coldstream, and many others.

Largest number of nominations was made by Whittier Stock Farm of Western Canada, owned by R. James Speers, with 13. This is just one more than Charlie Hemstead. Parkwood Stable, owned by R. S. McLaughlin, and the Harry C. Hatch stable each named 10. W. H. Wright Barrie breeder, made eight nominations. Five of the eight mares were bred to Archworth, two to Mark Cowell, and one to Imp. Haytime II.

German-born Husband Belabors Wife

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP)—Charging her husband had often tied her up with ropes, and on several occasions had beaten her, and had ruled over her as though she were a two-year-old child, 20-year-old Thelma Stork, told Magistrate Donald B. Menzies in city police court yesterday of events leading up to the time a city police officer found her unconscious on her kitchen floor. Allegedly she was beaten up by her husband Anton, with a broom handle Saturday.

Mother of a seven-month-old son she testified she had been married to her 41-year-old German-born husband for more than three years and during that time she said he was always cranky and had ordered her about.

The husband was charged with assault, after complaints of neighbors, who were alarmed by the girl's screaming.

Unable to arouse the girl, the officer took her to hospital, where she was admitted and treated.

In the witness box, the husband, in broken English, told the magistrate he was very sorry for beating his wife, and asked her forgiveness.

"If I forgive him this time I might not be able to get up from the next beating he will give me," his wife cried out.

"This woman fears for her life," the magistrate said.

In finding the man guilty, Magistrate said.

In finding the man guilty, Magistrate Menzies commented that the case was too serious to pass over lightly on one day, and remanded the husband to jail until Friday for sentence.

Scrap Iron Loads Hold Booby Traps

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 —(CP).—"Iron Age," magazine of the United States steel trade, said today in its weekly review of the industry that "numerous accidents" have occurred in some American ports in the unloading of steel scrap from the battlefields, "caused by unexploded ammunition and 'booby traps'."

Iron Age said:

"Imports of scrap from battlefields have mounted to large proportions at Atlantic ports. It is becoming a question in the minds of some authorities whether the movement should be continued on such a scale, in view of the numerous accidents that have been caused by unexploded ammunition and 'booby traps.' Prisoners of war are at work at New York helping sort the scrap."

Cromwell Seeks Divorce From Doris Duke

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 13.—(AP).—Counsel for James H. R. Cromwell, charged in court yesterday that the former Doris Duke Cromwell had turned him out of their home in favour of an unidentified member of the British Parliament.

"The acme of refined cruelty was reached," James E. Toolan told Advisory Master Dougal Herr in Chancery Court, "when Mr. Cromwell's valet, calling at Duke Farms for Mr. Cromwell's clothes, was compelled to wait several hours, until noon time, because Mr. Cromwell's bedroom was then occupied by his successor in his wife's affection, a truant member of the British Parliament who found Duke Farms as well as Mrs. Cromwell's home in Honolulu more relaxing than London, then undergoing the fury of Teutonic bombing."

"She saw no virtue in concealing her current affection," said Toolan, State Senator from Middlesex county.

Toolan also charged that the former Doris Duke, tobacco heiress, often referred to as the wealthiest girl in the world, had "humiliated" her husband while he was Minister to Canada and contributed heavily to his defeat in an election for United States' senator from New Jersey.

Toolan and Meyer Ruback, his co-counsel, asked the New Jersey Chancery Court to take three steps: Declare Mrs. Cromwell's Reno divorce null and void, enjoin her from claiming a divorce or taking any advantage under the Reno decree, and attempt to persuade the court at Reno to set aside its decree on the strength of New Jersey evidenc that her true residence was not in Nevada.

Cromwell is seeking in New Jersey a limited divorce, under which neither party could remarry. He did not answer her Reno suit and she has ignored his New Jersey suit.

Reprehensible Conduct.

Toolan accused Cromwell's multimillionaire wife of "reprehensible" conduct while Cromwell was the American envoy at Ottawa early in 1940.

"She humiliated him greatly," said Toolan, "by her indifference and her rejection of those duties which necessarily rested upon the wife of a high diplomatic official. The story of that conduct and her carryings-on in Ottawa will have to be told at the divorce hearings in this cause, painful and shocking as that story will be."

Toolan continued: "Mrs. Cromwell at Honolulu was unexpectedly delivered of a child. Cromwell, intending at once to interrupt and if need be abandon his campaign, cabled her he was coming on by the next clipper."

She refused to see him, a "cruel step" intended to make the public believe he was more interested in the campaign than in her.

Advisory Master Herr gave Mrs. Cromwell 30 days in which to answer.

5,000 Huns Killed

The Russian communique said more than 5,000 Germans were killed and 144 Nazi tanks wrecked in the past 24 hours, while more than 80 towns and villages fell to the advancing Russians.

Captured in the Mozyr offensive were Davidovichi, 24 miles north of Mozyr on the railway to Zhlobin, and Kozlovichi, two miles west of the rail line previously severed by Soviet spearheads. The Germans resisted savagely in this sector, but their counter-drives were smashed and they fled the field, leaving behind 2,000 dead and many prisoners, the Soviet communique said.

The capture of Sarny and the drive on Dombrovitsa forced the Germans back 135 miles to Brest-Litovsk for their next north-south supply line.

City Employees Finish Strike

MONTREAL, Jan. 13 (CP)—The wheels of civic government machinery, idle for 23 days, began moving in Montreal again today as municipal white collar workers returned to their desks and city hall became active for the first time since Dec. 16.

It was not clear immediately what percentage of the city's 2,000 clerks, stenographers and accountants had returned but strike leaders and city officials agreed in a prediction that all workers would be back on the job shortly. The strike was called off so suddenly last night that it was thought possible some workers still were in doubt as to its status.

Officially, the walkout ended early last night without the granting of wage demands of the workers, instead, union leaders agreed to a provincial government proposal that the wage dispute be submitted to an arbitration board—an offer rejected three times previously by the strikers.

The call-off order was issued by the "committee of nine," representing three unions involved, who have been in direct charge of the strike, on recommendation of the executive committee of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor. The C.C.C.L., parent body of the largest of the three municipal unions, has been acting in an advisory capacity to the strikers.

The committee issued its call-off order on the basis of an eight point provincial government proposal that promised that any pay increases recommended by the arbitration board would be made retroactive to December 1 and a guarantee of no discrimination against the strikers.

However, the government made it clear in its eight-point proposal that it considered wage adjustments were necessary and this was taken by the strikers to indicate the probability that higher wages would result from the conciliation board report.

Minister Lifts Ban On Several Metals

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP)—Canadian-produced magnesium and poorer grade reclaim and scrap rubber now may be used in the manufacture of civilian goods, Munitions Minister Howe announced today.

"The use of poorer grade reclaim and scrap rubber has been freed from restrictions, and these materials now may be used in the manufacture of any civilian article," said Mr. Howe, who last night announced the removal of restrictions on the use of steel and cast iron pipe, wire and wire rod and some types of aluminum.

The Minister defined the rubber materials now available for civilian use as "reclaimed and scrap rubber which have a rubber hydrocarbon content of 45 per cent or less of the total weight, and scrap rubber obtained from tire buffing."

The restrictions on magnesium were lifted because Canada now has more than enough for war requirements, he said.

"With magnesium on the free market, it is confidently expected that Canadian metallurgists now will be able to devise the new uses for this valuable metal about which there has been so much interesting speculation," said Mr. Howe.

"Light in weight, durable and strong, magnesium eventually may be used in countless articles such as washing machines, vacuum cleaners and other household gadgets, automotive parts and a long list of other consumer items."

Production of aluminum has also exceeded present war demands, said the Minister in announcing that restrictions had been lifted on the sale and use of aluminum rivets, cast aluminum welding rod, aluminum welding wire, metallizing wire, aluminum wire for anodizing and aluminum tie wire for electrical conductors.

Removal of the restrictions followed by about three weeks the lifting of the ban on the sale and use of scrap aluminum and secondary aluminum ingots derived from scrap.

The lifting of restrictions on the sale and use of steel and cast iron pipe, wire and wire rod will enable manufacturers to produce more water pipe, drainage pipe, hay bailing wire, stove pipe wire, box strapping wire and other items in short supply.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

EMPLOYERS MUST REPORT
On Numbers of Persons in their Employ

EMPLOYMENT and Selective Service Offices have mailed Form DLR-1A to all employers —in industry, in commerce, in trade. These forms are for completion and return to the Local Office on or before January 15th, 1944.

The co-operation of every employer in giving complete and accurate returns is earnestly requested, as much of Canada's manpower planning depends upon the data they will contain.

If you have been missed, please ask the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office for blank forms, which carry full instructions on their use.

The completion of this form is required under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations. Employers in agriculture, employers of household domestic workers and Government Departments in respect of regular staffs, are not required to report.

Crown's Appeal Allowed In Potato Case

Reversing Magistrate Gee's decision of dismissal in police court, Judge Smoke yesterday afternoon allowed the Crown's appeal, found B. Strano guilty and in fraction of a potato selling price order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and fined him $25.

Judge Smoke in his written judgment observed that there was no dispute about the facts. Mr. Strano bought potatoes in Toronto at $3.01 a hundred pounds, trucked them to Peterborough and sold them as a wholesaler at $3.91 the hundred pounds.

The price of such potatoes at Montreal was fixed at $1.70 per 75 pounds, which would be approximately $2.27 for 100 pounds.

This price, his honor found, could be increased by the normal freight rate on potatoes from Montreal to Peterborough, which did not exceed 32 cents for 100 pounds, "which would bring the maximum price for which the potatoes could be sold to approximately $2.59."

An amendment provided for an increase of 65c per hundred pounds after June 1 last "making the maximum price at which the potatoes in question could be sold approximately $3.24 per hundred pounds."

The appeal was brought before Judge Smoke by G. N. Gordon, K.C., representing the Wartime Prices Board, and W. J. A. Fair acted for Mr. Strano.

Judge Smoke commented that apparently Magistrate Gee, in arriving at his decision dismissing the charge against Mr. Strano construed "Section 7 of the order as amended as allowing anyone re-selling to increase the maximum price set by Sections 3 and 4 or the order so that his selling price would include a profit so long as this profit did not exceed 15 per cent. of his selling price. With all due respect, I am unable to agree with the magistrate. In my opinion, the purport of Section 7 is that a person is prohibited from receiving as his profit an amount which would exceed 15 per cent. of his selling price.

"In other words, if a person is able to purchase for re-sale at a price delivered, which, if the resale were made at the maximum price as set by the order, would result in his receiving a profit of more than 15 per cent. of the selling price then he would be guilty of a breach of the order. His price must not be more than sufficient to include 15 per cent. of the selling price over and above the cost delivered, and this is so provided in order that the public may get the benefit of reduced wholesale prices, since its purport is to require the wholesaler to sell below the maximum price if he is able to do so and at the same time make his profit of 15 per cent.

"Such being the case Section 7 of the order does not assist the respondent (Strano), and having sold the potatoes at the price which he did, he sold at a price above the authorized order and is guilty of the offence as charged.

"Some printed matter was introduced in evidence called a bulletin dated May 10, 1943. It has been suggested that it was issued by some governmental department. Even if this were so, no departmental order can alter the law. Accordingly even though the respondent may have acted upon a document which he thought emanated from some department of the Government, he is still guilty if he breaks the law as he has done in this case.

"I am accordingly of the opinion that the appeal should be allowed and that the accused should be found guilty of the offence as charged."

Judge Smoke made no order as to costs in the action. It is understood that Mr. Fair intends to ask for permission to submit the case, involving the Section 7 amendment, to the Court of Appeal.

Audit Of Books Made For War Victims

It is always a matter of public concern and interest, that funds given in a public way for any object whatever, should be used in a proper manner, and utilised for the object for which they have been given.

In accordance with the regulations of the War Charities Act, the annual audit of the accounts and vouchers of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has been made by Edward Humpage, chartered accountant and auditor for this city, who gives his services in this connection without any cost whatever to the fund, and thus in a measure contributes to one of the necessary functions of its operation.

His certified statement reveals that up to January 1 of this year a total sum of $71,747.56 had been subscribed, of which the sum of $70,286.23 had been sent to London, representing a sum of £15,700 in English currency, leaving a balance of $1,461.33 in the bank as at that date. There were no deductions whatever for those operational expenses without which no fund of this kind can function, and the cost of transmitting this to London with the cost of cables included was less than half the normal exchange which would occur if the same sum of money was sent by cheque to any point in this country outside of the city, due to the convenience afforded by the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, and its London, England, branch.

The secretary of the fund would at this time pay a tribute to John E. Keyes, manager of the Bank of Commerce here, and treasurer for the fund, who day by day since D. B. Falkner retired some 18 months ago, has received the daily deposit made to the credit of the fund, and given moral support as well in an unstinted manner to all that he is endeavoring to do on behalf of the fund.

Fraserville Sunday School.

The United Church Sunday School at Fraserville is among the contributors in today's list, their contribution of $6 coming as part proceeds of a concert given recently, making it thus an occasion to do some good far away, spreading the influence of their work far beyond the sphere it might normally take, a good work for the boys and girls to be doing.

Then another group engaged in good work for the general welfare, are also represented today, when the ladies of the Mount Julian Haultain Unit of the Red Cross through Mrs. Leta Northey, their treasurer, sent $3.75 as a result of their Christmas party.

Two penny boxes are also listed, both coming from long standing helpers to the fund with $2.80 credited to the box at Grafton's, Ltd., store, and $1.45 from Bert McLeod's Drug store.

Burglars Steal Safe Only Get Few Dollars

Safe-crackers who broke into the office of the H. R. Scott Lumber Company on Reid street during the night, carried out the safe and forced it open, got little for their labor.

A checkup this morning disclosed that the loot consisted of between $3 and $4 in silver, about a hundred 3-cent stamps and six gasoline ration books.

Also stolen during the night were a panel truck, the property of Graham and Wells, and an automobile owned by John Henthorne, 129 Maude street. Police are not yet sure whether there was an connection between these car thefts and the Scott break-in.

The truck was stolen from outside the home of Maitland Wells, 360 Downie street, where it had been parked for the night. The Henthorne car was taken from the yard of the owner.

The burglary in the office of the Scott Lumber Company was not discovered until members of staff arrived shortly before 8 o'clock this morning.

Entrance to the place had been gained by forcing a slide door at the rear. The burglars, evidently two in number because two sets of footprints were found in the snow outside, had carried the medium-sized safe some 50 yards west of the building and there broken through the door with sledge hammers.

It must have taken some time to crack the safe, police believe, but apparently none of the residents heard their activities.

No signs of a car having been used in the break-in were visible.

6-Year-Old Breaks Shin Bone Skating

Teddy Sperrin, 6 years old, the son of C. H. Sperrin, 632 Gilmour street, suffered a painful injury Wednesday afternoon when he fell on the ice while skating and broke a shin bone. A beginner at the graceful art, it was almost his first time on skates.

The young lad, accompanied by his father, had been skating on the rink at Monaghan and Charlotte and was making his way to the side in order to take off his skates when the accident happened. Working up an incline, he lost his balance and fell and his leg buckled under him, snapping the shin bone.

Suffering intense pain, he was taken immediately to Nicholls Hospital by his father, where the bone was set and his leg put in a cast. Feeling much better by nightfall, young Teddy was brought home.

Assault Charge Is Reduced

That while he was on his way to Brock Street Rink to see the wrestling bouts he ran into a fight on his own account was the testimony of Charles Waldron, in police court this morning when Russell Dafoe, 45, 219 Stewart street, was charged with assaulting the elderly man, occasioning actual bodily harm.

After hearing the evidence Magistrate E. A. Gee reduced the charge to common assault and convicted Dafoe on that count, imposing a fine of $10 and $4.50 costs.

Dafoe was defended by W. R. Philp and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Waldron told the court that he had been on his way to the wrestling matches and that the trouble occurred at the corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets, He said Dafoe had accused him of following him and had attacked him, striking him a number of times in the face. Waldron said he had sustained cuts on his face and lip. He said a passerby had stopped the attack.

To Mr. Philp, Waldron said that he had not been on good terms with Dafoe since last August. The witness said that he had been married a year ago this month and had left his wife last fall. He knew, he said, that Dafoe was friendly with his wife's son by a former marriage.

Waldron said that he tried to ward off Dafoe's blows but denied striking him.

Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer said that when he saw Waldron a short time after the alleged assault the elderly man had cuts around both eyes and a cut lower lip.

Dafoe's version of the fight was that Waldron had been the aggressor and that he had to defend himself. He said that Waldron had struck him with his fist and also with a stone which witness said the other man must have been carrying. Dafoe said that he was in no condition to fight because he had two collapsed lungs.

"I suggest to you," said Crown Attorney McElderry, "that the trouble between you and Waldron was your interference with Waldron's wife and that that was the cause of his leaving her."

"That is not true," the accused declared.

In finding Dafoe guilty of common assault Magistrate Gee asked the accused why if the affair had happened as he said it did he had not gone into the store on the corner and avoided the trouble.

Going Highbrow

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (CP). — According to I.O.D.E. officials supplying books to the Canadian forces, the literary taste of men and women in uniform verges on the highbrow. They don't go for mystery thrillers, but clean off non-fiction shelves as soon as they are stocked.

62 Ships Move

LONDON, Jan. 13 — (CP). — A D.N.B. broadcast from Berlin today said that among new arrivals at Gibraltar were 62 Allied merchantmen, the British battleship Warspite, two French and two British torpedo boats, 10 corvettes and one submarine.

Board Of Education Gets Criticism

OSHAWA, Jan. 13—(CP)—Strong criticism of the Oshawa Board of Education for barring the press from their special meeting when Collegiate rules were discussed was voiced at the meeting of the Oshawa Property Owners' Association here last night.

Referring to the fact that nine out of 10 members of the Board voted to exclude the press, Milton Werry asked, "is there any outstanding reason why those nine wanted the press excluded?"

"The press should be admitted at all meetings where civic business is transacted," declared John Stacey former mayor and alderman.

A Man Of Action

EDMONTON, Jan. 13—(CP)—Charged with attempting to murder his wife and another man, John Chudek has been remanded for trial in supreme court at Athabaska, Alta, it was learned. He is also charged with arson. Chudek told police he padlocked the doors and set fire to the home of Joe Kendzera at Athabaska last May when he found Kendzera and his wife "in a situation with which I didn't agree."

Souvenir Hunters

KINGSTON, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Souvenir hunters are hindering bombing practice, forcing students to stop as much as an hour before scheduled some days, complain officials of No. 31 Service Flying Training School, R.A.F., at nearby Collins Bay. Dozens of persons are reported to be salvaging scraps from practice bombs dropped on the ice over the Bay of Quinte and on the Rideau River.

IN NORTH AFRICA—Pte. Nelson W. Martin of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, is at present in North Africa, and he spent his fourth Christmas overseas. His wife and daughter live at 274 Edinburgh Street, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin of Tweed. In addition there is one brother, Pte. William Martin, overseas, while four brothers-in-law, and one brother-in-law remains in Canada.

Man Is Jailed For Failing Support Family

The only food found in the home of Charles Foulger, Crawford's Grove, when a member of the staff of the Children's Aid Society investigated the conditions during Christmas week was milk, it was stated in police court this morning when Foulger pleaded guilty before Magistrate E. A. Gee to a charge of failing to provide for his wife and children.

Mrs. E. Meagher of the Children's Aid Society stated that when she visited the Foulger home in which there were two small children she had found that some milk was the only food and for several days before that milk and oatmeal had been the only fare. The last of the porridge, she said, had been used that morning.

W. Gordon Hall, electrical contractor, testified that Foulger had been employed by him and was a good electrician but that he laid off work frequently. He had only worked a few days in December, the witness said, although there was work for him.

Foulger asked for another chance but Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. told the court that this was not the first time there had been trouble over the accused's failure to support his wife and children.

Magistrate Gee sentenced Foulger to four months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

Army Newspaper Is Given Overhauling

Max Glover's friends will be interested in a recent trade interlude which he mentioned in a letter to his father as a temporary variation of his experience with the Canadian troops of the British 8th Army in Italy.

It seems that his division has been publishing a little paper under the banner name of "The Red Patch." It is housed in a truck, set up there and otherwise issues forth to its soldier readers. Some one decided that it needed an overhauling, especially for improvements, and Private Glover was nominated for a job detail in which he excelled when he used to set up advertisements for the Examiner and later in his work with Peterborough Printing.

When the job of redesigning the divisional sheet was completed, Pte. Glover went back to his regiment, and the production job was left to another newspaper man who had operated a weekly prior to his enlistment. The editor of "The Red Patch" is Major Sutherland, a former editor of the Cornwall Freeholder.

Edward J. Roy Dies In Napanee

NAPANEE, Jan. 13.—(CP).—Edward J. Roy, 73, a former mayor of this town and a son of the late R. M. Roy of Peterborough, died here yesterday of a heart seizure.

Mr. Roy came here from Belleville in 1900 to establish the Napanee Iron Works. He had lived in Peterborough in his youth, where his father was well known as one of the leading photographers in Ontario. Surviving relatives include his brother, Fred L. Roy of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. Roland Denne of Toronto and Mrs. J. G. M. Jamieson of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place Friday at 4 p.m. at Napanee.

Volunteer Guard Is Disbanded

Memories of the early days of the war, when the danger of the Nazi threat extending to this hemisphere was not so remote a possibility as it is today, were brought to mind by the final disbandment of the Civic Volunteer Guard on Wednesday night. An organization that at one time commanded the services of several hundred men closed out its final business with the decision to donate a small surplus on hand to the Cigarette Fund of the Canadian Legion, and then resolved, its services no longer being required, that the organization itself be voluntarily wound up.

Six original members of the Volunteer Guard attended the meeting. They were T. D. Johnston, C. Kingan, B. Hall, J. S. Mason, P. Harris and G. G. Torrance.

Made up of veterans of the last war and others anxious to serve their country and community at a time when the fate of the Empire itself hung in the balance, the Civic Volunteer Guard was formed in the summer of 1940 under the auspices of the city and its mayor, James Hamilton. During its first months of existence it held regular drill parades at Exhibition Park, parades which were attended by literally hundreds of citizens active in the organization; and the following winter its work continued at the Market Hall.

The summer of 1941 brought a shift of emphasis in the defensive preparations of the Dominion. The A.R.P. was founded and many of the Guard's regular members transferred their allegiance to the new organization. The Civic Volunteer Guard began to lose its importance, and eventually the returned soldiers among its members formed a veterans' company within the framework of the Prince of Wales Rangers reserve force. The Guard folded up.

Percy Edwards Fined $50 On Hunt Charge

Percy Edwards, Haultain, was convicted before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning on a charge of carrying a rifle in the Peterborough Game Preserve and was fined $50 and $8.50 costs.

This case was similar to one recently heard in which Ernest Lean, Burleigh township, was also convicted and W. J. Arthur Fair who defended both men and who stated that a notice of appeal had been served in the Lean case suggested that the hearing of the charge against Edwards should stand over until the result of the appeal was known.

However, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated that he wished to proceed.

The evidence was the same as in the Lean case. Fish and Game Overseer Vernal Windsor of Apsley, identified Edwards as one of four men he said he saw on the east side of Eel Creek, carrying rifles. Windsor said the four men came down out of the game preserve, put two deer in a boat and then paddled across the creek where he accosted them. Two of the party, he said, jumped out of the boat and got away. The other two were Lean and Edwards, witness said.

Edwards and Lean for the defence said they had been given a ride across the creek by two strangers with a boat. They had been looking for a deer wounded in the morning by Lean, that had escaped into the preserve. They swore that their rifles were left in the boat and not carried into the preserve.

Magistrate Gee found Edwards guilty on the evidence.

Passes Forged Cheque

LINDSAY, Jan. 13 —(CP)—Ted Alex Gilbert of Leaside, near Toronto, employed with a West Guildford lumbering firm, yesterday was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate E. A. German Count Held On Espionage Count

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—A 44-year-old naturalized American citizen, said by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to have been born a German count, was held in $25,000 bail today on charges of conspiracy to violate wartime espionage laws.

The prisoner, William Albrecht von Pressentin Gennant von Rautter, wept last night as a plea of not guilty was entered for him before U.S. Commissioner Jacob A. Visel.

He exclaimed:

"I am forced into this almost at psitol point. I was brought into it while I was on a goodwill mission, an errand of mercy for my mother."

F.B.I. agents arrested von Rautter yesterday in his apartment near the Brooklyn Navy Yard. They accused him of sending war information to Germany in invisible ink on the back of innocent looking personal letters.

F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington that the Count was trained in secret writing methods in Germany and sent the Nazis information on American airplane, ammunition, ship and explosive production as well as information on contemplated 1942 Allied invasion plans.

Hoover said he had worked here as a brokerage firm employee, financial expert and had been employed by the New York States Unemployment Service and by the Department of Agriculture.

Von Rautter spoke five languages, F.B.I. Agent E. E. Conroy said.

He will be given a further hearing Jan. 25.

Lakefield Red Cross Branch Reviews Work Of Past Year

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 13 — (ENS) —The fifth annual meeting of the Lakefield Red Cross was held in the Nursing Class rooms on Tuesday evening and was well attended.

Mrs. J. Ridpath in her opening address said the purpose of the annual meeting was to get the proper perspective of the work being done. As the various reports were given it was noted that the majority of the people in the community were assisting in the work of the Red Cross.

Speaking of the recent campaign Mrs. Ridpath said a great deal of praise was due E. W. Bailey and his able assistants for putting it $400 over the top.

There had been considerable difficulty in getting wool which had affected the knitting quotas. Letters of praise were read from the Red Cross head office commenting on the outstanding quality and workmanship of articles shipped from the Lakefield Branch.

During the year the funds had been swelled by proceeds from a minstrel show, procured through Mrs. R. Bullock. A movie at the Grove, arranged by Mrs. H. Ketchum and Mr. J. Winder Smith, and an auction sale by the Lakefield Red Cross and the Beaver Club, besides many donations of articles and money.

In concluding her term as president, Mrs. Redpath thanked all who had helped to make the year a success, particularly Mrs. W. W. Leonard, members of the executive and conveners of the various societies.

"This year and next," said the speaker, "will be a real testing time for all Red Cross branches in Canada, no one can estimate the number of casualties in the Canadian Army and supplies must be ready."

Mrs. W. W. Leonard, secretary reported nine executive meetings, and two sub-executive meetings. Over 100 letters and cards were sent out each month.

E. W. Bailey gave the financial statement for the Lakefield Branch of the Red Cross, in the absence of the secretary, Miss Grace Yonge. This showed receipts of $2,725.31, expenditures of $2,600.32. Balance in bank $124.69.

Mrs. W. Gillman, sewing convener in her report showed 55 cartons shipped which contained 50 hospital bed gowns, 20 men's dressing gowns, 170 handkerchiefs, 20 pairs men's pyjamas, eight pair of extra trousers, 150 boys' shirts, 50 ladies shirtwaists, 50 women's night gowns. Non-quota articles sent included 82 personal property bags, 14 feather pillows, and 153 quilts, and many other articles to the Russian Relief, Navy League and Salvation Army.

Mrs. George Graham, convener of the knitting showed 28 sweaters and 22 helmets, 22 scarves, 111 pairs of sox, two pair mitts, 72 pair gloves, 42 pair seamen's long sox, to local boys in the Army. Eighteen pair sox, five sweaters, 1 pair mitts, 1 pair gloves.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn gave the report for Young's Point which was exceptionally good as were those given by Mrs. Sherman Northey and Mrs. Graydon Northey, for the Beaver Club.

Mrs. Leonard, in the absence of a representative from the Wesley War Workers read their report showing receipts of $646.53, expenditures of $466.18.

217 Blood Donors

Mrs. S. A. Grylls, head of the Blood Donors said that since May 217 donors had donated blood.

Mrs. S. A. Trude, local officer in charge of the Emergency Reserve Nursing class had as her assistants, Mrs. Elwood Dunford, Mrs. C. Galvin, Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. N. Belanger and Mrs. G. Staples, during the year and gave a splendid report of the classes held.

The Junior Red Cross report was very well given by Miss Lillian Calberry and showed a great deal of work accomplished.

Mrs. Percy Spence gave the Women's Institute report, which showed the members had had a busy year.

The surgical dressings report given by Mrs. Grylls showed 6,000 dressings shipped in four months. Mrs. Grylls said they were very grateful to Mr. George Hendren, for the use of the workroom, also to Mr. W. W. Loenard for the nursing class room and to Mr. W. Chappell for lighting the fires.

As Liasion officer-next-of-kin, Mrs. Leonard said Arthur Kingdon was the only prisoner of war from the village and she had assisted Mrs. Kingdon with some parcels and letters and they had had wonderful co-operation from the Red Cross.

New Officers

Mrs. J. M. Simpson presented the slate of officers for the year as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. B. Marling, Mrs. Grace Stuart; president, Mrs. Hugh Ketchum; first vice-president, Mrs. M. Johnston; second vice-president, Mrs. L. Harris; third vice-president, Mrs. S. Higgins; secretary, Mrs. W. W. Leonard; treasurer, Mrs. L. Quackenbush; convener of finance, Mrs. G. Robinson; executive committee, Mrs. W. B. Walker; Mrs. George Kelly; Mrs. E. Dunford; Mrs. J. M. Simpson; Mrs. George Charlton and Miss Grace Young.

Sewing convener, Mrs. W. Gillman, Miss E. Downs, assistants, Mrs. E. J. Millage, Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Mrs. W. Armstrong, Mrs. George Charlton, Mrs. Fred Erskine and Mrs. Fred Lawrence.

Wool conveners, Mrs. George Graham, Mrs. Earl Edwards; surgical dressing, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Mrs. Frank Erskine; Blood Donors —Mrs. Grylls, Mrs. H. D. Wilford; Nursing Class, head, Mrs. S. Trude; Junior Red Cross, Mrs. H. Stabler; Liaison Officer, next-of-kin, Mrs. W. W. Leonard; Advisory committee, E. W. Bailey, J. McKerchar, A. Morris.

Mrs. J. Simpson was given a hearty clap for only missing attending the Red Cross sewing afternoon five times during the four years.

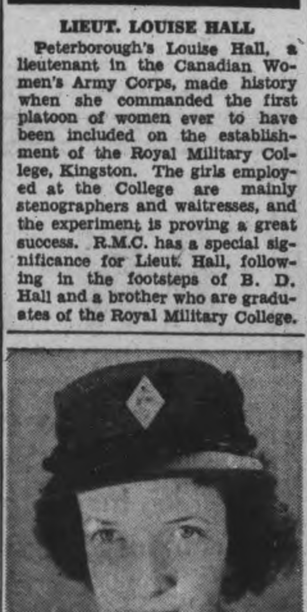
Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Redpath by Mrs. G. Robinson for her efficient work during the term she was president.

Mr. Bailey moved a vote of thanks to Mr. George Spence for auditing the books a task he does each year for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Ridpath commented during the evening on the splendid work being done by the Blood Donors committee consisting of Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Mrs. H. D. Wilford, A. E. Bailey and J. McKerchar.

LIEUT. LOUISE HALL

Peterborough's Louise Hall, a lieutenant in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, made history when she commanded the first platoon of women ever to have been included on the establishment of the Royal Military College, Kingston. The girls employed at the College are mainly stenographers and waitresses, and the experiment is proving a great success. R.M.C. has a special significance for Lieut. Hall, following in the footsteps of B. D. Hall and a brother who are graduates of the Royal Military College.



PTE. MARGARET JEAN SCOTT

Prior to enlistment, Pte. Margaret Scott, C.W.A.C., studied at Peterborough Collegiate Institute and graduated with senior matriculation. Employed in a stenographic capacity at Kingston, she is one of the many girls the army has trained as stenographers. Her brother, Gnr. Jim Scott, R.C.A., is serving overseas, and her father, Pte. Robert Scott, is with the Veteran Guard.

Air Technicians Improve Oxygen Masks

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Canada not only pioneered in the field of high altitude flying training for air crew, but R.C.A.F. research men and their civilian colleagues from the National Research Council combined to improve air oxygen masks.

They produced a mask that embodies an intercommunication microphone that is a component and not a clumsy appendage like those attached to less efficient masks. It also embodies comfort and was designed to exclude the engine drone and not affect radio reception — "bugs" in previous equipment.

As in many other scientific investigations, the German oxygen mask was studied and experiments were carried out with its novel microphone which picks up the sound at the throat instead of the mouth. But it was found that while gutteral German recorded well, mouthy English was less successful. Hence the mouthpiece microphone was developed and improved.

An "accordion" air tube that does not stiffen, even at extremely low temperatures, was developed and precision gadgets, still on the secret list were added to make the mask a first-class job. Nothing was overlooked by Canada's painstaking scientists.

They even put a rubber trough on the intake valve so that moisture could not drip down the tube and put the mask out of operation by freezing and clogging the gadget in low temperatures.

But to familiarize Canadian crews with the hazards of flying in the upper ether and in the use of the modern oxygen equipment, the Air Force long ago inaugurated high-altitude training.

This was aimed chiefly at teaching the airmen the necessity of using their masks at altitudes over 10,000 feet and also giving them experience with high altitude symptoms so that when confronted with actuality they would be undisturbed in the job at hand.

The pilots and crewmen are taught how to get the best use of their equipment in the stratosphere and running through the whole training plan is the theme of self-reservation and the need for expert use of the oxygen equipment.

METEOROLOGIST—Sub-Lieut. Helen Partridge, W.R.C.N.S., assistant to the staff officer, meteorology, at naval service headquarters, is the only woman meteorologist in the navy, army, or air force. Her job is to co-relate station weather reports received from airports, observers and other posts, and to prepare a comprehensive picture of weather at all times.

Airmen Jettison Body Of One To Save Seven

A U.S. BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 13—(CP)—The crew of a shattered bomber struggling back from France on only one engine threw the body of their dead navigator into the English Channel to help lighten the ship—and credited this with saving their lives.

"We followed the course he gave us before he died, and it brought us through," Pilot Lt. Glenn E. Jorgensen of Freewater, Ore., said today. "We had unanimous faith in his navigation."

Jettisoning their comrade's body was a grim decision to have to make, but with the plane dropping rapidly toward the ocean—with four wounded and two frostbitten men who would have drowned if the plane had "ditched" in the sea—and the crew throwing everything loose overboard, from guns and ammunition to their radio and even their helmets, it was considered justified in an effort to save the lives of the other nine.

The bomber, "Conquest Cavalier," was jumped by eight twin-engined Messerschmitts and a Junkers-88 rocket plane soon after it bombed northwest Germany a few days ago.

The navigator was Lieut. Arthur E. Barks of Providence, R.I.

CANADIANS BRIDGING SANGRO — Floods that followed heavy rains in Italy teamed up with the Germans to destroy the Sangro River bridges. Here British and Canadian engineers are working to rebuild this bridge over the Sangro. The piers are still intact. The men in foreground are Canadians who are constructing a pontoon bridge along the side of the old one to serve temporarily until the other goes into service. The man with the boathook is Lance-Corporal Condy, of British Columbia.

New Service Ribbon

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP)—The recently-created Canadian volunteer service ribbon will be worn on and after January 15, it was announced yesterday at Military District No. 2 headquarters here. Ribbons are to be awarded to all members of the active army who have honorably completed 18 months at home or abroad. Those serving outside Canada will wear a silver maple leaf clasp on the ribbon.

Labor Fears Female Influx

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP).—A stampede of women, who comprise the chief reserve labor pool, to take any jobs which they think might save them from arbitrary work assignments was predicted to-day in the wake of President Roosevelt's request for a national service act in the United States.

Manpower authorities said that they feared that such a reaction, coupled with the time lapse that would occur before any national service legislation could be put into effect, would upset present orderly employment recruiting.

In addition, they foresaw possible abandonment of plans for a combined military-civilian drive to recruit womanpower.

At present the estimated industrial need for womanpower has dropped sharply from 2,000,000 in June to 400,000.

An estimated 11,000,000 women who do not have children under 16 years of age are available for employment — the majority, more than 6,000,000, over 45 years old.

1,400 Employees Given Other Jobs

PARRY SOUND, Jan. 13 (CP).—Selective Service officials here estimated Wednesday that by Jan. 15, 1,400 men and women employed at the Dominion Industries Ltd., plant at Nobel will have been transferred to new jobs. Up to Tuesday 500 had been moved direct to other work.

Most of these have gone to various Ontario plants and in addition about 100 have returned to farms or to bush jobs.

Firms interviewing former Nobel employees here include International Nickel at Sudbury, Victory Aircraft at Malton, near Toronto, Massey-Harris at Toronto, International Harvester at Hamilton, McFadden Lumber Co., Blind River, and the Hydro-Electric Commission.

QUEEN'S IDEA

LONDON (CP). — Lord Mottistone, vice-president of the National Savings Movement, disclosed that the idea of running the "Wings for Victory" weeks came from the Queen.

Sweden's King Seeks Continued Peace

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 13 — (AP).—King Gustav V, in a speech from the throne opening parliament, said today that Sweden must remain armed and on guard while the belligerents are "rallying forces with the aim of gaining a decision in the great struggle."

The government proposed a budget for the financial year 1944-45 calling for the expenditure of 1,820,000,000 crowns (about $443,160,000) for defence or approximately half the total outlay of 3,774,000,000 crowns.

Sweden's relations abroad are good, the King said, "and I trust in our chances of maintaining peace also in the future."

Cheese Shows Improvement Across Canada

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13 — (CP) Recent improvement in the quality of Canadian cheese may have far reaching effects beneficial to the whole dairy industry, W. C. Cameron, of Ottawa, acting chief of the Agriculture Department Dairy Products Grading and Inspection Services said today in addressing the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario annual convention.

Of all cheese manufactured in Canada in 1943, 95.02 per cent was found to be first grade, an increase of 1.34 per cent over 1942.

"Of greater importance is the fact that 70.94 per cent of all the cheese graded scored 93 points or higher which is an increase of 4.91 per cent," Mr. Cameron said.

Total cheese gradings in 1943 were 22.54 per cent less than in 1942. The decrease was unforunate because of the United Nations' need for food, but it did not indicate a slackening of the production effort, as milk output had been maintained. The demand for all dairy products both for home use and export had been exceedingly heavy in the past year.

More Premiums

The improved quality of cheese had resulted in producers receiving larger payments in premiums. While the production of cheese had dropped 22.5 per cent, the disbursement of premium payments by the Dominion was down only 16.7 per cent.

"The present position of Canadian cheese on the export markets where Canada sells more than two-thirds of her entire production has been attained and maintained because the Canadian cheese offered for sale on those market was superior in quality to cheese of a similar type from the competing countries," said Mr. Cameron.

"The necessities of war have focussed attention on the key position of milk and milk products in human nutrition as foods of the highest protective and biological value with the result that on every hand we find stress being laid not only on increased dairy production but equally on the need for high quality milk and all its products.

"Everyone of the United Nations is emphasizing quality as well as quantity in the production of the dairy products and by no means the least of these is the United Kingdom. Canada's best customer for cheddar cheese."

Mr. Cameron said that butter production had increased and the quality improved in 1943, with 314,024,353 pounds manufactured, a gain of 11.67 per cent over 1942. Of all butter graded in Canada last year, 34.79 per cent was scored 83 points or better, an increase of 1.29 per cent.

Poultry Conference Reviews Breeding

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Nearly 100 delegates from across Canada gathered Wednesday for a national poultry conference to discuss improved methods of raising and selling poultry products and to review the national poultry breeding policy.

They were welcomed by Dr. G. S. H. Barton, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who said the Government desired the delegates' "best collective thought, your best collective judgment" for the guidance of the poultry industry.

Dr. Barton said that preliminary discussions between Dominion and Provincial officials had brought approval of policies to combat pullorum, a poultry disease, flock approval programs and approved hatchery practices. These policies will be presented to the conference.

After the opening session, the delegates participated in the discussions of seven committees dealing with merchandising poultry products; record of performance; flock approval; hatchery operations; feeds and feeding; management, housing and health, and turkey production and market requirements.

SGT MURIEL ROBERTSON

Daughter of Rev. Canon and Mrs. W. P. Robertson of Peterborough, has spent an eventful year of service with the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Her first achievement in the army was the establishment of the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Office in Peterborough which has enlisted so many of Peterborough's daughters. Later she was transferred to Ottawa, where she was in charge of the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Centre. Her latest exploit, a tour with the C.W.A.C. Pipe and Military Bands as recruiting sergeant, took her across Canada from the Annapolis Valley to the Rocky Mountains.

CAPT. CLAIRE MASON

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Mason of Peterborough, Capt. Claire Mason was one of the first women of this city to enlist in the Canadian Women's Army Corps. She advanced rapidly, graduating from the first officers' training course in June, 1942. In October of this year she was appointed officer in charge of the C.W.A.C. detachment stationed at the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre, Barriefield. She is responsible for the welfare of 110 girls. Capt. Mason's brother, Major Herbert Mason, is with the AMGOT in Sicily.

PTE. MICHAEL W. O'BRIEN

SOLDIER ARRIVES OVERSEAS —Pte. Michael W. O'Brien, 29, the son of Mrs. Laura Scott of 560 Water Street, has arrived safely overseas, according to word received by his family. Enlisting in January a year ago, he is with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, and prior to joining up worked at the J. J. Reid Photo Engraving Co. A brother, Pte. Joseph O'Brien, has been for two years on active service, formerly with the Prince of Wales Rangers (A.F.) and now stationed at the local Training Centre. Another brother, George, is employed at the C.G.E., and a sister, Mrs. B. Powderley, also lives in the city.

MORE IRISH SPUDS

DUBLIN — (CP). — Eire's potato growers are to be asked to increase their crops so that the Irish Red Cross can send next autumn 100,000 tons to help feed Europe.

Institute Enjoys Nutrition Lecture

HAVELOCK, Jan. 13.—(ENS). — A lecture illustrated with slides on foods and nutrition in its relation to the health of the nation, was presented by Miss Rorke, from the Department of Agriculture, in the council chamber in Havelock this week. The local Institute sponsored the event and visiting members from the Trent River and Belmont branch attended.

This project has been launched in co-operation with the Federal government, in its effort to awaken interest in, and to educate people on, the nutritive value of proper methods of selection, preparation and distribution of foods, even under rationing. Many instances were cited and pictures shown to illustrate how the theory works out in practice. Miss Rorke stated that the quality of food in Canada is not up to a high standard of good diet, as fas as rules go. Housewives should practise using food readily available and best suited to their needs.

The products of agriculture, as found in field, dairies and barns provide for major requirements. A complete set of slides, showing by contrast the good effects or the lack of vitamins, quantity of vitamins found in vegetables and fruits, and their equivalent from other sources.

Bonarlaw News

Mrs. Thomas Webb was admitted to Kingston General Hospital on Monday and others on the sick list are Mrs. Bert McCoy, Mr. J. Webb, Sr., and Mr. Thomas Prest.

Lieut. John A. Bell, of Royal Canadian Engineers, Toronto, returned to the city last week after visiting his father, Donald Bell for a few days. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bell.

Mrs. John S. McKeown and Mrs. W. J. Barlow are visiting Mrs. Russell Rowe of Simcoe for a couple of weeks.

FRENCH BLACK AND ROSE—A well cut straight frock of black crepe, made with a wide, shallow neckline in front, is given a peplum and long gloves of heavily embroidered black lace. Huge pink roses dramatize at the waistline. Du Barry roses, very lifelike, highlight black more beautifully for most women, than any other familiar combination fashion uses. Here we have a discreet but dashing black frock, composed of crepe and lace, which uses this French formula for flattery. Notice the peplum of lace and illusion . . . a fine device which can turn the narrow silhouette into becoming choice for figures a bit too plump for an unrelieved column model . . . through detracting nothing from a naturally slim figure.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON (Society Editor of The Examiner)

Winter Pastels

Dresses and suits in pastel shades are the newest thing to wear under a fur coat. Light, bright suits, tailored on slim lines, are made of light wool fabrics in lovely shades of gold, rose, blue, maize and green, while dress styles feature pale greens, golds and pinks.

Queen Cotton

Stores in Canada as well as the United States are now introducing cotton styles for winter wear, and a gingham or print dress is light and comfortable in the house during the cold months, as well as cool in summer. They're easy to launder, too.

Stocking Tip

If rayon stockings have a tendency to slip and slide around the legs, and make things generally uncomfortable, a touch of hand lotion or vanishing cream applied to the legs before putting on the stockings not only keeps the stockings from slipping, and consequently tempers even, but also prevents the legs from chapping.

Kitchen Hints

Tea stains on the inside of tea cups can be easily removed if a little salt is rubbed over the stain with a damp cloth.

Brown sugar is the only dry ingredient that is packed into a measuring cup.

Bread will keep much better and longer, and will not mold, if kept in the refrigerator.

Hammer Hint

When rehanging pictures, or driving nails anywhere around the house, to keep from pounding fingers as well as nail, try starting the nail through cardboard, which holds it until it is firmly anchored. Then, pull out the cardboard with one sharp jerk.

Furniture Fixin'

Whitish stains on polished furniture, such as a piano, or radio, can be removed by wiping the spot with a soft cloth which has been dipped in a solution of one tablespoon of cider vinegar in one quart of water. Rub in the direction of the grain, wipe dry, and then polish.

Time Savers

If the family is fond of biscuits, and like them often, a good way to save time when preparing a meal is to prepare a large quantity of muffin or biscuit mix, with all ingredients blended except liquid and eggs, and store in the refrigerator. In this way, it is not necessary to stop and mix a complete batter when preparing a meal.

Fashion's Fancy

A new variation of the short evening dress has been introduced in the States, and features the same style, with the short skirt, but with lace sleeves and bodice or inset of lace in the bodice with just a touch of turquoise, blue, or green ribbon showing through.

Food Facts

Salads are no longer being considered as summer foods, because increased knowledge in the field of nutrition has shown the value of serving salads the year 'round, and not only add crispness and a variety of color to the table, but supply a generous amount of minerals and vitamins to the diet.

Timely Tip

Here's a hint for keeping corduroys neat and even. Wash them in soap and water in the washing machine. Rinse carefully, roll them in a towel and block while still damp, and then press lightly, while they are still evenly damp.

Y.P.U. Installation

Mrs. H. L. Roberts officiated in the installation service for the new officers of the George Street Young People's Union, at its first meeting for 1944. The new president, Mary Duncan, was in charge of the worship service, assisted by Vera Davidson, Margaret Edmison and Helen Edmison, and the meeting closed with a short period of recreation, led by Viva Harris.

Army Auxiliary Meets

Mrs. J. A. Dewart presided at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary, held Wednesday afternoon, and she asked members to attend the meetings this year as regularly as possible, so that all plans may be carried out.

Mrs. B. D. Hall and Mrs. James Turnbull, reporting for the visiting committee, stated that members of the Auxiliary had visited families of recent casualties. Many letters from soldiers overseas thanking the group for Christmas parcels were also read.

St. John's W.A. Hears Pastor

Canon W. P. Robertson conducted the devotional period of the meeting of the senior branch of St. John's W. A., and began a new series of talks from "The Sermon on the Mount," explaining thoroughly the various similitudes uttered by the Lord. "Ye are the salt of the earth," was the theme for the first talk.

Mrs. G. S. Cameron, the new president, was in the chair and heard the monthly reports from each department. Plans were made for a tea to be held prior to the Lenten period, and tea hostesses for the month were Mrs. E. Graham and Mrs. G. Groombridge.

Mrs. C. Sootheran, who gave the study book talk for the month, had as her topic, "The Evangelical Movement of Latin America."

Forum Discusses Farm Credit Plan

The radio topic, "Adequate Farm Credit Can be Supplied," under the general heading of "Planning Farm Credit," was discussed at the second January meeting of the Central Smith Farm Forums, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Archer.

The decisions reached in the discussion which followed the broadcast were that present methods of credit are not adequate, and that there is a need for lower interest rate and more flexible and adjustable methods of loaning. The members felt that they would like advice from government representatives if they were fully qualified.

After the discussion, Mrs. Lorne Reynolds, social convener, conducted a contest, after which a motion to start a new forum at Fowler's Corners was made. Mrs. William Darling will hold the first meeting, and Central Smith Forum will meet jointly with the new one for the next meeting, when the subject for discussion will be, "Credit Unions." After the closing of the meeting, a pot luck lunch was served.

Memorial Service For Young Sailor

Members of the Peterborough and District Women's Auxiliary to the Navy plan to attend the memorial service in St. James' church Sunday morning in memory of AB. Llewellyn Evans, R.C.N.V.R., who was lost when the destroyer St. Croix was torpedoed. This announcement was made at the regular meeting of the Auxiliary, held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Wednesday evening.

During the business period, a nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. C. Hotston, Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. George Marshall and Mrs. Karl Simpson, was named to bring a slate of officers for 1944 at the annual meeting in February. Mrs. Frank Lynch will conduct the election of officers at this meeting.

Several Reports were read to the group of activities during the previous month, and the report of the recent bingo was particularly gratifying.

Knox YPU Plans Church Service

A committee consisting of Loretta McDougall, Connie Lewis, Dorothy Agnew and Robert Hamilton was nominated at the regular meeting of Knox Church Young People's Union, to talk to the minister, about arrangements for a young people's church service. Another committee, to select members to take part in the spring play, was nominated, and consists of Velma Stewart, Robert Edwards and Roy Genge.

Loretta McDougall led the group in a sing song of hymns, and also in the singing of a group of Negro spirituals. Reports were heard from the past president, Marjorie Lewis, the secretary, Dorothy Agnew, the mission department, given by Phyllis Kidd, for last year's executive.

During the business period, an allocation of $25 for missions, as well as credit for giving through church envelopes was given to the Union.

The meeting closed with a circle of prayer and taps. On Tuesday evening, at nine o'clock, the members met in the lecture hall for volley ball.

Mission Band Changes Name

In the absence of Miss Inez Barrer, Mrs. R. Hanscom told members of the mission band of Knox United Church of the change in the name of their group, at the regular meeting held in the junior room Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Hanscom said that the announcement was made at the installation services for all three officers of the W.M.S. and that the name of Willing Workers Mission Band would be officially changed to the Nettie McKenzie Mission Band, in honor of the late Mrs. McKenzie whose influence in the community as an organizer of missions inspired many to become missionary minded.

The president of the mission band, Joyce Hanes, was in the chair and the pianist, Betty Fountain, played quiet music that opened the call to worship, given by Roy Weldon and Robert Ross. The scripture reading was by Marilyn Todd, and responsive prayer by the president. Frances Clarke and Aileen Todd read the call to give, and the dedicatory prayer was made by the president, Joyce Hanes. The peace secretary, June Drummond, and the temperance secretary, Allan McIlraith, each gave papers on their respective subjects.

After the service, the members who paid their annual fees had the privilege of lighting small candles on a cake. Everyone present lighted a candle, and the cake was then served as a lunch.

U. S. O. WILL HELP GIRLS GET DATES WITH "NICE" SOLDIERS

Plenty of Lonely Boys Would Enjoy Company of Interesting 18-Year-Olds.

DEAR MISS DIX — We are a group of girls 18 years old, in our last year of high school. We have average looks, but we never have any dates like other girls our age and have given up hope of ever having any attention from the boys we know. So we would like to have your oppinion on the following questions:

1. Will it be all right if we get some nice soldiers and keep them as friends? This is the only way we can think of getting out with boys. 2. Do you think that by doing this we would obtain a little experience on how to handle boys? 3. Do you think that by going out with soldiers we will be able to compete at least a little bit with other girls after the war is over, and thus have some chance of not being old maids?

18 and DISGUSTED.

All Manner of Soldiers

ANSWER—You have a good idea there, but it is one that has to be handled with caution and discretion. In the army, as you of course know, there is every possible class of men. It is made up of gentlemen and toughs; of college graduates and men whose only education has been the rough one of the streets; of Sir Galahads and Casanovas; of men with whom you would be just as safe as you would be with your own brother and of men who are wolves in sheep's clothing out on the prowl for little soft, ignorant school girls.

And when they are all dressed in uniform they look alike and have about them the swagger and the glamour that goes with brass buttons and is the aura in which the fighting man moves. Hence, it would take a keener eye and more knowledge of the world than any 18-year-old girl possesses to be able to pick out at sight which one it would be desirable for her to have as a friend, and from which one she should flee as she would from the greatest danger that could possibly menace her.

Yet there are plenty of nice soldier boys and they are as lonesome and as eager for dates as the dateless girls are, and every effort is being made to bring these two together through the canteens and the Red Cross and the U. S. O. and the various other social organizations that are attempting to solve this problem.

So my advice to you girls is to go to some woman who is at the head of one of these organizations and tell her frankly that you wish to meet some "nice" soldiers, and she will put you in the way of doing it under safe auspices.

But I want to add a word of caution, which is good not only for use on the army but for the home grown species of boys. It is this: Go slow. Be hard to get. In your exuberance over having a date at last, don't gush over the boy. Don't let him see how pleased you are. Don't fall like an over-ripe plum in his mouth. Respect yourself and make him respect you. Don't be grateful to him for showing you a little attention. It will tip him off to the fact that you are not used to it and that you don't know how to handle yourself. Don't let every boy you dance with kiss and maul you.

And if you have a mother that is worthwhile tell her all about the boy. Get her to ask him to a meal so she can look him over. Any mother in these times who doesn't Gathers in the front of the simple blouse and the skirt add softness to the design.

Boys In Charge Of Refreshments

The surprise of the evening at the meeting of Trinity Young People's Club held in the Ladies' Parlor of the church, was the serving of refreshments by the boys in fancy dress costume, under the supervision of Harvie Shier.

The devotional period, based on the story of the good Samairan, was in charge of Pearl Clayton, assisted by Jean Donaldson, Lloyd Treacher, and Madelyn McWilliam. Miss Hazel Wilson played a piano solo.

Recreation was in charge of Lloyd Treacher, and games were enjoyed by all, after which lunch was served. The next meeting of the club will feature the installation of officers for 1944, and Dr. G. S. Easton, if he has recovered sufficiently from his illness, will be guest speaker for the evening, and will install the officers.

Desserts Are Big Problem Apples Do Double Duty

By MARY MOORE

Double duty for your bushel of apples is putting it mildly—I use them for salads, sauce, puddings, accompaniment for meat raw, sliced or fried, fritters, puddings, cold "made" desserts, and "as is" for breakfast to mention a few of their obvious roles.

The best buy I've made was my bushel of ungraded Spys.

In my dessert program for our house I've included an apple dessert every other day (and so far this winter it has "kept the doctor away"). I have attempted to vary them so much the family has not suspected the monotony. They are a hungry lot though so some of you whose charges need coddling and coaxing may need to stretch the apple desserts to only three times or twice a week.

I particularly want you to taste my

Apple Cream Cake

The topping is tops.

Cake Batter—½ cup shortening, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups sugar, 2 well-beaten egg yolks, 3 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 beaten egg whites. Cream the shortening very well, add the vanilla then the sugar beating together until fluffy. Continue creaming while adding yolks slowly. Sift the flour, measure it, then sift it with the baking powder, salt and add it alternately with the milk to the creamed mixture—using a cutting motion. Fold in the whites which have been well beaten. Turn into 2 buttered and floured cake tins and bake at 365 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. If you use this batter for a loaf cake bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 40 to 45 minutes.

Topping—One cup cream that will whip (as I have suggested before this can be had from the tops of your Jersey milk OR you may use 2 or 3-day-old 18% table cream—which will whip if very cold), 2 tablespoons fruit sugar, and ½ cup freshly grated apple—this cannot be measured as you must grate it directly into the whipped and sweetened cream or it will discolor—I use an unpeeled large Spy or McIntosh apple—the flecks of red through the cream are quite attractive. Spread a little of this between the cakes when cool, and pile the remainder on top of cake—serve as soon as possible. Fresh, strained, cold unsweetened applesauce may be used in place of freshly grated raw apple.

The above topping is delicious on fresh gingerbread.

Apple Bread

This is similar in flavor but not in texture, to Applesauce Cake—this is delicious with cream cheese with a cup of tea or coffee for an afternoon tea snack or late night lunch.

Two cups once-sifted pastry, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter or shortening or cooking oil, ½ cup granulated sugar, (OR 1-3 cup corn syrup or molasses and ¼ cup sugar), 1 egg yolk, ¾ cup grated raw apple, ½ cup milk. Measure sifted flour and add baking powder and salt and nutmeg. Cream shortening and cream with the sugar. Add egg yolk and beat well. Add the grated apple immediately. Sift in dry ingredients alternately with the milk, mixing in with a cutting motion after each addition. Turn into greased and floured loaf tin, let stand 15 minutes and bake at 340 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

Apple Delights

In effect these are little individual apple betty puddings—actually they are muffins with half an apple laid on top before baking. Two cups flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 6 easily cooked apples—spys or Baldwins or Baxters, halved. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with a knife. Add milk and beaten egg and mix well. Drop tablespoons batter into well greased muffin tins. Peel apples, cut in halves and core. Put one half on top of each muffin, cut side up, and fill holes with white or brown sugar. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes or until apples are tender. Best served hot with cream, and a dusting of cinnamon. If cold these are good to use in a carried lunch.

Apple Chutney

Here's the winter pickle that so many readers have a hankering to make at this time of year.

Two quarts peeled and cored and quartered apples, 3 cups brown sugar, (1 cup corn syrup may be used in place of 1 of the cups of sugar), 2 quarts vinegar, 2 lbs. seeded raisins, 1 oz. white mustard seed, 1 small onion, 1 oz. black mustard seed, 2 oz. ground ginger, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 chopped red peppers. Wash, peel, and core the apples. Cook them with the brown sugar, and vinegar until they are smooth stirring often. When the mixture is thick, place it in a crock and add raisins, chopped finely, onion, white and black mustard seeds, ginger, salt, and red peppers. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, heat them, and let stand overnight. In the morning place the chutney in jars and seal. This keeps very well, but is best if cool.

Apple Fritters

One cup flour, 1¼ teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 1 egg, 5 or 6 tart apples. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add milk and well-beaten egg. Mix well. Pare and core apples. Cut in sections or rings. Dip each piece of apple in a batter and fry in deep fat at 350 deg. Fahr. until golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper and serve sprinkled with powdered sugar. Fritters may be fried in shallow fat and turned once if preferred.

Apple Custard Pie

Quarter and dice tart apples. Line a pie plate with a good pastry, sprinkle with a tablespoon flour, and lay apples in crust until it is full. Mix 1 egg, 1 tablespoon flour, pinch of salt, dash of nutmeg, and about ½ to 2-3 cup milk. Sprinkle apples with ½ cup sugar, pour in the custard mixture and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until custard is set and top is tinged with brown. Other fruits such as peaches, rhubarb or cherries may be used.

Apple Salads

A novelty for most of us is Waldorf salad served in apple cups—yet when you want to make a meal look especially nice for guests, but at little expense it is quite successful. Wash apples, remove a slice from the top, and scoop out all but about ½ inch for a shell. Fill with Waldorf mixture—1 cup chopped apple (use what is scooped out, ¾ to 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup nut meats—preferably English walnuts or pecans. Mix with good mayonnaise. Pass cheese and toasted buttered crackers with this for perfection.

TAKE NO CHANCES WITH BABY'S COLD

DON'T LET your baby's little cold develop into something worse. Let Mrs. Geo. McBride of Scarborough tell you what to do. "My baby of 26 months caught a nasty cold, so I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets from now on."

Baby's Own Tablets are sweet-tasting, easy to take—and may be crushed to a powder if desired. Effective in teething troubles, constipation, simple fevers, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic and summer complaint, simple croup and other minor ailments. Yet they are utterly free from opiates or stupefying drugs. An analyst's report is given in each package.

MAGIC'S ORANGE MARMALADE BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
½ tspn. salt
4 tbspns. shortening
4 tspns. Magic Baking Powder
1 egg
¼ cup milk
½ cup orange marmalade

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until mixed. Beat egg slightly in measuring cup; add milk and marmalade to make ¾ cup and add to first mixture. Roll out about ½-inch thick; cut with floured biscuit cutter. Top each with a little marmalade; bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 15 minutes. Makes 16.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE—On meatless Tuesday I try to serve protein vegetables such as beans and peas and lentils. But my family eats very heartily and I have to give them more than this—more food "that sticks to the ribs." I have been giving them cheese with their desserts, and recently hit on the idea of using cottage cheese more frequently. I made the following "Relish" up and served a mound of it with a pear salad and it was so popular I thought I should forward the idea to you.

Cottage Cheese Relish

(Contributed by Mary Jane Allen)

To be served with either fruit or vegetable salads.

Two and one-half cups finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons to ¼ cup chopped green pepper or raw or canned pimiento is optional, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon grated onion (don't leave out the onion—it is the best part), few grains pepper and paprika. Combine ingredients, mixing well. Cover and let stand several hours before serving. This is good with mayonnaise and halved pears on lettuce or bananas when you can get them. It is also good with tomatoes, or coleslaw—or as you can see with any salad ingredient. I sometimes strew a few planters peanuts over it for garnish. Parsley may be used in place of the green or red sweet peppers.

MRS. ALLEN.

This is an excellent idea—I used it with tomato jelly moulds for a party between Christmas and New Year's and everybody present wanted the recipe. Thanks.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I was foolish enough to buy a 12-pound ham for over the Christmas feasting time and now have quite a bit of it left. I can remember a recipe for a ham pie that you recommended once and would like to have you repeat it on the page soon, for my sake and for other readers that aren't familiar with it. I used it once and thought it was wonderful—it contained egg yolks and cream and you topped it with cheese. The ham was mixed with the custard. Is this good enough to remind you of it? Happy New Year to you, and thanks in advance. Marie Basie.

ANSWER: I certainly do remember it and am glad you reminded me of it — it is properly named Guiche Lorraine — but Ham Pie will do. It comes from a well-known chef in New York who trained under the Frenchman Escoffier.

Guiche Lorraine (Ham Pie).

The original recipe called for 1 cup cream and 4 to 6 egg yolks, but I compromise and use 1½ cups of rich top milk and 3 whole eggs, 2 cups ground cooked ham (after you taste this you will buy a ham so you will have some leftover for a ham pie), ½ to 1 cup grated good old cheese, pepper, paprika, pastry for one lower crust. Line a large deep pie plate with your best pastry and bake it at a high temperature for 5 minutes. Remove from oven and put the custard mixture in it—beat the eggs and pour the milk or cream into them stirring for the custard. Bake this for about 20 minutes or until it just begins to set, then remove from oven and add the ground ham, stirring it just enough to mix evenly through the custard. Return to oven for about 5 minutes, then remove again and sprinkle cheese over top and bake until cheese is melted and golden and custard is set. Sprinkle with paprika to garnish, and serve cut in wedge shaped pieces with hot chili sauce. This is sufficient for a main course, but should be followed by a generous green salad.

As you will note there are many ways this can be varied—you can use less cream and more milk, more eggs, less ham, less cheese, but the richer the ingredients the more delicious the finished product. Very unusual for a ladies' luncheon or a late supper for men.

QUESTION: We have just finished using up the 25-lb. turkey we had given to us—I froze what was left after New Year's and saved it for last week-end's company. Now I want to get down to earth and balance my budget by making such things as beef stew, hamburg meat loaf, etc. I don't feel confident of my method of making a beef stew. Would you tell me how you make yours—and give me a good recipe for dumplings? Thanks in advance. Helen McKinnon.

ANSWER: I'll bet a great many readers will welcome this.

Beef Stew With Dumplings.

Five pounds shank beef with bone, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons flour, 4 cups cubed potatoes, 1 diced small onion, ¾ to 1 cup diced turnip and carrot each, dumplings, boiling water. Wipe meat with a damp cloth. You may either boil it on the bone or cut it from bone into 1½ inch cubes. Roll meat in flour, salt, and pepper which have been mixed together. Melt some of the meat fat in frying pan and brown all surfaces in it. Put meat in stewing kettle, add drippings from frying pan (and bones if meat has been cut from them) and enough boiling water to cover. Boil 5 minutes, then reduce heat and simmer 2 hours. Add vegetables, except potatoes, and let simmer ½ hour longer. Add potatoes and simmer ½ hour longer. Drop in the dumplings and cook tightly covered for 12 minutes.

Dumplings.

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup milk. Sift flour, salt, and baking powder together. Run in shortening with knife or finger tips. Add milk to make a soft dough. Drop a tablespoon at a time on top of boiling stew, cover tightly, and don't peek until 12 minutes are up. Serve very hot on top of stew in deep plates.

BLACK BEAUTY—If there is one fashion that is as luxurious as it is beautiful and wearable, it is the fur cape. Alfred Rainer made this gala cape of black broadtail with a border of black fox, a fur that is returning to favor. The shoulders are quite full, and the fur border ripples with the hem which is full in back. The fur border curves softly in front to give a lovely line.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 14

DILIGENCE, perseverance, industry and concentrated energies should move crystallized or static affairs forward to enduring and well-merited success. Long, lagging matters should be galvanized into life and very satisfactory conditions, mainly through sound thinking, well-engineered plans and executive ability. Attention to details, systems and policies may secure best results, particularly attracting interest and substantial support for those in prestige and public as well as private standing. Good ground work, clear understanding of underlying elements should win success, assuring personal place and happiness reacting on the social, domestic and professional status.

A Sound Career

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an opening to show whatever solid, sterling and efficient qualities may be lying at the base of a progressive, sound and meritorious career, either in business, profession, or the accumulation of possessions, good name and community standing. Both public and private prestige and stability are assured, with enduring good fortune and position. Largely, this happy and lucrative state of affairs may be due to sound, constructive thinking, study, diligence and deep rooted discernment of the underlying cause of things. All should happily react on the social, domestic and cultural life as well.

A child born on this day will have much depth of character, a logical and serious reaction toward things in general, assuring support from those in power ready to acknowledge merit and further practical aspirations and aims.

KHARKOV SCHOOLS

Before the war, the city of Kharkov, Russia, had 135 schools for a population of 925,000 persons.

Home and School

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL.

Miss Mary Ross, the Victorian Order of Nurses, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association held Wednesday evening in the School. Miss Ross outlined the growth of the Order from its founding in 1897.

Miss Ross said that the first Great War had awakened people to the need for child care, because of the surprising number of military rejections made. "It is the duty of the Victorian Order of Nurses to put knowledge of proper health care and diet into practice," she said.

The speaker told of the work of the Order among all classes and creeds, stating that nurses only attended people who were under a doctor's care.

In conclusion, Miss Ross told how funds were raised to carry on the work of the Order, and said that it receives a grant from the city, a share of the Community Chest Fund, fees from the patient, if possible, membership fees in the Order, and revenue from the Metropolitan Insurance Company, for policyholders in that company who are under the care of the V.O.N.

The president, Mrs. Charles Doughty, presided at this meeting, which took the form of a health meeting, with two plays, "The Trial of Jimmy Germ" and "Mr. Cold Can't aCtch Me" being given by the pupils of the Senior Room.

Miss M. Munro and Mr. L. Bird each gave a short talk on health as it concerns the child, as outlined in the course of study. Mr. Bird also gave a review of the school activities of the past five months, and spoke of plans for the future.

After the treasurer's report had been given by Mrs. W. Ellison, and the secretary's report by Mrs. Peter Jarvis, Mr Jack Telford led the community singing, which was greatly enjoyed by all, and Beverly Frise played a piano solo.

keep a close watch on the boys her teen-age daughter is going with should have something with boiling oil in it done to her.

Don't drink anything stronger than a coca cola with any boy whatever. Don't go with one to taverns or saloons. Don't park on dark streets. Don't let anybody tease you into drinking highballs or cocktails by making fun of you and calling you a Mama's girl. Never forget that a man will spend hours, sometimes days and weeks, persuading a girl into doing the very thing he will drop her for doing.

And if you forget everything else on earth hang on with a death grip to this truth—that patriotism doesn't require a girl to throw decency to the winds in order to give the boys a good time. It doesn't keep up the soldiers' morale for girls to have no morals. It lowers it. They want to feel that the women they are fighting for are worth defending.

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife was all that a husband could ever hope to have. She was a grand partner, a fine cook and housekeeper, and pleasant to live with, but since we got into war work we haven't seen much of each other, because I work days and she works nights. After being alone every evening for four months I began to get lonesome and bored and eventually I fell for the phone calls of another woman. It started as a thrill and after a while I got tired of it.

But my wonderful wife in the meantime had found out about it and she has left me. I have done everything in the world to try to win her back. I plead with her and tell her how much I love her and need her, but she refuses to listen to me. Tells me I have killed her love and that she doesn't trust me. She means everything in the world to me and without her I have no desire to live. What shall I do? Live alone and keep our house in case she does forgive me? Or should I give up everything and abandon all hope?

A REPENTANT HUSBAND.

Flirtation Costly to Married Man

ANSWER—Paying a high price for your dance, aren't you, Mister? But you are not the only man who throws away the love of a good woman for a woman he doesn't care a penny's worth for, and who breaks up a happy and peaceful home for a silly flirtation. We can have some pity and respect for the married man who is swept off his feet by a great, overpowering passion for a strange woman; who realizes that for the first time he knows what love really is and that the only feeling he ever had for his wife was just a pale liking, and who lets his emotions drive him into being an unfaithful husband. But we can only mock at the folly of the man who has a wife he admires and loves and doesn't want to lose, and an ideal home yet who risks it all for a few bought kisses from a harlot. But it happens so often.

Yours is one of the innumerable tragedies that has been brought about by women going into war work. It disrupts the home and the inevitable consequences follow. The husband comes home to a place that is no longer a home, just an empty shell of a house in which there is no warmth, no life, no comfort, no good meals, no welcoming wife.

The man gets tired of lonely evenings, of having to cook his own food and make up his own bed and having nobody to talk to, and he starts out in search of company and finds the Other Woman. When the cat is away the mice will play, and no woman who has given up her home for a job can help but know that she has been accessory to the crime if her husband philanders.

In your case your wife has had her pride hurt just as much as her heart, and you must give them both time to recover. The chances are that she still loves you and will come back to you if you keep the home and persevere in making your show of repentance. Why don't you join the army? That would make a master appeal to her affection for you and convince her of your sincerity.

Mrs. Tate Is Reelected Head Presbtyerian Presbyterial

Mrs. Harold Tate, of Centreville Church, was re-elected president of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, held at St. Paul's Church on Wednesday. Mrs. Tate presided at both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The report of the nominating committee was given during the afternoon session, and Dr. J. D. Smart took charge of the installation of officers. The slate of officers for 1944 is as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. C. Head, of Colborne, and Mrs. David Ewart, of Cobourg; president, Mrs. Harold Tate, R.R. 1, Millbrook; vice-presidents, Mrs. L. J. McLaughlin, Bowmanville, Miss Gertrude Harvey, Cobourg, Mrs. C. Meiklejohn, Warkworth, Mrs. James Dutton, Peterborough; recording secretary, Miss Flora Galbraith, Bowmanville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Blewett, Peterborough; treasurer, Mrs. John Storie, Campbellford.

The secretaries for the various groups are as follows: Mission Band, Mrs. C. R. Hagerman, Peterborough; Girls' Organizations, Mrs. J. O. Ralston, Campbellford; Young Women's, Mrs. J. W. Foote, Port Hope; Home Helpers, Mrs. M. Simpson, Lakefield; Exchange and Student, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, Lakefield; Library, Mrs. Thomas Tough, Cobourg; Literature, Miss E. Fair, Cobourg; Welcome and Welfare, Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Campbellford; Supply, Mrs. John R. Thompson, R. R. 1, Millbrook; Life Membership, Miss Nina Davidson, Peterborough; Glad Tidings, Mrs. C. J. Carlaw, Warkworth; press, Mrs. E. H. Howson, Peterborough.

Miss Flora Galbraith of Bowmanville was named librarian, and the Finance Committee consists of Mrs. A. A. McIntyre of Peterborough, Mrs. C. Meiklejohn of Warkworth, and Mrs. L. J. McLaughlin of Bowmanville. Members without portfolio are Mrs. J. D. Smart, Peterborough, Mrs. F. H. Rowan, Peterborough, Mrs. J. W. Rork, Norwood, Mrs. W. Purves, Port Hope, and Mrs. Clifford Hall, R.R. 1, Millbrook.

At the morning session, after the call to worship, a devotional period, taken by Mrs. W. Patterson of Millbrook, was followed by an address of welcome to the visitors by Mrs J. D. Smart. Greetings from past presidents were read and encouraging reports from department secretaries were given. After the adjourning of the meeting at noon, lunch was served in the Sunday School Hall.

At the afternoon session, after the opening hymn and two minutes' silent prayer for the men in service, the president led a discussion with the various presidents on membership and ways to make programs interesting. Gratifying reports from organization secretaries were given during this period and many helpful suggestions were brought forward.

The Mission Band Banner for the best all-round record in attendance, givings, and work, was awarded by Mrs. F. Rowan to the Warkworth Mission Band. The annual reports of the treasurer of the Presbyterial, Mrs. John Storie of Campbellford, and the secretary, Mrs. C. E. Blewett of Peterborough, were given, and showed a satisfactory year.

An address, given by Miss Louise Reith, of Toronto, literature secretary, was full of useful and helpful information, and she also mentioned many useful books for the 1944 missionary bookshelf. Miss Olive Cullen, Peterborough, was guest soloist for the meeting and sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," by Gounod.

After the installation of officers the president gave a cheery New Year's message, and thanked all present for the assistance they had given during the year. After the benediction given by Rev. Dr. Smart a cup of tea was served by the Social Committee of the local auxiliary, with Mrs. T. H. Taylor as convener.

Smith Council Names Officials

The inaugural meeting of the Council of the Township of Smith was held at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday. After the oath of declaration of office had been taken the members took their seats as follows; Reeve, Gilbert McIlmoyl; Deputy-Reeve, Eric Pearson; Councillors, Ross Harrison, Robert Tully, Cephas Bullock.

Reeve McIlmoyl addressed the council and congratulated the members on being elected by acclamation. He asked for the co-operation of all members in conducting the business of the township during the coming year. Mr. Pearson, Mr Harrison, Mr. Tully and Mr. Bullock all spoke briefly and promised to use their best judgment in all matters coming before council during 1944.

Building inspector: O. Hayward, salary $45.00.

Although the duties of poundkeepers in the township in recent years have been practically non-existent, it was decided these officers should be appointed.

The pound divisions correspond to the school sections, except that Union school section at Buckhorn is attached to S.S. No. 10, and S.S. No. 13 is attached to S.S. No. 3. The following were appointed: S.S. No. 1, C. J. Hancock; S.S. No. 2, Harold Archer; S.S. No. 3, Clayton Sanderson; S.S. No. 4, Albert Armstrong; S.S. No. 5, J. G. Jopling; S.S. No. 6, Arthur Carveth; S.S. No. 7, James Blewett; S.S. No. 8, Victor Young; S.S. No. 9, K. Sweeting; S.S. No. 10, Rollie Armstrong; S.S. No. 11, J. E. Milburn; S.S. No. 12, Wm. Bullock.

The treasurer was instructed to issue cheques to cover the following accounts: Royal Bank, Lakefield, comm on tax collections, $13.95; Hydro, street lights, $14.54; Whillier & Co., assessment and collector's supplies, $138.47; Nellie Douglas, printing Dec. 15th statement, $24.72; Township of Westminster, share of relief, $5.28; A. Kingdon, rebate of dog tax, $2.00; Salvation Army, grant, $15.00; Municipal World, 8 subscriptions, $8.00; A. Edmison, vital statistics fees 1943, $10.00.

Sir John A. Macdonald Born 129 Years Ago

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Tuesday was the 129th anniversary of birth of Sir John A. Macdonald the Dominion's first Prime Minister, and one of the Fathers of Confederation.

Born in Glasgow, Scotland, he came to Canada at the age of five.

Percy Ghent, Toronto collector, has a French grammar used by the statesman at the Kingston, Ont., Grammar School in 1826, with his signature on the title page and elsewhere.

This year also marks the centennial of his entry into political life. In 1844 he was elected for Kingston to the Upper Canada Legislative Assembly.

Crash Kills 96

LONDON, Jan. 13 — (CP).— A D.N.B. German News Agency broadcast said to-day 96 persons were killed and more than 100 injured early yesterday when the Madrid-San Sebastian express and another passenger train collided near Arevalo, 75 miles northwest of Madrid.

STILL IN FAMILY

NEWCASTLE, Eng., — (CP). — Viscount Guillamore, 76, died at his home here. He is succeeded by his brother Hon. Standish Bruce O'Gradyn, 74.

Courageous Act

LINDSAY, Jan. 13.—A narrow escape from drowning in the icy Scugog River was averted by the quick action of Cecil Carew, an employee of the Dominion Arsenals.

Arthur Rhodes, 12, was crossing the river when he fell through an air hole. His yells attracted Mr. Carew. Although Mr. Carew cannot swim, he jumped into the river and rescued the lad. Neither was any the worse for the experience.

Red Cross Seeks More Blood Donors

HAVELOCK, Jan. 13 — (ENS). — A splendid number of workers turned out on Tuesday afternoon at the Red Cross work rooms, and a lovely large quilt was quilted and donated to Mr. and Mrs. F. Parcels, who recently lost their home by fire. The vice-president, Mrs. Annie Anderson presided over the business period. In the communications, a letter was read from the Transit Controller, Mr. Grey, granting permission for the school buses to take donors to the Blood Donor Clinics and also a letter from the new owner of the Norwood bus, Mr. W. H. Scott, stating he would be willing to transport bus loads of donors to Peterborough, if notified a few days in advance. Any civilian with a category AA gasoline book, will be given extra gasoline coupons for taking donors to the clinic, by signing a special form at the clinic. Never, was the need so great for more blood donors and if you have not already signed a card, please get one from any of the executive.

A nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Annie Anderson, Mrs. Robert McCutcheon, Mrs. Clara Price, Mrs. Ernest Seeney and Mrs. Robert Jones were appointed to bring in a slate of officers for the annual meeting next Tuesday, at 2:30 p.m. Reports of all committees will be given and afternoon tea served. Material for the making of badges and stripes of recognition for years of service with the Red Cross has been ordered and will be distributed by the work conveners. One quilt top and $1 was donated by Mrs. Albert Waymark and gratefully acknowledged.

Senior Nun Dies At Waterdown

HAMILTON, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Mother Mary Lucitta, Provincial Superior of the School Sisters of Notre Dame, died yesterday at the Mother House in nearby Waterdown. She was 65.

Born at Wabasha, Minn., she entred the Sisters of Notre Dame in Milwaukee and came to Canada in 1897. For 29 years she taught in the Separate School in New Germany, now Maryhill. In 1926 she was made Superior and Principal of St. Clement's Separate School at Preston

In 1933 she was elected successor to Mother Mary J. Baptist, who had been Provincial Superior of the School Sisters of Notre Dame.

Water Tower Falls Fire Rages On

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP). — A water tower atop the big wooden auditorium building at the nearby Central Experimental station collapsed during the height of a fire here to-day, but its contents—140,000 gallons— slopped ineffectively beyond the blaze and the building was destroyed.

Destruction of the water-tower was the most serious loss, as it supplied the whole station which now comprises many temporary Government buildings. Total loss was estimated at $35,000.

The fire was reported to have originated near a heating stove. The fire was confined to the one building.

To Aid Jewry

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Nearly 100 Protestant clergymen in a meeting yesterday formed the nucleus of a Toronto branch of an organization aimed at combatting anti-semitism in Canada and alleviation of the plight of Jews in Nazi-occupied Europe. The body is designated the Christian Council of Palestine.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A SYNTHETIC SINGLETON

ONE OF THE slickest false-carding a player can put over is the playing of a high honor at a time when it will surely appear to the other side to have been a singleton. The chance for this dodge does not occur once in a blue moon. When it does, the reason for the play is either to make the declarer think the suit is more badly distributed against him than it is, or to make him think the player who tossed off the big card does not hold a certain other card of secondary rank.

1 NT	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

Here was a deal on which South was absolutely certain to make his No Trump game, with nine consecutive tricks in sight, no matter how the defense played or how its cards were distributed. Yet Dr. Louis Mark, Columbus, O., cardsman, beat the contract by making keen use of his knowledge of human nature.

West led the diamond 10, and Dr Mark in the East repeated the suit until South took his A on the third round Followed then the club J and Q, then the spade 4 to the K On this Dr Mark put his spade Q, certainly making it look like a singleton to South. The latter scored three more clubs, then led the spade 7. With an extra trick now sure if he merely took the spade A and J and heart A, South saw that he could gain a second extra trick by taking the marked finesse of the spade 9, knowing East had no more.

That's exactly what he tried, but Dr. Mark had the spade 10, took the 9 with it and then ran the additional two diamonds needed to beat the contract. Of course, South should not have fallen for the ruse and taken that spade finesse. But would you have been astute enough to resist the temptation?

Japan Fails To Retake Arawe Cape

Bitter Fighting Continues Trenches Close

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, South Pacific, Jan. 14—(AP).—The Japanese have failed in several attempts to recapture the Arawe Peninsula on the southwest coast of New Britain, and American troops still hold all of their main positions.

Sixth Army soldiers who stormed Arawe last December 15 are firmly entrenched in all of the three-mile-long peninsula, the adjacent islands and a small part of the inland.

A colonel who returned from Arawe this week said, "The Japs are only 100 yards from our lines and we can fight there any time we want it."

The Tokyo radio broadcast claims yesterday that the Japanese had recaptured Arawe. The assertion was denied by a spokesman at headquarters, and a detailed summary of the situation at Arawe was made available today.

Since the first Japanese retreat under heavy fire by American sea, air and ground units, the enemy has infiltrated back down the Pulie River from the north and made several attempts to retake the peninsula. But American forces, digging in, have withstood heavy night bombing raids and ground attacks.

After the first four days, the enemy had disappeared and all ground resistance in the immediate vicinity was broken. Umtingalu village, where rubber boats tried to land prior to the main invasion, was taken on the second day.

This position, which is up the coast and five miles east of Cape Merkus at the tip of the peninsula, turned out to be the main Japanese garrison.

War May Last Until July 1945

LONDON, Jan. 14 (CP)—President Roosevelt's budget message was accorded large headlines today by the London Press, which emphasized that the budget envisions the possibility of the war lasting until July 1, 1945, and called attention to the President's assertion that "we cannot safely rely on a 1944 victory."

Editorial comment on the message was generally favorable. The Daily Express, commenting on the President's tax demands, said:—

"Thus in an election year President Roosevelt once again stakes his own popularity and the election chances of his party.

"He does his duty not only as the leader of America but as one of the great directing brains of a fighting alliance. To America, to Britain and all citizens of the United Nations he has said in money terms what the battles in Russia and the day and night air battles over Germany are writing in blood—that the final effort against our enemies must be the greatest effort of all."

Sues Halifax

HALIFAX, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Mrs. Irene Sinclair, sister of former Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, has filed a damage suit against the city of Halifax for injuries suffered Christmas Eve. She fell on the icy sidewalk while returning from her duties as a Red Cross transport driver, and was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

Kills 150 Nazis

CAIRO, Jan. 14—(AP).—Olga, a 20-year-old, fair-haired girl guerilla who claims responsibility for the deaths of 150 enemy soldiers during her two years with the Yugoslav Partisan armies, arrived today among the first refugees to be brought from that German-invaded country. A grenade-throwing specialist, the girl said her family, including a brother and a sister, had been hanged by the Germans and their home burned to the ground.

Glider Bombs Used Against US Heavy Planes

LONDON, Jan. 14—(CP)—R.A.F. Mosquitoes bombed Western Germany last night, it was announced today as United States intelligence officers worked to compile a final acounting of Tuesday's epic sky battle over the Reich—a struggle now known to have cost the Nazis 152 fighters and seriously damaged three enemy aircraft factories.

The Air Ministry also announced R.A.F. Typhoons and fighters had shot down eight enemy planes yesterday during patrols over Northern France. One Typhoon was lost in this action.

The actual number of enemy fighters that fell before the blazing guns of the 700 United States bombers and 500 escorting planes, however may never be known.

"These figures," the 8th Air Force announcement said, "do not include enemy fighters that undoubtedly were shot down by United States bombers which fought to the last in the thickest of battles and of which the total loss now is known to be 60."

This was the heaviest loss in any U.S. air operation of the war.

Meanwhile, squadrons of planes drawn from Hitler's anti-invasion reserve were disclosed by Transocean yesterday to have been thrown into action in the vain effort to block the United States' air raiders.

The German propaganda agency indicated in a broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information that Germany had been forced to throw up virtually all available air units.

"It was openly admitted by authoritative military quarters," Transocean said, "that Luftwaffe (Air Force) squadrons which so far had been held in reserve for particular important operations shortly to be expected went into action Tuesday."

A new type of high-climbing Nazi fighter plane equipped with a "gliding bomb" was used against United States' bombers for the first time Tuesday, a German military spokesman told Swedish correspondents in Berlin last night.

(In Washington, War Secretary Stimson said the Germans were using a twin-engined bomber — the Junker 188—equipped to carry radio-controlled glider bombs in at-

American Bombers Resume Air Raids

BY GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 14 —(AP)—Westbound formations of American bombers, shepherded by swarms of fighters, returned from across the Channel today, apparently from their first raid since the mammoth air battle over Germany Tuesday.

The Allies at the same time resumed their big air offensive against the Germans' mystery targets on the northern French coast. All day relays of medium bombers and fighters streaked across the sun-lit strait, returning after short intervals.

Cassino Seige Will Be Costly Affair

8,000 Huns Taken Prisoner In Italy To Date

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 14 (AP) — Gen. Alphonse Juin's French forces pushed through Italy's rugged Apennines for a two-mile gain from the East and Americans advanced slightly from the South yesterday in an encircling assault on the natural and artificial defences of Cassino, which the Germans call their "Gustav Line," Allied Headquarters announced today.

The Americans repulsed a heavy German counter-attack on Cervaro about midnight Wednesday, then consolidated their gains and threatened the Nazi control of the Northern slopes of Mount Trocchio, just south of the Rome road and less than three miles from Cassino.

Network of Traps

But German resistance was extremely fierce in this final defensive belt around the next Allied objective, and the maze of weapon pits, road blocks, minefields, barbed wire entanglements and trenches, augmenting the natural defensive features of a north-south line through the village itself, guaranteed a desperate struggle before the point is taken.

High ground around the village, plus the banks of the rapid river on which the village is built, has been converted into what German prisoners called the "Gustav Line."

Referring to the tough fighting which took place for Cervaro and the mountain features beyond, an Allied commentator said the forthcoming battle of Cassino would be harder yet.

Attacking over a wide portion of the rugged Central Italian terrain, Gen. Juin's French forces captured the eastern slopes of Mount San Pietro in San Pietro ridge and completed the seizure of all Monna Casale range south of the Colli-Atina road.

The French now held all the high ground north, northeast and southwest of the village of Aquafondala, seven miles northeast of Cassino, and also had outflanked the village of Viticuso.

Mount Casale, 4,000 feet in height, overlook Aquafondala. To the southwest of this rugged, roadless feature, the French also captured 4,000-foot Mount Aquafondala, between the village and Mount Raimo which the French seized the day before.

Grows In Violence

The German communique said a "heavy battle is in full swing" in this section and that the fight was growing in violence.

A Headquarters recapitulation said that since the Allies landed in Italy they have taken 8,000 prisoners.

The Air Command said Guidonia and Centocelle airfields near Rome were raided with destructive force yesterday in a two-pronged attack, first by heavy bombers and then by medium bombers.

Heavy bombers and their protective fighters also shot up to Per-

KINGSTON, Jan. 14 — (CP)—Masculinity's sagging lines of defence retreated another step Wednesday with the election of Mrs. D. W. Boucher to the Board of Health, first woman in Kingston's history to hold this position.

Canada To Man Two British Escort Carriers

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(CP).—Navy Minister Macdonald told a press conference today the Canadian Navy will man two British Navy escort aircraft carriers sometime in the next few months, with the carriers remaining as units of the Royal Navy.

Mr. Macdonald said Canada will supply the officers and ratings to man the vessels while Britain will supply the ammunition, other stores and the aircraft.

The navy's decision to enter the carrier field in this limited way results from studies which the Minister announced in progress some time ago, and is believed to fit in with British plans and the British manpower situation.

It was not considered worthwhile for Canada to establish a fleet air arm and proceed to train fliers for it with a view to manning only two carriers and it was not anticipated a great number of these ships could be obtained.

The Canadian officers and ratings employed on the carriers, however, will obtain valuable experience which will be useful later on if the establishment of a fleet air arm with Canadian ships, and Canadian planes and Canadian airmen is desired.

Russian Leader Back 2 Years Behind Lines

MOSCOW, Jan. 14.—(AP).—Tass News Agency said to-day Col. Victor Livenstov, 25, commander of a White Russian guerilla brigade, had arrived in Moscow after two and a half years of operations behind German lines to discover he had been twice decorated with the Order of the Red Banner and had been given the title of "Hero of the Soviet Union."

Livenstov's brigade was credited with killing several thousand German troops and the destruction of a "huge quantity of Fascist equipment," including between 20 and 30 trains. The Germans were said to have placed a price of 100,000 marks on his head.

Russian Drive Gains Speed 11 Miles From Sarny

LONDON—The Russian Army today captured the regional centre of Mozyr and the rail junction of Kalinkovichi, clearing another important sector of the Zhlobin-Berdichev rail line for Red Army communications.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 14—(AP).—Soviet siege guns pounded the outflanked defences of Mozyr and Kalinkovichi, important rail centres on the northern edge of the Pripet Marshes, as Gen. Konstantin Rokossovsky's White Russian army gained momentum today in its drive toward Pinsk, 140 miles to the west on the Moscow-Warsaw railway. On the lower side of the frozen Pripet Marshlands 160 miles to the southwest, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army stormed the rail station at Tutovichi, 11 miles west of Sarny on the Kiev-Warsaw railway. His troops also captured Korets, 20 miles west of Novograd Volynski, and Brykov, nine miles further west.

Vatutin's centre also penetrated another important area of Nazi communications as pressure was increased on Rovno, 50 miles south of Sarny; Luck, 65 miles to the southwest, and Kovel, 80 miles to the west.

Loss of this area or deep penetrations such as are being effected would all but isolate the key city of Lwow by rail from the north and would make a tremendous bottleneck of that junction, already burdened by the heavy traffic moving through it on the Odessa-Warsaw trunk railway. Lwow is 85 miles southwest of Luck.

East of Sarny, Vatutin's lightning units were roaring out of the Pripet Marshes and beating down the railway in the direction of Kovel, 73 miles away.

These units were only about 95 miles east of the Curzon Line—demarcation line between Poland and Russia which was proposed by an Allied commission at the end of the First Great War and the line which the Soviet government has indicated it is willing to accept as a basis for negotiation now.

The Germans were availing themselves of the numerous rivers in this area to make a stand but Red Star dispatches said the Red infantrymen were throwing them out of one position after another

Excess Profits

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP).—The United States War Department, invoking the price adjustment law, today directed the Cleveland firm of Jack and Heintz, manufacturer of aircraft parts, to reduce by $7,000,000 the cost of products sold the Government during 1942. The Government contends this amount represented "excess profits."

Nelles Is Named To Post In Great Britain

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(CP).—Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles goes to London as senior Canadian flag officer and is succeeded as chief of the Canadian naval staff by Rear-Admiral George C. Jones, former vice-chief, it was announced at a press conference here today by Navy Minister Macdonald.

In commenting on the move, a navy press release said that the United Kingdom has assumed new importance as the area from which an attack against German-controlled Europe will be launched.

"In view of these impending great events it is felt that the senior Canadian naval officer in Britain should be an officer of high rank," it said.

At present, the senior Canadian naval officer in Britain is Capt. F. L. Houghton.

The statement made no mention of Capt. Houghton's next post. Nor did it say who would succeed Admiral Jones as vice-chief.

Cargo Shipping Increases

The press release said that last year Allied shipping losses were less than one-half of the 1942 figure. On the other hand, cargo shipbuilding by the United Nations was more than twice as great as it was in 1942.

"Last year saw spectacular successes against submarines in the North Atlantic and elsewhere," it continued. "Full and effective co-operations prevailed between the sea and air forces of Great Britain, the United States and Canada.

"Within the last few weeks decisive victories have been scored against German surface units. All in all, 1943 marked a great stride forward in the winning of the battle of the Atlantic.

"Canadian coastal waters, which in 1942 felt the presence of German submarines, were last year relatively free from this type of marauder. This condition may be attributed to the fact that the sea and air forces of Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom were able to engage German submarines well out at sea.

"Now however, other great events are impending. The United Kingdom has always formed one end of the Atlantic battleline, but now it assumes an additional importance as the area from which an attack against the German controlled regions of Europe will be launched. This attack will involve the fullest and most precise co-operation between sea, land and air forces. Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen will have their part to play in this great assault.

Dog Attacks Machine Gun Post

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 —(AP)—Chips, canine hero of Sicily who was enlisted in the United States Army after biting a Pleasantville, N.Y., garbageman, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for using similar tactics on the enemy, Dogs for Defence announced today.

Dogs for Defence, through which Chips went to war, said it had received a telegram from the army quartermaster corps which revealed Chips was the first dog in the country's history to receive the medal.

Maj.-Gen. Lucian Truscott added the ribbon to Chips' collar Nov. 19, citing the animal for "courageous action in singlehandedly eliminating a dangerous machine gun nest and causing the surrender of its crew."

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wren of Pleasantville are owners of the dog.

Cpl. William Haulk, Chips' handler, wrote the Wrens several months ago that Chips charged an Italian pillbox when enemy gunners opened fire on invading American soldiers. Haulk said the big animal leaped at the throat of an Italian machine-gunner, forcing him to surrender. The three other Italians in the pillbox followed suit promptly. Chips was wounded, but has recovered.

Eden Acting As Go-between For Two Governments; Poles In Debate Four Days

London Newspapers Follow Negotiations With Keen Interest
Censor Forbids Speculation On Statement

By JUDSON O'QUINN—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 14—(AP).—Belief that Poland's government in London is framing a conciliatory reply to the Soviet proposal that the Curzon Line divide the two countries was expressed today as the Polish Cabinet met to consider the problem for the fourth consecutive day.

The careful preparation given the statement indicated that it might be delayed. In the meantime British censorship prohibited speculation on the grounds that negotiations might be jeopardized.

However, London newspapers gave wide attention to the progress of the negotiations.

The Daily Express commented, "The Poles are weighing their reply word by word and obviously are in close contact with the British Government. Indications are the reply will be on the whole conciliatory."

The Polish Cabinet today heard a report on yesterday's long conversations between Foreign Secretary Eden and Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer and Ambassador to Britain, Count Edward Raczynski.

The Express noted that Mr. Eden, before seeing the Poles, had lunched with Fyodor Gusev, the Soviet ambassador.

The Times said that Mr. Eden and the Poles "closely examined the possibilities of meeting the Soviet proposal .. .. and discussed Soviet criticism of both the Polish Government here and the widespread under - ground movement in Poland which they direct. After hearing Mr. Eden's views on the whole complex problem the Polish Government decided to defer any public statement until later."

Disagreements among the Poles were suggested by three publications.

The Daily Worker said President Wladyslaw Racczkienwicz had threatened to resing if a moderate" line was taken to the Soviet proposal.

The Weekly Tribune commented "the Polish-Soviet conflict in fact has become a part of the intricate struggle between the Polish military clique and the civil government."

A new rump government, the "Polish Progressive Club," has been set up in London, the Daily Sketch said. The paper added that the club was claiming to represent Polish democratic circles in Britain and accusing the Polish London government of losing the advantage of Russian co-operation.

LONDON—The Ankara, Turkey, radio said today that the Japanese and Hungarian ministers to Bulgaria were killed in Monday's Allied bomber raids on Sofia, the Bulgarian capital.

Allied Troops 51 Miles From Akyab Port

NEW DELHI, Jan. 14 — (AP)—Allied troops, continuing their push down the western coast of Burma toward the Japanese base at Akyab, have advanced to a point four miles below captured Maungdaw, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters, announced today.

Capture of Maungdaw, 55 miles northwest of Akyab, was announced by the Allied commander for Southeast Asia Tuesday.

Today's announcement said advanced elements of the Allied forces had occupied the villages of Kanyidan and Dilpara, one mile and four miles respectively southeast of Maungdaw.

The advance is continuing slowly, the bulletin said, with the Japanese counterattacking and holding tenaciously to strongpoints along west foothills of the Mayu Range. Allied positions have been pushed forward to the east side of the range itself.

Guidonia Labs Left In Ruins

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

Air Headquarters in Italy, Jan. 14 (AP)—Heavy bombers of the United States 15th Air Force covered two enemy airdromes in the Rome area with large craters yesterday, leaving smoking ruins from one end to the other of the Guidonia experimental airport where Benito Mussolini's once shining air fleet was developed and tests made of jet propulsion.

Targets were at Guidonia, 15 miles northeast of Rome, and at Centrocelle, seven miles east. The airdrome at Perugia, 90 miles due north of Rome, was also attacked. Only moderate anti-aircraft fire was encountered over any of the targets.

Fighters kept possibly 40 enemy planes at a safe distance most of the time. Eight enemy planes were shot down for a loss of three American fighters.

The Italians had done some disguished experimental work at the Guidonia laboratories. It was there that they worked on jet propulsion several years ago. Whether the Germnas were continuing the experiments is not known, but the field has been an important base for Nazi planes operating over the Italian front.

The experimental buildings, workshops, an assembly plant, and hangars were said to have been severely damaged while the landing area was pocked with holes. A large explosion was observed in the experimental section of the airdrome and several aircraft were reported hit on the ground.

Athens Heavily Fortified

Germans Prepare For Balkan Invasion

ANKARA, Jan. 14.—(AP). — Two German divisions staged a mock defence of the city of Athens in day-long manoeuvres Wednesday, reports from Greece reaching here yesterday said. The Nazi High Command, these reports said, has set up a new Greek defence line which apparently envisages an Allied in- every island in the Aegean Sea with the Italian mainland.

The Germans were said to be sending smoke screen equipment to every island in the Agean Sea with orders to throw a smokescreen over the islands every time an alert is sounded.

Greek saboteurs, meanwhile, were reported to have blown up a 5,000-ton German supply ship in Salamais harbor Jan. 3. In revenge, the Nazis shot 30 Greek hostages.

The Nazi command in Greece is reported to have published a warning that thereafter when acts of sabotage were committee everything within an area of 25 miles around the spot would be destroyed. It was estimated 1,500,000 Greeks already had been made homeless since the German occupation.

Russians May Solve An Allied Problem

Poles May Take Nazi Territory And Doom Prussian Militarism

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

It begins to look as though the Russo-Polish territorial dispute, inflamable as it is, may in the long run help the Allies to a solution of one of their most difficult problems—that of wiping out the arrogant, swaggering, bullying Prussian militarism which for generations has been the curse of Europe and has whelped two World Wars within our time.

Much deepnds on whether the Poles and Moscow are able to get together for negotiations over the new Soviet proposal. News this morning from London, headquarters of the Polish Government, shows that the dispute is balanced on razor edge.

Russia has offered to negotiate on the basis of the so-called Curzon Line, which roughly is the frontier adopted by the Red Army when it occupied Eastern Poland in 1939. The Soviet intends to keep most of this territory, but is willing to discuss some adjustments of the border.

Counter Claim.

In addition— and this is where the fate of Prussian militarism is involved — the Russians offer Poland German territory which presumably would include East Prussia and part of Prussia proper—dominant state of the Reich. Now it is interesting — and perhaps a hopeful sign—that Moscow's willingness to see Poland make these annexations coincides with a claim already made by the Polish Government. Of course, the Poles also demand return of the area which Russia proposed to retain — but that's another side of the story

Last autumn Garol Popiel, Polish Minister of State, made this statement to an Associated Press correspondent in London:

"All the United Nations agree post-war occupation of Germany is necessary. It is obvious that the Poles, knowing the Germans better than anyone else, will take part in the obligation of serving as occupation authorities. This will not affect the eventuality of Poland having to bring part of certain German territories within her boundaries.

Doom Junkers.

"Certainly the territories east of the River Elbe, the area Germany cultivated for years as the home of the Herrenvolk area trying to displace the Slavonic peoples who formerly inhabited it, must be occupied and its German inhabitants reeducated (this area comprises a large section of Prussia).

"Silesia must return to Poland. East Prussia must be exterminated. It must be part of Poland."

"Extermination" of East Prussia—perhaps with transfer of all Germans back to the Fatherland — would remove one of the running sores of Eastern Europe. It's a hotbed of Junkerism. The Junker belong to the insufferable "Me-und-Gott" Prussian aristocracy, which believes that the Prussian race was born to rule and has maintained its supremacy with lash and sword.

Russians Entertain Fraser

Flagship Visits Northern Soviet Port

LONDON, Jan. 14 (CP-Reuters)—Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser, commander-in-chief of the home fleet, visited vice-Admiral Golovki, commander of the Soviet Northern Fleet, in a Russian port after the sinking of the Nazi battleship Scharnhorst, the Admiralty reported last night.

When H.M.S. Duke of York, Admiral Fraser's flagship, which participated in the Scharnhorst sinking off the North Cape of Norway, Dec. 26, steamed to an anchorage near a Soviet Navy Arctic base, Golovki boarded the ship and was welcomed by Fraser. It was the first time the Home Fleet flagship had visited a Soviet port.

A guard of honor played the Soviet anthem as the Russian Admiral toured the battleship and in the evening the Soviet Navy entertained British officers at a concert and party with National songs, dances and the music of Balalaikas.

Allied Teams Demolish 13 Jap Ships

Loaded With Troops Barges Take Heavy Pounding

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 14 (AP)—Allied planes and light naval craft, further undermining the Japanese position in northeastern New Guinea, have taken a toll of 13 more enemy barges and hammered the supply base and troop centre at Alexishafen with 104 tons of bombs.

The naval craft sank three barges carrying around 90 troops off Reis point and got two more while the enemy was loading them at Sio, an Allied communique sadi today.

Both Sio and Reis Point are in the vicinity of Kapugara River, where Australians are forcing the enemy from steep cliffs on the north bank. The Aussies have been overcoming stiff enemy rear guard opposition as they move toward the American invasion force at Saidor, about 55 miles northwest.

Barges and a 1,000-ton enemy cargo ship were destroyed or damaged by Allied aircraft striking at Hansa Bay and Bogadjim.

More than 60 dive bombers from Solomon Islands Allied bases, with an 80-plane fighter escort, treated Cape St. George, on the southern tip of New Ireland, to a precision bombing attack with 36 tons of explosives. Heavy bombers laid 36 tons of explosives on airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain.

Bombing Delays Bulgaria Trains

ISTANBUL, Jan. 14. — (AP). — Trains from Bulgaria failed to arrive at the Turkish frontier for 24 hours after Monday's day and night aerial blow against Sofia by Allied bombers.

Only two passengers from Bulgaria were aboard the Turkish train reaching here to-day from the border, and it was said police permits are required for entering and leaving Sofia and that the populace has been warned looting is punishable by summary shooting.

(An artitcle in a Swedish newspaper reported by the Office of War Information, declared "the whole of the railway traffic is paralyzed" in Bulgaria, and a Budapest broadcast recorded by U.S. Government Monitors said all automobiles in the vicinity of Sofia had been requisitioned to aid in evacuation of the Bulgarian capital.)

Feminine Touch

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 — (CP). —Defence headquarters on Wednesday chuckled over the recently married soldier who was ordered to a course of training and was told he must collect all the equipment ever issued to him and have it available for inspection.

He remembered the two hand towels. Yes, his wife knew where they were, and he breathed a long sigh of relief. She went to the linen cupboard and produced them, spotless.

But her husband turned blue. The towels were beautifully embroidered with bright thread, one labelled "His" and the other "Hers."

Aerial Jitneys Performing On All Fronts

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

AN AMERICAN AIRFIELD IN ITALY, Jan. 14—(AP)—The real gypsies of this war are the transport fliers who operate aerial jitneys and flying freightcars in war theatres around the world.

They are an offhand, likeable crew. They wear anything from Brazilian to British battle dress. They fly battered old planes that would give a civilian pilot the Sunday morning shudders and they take them anywhere on a moment's notice. There's been nothing quite like them since the barnstorming days after the First Great War.

They learn to know the airfields of two continents the way they used to know the streets of the old hometown; and the Mediterranean is just a blue puddle they cross so often they almost can call the waves by name.

Typical of these latter day Marco Polos is tall blond Lt. A. T. La Prade, 23, Phoenix, Ariz.

In nine months of knocking his transport plane around the Mediterranean, La Prade has carried everything from paratroops to whiskey.

The day before I saw him he had taken off from Casablanca, paused overnight in Algiers, then rambled on over to Italy. He thinks no more of a 3,000-mile round trip than a street-car motorman does of going out to the city limits and back.

He has flown some 300,000 miles in 2,000 hours in the air and the toughest grind came during the battle of Salerno.

"With one transport plane operating out of North Africa, we kept three P-38 fighter groups in Sicily supplied for two weeks," he said.

La Prade is proud of that feat. He is even prouder of the great job his transport outfit did earlier in the campaign, ferrying 100,000 gallons of gas—6,000,000 pounds—in three days to one of the Mediterranean island.

Munitions Output Will Be Slashed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP).—Progressively deeper cuts in United States Arms production in the next 18 months were forecast yesterday in President Roosevelt's budget message.

Analysis of figures on war spending indicate that outlay for munitions, including ships, will drop to a rate of $62,000,000,000 annually in the first six months of this year.

For the 12 months starting July 1 the rate was set at $56,700,000,000.

The figures represent sharp reductions from the $69,600,000,000 rate achieved in November, the last month for which estimates on war spending are available from the War Production Board.

High Park Rink Captures Women's Trophy

By HERB MARTIN

The wintry day draws near a close,
The wintry suns descend,
The cannon booms, the lists are still,
The ladies' bonspiel ends.

As the High Park lady curlers go, so goes the ladies' bonspiel. For the second straight year, a rink skipped by a member of the Toronto High Park Curling Club has captured first place and the Warne Trophy in the Peterborough ladies' open bonspiel. Last year Mrs. Code of High Park, won the honours and this year it was captured by Mrs. G. Abel of the same club.

Mrs. J. Medland of Toronto Granites, came second and Mrs. G. Wood, Peterborough, third.

In one of the best bonspiels ever sponsored by the ladies of the Peterborough club, play came to a conclusion on Thursday afternoon around five o'clock. It would be rather difficult to point to any particular game as the highlight of the series. They were all good. The spectators who on No. 8 watched the games, first watched one game and then another, and all agreed that the curling was above the average.

Close Battles.

So close were the games at the finish that one or two points separated the winners from the runners-up. It was only by the untiring efforts of the different committees that the bonspiel went over in such a big way.

In presenting the prizes J. W. E. Thomas, president of the men's club, said that he was sorry that all could not win and commented it was about as near as he had come to any prize for a great number of years. He thanked all for coming and hoped to see them again next season.

The visiting rinks spoke in glowing terms of the cordial reception they had received and of the hospitality of all. They promised to come back to the next bonspiel.

Prize Winners.

Behind No. 8.

Imagine the winner of last year's bonspiel losing three straight games. They must have had a "Code" all their own.

Judging by the reports and also some of the stories that are going around, the ladies must have had a swell time at the banquet on Wednesday night.

Win or lose it's alll the same to Mrs. (Dr.) Brereton. She comes back smiling.

Speaking about one of our lady curlers, one chap said: "What we have we Holt."

Strange as it may seem, Mrs. G. Wood of the local club took third place last year and third again this.

The two Macs from Bobcaygeon could not get going. Mrs. McIntosh and her daughter, Mrs. McDonald.

It was one continual round of pleasure from daylight till dusk.

The next big event for the ladies is the playing for the Ontario Tankard early in February.

Sailors Injured When Wave Upsets Seaboat

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Jan. 4.—(CP).—Six crewmen of the Canadian Corvette Agassiz, answering a call for aid as a convoy struggled through a North Atlantic storm, took to a 17-foot seaboat and braved heavy seas and subsequent injuries to transfer a medical officer to a United States' merchantman.

The merchantman signalled for a doctor to treat an injured officer, and in a matter of minutes the seaboat pulled away from the Agassiz on the first leg of its mercy mission.

In the four-oared dinghy were Lieut. Robert Douty, Leading Seaman W. C. Shaw, Winnipeg; Able Seamen Roland Poitras, Montreal; Dale Hudgins, Belleville, Ont.; M. J. Mayhew, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., and Signalman T. I. Moore, Montreal.

Their first task was to reach the convoy's rescue ship, which carried a doctor. This wasn't easy, said Douty in his account of the trip.

Shipped Water.

"We had trouble getting alongside the rescue ship because we had taken a good deal of water on the way over and the boat was hard to control. To add to the discomfort, the ship was rolling heavily, and we were whizzing up and down its side like an express elevator.

"But finally we got a line fast, and during the course of the terrific upswings the doctor and a sick berth attendant managed to leap off the ladder into the boat." Names of the doctor and the attendant were not disclosed in the navy press release describing the trip.

The seaboat, said Douty, finally manoeuvred close to the merchantman's side ladder.

"The boat began behaving like an express elevator all over again. We saw that the ship was in ballast and riding very high. The rope ladder seemed to disappear up into the midst. The doctor managed to grab on, and scrambled away up the ladder with the boat a close second, chasing him up."

Scooped Off Ladder

The sick berth attendant followed the doctor part way up, but the boat "boiled after" him and scooped him back on board.

The freighter rolled far over and down on the seaboat, tipping it so that the boat's crew were spilled out between the boat and the ships' side.

There was a crash, said Douty, and when spray had subsided "I could see Mayhew hanging on to the signalman and another member of the boat's crew.

"One Canadian rating had been thrown against the freighter's side. His shoulder injured, he was hanging over the stern of the boat, half-conscious. The attendant had a broken wrist and a black eye, and seemed in need of a sick berth attendant himself. Another man had a sprained shoulder."

The boat was filled with water but the freighter soon moved off and the lifeboat slipped out from under her stern.

The Agassiz picked them up within half an hour. The injured attendant was treated by his opposite number in the Agassiz. The crew were given coffee and other restoratives, and soon afterwards said they left little the worse for their experience.

Lou Marsh Award Will Not Be Made

TORONTO, Jan. 14 — (CP). — There will be no award of Lou E. Marsh Memorial trophy to civilian athletes in Canada for the duration of the war, it was announced today by Charles E. Ring, donor of the trophy and a member of the board of judges in charge of the award.

The award, made annually since 1937 to the outstanding Canadian athlete of the preceding calendar year, is in in memory of the late Lou E. Marsh, former sports editor of the Toronto Star.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(AP).—The Berlin radio, quoting a Milan dispatch, said Dominico Mittica, identified as a Lieutenant-General in the Italian militia and one of the Verna Judges who sentenced Count Galeazzo Ciano to death last Monday, was killed to-day in an automobile accident.

Soccer Stamina Amazing To U.S. Writer

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Writer

LONDON, Jan. 14—(CP)—Now I know why the British were able to take it at Dunkirk and Singapore.

I know why the people on this tough old island can stand the hardships of war and weather.

I have just seen my first professional soccer match—a combination of football, hockey and mass murder.

This, I am told, is the sport on which British youngsters grow up, just as American kids play baseball from the time they are big enough to hold a bat and throw a ball.

Such being the case, all the mystery surrounding the ruggedness of an Englishman's constitution is wiped away.

Here is a game which requires the strength and stamina of a young ox to be a player and the spirit and cunning of a commando to be a spectator.

The weather was the kind that would have kept an Eskimo indoors but these stout lads skipped around in scanty attire. From any place in the spacious stands you could see their breath on the frosty air.

For 45 minutes they charged up and down a field larger than an American gridiron with no time out except for an injury and no substitution even in that emergency.

One player went down and didn't get up. He had to be carried off the field. His ten teammates went right on without him.

Strenuous Second Half

But that was only the half of it. After a 15-minute rest, all 22 players returned to the field, including the chap who had to be helped to the sidelines, and they went at it again for another 45 strenuous minutes.

Even more amazing than the stamina exhibited by these topflight professionals is the dexterity with which they use their feet and heads to propel the ball, which can be touched with the hands only by the goal keepers.

And if the players deserve any credit for contributing to the ruggedness of Britain's inhabitants down through the generations, an equal share should go to those hardy souls who find their way into the spectators' seats only by dint of iron will and brute force.

Twenty-five thousand fans made their way into this arena, which is more of a trick than it sounds. The park seems larger than New York's Polo Grounds but with about one-tenth the facilities for getting in and out.

Then there was a little matter of transportation. The field is located in the suburbs of London, far from any railroad or underground station. Private automobiles have almost disappeared in London and taxicabs are hard to find. That leaves only the busses for transportation.

The game was between Arsenal and West Ham, two of the best pro teams in England. The final score was 1 to 1—they told me.

has had representatives in London from the beginning of the war. At present the senior Canadian naval officer is Capt. F. L. Houghton, R.C.N., who assumed his duties some months ago. Capt. Houghton has already done splendid service to the Canadian Navy at London, but in view of impending great events it is felt that the senior Canadian naval officer in Britain should be an officer of high rank.

"Realizing the great importance of the overseas post, and bearing in mind the tasks that lie ahead of the Canadian Navy, it has been decided that vice-admiral Percy W. Nelles, C.B., R.C.N., should assume the post of senior Canadian flag officer overseas.

"He will have general supervision of the affairs of the Royal Canadian Navy overseas, and the utmost confidence is felt that his long experience and distinguished service with the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy can be put to the best possible advantage in this new post."

Chief 10 Years

Admiral Nelles, a native of Brantford, Ont., entered the Navy in 1908 at 16 and has been Chief of Naval Staff for 10 years.

He served in the First Great War and in 1928 became the first Canadian-trained officer to command a British cruiser when he served as Acting Captain of H.M.S. Dragon.

He attended the Imperial Defence College in 1933 and in 1934 was appointed Chief of Naval Staff. His promotion to Vice-Admiral came in 1941.

Admiral Jones, a native of Halifax, entered the Royal Navy College of Canada in 1911 and has had wide seagoing and administrative experience in the Navy. At the outbreak of war he was serving as Captain of Canadian destroyers, commanding H.M.C.S. Ottawa.

He later commanded the destroyer Assiniboine and served as commanding officer Halifax force and commanding officer Atlantic coast before coming to Ottawa as Vice-Chief of Naval Staff little more than a year ago. He is Canadian Naval member of the joint defence board and was promoted rear-admiral in 1941.

NameEmergency Fuel Boards

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(CP).—Local emergency fuel boards have been set up to deal with fuel problems in the Ottawa, Hull, Que., and Brockville, Ont., districts, the Munitions Department announced today.

The new boards will act under the direction of C. H. Labarge, regional solid fuel representative.

Chairman of the Brockville district board is W. H. Comstock. The others on the board are: J. R. Bresnan and M. MacNaughton, Brockville; Miss Ruby James, Perth; Bert Soper, Smiths Falls; Charles Plumb, Prescott; Harry Redden, representing Cardinal, Iroquois and Morrisburg; Harry Webster, representing Athens and surrounding territory including Lyndhurst, Delta and Westport.

A similar board has already been established for the Pembroke district, and others will be set up in Hawkesbury and Cornwall.

Egg Producers Want Long Term Contract

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 — (CP). — The National Poultry Conference to-day continued its study of reports with the objective of approving detailed suggestions for improvement of the national poultry policy.

With nearly 100 delegates present, the meeting last night considered interim reports which recommended, among other things, a long-term contract for the supply of eggs to the United Kingdom, a Dominion Board to purchase poultry product surpluses when necessary, and checks on the movement of cross-bred chicks.

In connection with overseas markets, Dominion Agricultural Minister Gardiner said in an address before the conference last night that Canada must look to them to take surplus agricultural products after the war. He said home consumption after the war could not be much larger than it was before and Canadians must sell to other lands.

Parliament Opens Next Tuesday, Feb. 22

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(CP).— The first session of Ontario's 21st Legislature will open Tuesday, Feb. 22, Premier Drew announced to-day after conferring with Lieutenant Governor Albert Matthews.

The Premier said the opening date was later than usual to avoid having to adjourn until the Dominion budget is brought down.

"Because of the wide powers under the War Adminstration Act, the Dominion budget has considerable influence on Provincial legislation, particularly on Provincial finances, he said. "A break in the main session would be very inconvenient for members."

He recalled that in the last two years the session was adjourned for the Federal government's budget.

Murder Trial Starts Monday

HAMILTON, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Trial of Joseph Kennedy, charged with the Thanksgiving Day murder of Mrs. Betty Edwards, 23, will open in Supreme Court here Monday with Mr. Justice A. W. Greene of Toronto presiding.

E. D. Hickey has been appointed by the Attorney-General's Department to defend the 52-year-old candy maker, committed for trial on the murder charge at a preliminary hearing October 22.

Body of Mrs. Edwards was found in the cellar of her home by firemen who answered an alarm from the address and found that several fires had been set. Her two children, Geraldine 5 and Robert 2, were rescued from a second storey bedroom.

LAC John B. Edwards of the R.C.A.F., husband of the murdered woman, was one of the witnesses heard at the preliminary hearing

Reckoning Near

LONDON, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Handbills reading "Pick your Dutch Nazi in time for the Day of Liberation" have been posted on the trees, walls and billboards throughout Holland, a young refugee told the Netherlands news agency, Aneta.

As a result of the fact that the Netherlanders are making no secret of their intention to deal with Dutch war criminals themselves when the time comes, Dutch Nazi storm troopers no longer swagger down the streets, Aneta said.

Ernie Powers Handles Return Bout

Earl McCready versus Karl Davis, plus the senior referee of the Ontario Athletic Commission, Ernie Powers. That's the main bout and the official third man in the Brock Arena ring for Tuesday night's big wrestling card.

It's an arrangement that probably will be highly satisfactory to most of the fans here. After their bout here last Tuesday, in which McCready became so violent that Referee Bert Maxwell felt he had earned a disqualification, feelings ran high and the Athletic Commission have agreed to send huge Ernie Powers, their senior official to see that both men observe the rules.

As to the bout itself it should be one of those ring-tailed snorters that develop in the boxing and wrestling rings every once in a while. McCready is still at a white heat over the tactics which Davis used in the bout and those who saw him in the final round are well aware of how he will go at Davis the next time he collides with that brash Texan. Unpopular as he is, Davis has shown that he has plenty on the ball and in fact is one of the great opportunists of the game.

Although outclassed in many scientific moves by Earl the 'Moose,' nevertheless Karl the 'Krippler' was smart enough to take immediate advantage of the referee's laxity and hold the Canadian even until the latter's disqualification. In fact it was McCready's wild display of temper at Davis' trickery which undid the Aurora Farmer. Next Tuesday's battle will have the experienced and capable two hundred and fifty pound Ernie Powers riding here as official and this time it looks as if even the wily Davis is due for a thrashing.

Cheese Output Down 20,000 Lbs.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14. — (ENS).— Though production was down some 20,000 pounds at Crow Bay Cheese and Butter Company, patrons could feel somewhat compensated by the fact they had improved the quality of their product. This was the opinion expressed by Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray who was on hand with a review of comparative figures, at the annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon when Hector Arnold was named to begin his thirteenth term as president of the company.

Secretary Ray Thompson presented the financial statement, disclosing the forty-one patrons had sent a total of 2,263,216 pounds of milk to the factory (2,535,652 in '42) and from this 200.556 pounds of white cheese had been manufactured compared to 220,933 in the preceding year. It took 11.78 pound of milk to produce a pound of cheese and for every pound of fat they got 2.65 pounds. The total value of the cheese (exclusive of bonus) was $29,998.61, while whey cream brought an additional $1,074.20; Dominion premiums on quality yielded $3,574.68; Provincial subsidy, $4,011.12 and milk subsidy $951.33. This all added up to patrons receiving an average of 57.66 cents per pound of fat or $1.84 per hundred of milk.

According to Instructor Murray of 2,186 boxes of cheese sold, 338 were 95's; 1,424 were 94's; 350 were 93's; 43 were 92's, and 31 were classed as undergrades. This gave the patrons 97.4 per cent. production in the premium class and made their average score 93.9, fractionally better than the 93.68 it was in 1942. It gave Crow Bay patrons "a very high score," said Mr. Murray and put them in fifth place among the twenty factories in his district. He felt the cheese-maker, Cyril McKeown, was particularly deserving of commendation with the year's output ahead in three important categories—a higher percentage of 1st grade cheese; higher percentage of premium cheese and higher average score than in the preceding year.

President Hector Arnold, a director of the Provincial Cheese Producers' Association, gave a report on the Association's meeting with the Federal Minister of Agriculture. Most important part of this report was the Minister's assurance that the price question was being given consideration and that it was altogther likely the winter subsidy would be maintained throughout the coming season. Mr. Arnold saw this as a definite move towards increased production in 1944 provided pasture conditions were favourable.

Dairy Instructor Murray presided for the election of officers which resulted in Mr. Arnold's being re-elected president and the following directors being chosen: Bill Petherick, Thos. Brunton, Albert Petherick, Garnet Lloyd, Aylmer Petherick, William Ingram.

Institute Members Plan To Hold Supper

MARMORA, Jan. 14—(ENS). — Marmora Women's Institute which met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Eugene Brady, was held in honor of the grandmothers and was their night. The treasurer's report showed a creditable balance and reports of social welfare, war work, and visiting committees were given. The appropriation of $100 was decided upon as follows: Marmora Branch Canadian Legion $15, Marmora Community War Workers $25, Canadian Red Cross $15, Navy League $15, Russian Relief $15, British War Victims Fund $15.

A paper under historical research entitled "History of Early Residents of Marmora" was given by Mrs. W. R. Lavender. An exhibit of wearing apparel belonging to the grandmothers of present members of the Institute was shown. Mrs. E. C. Prentice conducted a spelling bee which was won by Mrs. G. Hazlett. Mrs. J. A. Rice staged a drawing contest with lights out, and Mrs. Frank Sweet gave a reading, "Clothes Patching in Olden Times."

Rheumatic Aches— Pains—Backache

In 24 to 48 Hours Pains Are Relieved —You Get Rest and Comfort Again

Now as never before men and women must keep themselves fit and ready for work. So when you've tried everything you can think of and nothing seems to even relieve the pain and soreness, don't give up hope—just go to Lynch's Drug Store or any good druggist and get a bottle of Allenru. Take as directed and in about 24 hours you should see a real improvement. You needn't be afraid of Allenru containing dope of any kind—it doesn't; such things are only makeshifts and can at best give only partial relief.

Allenru acts 3 ways: (1) to relieve the pain; (2) to correct the bowels; (3) as a gentle diuretic to the kidneys, flushing out excess acids.

The very first bottle is guaranteed to show results and justify your confidence. If for any reason you are dissatisfied, take back the empty bottle and get your money back.—(Advt.)

Magistrate Reserves Decision On Securities Act Charge

COBOURG, Jan. 14—(ENS)—Arthur W. Cockburne of Sutton, securities salesman, appeared in police court Thursday on a charge that on December 11, 1942 he sold securities to Mrs. Lillian Plews of Cobourg and that at the time he promised that he would repurchase or resell the shares, contrary to the Securities Act. He pleaded not guilty and at the conclusion of the case, Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved his decision until February 3. It was the first case under that charge ever tried here and the court had no law reports on previous cases tried elsewhere under that section of the Act. Harry Deyman appeared for the Crown and T. M. Mungovan of Toronto for the defendant.

Mrs. Lillian Free of Cobourg, daughter of the complainant, testified that on December 11, 1942, Cockburne called at their home to sell some stock. Her mother had done business with him on previous occasions. She related that he advised her to sell her American Loblaws and Garden Realty stock as his offering of Santa Fe Gold Mines was better stock and would yield better returns. The result was that her mother agreed to exchange her Loblaws and Garden Realty for the equivalent in Santa Fe Gold and in addition bought 100 shares of the gold mine stock for $80, or a total of 600 shares of Santa Fe. The accused, both before and after the transaction, she testified, said that if her mother at any time wanted to realize on her investment he would buy her stock back from her.

In aJnuary of the next year, the Santa Fe stock was received in exchange for the Loblaws and the Garden Realty. She retained the Santa Fe for two weeks and then sent it back to the brokerage firm by which Cockburne was employed and it was only after two or three letter that she got a reply. Cockburne wrote her to advise that he would call in February of that year, 1943, at her home in regard to changing the stock. However, he never called, she testified.

Letter Ruled Out

Mr. Deyman attempted to put in a letter sent by Mrs. Free to Cockburne's employer but the court ruled it out when defence counsel objected on the grounds that letter was to the company and not to the accused. Mrs. Free testified further that the Santa Fe stock was never returned. Under cross-examination she denied that the accused had told her and her mother that the Santa Fe would not be developed until after the war due to war-time regulations.

Dr. Edgar Hayden was called to give evidence that Mrs. Plews was suffering from a heart ailment and could not be brought to court to give evidence. The taking of her evidence was done at her home and court later resumed in the town hall. Mrs. Plews testified that Mr. Cockburne had made the reference to repurchase of the stock at the conclusion of the transaction.

Frank Fisher, Toronto, auditor on the Securities Fraud Commission staff, stated that Cockburne had been registered as a stock salesman from February of 1933 to February 1943. When the company for whom he worked was investigated and the owner convicted, Cockburne and the other salesmen were suspended as registered salesmen. Defence counsel objected to Fisher producing letters between complainant and the company, and didn't apply to Cockburne. The court ruled out the correspondence. While the Santa Fe stock was qualified for sale through registered brokers in Ontario by the Securities Fraud Commission, it did not signify that the Commission endorse or approved the stock, Mr. Fisher said.

No Influence

Defence counsel contended that Mrs. Plews, who was the actual party involved in the transaction, had testified that the promise of the accused to repurchase the stock, had been made after the sale, and that her evidence was to be preferred to that of Mrs. Free. The promise in that regard had been made after the transaction had been completed and the cheque handed over, and was not to be regarded as influencing the sale.

Crown Attorney Deyman disputed the point that the transaction had been completed, stated that the certificates were not delivered until January.

"If after the transaction she had asked him to resell the stock and he had told her that the stock was no good, she could have stopped payment on the cheque as the stock had not been delivered," Mr. Deyman declared.

"Once the contract had been signed and money paid over, it was enforceable and Mrs. Plews could collect, if she so desired, when the stock went up, or the company could have sued her for payment," replied defence counsel.

James O. Benor Is Chairman

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14 — (ENS). — James O. Benor, chairman of the Utilities Commission for the 12th successive term, reported revenue from both the electric and water departments had grossed $59,153.58 an increase of roughly $6,000 above the preceding year.

Mr. Benor's election to the chairmanship was made at the Board's inaugural meeting last night. In a brief address to members he thanked them for again honoring him with the chairmanship, and congratulated Mayor Frank Long and Commissioner C. Davidson on their return to office by acclamation. To Mr. Davidson who was beginning his 43rd year in public life and his 12th year on the Board (two as mayor) Chairman Benor felt the acclamation had been a tribute to his many years of service.

A communication from the Ontario Municipal Electric Association was read and on motion the commission re-newed its membership. From the Uemployment Insurance Commission was a form letter enclosing a certificate of permanency for Charles Duncalfe who was recently taken on the staff at the water works. After being signed by members the form released the commission from contributing unemployment insurance for this employee. Manager P. C. Denyes revealed that the freezing order on iron water pipe had been cancelled and it was now possible to obtain pipe for necessary public works. Along this same line he said the Commission was merely awaiting arrival of a shipment of wire which was the only hold up on the planned new lights for Sebastopol street. With weather conditions being favourable the new fixtures would be installed within a week.

Public Meeting

Referring to the question of the war planning Mayor Long intimated that he call a meeting to discuss the matter during the latter part of January. "I hope that the citizens as a whole will take an interest in this meeting," said the Mayor declaring that a Memorial Park, incinerator and town hall were among the possible projects already being considered. However feeling the Utilities were being left out of the planning Chairman Benor quickly drew attention to the fact that they would have a considerable amount of post war work today and this was headlined by a water storage tank which he deemed was an essential "must." Mr. Benor said: "For many years the commission had helped the ratepayers (by annual grants) and since 1926 over $200,000 has been handed over to the town but this has never reduced taxes by 5 cents. This has been done at a considerable sacrifice to the Utilities and if we now begin to fix up our plant and transmission lines as they should be we will in the future be able to increase the sale of power in town at reduced rates." Though the Mayor inferred that the Commission already had a "$25,000 nest egg" the chairman maintained this was only a "flea bite" in contrast to what should be done. At the plant alone he declared repairs should be made to the water wheel, governors and to transformers and so far as the water storage system was concerned there were no reliable estimates of the cost.

To Hold Caucus

Commando Raid

LONDON, Jan. 14—(CP).— A Reuters dispatch from Zurich said last night that many German officers had been seriously wounded by hand grenades thrown into a restaurant at Nice in what was "believed to be a French commando raid from Corsica."

The dispatch said the bomb-throwers escaped in a speedboat. The Nazis, it added, immediately imposed an 8 p.m. curfew on the city's restaurants for this interruption of their dinner.

W.M.S. Stresses World Unity

HAVELOCK, Jan. 14 — (ENS). Taking for the study theme "The Grace of Living and Working Together" when studied from a global outlook. was dealt with by Mrs. C. Price at the Women's Missionary meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herbert Williams.

It awakens interest and enlarges vision by revealing instances of a world-wide fellowship of people, all different but with a deep unity, working together towards a better world order, she declared. Starting with the first unit, the family and home, then the school then the churches, and finally with the great leaders of the world their oneness with God is the secret of their unity, Mrs. Price asserted.

The president, Mrs. George Chiles presided over the devotional service. Mrs. C. Spencer led in prayer for the children and youth in the church, and Mrs. A. Anderson gave a short talk on the spreading of the Gospel and explained the Sunday School in the Home by Mail and Air.

A program from the Presbyterial to be held in Peterborough on January 25 was dealt with, and Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson was appointed delegate, to be accompanied by Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. E. Fennell and Mrs. C. Spencer.

Progams for the year were distributed, naming the hostess, the study leader and the roll call for each meeting. Arrangements were made for a candle-lighting service and installation of officers in the church on Sunday night. A special meeting is called for January 31 at the home of Mrs. Rae Williams to interest the young married women of the church. Mrs. Herbert Hoard read a poem "The Indian Road" and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. John Kinnaird.

J. H. Marsh Remanded

COBOURG, Jan. 14 — (ENS).— J. H. Marsh of Montreal was remanded for a week on $3,000 bail when he appeared in police court Thursday on a charge of obtaining $50 by fraud from Roy McCracken at Port Hope on February 17, 1943.

Fear Malaria

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 14 —(AP).—Maj. Charles H. Manlove, chief of the laboratory service branch of Baxter General Hospital here, says malaria may become a prominent national health problem as a result of importation of the disease by service men. Addressing the Spokane Medical Society yesterday he said the United States already had a malaria "band" extending south from New York, then westward through southern states and then north again through California.

Priest Given Gold Chalice

MARMORA, Jan. 14 (ENS)—The January meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the school on Wednesday evening when a gold challice was presented to Rev. H. J. Farrell as the highlight of the meeting.

A number of "Thank you" notes from sick and shut-ins who had received Christmas baskets were read. Mrs. Black also advised the members of Christmas Cheer baskets which had been sent out to needy families, and gave special thanks to Mrs. Hannah Auger who had arranged for the sending of them.

Mrs. Black announced that a donation of stamps had been sent to the Sisters of Service and also gave a full report of the work accomplished during the past year. Father Farrell addressed the members, congratulating them on the success of their efforts during the past year, the large amount of money raised and the co-operative spirit that exists among the members. Arrangements were made to hold a bingo in the first week in February. Ten games of bingo were then played followed by lunch.

Institute Holds Pot Luck Supper

CAMPBELLFORD Jan. 14 — (ENS). — Upwards of 75 were the guests at a pot luck supper that took the place of the Janary meet of Seymour East Women's Institute on Wednesday evening. The affair was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murray and the guests included husbands and friends of institute members. It was the first such supper the Insitute had held in two years and was designed both as a social affair and as a means of directing attention to the work being done.

George Airhart was the chairman of the program which was in charge of the Janie Canucks, while John Coggins was the very efficient song leader of the evening with Miss Elsie Rannie assisting at the piano. The program included a guitar solo by Mrs. Fred Thompson, piano solos by Misses Marjorie Wallace and Dorothy Eagleson; vocal solo by John Coggins, reading, Mrs. George Craighead. At the close of Institute President Mrs. Jesse Locke made a motion of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Murray for their hospitality and to the Janie Canucks for their part in arranging the program.

Home At Last

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 (AP) — Sgt. Frank Rocke, veteran of 50 bombing raids in North Africa, arrived home for the first time since he entered the army 19 months ago. The Christmas tree lights shone through the front windows of his home—but his Christmas presents were not there. They were sent to him abroad last October and haven't caught up with him yet.

Poland—The Phoenix Of Europe

It is impossible to make sense of the present dispute about the border of Poland unless due weight is given to the story of Poland since the seventeenth century; it has been a tale of ups and downs of constitutional upheavals and partitions; the territories of Poland, once great, have been whittled away by her neighbours to east and west. Indeed, after Kosciusko's ill-fated attempt to restore his country's greatness in 1794, Poland was rent apart by Prussia, Austria, and Russia, and disappeared from the map for more than a century. But during that century the Polish people endured every sort of political humiliation, ranging from the out-and-out tyranny of the Prussians to the very limited autonomy allowed them by Czar Alexander I. Poland saw its chance in the Great War of 1914-18, and with the assistance of Britain, France and Italy emerged at Versailles as an independent and united country, its border with Russia being the "Curzon Line". The Phoenix had risen from its ashes.

The Curzon Line—so called because it was established by a commission headed by the British Foreign Secretary, Lord Curzon,—was drawn to agree with areas of population and to afford grounds for a peace between Poland and Russia. It ran from Grodno in the north to Brest-Litovsk some 150 miles southward, and then it followed the southeast course of the Bug River along the border of Czechoslovakia. But the establishment of the Line did not end the Polish-Russian war; Russia was weakened by revolution, and Poland saw a chance to revenge itself for a century of humiliation; the fight continued until 1921, and when it ended the Treaty of Riga gave Poland 87,000 square miles of what had been Russian territory, inhabited predominantly by Russians.

It was this large area which Russia snatched back when Germany invaded Poland in 1939; and it must also be stressed that the 1939 partition of Poland by Germany and Russia gave the latter country an added 3,800 square miles of territory which was indisputably Polish. There has been grabbing on both sides, and long-standing grudges are responsible for that grabbing.

Russia now offers Poland the Curzon Line as a border, suggesting that Poland may take East Prussia to give her an outlet to the sea, better than her former narrow Polish Corridor with its port of Gdynia. Whether the inclusion of Danzig in Poland is considered has not been made clear.

It is very important that this dispute should be settled amicably now. Russia is willing to accept the Curzon Line if Poland will do so, and would like Poland to join with Russia and Czechoslovakia in a mutual assistance pact to check any future German move toward the east.

Britain and the U.S. have not been officially invited to help in settling this problem, though they have been consulted by Poland, and there are signs that Russia wants to make a deal which will satisfy everybody of her honest intentions. At the time of writing the latest news says that the Polish authorities in London are beginning to think more kindly of the Russian proposal.

It is to be hoped that if Poland acquires territory in the west that she will take only what she can adequately hold. Otherwise, the seed of further dissatisfaction, Prussian grievance and future war will have been sown. If Russia helps Poland to extend her western dominion, we hope that Russia will be prepared to guarantee the new order. When the Polish phoenix rises again from her ashes the peace makers must see that she is strong enough in herself, and strong enough in her friendships, to resist future aggression from the west.

The Last Of The Shakers

At Lebanon, New York, there died recently Miss Emma J. Neal who, at the age of 97, was one of the last remaining adherents of the once thriving religious sect of Shakers. The Shakers were undoubtedly a strange group. It was their belief that God was both male and female, and that most men and women partook of the nature of both sexes. Truly great spirits, they believed, had one sex only, and Christ was regarded as having been wholly male. The leader of their own sect, Mother Ann Lee, they regarded as wholly female, and her appearance on earth, they held, was the true Second Coming.

Having been inaugurated in England in the eighteenth century, the Shakers emigrated to America in 1774, and for a time their colony flourished. But it flourished by conversion only, for the Shakers did not marry and did not reproduce. They did not care to take notice of the facts of sex, believing them to be impure. Shakers were not prevented from marrying, but it was made clear to them that such an act was a decided concession to the carnality of their natures, and would mitigate against their holiness. In Shaker settlements men and women mingled for work and devotion, but they kept apart at all other times.

As has been shown many times before in history, it is impossible to outrage nature and survive. The uncompromising celibacy of the Shaker sect has brought its own retribution, and there are now less than 150 Shakers left in the world, and conversion to their belief is not progressing very rapidly.

The Shakers lived lives of unremitting industry. They had no use for art or science and one of their few accomplishments was unusual skill in the manufacture of applesauce. The secrets of their worldly applesauce survive, but their spiritual applesauce seems likely to die with them.

The I.O.D.E. Book Collection

The I.O.D.E. is at present engaged in a campaign to collect books for the men in the services; those who have no books to give are given the chance to contribute money for the cause. We hope that this campaign will be successful in Peterborough.

Men in training, particularly, have many hours which they must spend with whatever means of recreation are at hand. Nothing is so helpful to them as a good library, and these libraries can only be available to them if we give the books. We know of stations where men are on coastal patrol duty in which books are passed from hand to hand until they literally fall apart. The gift of a book or two is a small thing, but the pleasure which it provides is great.

The men in the forces are interested in the same books which interest you personally. Out-of-date technical books, novels of the 'nineties, children's books and old almanacs are no good to them, and such junk should not be offered in a drive of this kind. Fiction, history, biography and scientific books are what the men in the services want. Let us see that they get them. When the I.O.D.E. asks you if you have any books for their collection, see what you can do.

Mild Weather To Come

Aircraftmen should know as much about the weather as anyone, and the men who teach aircraftmen about the weather should be as nearly infallible as any weather prophets anywhere. It really means something, therefore, that Robert D. Edwards, who teaches the ways of the weather to the students of the Naval Flight Preparatory School of Colgate University at Hamilton, N.Y., should have said recently: "We have already seen the worst of this winter and may see some unseasonably mild weather between the end of January and the middle of March". And he goes on to predict a hot spell during the second week of June, and a cold winter in 1945.

The worst of this winter over! No frozen ears, frostbitten feet or moustache icicles to come? We can hardly believe it. We do not want to fly in the face of Mr. Edwards, who probably has impressive charts and instruments with which to back up his opinion, but we have seen milder winters than this suddenly turn into the ramping, raging, Arctic sort, setting furnaces and hot-water bottles at defiance. We hope that we may go for a moonlit walk in our pyjamas on St. Valentine's day, but we are not counting on it at present.

In the world depression following 1929 there was much distress in Canada as in many other rich countries. Such distressing periods have recurred again and again in the history of nations for which it is difficult to diagnose the reasons. The Journal has assuredly no wish to minimise the responsibility of all of us to aim to combat social distress by all vigorous and generous means in our power, whether national or individual; but the causes of periods of depression are rarely local, or even national, nor is there common sense in pointing to such periods as illustrative of normal national conditions. But even for unemployment, there are causes which are not local or national, and which deserve notice in any economic discussion purporting to be intelligent. Even in 1939, a peak year in business and industry, it is calculated that there were 100,000 unemployed in this country. This was cost enough, yet this was less proportionately than in the United States, normally the most prosperous country in the world. So why pick on Canada?

Good government can do a lot to check such evil, but sometimes new phases of society or of industrial development can have a puzzling effect. Such is the entry of women in recent times into what formerly would be mostly men's work. Mr. Rex Eaton, associate director National Selective Service, told us last week that even prior to this war 800,000 women in Canada were engaged "in gainful occupations" (it is twice that now); and the last United States census listed nearly six million women "engaged in gainful occupation outside the home." Something unparalleled a generation ago. Necessarily that new sort of thing has a lot to do with unemployment of men. No mention of such a cause of unemployment of men is made in the C.C.F. booklet, although it makes a loud outcry about the prevalence of unemployment "in a capitalistic structure of society." Nor in proclaiming loudly how government action and expenditure since war began, and what the C.C.F. calls the present "planned economy" of industry has banished unemployment, does the booklet say one word about the fact that 725,000 men have gone into the Canadian armed services, taken mostly out of the employment field.

Does that sort of economic discussion indicate wise thought in the C.C.F. leaders? Please don't laugh, everybody.

The C.C.F. booklet rehearses and emphasizes the principles laid down by the Regina platform of the party, and of Mr. Coldwell and the C.C.F. booklet. These principles include government seizure and operation of the banks, of the trust companies, of the insurance companies, of the transportation companies, of the mines, all the large industrial companies; they include "a capital levy" (seizure of private surplus to a greater or less extent); they include increased inheritance taxes, increased income taxes of the well-to-do; reduction of interest on Dominion bonds; limitation of profit on any private business allowed to operate. If any part of the people object, they will be dragooned by force, as Mr. Winch, the British Columbia C.C.F. leader recently promised.

One can imagine what a mess this C.C.F. program would make of the Canadian industrial and business structure; and yet the C.C.F. wiseacres talk glibly of the vast sums of money they would spend when they get into power. Where would they get the money after practically destroying business and private means? As a sample of their optimism the C.C.F. booklet promises that they would immediately appropriate a thousand million dollars a year for "social security" (booklet, page 177), also would immediately appropriate a thousand millions for new housing (booklet, page 79); also at once $300,000,000 for "rural electrification" (booklet, page 174), also apparently a few hundred millions to improve education (booklet, page 175), also apparently a hundred millions or two to help the farmers (booklet, page 166). Wild Indians for money, these C.C.F. lads, aren't they? To get the money they propose to raise $2,000,000,000 a year from taxes (booklet, page 182). The prewar taxes of Canada were about $500,000,000 a year. Of course, if the C.C.F. government will evidently need a great deal more than $2,000,000,000 from taxes, they will float loans each year for a couple of thousand million dollars more. This they expect to do after having seized all the big business of the country, restricted all the small business to small profits, made a capital levy and reduced or abolished the interest in Dominion bonds. Please don't laugh, everybody.

The basic idea of Socialism is to seize all main activities of a civilized country and administer them by government-appointed men or boards ("administratives boards," says the C.C.F. booklet) with the idea of levelling society so that the intelligent, energetic and industrious people shall get less, and the lazy, the idle, the inefficient and the unintelligent shall get more.

The C.C.F. gospel is Socialism. With Mr. Coldwell, deep down, it is probably milk-and-water socialism; and despite his present platform to catch votes he might do extreme damage if he got into power. With Mr. Winch of British Columbia and his fellow extremists, it is rank communism. The two wings of the party would not long agree if the C.C.F. got into power. They would clash, and the whole party would collapse. But meanwhile they might spell tremendous injury to the welfare of this country. Is there really such danger? Please don't laugh, everybody, because there is danger. A lot of very decent people in the country are thinking of this C.C.F. party as merely something that will give them more than they have now without them having to do anything about it but just vote. No—don't laugh, anybody. The thing is serious.

"Clever Bloke"

The temporary separation which wartime army service brings is felt acutely enough. But life in the professional army can bring a separation that makes almost strangers of the members of a family. Capt. Rev. Colin Montgomery, British Army padre, says he hardly knows his famous brother, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery. Bernard left home to join the regular army when Colin was only seven, and they have not met "two dozen times" since. But though he does not know his brother very well, Colin thinks "he must be a clever bloke." One does not have to be Sir Bernard's brother to know that much.—Montreal Gazette.

YOU TAKE WHAT YOU GET THESE DAYS

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

"NO BABIES WANTED"

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—I wonder if any of the members of our City Council can do something about this very deplorable situation:

For the past month my daughter, with a year-old baby, has been looking for a small flat, or suitable rooms, and on almost every occasion she enquired about one, she has had the same answer, definitely "No babies."

What would be the situation for the future of Peterborough if all our girls went on strike and "definitely" said "No babies."

Personally I think it perfectly disgusting that the wives of our fighting men should be put in this position. They are entitled to the very best that a city of our size can offer. After all, these young wives are not asking charity; they have the rightful means to pay for anything they want; all they are asking for is a home—a home that they can prepare for their husbands to come back to.

This particular case, the husband has taken part in nearly all of the operational flights over Germany, and he might well wonder whether it's all worth fighting for.

I'm afraid a great many of us are sitting smug and pretty and do not bother much about our neighbours until it hits home personally.

In this case the young wife hopelessly asks herself, "What am I to do?"

Now that our 1944 City Council is on its way for a new year, I sincerely trust that this letter will come to their attention, and that this very deplorable situation will be definitely straightened out and taken care of in the right quarters.—Thanking you, yours sincerely,

"NO BABIES WANTED."

VICTORY FOR WHAT?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—On January 8th you printed an item from the Kingston "Whig-Standard" entitled "The Defeat of the C.C.F." This article was similar in note to many others which have appeared in the press regarding the recent municipal elections. In the case of a large city like Toronto, it seems to be to be a hollow victory. I suppose this point of view may be because I am a rather recent comer to Canada. I was raised in a section where a candidate for office in a city was part of an organized plan for the handling of my tax money in a way that I considered to the best advantage of city management, development and progress. The candidate had to let me know what program he supported, and I voted for him as my personal representative in carrying out that program. If the program was not carried out satisfactorily, it was my privilege to vote for some one else in the following election.

In smaller localities it does not really matter so much, but why the people in a city like Toronto should vote for individuals under no responsibility, or with no unified program of management or development does not seem quite clear to me. It is no wonder that they have to whip the citizens to the polls. If you asked a voter what his vote accomplished toward the concrete progress and development of his city for the ensuing year he would have a hard time telling you. A city like Toronto is a big business proposition, and calls for more than year to year hit or miss operation. What would you do if you felt it advisable to turn over the management of your business for a period of time? Suppose that you were approached by two groups, one an organized group with a definite plan of operation, and whose continuance depended upon the carrying out of that plan, and the other an unorganized group of men who said they felt sure that they could handle your business successfully. Which group would you select?

To me party politics is better than petty politics. To get out the vote give the voter something to vote on and for. To control politics get a City Manager, and a political proof Civil Service system.

Yes, defeat for the C.C.F., but victory for what?

R. G. KILBON.

Lakefield.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

May Avoid Collapse

Reconversion will have its problems, but if there is some preparation beforehand there may not be the sudden industrial collapse which overtook the munitions industry at the end of the last war. We should learn something from experience.—London Free Press.

A Navy For China

China plans the creation of a post-war merchant marine. Well, why not? Many Chinese make excellent sailors, and various British shipping lines, including our own C.P.R., have employed them for years.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Some Driver

A short time ago a certain Toronto paper pointed with pride to the record of a Walkerton man who had driven his truck 985,186 miles in a year without an accident. Beyond agreeing that it was an excellent record nobody paid much attention — until one with a flair for figures worked it out and found that to accomplish the feat the Walkerton man must have driven 112 miles an hour for 24 hours every day in the year, including Sundays. Which, it must be admitted, was "going some," especially in the face of that 40-mile speed limit.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Civilians Passed Up

Prime Minister King is reported to have said in his radio address: "For all of us at home, that should mean more of high endeavour, a deeper unity and the utmost effort we can put forth. Only if we all do our part may we hope to witness the defeat and collapse of Nazi Germany in the coming year." A few hours later Mr. King gave out his selection of Canadians for New Year honours. To say the least, Mr. King has snubbed the Canadian civilian — the men and women who have valiantly stood by the stuff," and increased the effectiveness of our war effort so much so that our home front war efforts have taken a world position. Of the 331 persons named for honours it appears that only 46 were civilians, and of the 46 one-half are in official positions with Mr. King and his Cabinet. It is disappointing that Canada's Prime Minister, who has asked so much of the ordinary civilian for the past four years, should be so forgetful of them at a time when he might have acknowledged their world-recognized war effort with something more than word praise.—Renfrew Mercury.

Spicy Action

They now talk of peppering enemy airfields. This, of course, is done by well-seasoned flyers.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Kiss With Reservation

One writer claims "there's nothing mental about a woman's kiss." Perhaps not except when she's kissing another woman, and then there's sometimes the mental reservation that she doesn't mean it.—Toronto Star.

Beautifying Brides

To attain the standard of beauty demanded by bridegrooms, girls in a South Pacific island have two teeth knocked out. We're heard of that happening after marriage, but not exactly for beauty.—Chatham News.

Our Tie With Britain

Now for ever so many of us in Canada our tie with Great Britain seems vital—mutually vital—to us, to them; we are one people. To many of us, I say, any breach of unity on this question would disrupt Confederation. But to stay British we must see to it that our newcomers are British, or something so akin to it as to blend and fuse with the British Commonwealth as a natural part of it.—Stephen Leacock, in The Financial Post.

The Ebony Wand

It is only an old York custom. When the Sheriff (Councillor R. W. Willadon) was elected, the Father of the Council presented an ebony wand to Mrs. Willadon "for the Sheriff's Lady to employ upon the Sheriff if necessary during the first month of their occupancy of the office."

That month has now elapsed and at the first civic reception by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of York (Councillor W. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson), and the Sheriff and Mrs. Willadon at the Mansion House the Sheriff presented the ebony wand to the Lady Mayoress to keep in reserve for the remainder of the period of office to employ upon the Lord Mayor if the occasion should demand.

This ebony wand tradition goes back 100 years. It is an innocent custom now, but I suspect that concealed somewhere in the dusty corridors of York history there is a masterful Sheriff's Lady who once found it necessary to wave the ebony wand over the seat of trouble.—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

A Bible Message

The sorrows of death compassed me, and the floods of ungodly men made me afraid.... In my distress I called upon the Lord, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears. .... He brought me forth also into a large place; he delivered me, because he delighted in me.... The Lord liveth; and blessed be my rock; and let the God of my salvation be exalted. (Ps. 18: 4, 6, 19, 46.)

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise. For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel. For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom he will....

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life. Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live.

For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself. (John 5: 19-21, 24-26.)

Landlords Have Rights

The current agitation for a general "freezing" of all leases of residential property in Canada will be viewed with grave concern in many quarters. The present rent-control measures go pretty far, and we must not take the official attitude that the landlord has no rights. He is, after all, the chap who put up the property, and who will have to stand the loss.—Ottawa Journal.

Churchill Story

It is good to be strong and wise, it is good to be lucky. And Mr. Churchill's humour is always with him. In the First World War his headquarters were in a farmhouse continually subject to shelling. "Yes," says Lieutenant Colonel Churchill "but after all this is a very dangerous war."—New York Times.

Four Cases Tried In Bancroft Police Court

BANCROFT, Jan. 14.—(ENS). — Bancroft police court was held in the Community Hall at Bancroft Wednesday, presided over by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook, with Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson and Captain Smith of the O.P.P. of Belleville, being present. Captain Smith has just returned home from overseas, having served with His Majesty's forces for over 3½ years and now back on the police force at Belleville.

The following is a list of the cases disposed of at the court sitting:

Lorne Phillips of Gunter, pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent assault and was sentenced to two months in the county jail, Belleville.

Lorne Bruce, Herson Card, Howard Plumiley and William Redmond, all of Bancroft, were each found guilty on a charge of vagrancy and each assessed $5 and costs.

Archie and Mrs. Roy Helm, of Gunter, both pleading guilty to a serious charge under the criminal code, were remanded for one week for sentence.

Arthur Shore of Bancroft, charged under the Masters and Servants Act with refusing to pay an amount of wages to John Radchuck, of Bancroft, now serving in His Majesty's forces in the Provost Corps at Kingston, was found guilty and ordered to pay fine and costs and restitution amounting to over $34.

Personal.

Maynooth boys were in town last night and staged a hockey game with the locals on a fast sheet of ice which resulted in a score of 7 to 1 in favour of the visitors.

CUTICURA OINTMENT

FAR FROM UNIVERSITY—Airwomen on prairie stations may be far from university but they are rolling up credits which will stand them in good stead when they exchange uniforms for cap and gown. Correspondence courses are the way it's done. The psychology student on this Manitoba Bombing and Gunnery School is attending the University of Toronto, courtesy of the station post office. She is Sergeant Gwen Record (Right) of Peterborough, and extramural study is not new to her. Now instructing student air gunner in aircraft recognition, she has found time to gain credits in French and English. "The university has been wonderfully helpful," she said. "They arranged to have University of Ottawa professors help me when I was stationed near there, and out here I can consult teachers in the University of Manitoba." Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Record, of Peterborough, the Sergeant has two brothers—Leading Aircraftman James Record, training as a pilot, and Air Cadet Bob Record. Sergeant Amy Lind (Left), another aircraft recognition instructor, is busy with second year English of the Bachelor of Arts course at the University of Saskatchewan. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lind, of Melville, Sask. The University of Western Ontario is Alma Mater in Absentia to Sergeant Barbara McLennan (Centre). Like Sgt. Lind, she was a teacher in civil life. Her home is in Bindloss, near Medicine Hat, Alta., on the "7 Bar 7" Ranch. Her favorite method of locomotion is riding. Sgt. McLennan began extramural study in mediaeval history last winter, when stationed near Dauphin, Man. She is now continuing her university work in the same subject. (R.C.A.F. Photo).

Canadian Makes Contribution To Jet Planes

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 — (CP).—A 32-year-old flight lieutenant in the R.C.A.F.'s aeronautical division, whose name is withheld for security reasons, had make a "contribution of the first magnitude" towards development of jet-propelled aircraft, the R. C. A. F. revealed today.

Air Force headquarters said in a press release that Canada has made other "considerable contributions" in connection with jet propulsion, although details cannot be made public at present.

The flight lieutenant was described as a former engineer and specialist in aeroengine superchargers who joined the R.C.A.F. in 1941. He had begun independent research into jet propulsion principles in 1940 and continued his work in the R.C.A.F.

Loaned to the National Research Council to work under Prof. J. H. Parkin on aircraft engine research he carried on his research in his spare time completing a report of his findings which he showed to Prof. Parkin and air vice-marshal A. E. Ferrier, air member for aeronautical engineering in the R.C.A.F., who sent copies to Britain and the United States.

Wants His Help

In Britain a copy of the report was seen by Acting Group Captain Frank Whittle of the R.A.F., who has been given major credit for the new development. He immediately asked that the R. C. A. F. officer be sent to Britain to continue his researches in collaboration with Whittle and with other engineers.

"They were greatly impressed by the work of the young engineer, although at that time he was carrying on his independent researches, he had no knowledge of Whittle's activities in the same field," the R.C.A.F. said "the Canadian officer's studies were of a rather wider and more general character than those which had been going on elsewhere."

The flight lieutenant is an Associate Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Department of Labour

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS OF TECHNICAL PERSONNEL

Your attention is directed to:

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE REGULATIONS — Order in Council 246, Part III, Technical Personnel, Section 305, Subsection 1, reading as follows:

"All persons employing technical personnel from time to time, at the request of the Minister (of Labour) shall supply him with such information as he may specify with reference to their present and future requirements of technical persons for essential work."

Where such requirements include any engineering or science students who, through graduation from a recognized University during 1944, become technical personnel, it shall be the duty of the prospective employer to notify the Minister forthwith of such needs through the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel.

The information to accompany such notification of requirements shall include,

1. The anticipated number of prospective employees.
2. The nature of proposed occupation of each.
3. The type of training deemed best adapted to the occupation proposed.
4. Remuneration with respect of each position to be filled.

The filing of such requirements shall be no guarantee of their being filled. Each case will be considered on its merits and therefore such information should be submitted as will provide a basis for decision as to the labour priority of the work involved.

University courses which lead to graduates being classed as technical personnel include all branches of Engineering, Agricultural Science, Architecture, Forestry, Veterinary Science, Household Science courses which lead to a degree and various General Science and Honour Science courses (Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Geology and other natural science courses).

Prospective employers who fail to submit their requirements by February 15th, 1944, shall be deemed not to need the services of 1944 graduates in engineering and science courses and no provision can be made for requirements filed after that date.

Cadets Essential Officer Claims

TORONTO, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Young men and boys now training with the Air Cadet League of Canada are the "democracy of the future" and if the youth movement they form is allowed to die out after the war Canada will be unable to take her rightful place among the nations of the world, Group Captain D. C. M. Hume of Ottawa, national director of the Air Cadet League, said here last night.

Group Capt. Hume was addressing a dinner following the annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the League attended by 75 representatives of Cadet squadrons throughout Ontario.

Statistics given by Arthur L. Melling of Montreal, vice-president and chairman of the League Dominion executive, showed that more than 27,000 potential fliers are now enrolled in some 360 Canadian Cadet Squadrons. In Ontario about 90 squadrons with a roll of some 8,000 youths are operating, he said.

Since February 1, 1943, 1,742 Cadets have joined the R.C.A.F., he added, while prior to that date some 1,500 had enlisted to fly.

Sir Ellsworth Flavelle, Toronto, was named chairman of the 1944 Provincial Executive Committee.

Guests at the dinner included Rev. M. S. Kieffer, principal of Scollard Hall, North Bay, Ont.

Pilot Hangs On

A U.S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 14 (AP).—Lieut. Jack Watson, who "buzzed" a world series baseball game last fall, brought back his battered bomber, "Meat Hound," from Germany Tuesday after his entire crew bailed out on the way home. An Indianapolis flier, Watson was one of four pilots who zoomed low over the Yankee Stadium during the first game of the 1943 series, startling 69,000 spectators.

Anthony Eden Has Retained Old Mannerism

By DOUG. HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 13—(CP)—Small talk about folks and facts that have to do with Britain Parliament:

Hereford's M.P., J. P. L. Thomas sidestepped one of war's obstacles to political success—lack of gasoline to let him get out among his rural constituents—by holding receptions in the three main centres of his district.

Capt. Harry Longhurst, new M.P. for Action, was earning nearly $10,000 a year as a golfing journalist before the war. He won his way to Cambridge on scholarships. . . . Parliament has a hunch it will be seeing Honor Balfour yet. The Conservatives barely beat her in a Darwen, Lancashire, by-election although the young, brilliant journalist had an organization behind her and the press solidly against her. Although a member of the executive of the Liberal party, she stood as an independent Liberal in defiance of the wartime political truce.

The once-hectic argument over the proposal of the postal workers union to affiliate with the Trades Union Congress is stirring again. No. 10 Downing street stilled the clamor before by threatening the Civil Service Unions with loss of pension rights if they persisted.

Now Downing street has reopened the subject and indications are negotiations are under way aiming at a compromise on some basis of affiliation for industrial but not political purposes.

Two Labor members watched Anthony Eden rise to deliver an important speech and hastily made a bet. One said the Foreign Secretary would pluck the handkerchief from his breast-pocket, roll it round in his hand and return it to the pocket at least 15 times while he spoke. We won . . . that procedure is Eden's favorite mannerism.

The British Institute of Public Opinion applied its Gallup Poll to heckled, troubled Home Secretary Herbert Morrison about six weeks after his latest trial—the Mosley case. "Do you think," it asked, "Mr. Morrison is or is not doing a good job as Home Secretary."

Results showed 49 per cent said yes, 31 per cent said no and 20 per cent didn't know. In April, 1942, the same question found 50 per cent saying yes, 20 per cent saying no and 30 per cent without convictions.

Newspapermen Start On Tour

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 (CP). — The United Kingdom Information office today announced the names of eight newspapermen and magazine writers who will leave shortly on a one-month tour of the United Kingdom as guests of the British Ministry of Information.

The party will include Vernon M. Kipp, Ottawa Journal, Ottawa; Kenneth R. Wilson, Maclean's magazine, Toronto; Willson Woodside, Saturday Night, Toronto; J. E. Barnard, Le Soileil, Quebec; George V. Ferguson, Winnipeg Free Press, Winnipeg; R. P. MacLean, Kelowna B.C.; Charles Allbon, Springhill Record, Springhill, N.S., and Robert J. Rankin, Halifax Herald, Halifax.

Names of the four representatives of daily newspapers had been announced previously by W. McCurdy, pesident of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association, which made the selections by ballot.

While the men are likely to visit some points of interest, such as bomber stations and army camps, as a group they will be given complete freedom in deciding where they will go in the United Kingdom and facilities will be provided through the information ministry.

Would Ruin Canada

MONTREAL, Jan. 14 — CP).—Morris W. Wilson, dealing with post-war schemes in his presidential address to shareholders of the Royal Bank at their annual meeting today, asserted that "implementation of the socialist plan would ruin this generation and set Canada back centuries."

Mrs. T. H. Lean Heads War Service Club

APSLEY, Jan. 14 — (ENS). — The War Service Club held its annual meeting at Mrs. John McColl's. The secretary being absent through illness, Mrs. Newberry, acted as secretary for the meeting.

All committees gave good reports. Cigarettes were sent to three boys overseas every month and 20 boxes were sent to local boys overseas at Christmas and Easter. Election of officers followed, Mrs. I. H. Lean, president; Mrs. James Downing, vice-president; Mrs. W. Lean, secretary resigned and Mrs. D. Newberry was elected in her stead. The same wool and packing committee as last year was re-elected. Sewing committee: Mrs. Wellington Lean, Mrs. W. Everett, Mrs. Archie Downing.

Treasurer reported $48.20 on hand. A quilting was planned to be held at Apsley House on January 13.

Boy Broke His Leg

Wednesday night while a number of boys were tobagganing on Anderson's Hill, Donald McFadden, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. McFadden, had the misfortune to break one of his legs above the knee. The boys brought him to Red Cross Hospital where he was made comfortable and later removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough. About a year ago Donald suffered a fracture of his right arm.

Ration Tokens Of Fibre To Be Issued

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 — (CP) — Pockets and shopping bags of United States' citizens are soon to be flooded with some 2,000,000,000 fibre ration tokens so much like transit tokens that operators of buses and street cars throughout the country are shuddering in apprehension.

The issue has reached Congress where Representative Frank B. Keefe (Rep. Wis.) placed on the record a lengthy protest from Charles Gordon, managing director of the American Transit Association.

Gordon and his associates have been allowed to obtain advance specimens of the tokens for testing purposes and claim that thousands of coin fare boxes and turnstiles may either be operated by the ration tokens or will permit their insertion and be put out of commission by them.

He claims that the commission was assured by the rationing officers of the Office of Price Administration that the ration tokens would be of a diameter and thickness which would keep them out of coin boxes.

However, rationing being what it is, there is little likelihood that ration tokens will be deliberately used for transit fares, at least not until the rationing is ended.

Eyeing Canada: Some United States officials are reported to be enviously interested in Canad's newly created war assets corporation set up under presidency of J. B. Carswell, former director-general for the Munitions and Supply Department branch in Washington, to handle surplus war supplies, property and plant equipment in the conversion from war to peace economy. Their envy is prompted by the fact that in Canada there is one procurement agency, munitions and supply, and the conversion will be simple as compared with here where there are numerous procurement agencies. A tremendous effort is being made to get agreement on one over-riding organization to handle re-conversion and disposal when the war ends.

Current Politics: The Washington Daily News forecasts that Governor Dewey will be Republican candidate for President in spite of his protestations to the contrary, and for an odd reason. The paper says it is certain that after this year only a war veteran will have a chance for Presidential nomination, that Dewey was too young for the First Great War and is not likely to be in the present war, and, therefore, if he ever hopes to be President he must run this year.

Selwyn News

The Young People's Union held their bi-monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fitzgerald. A skating party was planned but owing to the condition of the ice a toboggan ride was held, all gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McConkey for hot soup and pie. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Elliott on January 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sanderson and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Payne at Warsaw on Tuesday, when they attended Mr. George Bennett's sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McConkey are with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McIlmoyl for an indefinite period.

CPL. AGNES BOWLER

A gift for painting brought to talented Agnes Bowler of Peterborough, now a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps stationed at Kingston, the honor of an interview and discussion on art with the Corps highest ranking officer, Lt.-Col. Joan B. Kennedy, N.D.H.Q. official. Cpl. Bowler was employed formerly by the Western Clock Company, Peterborough, and at present is a member of the staff of Capt. D. M. Adcock, C.W.A.C. recruiting officer in M.D. No. 3.

CPL. RUTH REID

is one of the many Peterborough girls who have enlisted in the Canadian Women's Army Corps to do their share in bringing about victory. She is a stenographer employed by the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps at Barriefield and finds the medical profession so interesting that after the war she intends to take up nursing. She has one brother in the army overseas, Pte. Albert Reid, Ottawa Cameron Highlanders.

C.S.M. JEAN METCALFE

of Peterborough is the sergeant-major of No. 39 Company, C.W.A.C., Kingston. This youthful warrant officer is a far cry from the hard-bitten sergeant-major of tradition but nonetheless is a keen disciplinarian when occasion demands it. She put up her second service stripe indicating two years' service in the Canadian Women's Army Corps on November 10, 1943. Prior to enlistment she was employed by the Quaker Oats Company.

Total Pinnage Of 3668 Tops City League

Jay's 3668 team score was good for another 3 points while the Ramblers chalked up two more as they hit 3617 to defeat the Empress team 2 to 1 in the Men's City Bowling League last night. Four 2-to-1 decisions of the closest kind were registered when Freeman's, Cleanrites, Sunocos and Westclox won the rubber game each from Old Timers, Outlaws, Gimblett and Canada Packers while the jittery Big Five and Machine Shop outfits absorbed disastrous 3 to 0 defeats from the K. of C. and Stags. Ramblers took the high team game with 1339. Bob Dwer's 867 was high three and Harold Dormer hit 349 for high single.

Dyer's 867 total was one for the books as he crashed off a 289 score in his first game, hit another 289 the second time and wound up his evening with exactly 289 for his third game. He incidentally pulled up into a second place tie with Doug Abraham in the already hot high average race, the standing of which after last night's games is as follows: Weese 248, Abraham 246, Dyer 246, Fred Martin 242 and Playford 240.

Other good individual scores last night included an 857 total by Maurice Caccavella, 816 by Bud Weese, 815 by Frank McCormack and 806 by Doug Abraham. In addition to Dormer's 349 single, McCormack hit 347, Playford 339, Tony White 336, M. Caccavella 330, Abraham 327, Chief Gimblett 327, Fred Jones 322, Bill Downer 312, Reg Dyer 310 and Ross Hopkins 306.

WAC WHACKS—One of the Mitchel Field's outstanding attractions is the hard-hitting, clever boxer, Private Ben Taylor, a W.A.C. The young lady is a popular performer in boxing shows. Formerly interested in an operatic career, Private Taylor bowed to the lure of boxing in 1933 and has since been slugging it out. Despite all this, Ben insists she is the domestic type and wants her own home and family when the shootin's all over.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 — (AP) — Boxing is a funny business . . . Six years ago a kid hitched-hiked from Long Island City to New Jersey trying to get his first professional fight . . . He finally found a spot in a four-rounder at Passaic and did so well that co-promoters Angelo Pucci and George Kobb gave him an extra deuce besides the $10 they had promised .. .. Tonight the kid, Bobby Ruffin, fights Tippy Larkin in the main bout at Madison Square Garden (give the war an assist for their being there).

Thrown For a Loss

Angelo Bertelli (Mr. Notre Dame) told this one on himself at the Heisman Trophy lunch in his honor . . . When Bertelli reached marine boot camp at Parris Island, S.C. the drill instructor promptly called him out of the ranks and questioned him about football . . . "Did you ever play guard?" the D. I. demanded . . . "No sir," Angelo replied . . . "well you have a new coach now," said the instructor, "and you will play guard. You guard the huts while we shove off for chow."

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Petawawa Grenades arrived in Ottawa last night for a scheduled game against a civilian team in the Ottawa Senior City Hockey League but, before the Army players "could get on the ice," notification was received from senior officers that, under the new defence headquarters ruling, the team could not fill the engagement. The incident was an apparent test of the recent prohibitory order against the participation of army personnel in competitions leading to the Allen Cup or the Memorial Cup.

In the light of the notification, an emergency meeting of the league was called, following which the announcement was made by Len. McKinley, president of the Ottawa Valley circuit, that the loop would operate with the three remaining civilian clubs and the group would "definitely" make a bid for the Allan Cup playdowns. Last night at St. Thomas, a London civilian team was not permitted to use its regular goaltender, Moffat, who had recently joined the army and he was instructed to play with London Army in a scheduled group game. The Soldiers defeated the city club 18-4.

The Rose Bowl, emblematic of supremacy in women's athletics, was presented to Joan Langdon, outstanding swimmer at Vancouver, the presentation being made by secretary Anne Clark of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of British Columbia.

With his four defencemen headed for record penalties, General Manager Dick Miller of the Indianapolis Capitals yesterday protested against refereeing in the American Hockey League, alleging the referees were doing too much "officiating."

Golfing's headliners are again teeing off to-day, this time in quest of chief awards in the $10,000 San Francisco Victory open tourney, a 72-hole four-day feature, the favorites being Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia, Bryon Nelson of Toledo, Olin Dutra of Los Angeles and Sam Byrd, Detroit.

4 Catchers.

The New York Giants yesterday sold Catcher Joe Becker, secured only recently from Baltimore Orioles, to the Jersey City Club of the International League. The Giants still have four backstops, all of whom are rated 4-F for the draft.

Before leaving for the Fritzie Zivic-Jake La Motta fight in Detroit to-night, Promoter Jake Mintz announced at Pittsburg Zivic had been signed to fight in his home city of Pittsburg Feb. 7 although the former welterweight champion is due to appear before a draft board there next week.

In their exhibition match at Chicago yesterday, Willie Hoppe, world's three-cushion billiard champion, defeated Walker Cochran in the ninth and 10th blocks by 52 to 44 in 44 innings and 50 to 33 in 52 innings respectively.

Brandino Wins

FALL RIVER, Mass.—(AP).— In the semi-final of a boxing card last night, Tony Brandino, 149, of Hamilton, Ont., scored a technical knockout in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout over Babe Nugent, 148, of Boston.

Fergus Rink Wins

FERGUS—(CP).—Victory in the 110th annual bonspiel of the Fergus Curling Club, with 27 rinks competing, went to James Howard of Fergus, whose quartette comprised his son, PO. Joseph Howard, veteran of the Dieppe action. G. Mulvey and M. Bakke.

Lalonde Jailed

CORNWALL, Jan. 14—(CP)—Edward Lalonde of Montreal, formerly of Cornwall and noted as a lacrosse and hockey player was sentenced to one year in reformatory today when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate P. C. Bergeron to a charge of theft of articles from the home of Evard Bowen, Montjal Road.

Elberfeld Dies

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 14—(AP) — Norman Elberfeld, 69 whose career on major and minor league baseball diamonds for more than 30 years earned him the name of "the Tobasco Kid," died here late last night. The fiery little shortstop's long career carried him from Texas to New York and back again.

A 10-Rounder

NEW YORK—(AP). — Headline attraction in the ring of Madison Square Garden to-night will be the 10-rounder in which two lightweight contenders will trade punches. Bobby Ruffin and Tippy Larkin. The former, with a recent win over champion Beau Jack, is a slight favourite.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League playoffs have narrowed down to two teams. Last night Steve Csumrik's Frigates, winning their third game in six nights swamped the Fairmiles in a high-scoring semi-final fixture 73 to 57 and qualified for the final round for the Dominion Life Trophy. Their opponents tomorrow night will be Joe Stewart's Algerines who went through the regular schedule without a loss and were given a bye through the playoffs into the final round. It should be a real battle. Algerines through the scoring ability of Stewart have been favorites all along to cop the title but the punch that has been developed over the last half of the schedule by the Frigates has boosted them considerably and now the closing battle looks like a fight between a team with a scoring ace against another outfit that has three or four boys who have been popping in baskets with consistent accuracy. In other words it looks like a real struggle all the way down the line and the result is more or less of a toss-up. It is a question of whether Joe Stewart can toss in enough baskets to offset the all-round scoring ability that the Frigates have been showing.

* * * * * *

There should be a real crowd at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium tonight for what looks like about the best double-header carded by the Ladies' Basketball League this season. The clash between the unbeaten Transports and the second place St. John's should produce the most excitement of the campaign. The Saints may not have as much scoring punch as the sharp-shooting Transports but they are a close-checking outfit who are likely to give the leaders plenty of trouble. It is an old axiom of basketball that you can't score if you haven't got the ball and the church team is the sort of aggregation that is liable to make it difficult for the opposition to keep possession of the spheroid. Transports beat the St. John's team earlier in the season, the only loss, incidentally, that has been sustained by the Saints but the second-placers have improved considerably since then while Transports in some of their recent games have not looked as keen as in their earlier appearances. All in all it shapes up as an even argument and it should provide one of the best exhibitions of girls' basketball of the current season. By the way the second game should also be a contest for on paper the Y Cadets and the Normal School team look like evenly-matched outfits and there is not likely to be much of a margin either way when the returns are all in. The first game between Transports and Saints is called for 7.30 and the Cadets-Normal fixture for 8.30 o'clock.

Beat Himself Says Texan

"Get them mad and then they beat themselves," muttered Krippler Karl Davis after Earl McCready had been disqualified Tuesday night for attacking Referee Bert Maxwell and perhaps the big Texan has something there. While there was every excuse for the Moose going off the deep end because of the incompetent exhibition of officiating given by the rotund Toronto official there is no doubt of the fact that McCready's intense desire to get even with Davis for the rough treatment he handed out in the first bout had something to do with his downfall here Tuesday. Instead of the cool, calculating and clever mat artist he has invariably been in previous appearances the Moose was more or less of a back-alley battler himself and the role not only did not suit him but it eventually beat him as the boastful Davis said. Now that the two have been rematched for a return bout here next Tuesday night under a new referee McCready might be wise to change his strategy and wrestle his own style, depending upon his skill and strength and experience instead of trying to beat the Texan at his own game. Fans who know their wrestling believe that McCready has the stuff to win decisively over the Krippler, with a referee in charge who can really handle the bout, and that he should confine himself to the methods at which he is at his best. In any event and no matter what style McCready follows between the two big fellows should be a vast improvement over the last clash, which was made ridiculous by Maxwell's failure as a referee.

Peterborough curlers will appreciate the following gossip from the sport column of the Lindsay Watchman-Warder: "With 775 playing members the Oakwood club is off to a fine start in 1944. Double schedule is being played every Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with three sheets of ice in use. The president is J. McGibbon, the bank manager at Little Britain, and under his guidance the club looks for a truly successful season....Ray Best, one of the finest curlers Peterborough has ever produced, is the busy head of the Ontario Curling Association this year and as such was in Detroit recently representing the O.C.A. in a friendly match....Walter Reesor, official umpire for both the Tankard and District Cup groups in which the Curling Club will be represented, has called the games to be played in both O.A.C. competitions, with the District Cup games in Peterborough on Jan. 14th, and the Tankard group in Lindsay on Jan. 18th. The personnel of the competition has not been announced but it looks as if there will be more rinks playing this season. Oakwood has two entries in today's Lindsay bonspiel and intends to enter both these rinks in the Tankard competition, and it is stated that Bobcaygeon may be back again, along with Peterborough, Lakefield and perhaps Fenelon Falls....Because of the absence of John Burns, due to illness, the Management Committee has placed Bill Carlisle temporarily on Nort Pogue's rink and Stan Pitts (associate member) steps up to Vice-Skip on Art Cornell's rink, due to the absence of Bob Chapman....There are eight rinks in the Junior L.C.I. Club this year, and to give them every encouragement possible it was decided these curlers can use four sheets of ice every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoon."

Combines Surprise Them

The Stirling-Marmora Combines are apparently the surprise team in the Belleville district junior B group race, their 2 to 0 win over the greatly-fanced Trenton R.C.A.F. outfit proving an upset. Ken Colling discusses the situation as follows in his Belleville sport column: "No sooner did Coach Toots Holway hear of the Combines' 2-0 win over Mike Dziura's junior Flyers than the local mentor called practice and more practice for the Belleville juniors. After all the locals do cross sticks with the Combines at the Market St. ice palace Friday night and after the way Wally Hilton's Combines mawled the young airmen, Coach Holway and Manager Jack Doran got their heads together to plan ways and means to try and assume the group leadership by beating the Stirling-Marmora aggregation Friday night. At present the Combines are leading the group parade with one win and no losses. Belleville and Trenton are tied for second with a win and loss each with the Flyers in the cellar with one loss in as many starts. Apparently it made little difference to the Combines in the fact the Flyers boasted of no less than five former junior "A" players on their roster. The Stirling-Marmora aggregation hopped aboard the ex-A stars and checked them into the proverbial ice. The former junior "A" players with the Flyers at Stirling included Ralph Benson, Marlboro goalie, Al Chartis, Young Rangers, Johnny Jackowitz, Brantford Lions, Jack Flynn, Niagara Falls, Harry Green, Guelph, to say nothing of Lew Smith of Regina, Frank McGee of St. Patrick's College in Ottawa and George Pontius formerly with Carlyle College juniors."

Writes Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard: "When the Hockey Hall of Fame is completed there should be a special niche for the soldiers who played senior hockey for Kingston and the three professional teams that made special visits here to help the cause. The Kingston soldiers gave their best, although many of them were in the $5,000 a year bracket in their civilian life as puck professionals, while the N.H.L. teams, facing the shortage of players, risked their best in exhibition games to help the shrine and also help in the important entertainment of civilians and servicemen. Both did a big job in a silent way, without a great deal of thanks. The future of Kingston's senior hockey team is still uncertain. The O.H.A. schedule may be completed as Kingston

Frigates Defeat Fairmiles 73-57 In Semi-Final

In a game in which defence was tossed to the winds Steve Csumrik's Frigates defeated Pete McArthur's Fairmiles in a high-scoring semi-final fixture in the Y.M.C.A. House League last night by 73 to 57, thus qualifying for the finals for the Dominion Life trophy. The winners will meet the leading Algerines tomorrow night in a sudden-death game for the title.

Both teams were shy one of their aces last night, Baird being absent from the Fairmile lineup while Frigates were without Bill Edger but had a capable replacement in Jim Ferguson, captain of the Corvettes. It was a game in which both outfits concentrated on scoring, rather than on checking and the result was that baskets were a dime a dozen and most of the players fattened their averages. Frigates had just enough scoring punch to turn the trick. With Captain Csumrik leading the way with 26 points they managed to keep in front most of the route and win by a comfortable margin. They were in front 32 to 24 at the end of the first half and increased their margin after the rest, despite the high-scoring efforts of McQuaig with 28 points and Pete McArthur with 18. The teams:

Frigates (73)—Seabrook 10, S. Csumrik 26, Collins 2, Estlick 11, Franks 10, Ferguson 14.

Fairmiles (57)—Courtney, McArthur 18, J. Csumrik 6, Kemp 5, McQuaig 28.

Referee—Joe Stewart.

Hollett Stars As Wings Tie Canadiens

(By The Canadian Press)

Reports from Detroit that Manager Jack Adams negotiated the "deal of the century" in trading Pat Egan to Boston Bruins for William (Flash) Hollett can't be discounted entirely, however partisan the source.

Although Hollett didn't seem much of a bargain at first — the Flash insisted he wouldn't play hockey for anybody but Boston—it appears now that he and Adams have settled things to their mutual satisfaction.

Anyway, Hollett appeared in the Detroit lineup last night—long enough to score an unassisted goal which gave Red Wings a 2-2 deadlock against Montreal Canadiens for the first point in seven games on Montreal ice this season. The split in points left Canadiens undefeated in 15 games at the Forum, 13 of which were victories.

At New York, Chicago Black Hawks stopped the tailend Rangers 5-2 before 13,493 fans to keep pace with Detroit, who hold a two-point margin over Hawks for fourth place in the National Hockey League standings.

Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley, striving to reach the top in the individual scoring race while Bill Cowley is recovering from a shoulder injury, combined for three of the first four goals as Chicago ended a six-game losing streak while extending New York's string of defeats to the same length. Bentley set up the plays and Mosienko supplied the finishing touch on all three scores.

Cully Dahlstrom and aged Johnny Gottselig were the other Black Hawk snipers. Bob (Killer) Dill and Hank D'Amore scored for Rangers.

At Montreal, Canadiens appeared on the way to their 14th home ice victory after goals by Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard, but Billy Reay shaved the margin to 2-1 before the second period ended and Hollett fired the tying goal midway through the third.

Player Shortage Apparent In Pro Rugby

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 14—(AP).—After scanning the player situation for 1944 and finding an acute shortage, the National Football League was hesitant to-day to follow through with the expansion plans until after the war.

Club owners shovelled a pile of unfinished business into their brief cases after winding up their two-day mid-winter meeting yesterday. Their next stop will be in Philadelphia for their spring session April 19. At that time they plan to take some kind of action on the bid for membership by Buffalo, N.Y., draw up a game schedule for the 1944 season and hold the yearly draft of college players.

Each team will draft 30 campus gridders. Last year's raffle of 300 graduates netted only 23 recruits, many of whom entered military service before the season closed. Boston is definitely established as the league's 11th member for 1944.

The league probably will vote on whether to grant Buffalo a franchise so it can operate this fall, thus preserving a balanced circuit of 12 teams.

Tabled along with Buffalo's application were those from Los Angeles and San Francisco. Representatives of the two West Coast cities were handed back their $25,000, which must accompany franchise requests. There is definite interest in Los Angeles and San Francisco for the post-war expansion plan.

Bisons Edge Providence Reds

By The Canadian Press

Larry Thibeaut scored two goals at Buffalo last night to lead Bisons to a 5-3 victory over Providence Reds in the lone American Hockey League fixture.

At the end of the second the score was tied 3-3, and the veteran Dede Klein celebrated his 35th birthday by a blast in the final period which gave Buffalo a one-point lead. Four minutes later, at 17:45, Thibeault added his final counter for the decisive victory.

Maury Rimstad started the scoring late in the opening frame. At 17:47 Thibeault scored the second goal for Buffalo. Just 12 seconds before the whistle Art Giroux tallied for Reds.

In the second period Harold Cooper and Gordon Buttrey put Reds in the lead, but Rusty Waldriff bagged a goal at 19:27 to even the score.

CHEX To Present Town And Country

Bernie Braden, through his fine radio work in Canada, has secured himself the enviable position of Comedian and Master of Ceremony on the new coast to coast radio production "Town and Country" to be heard over CHEX every Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Formerly a highly successful radio star in Vancouver, Bernie has reversed the old Horace Greeley statement, "Go West Young Man, Go West" and is now in the East doing a "topnotch" radio entertainment job. Many people will recall the "funny man" on "Stag Party" from Vancouver and will be pleased to hear Bernie on the air with his own show.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 14—(CP)—One of those taking a dim view of the injury which has benched Bill Cowley is Herb Cain, the Boston centre's line-mate. Cain was in the limelight almost for the first time in his National Hockey League career and all because Cowley's picture passes had enabled Cain to score 26 goals in 25 games and lead the league in that department. It's a pretty safe bet that Herbie's goal total will mount slowly until Cowley returns. Cowley's injury will definitely slow the pace that would have given Cain a record of 52 goals in a 50-game season and a place in the record books that would have taken some beating. In fact Cain has already surrendered second place in the points table to Lorne Carr of Toronto, whose four points Tuesday night against Canadiens gave him 47 to Cain's 44.

Repercussions:

Strange isn't it that so many hockey players have been discharged from the army lately, fellows like Kilby MacDonald, Johnny Mahaffy, Pat Egan, Murray Armstrong...Undoubtedly the Army-R.C.A.F. withdrawal from hockey influenced Winnipeg Navy in posting some of its players elsewhere. Some of the Winnipeg Tars had been held in the same spot considerable time and the Navy would not want to be forced into action similar to the withdrawal orders of the other services.

Incidentally:

Now that Hamilton Tigers have definitely decided not to return to football until after the war, early revival of the Interprovincial Union is unlikely...Jackie Callura of Hamilton, former world featherweight boxing champion, probably didn't even know Hamilton Wildcats won the Canadian grid title but that Grey Cup victory meant a watch for Jackie. When Hamilton City Council was authorizing expenditure of $750 to buy watches for Wildcat players, Ald. J. L. Easton insisted Callura deserved a watch too and Easton won his point..Women have finally decided to invade a previously exclusive male field in Moncton, N.B., where a ladies' curling club is being formed. The women have been granted use of the rink five afternoons a week.

Seek Players In High Schools

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP). — Baseball's lower class minors, planning a limited expansion in 1944, may have the answer to player shortage jitters in the use of schoolboys and part time defense workers.

A Class E League, the twin ports, operating around Duluth, Minn., and Superior Wisc., plans to go to the barrier on a twice-a-week schedule, a $250 monthly salary roof and talent recruited from local defense plants and school rooms.

Joe Donnelly, former president of the Ohio State League, already has re-organized his circuit to enter the Class D field along with the Pony and Appalachian, only 1943 finishers.

According to Donnelly there is no reason why several new D or E leagues should not start this year. The Ohio president says: "They can open their seasons after school lets out and employ youngsters who will not be called in the draft, closing their schedules about a week before school starts in the fall. Those kids will hustle their heads off.

Class E is an experiment by the baseball folks who usually are not given to new-fangled ideas, but it may be the solution to many wartime problems.

Tank Drivers Swamp Orillia

BARRIE, Jan. 14.— No. 2 Canadian Armored Corps Training Regiment, Camp Borden, blasted No. 26 Canadian Armored Basic Training Centre, Orillia, 20-2, in an O.H.A. Intermediate "A" game in Barrie Arena.

The winners led at the end of the first period 8-0 and at the end of the second period 14-0. The hapless Orillians counted their lonely pair of tallies in the final frame, Madden scoring from Woodside and Woodside from Madden.

No. 2 Training Regiment iced a team strong in every department of play. Mangay looked about the best. He also scored three goals and had eight assists. Centreman Bend was credited with two goals and three assists, Nesbitt six goals and two assists, Burke four goals and four assists, Tyler two goal and two assists.

Orillia— Goal, Sharkey; defense, Madden, Curran; centre, McDonald; wings, Westman, Woodside; alternates, Hayden, Kanburaff, McClelland, Hughisman, Parker, Tupah, Querin.

Camp Borden—Goal, Westbrooke; defense, Leeming, Fennell; centre, Bend; wings, Burke, Creighton; alternates, Nesbitt, Mangay, Tyler, Hilliard, Forbes, Gardner.

Referee, L. A. (Hap) Emms, Barrie.

War-Torn Lands Want Racing

Written for the Associated Press
By HARRY PARR 3RD,
President, Thoroughbred Racing Association and Maryland Jockey Club.

BALTIMORE, Jan 14 — (AP). — The manner in which the entire United States thoroughbred industry voluntarily fitted itself into the war pattern in 1943 by whole-heartedly subscribing to all regulations made necessary by the war and the resulting tremendous popularity enjoyed by racing, even on a reduced scale, are strong factors in the prediction that 1944 will be another highly successful year.

The popularity and growth of racing in all of its branches has established it as an important business and to some states it is a vital source of income. It is interesting to note, however, that 40 per cent of all pari-mutuel play in the country was in New York and 75 per cent of the total was bet in five States.

Racing for the relaxation offered the public as well as for the maintenance of the industry is well exemplified by its continuance in such war-torn countries as England, Australia, Russia, Japan and Germany.

The breeders' sales of 1942 were the most discouraging in many years although in England in December, 1942, the brood mare Olein, sold for $76,500. This showed that the English, who at that time were enduring more extreme hardships than we in the United States, still placed a high value on their thorougbred blood lines.

It was not surprising therefore, when in 1943 our sales became as successful as at any time in their history. A yearling, now named Pericles, sold for $66,000, and other stock in proportion.

Children Need Guidance At First Outbreak

A great deal could be done in dealing with the problem of juvenile delinquency if more effort were bent to the task of taking children in hand when they first show signs of wandering off the beaten track, Miss R. Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, stated in an address delivered to the Y's Men's Club Thursday evening.

Discussing the problem of juvenile delinquency and the ways in which individuals and groups could successfully cope with the difficulties it presents, Miss Young said that the most important step forward would be to ferret out the pre-delinquent cases and work with them before delinquency had become an ingrained habit affecting the character of the child concerned.

She pointed out that the cycle of delinquency usually had its origin in the same ways; that the truant of today, missing school, going to the movies during the school hours or not showing up at home after school was let out, was the delinquent child of tomorrow. Here she felt there was room for improvement in the relationship between the Children's Aid Society and the schools, which were in a position to know what children were started on the path to delinquency through presenting truancy or disciplinary problems.

Many Activities

She stated that at present, the Society, linked closely with the juvenile delinquency problems of the city, had all it could handle in looking after its own wards—children taken from their parents for whom the Society had full legal responsibility and the obligation to see that they were given the educational and inspirational advantages which every child should possess. It was her opinion that, despite talk of enormous advances in the extent of juvenile delinquency, it could be said of Peterborough that it had experienced only "a slight increase, not a marked one, during 1943." At the present time the Society had 150 odd families to which it paid visits.

She spoke with enthusiasm of a report which had been framed by a committee that made an exhaustive examination of the phases of juvenile delinquency in Los Angeles, recommending several measures and policies which in its consideration would go far in alleviating a serious situation. These measures, which included the strengthening of home units, greater cooperation between churches and families, and between schools and groups that interested themselves in reducing the threat of delinquency before it could gain firm ground, Miss Young said were equally applicable to Peterborough and could well be taken to heart by all anxious to help in bringing young children through the pitfalls when subjected to unfortunate environments and unfavorable situations.

Churches Open

It would be well, she stated, if churches could be open during the week for children's activities, if places could be provided for the playing of games and enjoyment of recreational facilities; if schools would develop in conjunction with such groups as the Children's Aid Society, methods whereby children might be brought to the attention of sympathetic and understanding influences as soon as they showed signs of being delinquent or even so early as it became evident that, if left alone, they would soon become so, Miss Young emphasized.

She remarked that the most priceless quality required in an attempt to deal successfully with juvenile delinquency was that of leadership, the leadership of individuals and groups taking an active interest in guiding the destinies of the young. This, even more than financial support, Miss Young believed to be the vital element in achieving tangible results in the community.

Yugoslav Forces Slowly Retreat

LONDON, Jan. 14 —(CP)—Fierce fighting for control of the strategic Banja Luka-Zagreb railway in central Bosnia continued today, as German forces increased their pressure on Yugoslav Partisans attacking in the 25-mile sector between Banja Luka and Prijedor.

The communique of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, said the Partisans shot down two Nazi bombers near the town of Bugojno, and reported expanding offensive operations by Yugoslav forces on other sectors of the front.

Near Brod, a rail centre 50 miles northeast of Banja Luka, the Partisans were said to have destroyed an enemy troop train, killing 45 German soldiers and capturing 85. Farther west, Tito's troops blew up a bridge on the Zagreb-Ogulin-Fiume railway near Karlovac, the communique said.

The battle for Novo Mesto, Slovenian city 50 miles west of Zagreb was still raging, with no appreciable advantage reported for either side.

In Hercegovina, to the south, Partisans repelled an enemy assault at Stolac and seized a lead mine producing 800 tons a year.

Yugoslav sources in London said the Germans, in their drive south from Banja Luka were apparently attempting to breach Partisan defences in the Dinaric Alps toward the Adriatic and thus split Tito's main forces into two isolated groups.

Haliburton Logger Killed In Woods

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 14.—(ENS.)—Fergus O'Neill, former resident of Downeyville, was killed at Eagle Lake, Haliburton, when a load of logs fell on him Thursday while engaged in lumber operations at a logging camp.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, who farmed about one mile west of Downeyville for many years. Every summer he has visited his sister, Mrs. Arthur Winn here.

The accident occurred when O'Neill was pinned beneath a heavy log which rolled off the sleigh he was riding. The load shifted while the sleigh was rounding a corner and he was trapped before he could jump clear. There will be no inquest.

Mr. O'Neill was not killed outright and another man who was passing by, brought help and he was taken to the Red Cross Hospital at Haliburton, but he died on the way.

He leaves to mourn his passing five brothers, Ambrose, Leo, and Gene of Detroit, and Cyril and Joseph of Chicago; and three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Winn of Downeyville, Katharine of Detroit and Antoinette of London.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the Tangney Undertaking Parlors in Lindsay for mass at 9:30 a.m. at St. Luke's Church, Downeyville. Interment will be made in the parish cemetery.

Injury Slight

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (CP)—Word reached Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Reburn today that the wound suffered in Italy December 18 by their son, Lieut. Stewart Reburn, internationally known Toronto figure skating star, was a leg injury caused by shrapnel. The leg has been placed in a cast, the message said, but it was not indicated whether his skating ability would be affected.

Medium bombers attacked airfields in many places, dropping showers of high explosive and fragmentation bombs among hangars, dispersal areas and runways in a favored Allied bombing pattern which has been known to wipe out whole blocks of enemy air strength.

Other Allied formations jabbed at railway yards at Isola, 18 miles north-west of Cassino; at Colleferro, at dock installations at Formia, on the coast just above the western end of the 5th Army line, and at enemy shipping off the Yugoslav coast near Sibenik.

Ten enemy aircraft were destroyed during yesterday's operation against an Allied loss of five.

BARRIE, Jan. 14— Dr. Mary E. Highet, for 28 years professor of modern languages and literature on the staff of Elmira College, Elmira, N.Y., died Wednesday at the home of her friend, Mrs. Clayton Stewart, where she had resided for the past 10 years.

Dr. Highet was born in Cobourg. She received her early education at Cobourg Collegiate and graduated in arts from Victoria College (Cobourg) in 1891. Later she received the degree of bachelor of pedagogy from the University of Toronto and was awarded a scholarship for postgraduate work at Cornell University. In 1895 she received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Cornell University, and for a time served as head of the department of modern languages at the State Normal School, New Paltz, N.Y. Following a year's study in Europe, Dr. Highet was appointed in 1902 as professor of modern languages and literature at Elmira College, continuing in this position until 1930. She was a member of Barrie United church and active in the W. M.S. There are no immediate survivors. The funeral service was held at Cobourg Friday afternoon, with interment in Cobourg Union cemetery.

Obituary

MRS. ADAM HUMPHRIES.

HASTINGS, Jan. 14.—(ENS).—In the recent death of Mrs. Adam Humphries, a beautiful spirit was removed from the Asphodel neighborhood. A life-long resident of Asphodel township, her maiden name was Mary Ellen Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson, who lived on the Norwood Road. She was married on March 12, 1884, to her late husband this month.
who predeceased her three years ago this month.

Mrs. Humphries was in her eighty-third year. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Hastings.

There are left to mourn the loss of a devoted and loving mother, seven daughters and three sons, Mrs. J. A. M. Thomson (Mae), Campbellford, Mrs. A. R. McKee (Blanche), Listowel, Mrs. John Davidson (Olive), Birdsalls, Mrs. W. B. Moore (Hazel), Hastings, Lillian at home, Mrs. W. J. Brackenridge (Wilma), Asphodel, Mrs. J. G. Manley (Grace), Peterborough, Roy and Maxwell of Asphodel and James at home. Also two brothers survive. Thomas and Fred Richardson of Hastings.

The funeral, which was held on Monday afternoon from her late residence, was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. E. Glover of Hastings, conducted the service at the home and also at the cemetery.

The pallbearers were two neighbours, two nephews and two grandsons, Louis Elmhirst, Ernest Warner, J. Stinson, George Richardson, Willie Thomson and W. R. McKee. The floral tributes showed the esteem in which she was held.

TORONTO, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Announcement was made to-day at the University of Toronto that Crown Prince Olaf of Norway will receive the honorary degree of a doctor of laws at a special convocation January 18. Sir William Mulock, University chancellor, who will mark his 100th birthday the following day, will preside.

Cattle Prices Dip 15 Cents, Lambs Down 50

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (CP)—Prices on cattle dipped about 15 cents cwt. in dull trade on the livestock market here this week. Calves, sheep and lambs were down 50 cents cwt. Hogs were steady.

Stocks of all grades of meats were plentiful in the coolers and in local stores, in contrast to a year ago when any kind of meat was hard to find.

Demand for cattle was fair at the market but only at slightly reduced prices. A top load of choice weighty steers sold at $13 with others from $12.75 down to $11. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $10.25 to $11.75 and a few light steers reached $12. Butcher cows were $7 to $8.75 with a few at $9. Canners and cutters sold at $5 to $6.75. Bulls were $7.50 to $9.25 and fed yearlings $12 to $13.50. Small lots of stockers sold at $8 to $10.50 and a few feeding steers brought $11. Good milkers and springers were steady at $140 to $160 each.

Calves were slow at $15 to $16 for choice with common vealers downward to $10.

Lambs dropped another 50 cents cwt. as the new raise in the ceiling for dressed lamb brought retail lamb cuts too high for consumers' taste. Good ewes and wethers closed at $13 to $13.50. Bucks were $12 to $12.50 and culls $6 to $11. Sheep were down 50 cents at $2 to $6 with some unsold.

Aussies Want Canadians To Fight Japs

HAMILTON, Jan. 14 (CP)—Australia and New Zealand would welcome Canada's taking part in decisions regarding the Pacific war, Arthur R. Ford, editor-in-chief of the London Free Press and president of The Canadian Press, last night told a meeting of Niagara District Electric Club here.

Mr. Ford said Canada can not avoid its responsibilities in the Pacific now or in the postwar period if she is to enjoy the goodwill of the United States, Australia and New Zealand and if she is to share future industrial and economic development as she should.

Australia and New Zealand, Mr. Ford said, "are hoping that before this war is over our men will be fighting with theirs to end the Japanese menace to a peaceful Pacific. Canada's participation in actual fighting with them would be received with enthusiasm."

New Proposal

A proposal put forward by Hon. W. Nash, New Zealand Minister to Washington, providing a joint governing body by interested nations of the Pacific islands east from the Solomon group. "Ultimately he (Mr. Nash) would have this confederation given their own selfgovernment. He felt that most of the islanders were as capable of self-government as the Maoris of New Zealand, for whom his people have great admiration."

He spoke of government "down under" saying "there has been much talk in Canada of socialism, with one party holding up New Zealand as an example of socialism and others criticizing it. It all depends on the definition of socialism. If it is an advanced social security program, then I suppose New Zealand is socialistic; but if it is considered the socialization of industry that is not so in New Zealand. What is more the business men are not worried about it and advocates of the government say it may not come for 50 or 75 years."

Mr. Ford recently returned from an extended tour of Australia and New Zealand with a delegation of Canadian newspapermen.

U.S. Casualties Total 139,800

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP)—United States casualties since the start of the war now total more than 139,800. The Army losses total 105,229 and those of the Navy, Marine and Coast Guard 34,523.

War Secretary Henry Stimson, in reporting the Army casualties from the start of the war to Dec. 23, said the figure represented 16,831 killed, 38,916 wounded, 24,067 missing and 25,415 prisoners of war.

The Navy-Marine-Coast Guard casualties reported up to today are made up as follows: 15,186 killed, 6,616 wounded, 8,429 missing, 4,292 prisoners of war.

Selwyn Association Begins New Year

SELWYN, Jan. 14 — (ENS). — There were twelve members present at the monthly meeting of the W.A. of Selwyn United Church, held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald. The topic was given my Mrs. William Elliott and Mrs. Carmen Whitmore read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. George McIlmoyl presided at the piano for the hymns. The newly elected president and secretary, Mrs. Melville Crapp and Mrs. Harold McIlmoyl took up their new duties. Dainty refreshments were served.

MINISTER ADDRESSES KINSMEN

Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church delivered a New Year's message to members of the Kinsmen Club on Thursday evening. He spoke in connection with problems to be faced in 1944 and the necessity on the part of individuals to meet the challenge of eventual victory with unselfish and charitable hearts. At the meeting the new officers of the club, elected last month, were installed.

Nelson's Words Inspire Local Boy

The inscription on the tomb of Nelson in the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, so impressed Sergt.-Navigator J. Claire Sullivan that he copied it and quoted it in a letter to his parents, Alderman and Mrs. J. E. Sullivan.

The text follows:—"May the great God whom I worship grant to my country, for the benefit of Europe in general, a great and glorious victory; and may no misconduct tarnish it; and may humanity after victory be the predominant feature in the British fleet. For myself individually, I commit my life to Him that made me; and may His blessing alight on my endeavors for serving my country faithfully; to Him I resign myself and the just cause which is entrusted to me. Amen."

Continuing his recent letter this overseas son of the Sullivan family—a brother, Pilot Officer John, was home a week or so ago, commented:— "This was written in Nelson's diary, October 21, 1805, in sight of the enemy. It is not much wonder that Nelson is a great national hero of the English people, than Abraham Lincoln to them."

Great Principles

"I have just got back from a leave in London. The famous buildings I visited were marvellously beautiful, especially Westminster Abbey with its high vaulted ceiling and wonderful Gothic design. The monuments, sculptures, and plaques, to the nation's Great warriors, poets, artists and philanthropists are most impressive. Many of the inscriptions are in ancient English script, in Latin, and of course in modern English. It seemed strange to me to read an epitaph like this:—"He was the saviour of prostitutes, the light of the blind, a man of the earth, but a man of God."

Many such plaques perpetuate the names of some men once great but now forgotten. One comes away from these memorials with a deeper sense that England has always fought for the same principles for which she is now fighting. Any thoughtful person would be deeply moved in the Abbey or St. Paul's crypt, and I feel certain he would come away with profound respect for the English people and their principles. They may have gone off the track many times, but that does not alter the fact that the characteristics which they have admired in their great men were usually humanity, charity, kindness, the benevolent virtues.

Less Bomb Damage

At St. Paul's we climb 575 steps (I counted them) to the dome where you get a wonderful view of the city and of the bomb damage in 1940.. But, they will rebuild on these very scarred sites. They have great plans for the new London. Do not get the impression that anything has happened to the scores and scores of buildings which make up the main street of London, because nothing has touched many of them.

We also went to Westminster Cathedral, which is the Catholic centre of England. It is a modern (1903), not nearly finished. The interior is all rough brick, with the exception of eight separate side altars and chapels. Each one of these, dedicated to the great saints of the British Isles, is completed. They are done in many different colors and kinds of marble and alabaster, and the effects produced by cutting and matching these marble slabs is beautiful.

We saw several good plays while in London, Priestley's "They Came to a City," and "Watch on the Rhine." Even the matinees are expensive to us, $1.75, but the real shock was to have to pay $1 for the cheapest seat in a London movie. The theatres are usually grand. One of them, the Odeon, is a most beautiful movie house, seating about 2,000 with a marvellous organ. It is all in the most modern design, and with lounges, a bar and a large cafe. By the way, most of the movie houses have a restaurant on the second floor (or on the first floor as they call it over here.") .

Milkman Suffers Injury To Back

Everett Holland, 584 Murray street suffered a bruised knee and injured his back when the Campbell Dairy milk wagon he was driving was struck by a truck at Westcott and George street.

Holland was driving south on George street and at Westcott St., Ross Oliver, 33 Brown street, driving a truck owned by Bruce Parker, and also travelling south tried to pass the horse-drawn vehicle.

However the truck skidded on the icy road and struck the back of the milk wagon tossing Holland out on the road.

The back of the wagon was damaged in the collision.

Complete Argument In Pattenick Case

Judgment was reserved for a week by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning in the charge against Harry Schwartz, manager of the W. Pattenick store, George street, of having violated the city's early closing bylaw by permitting the store to remain open on the night of Saturday, December 11.

After the evidence in the case had been heard some days ago the case was adjourned until Wednesday afternoon to allow counsel, T. J. Carley, K.C. for the accused and City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., who prosecuted to put in their arguments.

Mr. Huycke had not finished his presentation when the court rose and there was a further adjournment until this morning to allow him to complete his argument.

For the defence Mr. Carley argued that the petition was faulty in a number of respects and that the bylaw itself was also defective in in several important details.

Mr. Huycke said that he admitted that there were some discrepancies in the bylaw but argued that these were minor weaknesses that should not be allowed to interfere with the enforcement of the measure.

Exhibition Board Continues To Mark Time

That band of hope and eclipsed glory, the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, continued their durational marking of time at their annual meeting on Thursday afternoon.

Tom Brown sat in the midst of the veterans of the old guard, older in service than in years, most of them, 16 altogether, including two recruits, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., and among those present, just to sound a familiar nominal note, were R. M. Glover, George Hooton, Everett Moore, Frank Kitney, Frank Savigny, Clarence Mann, and so on down the attendance roster.

The officers were re-elected in a body and Messrs. Fraser and Scott welcomed into the inactive fold in a motion by Mr. Middleton seconded by Mr. Glover.

The secretary, Alan Brown, who was also present, was requested to write a letter of condolence to a director bereaved by the war, James Whittington of South Monaghan, whose son, Sergeant Jack Whittington, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was recently killed in action in Italy.

Future Uncertain.

Four summers have passed since the last Exhibition in Morrow Park. Some brief speculation Thursday glanced at the possible termination of the war, but the statement that Toronto was resigned to the continued suspension of their Canadian National Exhibition until two years after the end of hostilities dismissed the subject as beyond the vision of the directors.

Mr. Glover was appointed to the vacancy on the property committee left by the death of Roland Denne. It was felt that this committee should meet some time before long and appoint a chairman, to that extent being ready to discuss with Federal authorities the wartime property in the park and its ultimate disposal when it is no longer required as a military training centre.

Skating Club Wants Sponsors

A meeting of the Peterborough Figure Skating Club was held Thursday night and discussion in the brief session centered on the need for further sponsors and additional funds to carry out the club's near-term objectives. Members present included H. Pfeifers, instructor; O. Weiss, organizer; Frank Edgar, sponsor; J. Lynch, treasurer; N. Hicks, Nancy Eastwood, V. Sills, J. Collins, Mary Jane Collins, Mr. White and Helen Mathias, a newly inducted member.

The club is now well established, having in all 18 members, of whom five or six are accomplished figure skaters. The ice rink at 560 Patterson street is limited to the use of those interested in figure skating, and teaching sessions are given here each Tuesday and Thursday nights and Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Members are especially anxious at the present time to erect a clubhouse, and it is for this purpose that additional funds are needed now.

Looking into the future, the Figure Skating Club envisions a time when it may have a closed-in rink and other facilities which will aid in the enjoyment of the sport. But these projects, organizers are frank to admit, will naturally have to wait until the war is over.

WOUNDED IN ITALY—Pte. Harry James Baldwin of Haliburton is officially reported to have been wounded in action in December in Italy. The nature and extent of his injuries is not yet known. He enlisted in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in February, 1940, and went overseas in May of the same year. Pte. Baldwin served in the ambulance corps as a stretcher-bearer in Sicily, and his wife and three children are in Haliburton.

Store In Family For 104 Years Changes Owners

The oldest retail business in Peterborough, the shoe store of James T. Stenson & Sons, has been purchased by Ben Chesler who acquired possession yesterday.

Only the consideration of his health influenced Herbert E. Stenson in a decision a short time ago to think of retiring for the purpose of obtaining the rest which he realized had become necessary. Prior to that Mr. Chesler had disposed of his ladies' and men's wear shop on George street, and presumably inaction in the meantime prompted him to cast about for some other enterprise, with the result that he has now become the proprietor of a shoe business, returning to a branch of retailing in which he had gained experience some years ago.

A Stenson shoe srore has been linked with the retail business in Peterborough since its establishment in 1840 by Robert J. Stenson, ten years prior to the municipal incorporation of the old town. Its first location was in the premises now occupied by the Hubert Chown Hardware. In those days shoes were handmade. Machine production had not been invented. The late Col. J. Wesley Miller was for some years foreman of the rather numerous group of shoemakers who occupied the second floor of the old Stenson shop of those comparatively primitive days of manual output, when boots and shoes and men's clothing were made by apprenticed shoemakers and tailors.

That is only a suggestive sketch of the original Stenson business which has survived through the same family through three generations. Robert J. Stenson was succeeded by his son the late James T. Stenson and eventually became known under the trade name of J. T. Stenson & Sons with location since some time prior to 1890 in the present building at 364 George street. In its recent years it has been carried on by H. E. Stenson, since the death of his brother.

Veteran shoemakers who used to work at the bench related that in those bygone times of the handmade shoes money was scarce. It often happened that farmers, for example, buying boots for themselves and families, would pay for them on what was actually a system of barter. They would bring in a load of wood, many of them at least, or their commodity of exchange might be a dressed pork, or quarters of beef, and the shoemakers received part of their wages in wood or meat or butter, or whatever the accumulated stock of barter offered at the week-end.

That memory reflects part of the merchandising background from which the Stenson shoe store emerged with the changing methods of manufacture and styles and materials.

"I want to carry on the business as it is," Mr. Chesler told the Examiner today. "The staff is remaining with me, and is well known to the people of Peterborough and the district. I am not making any changes, and I intend to carry the same fine quality of stock which has given the Stenson name such a good business reputation for such an extraordinary long time."

Sneak Thieves Work On Cars

Motorists are warned that an epidemic of sneak thieving from cars has broken out here again during the past few days and a number of automobiles has been ransacked.

Elmer H. Tighe reported to the police that he left his car parked at Park and Wolfe streets while he was at work in the C.G.E. and on his return found that two rugs and a flashlight had been stolen.

James N. Parry, 205 Sherbrooke street complained that some one had broken into his garage and broke a window to gain entrance to his car but nothing was stolen in his case.

Tools were stolen from the truck of Graham and Wells, stolen during Thursday night.

Gimme Woman Forgets Patriotism In Effort To Prove Her Smartness To Coal Merchants

The Peterborough fuel dealers could get out an extra edition of innumerable pages recounting their experience with the dear public this winter and also away back to last March or April. Probably the most uninteresting but certainly the most edifying and reassuring would be those telling the simple story of co-operation of so many citizens who have been toeing the line of the very letter of the law, trying to help their dealers, not hinder, in a season of emergency and worry.

Here is just one sample story in a different theme, to be assigned to the voluminous chisellers' section.

A very loyal, patriotic and law-abiding woman she is. According to her estimate of herself. One day she called her dealer. Could she get any coal .. .. well, a ton would help . . . Oh not all hard coal .. .. "No madam we are allowed to sell you three-quarters of a ton of anthracite and one-quarter of a grade B coal." .. .. "Very well, send it along, but please ask your driver not to mix it until he comes to the house . . . Please."

Tricky Customer

The driver arrived at the house and was asked to run the hard coal into a cellar bin, first—that was important; leaving the impression that the "B" coal would go somewhere else. And so it did! It went back to the yard.

When the hard coal was in the cellar, the woman appeared with the money for the 1,750 pounds, and then told the driver to take the volatile remainder back to where he got it. Presumably there was as much glee in that household as there was rage when the boss heard the driver's experience. And she is not a married woman, although that does not seem the way to introduce a probably irrelevant detail.

The dealers believe there are teeth in coal laws, but there does not seem to be anybody who can set it to work in such cases.

IN ENGLAND TOO—Donald Toms, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Toms, 689 Gilchrist Street, has arrived overseas. He has been in the R.C.A.F. for three years, and up to that time was employed in the machine shop at the C.G.E.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser President Flower Lovers

The Peterborough Horticultural Society held its eighty-second annual meeting in the rooms of the Department of Agriculture on Thursday evening.

Due to the severe and prolonged illness of E. W. Watson, president for the past three years, J. A. Smith occupied the chair for the preliminary proceedings. In a brief chairman's address Mr. Smith welcomed a goodly audience and thanked the officers for their co-operation and assistance during 1943.

W. C. Wilks, secretary-treasurer, in giving the financial statement, said the society was in a sound financial condition. Brief committee reports followed and one of the most interesting which speaks well for the future of the society was that on the junior work by S. T. Harris.

Following the brief business interlude J. A. Smith, acting as immediate past president, conducted the election of officers for 1944. For the first time in the history of the society a lady was elected president by acclamation. Mrs. G. K. Fraser received the generous congratulations of the honor confirmed upon her.

A. D. Butcher was elected 1st vice-president, with W. J. Smith as 2nd vice-president. W. C. Wilks was elected for the ninth term as secretary-treasurer. Directors for two years were nominated and elected as follows: Fred Story, J. Jessen, S. T. Harris, F. Dainton and G. Duncan. J. Rigden was elected for a one-year term to occupy the vacancy created by W. J. Smith's elevation to the position of vice-president. Directors with one year remaining are: Mrs. E. S. Kingdon, Mrs. A. Butcher, A. T. Brown and J. S. Mason. Auditors elected were H. L. Beal and Fred Holmes. Honorary members are: Mr. Beal, Alderman R. M Glover, G. K. Fraser, M.P., Dr. A. J. Madill and Mayor James Hamilton.

At the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting R. W. Oliver, division of horticulture, C.E.F., Ottawa, was introduced by Mr. Smith. Mr. Oliver carefully outlined the preparation of soil for the purpose of potting plants, etc. He made available detailed information concerning the careful feeding of plants and recommended a fertilizer of 4 per cent. nitrogen, 12 per cent. phosphorus and a 4 per cent. potash as being safe and of sound food value for all general plants.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Mrs. Fraser voiced the grateful appreciation of the listeners and assured Mr. Oliver of a hearty welcome on a return visit to Peterborough in the near future.

Door prizes awarded at the meeting were won by Alex. Butcher, J. Jessen and Miss Noreen Fraser.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 14.—(CP).—William C. Burdett, 60, United States Minister New Zealand, died to-day.

Box At Empress Brings $20 To War Victims

From time to time, various reports of collections made from the penny boxes, of which there are some 40 located through the city has appeared in this column for the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund.

None of them could be called very large, yet in the aggregate they have made a wonderful showing amounting to the second largest contribution that has come from any one single type of effort. The total now is quite close to the $2000 mark.

Among these, the Empress Hotel has played quite a leading part, for as a general rule it has appeared on almost a weekly basis and the amount was never below the $2.00 mark for that period of time.

Over the Christmas season with a great many other things to do in connection with the operational duties of the fund, the weekly collection was not made, and as a result of this, the amount has risen so that today a splendid contribution for this type of activity is recorded in an amount of $20.00.

When collected, the actual contens stood at $19.25 and it was immediately made up to the even amount by the same person whose untiring interest has been responsible for a large part of the splendid amount of help this one box has given to the fund.

Buckhorn Box Nets $$7.32.

On this particular day, it also happens that another box gives a helping hand from the district, its contents also were quite above the average for $7.32 was take from it when brought in by Bert Boomhower, general merchant at Buckhorn, in whose place of business it has been doing its silent yet efficient work on behalf of the fund.

Should any other proprietor wish to give a helping hand through sponsoring one of these boxes in his place of business in the district, the secretary for the fund would be pleased to supply a container on request.

New Kind of Draw

There seems to be no limit to the ways and means by which money has been raised through a draw for the fund. One would hardly think that a draw for a packet of cigarettes would be attractive enough to cause any support, yet it remained for the Wage Rate and Planning girls at the C. G.E. Co., Ltd., to do this through a donation by Peter A. Moore, from which the fund today is richer by the sum of $1.77, and it would seem that much fun could be engendered by similar events for some such small objectives, and in themselves prove of value in giving help to such worthy objects as this is.

Right now another draw is being sponsored in the C.G.E. Co., Ltd., for three prizes of handmade hockey gloves, made and donated by T. I. Hill which in these days are not so easy to procure, and should prove to be quite some interest to those who indulge in this particular Canadian sport.

Cache Of Brandy

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 14— (CP-Reuters). — During a recent attack on the mountainous Villa Grande sector, one Allied tank was held up by a brick wall. Instead of charging into the obstacle, the tank fired a round into it. When the wall collapsed, it exposed a double wall in which was cached 30 cases of brandy—360 bottles in all.

SOVIET NEW BORDER—Some concessions may be made by Moscow in an effort to settle the dispute with the Polish government-in-exile over the border between the two countries. Indicated on the map above are the prewar boundary, the border agreed upon by Russia and Germany in 1939 and the new line proposed now by Moscow, which is the old Curzon Line of 1919. East Prussia probably would be included in Poland.

30 Assessors Decide At Meeting Employers Undervalue Work

"I have been in official municipal work for 32 years, and I don't think the assessor is recognized as he should be in municipal government," said George D. Scott, assessor of New Toronto, at the first meeting of the assessor of No. 5 district of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario in the city council chamber here this morning.

About 30 assessors and other municipal officers were present when the zone chairman, M. R. Sloan, called the meeting to order.

"One of our purposes," said Mr. Scott, president of the provincial association, "is to raise the standard and the status of the assessor, and place him where he belongs in municipal government. During my 32 years I was municipal clerk part of that time, and I suppose I went around with my chest stuck out because the clerk was generally regarded as the chief officer in the municipal government. In the municipalities which employ both clerks and treasurers, you generally find a rivalry between the clerk and treasurer as to which is the more important.

Necessary Evil

Councils seem to look upon their assessors as something like necessary nuisances in the municipal administration, and that is not as it should be, because the whole financial structure of the municipality is based on its assessment. For that reason the office and the work of the assessor is very important. One of the things we are hoping for is that council will recognize the assessors as important officers and give them the tools they need for their work. The more that is done, the more will the municipality benefit from the assessor's work.

In the smaller municipalities there are a lot of spare time assessors. Ratepayers should know that if they pay their assessor $150 or $250 a year, they will get just about what they pay for."

In regard to equalization of assessments by county councils, Mr. Scott said he would defy the members of any county council to take the assessments of the constituent municipalities and sit down in a committee room and try to work out equalization in the first day or two they are there, "especially if they don't know the basis of assessment in these various municipalities."

Individual Basis

Equalization should begin with the individual assessments of the municipalities. Permissive legislation by the provincial government has provided for the appointment of county assessment commissioners, and three or four county councils have already appointed such officials. The present duties of the assessment commissioner are to go around the county with the different assessors, and generally to supervise their work.

Mr. Scott said this was a step in the right direction. If such appointments continue to be made elsewhere in the province, assessors would be able to work with the same yardstick, and approach uniformity of valuation.

The day might come, Mr. Scott said, when county assessments will be made by county assessors, and municipalities will have a better chance of effecting a fuller measure of equalization.

Hon. George Dunbar, the new Minister of Municipal Affairs, is sympathetic to the establishment of schools for assessors, and some development in that direction may be forth coming next fall, Mr. Scott said.

The assessors and municipal officers were cordially welcomed by Mayor Hamilton, and the first paper was given by Reg. Hunter of North Monaghan, dealing with assessment of a mixed urban and rural municipality. The conference is continuing this afternoon.

Body Recovered Seeking Another

ERIE, PA., Jan. 14 (AP)—Coast Guardsmen recovered the body of an unidentified man from Lake Erie today after the 17-year-old wife of a sailor told police she pushed her "boy friend" off the municipal wharf during a scuffle.

Police Lieutenant Stanley Fubeja said the woman told him a man she knew was John Kormeckie, 23, fell off the wharf, broke through a one-inch coating of ice and failed to come to the surface after she pushed him away from her about 7 p.m. last night. She called police shortly before midnight to tell them of the incident.

Coast Guardsmen brought up the body of a man about 50 years old and believed to be a waterfront character known only as "Big Finn the Fisherman."

The mystery deepened when morgue attendants said the body apparently had been in the water about a month. Coast Guardsmen continued to drag the lake for another body.

Jet Plane Secret Almost Leaks Out

LONDON, Jan. 14—(CP-Reuters. — The secret of the jet-propelled plane very nearly leaked out—and all through a small boy with a model plane.

An officer somewhere in the Midlands came across a group of small boys playing with model planes. At first he watched with interest and then with dismay, for one boy had a model plane without any propellers.

It was an excellent model of the secret jet-propelled plane of which the public then knew nothing. The officer confiscated the plane and questioned the boy's father. The father, who had worked on Britain's "secret weapon," admitted thoughtlessly making a model for his son.

Th model was destroyed and the father sternly warned.

Dessert For Waldo

ROXBORO, N.C., Jan. 14—(AP). — While feeding his mule Waldo Satterfield lost his billfold, containing $100 in currency. A little later he discovered his loss, went to the stall to look for it. All he could find was the indigestible zipper.

Change System

TORONTO, Jan. 14—(CP).—Premier George Drew said yesterday the 21st session of the Ontario Legislature will see members revert to the rectangular seating plan used prior to 1930, when a semi-circular arrangement of desks were instituted. Reason for the change is that four political parties—Progressive Conservatice, C.C.F., Liberal, and Labor-Progressive—are represented in the House.

Miscellaneous Shower

Prior to her marriage Mrs. Wilfred Leroux, nee Mary Mongraw, was guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Reginald Mongraw, 129 James street, at which she received many gifts. During the evening Mrs. Elmer Pearse played the piano and Miss Betty McLeod sang, and refreshments were served. The bride-elect also received a purse of money from her fellow employees at the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, as a wedding gift.

CAFE-DATE DRESS — Off shoulder line, bertha collar sequin bedizened, short and slim skirt, deft shirring on bodice and skirt, compose this Nine to Seventeen Size dinner date frock. There likely never has been a Junior Miss who didn't feel the lure of black sequins . . . along about her fifteenth birthday; mothers have had to cope with this fascination for generations. The whole family can be satisfied, however, by a frock like the one shown above. It is for the 'teen age girl who takes her uniformed beaux dancing these nights, and black and sequined though it be, it yet remains a young and appropriate model.

Evening Guild Returns 1943 Officers

The complete executive of the Evening Branch of the Guild of St. George's Anglican Church was returned to office at the election of officers held at the annual meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Crouter, 399 Edison Avenue, with Rev. E. C. Moore in charge of the service of installation.

Officers for 1944 are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. E. C. Moore; president, Mrs. E. Cooper; first vice-president, Mrs. W. Thompson; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Bradley; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. White; press representative, Mrs. C. Crouter; Advisory Board representative, Mrs. H. Bradley; buying convener, Mrs. H. Siddall; social conveners, Mrs. C. Nixon and Mrs. W. Bannon.

Reports for 1943 were given by committee representatives, and, in his remarks, Mr. Moore mentioned the excellent work done by the Guild, and complimented the executive on a successful year.

After the business meeting, a social hour was spent with the rector, Rev. Moore, and the two wardens, Mr. E. W. Cooper and Mr. C. Crouter, and refreshments were served.

Candidates Pass As Reg. Nurses

Several girls from Peterborough and district who are training at Nicholls or St. Joseph's Hospital were successful in passing their registered nurses' examinations.

Successful candidates from Nicholls Hospital are as follows:

Miss Melva Irwin, of Gull Lake, Sask.; Miss Jacqueline Stone, of Omemee; Miss Eleanor Morrison, of South Monaghan; Miss Mary Haddow, of Peterborough; Miss Beatrice Sim, of Allandale; (Mrs.) Joyce Trumpour Ada, of Cannington.

Successful candidates from St. Joseph's Hospital were:

Rev. Sister Loretta, of Peterborough; Miss Margaret Polmie, of Wainwright, Alta.; Miss Bernace Taylor, of Parry Sound; Miss Audrey Hopkins, of Sudbury; Mrs. D. Fraser (nee Marjorie Tait), of Niagara Falls; Miss Helen Benelle, of Toronto; Miss Verna Isaacs, of Toronto; Miss Madeleine Curtin, of Peterborough; Miss Margaret Wilkins, of Peterborough.

Mary A. Mongraw Weds W. Leroux

A pretty winter wedding was solemnized in Immaculate Conception church recently, when Rt Rev. Monsignor O'Sullivan united in marriage Mary Anne Mongraw and Wilfred Lawrence Leroux. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mongraw, 129 James street, and the groom is the son of Mr. Israel Leroux and the late Mrs. Leroux, of Penetanguishene.

The bride was gowned in a street-length dress of winter white wool, with a white feather hat, and shoulder length veil. She carried a white prayer book with ribbon streamers, and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Romeo Mongraw attended the bride, wearing a royal blue herringbone suit, matching hat, and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Romeo Mongraw, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and Mr. Mel. Rogers, and Mr. William Hunt, brothers-in-law of the bride, were ushers. Mrs. M. McDonald played the wedding music, and during the ceremony Mrs. D. Campanero sang.

At the reception, held in Hooper's Palm Rooms, the bride's mother received, wearing dusty rose chantille, and a corsage of red roses. Also receiving was Miss Isabel Leroux, sister of the groom, in black crepe trimmed with sequins, and a corsage of red roses.

After a short honeymoon, the young couple will live in Toronto.

MOST SUCCCESSFUL WOMEN NOT USUALLY BEAUTY CUP WINNERS

Happiest, Best Married Girls' Faces Good to Look At, Kind and Intelligent.

How much of an asset is beauty to a woman? Of course, the time-honored theory is that a girl's face is her fortune, and that the best gift that her Fairy Godmother can drop into a female baby's cradle is a peaches-and-cream complexion, naturally curly hair, and a pair of soulful orbs.

This belief is based upon the assumption that the good-looker can get all of the balance of the top drawer things in life for herself, and that men, in especial, will vie with each other in casting wedding rings and jewels and limousines and such like at her feet.

Beauty Can Be Handicap

Undoubtedly the great majority of both sexes fall for this ancient fallacy, yet we have only to look about us to see that while we worship beauty in the abstract, it cuts very little ice with us in the concrete, and that except in certain specialized professions, such as the chorus, modeling and the cinema, excessive pulchritude is more apt to be a hindrance than a help.

Certainly being Miss America is no assistance to a girl in getting a good job, for no employer wants a girl around the premises whose appearances is such as to lead to office flirtations and to cause business acquaintances, with amorous tendencies, to make passes at her. I once asked a friend of mine why he had parted with a secretary who was not only exceedingly pretty but exceedingly competent, and he replied: "Because of her looks. Half of the men who came to see me on important matters would dig me in the ribs, and say: 'Who's the little queen in the outer office? She is certainly an eyeful!" And that wasn't good for the girl, nor for me, nor for the business."

Furthermore, about ninety-nine married men out of a hundred find that it saves a lot of domestic friction to employ ladies whose age and looks will arouse no heartburnings in their wives' breasts, instead of pin-up girls.

Even in marriage, where beauty is supposed to be the best bait with which to capture a husband the charm is not notably successful. For if you will cast your eye over the wives of your acquaintance, you will observe that few of them could ever have taken the blue ribbon in a beauty contest. Apparently while men rave over living pictures, they show no overwhelming desire to possess them, and it is a fact that girls who are just moderately good-looking marry all around the glamorous ones. Every community has plenty of old maids who were famous beauties in their girlhood.

Envy, Spite Aroused by Beauty

Another reason why beauty is not always the blessing that women think it is is because more than any other quality it arouses envy and spite and jealously in the members of their sex. Women will forgive a sister woman any other crime quicker than being better looking than they are. They can rej'ce in a homely woman's success; they can admire her talents; they can push her fortunes wholeheartedly, but if she is a beauty—wow! They've got their knives out for her, and she has to fight them every step of the way.

For everything there is a reason, and the reason that beauty is so often a handicap to women instead of being an advantage, as it should be, is because they overvalue it. They think that if the outside of their heads is sufficiently adorned, it doesn't matter whether their brains are empty or not. They believe that a pretty face offsets a mean and selfish disposition and a cold and callous heart. And this isn't true. It doesn't take us long to get bored with the beautiful but dumb, and to see nothing but ugliness in the arrogant and vain who are so self-centered that they consider nothing but their own pleasure and advancement.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 15

WITH strict and reasonable attention to the demand of the day, this may prove to be one of definite and enduring progress, with future security and worth well established. But a general tendency to balk at the necessity for putting the affairs on sound and enduring basis, may not only cause friction with elders and superiors but also undermine the standing, credit and good name, and beget unhappy reactions on the health and domestic welfare. With due regard for strictly playing the game of life according to codes, there may be some specific gain and personal gratifications. Shun extravagance or frittering away the energies and substance.

Those whose birthday it is may have a perplexing and frustrated year, if they disregard personal as well as business obligations, as this is likely to produce friction and inharmony in both private and business life. Defying or overlooking serious demands of duty may have reactions detrimental to credit, reputation, social and domestic wellbeing. The tendency to reckless expenditures in energy, funds and over-indulgences in many forms may undermine some very promising prospects. Flaunting such responsibilities and opportunities is bound to have its unhappy penalties.

A child born on this day may have made fair abilities and opportunities, but may be disposed to flaunt the serious demands of living, seeking the happy-go-lucky mode of life, unless checked in early years.

St. George's Choir Names Officers

The choir of St. George's Anglican church held its annual election of officers at the regular meeting of the choir, this week, and Rev. E. C. Moore conducted the service of installation. In his remarks Rev. Moore spoke of the good-fellowship and co-operation given to him by the choir through the choirmaster, Mr. Jack Branson, and organist, Mr. Norman Hurrle.

Officers elected are as follows: Honorary president, Rev. C. E. Moore; president, Mr. Wilfred Davies; vice-president, Mrs. E. Cooper; secretary, Mrs. C. Crouter; treasurer, Mrs. R. Pilling; robe mistress, Mrs. N. Hall; librarian, Miss Gwen Cooper; Advisory Board representative, Mrs. J. McWilliams; social convener, Mrs. C. Cole.

5-Man Board Suggested For Union Job

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (CP) — Administration of collective bargaining legislation in Ontario by a five-man board rather than by courts is proposed in a draft trade union act made public Thursday by C.C.F. trade union committee over the signatures of E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader, and F. A. Brewin.

The draft will form the basis for legislation which the C.C.F. will introduce at the next session of the Ontario legislature, provides for a government - appointed administrative board at least two members of which would be representatives of labor.

An accompanying statement says that the act defines company-dominated unions "in such a manner that there could be no difficulty in the way of the board in effectively striking out these organizations."

The definition, from the draft act, says that a company-dominated union "shall be any association of employees the formation, maintenance or proceedings of which have been assisted by any employer or employer's agent, or to which an employer or employer's agent has contributed financial or material assistance, or which an employer or employer's agent has dominated, coerced, influenced or interfered with directly or indirectly in respect to its internal management and policy."

When a bargaining agency establishes that it is supported by 25 per cent. of the employees, a vote would automatically follow. The statement says the present act lacks a definite standard.

Basic principle of the legislation is described as "the wishes of the employees themselves" and the right of employees in a craft union to be separately represented is provided.

The draft provides for the appeal of the present collective bargaining act as well as the amendment to the judicature act under which the Labor court was established. Bargaining agencies certified by the present court would remain in force for one year from the date of the Labor court order "unless it be shown to be a company-dominated union."

WMS Prepares For Presbyterial

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14.—(ENS). — Mrs. M. Jory entertained members of the executive of the W. M. S. when it was announced that the Presbyterial meeting will be held in Knox United church, Peterborough, on January 26.

After some discussion the ladies decided to try the group system this year in the W.M.S. and the following group leaders were chosen: Mrs. P. H. Darling, Mrs. T. Morin, Mrs. J. A. Porter and Mrs C S. Tanner.

The associated members are to be asked to a special meeting in April to be held at the home of Mrs. J. McKerchar. The Women's Auxiliary and the Missionary and Service Club will be guests of the W.M.S. at a joint meeting and a committee from each society will arrange the program.

Dainty refreshments were then served by the hostess.

Personals.

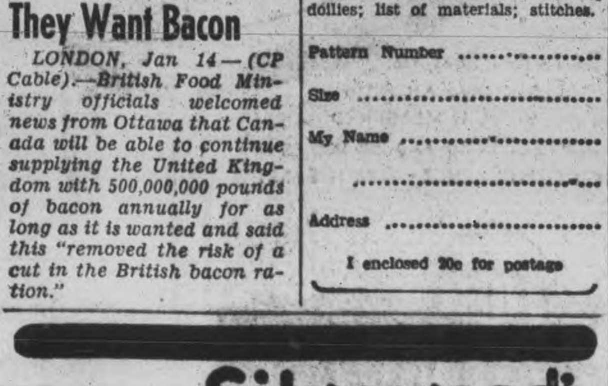
HELD AS SPY—Count William Albrecht von Pressentin Gennant von Rautter, a members of a noble German family, was arrested on charges of violating wartime espionage laws by the F.B.I. An American citizen, he is accused of corresponding with German agents in neutral European countries.



Fire Chief Clark Reports Heavier Losses

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14— (ENS)— Fire Chief Allan Clark stated in his annual report presented to the Council that fire loss in the village was heavier in 1943 than in some years. Most of the fire loss was caused by two major fires early in the year. At one of these aid was given to the local brigade from the Peterborough Fire Department owing to the weather conditions and the surrounding property involved. In April a call from Douro Township Council was received and on instructions from the Reeve the brigade answered the fire alarm in that township, for which the village was reimbursed. Owing to enlistments in the armed forces and war work which has caused the removal from town of some of the members, the Chief has been forced to make some readjustments in the personnel of the Department, but has been able to secure good replacements. The citizens in general have been generous with their assistance in time of emergency.

13 in Forces.

The Department's honor roll contains the names of 13 of its members who are serving in the forces. When answering an alarm in May, truck No. 1 sustained a broken axle, and owing to lack of parts the machine was out of service for two weeks, but is now running This truck will soon have to be replaced as it has been in service 18 years and is not in good condition. The alarm system has been maintained as usual and the staff of the Bell Telephone Company has given excellent service in this connection. The attention of the Reeve and Council was drawn to the fact that the water situation in Bishop-Albert-Concession area has not been improved.

Supply Hose.

Fire prevention work has been carried out during the year with inspections being made, patrol maintained at schools, churches, public buildings, water tanks and other property checked for fire hydrants. Chief Clark had addressed several groups of citizens on this subject. Regular training sessions had been held under difficult conditions owing to members working on opposite shifts, but all are qualified to handle their duties. Discipline has been good, and there were no injuries to report. The operating cost of the Department has been low compared to the service rendered and the efficiency of the Department is reflected in the favorable insurance rates in the village and the rating which the fire underwriters have given the Department.

Attends Conferences.

In January Chief Clark attended the civil defence conference in Toronto in his capacity as a member of the board of directors of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association. On the Council's instructions he attended the annual fire chiefs' convention in St. Catharines in August. Chief Clark was chairman of the Credential Committee at this convention and was also re-appointed assistant secretary of the association for the fifth term. During the year there were eight general alarms, 24 telephone and one outside calls; 24 calls were answered by truck No. 1 and nine by truck No. 2. In conclusion, Chief Clark thanked his men and other societies for their support and co-operation during the past year.

Warns Farmers

RIDGETOWN, Ont., Jan. 14 (CP) —Dr. G. P. McRostie, director of field husbandry at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, advised more than 200 farmers at the Experimental farm here yesterday against the sowing of western grain in 1944, regardless of early-season prospects.

Flower Growers Review Plans

MILLBROOK, Jan. 14 (ENS) — The Millbrook Horicultural Society met for its annual gathering in the council chamber, the president, H. A. Kerr, taking the chair.

Reports showed work done in 1943, had been hampered greatly by lack of help, so that it had been practically impossible to carry out the plans for the beautification of the village. The president warned that the same situation faced the society for 1944, but thought it might be possible to have a bee of the members in the early spring, and take necessary care of municipal flower plots.

Report on Funds

The treasurer, Mrs. M. W. Ball, reported total receipts of $139.72, expenditures $71.24; balance in bank $68.48. All present paid their fees for 1944, thus gaining the right to vote, and the election resulted in the following slate of officers: President, H. A. Kerr; vice-presidents, Mrs Charles Thorndyke and Mrs. Percy Stinson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. F. Harrington; directors for three years, Mrs. Howard Fair, Mr. T. W. McCamus, Mrs. Ross Edmunds and Mrs. Thorndyke; for two years, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. W. E. Ball, Miss Josie Sutton and Mr. Kerr. Committee to choose premiums, besides the president and vice-presidents, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, Mrs. Edmunds and Mr. McCamus; Auditors, Rev. A. E. Chevis and Percy Stinson. The affiliation fee was ordered paid and $15 voted toward delegates' expenses to the annual convention at Toronto, February 24-25. A carload will go, if roads and weather permit, and one appointed member will bring back a report.

"Victory Gardens" were urged as an activity for 1944, first in importance and of patriotic value. At the next board meeting definite plans of work that may be undertaken will be presented, village beautification being the ideal in view.

Challenge Ahead

TORONTO, Jan. 14 (CP)—Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell told a Toronto Club (Lions) yesterday that although in the municipal field the efforts of those who would bring about State Communism—"Either through the Communists or the C.C.F."—appear to be checked, the issue is still being fought out and "the really critical time has not arrived."

Claims 3 Spies Sent By British Office

BERNE, Jan. 14 — (AP). — A story that three British officers parachuted into Rumania recently with a copy of a German offer to give large areas of Rumania to Russia—if the Soviets would call off the war—was reported to be making the rounds of the Bucharest diplomatic corps to-day.

According to the diplomatic account, as reported from Budapest by the newspaper Basler Nachrichten's correspondent, the Nazis expressed willingness for Russia to annex all the provinces of Bessarabia and Bucovina.

The story, the correspondent added, might be merely "a cool British propaganda trick even if true, but in any case it can be considered as a characteristic chapter of the nerve war."

This is the story as related to the Swiss newspaper:

On December 24 three British officers supposedly landed by parachute, made their way to a house, and asked that the police be called then asked the police to take them to the nearest military commander.

There they identified themselves as Col. Petersen, former Ploesti oil employee; Maj. De Chartellini, a former director of an oil company at Unirea, and Metzeanu, a former Rumanian citizen who became a naturalized British citizen.

After informing the military commander that they were the bearers of a message from the British Government for Premier Ion Antonescu, they were taken to Bucharest where they were seen by the Rumanian general staff. The dispatch did not say that they actually saw Antonescu.

The British officers, according to the story, are being held prisoners of war receiving preferred treatment.

IN MEMORIAM

RUTHERFORD — In loving memory of our mother, Annie Elizabeth Rutherford, who departed this life January 14, 1943. Also our father, James Alexandria Rutherford, who departed this life February 17, 1938.

Gone into that light that shines so fair,
Gone from the earth of sorrow and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
God grant our dear mother and father rest.

—Ever remembered by the family. Also by granddaughter, Dorothy and grandson, Everett.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Adam Humphries wish to extend their sincere thanks to their many friends and neighbours for their expressions of sympathy and kindness during their sad bereavement in the loss of their dear mother. Also to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Glover.

The wife and son of the late Thomas C. Holden, wish to thank the doctor and nurses of Nicholls Hospital, all branches of the Orange Order, and friends and neighbours who sent expressions of sympathy and floral tributes during our recent bereavement.

They do not feel that they have to be anything but good-lookers, but the plain girl realizes that, not having beauty, she must develop a different line. She can't afford to have a bad complexion and bad manners. She can't be a heavy weight, mentally and physically, if she is going to get anywhere, so she cultivates her mind and her heart. She learns to be tactful and how to handle people. She makes herself an interesting companion and a competent employee, and nobody thinks about her looks.

If the women to whom the gods have denied the fatal gift of beauty would ask themselves who are the happiest women they know, the best married, who are the most successful, who are the most loved, who are the most popular, they would not find many beauties among them. They would find that they were women whose faces are good to look at because they are so kind and intelligent. Let the ugly duckling find comfort in that.

OBITUARIES

HENRY WALTER PETERSON

The death of Henry Walter Peterson of Deloro occurred in hospital on Thursday following an illness of two weeks. He was 58 years old.

Born in Blairton, Ont., the son of the late Albert Peterson and Eliza King, he had resided in Deloro and district for nearly 30 years, coming from Blairton. He was an employee of Deloro Smelters, and a member of Blairton L.O.L. No. 1255. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Eliza Mack; two daughters, Mrs. H. Farrance and Miss Flossie Peterson; and a son, Arthur of Peterborough. A brother, Albert Peterson, and a sister, Miss Mae Peterson, live in Marmora.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, with service conducted by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Anglican church. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE N. BABCOCK

The death of Mrs. Mary Grace Babcock, widow of the late George Newton Babcock, occurred Wednesday at the residence of her son, George H. Babcock, Lakeshore Highway, Nelson Township. She was in her 82nd year.

The body is resting at Southall's Funeral Home, Burlington for service Friday evening at 8. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

MRS. MATILDA AGNES HALES.

The death of Mrs. Matilda Agnes Hales, of Apsley, occurred in hospital on Thursday. Ill only a short time, she passed away in her 85th year.

Mrs. Hales was born in Northumberland county, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Daniels and had made her home in Apsley most of her life. She was a member of Apsley United church.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. I. W. Lean of Apsley, Mrs. A. W. Lane of Peterborough and Miss Mildred Hales, of Peterborough. A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Russell Hales, resides in Apsley.

The body is resting at the funeral parlours of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water street, where private service will be held on Monday at 1.30 p.m. and thence to the Apsley United church for service at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made in Apsley Union cemetery.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis four years ago to-day decuared five major leaguers and 88 minor baseball players free agents as a result of an investigation of the farm operations of Detroit Tigers of the American League. Detroit lost an estimated $500,000 in player-material by this decision.

Periscope Is A Mop Sailors Terrified

OMAHA, Jan. 14 — (AP). — Francis Hahn, on furlough after a year on Guadalcanal where he underwent 250 bombings, recounted what he considers one of the most nerve-shattering of his war experiences: "On our way to Guadalcanal, we became separated from the convoy during the night. When dawn came, we sighted what we thought was a periscope. We could all see it. It came closer. I was scared to death.

"The guns opened up. It still came closer, closer. Tension was at a breaking point. Suddenly it could be seen clearly, down in the water —a mopstick. The end was down in the water, holding the stick up straight."

Truck Runs Over Ezra Sawyer On Dorset Road

LINDSAY, Jan. 14 — (ENS) — A fatal accident of unusual character, took place on the Minden-Dorset Highway late on Thursday afternoon, whereby Ezra Sawyer, aged 46, a bachelor of Dorset, lost his life.

According to Provincial Constable Hendren of Minden, Archie Fowler of Milford Bay, Muskoka, was moving a long mill boiler he had just purchased, from Carnarvon to Paint Lake. He hired a trucker, Morgan Pritchard, to help move the big boiler and firebox up the Dorset Highway, with its many bends and hills. The long boiler was on the Fowler truck, with the rear end and the firebox extending out to a pair of heavy wood sleighs. Pritchard was in the lead hauling with a 20-foot chain. To navigate the curves and hills the outfit had to keep to the left side of the road, going north, so Sawyer was sent ahead to warn oncoming traffic.

While the drivers were watching out the left cab windows, and while on a heavy hill, Fowler happened to glance out the right window of his cab and just saw the face of Sawyer, who as suposed to be in advance of the trucks. The next instant and he felt the truck go over a bump. Whether Sawyer had attempted to get on the running board or whether he suffered a dizzy spell is not known. He fell under the rear wheel, which was revolving so fast that his body was tossed back some 20 feet, where he was found, face downward, badly crushed and dead.

Print New Maps

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—(CP).—Leslie Frost, Ontario Minister of Mines, yesterday announced publication of geological reports and maps covering areas in East Kirkland Lake, Haliburton and Fort Hope (Patricia.) Mr. Frost said these publications form part of a new series of maps and reports that will eventually cover the entire Kirkland-Larder gold belt.

soldiers are not in the same category as other senior teams. Kingston's hockey team is built on available material in the area and no time is lost for training. Kingston soldiers are on duty at the first call the morning after games and all their puck practice and play at home is done in spare time. In their play they help to entertain thousands of servicemen and civilians while it cost the government many thousands to entertain their soldier mates with special shows that tour the country at special salaries, with special trains and expensive props."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Bob Dyer of the Ramblers of the City Five Pin League pulled one for the book last night when he scored 289 in each of his three games for a high three of 867....Some of the mathematicians can figure out the odds against such a coincidence happening....With big Ernie Powers coming here Tuesday night to handle the McCready-Davis bout the ace referee of the Ontario Athletic Association will be seen in action....Incidentally Toronto fans chased Hard-Boiled Hannigan under the ring after last night's bout and the Brooklyn bouncer had to be rescued by the police....After losing six straight games the Chicago Black Hawks finally ended their string of defeats by trimming New York Rangers 5 to 2. The game was in New York and the odd feature is that in spite of the fact that the Rangers are in the cellar and had lost their last five games nearly 14,000 fans attended the game....Flash Hollett made himself solid with Detroit by scoring a third period goal at Montreal to give the Red Wings a 2-2 draw with Canadiens.

A-BDR. WILLIAM ROME

FO. J. B. ARMSTRONG

The Army racing tracks in the Mediterranean area may not be able to compare with the ritzy affairs which are conducted back home, but a donkey derby in Italy, minus sleek horses and sophisticated women, can arouse any crowd of soldiers to wild enthusiasm and betting. An eye witness of one of these affairs, A-Bdr. Rome, wrote the following account.

For a week before the race excitement ran high. Although donkey racing may not be a novelty to some, to the soldiers just becoming used to the queer ways of these animals, the thought held more than a touch of humor. And the thoughts were justified. The victims picked as riders had no idea of what would befall them and the racers themselves acted mostly on whim, taking more than one soldier unawares.

"A fanfare of trumpets announced to the expectant Army throng intermingled with Italians in their bright shawls and long black capes that the first race was starting. Some of the bookees were giving odds as high as 108 to 1. Six donkeys, a soldier at the head of each to lead, and one beside to load the boxes of ammunition, awaited the drop of the flag. They were loaded at a furious clip, and the men and animals tore down that hill in a shower of mud. As they reached the mud-hole at the bottom, one donkey rid himself of his burden by rolling over. "Armor Piercing" was the first to cross the line with odds of 80 to 1.

Sit Down Strike

"Box Car, Non Capisce, Vino Express, Mud Biscuit, Dark Victory, and Vinchiatura Mystery" started the next race along the road. Each had a rider mounted and was distinguished by different colored ribbons. Riders had numbered cards on their backs. "Box Car" got away to a splendid start and soon led by some 100 yards. Five yards from the finish he stopped, never to go again. In spite of the supplications of one of the sergeants, who saw his sure winnings fading into oblivion, there he stood while "Vino Express" walked in, the winner. In desperation, several of "Box Car's" backers got behind him and literally pushed him over the line to win second prize.

"The inter-company final found the donkeys well used to the track and this was a good straight race. The finish was close. "Mud Biscuit," the favorite, took the decision by a neck; the others piled over the line in "one big heap of donkey."

Steady Does It

The story of the hare and the tortoise might well apply to the main event of the day, from A-Bdr. Rome's description, for the impossible happened. Twenty entries lined up on the starting line in a seething mass. Major Bailey, the padre, who was largely responsible for the derby, called the names of the entries and the riders all answered with the exception of one, "Who Cares." This forgotten donkey, a small mousy creature, remained tied to the fence, he said, and when a small soldier, Pte. Lotoski, came down the road he was immediately inveigled into riding it.

As the flag dropped "Mud Biccuit" took the lead, with "Slow Down" not far behind. Along the straight stretch they galloped to the bend in the road, up round the bend, and along the next fifty yards of straight stretch, the favorites increasing their lead. But as they reached the second bend, an unforeseen hazard came into play. Unknown to his rider, "Mud Biscuit's" way home lay along the lane that pointed ahead of the bend. Up this lane he bolted, and the other leaders followed. From somewhere in the rear, "Who Cares" appeared and swept around the bend on the correct course. The knot at the lane disentangled and "Base Plate" gained some ground. But "Who Cares" crossed the line, winner by 50 yards.

Paying Proposition

"The judges garlanded her with white carnations tied with red, white and blue ribbons, and a horseshoe of white carnations they threw over the shoulders of her rider. Three cups were presented by Col. Jefferson and they were cut from cartridge cases with names and dates engraved. Only one man had taken a ticket on "Who Cares" and she paid off at 70 to 1."

The boys let their imaginations go when it came to naming their racers. Some of the following names will serve as concrete illustrations. The donkeys were named: Choo-Choo, Grave Digger, Dog Patch Wonder, Legally Stolen, Road Priority, Cable of the Hills, Cremlin, Spare Rigs, Padre's Hour, Leaping Lena, Hell Bent, and Bad Diversion, to choose a few.

A-Bdr. Rome was formerly teaching at Queen Elizabeth School and he has been overseas for three years, having enlisted in 1940. His wife is in Fort William and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Rome, Sherbrooke street.

FO. J. B. (Bun) Armstrong, who has been overseas since March, 1943, and who has taken part in several raids on Berlin as bombardier, was recently elevated to his present rank. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Armstrong of Toronto and before enlisting he was employed at Ed. Riley's Men's store. His wife lives at 552 Harvey street. FO. Armstrong received his wings and commission at Malton in February, 1943.

Shortly before Christmas the Examiner carried a CP story about a small number of Canadian soldiers who rounded up 30 German prisoners. Three Peterborough boys were in this group, CPL. MIKE and L-CPL. PAT GAHAGAN and SGT. JACK HILL. CPL. Gahagan was wounded in Sicily but is able to be back in action.

A letter from Air Vice Marshal Robert Leckie, acting chief of the Air Staff, has been recieved by Richard Crowe, R. R. No. 2 Lakefield, about his son, FLT. SGT. Franklin Karl Crowe. The letter read:

"I have learned with deepest regret that your son is now for official purposes presumed to have died on June 23, 1943. I wish to offer you and your family my sincere sympathy. It is lamentable that a promising career should be thus terminated and I would like you to know that his loss is greatly deplored by all those with whom your son was serving."

Although BOB GRISDALE has only been overseas a short time on his initial visit to the town near his camp he managed to get into a number of difficulties. He finds the town somewhat difficult to get around in for instead of a residential and a business section the two are one, with a store, a couple of houses and then another store. He and two of his friends walked into a store and finding it crowded turned and decided to try another, so went next door, only to find to their intense chagrin that they had walked blandly into a private home. He and his chums left in a hurry. Then on the way home as they walked down a fairly wide road they came to a narrower foot bridge. His pals made the grade, but half way there he started walking where there was no bridge with the result that he fell about six feet, but outside of a shaking up, he escaped any injury. Gnr. Grisdale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grisdale, 152 Dufferin street.

A modern Santa Claus who rides in a tank to bring them presents was the sight which met the eyes of startled English children, when a group of Canadian soldiers of which SGMN. THOMAS BUNKER was a member, gave a Christmas party for them to give them a memory which they will treasure for the remainder of their lives. Sgmn. Bunker said he spent a rotten Christmas, but two days later the party they had more than made up for it.

"Our party was for children between five and ten years and what a time. We all chipped in and got everything we could to make them have a good time. We had nearly 100 children and no women were allowed to come along with them. That was our job to look after them. We had old Santa Claus come in a big tank with an escort of nine motorcycles. You should have seen the kids, eyeing the 1943 version. They all thought it was swell. We had the party in a big hall, and had shows and some of our boys entertained them too. We went around in big trucks and picked them all up and everyone was delighted at the way it went off."

An unusual amount of mail has been arriving at the Post Office from overseas this week, and there are bound to be many interestng letters among them. A large number of readers appear to follow the soldiers' lives as they are depicted in this column, but it is sometimes forgotten, that the information used depends on what the reader sends in. So send along your letters from Great Britain to the writer, care of the Examiner, and they will be returned unharmed.

Appeals To People

MONTREAL, Jan. 13 — (CP). — Gordon Graydon, national chairman of the Progressive Conservative party, said in an address here last night that if democracy is to become a "living, vital and virile thing" in Canada, the citizens of Canada must take an active interest in public affairs and encourage and participate in political discussions.

MONEY IN OLD BLADES

ENTRIES EASILY COUNTED

SOME PLAYERS who have difficulty counting up to 13 in all four suits, and get a bit befuddled in the process, should at least be able to count as high as two or three. That is usually all that is necessary to figure out how many entries you need to the dummy or your own hand, in order to bring in a suit which is fairly close to being established. But too often they fail to count.

South took the club J with dummy's singleton K, and promptly counted up a certain three tricks in that suit, two each in the red suits, making seven, so decided to seek a couple of others at least in spades. He led the spade 5 to the second trick, East playing low and letting the Q win. Back to dummy went the declarer with the diamond 5 to the K, and the spade K was led East came in with the A and, when he returned a club, South realized the spade suit was a dead duck. Only one entry, the heart K, remained in dummy, to try another spade round, which East could take with the J So South tried to build a thirteener in the red suits, but failed.

After the club K had been knocked out of dummy at the start, South should have counted entries. With only the red kings as re-entries, he should have played spades so as to knock out one of the defense's stoppers before the lead got out of dummy. Had he laid down the spade K to the second trick, East could not have hurt him by holding up or anything else. When East took one of his two stoppers, South could have gone back to dummy with the diamond K to knock out East's last spade stopper, and then could have used the heart K as the final re-entry to run the rest of the suit. By this simple change, he could have assured his contract plus two extra tricks.

Church Burns Mortgage At Annual Meet

MARMORA, Jan. 14 — (ENS)— The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church was held in the church on Wednesday, with Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher prehiding, when the mortgage was burned.

E. C. Prentice presenting the Sunday School report, said the school was functioning well and remarked that there was a good reservoir for teachers in the Young Women's Class which had been taught by Mrs. W. P. Fletcher. In addition to the regular offerings, two classes, the Explorers and C. G.I.T., had raised a total of $61 for special purposes. There are 11 teachers and officers, 94 pupils enrolled, and 33 on the cradle roll. Total receipts for the year had amounted to $153.07 and at the end of the year with all expenses met, there was a balance of $36.55.

Finish Mortgage.

The report of the W.A. was given by Mrs. T. Dickson, who spoke of the four circles which make up the association. Each held 10 meetings in the past year and the W.A. as a whole also held 10 meetings. There are 25 paid memberships. The association paid $407.50 to the Church Board to pay off the mortgage. At the close of the report, Mrs. Wesley Grant, one of the oldest members, was given the honor of burning it.

In giving the report of the Women's Missionary Society Miss M. Brown said there were 13 annual members and 1 life member. Nine regular meetings and one special were held in 1943, with an average attendance of nine. In addition to other activities a bale of clothing was sent to the northern part of the county. H R. Haacke, acting for Mrs. Haacke, reported for the Missionary and Maintenance, disclosing that $186.93 had been raised on an objective of $170. H. W. Sabine remarked that the objective for 1944 had been set at $200.

G. Murray, treasurer of the church, gave a statement of the church's financial position. Receipts were $2,740, and there was a small balance on hand after expenditures. The pastor told of visiting 98 households and there were 13 baptisms, 5 marriages, and six burials.

Nominations Report.

The report of the nominating committee was then adopted. It was as follows: Stewards 3 years, G. T. Osborne, D. P. Marett, D. B Sanderson and W. A. Sanderson; retiring in 1945, E. C. Prentice, C. Airhart, H. Bonter, and G. Murray; retiring in 1946 F. R. Wells, R. E. Neal, G. S Jarvis and W. J. Park; members of session 4 years, W. A. Sanderson, H. W. Sabine; retiring in 1945, H. A. Burwash and W. J. Park; retiring in 1946, H. R. Haacke and W. G. Chrysler; retiring in 1947, A. Sweet and H. O. Loveless; Recording Stewart, D. B. Sanderson; assistant, A. Sweet; representative to Presbytery, H. W. Sabine; alternate W. A. Sanderson; ushers, morning, R. E. Neal, G. S. Jarvis, H. Bonter and F. Woodhouse, evening L. R. Green, G. W. Henderson, C. Airhart and C. Chambers.

Before adjournment the motion was passed that the action of the Official Board in accepting the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher be approved.

Lend-LeasedBed Tabloid Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(CP).— Metropolitan New York newspapers despite war-enforced size reduction and pressure of war news, found space yesterday to give good play to a court action involving James H. R. Cromwell, former United States Minister to Canada, and Doris Duke Cromwell.

In Chancery Court at Elizabeth, N.J., yesterday, Cromwell listened as his counsel said Cromwell's bedroom was 'occupied by his successor in his wife's affection."

"Doris lend-leased nis bed to British M.P., says Cromwell," the tabloid Daily Mirror printed in a 48-point page two line.

The Daily News, another morning tabloid, fronted a picture of Cromwell, "with clenched fist only sign of emotion," and captioned it "Accuses 'British Casanova'."

Quick Relief From
RHEUMATIC PAIN

Hundreds of Canadians suffering from the tortures of rheumatism, sciatica lumbago, neuralgia and neuritis are happy over their discovery of Ru-Ma, for they have, at long last found a reliable, fast acting formula which quickly relieves those exhausting muscular pains and aching joints If you want to again feel happy and contented in being free from rheumatic pains so you can work in comfort and sleep in peace be wise and try Ru-Ma to-day under our promise of "money back" if it fails to help you. Ask at Tamblyn's or any drug store to-day for Ru-Ma.—(Advt.)

Women's Societies Elect 1944 Officers

CAVAN, Jan. 14 — (ENS)— The Cavan United Church W.A. and W.M.S. had their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Robertson, and the election of officers, for the W.A. was held and the following returned for their fourth consecutive year:

President, Miss Annie Tinney; vice-president, Mrs. Leslie Pritchard; recording secretary, Mrs. Milton Carr; financial secretary, Mrs. H. Snider; treasurer, Mrs. Leslie Pritchard.

The report for the year was given as follows: Bazaar receipts totalled $101.50; fowl supper thank-offering, $158 and other amounts totalling in all $364.14.

$200 donated to church board, $50 painting the church basement ceiling, $21 Red Cross work, $10 Russian relief, other small money to church, with a balance of $82.

The officers for the W.M.S. are: President, Mrs. H. Snider; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ray Syer.

After the election the allocations of $80 was raised. Mr. Honey gave a talk on part of the study book.

Liberals To Try New Vote System

TORONTO, Jan. 14—(CP)— The Telegram said Thursday that "one of the first major moves" of the Ontario Liberal party led by Harry C. Nixon will be to introduce in the Ontario Legislature a bill providing for the alternative system of voting in provincial elections.

Recalling that a similar bill introduced by the Drury government in 1923 did not go through second reading, the story explained that the plan is for voters to indicate which candidate is their first choice, which second and so on. If three or more candidates are in the field and none has a clear majority, the one with the fewest votes is eliminated and his votes credited to the remaining contestants. On the next count the same procedure is followed until one emerges with a clear majority of the votes cast.

WMS Collection To Help Church

ROSENEATH, Jan. 14 (ENS).— Individual offerings by W.M.S. members toward the Batawa United Church building fund were $8 with additional offerings promised at the January meeting of the society held this week.

Mrs. A. Nill was hostess and Mrs. R. Crego, president, presided. The topic of the devotional period was "The Bible For All Canada's Children". Mrs. Andrew Brown, Missionary Monthly secretary, reported 14 subscriptions. Mrs. W. Smith, community friendship secretary, in office for the past three months had, during that time made 76 calls.

Mrs. J. A. Nichol, treasurer, reported receipts of $188.09 including a balance of 72 cents from previous years, $165 was forwarded to Presbyterial treasurer, with a balance on hand of $12.81 and $7.29 in the expense account. The recording secretary's report showed a membership of 11 annual and two life members. Eleven regular meetings were held with an average attendance of 11.

The February meeting will be held in Mrs. D. Brisbin's home with Mrs. Andrew Brown as program convener. Chapter three in the study "For All of Life" was presented by Mrs. D. Brisbin and illustrated how the Christian Agricultural College in the foreign mission field teaches the native farmer that better ways of farming make for a better way of life. In a short talk entitled "Windows of the Bible", Mrs. E. H. Unstead discussed interesting facts about several books of the Bible.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

W. C. Caneron of Ottawa, acting chief of Dairy Products Grading and Inspection Services, said today recent improvement in the quality of Canadian cheese might have far-reaching effects beneficial to the entire dairy industry but stricter enforcement of provincial regulations regarding pasteurization of whey may have to be enacted if the amount of fruity cheese continues to increase.

J. M. Bain, chief instructor of the Dairy branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, suggested stricted enforcement of the whey pasteurization laws as a necessity.

Lloyd Chadburn Wins Bar To DSO Award

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 14 (CP).— The first bar to a D.S.O. won by a Canadian in this war has been awarded Wing Cmdr. Lloyd V. Chadburn of Aurora and Oshawa, Ont., an unassuming youth of 24 who, as leader of a Canadian wing, has become in the last few months one of the top-ranking pilots in fighter command. (Official announcement of the award was made in Ottawa by the R.C.A.F. Tuesday night.)

Chadburn now wears the double D.S.O. beside the D.F.C. he received for spectacular work during the Dieppe raid August 19, 1942, when Canadian airmen flew support for Canadian troops for the first time in the Second Great War.

To listen to this quiet, almost frail-looking young man with blond wavy hair you would be surprised at him wearing decorations at all, yet his qualities of leadership and fighting ability have won him two D.S.O.'s in four months.

Takes No Credit.

"It's a funny thing that when the boys put on a good show the wing commander gets the D.S.O.," he said at Air Force headquarters. "They put on another and he gets a bar."

Chadburn's citation said: "This officer has displayed outstanding leadership and great tactical skill and courage. Since being awarded the D.S.O. he has led his formations on a large number of sorties during which 23 enemy aircraft have been destroyed and many others damaged. Chadburn shot down six of this total himself. Much of the success achieved during this period can be attributed to this officer's sterling qualities."

Chadburn's wing has been remarkably successful since he took over last June but he takes little of the credit for himself although he has destroyed 12½ of the enemy aircraft shot down by pilots of the wing since then without loss of a single pilot due to enemy action. Altogether, his victories now total 14

Reinstate Men In Pre-War Jobs

LONDON, Jan. 14—(CP-Reuters) —Reinstatement of service men and women in their prewar jobs at the old rates of pay, or payment of compensation, is provided in a new list of reinstatement conditions, contained in the Civil Employment Bill issued today.

The bill will go before the House of Commons shortly. Its main points are:

Applications to employers must be made by the fifth Monday after demobilization. If the old job is not available on reasonable grounds the best alternative one must be offered; there must be employment for at least 26 weeks; long service employees must not be dismissed to make such reinstatements possible; committees will be set up to handle disputes.

Verona Trials Held To Instil Fear

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Verona trials and the quick execution of Count Galeazzo Ciano and four associates in the overthrow of Mussolini appeared Thursday in the light of Berlin reaction, to be a German effort to instil fear in persons in Germany and the satellite countries who might be plotting similar coups against Hitler and his puppet dictators.

The Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne said it was probable that Mussolini was not consulted concerning the fate of his son-in-law and that if he interceded it was without results.

"He no longer counts," said the paper.

The Gazette, commenting on Berlin's' clarifying reaction, said the Verona decisions "above all acted to intimidate members of the German and foreign governments tempted to take a similar attitude."

A Rome dispatch to the Gazette said the Verona trials were "only the beginning."

RECTAL SORENESS AND
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)
